County FB Group To Attend Meeting On Shaping Policy

Confidentially, this column hopes that they will throw the book at Confidential Magazine for the sordid stories it printed about certain Hollywood celebrities. It sincerely hopes that the scandal mongers in this sensational and smelly libel suit will be so completely crushed that filth purveyors for many years to come will be discouraged from printing that kind of disgusting narratives.

The defendants in this case say they expect to defeat the libel charge by the simple expedient of proving that the articles were true. Possibly they will succeed in doing that, even though, in this column's opinion, a case does not seem to be very strong when based on the veracity of an unprincipled woman who is willing to reveal the secrets of her friends or "have an affair" with a man in order to get a story.

Whether or not the defendants succeed in that effort they still deserve a conviction and the roughest penalty that goes with it. True or false, the articles were plain scandal mongering and the smutty minded characters who had any part in their publication did the same amount of damage one way or another. This kind of truth is just as contemptible as falsehood.

Millions of people have been guilty of indiscretions in the past but are living perfectly honest and exemplary lives now. To expose their faults of long ago is cruel and unjust... to them and their loved ones. No good whatever can be accomplished by it and a great deal of harm is inevitable. So, even though a writer can escape punishment by civil laws, he does not escape guilt by the moral law. If the story isn't libel it is still slander. He is a vicious character assassin whether he tells the truth or not.

And that's not all. He is also guilty of spreading the kind of literary filth which has a degrading effect on the minds of its readers, especially impressionable youngsters who can be disillusioned by the off-color stories about their heroes and heroines, who might even be inclined to follow the sorry ways and habits described in the articles. In this respect the word character assassin applies again, and in a very definite manner. Such writers and publishers are assassinating young characters. Even though claiming to be true, the articles are vicious and degrading, as damaging to young minds as the pornographic art and literature which has been condemned by our high courts.

As we consider the possible, tremendous impact on pliable young minds, the disillusionment of heroes and heroines being pictured as shabby characters, the debasing effect of such writing as plain filthy literature, we begin to wonder just how many and how sinister were the motives behind the articles.

Very likely, this was more than a mere attempt to peddle scandal at a profit. It also has the marks of the subtle communist plot to undermine American civilization by sabotaging the moral standards of its people. From the mere fact that this fits perfectly with the communist cause we can reasonably suspect that it was communist inspired. A very significant fact brought out in the early testimony; Howard Rushmore, one of the defendants, admitted that he is a former card-carrying communist and employee of the Communist Daily Worker. That does not necessarily mean that the man is a communist now, but it does cast a cloud of suspicion over his motives... especially since this sort of stuff follows the recommended communist method.

At any rate, this kind of writing does not fit one of the very oldest standards of journalistic writing: "only the news that's fit to print. True or false, that scandal stuff is not fit to print. That meeting in Gainesville Tuesday night to discuss the advisability of building a new hospital gives us at Muenster a subject for serious thought. The additional hospital space is needed at Muenster much more than at Gainesville.

According to the opinion of doctors over there, Gainesville is not hurting and it does not expect to hurt until the city and county grow some more. We might add that even then Gainesville will not need more hospital facilities if Muenster (Continued on Page 8)

Officers and directors and members of the policy development committee of the Cooke County Farm Bureau will be in McKinney next Tuesday, August 20, to plan policy development activities prior to the coming county, state and national FB conventions.

Joe B. Hundt, president of the County Farm Bureau, said that the McKinney district meeting will be one of seventeen held throughout the state to secure maximum participation in the bureau's policy making process, which starts with the annual county convention and proceeds to state and national conventions.

Issues to be discussed at the district session are the state rural roads building program, livestock disease control, increasing truck load limits, the rural electrification bill passed by the 55th legislature, agricultural research and education and expansion of agricultural markets. The purpose is to make persons thoroughly familiar with all issues so they can return and present the issues at local meetings which precede the county convention. At the county convention, then, the members will adopt the policies which they intend to support at the state convention.

"It is important that farmers take this means of learning the pros and cons on vital issues," President Hundt said. "It is the means by which they can solve their own problems instead of permitting others to solve problems for them. It presents an opportunity for discussion and exchange of ideas which are essential to the proper functioning of the policy making process.

Hundt also added that issues to come under discussion may be as vital to rural welfare as the kind of weather or condition of the land. It is often worth a farmer's time to leave his crop in order to protect his interest on the other side of the fence.

The McKinney meeting will be held in the community room of the Collin County National Bank. County FB members expected to attend are Pres. Joe Hundt, Vice Presidents L. G. Gentle and Tony Reiter, Directors Walter Nortman, Frank Neu, Gus Lutkenhaus, Joe Krahl, J. E. Pybas, W. B. English and Tony Sicking, also the policy development committee composed of Leroy Hay, Paul Fisher, H. F. Schiederjan, and County Agent Neil Tibbits.

FB Influence on Texas Legislation Told at Institute

The current year is the most successful in the Farm Bureau's history in influencing legislation that will be helpful to agriculture.

That report was submitted by state Legislative Director Gene Leach to 208 members representing 87 counties of the state at the Texas Farm Bureau Institute held in Austin August 4 to 7.

He explained that the Farm Bureau helped to pass 18 bills that are beneficial to agriculture and also helped to defeat five bills that are harmful to agriculture.

Bills of special interest to this area were the egg-grading and labeling law and also the law allowing families to use pickups for family transportation. Another was the law granting appropriations to agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, in his talk before the institute said the FB was the only effective organization working for agriculture in the state capital.

Evenings at the institute were taken up with recommended FB recreational activity under direction of Mrs. Tom Cunningham, home demonstration agent of Breckenridge. She taught the dances and games which the members were asked to remember and introduce to their own county organizations.

Persons who attended the required number of sessions during the 3 day affair received certificates after the closing banquet on Wednesday.

Representing the Cooke County FB there were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher. Also in the group were two former county agents, B. T. Haws of Wichita County and Ed McKay of McClennan County.

Parochial School Changes Daily Mass Time from 8 to 11

Something completely new in the administration of Sacred Heart School is the 11 o'clock daily mass, replacing the 8 o'clock mass which has been traditional here since the founding of the parish. Father Christopher Paladino, superintendent, announced the change at last Sunday's services.

The 11 o'clock mass derives from the new fasting regulations announced by the Church last year. By this arrangement children can have breakfast before coming to school and receive communion at the students' mass. They can also have liquids at the morning break. In either case they will have abstained the required time from solids or liquids to receive communion.

Promptly after mass the elementary children will go to the lunch room for their noon meal. High school students will continue going at 12, to avoid over crowding the lunch room.

Another advantage offered by the arrangement is that children do not lose the time formerly taken for a snack or breakfast after the 8 o'clock mass.

As a result, a new schedule will go into effect at both schools. Classes will begin at 8 and continue until 11 when parochial children will go to mass. At the public school the released time period for religion begins at 11 and children who wish are free to attend mass. Others will have a study period.

When the mass ends, about 11:30 elementary children will go to the lunch room and high school students will have their religion period until 12.

Lions and Joes Win In Pee Wee League

The Lions continued their perfect record and St. Joseph's maintained its firm hold on the second spot in the past week's encounters in Little League baseball.

Last Friday night St. Joseph's scored in 5 of the 6 frames to stock up a comfortable 13-6 margin over VFW.

Tuesday night was tight baseball as the two league leaders went to the sixth before the Lions staged a 3-run rally that put them in clover. The Lions scored a run in the first and St. Joseph's tied the score in the fourth. Then came the deciding sixth.

Team standings now are: Lions 8-0, St. Joseph 6-2, VFW 1-6, KC 1-7.

Next games on schedule are KC vs VFW on Friday and St. Joseph vs KC next Tuesday.

Homsley Submits Estimated Budget For School Year

The recommended budget for the Muenster Public School for the 1957-58 scholastic year is $96,695.13.

That is the figure shown on an estimate prepared by Superintendent H. H. Homsey and submitted for adoption by the school board at a special meeting next Tuesday night.

In accordance with a new state law that night has been designated also for a public meeting in which any members of the school district are welcome to ask for explanations, or to protest if they do not approve of the figures. The principle reason for the budget hearing is to give people more opportunity to learn about the financial administration of their school.

Comparison of this year's budget with last year's shows a drop of about $600. The raise in teachers' pay passed by the last state legislature will require an increase of almost $3000 in salaries but expenditures on building repairing and remodeling were reduced by about $4,000. Last year repairs on the building cost $6,288.32. This year, with a much smaller repair program, the figure is estimated at $2,100. Other figures in the list of expenses are about the same, making a total of $96,695.13 as compared with $97,298.09 last year.

A look at expected revenues reveals that the school has a good chance to end the year with a comfortable balance. An increase in the number of scholastics along with an increase in the state's allotment per scholastic raises the estimated per capita revenue from $56,057.92 to $64,612.30. Other income, such as county, local, federal and miscellaneous raise the total expected revenue to $119,152.45. Last year it was $110,494.04.

Principal expenditures of the school are estimated as follows: Administration 9,961.00, Instruction 52,000.00, Operation of plant 2,550.00, Maintenance of plant 2,685.00, Fixed charges 100.13, Capital outlay 2,100.00, Other services 11,575.00, Debt service 15,724.00, Total 96,695.13

Principal items of revenue are estimated as follows: State funds 64,612.30, County funds 190.62, Local funds 51,499.53, Federal funds 2,100.00, Other revenue 750.00, Total 119,152.45

Commissioners Set County Tax Rate

The 1957 tax rate in Cooke County will be the same as in 1956. Members of the Cooke County Commissioners Court made that announcement Monday after designating the share of county taxes to be allotted to each of the several county funds.

The total tax is 74 cents per $100 of valuation on all property except homesteads, which are subject to a 64 cent tax. The difference is explained by the fact that a 10 cent tax for FM and lateral roads is not assessed against homesteads.

Tax allotments for the other funds are as follows: 25 cents for the general fund; 13 cents for the road and bridge fund; 2 cents for road bonds; 15 cents for a special road and bridge fund; 7 cents for the permanent improvement fund and 2 cents for the jury fund.

Besides these county taxes each school district has its own school tax, which, for most districts, is collected by the county tax office along with other taxes. Valuations for school tax assessment in those districts is the same as the county valuation but the tax rates vary.

Muenster is an independent district and is eligible to maintain its own tax office, however it has designated the county as its collecting agency. The rate is $1.00 per $100 of valuation and the county retains 2 per cent for collecting.

Common school districts of the county are taxed at the following rates: Walnut Bend, $1.00; Rad Ware, $1.50; Canaday, $1.25; Burton, $1.00; Myra, $1.00; Lindsay, 75 cents; Sivells Bend, 65 cents; Slidell, $1.50; Capps Corner, $1.00; Greenwood, $1.50.

Buck Wilson Asks Parents to Help Check Vandalism

The attention of Muenster parents this week is directed to the problem of vandalism and the possible prosecution of parents whose children are caught destroying property. In a statement to the Enterprise, Deputy Sheriff Buck Wilson urged people to teach their children to respect the property rights of others and added that a new state law now makes people liable up to $300 for damages caused by their children.

Wilson said he has had several reports lately of vandalism by children, some of them in the 8 to 12 age bracket. Some offenses he mentioned were breaking into a vacant house and damaging walls and fixtures, breaking car windows with BB guns and pouring water into gas tanks.

While admitting that acts are not always malicious he stated that careless and irresponsible acts are just as serious in their results. Parents are urged to consider the cost of repairing such damages and to realize that they are liable, both morally and legally, for the damage done by their children.

Lions Will Sponsor 2 Weeks Course on Displays and Signs

Merchants of Muenster and their employees are enrolling for special courses in Merchandise Display and Show Card Lettering which will begin here on September 9 under sponsorship of the Muenster Lions Club.

Both courses will be taught by W. G. Bohannon of the University of Texas Extension Service. He has spent many years at display work in retail stores and has also had experience as an employee and later as a writer of sign companies in Austin.

The display course offers demonstrations of correct display techniques with emphasis on balance, proportion, lighting, color, background, harmony, etc. Demonstrations and practice will use miniature windows and other props.

The lettering course, which follows the display course each evening, will offer actual practice in lettering with a brush. It will stress layout, color and style of lettering.

A fee of $3.00 will be charged for each course with texts and supplies furnished at no extra charge.

Both courses will be taught Monday through Thursday nights for two weeks, the lettering class to follow the display class each night. Classes will be held in the public school and the time will be announced at a later date.

The minimum of 15 persons, which is required to bring the courses to Muenster, has already been assured, however, new registrations will be accepted up to the day the classes start. R. E. Hamric will accept registrations. Also mentioned is the fact that attendance is not restricted to Muenster people. Residents of other towns are invited to enroll in either or both classes.

Saint Jo Methodists Plan Special Service

Special services Sunday through Friday of next week at the First Methodist Church of Saint Jo will present a series of sermons under the general theme of "Communism in Confrontation."

Sermon subjects are listed as follows: Sunday morning, "Is there Any Word from the Lord?"; Sunday night, "Death and Resurrection"; Monday, "The Great Invitation"; Tuesday, "What is the Gospel?"; Wednesday, "Becoming and Remaining"; Thursday, "Spiritual Rebirth"; Friday, "Yes or No, Now or Never."

Dies 4 Days After Husband

Only four days after her husband died Mrs. Mary Ripberger followed him in death. The couple, of St. Peters, Ind., are relatives of the Hartmans here. Both were in the upper eighties in age and they had been married 66 years. He died on August 4 and she died on August 8.

Weeks of Dryness Broken Wednesday By 1.05 in. Shower

After almost two months in which the rains came in mere drizzles and the total measure was less than an inch, Muenster got relief Wednesday afternoon in a short, hard shower that dumped more than an inch in less than a half hour.

The measure on Steve Moser's official gauge then was 1.05, and by 7 Thursday morning it measured another .08. Earlier in the week, on Monday, the city got .54. For the several weeks preceding that the total was less than a half inch.

Wednesday's rain rode in on an electrical storm that snarled telephone and electrical service in the Muenster area. At least one rural electric line and two TP&L lines were knocked out. Twelve telephone lines were known to be dead.

Leo Sicking, line foreman for Cooke County Electric Co-op said his crew had more trouble with Monday's electrical storm. It was mild near Muenster but considerably more vicious several miles from town.

Rain also was more plentiful that day in several areas around Muenster. North and east rain measures were reported at over an inch. On two other occasions other localities got good showers while Muenster got only a trace.

Up to Thursday morning the rain for August is 1.75 inches. The year up to now has 34.92.

Hospital Proposal Heard at Meeting

The need of another hospital in the long range planning of Gainesville and Cooke County was discussed Tuesday night in a special meeting at the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce building.

About 100 persons attended the meeting which ended with appointment of a committee to get more information on costs and methods of financing.

The meeting was held on recommendation of the Cooke County Medical Society and Dr. Ira Thomas served as chairman. He expressed the opinion of county doctors that hospital facilities are adequate now but a new hospital will be needed for future growth of Gainesville and the county. He said the medical society is not trying to push a new hospital but rather to call attention to its eventual need and let people decide if and how it will be built.

On the invitation of the medical society Harry Smith, administrator of a new Ardmore hospital was present to explain how the Ardmore hospital was built. It was done partly through a foundation and partly through a federal grant. He said that no political strings are attached to the federal grant.

Joe Boles of the Grand Avenue Baptist Church officiating and were followed by burial in Cogburn cemetery. She died Monday night in Gainesville Sanitarium. A native of Tennessee, she was a long time resident of Cooke County. Her husband died in 1934.

Miller Appeals for Interest in Scouts

An appeal for more interest in Scouting and better attendance at the current series of Scouters meetings was voiced Wednesday night by Scoutmaster Nick Miller.

The purpose of the weekly Scouters meetings he said is to study the Boy Scout program, what it does and how it operates. The more parents learn about it, the more likely the community can develop a good program. The less they learn the less likely they will be to support the Scouts.

Double Duty

Wherever US surplus foods — notably such items as dry milk, cheese and butteroil — have been distributed through the joint efforts of the Catholic Relief Services, National Catholic Welfare Conference and the US Department of Agriculture, industry has followed nutrition.

In none of the underprivileged countries, and these include Spain, Portugal, Pakistan, Korea, Bolivia and Peru, have the empty cans that contained these foods been thrown away.

A collection of kitchen and household utensils made from the precious tinplate of these containers is on display in the headquarters offices of the Catholic Relief Services in the Empire State Building in New York from which its worldwide welfare efforts are directed. These particular examples of the handiwork of grateful and needy people include such items as ladles, cups, scoops, flower pots and air-tight kitchen containers. There are besides, a beautifully handcrafted milk pail, a set of nesting ash-trays, a flour-sifter and a decorative wall shrine designed to hold a votive candle. These exhibits were sent to the C.R.S. mission headquarters in Madrid, Spain, by the ingenious recipients of this people-to-people relief in that country.

Word from Sukkur, Pakistan, is that these containers with their distinctive markings, "Donated by the people of the United States of America," and "Not to be sold or exchanged" form the basis of a considerable industry in which over 100 people are employed in one factory that is busily reconverting these cans. Elsewhere this treasured tinplate is converted into all sorts of utensils by as many as 2,000 skilled and unskilled craftsmen working singly or in small groups in the bazaars.

The corrugated shipping cartons are likewise useful, especially in Pakistan where they actually provide housing and shelter from the blazing sun. This material is also used by the "motchee," or cobbler, who converts it into springy insoles for his shoes.

Here, in this display of ingenious devices from less favored lands is eloquent evidence, not only of appreciation for our aid, but of determination to make the most of it. Here is a world-wide do-it-yourself effort that speaks an international language, people-to-people.

Whose Decisions, Justices or Clerks?

A recent check showed that the Supreme Court's law clerks who have a great influence on Supreme Court decisions and do much of the research work preparing them, are mostly Harvard-Yale men and generally speaking, not representative of all parts of the United States.

Another interesting finding of the recent survey was the fact that seven of the eighteen clerks were not members of the bar of any state, and that only one of Chief Justice Warren's three law clerks was a member of the bar.

We suspect — as do a number of prominent lawyers and officials — that on the Supreme Court, as in other courts — the justices are too prone to let law clerks look up pertinent references for the justices to check on, to save them the actual routine work of looking up things for themselves. They also recommend whether the justices should accept certain cases appealed to the Supreme Court. Naturally, if a judge is not highly aggressive and able, he might be inclined to let his law clerk do a good bit of the work for him. These law clerks — none of them over thirty — are not likely to possess the wisdom, experience of the appreciation of the Constitution, and precedent, which a Supreme Court justice is supposed to have.

Obviously, the justices them-

Sports Stars Speak About God

Carl Erskine, Doak Walker, Bill Glass

Carl Erskine, ace pitcher, Brooklyn Dodgers:

WHEN I WAS a small boy I suddenly realized I could throw a baseball harder than most of my buddies. I didn't earn something that made me stand out. It was just there, all mine, for me to develop and use.

The same story is true in everyone; in varying degrees, perhaps, but nevertheless we all possess qualities that are our own to develop and use. Why, then, shouldn't we realize that these talents are God-given and go a step further by believing they should be God-directed?

TAKING THESE things for granted is a very common mistake among most of us. We are usually so wrapped up in working toward a goal for ourselves that we aren't really conscious of the things that are our greatest assets. We take for granted what natural talents we have.

But these natural abilities have been given to us for a purpose. They are to help lead us to everlasting happiness with God in heaven. If they do not, then they aren't being properly used and appreciated.

WE SHOULD all be thankful for our lives and our abilities—and more than just casually thankful. Being prayerfully thankful is a good start. Recognizing our responsibility to those we influence is another step in the right direction. But the genuine move is to profess a complete faith in Christ, and to let our lives be directed by His teachings.

When we come to the realization that He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, we are leading our lives in the right direction and can know that our God-given talents are also God-directed. We should always pray for the inward strength to be entirely committed to God's way of life.

Doak Walker, all-pro halfback, Detroit Lions:

MY PARENTS made it clear to me that sports were not the most important thing in life. God had top spot in our family.

We said the blessings before every meal and prayed together over problems of the day, for our family and friends, and for world peace.

I have never been ashamed of my complete faith in God.

Bill Glass, All-American, Baylor:

THE AIR WE breathe, the food we eat, the bodies in which we live were all created by God. I am glad beyond words that this great God can live in my heart and give me a goal greater than at the end of any football field—eternal life through Jesus Christ.

More thrilling than a winning field goal in the final seconds of a game is the fact that all people everywhere can know Him in this life-changing way.

Profit? Why?

The engineer doesn't buy his own locomotive; the office girl doesn't own her own typewriter; the metal lathe operator doesn't buy his own lathe. Most people individually can't afford to buy the big power tools used in producing things. It takes about a $14,000 investment for building space, supplies, power tools and the rest of the things a single factory workman needs on his job.

But millions of people, by pooling their savings, can and do buy the tools. Today, upward of ten million Americans own shares of those tools — own stock in American business and industrial corporations. Those people risk their money — they put their dollars to work — because, naturally, they want a profit.

Danger of Smoking
Cigarettes Listed
By Health Officer

AUSTIN — Half of the men and a fourth of the women in the United States smoke cigarettes daily, according to a recent survey by the U. S. Bureau of Census. That adds up to something like 38 million cigarette addicts — 25 million men and 13 million women. Those figures, besides revealing the extent to which the smoking habit has become ingrained among Americans, accentuate the grimness of the recently validated relationships between cigarette consumption and the general death rate, including dreaded lung cancer.

It took the American Cancer Society four years of concentrated study of the smoking habits of 188,000 men to reach these conclusions:

A 57 per cent greater death rate from diseases of the heart and circulatory system among smokers as compared to non-smokers; a 97 per cent greater cancer death rate; a 186 percent greater death rate due to pulmonary diseases excluding cancer; and a 29 per cent greater rate of death from all other causes.

Among men over 50 with a history of regular cigarette smoking, the general death rate is 52 per cent above the death rate for men who have never smoked.

The same study revealed a slight relationship between pipe smoking and lung cancer, and practically no relationship between cigar smoking and lung cancer. Present studies indicate that the reason cigarettes are more important in the cause of lung cancer than either pipes or cigars is that the tars in cigarette smoke is drawn in at much higher temperatures.

In support of statistical evidence relating smoking to cancer death rates, it is possible to prove the connection by laboratory methods. By condensing the smoke of burning cigarettes and painting the gummy tars on the shaved backs of mice or rabbits, laboratory technicians have produced cancerous growths on the animals.

The question as to whether men who smoked but quit have a lower death rate than those who have not quit has also been answered statistically. Men who quit ten years before the study was made showed a death rate almost as low as those who had never smoked.

Should you stop smoking? You must answer that question alone. Ask yourself if the fleeting pleasures you get from cigarettes—described as "adult pacifiers" by the late D. William Mayo—outweigh the risks involved.

And keep in mind that the best scientific research talent in the world is convinced that steady cigarette smoking constitutes a health hazard of major proportions.

The American Cancer Society has turned its results over to the National Institute of Health for further checking.

PRICE-MAKING AND WAGE-MAKING

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors during President Truman's administration, recently testified on the problem of price inflation before a Senate investigating body. He made statements that cannot logically be contradicted.

He said that "the processes of price-making and of wage-making are so intertwined in the modern world that neither can be effectively analyzed in isolation from the other." He then said that labor unions should be subject to the anti-trust laws, exactly as are business and industrial organizations.

The public is entitled to the protection of the law against all monopolies — not just one kind.

Confetti
 builds a hospital to meet a part of the need.
 Actually, that is the reasonable solution to the challenge of the future. A considerable percentage of the county lives out this way, and if facilities are set up here to accommodate them Gainesville's facilities will be in less of a strain.
 As matters stand now it would be practical to have a hospital here, and that's why Muenster people should be thinking about the subject. If and when additional hospital space is put up at Gainesville our own project becomes less desirable.
 In a nutshell, this community needs a hospital and it has a better chance of supporting it as long as the institution meets a bigger percentage of the county need. But if another hospital were built in Gainesville the chances of supporting one here would be diminished.

 It seems that if we want to realize our long cherished dream of having our own hospital we need to do something soon. If Gainesville builds first our dream will be farther from reality than ever before.
