VOLUME V

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1941

NUMBER 29

It seems as though the gasoline-less Sunday is definitely on its way here. Uncle Sam may have the world's greatest oil reservoir but he's not in favor of wasting any of it in these days of mechanized warfare when the success of a defense program may depend on the available volume of gasoline.

Here is another hard knock for the younger generation. First of all, defense is making many a heart lonely by hustling the boys off to camp. Now the ones who stay at home are to find a stumbling block in their romantic paths. They need cars—and gasoline—nowadays to go courtin'. And they'll never be able to convince Uncle Sam that doesn't come under the general heading of pleasure. Or is it a necessary activity?

The idea, you know, is to save gasoline by cutting out the Sunday joy rides. Next we'll be asked to cut out the week day joy rides. All of us, young and old, will have to be a little less playful.

Considering national welfare, gasoline conservation is a good idea, and everybody should be willing to cooperate. But it does seem strange that the nation which produces the most oil and has the greatest capacity for refining oil should become excited about shortage. And, believe it or not, while this talk is going on a certain small refinery is considering a temporary shutdown because of a lack of available crude. That refinery is surrounded by pro-rated wells and could be kept going at capacity if the valves at those wells were given a slight turn. It's a strange world.

There is a much better way of meeting this emergency, but it's too late to do anything about it now. Cars should be designed to burn less gas. Had manufacturers done that five years ago this nation would be saving a lot more today than it possibly can by reducing Sunday consumption.

And don't let anyone tell you cars can't get along on less fuel. The way they romp up a steep incline convinces you they are wasting power on the level. Or compare the efficiency of a truck and a passenger car. A loaded truck with 15 to 20 thousand gross weight can make 8 to 10 miles per gallon at 50 mph. But your silk streamlined car weighing less than 400 will not make 20 miles per gallon at the same speed.

Every car ought to have another gear for cruising speeds, a gear that will make no less than 30 miles to the gallon. The power is there. It's just a matter of directing it to the wheels rather than the exhaust pipe. As far as the driver is concerned it's a matter of a little extra gear shifting, which he should not mind at all—he's paid well enough for his trouble. And cars would last longer, too. Obviously a motor wears less at a moderate speed than at a high speed.

We have been told that cars are low-g geared because the public wants the extra vim and vigor of reserve power. Perhaps; but who isn't willing to shift back a gear for it? It seems more correct to assume that car manufacturers and oil companies are in cahoots about this. How does anyone know the public prefers low-g geared cars? Give people a chance to buy the more efficient machine and see what happens.

Present indications are that the "old folks"—above 28 years of age—are not wanted for Uncle Sam's selective service. Why take them when the country has plenty of youngsters with more energy and endurance! There have also been remarks that a trained man should be subject to call for at least 10 years. By that standard some would be past 40 before their time had expired—which means very old for a regular soldier.

While it is true Uncle Sam is giving a break to fellows over 28, you can rest assured he isn't thinking of their convenience or business connections. He wants a more energetic fighting force and one that will be useful to him for a longer period of time. In the long run this is easier on tax-payers, too. It costs to train soldiers, so why train thousands who will never be able to serve?

It doesn't make so much difference whether a hen is setting or sitting. What counts is, when she cackles, is she laying or lying?

There are always ways to get along if a man has resourcefulness and willingness to work. Two young men in Portland, Oregon, are earning their way through college by scrubbing tombstones. We all know

SUNDAY SERVICES

There will be only two masses here Sunday instead of the customary three. Father Frowin announced last Sunday. The six o'clock service is a low mass and high mass with the traditional Corpus Christi procession will begin at 8 o'clock.

STRIKE-BOUND AVIATION PLANT

INGLEWOOD, Calif.—The huge North American Aviation plant, which employs 11,000 men and has $200,000,000 worth of military airplane orders in production. This plant was the focal point of defiance by local labor chiefs against the orders of President Roosevelt, who ordered the U. S. Army to take over production Monday morning.

ENGLISH AND FREE FRENCH INVADE SYRIA

British and "Free French" forces launched an invasion into Syria Sunday, by land, sea and in the air. R. A. F. planes raided Rhodes (1), where it is reported German planes are operating a virtual ferry service to Aleppo and Tadmur (2) in Syria. In apparent reprisal for the British bombing of Beirut oil stores, Amman (3) Trans-Jordan, was attacked from the air. Another heavy Axis raid was made on Alexandria (4), British naval base.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY AND CHOIR PICNIC PRESENTED SUNDAY

"Watch Out For Spooks," a comedy in three acts, was presented by parochial high school pupils in the parish hall Sunday evening under the direction of Sister M. Agnes. A crowd of approximately one hundred people enjoyed the play. Proceeds were placed in the new church building fund.

Between acts, Miss Katie Mae Waterscheid gave a group of accordion selections and before the final curtain Misses Gladys Wilde and Juanita Weinzapfel offered a vocal duet.

While the play was in progress on the main floor a benefit picnic, sponsored by the church choir was held in the basement. This affair began at 3 and continued until 11 p. m. The usual bazaar attractions and refreshments were featured and in the early afternoon trap shooting was a popular diversion. Lindsay and Gainesville citizens joined Muensterites to swell the attendance.

J. M. WEINZAPFEL RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

J. M. Weinzapfel, one of the principal leaders in organizing the Muenster Chamber of Commerce resigned this week as secretary of that group.

In view of present duties in other fields, Weinzapfel felt he could no longer spare the time his position required. And since the main projects of the organization, such as the Ladies Civic League, Rural Electrification and Soil Conservation are progressing commendably, the present is a convenient time for him to withdraw.

As regards other possibilities for community development, he suggested that more can be accomplished in the future if members and business men will carry on without depending on him for time which is very difficult for him to give.

Weinzapfel's resignation included an expression of appreciation for all cooperation given during his tenure of office.

FIREMEN ATTEND STATE CONVENTION AT WICHITA FALLS

Muenster's volunteer fire department is represented by at least two men at every session of the state volunteer firemen's convention being held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Wichita Falls.

On the opening day John Luke and "Shorty" Herr were the delegates. Henry Luke and P. J. Rollman attended the second day. Late Wednesday George Gehrig was the only one known to be planning attendance on Thursday, however it was understood among the firemen that another person would also be there.

Attendance at the convention is regarded as practically compulsory by the local brigade because of the credit secured for the town's insurance rate. It is estimated that the brigade's expense in sending delegates is far surpassed by the annual savings in premiums. Besides the men get many useful hints on fire prevention and control.

Each night the convention business is followed by a gala firemen's ball at Lake Wichita. That event is drawing several.

County's Naturalization Record Finished by WPA

Completion of the WPA naturalization record index in Cooke county, including the names of all naturalized citizens, was announced today by Gus W. Thomason of Dallas, WPA district manager.

Completion of the project, which was certified by the War Department as important to the National Defense Program, makes information available on all persons naturalized in the county previous to September, 1906. Mr. Thomason stated. Later naturalization records required no servicing, he said, standard procedure having been difficult and sometimes impossible to obtain prior to the completion of the WPA project, he stated.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richards spent Monday in Pampa on business.

Refinery To Work On Part Time Schedule

Does Not Permit Steady Run; Will Continue to Supply Local Trade

Due to a present shortage of available crude, Muenster's Refinery will drop down to a part time schedule at the end of this week.

Present plans, as explained by J. W. Ezell, manager, are to keep the retail sales department of the business open as usual but to shut down the distilling plant for several days each week.

The part time schedule became necessary after the local institution lost almost all of its crude source to large pipe line companies. Stanolind's recent construction of a line to the South Muenster field provided disposition for the only distressed production of considerable volume in this area. For several weeks thereafter a sufficient quantity was secured from the Gainesville field and moved to Muenster by truck. That production is now flowing through a Sinclair line.

The refinery's principal difficulty was its inability to compete with posted crude prices. Not having a cracking unit nor a sufficient volume to operate at full capacity, it could not distill efficiently enough to meet regular prices. It had to depend on distress prices in areas not served by pipe lines.

A small percentage of wells in the Muenster field still have no pipe line disposition. These will continue selling to the refinery, which will store the crude until it has a sufficient volume to justify "firing up."

The part time schedule will reduce the plant's payroll from 15 men to 5 or 6. Manager and bookkeeper and a few outside men to serve as combination caretakers and still men will complete the force.

In effect, the plant will merely operate on a smaller scale, Ezell said. There will still be plenty of all products to meet the local demand.

Health Unit Provides Serum to Check Typhoid

With the purpose of preventing a possible typhoid epidemic resulting from contamination during Tuesday's flood conditions, Dr. H. H. Terry of the Cooke County Health Unit placed a supply of typhoid serum at the disposal of Dr. Sam Cunningham.

Terry advised special caution on the part of all persons who have individual or surface wells. Unless they are certain that contaminated water cannot run into those wells they should boil all drinking water and consult with their family physician.

247 MILES OF WPA ROADS

There have been completed 247 miles of roads, 214 miles of which are on farm-to-market roads. On these roads WPA workers have built and reconstructed 50 bridges. Physical facilities which have been created or improved by WPA workers in this county include eight public buildings and three public utility plants.

Father Hugo of Purcell, Okla., was in the parish Saturday and Sunday morning as assistant during the absence of Father Richard. Sunday evening Father Raymond of Subiaco, Ark., arrived to spend this week as assistant to Father Frowin.

Damage Caused By Storm And Deluge Reaches Thousands

Downpour Measuring 7.32 Inches Regarded One of Heaviest in Community's History

Thousands of dollars worth of damage were inflicted on this community during the past week when the weather twice went on a rampage. One occasion was a windstorm about 8:30 last Friday morning; the other was a heavy downpour Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Of the two, the deluge was the more devastating. In the opinion of many old timers it was one of the heaviest rains ever to fall on this area. The official measure taken at the Department of Commerce gauge about 10 o'clock Tuesday was 7.32 inches. All except possibly a half inch of that volume fell between the hours of 10 p. m. Monday and 8 a. m. Tuesday.

All streams and creeks left their banks. Brushy Elm just below the city limit almost reached the top railing of the bridge—about 3½ feet above the floor—at its high point and flooded all adjoining bottom lands. Farther south, the Big Elm took on the appearance of a lake, likewise inundating hundreds of acres of crops. Thousands of grain shocks were swept away. Uncut grain was muddied in. Corn was also damaged but it has a chance to recover partially.

Because of swollen creeks all traffic south of town was held up until almost noon. Milk delivery schedules were disrupted, some farmers finding it necessary to make their own deliveries after trucks failed to appear.

By the time the two streams, along with several smaller streams, reached Gainesville, they had combined to approach that city's all time high water mark. Leonard Park and the fair grounds and low sections in South Gainesville were flooded. At its lowest point West California street was estimated to be more than two feet under water. Several business concerns in that section were forced to evacuate, and cars parked on low spots of that vicinity were almost completely covered.

In the Elm low lands south of Gainesville many persons were driven from their homes. Some cattle and horses were known to be carried away by the torrent.

High lands escaped flood damage but were considerably affected by the long continuous beating of the rain. Uncut grain everywhere was leaning over so badly that much of it cannot be picked up by harvesters. Grain in the shock—what shocks remained standing after the fury of the preceding Friday and the short vicious gale immediately preceding the deluge—fared better. The return of fair weather Tuesday afternoon gave some hope that bundles will dry again before sprouting sets in.

The storm Friday was a straight head wind believed to have reached a velocity of about 60 miles an hour. It left its scars over a wide area. Dozens of less secure buildings, including those of the Chick Sale dealership, brooder houses, small tool sheds, etc., were toppled over or skidded off their foundations. Small fruit trees were snapped off, limbs were broken off the larger trees, shingles were ripped from roofs, and loose articles were indiscriminately rolled about. No injuries nor serious damages have been reported.

MUENSTER DRIVE FOR USO FUNDS WILL BE HELD THIS WEEKEND

This weekend is the time scheduled for a short, intensive drive in connection with the current nationwide campaign to raise funds for the USO (United Service Organizations).

After meeting with the county committee at Gainesville Monday night, Roy Endres, local chairman, disclosed that a local committee will solicit funds within the Muenster city limits on Friday and Saturday and will attempt to see other persons at church services Sunday.

Endres is confident that Muenster will respond in its usual generous way and exceed its quota by a substantial figure. The county is assessed $600, he said. According to population, Muenster's share in it should be about $30.

A speaker at the county meeting pointed out that only one USO drive will be held this year, hence everyone should give what he considers his annual donation. Solicitors will be expected to make a list of all donors.

Funds collected will go to the national headquarters of USO to staff and operate recreational centers which will be built and equipped by the federal government.

HUGHES RESIGNS

WASHINGTON.—Shown above in his robes as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States is Charles Evans Hughes who has submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt. He explained that "considerations of health and age make it necessary" to retire. Justice Hughes is 79-years-old.

WORK DUE TO BEGIN AT GAINESVILLE DRESS FACTORY NEXT WEEK

Preliminary preparations are almost complete, and Cooke county's newest business venture, the Gainesville Dress Manufacturing Company, is due to begin operations in the very near future. Indications early this week were that the building would be ready on Saturday and work can begin early next week.

In a recent drive to secure this business for the county, Gainesville merchants raised $1,500, which they used to renovate the second floor of the building occupied by H. E. Myers and Sons. Mr. and Mrs. Todd Brown, managers of the business had agreed to a five year lease and option for a three year renewal, if Gainesville business interests would provide suitable working quarters. Realizing the possibilities in a $50,000 annual payroll, merchants hastened to cooperate.

A minimum of 50 operators will go to work on opening day, and the personnel will be expanded as quickly as possible to the maximum of 120 persons. The minimum wage scale is $2.80 a day for a five day week. More efficient workers will receive more—the piece-work scale will be in effect.

Ladies from all parts of the county are expected to work at the dress factory. Employment must be secured through Gainesville's Texas Unemployment office. Women's dresses and sport clothes will be the only items manufactured. A regular outlet for the goods has been assured through affiliation with a large distributor in Dallas.

Pals Abroad, Came Over Together in '81, Meet Here for Reunion

Muenster was the meeting place this week for two old friends, classmates in Germany and companions immigrating to this country in 1881. One of them is William Henschel of Rupert, Idaho, now visiting with relatives here. The other is Conrad Klein of Mendota, Ill., who arrived Wednesday.

Klein was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fitzler of Peru, Ill. Fitzler also renews acquaintance with an old friend. He was a classmate of Henry Henschel Jr., and came to America two years after Henschel. They have not seen one another since they parted in Germany in 1924.

Other old time friends of Klein in Muenster were the now deceased William Walterscheid and Henry Henschel Sr.

7.94 INCHES RAIN THIS WEEK

A total of 7.94 inches of rain fell here during the week of June 4-11. Precipitation accompanying the gale of last Friday measured 6.5 inches and the deluge of Monday and Tuesday measured 7.32 inches.

DORA WEINZAPFEL AND HUGH JACKSON OF FT. WORTH MARRY

Solemn, impressive ceremonies held at Sacred Heart church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock united Miss Dora Weinzapfel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel, and Hugh Jackson of Fort Worth, son of Mrs. Leona Jackson of Azle. Rev. Frowin Koerdert, O. S. B., performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial high mass. The altar before which the vows were exchanged was decorated with pink and white gladioli and greenery.

The church choir, under the direction of Leo N. Henschel, rendered music for the mass, assisted by Anthony Luke, organist. Mr. Luke also played the traditional processional and recessional for the bridal party.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white slipper satin, designed with a fitted midriff, sweetheart neckline and long sleeves puffed at the shoulder and fitted at the wrist. The full gathered skirt extended in a long train. The bridal veil was finger-tip length and was held with a halo of pearls. As a bit of sentiment, the bride wore as her only jewelry a strand of pearls belonging to her mother. An arm bouquet of white carnations and gladioli, and a white prayerbook and rosary, gifts from her brother, Seminarian Thomas Weinzapfel, completed the bride's costume.

Miss Juanita Weinzapfel was her sister's maid of honor. Her frock was of blue brocaded chiffon made with a fitted bodice and hooped skirt. Tiny pink velvet bows ornamented the square neckline and short puffed sleeves. She wore a matching halo headpiece and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations and gladioli.

Dan Peeny of Fort Worth attended as best man for Mr. Jackson. Immediately after the rites a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for thirty guests, and a buffet dinner was served.

The house was decorated with gladioli and queen's lace and the bay window in the dining room was attractively arranged to hold the large three-tier wedding cake. The window was draped with white satin and centered with the cake, flanked with blue tapers in crystal candelabra. Crystal doves and cut flowers in shades of white and pink were also used to adorn the window.

In the early afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left by car for their home in Fort Worth. For the trip Mrs. Jackson wore a dress of powder blue linen with accessories in antique tan.

Mrs. Jackson attended the local parochial school, graduated from Holy Angels Academy in Jonesboro, Ark., and spent the past year in training at St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing in Fort Worth.

Mr. Jackson graduated from the Azle High school and for the past three years has been associated with W. C. Stripling company as assistant manager of the sports and toys departments.

They are making their home at 909 Richmond, Fort Worth.

"DEAR BILL: I don't think I care to go out with you again. Most of last evening was wonderful, Bill. But the drive home spoiled everything. You behaved so nicely and acted so considerately up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a bad-mannered and irresponsible gorilla. You yelled at people who had just as much right on the road as you. You disregarded white lines and signs put there for your safety. You scared my wit out by going at an absurd speed. That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's silly and childish today. Call me stuffy and prudish if you like. But I don't relish dying quite yet. Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am just hurt. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my phone if my face and body were ineptly rearranged by a smash-up in your automobile. So I don't think I'll go out with you again, Bill. At least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver, and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you."

NOTES FROM the COUNTY AGENT

By ALBERT BRIENT County Agent

June 14 is the last day on which Texas cotton farmers planning to earn cotton order stamps can sign their intention-to-participate forms. B. F. Vance, state AAA administrative officer in charge, points out that producers failing to sign will not be eligible to earn cotton stamps or to earn food production and storage payments under the AAA program, he said.

The supplementary cotton program, a joint effort of three agencies of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, the Surplus Marketing Administration, and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration—is designed to encourage voluntary reduction in the acreage planted to cotton in 1941 by payment of cotton stamps to farms on which such reduction is made. The stamps can be exchanged for finished cotton goods. Under the supplementary program, farmers on those farms qualifying for cotton stamps, can each earn an additional $3 payment for meeting specified food production and storage practices.

No extension of the closing date will be made, Vance said, since by that time, most of the cotton in Texas will have been planted.

gan to change the miserable cabin into a livable home. Quietly and tactfully, she persuaded Tom to build a floor for the cabin, to make a door, to cut a window, to fill the chinks between the logs with plaster. Upon Tom's two children—the ten-year-old Abe and the twelve-year-old Nancy—she showered attention and love. She made clothes for them and fed them nourishing food. Gradually they developed into sturdy, happy children.

In a short time, a close bond of affection grew between Abe and his new mother. Sarah could neither read nor write, but she appreciated the importance of education and she saw to it that Abe went to school, despite his father's unreasonable opposition. When the boy walked seventeen miles to borrow books, it was Sarah who defended Abe against Tom Lincoln's anger. When Abe sat up half the night reading before the open fire, she saw to it that he was left undisturbed. She understood his ambitions; she shared many of his thoughts, hopes, and dreams.

The Lincolns lived in the cabin on Little Pigeon Creek, in Southern Indiana, until February, 1830. Then Tom Lincoln decided to look for greener pastures in Illinois. So the family moved to Macon county, where Abe helped his father build a new cabin. The winter of 1830-31 was one of the coldest in the history of Illinois, and Tom Lincoln soon regretted his move and decided to return to Indiana. On the way back, however, the family stopped for a short time in Coles county. There they eventually decided to stay. Again, Abe helped his father build a cabin. It was in this two-room cabin that Tom and Sarah Lincoln spent the rest of their lives.

Abe was then twenty-one years old. It was time, Sarah realized, for the boy to make his way in the world, to carry out the ambitions that he had cherished since childhood. Regrettably she told him goodbye, knowing that from then on his life would be lived apart from her. Abraham Lincoln's deep love for his stepmother did not lessen with

The parasites enter the blood, grow, and multiply there. Poisons are formed and carried in the blood stream to all parts of the body. Sarah Bush Lincoln--- World Famous Stepmother

A lanky, barefoot boy and a shabby girl stood in the cabin door and watched the approach of a large wagon. Creaking under its load of furniture and people, the wagon lumbered over the deep-rutted road. Puzzled, the two children watched. Three weeks before, their father had gone to Kentucky—alone. Now he was returning with four strangers—a woman and three children.

born a failure. Probably the most prosperous period of her married life was the year that Daniel Johnston had charge of the Hardin county jail. Their home was on the first floor of the dungeonlike building, and Sarah, as the jailer's wife, had to keep the jail clean and feed the prisoners. In addition, she had to care for her own three children: Betsy, Tilda and the baby, John. After her husband's death in the summer of 1816, Sarah bought a small cabin on the outskirts of Elizabethtown. There she made a comfortable home for her little family.

DESERVING OF FULL SUPPORT

Church leaders of this country are getting down to serious work in behalf of the spiritual welfare of men in service. The United Service Organizations (USO) has launched an intensive drive for funds in order to staff and maintain recreational centers which the government will build and equip adjacent to training camps and naval stations.

The purpose is to provide a better environment for soldiers and sailors, to safeguard the nation by strength of spirit as well as strength of arms. Experience in the past has shown that most recreational facilities established solely for the purpose of getting the soldier's money, had the very opposite effect.

USO follows the finest American traditions in both organization and plan. Catholic, Protestant and Jew are working side by side, securing funds for the common cause and administering to men of every faith.

Many Catholic societies, for instance, joined under the title of National Catholic Community Service. Protestants and Jews did likewise. Then the various denominational groups joined to form the USO.

Here is religion as it should be. All denominations are overlooking denominational differences and turning their cooperative effort to that one purpose which is uppermost with each, the spiritual welfare of mankind.

Here is democracy as it should be. Church and State are not united in this project. They cooperate. In the camps Uncle Sam trains his charges in the military arts. In the adjacent centers—note they are not on camp property, hence completely independent of official jurisdiction—USO keeps alive spiritual traditions and environments equal to those back home. There is no conflict between the work of Caesar and the work of God. We should be proud that American leaders recognize and apply that principle.

The drive for USO funds is now under way. Realizing the sublime worthiness of the cause, can any of us fail to help along?

CRACK DOWN ON STRIKERS

"Work or fight." That was the ultimatum given by Woodrow Wilson during the first world war to strikers who were delaying progress in munitions factories. President Roosevelt is now being urged to issue a similar ultimatum to strikers in defense industries. The idea is to cancel deferments of all the guilty persons, thereby making them subject to draft.

At least we seem to be getting somewhere—provided the president will get over his chicken-heartedness and crack down on the trouble makers. He has been generous to a fault. Even though the past year's developments have given him dictatorial powers he has consistently endured labor abuses with a faint hope that the men responsible would come to their senses. Since the Unlimited National Emergency has failed to get results, the president must realize it is high time for stern measures.

It is unfortunate that official action should be necessary, but apparently it is the only course to jolt laborers into a realization of their responsibility. Heretofore they have disregarded public welfare and patriotic duty in order to support labor racketeers—some of questionable allegiance. Not all laborers were willing participants in this treachery, of course. Pressure from within forced many to fall in line. But when Roosevelt decrees that each striker's deferment is cancelled, workers will show greater resistance to the agitators' schemes. In case that still isn't effective the unions are likely to be disbanded by official order. As a last resort military guards can be stationed in factories to see that machines keep running.

This nation is a democracy, in which every man has a right to do as he pleases, but it is primarily a nation, in which every man's right is subordinate to the public welfare. In an emergency it is the citizen's duty to recognize that, otherwise it becomes the government's duty to demand recognition. Whatever steps are necessary to insure uninterrupted flow of defense production can and must be taken by the government. It isn't only that government has the right, it has that obligation to you and me and every other citizen.

Getting down to technicalities, a defense worker is in the armed service just as surely as the soldier or sailor. His part of warfare is fully as essential as naval and military action; he supplies material, the soldier uses it. Then doesn't it logically follow that desertion on his part is just as treasonable as a soldier's desertion? The president would be perfectly within his rights if he made every striker subject to court martial. We hope such measures will not be necessary, but we prefer that extreme to the one we have.

HEY! TAKE YOUR HAND OFF!

Washington Snapshots

by JAMES PRESTON

Behind-the-hand whispers in Washington tell of the new plans for a reorganization of the defense setup in an effort to speed the rearmament drive.

The present machinery, as nearly everyone admits is hodgepodge, hit and miss, and particularly unwieldy because everything has to funnel through a bottleneck—the White House.

For example, OPM cannot decide whether to build new steel plants until the President makes up his mind whether they are needed; Leon Henderson and his price regulators cannot determine whether legislation is needed to strengthen their powers until the President reaches a decision; and so on and on.

The President naturally spends a large part of his time worrying over details of that kind. The truth is that William Knudsen is as right now as he was a year ago when he said the only defense bottleneck is "Time." Valuable time is lost while things drip through the White House funnel.

With few exceptions—and businessmen at OPM are among those who agree—there is little argument against a change. But the important thing to some is that apparently those who are in charge of key phases of the program are not being consulted about the new-plan.

OPM businessmen have speeded production tremendously since the first new defense machinery was created a year ago. But today they know nothing about the proposed reorganization. As one strongly pro-administration businessman at OPM put it:

"Somebody in an office or a bedroom (Harry Hopkins' office is a White House bedroom) blocks away from here is thinking up a new scheme. As usual, those involved will not hear about it until it is signed on the dotted line and sealed."

OPMers might not be too surprised at that if they had been in Washington longer. For after all, when the present defense machine was created, it was set up with almost complete disregard for an industrial mobilization plan drafted by the War Department after 20 years.

Typical of the ways things are going and, in fact, an indication of a complete lack of understanding of what is happening, was a recent press release issued by the Office for Emergency Management (not the Knudsen OPM), which is the holding company for all defense agencies.

This release summarized what has happened in the last year, and included these sentences:

"On March 19, the President set up the National Defense Mediation Board, and its prompt settlement of the 75-day-old Allis Chalmers tie-up and a number of smaller strikes stemmed the tide. Public fears began to subside as industry and labor put their shoulders to the wheel. National defense again forged ahead."

The very day that release was issued, this was the strike picture: Eleven thousand workers in the Pacific Coast airplane industry voted to go on strike;

Pacific Coast shipyards were closed down by a strike;

Production at the government's own $35,000,000 munitions plant in Ravenna, Ohio, was halted by a strike;

AFL leaders warned that new shipyard strikes threatened in the Great Lakes area;

And the threat of another disabling strike hung over the coal industry.

That was not an exceptional day. The government's own figures show that the number of disputes has increased since March, and the number of strikes actually adjusted has dropped in the last 20 days.

In February, before the Mediation Board "stemmed the tide" of strikes, the U. S. Conciliation Service assigned its men to 327 strikes. In March, the total was 378, in April 433, and in the first four weeks of May it had risen to 474.

At the same time, the number of disputes adjusted by the Conciliation Service dropped from 102 in April to 93 in May.

That's some "tide stemming!"

GOING AND COMING
 In society we lay much forethought, planning ahead preparing for an emergency, using brain-work. All of it seems to be covered by the North Carolina farmer who tried out a new way of planting his cotton. Maybe his neighbors thought he was foolish or felt he was wasteful, but he went on about his work. He planted one cotton seedling deep and made another planting of seeds which was shallow.

One was for wet weather and the other was for a late and dry year. The former won and so did the farmer while the crops in the neighborhood were burned out.

The deep planting came through and so the difference in cost was made up in the production. It was cheap insurance. And as the planter says he has to thin out the cotton anyway, he wasn't out much in labor. Perhaps he has started something.—Grapeland Messenger.

Since the time that the Wright brothers made their first successful flight, the airplane industry in the United States has built about 60,000 planes of all types. The present defense program, by contrast, calls for the completion of 40,000 planes by the end of the next eighteen months.

All incomes of $10,000 and over, if taken entirely for taxes, would pay all costs of government for only about two months.

Muenster will have its first opportunity Sunday to see a motorcycle baseball game when motor jockeys of this area and Fort Worth meet at the local ball park.

According to word received from Al Horn, the game has some resemblance to donkey baseball, except that the steeds are considerably less obstinate. Action is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock.

Storm Drops Snakes On Roof at W. T. Richter's

Storms do freakish things at times — such as leaving snakes marooned on top of a tin roof.

Richter doesn't know how it happened, but his guess is that the snakes were in some old box or basket which the wind carried over the roof and tipped at just the correct time to dispose of its repulsive load.

As Southwestern chairman of the United Service Organizations for National Defense, E. B. Germany of Dallas is regional director of the nation-wide campaign to provide recreational and welfare facilities for soldiers, sailors, and defense workers.

Endorsed by the President and Army and Navy officials, the USO expects to raise $10,765,000 to operate service establishments built by the Government. Texas' quota is $400,000, and committees appointed to raise this fund began their drive officially June 3 in every Texas county.

STERN MEASURES TO HALT LABOR DELAYS URGED BY GOSSETT

In a speech before the House of Representatives last Friday, June 6, Congressman Ed Gossett of this district urged immediate and stern action to halt present labor troubles in defense industries. His speech follows:

"Mr. Speaker, for the sake of all that America stands for, we have been calling upon this country for a 100-per cent economic effort to avoid war if possible, and in the event of war to avoid defeat. More than a year has passed since the President called for an all-out defense effort. The results to date have been puny in comparison with our possibilities.

"Last September an emergency was declared, this May a state of unlimited emergency has been declared. Yet today we find the strike situation worse than ever before. Vital airplane factories and vital shipyards are closed. No one denies labor the right to strike under certain circumstances and when wage and working conditions are unfair and unreasonable. But today defense industries should not be stopped from any cause whatsoever.

"A big majority of this Congress stands solidly behind the President's foreign policy and his defense program.

"Mr. Roosevelt is a great man who may well live in history as a great human benefactor. However, tragic history reveals that most great men are destroyed by some small weakness. Woodrow Wilson was destroyed because of his inability to deal with politicians. Is Franklin Roosevelt to be destroyed because of his inability to deal with labor? Is labor to be the Achilles' heel of the Roosevelt Administration?"

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCool and family wish to express their thanks and appreciation to residents of the Linn community for their kindness and the many useful gifts presented to them after the loss of their home by fire.

Heavy rain, falling here Tuesday morning delayed grain cutting several days. A few farmers in this vicinity had finished cutting wheat, and some were just beginning. Farmers from this community hauled their own milk to Muenster Tuesday. The milk truck from Forestburg was unable to cross Clear Creek because of high water, and there was no rural mail delivery.

FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN DESTROYS MCCOOL HOME

LINN.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the west house on the Drane place, occupied by the Sam McCool family, Wednesday at noon. The building was covered by insurance but the furnishings were not insured. The McCools were not at home when the fire broke out and neighbors saw it too late to save anything. The building and all furnishings were destroyed. It is not known at this time if a new house will be built to replace the lost one. At present the family is residing with Mr. and Mrs. George McFarland. Selby Fielder and Adolph Walterscheid solicited in the neighborhood for the distressed family Wednesday afternoon.

BOB STEADHAM HOME HIT BY WIND FRIDAY

LINN.—The strong wind Friday morning reached cyclone velocity in the vicinity of the Bob Steadham home moving the house off its foundation and partly demolishing the structure. A large tree near the house was uprooted and fell on the building, and the hen house was partly destroyed. Several articles of furniture were lost.

Mrs. Steadham and twin daughters, June and Jane, were in the house at the time and received minor bruises from falling debris. Mrs. Steadham also suffered from shock.

In other parts of the community no damage from wind was reported.

A pat on the back develops character — if administered young enough, often enough, and low enough. (Russell County News).

No woman really makes a fool out of a man. She merely gives him an opportunity to develop his natural capacities. (Rotary Reminder).

His idea of conversation is talking to himself in the presence of others. (Donald Reines).

By all means marry. If you get a good wife you will become very happy; if you get a bad one you will become a philosopher — and that is good for every man. (Socrates).

This isn't California weather. It's a refugee storm from Florida. (Eddie Cantor).

When a man brings his wife flowers for no reason—there's a reason. It was love at first sight. Then he took a second look.
Be like a pin. Its head keeps it from going too far. (Jimmy Jeffries)

God and the doctor
We alike adore,
At the brink of danger
And not before.

The danger past
And all things righted,
God is forgotten,
The doctor slighted.
