

MUENSTER ENTERPRISE

VOLUME XXIII

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS

FEBRUARY 27, 1959

NUMBER 14

In his proclamation designating next week as "Public Schools Week in Texas," Governor Price Daniel states that "Today, more than ever before, the importance of our schools is being realized by an awakened Nation. A new perspective has been taken on by education, both in scientific and liberal arts fields.

"As we rush to train scientists and place satellites in outer space, however, it is important to remember that our public schools will furnish our leaders of tomorrow with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge."

It is satisfying to note that our governor has chosen to emphasize values that are generally overlooked in the current clamor to develop brains for competing with the Russians. He is wise in recognizing that the real basis of American greatness is spiritual rather than material. Our forefathers who framed the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights had this in mind when they based their documents on the fundamental principles of belief in God and respect for human rights. They were convinced that freedom, the first essential of happiness and prosperity, must derive from an awareness of God, a Divine plan, and His standards of human dignity and responsibility.

These are the fundamentals of true education. They must be understood before we can appreciate the real value of science and mathematics. Without them technical knowledge becomes only a means of establishing man's mastery over other men, as it is to the communists. With them it becomes a means of learning the marvelous material blessings that have been placed at man's disposal, an inspiration to appreciate Divine goodness, a desire to use those blessings to develop ever increasing benefits for humanity.

So, in our observance of Public School Week it's a good idea to place first things first, the spiritual values which concern our relationship with God and fellow man. With this kind of mental orientation we can rest assured that material values will fit in their proper place, helping us to attain the security and prosperity we are so anxiously groping for.

Something else worth considering in connection with Public School Week is the wailing heard ever since Sputnik about the inferiority of American educational standards. We are told how much more the Russian youngsters learn, but we don't hear the whole story... about the small percentage of Russia's scholastic elite and the pressures and inducements applied to those students. Nor do we hear boasting about the level of education reached by the youngsters who fail to get into scholastic upper brackets.

Despite the hullabaloo about Soviet scholastic excellence we have abundant evidence that the average Russian is not the equal of the average American. When he falls out of the select group he becomes only one of the masses, saddled with the burden of supporting the favored few who go on striving to become supermen.

In this country, thank God, we are permitted to follow our personal ambitions. The young man with a desire and ability for science or mathematics is free to carry on. Others are equally free to develop knowledge and skill in other lines. And all have the satisfaction of working strictly for themselves. They are not captives of the state, constantly haunted by the thought that the fruits of their achievements will be claimed by a greedy and unscrupulous government. While admitting that many improvements could be made in our educational system, there is reason to believe that the average American is superior to the average Soviet... not inferior, as the alarmists have been preaching.

This is not claiming that there are no bugs in our educational system. Unfortunately there are plenty of them, practically all of which can be traced to communism. From congressional committees on un-American activities we have been warned repeatedly through the years of subversive elements that have infiltrated high schools and colleges. They and their text books have sabotaged American education. They have advanced

RING WITH A DIFFERENCE—"Unique" is how Mrs. John Quincy Wolf, of Memphis, Tenn., describes her set of singing glasses. Unlike glasses that must be filled with water to varying depths before being played, her tuneful tumblers are played dry. Mrs. Wolf states that it took her 10 years to assemble the chromatically matched set of glass and ceramic pieces, which she plays with two small, wooden mallets.

Diocesan Men to Hear UN President Sunday at Dallas

Catholic men of the Dallas-Fort Worth diocese will hear Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, president of the UN General Assembly, speak during the weekend convention of the Holy Name Society in Dallas.

One of the features of the three-day convention will be the annual general assembly of the Dallas-Fort Worth Council of Catholic Men. It will be held Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Delegates and members from the parish Saint Joseph's Society have made arrangements to attend.

High points in addition to Dr. Malik's address will be talks by Father James McQuade of St. Louis, famous TV priest, and Dale Francis of Austin, columnist of Our Sunday Visitor, who recently returned from strife-torn Cuba. Seventeen workshops have been arranged. A pontifical mass by Bishop Thomas K. Gorman and sermon by Archbishop Robert E. Lucy of San Antonio will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday.

About 300 Persons Attend Open House At New Cain Home

About 300 persons last Sunday came, saw and admired the bright and spacious new home of the Dick Cains a half mile west of town on Highway 82.

Dozens more have since advised that they would have come but thought the open house had been postponed because of bad weather. The community-wide invitation had said the date would be a week later in case of rain, but the weather was about half and half. Not rainy but cloudy with intervals of mist, and many assumed the event had been called off. For them and any others who wish to come the Cains will have another open house next Sunday.

The house is cuddled in a wooded area some 50 yards from the highway and is reached by a gravel driveway winding across a brook and half way around to a double garage at the back, then continues around to completely encircle the house. In the surrounding woodland landscaping work is off to a good start. Underbrush and undesirable trees have been cleared away leaving a good assortment of native trees, including redbuds.

Outstanding features of the house are its abundant space... just under 3000 square feet... convenient arrangement, numerous built ins, beautiful view and year round air conditioning. It was built by local labor under direction of Shamburger Lumber Co. Floor coverings and draperies were furnished by Newland Furniture Co. of Gainesville.

Entering a double door from the front a person finds the house divided into two areas, bedrooms and baths to the left and living room, den, kitchen

Third Order Plans Regional Institute At Murray Lodge

A rare treat is in store for order of St. Francis early in October when the Regional Third Order Institute will be held a convenient distance from here.

Father Elias Koppert of Chicago, conducting a Triduum for the society here this week, took time out Tuesday to drive to Lake Murray Lodge and make preliminary arrangements for the event on October 2-3-4. He made reservations for 275 persons and also received the lodge's assurance that more reservations can be secured later if they are needed.

Included in the region is a large area in the states of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Missouri. All members living in this area and any others interested in the Third Order are invited to attend.

Bishop Reed of Oklahoma City is one of the Church dignitaries scheduled to appear on the Institute program.

Endres Declines to Seek Re-election; Meurer Announces

Mayor Urban Endres will not be a candidate for re-election in the coming city election.

Announcing his decision Wednesday, he explained that after serving six years in his present position and four years prior to that as an alderman he prefers to drop the extra work and responsibility and give his full attention to his business.

Seeking his place on the council will be Herbert Meurer, who has served many years as an alderman. He agreed to place his name on the ticket after several persons, including Endres, urged him to become a candidate.

Others who also agreed to offer their services on the council are Rudy Hellman and John Fisher. Both have announced their candidacy for re-election to the positions they hold now.

The three announcements leave one office still awaiting a candidate. That is the position being vacated by Meurer to announce for mayor.

Any others who wish to get their names on the ballot have just one more week to do so. The 30 day deadline for announcing will expire next Thursday, March 5. Announcements are to be submitted to City Secretary Anthony Luke.

Arlington College Coach Will Talk at All Awards Dinner

Scholastic as well as extra-curricular achievements will be recognized this year at Muenster High School's all awards banquet. According to Mrs. David Trachta, PTA president, the event will honor outstanding students along with athletes and band members.

The guest speaker will be Coach "Chena" Gilstrap of Arlington State College and the master of ceremonies will be Billy Otto.

Date for the event has been set for Saturday night, March 14, at 7:30 o'clock in the Muenster High lunch room.

Damaged Freight Store Opens Soon

Another business firm will be in operation in Muenster in the near future. It is a damaged freight and bankrupt merchandise store now being set up in the location recently occupied by Appliance Sales & Service.

Owners of the business are George and Johnny Bugg, brothers, who operate the B&B Sales of Gainesville. They intend to open it as soon as they can move in an adequate stock, probably next week.

Offered in the store is a wide variety of merchandise including groceries, furniture, appliances, plumbing, building materials, hardware... actually any item that might be found in a bankrupt stock or a damaged shipment. The Bugg brothers buy those things at salvage prices and offer them at below the usual retail prices in their store.

The plan of the two brothers is to be in charge of the store personally while it is being organized and turn it over as soon thereafter as possible to a local manager. Up to Wednesday afternoon they had not decided who to put in charge.

Plan is Complete For Observance of Public School Week

Nine persons for sure, and very likely several more will sample the teaching profession here next Thursday as one of the features of the local observance of Texas Public School Week.

Superintendent L. B. Bruns disclosed Wednesday that nine persons have volunteered to serve as special teachers of the day. The idea was proposed by faculty members in order to let visitors learn first hand what goes on in a classroom and also to give students the benefit of the temporary teacher's experience.

Response to the suggestion has been very pleasing, Bruns said, however he is hoping for several more volunteers, enough to complete the day's teaching schedule by assigning one class to each guest teacher. If volunteers fall short Bruns expects to send a number of invitations also.

While relieved of their regular duty teachers will serve as official guides for visitors to the school. Next Thursday is also the preferred visiting day. While people are urged to come any time of the week, school officials especially encourage them to come on Thursday, when they expect to be better able to entertain. Besides having guides available they have arranged for visitors to have lunch with the students. Lunch tickets will cost 35 cents.

Also scheduled as a special feature for Public School Week is Friday night's open house in which classes will have displays of their work and demonstrations of their methods.

Forty Report for Baseball Practice At Sacred Heart

A crowd of about 40 youngsters, headed by five of last year's regulars, responded to the first call Monday afternoon for baseball practice at Sacred Heart High School.

With chilly weather hanging on Coach George Petrus has had only light workouts and little opportunity to become acquainted with his boys' abilities. However he is depending on his lettermen, Tim Wimmer, Joe Streng, Leon Fleitman, Pat Hess

Death Wednesday Ends Long Illness Of E. S. Lawson, 68

E. S. Lawson, 68, for many years active in the affairs of the Muenster Baptist Church and in civic enterprises here, died at 5:30 Wednesday morning at M&S Hospital. He had lived in Gainesville since leaving Muenster in October 1957 when failing health caused by a heart ailment forced him to retire. For many years he was an oil lease foreman for L. S. Dennis of Grady, Okla., in charge of several producing leases south of town.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church here Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and burial followed in Mountain Park Cemetery at Saint Jo. Officiating ministers were Rev. Virgil Cowgar, local pastor, Rev. C. M. Thomas and Rev. O. B. Hutson of Gainesville.

Scott Bros. Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements and J. A. Travis, Earl Cole, A. T. Tuggle, J. W. Morrison, Don Cooke and Herman Carlton were bearers. Mr. Lawson's body was at the funeral home until time for the last rites here.

Awards Given for FFA Achievement At Annual Banquet

"If you expect to leave your footprints on the sands of time you'd better wear your work shoes." That was the advice given by Superintendent Homsley Monday night in addressing Muenster members of Future Farmers of America at their annual parent-son banquet.

Homsley substituted on the program for Representative Tony Fenoglio of Montague, who advised the day before that he was suddenly called back to Austin on official state business. Besides praising the FFA boys on their projects and team achievements Homsley took the occasion to thank local friends for favors and courtesies during his five years as superintendent. His resignation as Muenster school head becomes effective March 1.

Homsley was also on the program as receiving the chapter's special award this year. The handsome FFA bronze paper weight was described as combination award for years of help and a parting gift.

Others receiving awards for special services to the chapter are J. B. Wilde, Ray Wilde and Dr. G. S. Yeargan. All received Honorary Chapter Farmer degrees.

Leading the list of boys who received awards was Doug Hellman. In recognition of his out-

State FB Director Asks Farmers and Stockmen to Unite

"Farmers and livestock men in Cooke County, as well as in Texas and the nation, are faced with tough legislative problems that can be solved only through united action," Millard Shivers of Waco, Farm Bureau's state director of organization, stated as he addressed the group at the membership kick-off dinner in the Muenster public school lunchroom last Thursday night.

Shivers urged all farmers and ranchers in the county to join the Farm Bureau to make "agricultures' voice" stronger in local affairs, in Austin and in Washington.

The state agricultural leader said there are several vital issues currently before the 56th Legislature and that strong united action by all Texas farmers and ranchers is needed to protect and promote agriculture's interest.

Outstanding among those issues are: possible curtailment of the present farm-to-market road building program, danger of losing one-fourth of tractor gasoline refund, pressing need for animal disease control measures, battle for adequate funds for expanded agricultural research and education program, and the protection of agriculture's interest in the field of taxation.

Some of the principal issues confronting agriculture in Congress are: compensatory payment schemes which would "level off" incomes of agricultural producers and place farmers income at the mercy of Congress; monopoly power of labor which pushes up agricultural costs; state rights and taxes.

Attending the dinner were Farm Bureau members from the communities of Muenster, Gainesville, Lindsay, Myra, Era, Downard, Rosston, Sivelis Bend and Marysville.

Membership workers will make their first report on Monday, March 2, at a special meeting of directors and committeemen at the Farm Bureau office. The meeting will be open and any person interested in the future of agriculture will be welcome.

Neu of Lindsay and has a great-grandmother, Mrs. Joe Neu in California.

It's a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pels. She arrived at Muenster Clinic 10:05 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 24, weighing eight pounds four ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Pels have five girls and four boys now and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pels have another grandchild.

St. Joseph Society - - -

Father Christopher spoke of the merits of the Catholic State League which voices opinions on important issues locally, and on a state and national basis.

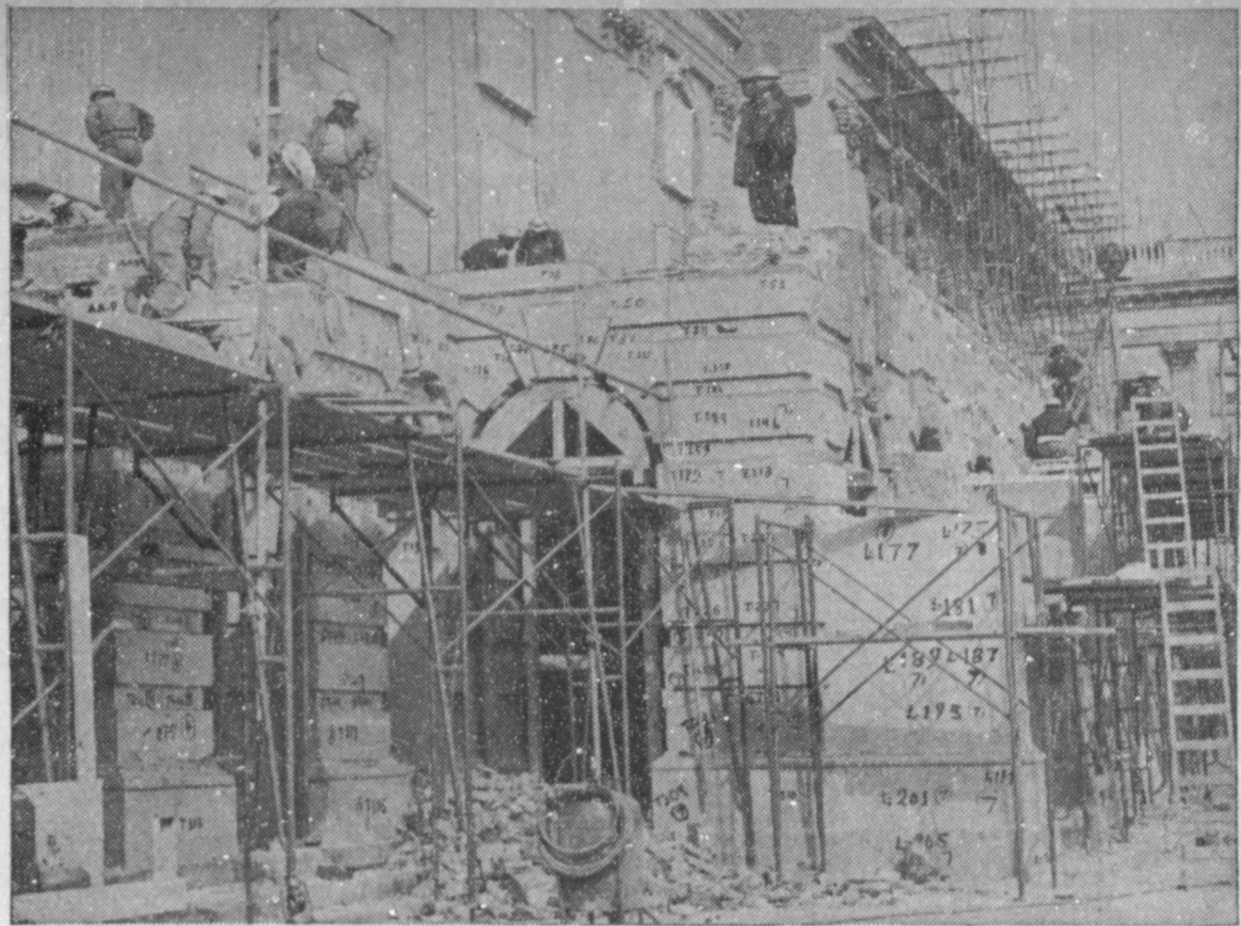

Another discussion concerned the convention of the National Council of Catholic Men to be held in Dallas this weekend. Delegates from St. Joseph's Society will be Ed Endres, Herbert McDaniel and Ralph Donnell Jr. Other members will attend.

In still another discussion, members decided to start work on new bleachers for the Tiger football field. Gary Hess, Walter Grewing and Herbert McDaniel head the committee to secure materials.

After business, ladies joined the men for a social hour and refreshments. About 150 were present.

If you have bottom land subject to flooding, consider planting sorghum. Indiana flood victims report that sorghum survives overflow which kills corn and soybeans. Purdue agronomists found that sorghum submerged in standing water lived nearly four weeks before showing ill effects. Completely submerged corn was killed in four days.

Too bad folks don't show as much patience all the time as they do when waiting for a fish to bite.

BIG BOYS' BUILDING BLOCKS — Covered since about 1822, arches once a useful part of the nation's Capitol are revealed during extension of the east front of the building. They had been hidden by a stair well. Each block of stone has been numbered according to a master plan. Arches may be set up elsewhere some time in the future, perhaps as a historical monument.

Use of Limestone Brings Big Return, Soil Chemist Says

College Station — There is probably no other soil improvement practice that will return more profit per acre and per dollar invested than applying limestone in areas where it is needed, says Bill Bennett, extension soil chemist.

"Limestone should be the first investment in a soil fertility program," Bennett said. "Lime deficiency results in a loss through decreased production and inefficient fertilizer use."

He pointed out that soil test summaries made by Texas A&M College revealed that over 75 percent of East Texas soils tested were less than pH 6.5. Soils with a level of less than 6.5 generally need limestone for good plant growth.

"Lime performs several functions in the soil," Bennett explained. "It supplies calcium for plant use, reduces soil acidity, increases desirable bacterial activity and makes other plant nutrients more available. All of this means a more profitable crop yield and this is the important thing to the farmer."

Bennett advises getting a soil test and using it as a basis for limestone application because this is the only way to accurately determine requirements. Your local county agent can provide advice and assistance in taking a sample and submitting it for testing.

The best way to develop your reputation is to develop your conscience.

While trying to solve a plumbing problem at his home, a physician was interrupted by a phone call. Could the doctor come right over to see the man's sick wife?

The physician explained that the caller had caught him with his pipes down.

"Well, I'm a plumber," the other fellow said. "You come and fix my wife and I'll go to your house and fix the plumbing."

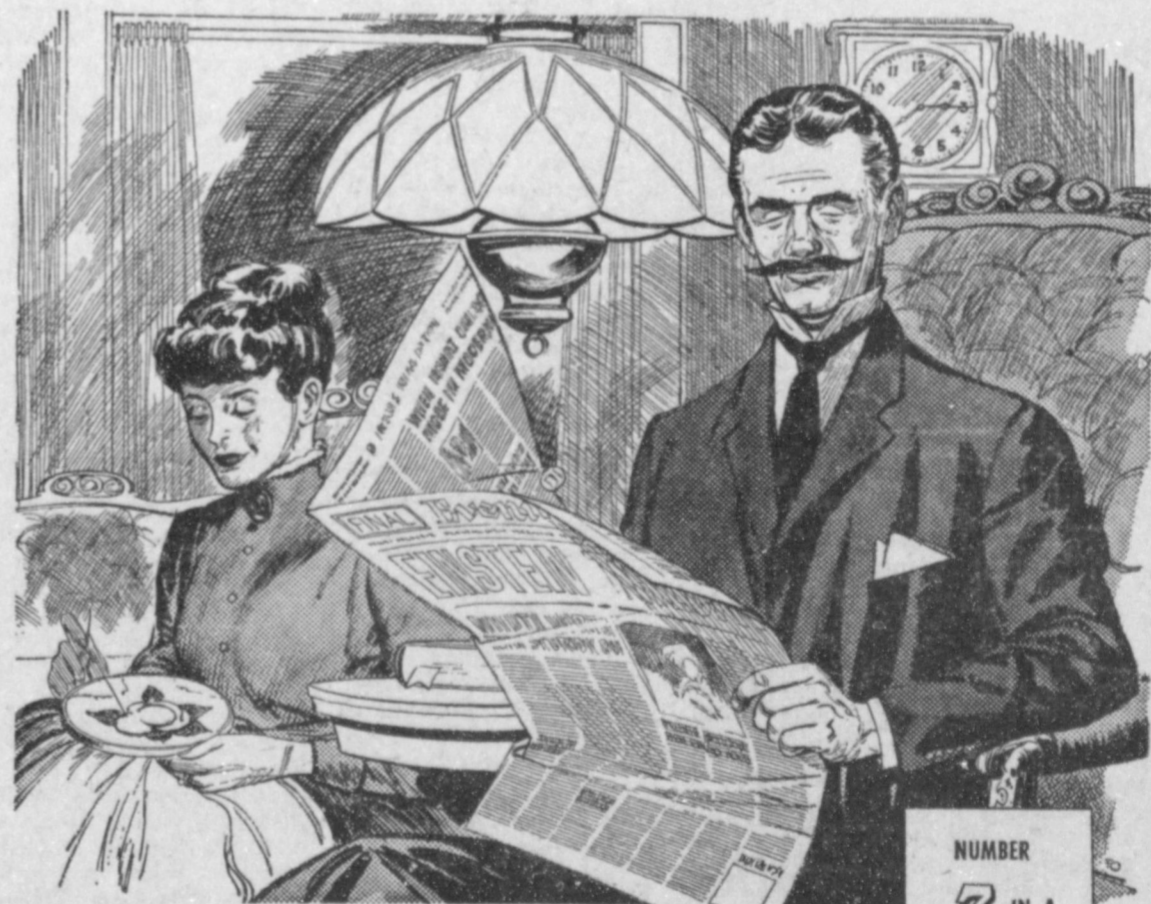

The deal was closed. It worked fine until the end of the month. The doctor's bill was $5; the plumber's $10.

WHEN WILL ATOMIC ENERGY MAKE YOUR ELECTRICITY?

Back in 1905 (23 years after Edison developed the first power plant) newspapers carried Dr. Albert Einstein's announcement to the world of his startling discovery that all matter is concentrated energy. Thirty-four years later man learned to split the atom and in 1945 energy of the atom was used destructively in the first atomic bomb. Today's scientists and technicians are trying to find ways to use this new source of energy for peaceful progress... including the making of electricity.

TP&L and 10 other electric companies in Texas comprise the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to research regarding the use of atomic energy.

In addition to participation in the joint effort in thermonuclear research, Texas Power & Light Company employs a full-time nuclear research scientist.

It's a long range program, of course... especially in Texas where natural gas and other fuels are plentiful.

This Company is constantly planning ahead... to assure you ample electric service at all times, and to keep your cost of that service low. Since 1936 the cost of living has gone up 108%, yet the average price paid per kilowatt-hour for TP&L residential electricity has gone down 43%. It's truly the biggest bargain in your family budget!

Mission Chairman Readies Clothing To Help Orphanage

Clothes sorting and packing is being done this week by Mrs. Joe Swirczynski, local mission chairman, who is readying a big assortment of things for a Colored orphanage in Fort Worth.

Her recent appeal for clothing and household items brought in a load of contributions. The response was wonderful, Mrs. Swirczynski said. And wonderful, too, is Mrs. Swirczynski's work, according to those who saw her so busily engaged in this mission activity when they delivered their donations to her. One room of the Swirczynski home has simply been turned over to the mission project as a storeroom. It looks like headquarters for a rummage sale and a variety store combined.

Boy Scouts Make Weekend Camp-out

Muenster's troop of 22 Boy Scouts and Scoutmaster Nick Miller spent Saturday night and Sunday on a camp-out and cook-out at Ben Voth's. Hiking there and back was part of the adventure.

Several boys passed out-door tests and others worked toward advancement. And some passed the mile test. The boys were priming for a board of review to be held soon.

Sunday the troop had two guests, Dwayne Pagel and Mike Hennigan. Scout committeemen visiting the campsite were Maurice Pagel, Pat Hennigan and John Mosman.

Washington's birthday anniversary was the ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Ada Walker and it brought a house-full of relatives and friends over for bedside visits. Thirty-two stopped in. They presented the honoree birthday cakes, flowers and other gifts. And the mail brought a shower of greeting cards. Mrs. Walker just beamed. She is so proud of her many friends and says they are so good to remember her on her birthday. She loves company.

Mrs. Walker has lived in Cooke County 68 years coming here from Tennessee with her late husband, C. S. Walker. The former Miss Ada Pack, she was a bride at 17. The couple settled near Fish Creek on "Uncle Bob Burns' place" and made their first crop. Then they moved to Sivells Bend and lived on Captain Gunter's place for seven years. From there to Frogbottom on W. O. Davis' land east of Sivells Bend, then to her present home on a nice little hill in the middle of 75 acres.

Mrs. Walker's husband died in 1949 and her son J. D. (Jim) Walker, has taken care of her ever since. She has been a shut-in for the past several years. Both are members of the Shiloh Baptist Church and Mrs. Walker is the oldest living member. She attended regularly as long as her health permitted. Her son has been a deacon in the church for 30 years.

One of a family of six girls, Mrs. Walker is the mother of three sons, two of them living. Jim at home and B. A. in Fort Worth. She has six grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. Spending Sunday with Mrs. Walker and her son were the B. A. Walkers and daughter of Fort Worth, Mrs. A. W. Carley and two daughters of Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Luttmer and three daughters of Valley View, and Mrs. and Mrs. B. E. Duns-worth and five children of Burleson.

Friends calling were Rev. and Mrs. Jack Horner of Denison — he's pastor of the Shiloh church — and Rev. and Mrs. M. D. Bishop of Denton — he's pastor of the Methodist Church — and these friends and neighbors from the Bulcher-Marysville area: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robison and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Whitt, Mrs. Rafe McElreath and Becky, W. B. Whitt and daughter Linda, Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Luster, Dexter Dennis and Linda Ann Dennis.

3 Share Honors at Schoolmates Party

The three decorated cakes were brought by Mrs. Jesse Sanner, Mrs. Bob Tuggle and Mrs. Ernest McElreath. The young people enjoyed games and dancing to recordings in the study hall.

7 Local Girls Win In County 4-H Show 1 Goes to District

Seven 4-H Club girls from Sacred Heart School's three 4-H groups entered six demonstrations in the Dairy Foods Show at Gainesville and all won ribbons on their entries. And Charlotte Wolf, junior 4-H clubber, was selected to represent Cooke County in the District Dairy Foods Show in Denton April 25. She'll demonstrate the cheese dip which won her a blue ribbon in the county show.

Another blue ribbon winner from Muenster was Patsy Endress of the senior club who made a dessert, Pink Cloud 45, so called because it contains only 45 calories in each generous serving. The other senior entry was Kathleen McGannon whose lemon cheese cake was a red ribbon winner.

Two intermediate club entries won red ribbons. Kathy Trubenbach prepared a wagon wheel, peaches and cottage cheese, salad, and Rita Fisher and Virginia Taylor, working together, demonstrated a dip made of sour cream and onion soup. The other entry from the Sacred Heart junior club was Rita Trubenbach. She received a red ribbon award on her banana milk shake.

The dairy foods show featured 20 demonstrations from club girls all over the county and competition was keen. Mrs. Al Koriath and Mrs. Vernon Austin were judges. Arrangements were made by Yvonne Jenkins assistant home demonstration agent.

Present for the demonstrations in Gainesville Saturday morning were Mrs. Paul Endres, Mrs. Edd McGannon and Mrs. Paul Fisher. Mrs. Jenkins expressed her appreciation to the adult 4-H leaders and parents who conducted dairy foods workshops in their communities and encouraged the girls to participate in the event.

KEEPING AHEAD OF THE REDS

The experts are disagreed as to whether or not we are ahead of Russia in the guided missile race. Therefore it is good to know that we definitely are ahead in the production of steel and continue to widen the gap.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reports that between 1955 and 1958, the U.S.A. increased steel capacity by nearly 14.9 million net tons, while Russia added 10.3 million tons.

Even more encouraging: the free world added 53.8 million net tons between 1955 and 1958, while Russia and its satellites added only 19.8 million tons. Deducting the 14.9 million ton increase shown by the U.S.A. during this period, we find that the nations of the free world increased their aggregate steel making capacity by nearly 38.9 million tons. This contrasts with about 9.5 million tons added by all the countries under Russian domination.

These statistics are based on reports made by United Nations. Since that organization released these steel capacity figures last in 1958, both Russia and China have announced major steel industry expansion programs. But we are betting that when the 1959 steel-making capacity figures are made available, the United States and its friends of the free world, will have shown a greater increase than the gain made by Russia and the nations it controls.

Yes, there's a lot of warm comfort for us in these cold steel statistics.

LABOR AND TAXES

Once more, the AFL-CIO is boosting what it calls "tax reform." Naturally, it is not recommending any change on the tax free status of its own millions of dollars in income. Rather, it is demanding that Uncle Sam soak the corporations harder and raise rates on individuals in the higher income brackets.

Maybe it is not known too generally, but corporations at present pay an income tax of 52 percent of their earnings above $25,000, which leaves only 48 percent for their stockholders. But that is not all. When that less-than-half net is distributed to the stockholders in dividends, the revenue department takes another bite, which ranges anywhere between 20 and 90 percent.

This gives cause for wonder as to just how much more of their earnings corporations could turn over to the government without wholly destroying the incentive system of this country? And, if corporate business were to be crippled by added excessive taxation, who would provide the jobs at the world's highest wages, for the world's shortest work week, to the members of the American labor unions? Who?

According to the AFL-CIO economics and taxation committees, the tax on moderate incomes is too high. That we'll agree with, and go further. All taxes are too high, period! Today the average American works about one day out of three to pay all of the taxes . . . local, state and federal, with which he is burdened. In view of which, we'd think the officials of labor unions would do best by their members' interests through joining in a crusade for government economy and savings all around. This we aren't optimistic over; but it's a good idea, anyway, and labor economists could at least give it a thought.

"THE TOTAL SELLING MEDIUM"

How valuable is newspaper advertising to the retail merchant?

Here's what the president of a Montana department store has to say: "If I were suddenly restricted to one and only one advertising medium, I would board up the display windows, discontinue all interior and departmental selling displays, eliminate all informative show cards, discontinue all sales meetings and sales incentives, stop all telephone selling — and continue an aggressive business-building advertising investment in the newspapers."

This merchant also terms newspapers "total selling medium." What advertiser could ask for more?

"AMEN"

The publication "Food Marketing in New England," issued by First National Stores, Somerville, Mass., says: "An infallible guide to the acquiring of a greater respect for the farmer is to try to become one."

It then quotes Michael Fitzmaurice, a TV narrator who has 600 acres in Vermont, mostly in timber but with a sizeable piece in potatoes which have done well in quantity and quality, as follows: "Farming, to me, is the most exciting, tantalizing, exasperating and rewarding occupation possible. I am relatively new at it, but am reading and studying everything I can lay my hands on. And the more I study and learn, the greater grows my admiration and respect for a successful farmer."

Many an amateur who has sought to make land pay can say "Amen" to that statement.

If you wish to be perfect, follow the advice that you give others.

A recent issue of the Congressional Record lists 2,322 farming firms or individual farmers who received $10,000 or more in 1957 for not planting crops on land they put into the government's acreage reserve program. Top single payment was $332,000.

Pause For Reflection

with James C. Ingebretnsen, President, Spiritual Mobilization ON GIVING MORE TIME TO GREATNESS

An advertisement raises this commanding question: "Can't you afford to spend forty-five minutes in the presence of greatness?" It was an ad directing attention to an article about Lincoln. It could just as well have been Washington, Jefferson, Milton, Shakespeare, Socrates, or Christ.

But the question assumes another: "How can we afford to spend as much time as we do in the presence of mediocrity?" Consider the pattern: Billions for alcohol and aspirin; a pittance for aspiration! A flood of rock-and-roll; a trickle of religion! An avalanche of comforts; a pebble of consecration! A thunder of things; a whisper of thought!

Someone said once, "Next to the capacity for being great is the capacity to appreciate greatness." But today we call a thing "great" if it is triviality magnified by popularity, insipidity endorsed by celebrity, mediocrity enjoyed by a multitude. A lot of the little is mistaken for a little of a lot.

The measure of a man is that to which he gives his attention. The same is true of a civilization. Rome declined and fell when it made sport of the significant and attached too much significance to making sport.

Is the same thing happening in America? Is our nation's greatness descending into grossness? How can we afford NOT to spend more time in the presence of greatness!

Does Human Respect Run Your Life?

by Wilfred Brimley, editor of the Paulist Feature Service

Recently on Route 138 a car plunged across the center strip and smashed headlong into a '56 Buick carrying a family of six. Result? Four dead, two seriously injured. The police blotter noted: cause of accident—drunken driving. It should have read: cause of accident—human respect.

HOW, you ask, could human respect be responsible for so great a loss of life and property damage? The answer is quite simple. Two hours before the accident the driver responsible for the wreck was a sober man. But while attending a party given by some friends he refused liquor saying he was driving. The jeers and taunts that followed were too much for him. Feeling compelled to save his reputation as a regular fellow, he drank four or five highballs. Human respect proved to be his downfall.

Actually human respect can help us enormously when we give consideration to the opinions and evaluations which good and sound-thinking people have of us. But the kind of human respect we are dealing with here is the bad habit of being more concerned over what people think about us than with keeping God's commandments. Instead of trying to lead a good life according to God's teachings, we ignore what He has to say and strive for popular approval. As a result, we drift into sin.

SOCIAL GATHERINGS are the most likely stamping grounds for the malady of human respect: the man who won't speak up when a rotten story is being told; the woman who plunges her family into debt because she wants the latest in everything to keep up with the neighbors; the teenagers who race recklessly down the highway in their cars because they don't want to be called "chicken." Human respect even extends to staying away from Church because some people don't want to be considered pious.

In war, the men who turn and flee from the enemy are labelled weaklings; those who stand up to the enemy when the odds are toughest are recognized as heroes. In daily life, the people who bow to human respect are the weaklings because they let themselves be led around by the nose; those who stand up for what is right are the real heroes because they live and act according to the truth regardless of what others may think.

HUMAN RESPECT is a deadly vice because it leads us away from God and everlasting happiness. To be a popular guy, the life of the party, a regular Joe often demands a steep price. We may win temporary acceptance with our friends, but how do we stand with our Creator?

There is only one path to eternal happiness. Will we live and abide by the never changing teachings of Christ? Or are we willing to fall before the onslaught of human whims and settle for mere temporary popular acclaim? The decision rests with us!

Characteristics Of an American

(Waseca (Minn.) Herald)

On this day when Americans are supposed to be expressing preferences at the polls — exercising their franchise, as it were — we were interested in a resume of some of the characteristics of Americans as set forth in a trade publication. We believe you will be also:

An American is the only man in the world who will pay 50 cents to park his car to buy a 30-cent sandwich.

He yells murder because we spend a billion on education, then goes out and spends $3 billion on cigarets.

He curses his government, then gets mad if some "foreigner" does it.

An American is a person who runs himself down trying to keep his earning power up to his yearning power.

He yells for speed laws and won't buy a car unless it can do 100 miles an hour.

An American knows the lineup of baseball teams and about half the words of the Star Spangled Banner.

He works hard on the farm so he can make money to move to town to make more money so he can move back to the farm.

He will spend hours looking for pills to make him live longer, then drive 90 miles an hour to make up for the time he lost.

An American has more food to eat than a man of any other country, and more diets to keep him from eating it.

He whips an enemy nation, and then gives it the shirt off his back.

An American expects hotel service at home, and then gets mad if he doesn't get the comforts of home at a hotel.

An American is mighty nice folks and he's lucky to be an American.

What to Do About Unordered Items

Suppose the mailman delivers to you a package containing a necktie, a book, key-ring tags or a phonograph record that you didn't order. Either with it, or by later mail, is a bill or request to remit the price.

Do you know your obligations, assuming you don't want the merchandise? Must you return it? Can you use it and not pay for it? Must you keep it, or can you throw it away?

Generally speaking, recipients of unordered merchandise are under no obligation (a) to return it; (b) to acknowledge its receipt; (c) to pay for it unless used; (d) to give it particular care, or (e) to keep it beyond a reasonable time.

You are obligated to surrender the merchandise if called for in person by the shipper or his agent within a reasonable time. But you can demand storage charges before surrendering the item. If you mail it back at your own expense, you very likely stay on the sender's mailing list and will receive other shipments in the future.

There are no postal regulations governing unordered merchandise, except where fraud is involved.

Congress is working on legislation that will cover the situation. However, if you know what is in the envelope or package, you can write "Refused" across the face of the piece of mail and hand it back unopened to the mailman. No further explanation is required. You don't have to accept any class of mail. Further, your refusal probably will result in the sender having to pay return postage.

A ruling by the Federal Trade Commission holds it a violation of the Federal Trade Act for a sender of unordered merchandise to claim that "The receiver is under obligation . . . to pay for or return the merchandise." Hence, if you don't use the merchandise, you are within your rights in refusing to pay for it.

If another person's mail is improperly delivered to you, do not open it, as such action might make you liable to severe legal penalties. Such mail should promptly be re-deposited in a postal box with an appropriate notation thereon, such as the proper address or "not 14 South Brown Street," showing the address to which the mail had been delivered.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

In between snows, the district-owned Bermuda grass sprig planter has been busily shoring up defense against the ravages of soil erosion.

Landowners cooperating with the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District to stop soil and water losses have been planting waterway strips and other field areas to Bermuda grass roots. The grassed waterway strips are being planted to provide safe places to outlet terrace water. Other land is being planted to grass to prevent soil and water losses. These grass plantings will also provide good pasture for livestock.

Herman Zimmerer has sodded two waterway strips to Bermuda grass on the farm he operates for Dangelmayr Brothers seven miles northeast of Muenster. These waterway strips follow natural drains and will serve as pasture as well as safe disposal areas for terrace water. Herman also planted another 10 acres of field area to Bermuda grass for pasture.

Al Walter sodded a waterway strip along a drainage way on the Frank Needham farm north of Muenster and Charlie Fisher planted Bermuda grass roots on a waterway and some pasture land on his farm south of Muenster.

Andy Wimmer has planted 15 acres of old field area to Bermuda grass and Tony Walterscheid, Ed Knauf and Leo Hesse have each planted field areas to grass to prevent soil and water loss and to give additional pasture lands.

Oliver Reed used the district-owned grass seed drill to plant a mixture of Little Bluestem and Side oats Grama grasses on a 25 acre field on the J. N. Coursey farm. The field is being planted to grasses because rocks made it unsuitable for cultivation. The field will be added to the pasture after the grasses are well established.

All these grass plantings are practices that were planned by the landowner with the assistance of a Soil Conservation Service technician. The planned soil, water and plant conservation practices are designed to use the land for the crop to which it is best suited and to treat each acre according to its needs for protection and improvement.

A Nap and a Nip For Businessmen

If a businessman starts his day with a glass of half orange juice and half hot water, the chances are he is a patient of Dr. Sara Jordon, famous Boston woman physician known as the "patron saint of the ulcer-afflicted." She prescribes it.

A Reader's Digest article, "First Lady of the Laney Clinic," Eleanor Harris tells how Dr. Jordan, 74, has treated prime ministers, senators, actors and famous patients from all over the world. Some of her maxims for good health are quoted.

"Every businessman over 50," says Dr. Jordon, "should have a daily nap and nip—a short nap after lunch, and a relaxing highball before dinner . . . A relaxed attitude is imperative for good health; quit being a heller and become a what-the-heller . . . Tranquility of mind is essential to physical happiness."

Home-School Group Joins in Discussion Of Current Topics

Sacred Heart Home-School Society, meeting Tuesday night, conducted routine business, heard talks on Vocation Month, and had a round table discussion on questions proposed for better home-school cooperation and teacher-student-parent relationship.

Father Christopher's talk was on vocations and Father Bruno's comments were on the subject. March is designated as Vocation Month in the diocese.

Sister Celine urged parents to encourage their children to do their required home work, especially their reading study. This is important, she said, explaining that home work is a part of scholastic requirement which cannot be done completely in the classroom.

Paul Fisher, 4-H Club leader, thanked teachers for helping make the recent tractor maintenance course at Gainesville such a success. Forty boys from Sacred Heart School's clubs attended.

Preceding the business session conducted by President Charles Taylor, 4-H Club boys and girls appeared in a short musical program. Eight junior club boys presented a vocal and instrumental number with Roy Hartman at the piano and senior club girls sang with Carol Henschel playing the piano accompaniment.

Prescher Herd Is Double Winner in DHIA for January

Peter Prescher's herd was a double winner for the second consecutive month, leading in both butterfat and milk production among Cooke County DHIA herds for January according to that month's summary. Prescher's cows chalked up averages of 46 and 1,250 pounds.

Next highest in butterfat production were the Hi-Lo Farms and the H. H. Moody and Ben Davis herds, all with 41 pound averages. Number two in milk production was the J. L. Masten herd, and in third spot was the Davis herd.

In statewide averages, current only through December, Cooke County stayed in the number two position in milk production, but slipped to third among the 27 associations reporting in butterfat.

Mary Pick of Fort Worth spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pick.

Claude Walter and a college friend from Southwestern College at Weatherford, Okla., were weekend visitors with Claude's parents, the Al Walters.

Inflation Demands Fines for Drunks at the Union Scale

A man breaks the law and is hauled into court. The judge hears the evidence, contemplates the culprit through his bifocals and declares him guilty. "Ten dollars," roars the judge, splinting his gavel, "or ten days!"

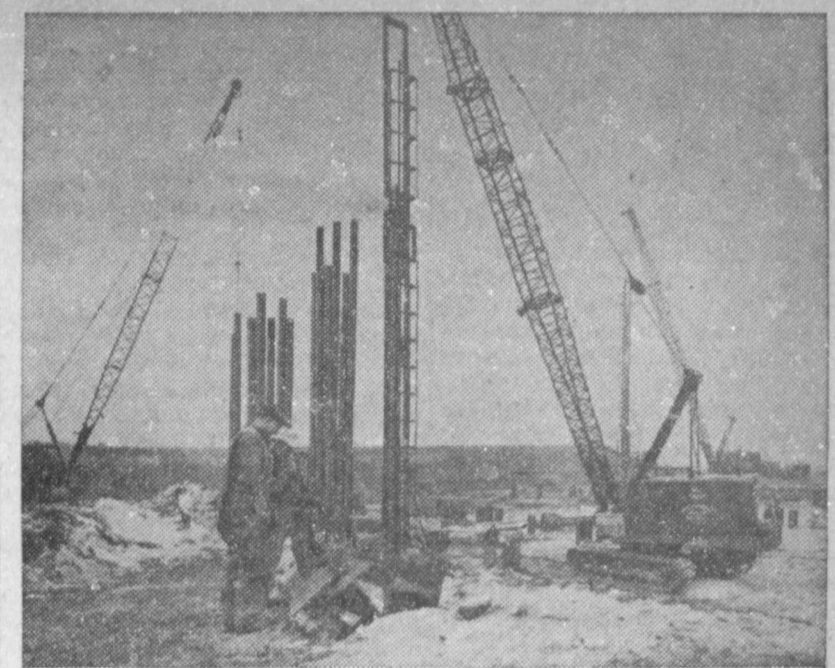

Where has the judge been? Doesn't he know that a dollar long since ceased to be the equivalent of any man's working day?

This dollar-a-day law made sense back when it was drawn up, back when a dollar was the approximate daily pay of hundreds of thousands of the nation's workers for the intent in fining a lawbreaker is, of course, to make him pay for his crime. That's why his punishment is first expressed in terms of the coin of the realm. "Ten dollars or ten days." But if he can't or won't fork over the cash, the law then requires that he sit idle in a cell long enough to forfeit, in lost wages, the amount of the imposed fine.

But how long is long enough? The man who once dug ditches all day for a dollar has a great-grandson who gets ten times as much for the same chore. The carpenter who shingled your mother's porch roof for twenty-five cents an hour would, in this year of grace, collect three dollars an hour for nailing those shingles. Lawyers charge more, doctors' fees have soared—nowadays everybody, skilled or unskilled, swaps his time for far more money than the old folks ever dreamed of asking.

Everybody, that is, except the wretch trembling at the bar. His time is still evaluated as if the man in the White House were Rutherford B. Hayes.

Two simple changes would instantly rectify this imbalance of the scales of justice: (a) The Judge should have at his elbow an official listing of all hourly-wage rates—the revised edition, of course. (b) Before swinging his gavel, he should always ask the condemned man what his occupation is. Then, for example: "A bricklayer, your honor."

BUILDING ON HOPE—Weather or no, Chicago wants to be ready, whether or not the Windy City is chosen as the site for the 1960 Republican National Convention. Workmen, above, step up construction on a new lakefront convention hall.

"Bricklayer, eh?" his honor murmurs, consults the list and does some quick figuring on a pad.

"Ten dollars," he intones, "or—let's see—two hours and thirty minutes . . . Next case, officer!"

—Saturday Evening Post.

For Outstanding Service . . .

In 1939, a hundred years after the invention of the self-rake reaper by Cyrus Hall McCormick, three of his children made possible the annual award of a gold medal in the name of their father. Selection was entrusted to the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. The award is given, not for a single item of engineering, but for the aggregate accomplishment of a career of service to agriculture.

The latest Cyrus McCormick medal has been awarded to Tom Carroll, a distinguished engineer connected with the Massey-Ferguson company, one of the leading producers of farm equipment. Mr. Carroll pioneered in the development of combines, working to improve and to perfect them over a long period of years. And the reason for the award is found in what the combine has meant to the farmer. According to Department of Agriculture figures which were issued a few years ago, only 20 to 22 per cent as many hours are required to raise a crop with a combine as with the old method of cutting, shocking, and threshing. The impact of this particular form of mechanization has been enormous. In the 1910-14 period, for instance, 15.2 man-hours were needed to harvest an acre of wheat—in the 1950-54 period this had dropped to 4.4.

This particular situation has a symbolic significance. What is true of the combine is true in essence of all the other mechanized aids to agriculture. They have made huge holes in the effort, labor and cost of farming. And they are the bulwark of the family farm.

SH Baseball . . . and Charles Bayer to hold down their old positions. Next in experience are Len Haverkamp, Leon Fuhrmann and Richard Zimmerer.

The first test for the Tigers is slated for Friday of next week when they take on the Knights of Lindsay.

To date the schedule has ten games, and more will be added if Coach Petrus can find opponents for his open dates. Teams to be played are Lindsay, Windthorst, and the three Southwest Academic League schools: Laneri, St. John's of Ennis and Waco Catholic High. In all cases the coaches concerned have agreed to the games but the dates for some still are not set.

You must speak up to be heard, but you have to shut up in order to be appreciated.

Lindsay Hobby Club Hears Two Reports

Seventh and eighth graders of Lindsay School are keeping interest high in their Hobby Club with educational — and amusing — stories on their favorite sports at regular meetings.

The February meeting brought reports by Doyle Voth and Jimmy Flusche. Doyle's hobby is 4-H club work and he spoke entertainingly of his projects, demonstrations and experiences, identified ribbons he has won on Fair entries and displayed his record book which contains an account of his projects and awards.

Jimmy told about building model ships which is his favorite pastime. He constructs them of plastic . . . showed two destroyers, one guided missile ship and one anti-aircraft carrier . . . has 11 models in his collection. Marcella Neu, president, conducted the meeting. Other officers are Billy Schmitz, secretary, and Donald Sandmann, treasurer. Larry Sandmann led the opening prayer and Tommy Zimmerer and Leon Neu were in charge of recreation after the program.

For next month's meeting Patsy Hermes and Nellie Hess will report on their hobbies. Larry Sandmann and Mary Ann Hermes will be recreational leaders and Patsy Hermes will be committee chairman for the program.

An Iowa farmer, on his first visit to the big city, stopped in a plush cocktail lounge and ordered a beer.

"How much beer do you sell a week?" he inquired.

"About 40 kegs," replied the bartender.

"I'll tell you how you can sell 80."

"Eighty kegs?" said the bartender, amazed. "How?" "Simple," answered the farmer. "Fill up the glasses."

and dining area to the right. The den is directly ahead and the living room to the right. Beyond the living room is the dining room adjoining the combined kitchen and breakfast room, which, also adjoins the den. Another side of the breakfast room opens to the utility room beyond which is the garage. This group of six rooms are connected either by wide openings or wide doorways with doors which disappear into the wall.

Also opening from the breakfast room, at the west end of the house, is the master bedroom and beyond a dressing room and bath. Featuring the bath are a wainscot of ceramic tile and sliding etched glass doors for shower and bathtub.

The den, measuring 17x28, features acoustical tile ceiling, a fireplace, indirect lighting and glass double doors overlooking a 1300 square foot patio and the wooded area beyond. Below the patio is a 16x16 basement opening to the garage.

To the left of the main entrance is a hall leading to three bedrooms, a bathroom and a half bath. The bathroom, like the other, has tile wainscot and sliding glass doors besides a long dressing table with two lavatories. All the rooms have large closets and generous built-in drawer space.

Almost throughout the walls consist of ash ripplewood paneling in natural finish. The kitchen is finished in smooth ash

Back From Korea

It was a happy reunion after a year of separation when Lt. C. C. Blanton and his wife Eva met at the Dallas Airport Thursday afternoon. He telephoned Thursday morning from California after his arrival there from Korea and told Eva which plane to meet. From Dallas the couple left in their car on a second honeymoon and will visit his family in Florida while he has a 30-day leave before reporting to Mineral Wells for a new assignment. Mrs. Blanton lived here with her parents, the Matt Mullers, while her husband was in Korea.

their crackpot theories, planting the seeds of socialism in young minds. They have sought to destroy patriotism by attacking our country's motives, by playing up the bad and playing down the good in our nation's history. They have glorified the communists, praised them as human benefactors and denied their shabby record of treachery and slavery. They have even gone so far as to preach atheism.

Only this week the state legislature received complaints about athletes in Texas colleges. Big wheels of the schools hastened to deny the report . . . but it is significant that the denials came within hours, obviously before investigations could be made. So, despite the denials, there is still a strong possibility that the reds are there. According to the men who have been most active in fighting communism through the years there is a strong probability that they are there.

Problems like these should be our greatest concern in relation to Public School Week. We need less emphasis on efforts to outdo the Russians in material sciences and more emphasis on enduring principles and ideals. After all, our best means of survival is simply to be better Americans. It's a cinch because communism is so pitifully inferior.

LARGEST—Atomic fury equal to the force of some 20,000 tons of TNT couldn't be contained 850 feet underground at the end of a 2,600-foot tunnel. It churned upward in this cloud of radioactive dust from the floor of the Nevada Desert in wake of the largest man-made underground explosion ever to be fired.
