

In case you don't properly appreciate the members of your city council, give a little thought to the service they will be rendering for you and me at the tax equalization session Friday night. They will be doing an unpleasant and thankless job that nine out of ten of us would refuse to accept.

Actually the work should not be difficult but the sad fact is that many people have odd ideas about taxes and the moral obligation of paying them. They think a tax is something to be evaded if possible, also that any kind of trick or deception is fair as a means of reducing or evading a payment.

As might be expected, people who have that attitude are inclined to be resentful when they fail to get their way. Some have been known to carry grudges, even boycott tax board members.

Ranking with those fellows on the equalizer's list of trouble makers are the guys who claim the tax board is deliberately trying to cheat them. They assume that the board was unfair or arbitrary when it declined to accept their rendition figures. They are slow to admit that they might have been wrong but hasty to question the tax men's judgment or integrity.

Fortunately only a small percentage of people fit in those two categories. Most taxpayers are honest, pleasant and reasonable. They know they should do their part in supporting the city's government and services. They understand that the tax equalizers have made a sincere effort to assess fairly.

This does not, of course, rule out the possibility of mistakes, and it will be the purpose of the equalization board to correct such mistakes at its hearing. It stands to reason that no group of men can judge infallibly as they estimate property values. The best they can do is put down what they consider a reasonable figure and hope the taxpayer will agree. If he does not they can talk it over and come to an understanding.

That is the attitude of the council as it invites all taxpayers who feel that they are entitled to an adjustment. The council welcomes the opportunity to change figures if they need revising, otherwise to explain why figures should remain as they are.

While admitting that there will be, as always, some cases that need equalizing, this column earnestly believes that no one around here can reasonably gripe about his local tax bill... that is, as compared with the federal tax bill.

Strange but true, we frequently hear beefs about local taxes from people who say little or nothing about paying ten times as much to Uncle Sam. To our way of thinking local tax is still a little higher than it should be. Around here the average tax bill is $30 to $40, for which the citizen receives a lot in services and savings.

What are some of those services? There are water and sewer lines which assure us with clean water and sanitary disposal. There are streets, built and maintained at considerable expense. There are recreational facilities such as the ball park and swimming pool. There is fire protection which not only stands guard over our property but earns insurance savings which, in many cases would pay most of the property owner's city tax. Considering all the values the city as a whole is getting its money's worth by a big margin and the average citizen gets a real bargain.

That leaves only one problem to be considered by the tax board. Is the tax assessed in fair proportion to each person's property values? The council tried to do that and it is willing now to listen to any person who does not agree. People who think their tax is out of line are not only invited but urged to come and talk it over.

Speaking of federal taxes, how many of us have ever tried to estimate how much is really involved in those proposed cuts in our fantastic budget? Shortly after some of the economy champs in government claimed that the $73.5 billion could be cut by $8.2 billion a statistician gave us an idea how much benefit that saving could bring to the American (Continued on Page 8)

Munster Schools To Open August 28

The 1957-58 scholastic year at both Munster schools will begin on Wednesday, August 28, according to announcements this week by superintendents of the two schools.

The earlier than usual date is preferred by both school heads because it allows adding a few days, if make up is necessary for lost in bad weather, without requiring a late closing date.

Another reason is that children are needed less on the farm in late August than in early June, so the early start is an accommodation to parents.

Football practice for the Munster Hornets will start two days earlier. Officials of the district have set Aug. 26 as the day for first practice.

NEWS OF SICK AND INJURED

Mrs. J. P. Flusche was admitted to Gainesville Sanitarium Wednesday afternoon for observation and possible surgery.

Rainard Walterscheid of Farmington, N.M., arrived here last Thursday with his left arm and hand in cast and bandages. He had just spent three weeks in a hospital following an oil field accident in which he broke his arm and severely mangled the hand. He lost all of the index finger and a joint of the second finger and broke the little finger in three places. The arm required surgery as well as setting the bone. Rainard is convalescing at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Walterscheid.

Miss Norma Jean Walterscheid was a patient at Gainesville Sanitarium, from Sunday morning to Wednesday afternoon, when she was dismissed. She suffered a bad case of tonsillitis.

Pete Rollman returned Wednesday night after several weeks of observation and treatment at the veterans' hospital in McKinney.

Glenda and Dwayne Pagel, daughter and son of the Maurice Pagels, are at the Munster Clinic resting easy after the removal of their tonsils and adenoids Wednesday morning.

Public Hearing on School Budget Set Tuesday, August 20

The public hearing of the 1957-58 budget for the Munster Independent School District will be held on Tuesday, August 20, starting at 8 p.m. in the public school, Superintendent H. H. Homsley announced after the regular monthly meeting of the school board Tuesday night.

The public hearing is now required by law in Texas and its purpose is to give the public an opportunity to learn how school money is being spent in their district. The budget, previously officially adopted by the school board, must be followed exactly through the school year.

Council Stresses Hazards of Broken Glass in City Park

Shattered glass resulting from hitting soft drink bottles with a power mower induced the city council in its meeting Monday night to request special cooperation from people using the picnic area of the park.

Sometimes, in taller grass, the bottles are not discovered in time and a serious hazard results. At best, when seen in time, they cause extra work to the city maintenance crew.

The council statement praised the general cooperation of the public in keeping the park neat. Very little clutter has been found around the picnic tables. However the bottles have been found farther away. The council accordingly asks picnickers to be more careful with the bottles, and also with cans, and see that they are either carried away or left in the nearby trash containers. It is especially concerned about cutting children's feet.

The council also mentioned that more tables and other picnic facilities are planned for the park next year.

United Fund Goal For '58 Is $35,435

A budget of $35,435, some $4000 less than that of the current year, was set for the Cooke County United Fund at a meeting of the screening committee last Thursday night.

Of the nine participating agencies Red Cross will receive the largest contribution, $9,000. Next on the list are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, each receiving $5,000.

Others participating are Salvation Army $3,100, Optimist Boys' Club $3,000, 4-H Clubs and FFA $2,000 and the Gainesville Day Nursery $800. The American Heart Association budgeted for $2,000 this year, is not included in the next budget.

Also included in the budget is an estimated operating expense of $1,535.

The actual amount to be received by each participating group will be determined by the amount received in the annual drive for funds in October. Last year the county unit collected about 80 per cent of its goal and funds were distributed proportionately among the participating agencies.

New Beauty Shop Opens Thursday in Former Location

After a shutdown of one week the Munster Beauty Shop is back in operation Thursday with Mabel O'Neal of Gainesville as the new owner and operator.

Installation of new equipment was under way Wednesday. At the same time painting was in progress to complete the general interior improvement. New linoleum and wall paper had been put in the day before.

Mrs. O'Neal will continue to live in Gainesville and will drive here daily with her husband, who works on the Trumpler lease north of town.

City Council Will Have Hearing on Tax Equalization

Eight members of the city's official family will be on hand Friday night from 7 to 9 at the city hall to consider tax problems with the taxpayers of Munster. They will be divided into four separate twosomes serving as four equalization boards.

Included in the group are Mayor Endres, Aldermen Herbert Meurer, John Fisher, Rudy Hellman, M. D. Kaderli and David Trachta, City Manager Steve Mosler and City Secretary Anthony Luke.

The same group of men, except Trachta, met after a regular city session a few weeks ago to consider figures on tax rendition sheets and revise when the figures seemed out of line. The men made an effort then to equalize the taxes, at the same time incorporating the city's new policy of assessing vacant lots at a greater percentage of their annual value. Council men considered the fact that many lots with a big sale price are rendered for only a few dollars. The city also set up several valuation categories for vacant lots such as business locations, lots with water and sewer available and those without water and sewer with slight allowances for other factors in each category.

As a result of the policy most tax assessments involving vacant lots were raised. At the same time there was the usual percentages of changes on renditions involving other property.

Any taxpayer who does not consider his assessment fair is invited to come and talk it over with one of the council's equalization pairs. Everyone who does will get either an adjustment or an explanation why he is not entitled to an adjustment.

Tickets are available from directors and also at the county FB office. All are urged to reserve tickets as soon as possible so the committee can make a better estimate of how much food to prepare.

Swimming Pool to Close on Labor Day

Monday, September 2, has been set as the official closing date of Munster's 1957 swimming season. That day was agreed by the city council meeting Monday night.

A new schedule was also adopted for the last week, to avoid conflict with school hours. Tuesday through Friday the pool will open at 4 and close at 8 o'clock. The next three days, Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day the pool will be open from 2 to 9.

Mrs. A. Henscheid's Eye Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Albert Henscheid is in the Gainesville Sanitarium threatened with the possible loss of her right eye after being hit in the face by lye water and crystals. The report early Wednesday was that it is too early to determine the extent of injury.

The accident occurred at the Ace Cafe about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. A lye compound poured into the drain of a sink suddenly blew back into her face. She was given first aid treatment at the local clinic then taken to the Gainesville hospital.

Lumber Company Buys Auction Barn, Cain Seeking Site

The Munster Livestock Auction, repairing after its fire July 28, came to a sudden halt in its career Tuesday afternoon when Dick Cain sold the location and the remainder of the building and stock pens to Community Lumber Company.

The halt, however, may not be permanent. Cain said he is looking for a different location and hopes to rebuild soon.

Two circumstances combined to put over the deal. Cain was reluctant to spend money on rebuilding when the arrangement of stock pens and other features were not what he wanted. Besides, going back in business there would require more outlay in the near future for rebuilding and repairs in the pens.

At the same time Jerome Pagel and Rody Klement of Community Lumber Company felt that their space between the Livestock Auction and the Electric Co-op was too cramped for a lumber yard. For some time they considered moving their business from its present location to the east end of town. The additional space along with their former holding would give them ample room for a lumber yard.

The deal came after about a day and a half of repair work was completed on the sale barn. Damaged lumber and equipment had been removed from the arena and several hoops had been finished for the quonset type roof.

Pagel has not indicated whether he expects to make any use of the building until he uses the site for a lumber yard.

Clara Fleitman and Lawrence A. Neusch Say Vows Saturday

Clara Fleitman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fleitman, and Lawrence A. Neusch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Neusch of Lindsay, exchanged marriage vows in Sacred Heart church here Saturday at 9 a.m. Rev. Louis Deuster officiated at the nuptial high mass and performed the ring ceremony.

Anthony Luke, organist, and the church choir presented the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta. The fitted, strapless bodice was topped with a fitted jacket of lace. It was designed with short sleeves and a Peter Pan collar. The wide skirt of net was enhanced with rows of lace ruffles. A small hat of starched lace held the shoulder length veil and the bride carried white gardenias on top of a prayer book, a gift from the groom.

Emma Neusch of Lindsay, sister of the groom, was maid of honor wearing a waltz length blue embroidered cotton dress with long torso waist and full pleated skirt. She wore a white picture hat and white gloves and carried white carnations.

Gasoline Bargain

Our spies report that when the petroleum industry presents that annual, nationwide whinging known as "Oil Progress Week" from October 13th to 19th, its slogan will be: "With today's gasolines, you're driving a bargain."

How about that? Is there such a thing as a "bargain" any more? Has the great American motorist any substantial reason to congratulate himself?

Looking abroad, here's what we find: In France, the government recently boosted regular gasolines 13.9 cents, so the price is now 85.4 cents a gallon. An increase of 17.6 cents on "high octane" gasolines brings the price to $1.01 a gallon. And that high octane rating is about 91 octane, or approximately the US average for ordinary gasolines. In other words, France's dollar gasoline is the equivalent of our 30 cent gasoline! Our own premium gasoline (98 octane) sells at about 32 cents, and our super-gasolines, of 100 octane and upward, are around 35 to 37 cents a gallon.

In Italy, regular gasoline is 53 cents a gallon and premium 92 cents. In the United Kingdom, regular is 52.8 cents and premium 62 cents.

Motoring in most of the world is obviously still a luxury, and gasoline a luxury product. Our every day, casual use of our 65 million motor vehicles is still far beyond the comprehension of the most advanced foreign countries. But now let's take a look and see whether today's gasoline is any bargain by our own standards.

In 1920 a dollar would buy over 8 pounds of bread; two pounds of pork chops; two pounds of coffee, and over 20 pounds of gasoline. Today, 37 years later, a dollar buys less than six pounds of bread; one and one-third pounds of pork chops; 15½ ounces of coffee. But your gasoline dollar will buy 28½ pounds (nearly five gallons) of top quality fuel—or 69 miles of driving power. However, you will have to add to that gasoline dollar about 40 cents more for direct taxes. But even though these have soared 39 percent since 1948, gasoline-plus-taxes still costs less than most items in the family budget.

And we will be reminded too during that Oil Progress Week of the millions of dollars worth of free services we have come to expect at the gas station, such as maps, windshieldwashing, tire-checking, advice and modern plumbing.

WASHINGTON HAS TAKEN OVER

Publisher Tom Anderson of Farm & Ranch magazine points out that "In 1914 state and local governments spent 70 per cent of all money by government. Now 70 per cent is spent by Washington bureaucrats." Then, to make a bad matter worse, "A big part of our tax money never comes back to us in services—but is lived up by the swarms of bureaucrats whose hands it goes through."

President Eisenhower has proposed that the states assume responsibility, in whole or in part, for many projects now handled on the federal level. If the states will do that, the taxpayers will find that they will get more and better service—and for less money.

Me and My Shadow

Pause For Reflection

... with James C. Ingebreetsen President, Spiritual Mobilization

"My successor is going to find no improvement in the mess," reluctantly conceded retiring Treasury Secretary Humphrey the other day, according to news reports. He was referring to the tangled Federal finances, particularly the huge Federal debt and the difficulty of stretching it out, which he had inherited from his predecessor.

The reason Mr. Humphrey is in this embarrassing position is, of course, because, following early reductions in spending, the Eisenhower Administration threw economy to the winds and started spending as irresponsibly as had the New Deal and Fair Deal Administrations before it. Like them, it hired men specifically to find more ways to spend more money and actually sent a "roving ambassador" to the Middle East begging whatever nations he could get to listen to him to help themselves more liberally than they had been doing to Uncle Sam's cash. The result is that Uncle Sam's cash has just about vanished—and no one seems solicitous enough of his plight to offer a long term loan on anything but prohibitive interest rates.

Well, if we can't learn one way, maybe we shall another—the hard way. For a quarter of a century now, with only a few years as exceptions, we have squandered our national resources with a reckless abandon unequalled by any other nation in all history. We have piled up a Federal debt and annual spending budget so huge that no one can comprehend them. As Sen. Byrd keeps warning us, we are "skating on thin ice," and the slightest adverse incident could plunge us into the most shocking experience of our lives.

Distribution of Congressional districts is made every ten years when the Federal Census is taken.

THE $164,000 QUESTION

By Rev. James F. Finley, movie and TV critic for "The Catholic World"

WHAT DO YOU think of Jesus Christ?

This question cannot be dodged, avoided, blinked at, winked at, parried or pushed aside. Many men and women attempted those devices during Christ's own lifetime. But Christ would not accept the evasions. He allowed no in-betweenness. Christ said flatly, "He who is not with me is against me."

This question demands an answer because it is the most urgent and important question ever addressed to man and it deserves your utmost thought and deliberation before you reply.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS involved in the life of Christ? While on earth, He spent only the last three years of His life in preaching and healing. Yet during this short period He reiterated one claim which stands out above all His other teachings. This one claim is so fantastic that many people pass over it lightly without understanding its full significance. "I and the Father are one!" Think of it! By His own words Christ claimed to be God, equal to His Father Who is in Heaven!

This theme repeats itself again and again throughout the New Testament. Nowhere does it exert itself more forcibly than when Jesus was on trial before the High Priest. Caiaphas questioned Christ: "Tell us if Thou be the Christ, the Son of God."

"THOU HAST SAID IT," was His simple reply.

Thus Christ died under the charge that he made Himself equal to God. He did not explain that there must have been some misunderstanding about His preaching. He accepted the question of the High Priest without qualification.

NOW ANYONE can claim to be God, even our next door neighbor. But if the latter made such a statement, we'd say he was either insane or lying. Then what proof did Christ offer to justify His assertions? His numerous miracles prove His divinity. The instantaneous cure of the blind, the crippled, the lepers, and the greatest miracle of all, His own resurrection from the dead!

CHRIST, then, stands alone in history. He alone claimed divinity and went on to demonstrate the truth of His assertion. If Christ be not God, then Christianity is one of the most stupendous and monstrous lies of all times.

UNFORTUNATELY, too many people pay scant attention to these considerations. They fail to see that their own unhappiness and the chaos in the world rests in their tragic neglect of Christ—His grace and His teaching.

Yet each and every one of us must consider for himself what his answer will be. Think, read, study, pray.... before you make a decision. Remember, your answer has your destiny bound up in it. "What do you think of Jesus Christ?"

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Terraces

This is the terracing season in the Muenster-Saint Jo area of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District and some of the landowners have already started building terraces to aid in stopping erosion on the sloping fields.

The spring rains this year caused soil loss on many unterraced fields and served as a reminder that our sloping fields need all the protection they can be given. Terraces break up long slopes into shorter slopes and move the water slowly across the slope and release it on a grassed outlet area. Terraces in combination with rotations of soil building legume crops and proper crop residue management can stop expensive losses of soil and water from the fields.

Landowners can build terraces for one cent a linear foot this year under the agricultural conservation program's cost-sharing program.

Werner Becker is building nearly 4000 feet of channel type terraces on the farm he operates near Hood. The wide easy-to-cross terraces will outlet onto a Bermudagrass waterway that was put in to provide a safe disposal area for terrace water. Alfred Bayer is also building some 3000 feet of terraces on the Bayer farm northwest of Muenster. Andrew Fleitman is adding 3500 feet of terraces to his terracing system on his farm south of Muenster. He is using his tractor and plow and the island method of terrace construction to build the wide field terraces. The terraces will outlet onto a Bermudagrass waterway.

Ponds for Livestock Water
An earthen pond to provide water for livestock has recently been constructed on the Ben F.

Fletcher farm near Leo and two ponds have been completed on the J. W. Dill ranch at Rosston. These ponds will enable the landowners to improve their grasses by providing water so that a system of rotation grazing can be carried out to give the grasses a rest during a few months of each growing season. The ponds can also provide recreation and fishing if properly stocked and fertilized for fish growth.

Flood Prevention Reservoirs

The reservoir just west of Muenster has been completed except for sodding grass on the embankment. Other reservoirs recently completed are the ones on Bill Otto, C. J. Fette, Voth Brothers, Al Walter and on the Parker Estate.

Completion of these reservoirs makes a total of seventeen dams now completed to give flood protection along the Elm Fork of the Trinity River. There are still five such reservoirs to be built in the Muenster area, before the Upper Elm-Red District's program of flood prevention reservoirs moves on down the creek toward Gainesville. This series of reservoirs, together with soil, water and plant conservation practices applied to all the farms in the watershed will prevent damaging floods along the bottomlands of the creeks and damage to property, roads and bridges along the creek.

"Gentle Giant"

In these days of mega-ton atomic blasts — the liberation of force that can only be described in terms of detonating so many thousands of tons of TNT — do not sell our working explosives short.

To dynamite especially, the hardest-working explosive of them all, we shall be greatly indebted for that 41,000 mile, $33.5 billion national highway network which is now well under way. "In hilly and rocky country," says the current issue of Cyanamid Magazine, "no road can be built without dynamite. The power shovels can remove earth and sand, but sooner or later nearly every highway route finds a solid rock cliff, hillside, ledge or knoll barring its way, sometimes 50 or 60 feet above the specified grade. Detouring these obstructions or climbing over them is too costly."

Entitled "The Gentle Giant," the Cyanamid article explains how all over America, dynamite is moving mountains, hills and ledges "without cracking a dish or spilling a cup of soup." It describes a single blast of 4,500 pounds of this tractable explosive that reduced 5,800 yards of solid granite to rubble that could be removed by power shovel. "The hillside shudders with a muffled convulsion deep in the rock," writes an eye-witness. "A dark cloud of earth and stone lifts a little way . . . and settles back."

Except for "the more sensitive types," dynamite will not explode if it is dropped. It can be burned without exploding, and "over-age" sticks are frequently disposed of in that way. But the men who know dynamite best, who can direct its power as accurately as that of a bulldozer or grader, respect it most. These are the men who are sent into communities where blasting must be done to explain the operation and the explosives to the townspeople, the school teachers and the police, to advise on precautions — and most particularly to reassure the excitable.

Through our atomic and hydrogen bomb blasts, we are only beginning to learn what to expect under various conditions. But there will be many megatons of dynamite set off before we have our new roads — and every stick may be expected to behave as planned.

Gainesville College Expands Faculty
Pres. James K. Kearns of Gainesville College announces a program of reorganization and expansion of the college faculty with the beginning of the 1957-1958 college year. Dr. Kearns says further that there will be as little overlapping of the staffs of college and the senior high school as possible this year with continuing separation to come as rapidly as possible.

Heading the list of changes will be the assignment of J. H. Parker to the full time duties of dean and registrar for the day and night schools, relieving him if previous class room duties.

Heads of the departments, to do full time teaching in the college, have been assigned as follows: Mrs. Lois Lucas, BBA and BBM, NTSC, business administration; Miss Layuna Hicks, BA, TSCW and MA, Columbia, English; A. W. Wells, BA and MA, SMU, mathematics. Mrs. Cora Stanforth, BA and MA, Texas University, social studies; Mrs. Ruth Schlaudroff, BS and MS, NTSC, science; and Joseph O. Fox, BS and ME, NTSC, coach and men's physical education.

One further assignment possibly in industrial arts, will be made with the securing of an additional teacher.

Mrs. Nancy Brown is secretary to the dean and J. Jesse Brown will continue as librarian.

Combination assignments in such fields as speech, music, women's physical education, and overflow classes are yet to be made.

Gainesville College continues in her policy of meeting community needs and the needs of the full time college student, the part time, adult student and the veteran through his reorganization and expansion.

SH Grads of 1947 Have Class Reunion

The Sacred Heart High School class of 1947, consisting of 18 graduates, had a class reunion Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Swirczynski.

A covered dish supper brought by the guests was served buffet style, along with iced drinks, on the lawn at their home.

The group took pictures, reviewed the old school annuals and school pictures, and exchanged accounts of their children. They also recalled former events and teachers, especially the late Sister Anastasia, first grade teacher, and Sister Bertha, veteran second grade teacher, who now serves in an Arkansas school.

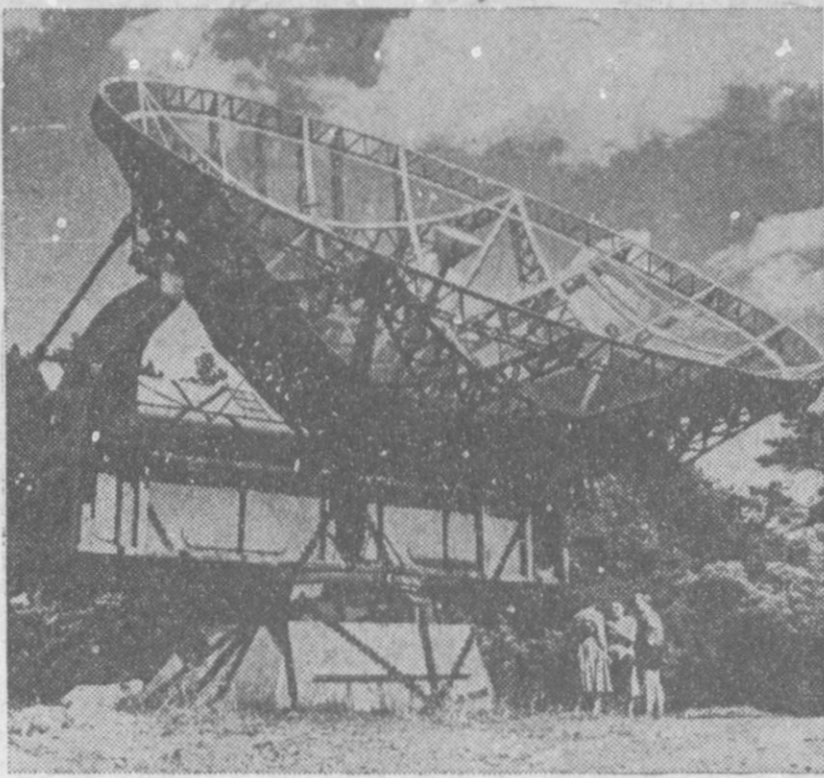

Father Joseph Weinzapfel, a member of the class, was the only one who entered religious life. Gerald Bayer died while serving in the army in Japan during the Korean conflict. All the rest of the class members are married — two to each other — they are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Luke, (Anna Grace Wimmer). The rest of the class are Clyde Fisher, Herbert Miller, Bernard Swirczynski Arthur Bayer, Rufus Henscheid all of Muenster and A. J. Felderhoff of Gainesville. They all attended the reunion, accompanied by their wives.

Girls of the class who attended along with their husbands were: Mrs. Robert Pulte (Coralee Fuhrman) of Gainesville, Mrs. W. J. Miller (Therese Walter), Mrs. Robert Mayer (Marian Gremminger) of Pilot Point, Mrs. Keith Tompkins (Edna Hartman) of Fort Worth, and Mrs. C. D. Richards (Rosalee Muller), in whose honor the class reunion was held. Her home is in Watertown, Mass.

Those unable to attend were Mrs. John Ladd (Philomena Felderhoff) of Arlington, Va., Mrs. Marvin McColpin (Mary Nell Hennigan) of Albuquerque, N.M., Mrs. Lambert Beyer (Berenice Luttmer) of Gainesville, Mrs. Alois Sicking (Rose Marie Becker) of Gainesville, who was in the hospital with a new arrival. The group will have a Mass said for their former classmate, Gerald Bayer, and plan to meet again in five years.

Mrs. C. D. Richards left here Tuesday with her four children to return to their home in Massachusetts, after more than a six weeks visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Muller, and other family members.

This was the first time in about five years that the Muller family was all together.

Lions Win Twice In Pee Wee League

The invincible Lions continued their winning ways Friday and Tuesday nights, adding victories numbers six and seven at the expense of the St. Joseph and KC teams.

In the first tussle they started slow with three scoreless innings but hit their stride then for 5, 3 and 3 in the next frames. St. Joseph started earlier but scored less per frame and the final count was 11-8.

Three homers were banged out during the game, by Dangler for St. Joseph's and by Schilling and Monday for the Lions.

Again a big fourth inning put the Lions way ahead as they took on the KC kids. Three insurance runs in the sixth put them comfortably ahead and they ended in front of a 13-8 tally. Weldon Vogel was the big slugger with two homers.

Present standings in the loop are Lions 7-0, St. Joseph 5-2, VFW 1-5, KC 1-7.

Next to play are St. Joseph's and VFW Friday and the Lions and St. Joseph next Tuesday.

Treasury To Start Soon on New Series Of 1-Dollar Bills

WASHINGTON — One of your favorite collector's items, the $1 bill, will have a new look next fall.

George Washington's familiar face will be a bit plumper. The words, "In God We Trust," will be engraved across the back. Incoming Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson's signature will replace George Humphrey's.

And the dollar finally will be brought up to date by labeling it "Series 1957" instead of the long-standing "Series 1935 E."

But don't worry. The buck, both old and new, will still be legal tender. It will still be printed in that nice, restful green. And it will still buy you about 49 cents worth of groceries — unless the cost of living takes yet another jump.

The changes stem from eight fancy new presses which the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has bought to keep dollar production up to these easy spending times.

Each of these will roll out dollars at the rate of $76,800 an hour instead of the mere $16,200 produced by the 15-year old flat bed machines now used. They will whirl sheets of bills through rotary inkers 40 times a minute.

They'll also improve quality by using dry paper rather than the damp stuff required by present methods. That accounts for Mr. Washington's fatter look. On dry paper, his picture won't shrink after it's printed.

First of the new presses already has been installed by its British maker, Thomas de la Rue & Co. It has completed a successful test run of more than $1,280-

000 worth of bills and is expected to go into official production shortly.

Bureau Director H. C. Holtzclaw thinks he'll have $10 million worth of the new style bills by Oct. 1. That should be enough for the Treasury Department to push the first batch into circulation.

After that they gradually will replace present dollars as old ones wear out and more de la Rue presses are delivered. Within a year most circulating $1 bills will have been changed.

However, some $1 notes and all of the larger denominations — $5's, $10's and so on — still will be printed on the flat bed presses.

Engraved plates used on the new presses will be the first to carry the motto, "In God We Trust," authorized by Congress two years ago. There will be other minor changes, including a revised lettering for the plate designation which appears near the upper left-hand corner of the bill's face.

Holtzclaw thinks his new equipment will cut basic printing costs as much as 60 percent. (Paper money, whether in $1's or $100's, now costs the government slightly less than a penny per piece.) But he points out that no one in the bureau will be fired as a result.

"We have 26 different unions here," he said. "And we finally worked out an agreement which seems to satisfy them all. Automatic machinery will be acquired only as fast as the manpower situation permits."

Confetti

... that is, all American family budgets.

The $8.2 billion would pay for the electric and gas bills, the family food bills for five weeks, the entire shoe bill for a year, twice the amount of jewelry and toilet articles all families now buy, or all the gas and oil for every American family's car.

It would mean new homes for 820,000 families costing $10,000 each or 4,100,000 new cars costing $2,000 each.

It's amazing how much could be done for the taxpayers by some serious efforts to save in Washington.
