Patsy Endres Wins Blue Ribbon in 4-H County Dairy Show

Patsy Endres, Sacred Heart Intermediate 4-H clubber, entered a demonstration in the first Cooke County 4-H Dairy Foods Show Saturday and won a blue ribbon on her banana milk shake. The win also put Patsy among the top six girls who will represent Cooke county in the Dairy Foods Division of the District IV eliminations to be held in Denton on May 3.

Judges for the event, held in the Texas Power and Light company kitchen, were Mrs. Barbara Reed, assistant home demonstration agent in Denton county; Evalyn Odham, assistant in Grayson county; and Mrs. Neil Tibbets, home economics teacher in Gainesville Junior High and High schools.

There were three divisions in which 4-H girls participated: junior (9 to 11 years of age), intermediate (12 to 13 years), and senior (14 and older).

Individual or team demonstrations were presented by 12 county 4-H girls. Each demonstration was judged on appearance of team or individual, introduction of material, presentation, subject matter, summary, and achievement of purpose.

With Patsy in the group to represent the county at Denton are Jeanette Watson who made swiss cheese pie, Gwen and Elaine Friske who prepared a pinwheel casserole, Sue Dillard and Sunny Lou Sutton who demonstrated milk drinks. Patsy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Endres.

Mrs. Haverkamp is Birthday Honoree

A family gathering in observance of her birthday honored Mrs. Alois Haverkamp when her son-in-law and daughter, the Leroy Wiesmanns, entertained in their home in Gainesville with an evening party.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Haverkamp and family, the Walter Haverkamps and children and the Richard Schumachers and children of Gainesville. The David Forgeys of Denton who couldn't be present sent their best wishes to her mother.

Parochial Pupils Make Snow White Operetta Big Hit

Stars were out Sunday night. The stars were the youngsters of the seventh and eighth grades of Sacred Heart school who appeared in a 90-minute operetta, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," an amateur version of the beloved fairy tale which was received joyfully by a large crowd of Muensterites.

It was a fascinating triumph, this three-act singing, dancing drama with little Lucille Dankesreiter as Snow White, the twinkling star of all. Other stellar performances were presented by John David Fleitman as the prince, Cynthia Wimmer as the good queen Wisteria, Charlotte Wolf as the wicked queen Tiger Lily, Joanie Kaiser as Nibbles the Rabbit, Johnny Yosten as Nutty the Squirrel and Kathleen McGannon as the Magic Mirror — she danced beautifully — and all seven of the dwarfs whose antics followed sad scenes and brought laughter to the audience.

The dwarfs were Ronnie Endres, David Vogel, Jimmy Vogel, Frankie Hess, Clarence Bayer, August Knabe and Tommy Bayer.

And there was a wealth of excellent performance in lesser parts, too. The flowers, sunbeams, elves and all members of the cast of 80 contributed to a well paced, smooth and entirely enjoyable show.

Sister Carmelita, famous for her direction of student operettas, scored another hit in "Snow White." Assisting her in its production was Sister Jane Frances.

Carol Henscheid, seventh grader, played the entire musical score on the piano.

The scenery, made by students and their teachers, and the home-made costumes over which the players' mothers labored, were so authentic each scene might have been a colored page from the story book come to life.

Mrs. Walterscheid Observes Birthday

Mrs. Joe Walterscheid's 75th birthday Sunday was the occasion of a party in her home in the afternoon. Her two sisters Mrs. John Henscheid of Norman, Okla., and Mrs. John Hartman were present. These were joined by the honoree's daughters, daughters-in-law and nieces including Mrs. William Schader and daughter Jeanette of Norman, for a total of about 30 guests.

Everyone remembered the honoree with gifts and everyone enjoyed birthday cake, pie and ice cream and coffee, visiting and picture taking.

Legal Stealing

In support of our contention that the Federal social security scheme is dishonest and unfair, we quote the following paragraph from a circular issued by the American Institute for Economic Research over three years ago:

“For some individuals, especially those older persons who recently have become eligible, the Social Security Act is one of the greatest ‘give-away’ programs in history. At age 65 some individuals may receive annuities worth as much as $20,000 for payments of as little as $80. On the other hand, some individuals may pay social security taxes for decades and receive nothing in return.”

This cannot be excused on the ground that some receive much from private insurance companies and others nothing, for insurance is on an actuarial basis and the insured knows he is paying a definite sum for a definite amount of money in case of death. Straight annuities and endowments are in definite terms of so much for so much, and unless a life insurance clause is included, no one receives $20,000 for $80.00. Moreover, private insurance is voluntary whereas our social security scheme is compulsory.

Under social security some have less because others get something for much less than the actual most. The fact that the country is large and the identity of receivers and payers is not always evident does not alter the fact that money is forcibly taken from some and given to others. Is it any less stealing because government does it?

The big fact about social security is that our whole generation is attempting to steal from succeeding generations. We are collecting enormous sums of social security tax money and spending it immediately to pay the bills of our extravagant government. When it comes time for the present generation to retire, we hope that our children and grandchildren will tax themselves not only to pay for the government of their day and generation, but to pay the social security claims of our generation.

We might at least pay our own way and not attempt to shift the burden of our retirement upon our children and grandchildren. They will have responsibilities of their own. We ought to leave them some assets to make life a little easier for them than it has been for us. But, instead, we are leaving them heavy liabilities.

Let Government Do the Sacrificing

It is Senator Goldwater's sincere belief — he wrote us last week — that effective reductions can be made in the President's new domestic budget. Since that budget is $19.1 billion more than in 1953, a lot of us will agree with him. But we doubt if too many will go along with his statement that reducing domestic spending is going to take “a lot of sacrifice” on the part of the people.

The administration has asked Congress to lift the ceiling on the national debt in order to pay for $74 billion worth of government in the year ahead. It looks from here like it's the government which should do the “sacrificing” for the relief of the taxpayer.

The Republicans promised economy, an end to big government and burgeoning bureaucracy in 1952. Remember? And what did they do? They created more bureaus, more agencies and added thousands of government employees.

For example — the President created a Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Before you knew it, there was an office of HE&W in every principal city in the nation, with increasing appropriations every year for office rent, local directors, publicity writers, clerical help, research and travel expense.

No doubt they are a busy lot, but from where we sit, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is one of the expensive luxuries which we, as taxpayers could “sacrifice” without a pang. Once in awhile we receive in the mail, a handout from HE&W's well-paid publicity staff. We scan it with interest in the hope that there is something of vital importance to our readers in its pages. To date, they have all gone in the wastebasket because we haven't found one item of enough importance to sacrifice space we always need for local news.

The fallacious idea that the people are demanding all these governmental services is popular with the politicians. Some of them even appear to believe it — that it is the demand of the people which forces them to always-higher appropriations for the departments-of-everything-under-the-sun.

The truth is that new federal (and state and large county) agencies originate in bureaucratic minds. It dawns on the minds of the taxpayers, after they have become an expensive fact, that someone decided they needed a department-of-something-or-other and the cost of government goes up accordingly.

If Congress wants to know what the people are demanding, let it look back to the letters and telegrams which poured into Washington last year pleading for a reduction in their taxes.

Not one of them, we venture to say, was pleading for the vast over-lapping, duplicating and in many cases, absolutely unnecessary services, which they tell us will make it necessary to raise the debt limit another $5 billion. —St. John's (Ariz.) Independent-News.

Right Out of Dictionary
 The dean of the faculty had a precocious daughter of seven. One Sunday evening the little girl was going reluctantly with her mother to vesper services.

“Oh, dear,” she said, “I suppose we'll all be doing this till Doomsday.”

Her mother, who never let a difficult word pass unchallenged, said, “Do you know, dear, what Doomsday is?”

“Yes,” replied the child, “the day gravity lets go.”

DID GOD'S WORLD EVOLVE?

By Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S. J.

Chairman, Biology Department, Boston College

THE POPULAR stage play, “Inherit the Wind,” currently appearing in some of our American cities recalls the one-time controversy between religion and evolution. “Inherit the Wind” is a story based on the “Scope's Monkey Trial” of the 1920's, in which William Jennings Bryan fought to prevent the teaching of evolution in Tennessee schools.

William Jennings Bryan, together with Churchmen of all religions, opposed the materialistic evolution of men like Thomas Huxley in England and Ernst Haeckel in Germany. For these men combined their own atheism and materialism with evolution, and made it unacceptable to both science and religion.

AND YET, the conflict between religion and evolution is largely the story of an historical confusion. The evolutionary theories popular a century ago were a godless type, which was not science at all, but atheistic philosophy masquerading as science.

In recent years, however, men see that evolution is a scientific theory and not a religious one. Religious leaders see that evolution and Huxley's materialism are not the same thing. Scientists, on their part, are less antagonistic to the truths of revealed religion.

EVOLUTION, both sides now see, is concerned with the origin of man's body. Precisely as a biologist, the scientist cannot affirm or deny the existence of a spiritual soul.

William Jennings Bryan thought that evolution contradicted the Bible assertion that God made man from the slime of the earth. Today, however, we realize more clearly that the Bible is not a scientific textbook. The sacred author would not, even if he could, write a complete history of the universe. Baronius wrote four centuries ago: “Holy Scripture was written to teach men how to go to Heaven, not how the heavens go.”

THAT GOD made our universe and everything in it is the clear message of Genesis. He created man in His image, raised him to a level above his created state, and endowed him with gifts which he lost by sin. But whether or not God spent millions of years in forming the world which He created, the Bible just doesn't say. Evolution isn't denied by the Bible; neither is it affirmed by it.

If science proves evolution to be a fact, we will be given a further insight into the creation of man as recorded in Scripture. But we need never fear any contradiction of the truths of the Bible. For God is Absolute Truth, and all truth must ultimately lead to Him.

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

"To grow bluegills big, raise your pond's fertility quickly, as soon as winter cold begins to wane," so says Olan W. Dillion Jr., biologist of the Soil Conservation Service, who visited ponds and reservoirs in the Muenster area last Wednesday.

A total of 121 ponds and flood prevention reservoirs in the Muenster-Saint Jo area were stocked last year with fish furnished by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The care and management these ponds receive will determine the size and amounts of fish caught out of these re-stocked ponds and lakes, says the biologist.

According to Dillion, bluegills begin to spawn in May or June. Within two or three weeks after the eggs hatch, the thousands of little bluegills are eating all the spare food. When this happens their parents cannot get food enough to grow even with full water fertility, yet they continue to spawn all summer and until the first chill in the fall. During the summer period the production of bass is high. They are growing rapidly on the thousands of little bluegills which are the chief bass food.

When bluegills stop spawning in the fall, the bass continue their heavy feeding on bluegill fingerlings. As the bass reduce the number of fingerlings the adult bluegill begins to grow — slowly at first, then more rapidly. Growth is slow again during the colder days of winter, as fish feed very little in cold temperatures.

When the water begins to warm a little, bluegills are ready to grow larger, but only if the water is fertilized enough to grow a lot of microscopic creatures that are an essential part of the food cycle. A pond owner who waits until late spring to renew his pond's fertility cannot expect big bluegills. The season when they grow most rapidly is only 100 to 120 days, usually February to June.

"To get the first three to five applications in quickly, fertilize every week or ten days as you begin the year's program of water culture. Fertilize until a white object cannot be seen 12 to 14 inches deep," instructs biologist Dillion. "Fertilize with 100 pounds of 8-8-8 fertilizer per surface acre at each application."

Another tip from Dillion on good fish pond management, "Don't just fish for bass. There's lots of fun and good eating in the fat bluegills in a pond and it keeps the pond in good condition to fish for them. Many ponds that get over-populated with bluegills have not been fertilized properly and have never had enough bluegills caught. Fishing for bass only in a pond is not good water management."

Ponds and lakes, like pastures and cropland, must be properly fertilized, properly stocked and properly managed for best production. One of the results of a well-managed pond can be hours of relaxation and enjoyment while harvesting a good crop of edible fish.

Your CASH isn't TRASH!

Treat your dollars with respect. True, they won't buy as much as they used to. But this is the very reason why you should spend as few of them . . . and save as many . . . as you possibly can.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Popp of Lindsay announce arrival of a daughter, their second girl, weight seven pounds 15 ounces at Gainesville Sanitarium 8:27 a.m. Monday, Feb. 24. The grandparents are Mrs. Anna Popp and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zimmerman. Mrs. Barney Voth of Muenster is great-grandmother again.

David Lee is the name of the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hermes. The christening service was held Sunday in St. Peter's church with Father Conrad officiating. Mrs. Julius Hermes Sr. and Joe Hoenig of Muenster were sponsors for their grandson.

CARD OF THANKS

Heartfelt thanks to all who were so generous with kindness and help during my illness and stay in the hospital. I am grateful for the prayers, get-well cards and flowers. Special thanks to Father Lane, Father Wilson and Father Conrad for their hospital visits. My husband joins me in this expression of appreciation.

Mrs. John Neu

and pleasant.

In 1908 the young bride wore a navy blue wedding dress with a wreath and veil. Since blue is a very becoming color to her she wore navy blue again for the anniversary. It was a crepe jacket-dress with a touch of pink for trim. Her corsage was an orchid and her accessories were in navy and black.

Mrs. Klement, her attendant, wore navy also. Her accessories were in black and her corsage was of gold carnations.

After their marriage in 1908 the John Hartmans lived northeast of town on a farm for four years before settling on the farm they now own southeast of the city and where they have lived continuously for 45 years.

In addition to his farm work, Mr. Hartman worked in town, first for the old Farm Labor Union where he was in charge of the egg receiving room. Later when the Union became the Farmers Marketing Association and the cheese plant went into operation he was one of the first employees. After that from 1942 to 1953, about 11 years, he was assistant postmaster at the Muenster post office. Since he retired five years ago he enjoys spending his leisure time fishing which is his hobby.

Mrs. Hartman still enjoys homemaking and crochets as a hobby. She is also a card and domino playing enthusiast and belongs to a 42 playing club. She is a member of the parish St. Anne's Society and the Third Order of St. Francis.

Golden acacia was the flower used in decorating the church and parish hall. A decorated four-tier wedding cake graced the table at which the honorees were seated. Further adornment at each end of the board were double wedding rings cut from styrofoam and gilded.

The after dinner program featured short talks by Father Christopher and J. W. Hess. Mr. Hess told what he remembered about the wedding in 1908. Mrs. B. J. Swirczynski gave a life story of her grandparents and a grandson, Virgil Walter, who was master of ceremonies, extended congratulations and introduced family members.

Ruth Endres, a granddaughter, registered guests in the anniversary book.

Anniversary Guests

Among guests at the anniversary were Mr. Hartman's brothers and sisters George A. Hartman of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Albert Hertman, his wife and daughter Judy of Dearborn, Mich.; Leo Hartman and his wife of Three Rivers; Mrs. Carl Luke and Mr. Luke of Hereford, Victor Hartman and Mrs. Hartman, Mrs. Felix Becker and Mr. Becker, Mrs. Frank Klement and Mr. Klement, Mrs. Joe Vogel and Mr. Vogel, all of Muenster. Messrs. and Mmes. Joe Walter, Clifford Otto and Walter Wolf of Gainesville, John Hess, Robert Beyer and Henry Hess of Lindsay. Among out of town friends present were Kathleen Richter of Dallas and Mrs. Ruth Richards and Joyce Bentley of Gainesville.

Sunday Reunion

All of the Hartman relationship, plus Mr. and Mrs. Keith Tompkins and family of Fort Worth, gathered Sunday in the parish hall for a reunion and covered dish dinner so that family members could visit together before those from out of town returned to their homes.

ing to Muenster with her parents, the Nick Kaisers, in 1896. She was married to John W. Meurer in 1898.

From 1903 to 1922 Mrs. Meurer served as assistant to her husband who was Muenster postmaster. He organized the Muenster State Bank in 1923 and became its first president. Mrs. Meurer was a bookkeeper at the bank from 1923 until 1929. Mr. Meurer died in February 1941.

Survivors are one son, Herbert Meurer, vice president of Muenster State Bank, two sisters, Mrs. L. A. Bernauer and Mrs. A. H. Rebentish of Muenster and four grandchildren, Mrs. Kenneth Wiesman and Robert Meurer of Houston, John David Meurer of Lubbock and Martha Sue Meurer
