Public School Will Open Next Monday; 6 Teachers on Staff

When it comes to designating a route for the farm to market road leading north out of town, we hope there will be less commotion than experienced by a neighboring town not so long ago. That controversy, as we recall it, provoked a certain amount of ill feeling, loud talk and ugly names. When our time comes to decide maybe we'll be lucky enough to pull through with a minimum of friction.

Until now there has been no division of opinion. But it's coming, you can bet on that — because a few people are now discussing the advantages of a route other than the one we have been taking for granted.

Ever since we first heard of the black top project we assumed it would follow the present road. North out of town, west about 7 of a mile, north again about 3 miles, then back east about 7 before going on north to the end of the 5.5 mile limit. The alternative route suggested is due north like a crow flies cutting off the unnecessary extra mileage west and extending the black top that much farther toward the north.

The suggested change ought to be popular with people at the end of the black top and farther north because it will bring them about a mile and a half nearer town. Likewise, people northeast of town, with a few short cross-roads, could link conveniently with the good road. But there are others who would be disappointed. And there's also the problem of a right-of-way cutting through people's land.

Weighing advantages against disadvantages we can readily see that the bee line route is the most practical and the benefits derived from it seem great enough to justify the change.

While Messrs. Taft and Dewey vie for top billing on next year's Republican ticket and a few others are training to qualify as race-worthy dark horses President Truman is careful to see that his party, and more specifically Harry himself, rates a small share of the pre-campaign political publicity. The Gentleman from Missouri has just announced a few more plans which should boost his popularity more than somewhat with the socialistic minded element of our population.

One objective is to raise the minimum wage rate. The man is still determined to raise the cost of living and to wipe out even more of the American public's savings. He doesn't say that, specifically, but he knows as well as we do wages and prices rise or fall together. The better plan, according to traditional American ways, is to strive for a reduction of both prices and wages. It just doesn't seem right to penalize those whose toil and thrift built up the world's highest standard of living.

Closely associated with that plan are two others. Harry at least deserves credit for being logical in this respect. When savings are wiped out there should be some provision to take care of the victims. So the plan includes also a broadening of the social security system and establishing an adequate health insurance system. It is offered under the guise of greater protection but it also amounts to more effective domination. While seeming to gather us under a benevolent wing it actually places us under a despotic thumb.

A glance across the Atlantic should be more than enough to discourage further experiments in socialism. England today is a horrible example of what can happen when individual initiative is suppressed.

Returning from there only last week an American observer stated that the two principal reasons for declining British coal production are the absence of a will to work and antiquated equipment — a condition that is a direct result of socialism. Incentive has been destroyed. When all fare equally at the public trough production tends towards the level of the least productive. Hard working men soon realize the folly of doing their best when loafers share equally in the reward.

If that's the course Truman wants to follow we'd better start thinking about a change next year.

Experience is gradually teaching us to be suspicious when we hear of a new organization with a particularly democratic sounding name. Communists have a way of promoting such organizations about as fast as they can be discredited.

The latest to get the thumbs down sign is the Civil Rights Congress. After investigation the regular schedule of classes will begin Tuesday.

Six teachers are on the faculty this year, with Miss Elfrida Luke in the primary grades, Mrs. W.B. Wylie in the intermediate grades and Miss Della Rose Endres in the upper grades. Superintendent Hoffman, Mrs. Effie Hembree and Mrs. Jess Mitchell will teach the high school subjects. All the teachers will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock to discuss organization, procedure, schedules, etc.

With the increase in faculty and an expected increase in attendance Superintendent Hoffman is very pleased with his prospects for a successful school year. His primary goal is to establish an accredited rating for the school.

As during the past year the school will participate in the hot lunch program at the parish hall.

Notes On Soil Conservation

"Hairy Vetch is successful as a four purpose crop, winter grazing winter cover, soil building, and cash crop", states J.W. Hess, chairman of the board of supervisors of the Upper Elm Red Conservation District. Any one of the above uses of vetch will more than pay for the expense of seeding vetch when the crop is put in correctly, he said.

"Four 'musts' for a good crop of vetch are phosphating, early planting, inoculating seed, and mixing with abruzzo or balboa rye when planting for winter pasture or seed production", Mr. Hess pointed out. Local soil conservation service technicians are recommending application of 200 pounds of 20% superphosphate per acre and preparation of land as soon as phosphate is applied. By applying phosphate before land is prepared, phosphate is mixed with soil at seed planting depth. Cooperators who have phosphate applied and land prepared in this manner will be ready to sow vetch and rye after Fall rains without loss of moisture and growing season. A mixture of 15 pounds Hairy Vetch and 30 pounds of Abruzzi rye are recommended seeding rates.

Nitrogen and organic matter added to the soil by a Hairy Vetch crop increase production of crops that follow. Al Hess, Conservation Group Leader, one mile northwest of Muenster, states that oats yields increased 1-3 on land sowed to Hairy Vetch last year. Hairy Vetch is high in protein and is liked by all livestock. When planting to turn under green or for seed production, grazing must be controlled and cattle removed in the Spring.

George Bayer recently plowed vetch land where 200 pounds of seed was combined per acre. Mr. Bayer states, "I did a good job of breaking where my vetch crop was, but my plow wouldn't take the ground on the same kind of land where I had millet". The vetch plant's root system breaks up soil particles and the decayed plant material from the vine and roots hold moisture in the soil and act as a blotter to take up excess rainfall and later make the moisture available in drouthy seasons.

Blue Ribbon Palomino

C.M. Walterscheid's Palomino, Principe del Oro, PEBA 8388, was the blue ribbon winner in the 2-3 year old Palomino class at the Cooke County Fair Wednesday afternoon.

Their first stop was in Chicago where Mrs. Luke attended the national council of the Catholic Women's Union as a delegate from Texas.

Other stops were in Detroit, Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada where they attended the National Canadian Exposition, and in Kentucky where they went through Mammoth Cave.

Donkeys Win As Muenster And Saint Jo End Second Game In Scoreless Tie

Seven hundred and thirty-five persons were here to cheer Tuesday night when the Muenster firemen came close but did not quite make the grade in their attempt to take another donkey ball game from the Saint Jo firemen.

Leo Sicking, the old reliable donkey wrangler came within a few feet of bringing in the winning run for Muenster, but even his maneuvers failed to get the proper response from the donkey.

With particularly obstinate mules on the base running assignment, the game was predestined to be short. While donkeys in the field trotted, dutifully after the ball, base running donkeys flatly refused to cooperate. The result was that few got to first base no matter how well the ball was hit. The game lasted only an hour and 5 minutes.

It was a benefit affair with proceeds going into the volunteer firemen's social fund.

Model T Jalopy Removes Porch From Charm Shop

Removal of the porch in front of the Charm Shop Friday completed the job started by Walter Grewing and his Model T jalopy the preceding night.

No casualties were sustained when the stripped down Ford temporarily got out of hand and hit a post supporting the porch. The unsupported corner sank to the sidewalk and the jalopy jockey continued on his way.

SEARCH FOR EARHART COST NATION $1,000,000

Washington — Emory S. Land, former chairman of the Maritime Commission, told Congress Wednesday the government spent "up to $1,000,000" in the futile sea search for Amelia Earhart, American flier lost in the Pacific in July 1937.

PERMISSION TO VISIT Denison, Tex., during that city's Diamond Jubilee Celebration, Sept. 1-6, is being presented here by Jubilee Chairman Judd Sampson of Denison to Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Tex., right, former Speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives.

Mr. Rayburn will visit Denison on Katy Day, September 6, and will be aboard the Katy's 1870 vintage train when it re-enacts the arrival of the first train into Texas from the North. The event actually occurred December 25, 1872.

Meurers Return From K-C Convention, 4 Weeks' Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meurer and children, Jeanette, John David and Robert, returned last Thursday from a four-week trip through several states and Canada.

In Boston, Mass., Mr. Meurer attended the national convention of the Knights of Columbus. He was one of eleven Texas delegates chosen to attend. He is state treasurer.

Other stops to visit relatives and friends and enjoy sight-seeing were in Scarsdale, N.Y. where they were guests of Mrs. Meurer's sister, Mrs. Tom Gallery and family, and in South Bend, Ind., where they visited another one of her sisters, Mrs. Jack Quinlan and family, in Buffalo and New York City, Memphis, Tenn., Detroit, Mich., Washington, D.C., Niagara Falls and Canada. In Memphis they saw Father Kempheus and Miss Della Bernauer and in Washington, D.C., they visited with Miss Rose Wiesman.

LIFE BEGINS GETTING COMPLICATED AT 40 SAYS HEALTH OFFICER

Austin, — From a health standpoint, life after forty generally begins to be more complicated for the average individual, than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, diabetes, and arthritis.

"Medical care in middle life has two important phases," Dr. Cox asserts. "The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete checkup, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness, since this may mean the difference between complete recovery and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important."

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examinations and who follow their physician's advice arising from them, tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact according to the State Health Officer, that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas if neglected until later, they often cause chronic invalidism or even death.

The Civic League and Garden Club will meet next Friday afternoon, September 12, to reorganize after being disbanded during the summer. Highlighting the session will be a book review by Mrs. L. Burchfiel.

Fats Nose Out Leans In 33-32 Slugfest

The heavies were best again in this year's renewal of the annual fat-lean baseball rivalry. Under the lights Thursday night they nosed out with the big end of a 33 to 32 count.

The game was exactly as the score indicated, a slugfest accompanied by a loose fielding match. The teams played on even terms each taking the lead several times and the hefties being lucky enough to lead by a single run at the final count.

Gate receipts were given to the softball team's party fund.

Over 400 Expected To Register Monday At Parochial School

School bells will ring again Monday, September 8, announcing the opening of classes at Sacred Heart school for another scholastic term. Opening day will be devoted to registration and classes will begin on Tuesday.

Fourteen Benedictine Sisters from the Jonesboro, Ark., convent are connected with the school system. 8 are elementary grade teachers, four are high school instructors, one is in charge of the music department and one is housekeeper.

With two exceptions all the faculty of last year has returned. Sister Martina, who taught the 7th and 8th grade for the past three years, is at Rhineland this year and is being replaced by Sister Carmelita, who is in Muenster for the first time, and Sister Leonarda, music instructor for the past 18 years, has changed places with Sister Dolores of Blytheville, Ark. One additional teacher joined the high school staff, Sister Gertrude, who returns to Muenster after a three years absence. She taught here in 1942 and 1943. Her duties this year will be those of librarian and study hall supervisor.

According to Sister Anastasia, mother superior, the grade teachers are: Sisters Anastasia, Evangelista, Canesia, Carmelita, Gabriel, Alberta, Gebharda and Remigia. High school instructors are Sisters Theresina, Patricia Eymard and Gertrude. Sister Anselma is housekeeper.

More than 400 students are expected on opening day. Last year's opening day figure was 411.

The P-TA hot lunch program will be in operation again this term. Mrs. Frank Kathman is in charge, assisted by Mesdames Ted Gremminger, Al Walterscheid, Bob Yosten, Buddy Bernauer and Isabell Fette.

BALL TEAM INVITED TO COMPETE IN ERA SOFTBALL TOURNAY

Members of the Muenster softball team are still trying to make up their minds about accepting an invitation to the Era softball tournament the last four days of next week. A conflict with the plans of some players is the principal difficulty.

Eight teams have been invited to participate and the tournament will be played by the elimination system. Opening games are scheduled as double headers the first two nights, semi-finals in a double header the third night and finals in a single game the last night.

Teams expected to participate are Muenster, Hood, Era, a Nocoma team and four Gainesville teams.

Entrance fees paid by the competing teams will go into a fund for prize money.

DEMONSTRATION AGENT WILL DISCUSS FOOD AT GI VOCATIONAL CLASS

All men and women of the community are invited to the discussion on "Foods and Nutrition" to be conducted next Monday night at 8 o'clock by County Home Demonstration Agent Miss Mildred Chapman at the regular meeting of the Muenster GI Vocational Agriculture class.

The subject is made a part of the veterans course because of its close relationship with farming, according to Instructor Hugh Barnhart, and the general invitation is extended as an accommodation to interested housewives.

Monday night's meeting will mark the end of a two weeks' recess for the class.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cain had as their guests for the weekend and Labor Day, her mother, Mrs. J.F. Hogan and daughter, Miss Bobbie, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hogan and family and Mr. and Mrs. O.Z. Smith, all of Amarillo; Tony McDonald and his mother, Mrs. W.T. McDonald, of Greenwood; Mr. and Mrs. T.C. Rhone and family of Bowie; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hogan and family of Hardy and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan and daughter of Decatur. The McDonalds remained to spend the week. Mrs. McDonald is Mrs. Cain's maternal grandmother.

Making More Silage Now Will Help Build Your Milk Profits

From what I've seen of the countryside this summer, in quite a few states, it looks to me like a silo is going to be a most important part of keeping cows filled and milk checks fatter in the next few months.

Crops which usually are counted on to provide supplement feed didn't do too well in many places and there's a chance that high protein feeds are not going to be plentiful.

And don't forget—if you write for a bulletin from a state other than your own, send a nickel along with your request.

MILK CARE MEANS MORE MILK CASH

If you remember your Alice in Wonderland, you'll recall that the Mad Hatter was pretty much put out because the March Hare used butter to oil his watch. Didn't seem the right way to treat a fine piece of machinery—or a good dairy product.

Any high quality product deserves only the best of care, of course, if you expect to get all the good out of it. It's as true of milk as anything I know. In all but a very few rare cases these days, the quality of milk when it leaves the cow is good.

What happens to the milk from that point on is up to us. It will continue to be high quality when it reaches your dairy plant and when the finished product reaches the consumer, if its quality is guarded at every step along the line.

There's a good demand for dairy products now and there's no reason

Hay produced well in some areas, but was rather poor in other spots. Some of the early cuttings were held up past the right stage because of rain.

All in all, silage can be a big factor in your own dairy program during the winter. You've still got time to get more silage put away; get temporary silos built and get set to do the right kind of a feeding job to hold your milk volume higher.

Of course, corn still stands out as the best crop for silage, but late cuttings of hay, late planted soybeans, pasture combinations, and various grasses and legumes will provide high quality feed, if ensiled with a good preservative.

You can even get some good out of corn stalks after husking, by using a high quality preservative such as molasses or corn and cob meal, so the extension men tell me. It isn't the best feed in the world, but it will help if you are short.

Most all the extension services have separate bulletins on silage making and feeding, and I imagine your county agent can supply you with a copy. But you may want some additional material, in which case you can write for one of the following:

Circular 605, extension service, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Bulletin 360, extension service, University of Minnesota, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.; Circular 209, extension service, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.; Circular 337, extension service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisc.

The Wisconsin bulletin gives a thorough discussion on good corn silage and should be of especial interest this year when a lot of corn was late.

to feel that demand will be anything but good in the future, as long as high quality products are delivered to the consumer.

This means watching every step, every inch of the way, of course. Care must be taken to insure that every utensil is clean and sanitary, that the milk is cooled promptly and rapidly, immediately after milking.

Clean barns and clean cows and clean workers are mighty important, too. Your dairy plant places great importance on clean buildings and equipment and dairy plant workers, to keep the high quality that the milk has when it is picked up from your farm.

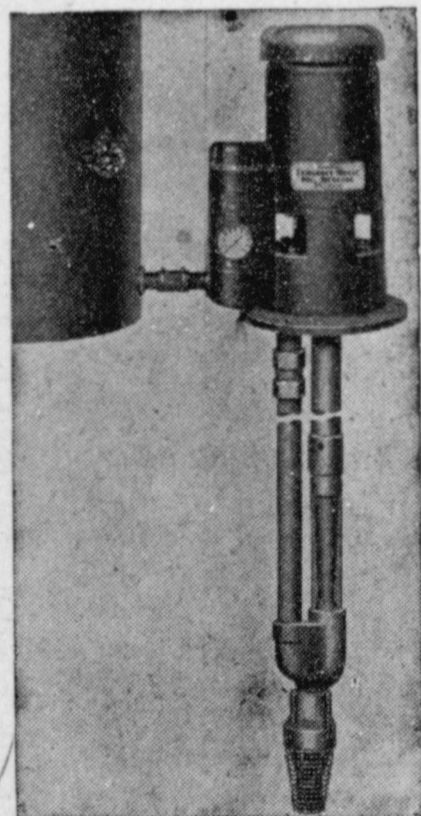

The cow does her part. And after all, it would be a shame to wreck good work by careless handling or lack of attention to details. Good habits that will insure good milk are just as easy to follow as bad ones.

ORGANIC MATTER

Organic matter is the sponge of the soil. It will take up and hold large quantities of water. It also contains considerable minerals so necessary to plant growth. For this reason a soil containing plenty of organic matter is considered a fertile soil.

To keep a lot of organic matter in the soil means a lot of plant growth on the land. If it's all taken off the soil will soon start holding less water and more will run off. Result is erosion and floods

House committee on un-American activities denounced it as a communist front organization engaged in a campaign of vilification against the American Government. Its principal activity was protecting communists in this country who run afoul of the law. According to the records the organization originated in April '46 as a merger of two other red front groups after their real colors had been exposed, and its membership list includes lots of prominent names on government jobs and university faculties.

How many of those prominent men are communists is still anybody's guess. In listing names the committee on un-American activities did not attempt to distinguish between real reds and the suckers who permitted reds to exploit their names.

In that connection the committee on un-American activities and the justice department are carrying generosity and justice to a dangerous extreme. There are times when people do not deserve the benefit of a doubt. Prominent men on the public payroll and university faculties should not be dumb enough to fall for communist tricks. Without too much stretching of principles it might be assumed that important men know the caliber of the company they keep and the objective of organizations they belong to. Whether or not such men are actually listed on communist rolls they deserve to be dealt with as active enemies of our country.

There is one way to put a crimp in the subversive organizations. Whenever one is exposed every member should be exposed as an agent of a criminal group seeking the overthrow of our government, and should be disqualified from holding public office or teaching in any American school. Such a provision would discourage prominent people from joining questionable organizations and eliminate a convenient loop-hole for lots of real reds who do their dirty work under assumed colors.

This isn't violation of our principles of liberty, either. Freedom as guaranteed by the constitution does not go so far as to include freedom to destroy the government. And we who are loyal certainly deserve some cooperation in keeping subversive poison out of our government and our schools.
