WORLD WAR LEADER OF ALLES DIES

PARIS, March 20—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo who led the allied armies to victory in the World War, died at his home today, after a lengthy illness. He was 77 years old.

He died at 5:50 p. m. (12:50 eastern standard time).

Although it had long been apparent that the great general was fighting his "last campaign", his warrior heart would not give in, and day after day he fought off the inevitable end with grim courage. But a coalition of heart trouble, kidney disease and a lung infection were too great for his age.

He was in bed for a long time. On February 26 the Associated Press was authoritatively informed that the marshal's death seemed only a matter of days, week, perhaps or ten days. But the marshal with indomitable will held off death even longer than his doctors thought possible.

It was the sudden collapse of his heart after several days of improvement that brought death to the intrepid warrior.

Grit Displayed

"The foremost fighter of the great war" displayed in illness that same grit that he had displayed as the commander-in-chief who led the allied armies to victory in the World War. Throughout it all, from January 14, until the end, he showed courage, unflinching equanimity and even good humor.

The end came just as his doctors reached the marshal's house this evening. He had been conscious the entire afternoon and had been found in a somewhat improved condition at ten o'clock this morning when the first visit of the day was made.

Pershing a Caller

Although the marshal had many good days during his illness, he was not permitted to see visitors. Among those who called upon him was General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces. General Pershing paid his respects to Madame Foch, but in accordance with the strict rule of the doctors, was not permitted to see his former comrade in arms.

Others who called upon the marshal were Queen Marie of Rumania, General Weigand, his faithful chief of staff during the World War, Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, and many of the most distinguished men in France. All wrote their names in the visitors' book.

Severe Heart Attack

It was a series of ups and downs throughout the illness. After the first crisis at the beginning of his illness which was marked by a severe heart attack, the marshal was faced with a fatal termination of kidney trouble and then pulmonary infection.

The marshal had been indisposed for several days but this appeared to be merely due to a cold, and there was little worry over his condition. The next day, however, the complications set in and the seriousness of the famous commander's condition became apparent. With the development of pulmonary infection, it became more and more plain that despite the gallant battle which he was waging, the marshal would meet a fatal termination which he carried over too great a handicap and a fatal termination could be the only outcome.

Only on Monday, however, on the demand of Foch that he be permitted to see Weigand, was his chief of staff permitted to come to his bedside and remain with him for about 20 minutes.

Educational Progress In the Heart of Texas

BY J. OSCAR SWINDLE
County Superintendent of Brown County

Two problems must be kept in view in building up of rural school system. Classified high schools through county essential.

If the school system of Brown County and of Texas is ever raised to the proper standard it must be done by building up a system of classified high schools throughout the country. These must rest on a foundation of thorough and efficient elementary schools. Also, these schools must be so organized as to meet the needs of rural life.

In building a system of rural schools we must keep in mind two distinct problems. One is the primary purpose of an education or to prepare our young people for the duties and responsibilities of life, to make good American citizens able to cope with their fellows, meet the religious, social, and political obligations of a modern democracy of ours. Then a secondary purpose of efficient high schools is to prepare children for advanced training in education—to fit them for college.

Now in order to meet the fullest requirements of citizenship in a highly educated. But this is impossible. Not all people would take advanced education. We are only talking of ideals and not of practical ordinary life conditions when we educate all people should be highly educated.

At any rate we should build a system that would serve to develop every individual to the fullest of his capacity for whatever line of work he is best suited mentally and physically. Every boy and girl is entitled to sufficient training to enable them to fill their places in society and meet their individual needs and the responsibilities of home life.

Small Percent to College

After all is said about education we must remember that only a small percentage of our children take a college education. So we must provide a public school system that will prepare children for life's duties. Courses of study should be based on practical needs. Schools should provide instruction in home economics, art, music, public speaking, manual training, agriculture, farm mechanics, elementary bookkeeping as applied to rural needs, and any other such courses as will better fit the youth for life's duties. The requirements for graduation should be met as the schools are able to provide for it. Among the needs for standard high schools are:

1. Classification.
2. Establishing educational standards; encouraging schools to attain these standards; and certifying those that have attained them. Its purpose is to grade, correlate, and unify the schools into an effective system and to facilitate the transfer of students from one school to another. Classification depends upon the physical conditions under which the school work is done. High schools are classified as four-year high schools or high schools of the first class, three-year high schools or high schools of the second class, and two-year high schools or high schools of the third class, according to number of units of work effectively taught, and the physical standards maintained.
3. Term Classification.
4. Number of teachers required and qualifications.
5. Four-year high schools must have three teachers doing high school work, three-year high schools must have two, etc. Three-fourths of the teachers must be college graduates and others must have first grade and permanent certificates. Teachers holding second grade certificates, elementary certificates of the second class, or two and three-year elementary certificates of the first class may not be employed to teach in elementary department of an affiliated or classified high school.
6. Teachers' salaries.
7. The State Department of Education takes into consideration the teaching salaries of teachers. Good salaries are necessary in order to secure and retain qualified teachers; and no school can be efficient with a continually shifting teaching force. High school teachers should receive a salary not less than $10,000 per month; teachers of elementary schools, a salary of not less than $8,000 per month; and both should be paid progressive salaries, according to the length and quality of service.
8. Course of study and classes.
9. Four-year high schools should limit their work to four grades and require not over sixteen academic units for graduation; three-year high school to three grades and not over twelve units; and two-year high schools to two grades and not over eight units. A unit of work represents a subject studies for a period of not less than 36 weeks, five recitations per week.
10. High school teachers should not be permitted to offer instruction in more than six daily recitations and superintendents in more than four. English teachers should limit their work to five classes; Science to four classes daily.
11. Library equipment.
12. Four-year high schools must have at least four hundred dollars worth of well-chosen books for high school library, and at least $25.00 worth of books in each room of elementary school; three-year high schools must have at least $300.00 worth of books for high school and in addition $25.00 worth of books in each room of elementary school; and two-year high schools must have at least $200.00 worth of books for high school and $25.00 worth of books in each room of elementary school. The value of library books both in high school and elementary schools must be exclusive of books furnished by the state. All books should be selected from approved list with special reference to needs of respective grades and departments.
13. From time-to-time we shall give more information on classification and affiliation. But if teachers and trustees desire complete information on this subject they should write to the State Department of Education for a Directory of Classified and Accredited High Schools. (Bulletin No. 225.)

REROUTING OF HIGHWAYS IN CITY POSSIBLE

Changes are that the present routing of highways through the city of Brownwood will not be used in locating the highways here, according to a statement made by Leo Ehlinger, state and county road engineer, Monday morning.

Mr. Ehlinger said that he does not know definitely at the present time just how the highways will come into the city, but is pretty sure that the many turns of roads inside the city will not be used.

Mr. Ehlinger said that highway 10 will probably come into the city limits at the lower end of West Broadway and continue up Center Avenue, making a turn to the left after crossing the Santa Fe tracks.

This will be the most direct route, he said, for highway 10 through the city and will be used, but an underpass would have to be made under the Santa Fe on Center and a cutting corner will have to be taken off where Mayes, Center and West Broadway comes together.

Highway 7 might not come into the business district at all, Mr. Ehlinger said. This road might go around the city on the north and west sides, the city, however, being entitled to direct the traffic with the aid of signs through the downtown section, if it desires to do so.

These routes, Mr. Ehlinger wanted it made known, are but tentative and said that an engineer has to consider many facts in routing the roads, each fact to be taken relative to its importance. The facts to be taken under consideration are included under the following heads: location, alignment, towns and cities to be served, and intermediate property.

ONE-ACRE FARMS ARE A SUCCESS ACCORDING TO ORIGINATOR C. WEEKS

The most prosperous farming sections in the United States are those with small intensively worked farms, was the opinion of Charles Weeks of California, who lectured to a small gathering in Memorial Hall Tuesday evening.

Mr. Weeks is the originator of the one acre farm idea and at the present time has hundreds of successful small one-acre farms in communities in California, each acre worked by one family which receives from it an adequate income.

In telling how he does it Mr. Weeks said he began twenty-six years ago on ten acres and after many experiments found he had nine acres too many.

By the aid of illustrated slides he showed his audience how on one acre he kept successfully 2,500 laying hens, raising most of their green food and hundreds of fine bearing fruit trees. His home stands on the acre plot where he has a good sized flower garden, a rich looking vegetable garden and several grape arbors.

For Texas, Mr. Weeks says that weather and soil conditions make it possible to farm tiny places, not necessarily as small as one acre, but just a few acres, concentrating on chickens, milk cows and pecan trees. He advocates cows and chickens to the proportion of one cow for every 100 hens, and in the matter of trees is a firm believer of close pruning.

"The small farm must first produce," he said; "everything for the family table, after which the farmer can specialize in some one branch of animal husbandry."

He said that most people scatter their energies too much.

The proposed irrigation in this district he said is the best thing which has come to this section. An intensive farming program requires plenty of water, he said.

WOULD IMPROVE ROAD PRIOR TO DESIGNATION

A delegation of twenty men from Hamilton and Mills counties met with the road committee of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce Friday morning, discussing matters of a road between Brownwood and Hamilton, and adjourning at noon to a luncheon at the Southern Hotel. Following the dinner, the men continued their meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The guests were invited here by Hilton Burks, secretary, to talk over the idea of getting improvements done on this road prior to the proposed designation of the road as a state highway.

Petitions to the state highway department to designate this road, which would be a continuation of Highway 22, running from Shreveport to Hamilton, will be postponed until certain conditions in the state department have been settled, it was decided.

Rice Heads Delegation

Desiring, however, to make a passable road over this route, these men, with County Judge P. M. Rice of Hamilton as spokesmen, came to Brownwood Friday to discuss the best means to put over the idea.

F. S. Abney, chairman of the local road committee, was present with Sam Cutbirth, E. M. Boon and T. R. Scott of his committee.

Mr. Burks reported that he and Leo Ehlinger, state and county road engineer, made a trip over the proposed route Saturday for the purpose of checking the road for a report to this committee.

To expedite matters and to get this route in the best shape possible before fall, arrangements have been made with Mills county commissioners for that county to pay the labor bill for improvements on the eighteen or twenty miles of the road which runs through the northern part of that county. Grading machinery will be loaned by this county to do the work.

Mr. Burks said that the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce would furnish the lumber for the bridge structures on condition that Mills county will keep the road in good condition after it is built.

The proposed road begins at Hamilton and runs west to Pottsville and Indian Gap in Hamilton county or west through Priddy in Mills county; and enters Brown county a little east of Zephyr where it connects with Highway 7 into Brownwood.

With Judge Rice in Brownwood Friday were E. H. Lapp and Rube Dudley of Priddy; W. W. Martin, S. H. Bevan, O. K. Baker (Commissioner of Precinct No. 11, W. Furum, Bert Mayfield, A. O. Marwitz, E. A. Marwitz, Guss Brannan, F. W. Nauert, A. B. Dunn and T. J. Brown of Indian Gap; and Herman Rea, Melvin N. Shrank, F. Waggoner, Otto Reinert, J. E. Smith and T. A. Schrank of Pottsville.

The men from Hamilton county in the afternoon session agreed to build the road from Hamilton west to the Mills county line and to assist in the construction of the road through Mills county.

County commissioner of Mills county promised his support in aiding Brownwood to finance the building of the road from a mountain west to the Brown county line, a distance of twelve miles.

An organization was perfected for the purpose of carrying out these plans, and the men adjourned the meeting about 2:30 p. m. Secretary Burks going with them to see about a right of way through certain property in Mills county.

BANDIT IDENTIFIED AS A YOUTH LIVING NEAR BRADY STAGES HOLDUP

ARRESTS ARE MADE

R. C. TURNER WAS ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH THE ROBBERY OF THE FARMERS STATE BANK OF BRADY, WHICH OCCURRED SHORTLY AFTER NOON TODAY, ACCORDING TO REPORTS FROM BRADY AT 2:20 P. M. TWO GIRLS WERE ALSO ARRESTED, ONE OF THESE BEING A BRADY GIRL AND ONE AN AUSTIN GILL.

A lone masked bandit, identified as a youth living near Brady, held up the Farmers & Merchants State Bank of Brady at 12:30 o'clock today noon and escaped with between $2,000 and $4,000, according to B. F. Gray, vice-president of the bank.

The youth, with a bandier chief over his mouth and chin, held H. C. Johnson, assistant cashier and Miss Flora Currie, stenographer, at pistol point while he scooped up all cash lying in sight. After taking this amount, the young bandit backed out of the bank, jumped into a car in which three women were waiting and speeded out of the city toward Mason.

Mr. Johnson, one of the two held up by the young bandit, stated positively that he knows the bandit and gave the name of a young man living near Brady, as the one who held him up. A customer of the bank standing in front of the building, saw the man leave and he likewise identified him as being the same person whom Johnson says he is.

The youth was later seen in a car speeding toward Mason by a man living near Brady, the latter being on his way to Brady at the time. No one has been able to identify the three women, with whom the bandit left Brady.

Mr. Gray, vice president of the bank, who was out at lunch at the time of the robbery, states that the amount of the loot taken had not been determined, but estimates the loss at between $3,000 and $4,000.

"Had Plenty" Cash

The robbery was easily planned, according to Mr. Gray. After taking the money in sight, Johnson started to reach for more cash to hand him, but the youth advised that he had plenty and immediately departed.

The arrest of the young bandit is momentarily expected, as officers from Brady and Mason were close on the fleeing youth's trail shortly after noon today.

It is stated that the youth and the women companions are traveling in two cars, the bandit and one of the women being in one car, with the other women following close behind.

BRADY, Tex., March 21.—(AP)—The Farmers & Merchants State Bank of Brady was held up by an unmasked man, and robbed of $5,000 today.

The bandit ran out of the bank, jumped into a sedan in which there were four girls and fled southward. Harold Johnson, bookkeeper, was alone in the bank when the man came.

The robber, believed to have been an employee of a highway gang near Brady, is known to officers, the latter said. Johnson told officers he believed he knew the man.

Drove to Drug Store

A few minutes before the robbery, a man and four girls drove up to a drug store and ordered drinks. They did not wait for service, but drove away. A description given by the drug clerk tallied with Johnson's.

A Texas Ranger, whose name was not learned and who was in Brady at the time, took up the trail immediately.

It was learned a short time after the robbery that Miss Flora Currie, stenographer of the bank, was in the place at the time of the hold-up. All other officers and employees of the bank were at dinner. No customers were in the bank.

According to Johnson, the man walked into the bank, looked around, went out to his car and talked with the girls and re-entered the bank with the gun. He pointed the gun at Johnson, ordered the money turned over to him, got in the car and drove south.

Sheriff Love Kimbrough, attending the Herrera murder trial at Mason along with most of the peace officers of the county, formed a posse on being notified of the robbery and started a search for the bandit.

NEW BUILDING BY W. A. BELL

Construction of another business house on Center Avenue has been begun by W. A. Bell, who is building the new Montgomery Ward Company store at the corner of Center Avenue and East Adams St. The new building begun by Mr. Bell adjoins the Montgomery Ward building and will face 50 feet on Center Avenue, extending back the length of the $60,000 plant being erected for Montgomery Ward. The cost of the new building, for which the foundation is now being dug, will be about $15,000. Mr. Bell states, although no contract for its construction has been let.

Mr. Bell states that the new building will be divided into three store fronts, these to be suitable to the tenants who will occupy them. Two of the three store spaces have been leased and the third tentatively leased, but Mr. Bell was not in position to disclose the names of the firms that will occupy the new building.

FEDERAL FARM FACTS

The corn borer quarantine has been enlarged to include portions of three counties in Connecticut, one in Massachusetts, two in Maine and one in New Hampshire. These counties are in the two-generation area. Counties added to the one-generation quarantine are two in New Hampshire, eleven in Vermont, four in Massachusetts, one in Connecticut, nine in Pennsylvania, fifteen in Ohio, twelve in Indiana and all of the heretofore unregulated portions of Michigan.

A new and profitable vocation has arisen from the demand for wind-pollinated pollen in the treating of hay borer patients. The Department of Agriculture has issued a publication giving details on the method of collecting pollen. These methods were experimented with in a series of tests taken from more than 40 different plants in the District of Columbia and vicinity.

Chinese farmers are practical and conservative. H. Dorsett, a representative of the Department of Agriculture, found on a trip through China that farmers in a certain section grow their pitchforks. A certain willow, planted as hedge-rows, grows about 8 feet tall. It then sprouts three branches, one in the center and two on each side forming the times of the pitchfork. The artificial fork is then cut from the tree, smoothed out and cured. It sells on the market for about seven cents.

An idea of the business done by agricultural co-operative organizations is given by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Twelve associations affiliated with the National Livestock Producers' Association last year handled $138,000,000 worth of business. The Drymen's League in New York sold $85,000,000 worth of products in a year. The American Cotton Growers' Exchange handled sales of $70,000,000 for 1927-28. Six other organizations report similar "big business" operations.

CATTELMEN'S ORGANIZATION GROWING FAST

HOUSTON, March 19.—(AP)—More new members were received by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association last year than in any other year since the war, the report of the executive committee today disclosed.

Seven hundred and twenty-five persons enlisted in the organization in 1928 and the net gain that was 478 persons and 67,704 cattle. The present membership is 3,115, rendering 1,255,257 cattle.

Giving figures to show that 75 per cent of the association expense was for inspection work, the executive committee recommended that the associations' territory be restricted to obtain more funds for that work. The territory would be divided into 24 districts, each district to bear its share of the association obligations and in addition to meet local inspection costs.

Freight Rates

The report emphasized the activity of the association in freight rate matters. "The service which was rendered in connection with transportation during the past year has probably meant more actual dollars saved for the cattle shippers than any activity which has been carried on," the report recited.

More thefts were reported the past year than for many years it was said. Attorneys for the association took part in 27 trials, resulting in 19 convictions, seven acquittals and one hung jury. The 35 cattle inspectors have spent most of their time investigating cattle thieves. Thirty-two inspectors are located at the various markets and 22 on the range.

The executive committee mentioned that during the past year it had arranged for group insurance for the first time to protect employees in case of death or total incapacity.

FISH PONDS HEAVILY STOCKED NOT MOSQUITO BREEDING PLACES

In a report on the mosquito nuisance around Brownwood by the state health officer here lately, small ponds were mentioned as breeding places for these pests, and several owners of fish ponds in the city were apprehensive that their tiny lakes would have to go.

Miss Mayes Malone wrote the bureau of fisheries of the Department of Commerce at Washington asking about this matter and received the following reply from Henry O'Malley, commissioner: "The bureau acknowledges the receipt of your letter of March 7 referring to the possibility of mosquito breeding in goldfish ponds. You are advised that goldfish feed to a considerable extent upon the larvae of mosquitoes. Certain other forms such as the Gamusia or top minnow are widely used in mosquito control work and the goldfish are also recommended as having considerable value in this respect. Hatchery ponds stocked with game fish such as bass and sun fish are rarely objectionable as a source of mosquitoes. If the ponds in question are heavily stocked with goldfish, it is not believed that any marked nuisance will result."

FOCH FUNERAL NEXT TUESDAY

PARIS, March 21.—(AP)—The funeral of Marshal Foch has been set for Tuesday night. The body is to lie in state under the Arc de Triomphe for 24 hours previously. It has not yet been decided whether the religious ceremony shall be held in Notre Dame Cathedral or in the chapel of the Invalides.

CHORAL CLUB GIVES INTERESTING CONCERT HERE MONDAY NIGHT

The Southwestern University Choral Club of Georgetown, under the direction of Prof. H. E. Meyer, former director of music at Daniel Baker College, gave a very interesting concert at the First Methodist church Monday night. The club consisting of 18 women students of Southwestern favored a large audience with a pleasing program of vocal and instrumental numbers.

Prof. Meyer favored with several organ numbers that displayed his unusual musical talents. The numerous vocal, violin and organ numbers were well arranged and presented in a very pleasing manner. Several costume numbers were also well received by the audience.

Monday night's program was sponsored by the Senior Epworth League and the proceeds will be used for the church lawn fund.

The choral club will appear in concert in Goldsboro tonight and in Lampasas Wednesday night, after which it will return to Georgetown.

Large Number On The Honor List At A. and M. College

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., March 20.—(AP)—A total of 283 students at A. and M. College of Texas made sufficiently high scholastic records during the first term of the present school year to place them on the list of students eligible for distinction for the session.

The college regulations require that in order to merit the distinguished rating, a student must fall in none of his work and must show at least sixty grade points, representing a high academic record for the whole session. It is required that at least twenty-two grade points be made during the first term.

PROMINENT RISING STAR CITIZEN DIES HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

J. N. Bowden, pioneer citizen of Rising Star, died Tuesday night in a Brownwood hospital following an extended illness. Mr. Bowden was about 65 or 70 years of age and had been living near Rising Star the past 25 or 30 years. He was a prominent citizen of that community.

The body was taken in charge by a Rising Star undertaker. Funeral and burial services are to be held in Rising Star some time Thursday. It is announced.

Mr. Bowden is distantly related to Rev. G. A. Bowden, M. T. Bowden and others of the Bowden family in Brownwood.

COTTON CROP PLACED AT 14,450,007 BALES

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(AP)—The 1928 cotton crop was placed today by the Census Bureau at 14,450,007 equivalent 500 pound bales, compared with 12,956,043 in 1927 and 17,977,374 in 1926.

The size of the crop was determined by the final ginning canvass of the year.

The total crop comprised 14,269,313 running bales including 672,859 round bales counted as half bales, compared with 12,783,112 bales including 550,277 round bales in 1927.

The average gross weight of bales for the crop counting round as half bales excluding linters was 506.8 pounds for 1928, compared with 506.8 for 1926. The number of ginneries operated for the crop of 1928 was 14,968, compared with 14,863 for 1927.

The total production in equivalent 500 pound bales by states followed: Alabama 1,108,518, Arizona 149,459, Arkansas 1,237,946, California 172,141, Florida 19,203, Georgia 1,028,309, Louisiana 690,105, Mississippi 1,471,954, Missouri 145,072, New Mexico 83,524, North Carolina 834,205, Oklahoma 1,269,365, South Carolina 724,583, Tennessee 427,279, Texas 3,105,493, Virginia 43,462 and all other states 8,437.

TRAIN STOPPED BY DEPUTY

The early morning Santa Fe passenger train westbound was boarded at the Frisco crossing in Brownwood Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff H. N. Jack who ordered the train held until a party could be taken off. This person, charged with check swindling, was found aboard the train and taken by Mr. Jack to the court house.

SCREEN STAR AND HUSBAND ARE BOTH CRITICALLY ILL

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 20.—(AP)—Mabel Normand, often described as the "hard luck" girl of the cinema firmament, and her husband, Lew Cody, well known in the movies, are critically ill, neither aware of the other's condition.

Miss Normand is in her palatial home here, struggling against tuberculosis which has affected both lungs. For days fever has sapped her strength.

Attendants refrained from telling her that Cody, returned from New York, is attempting to recover from complete nervous prostration. It was feared the knowledge of her husband's illness might weaken the slender thread by which she clings to life.

Cody, in a health resort near San Bernardino, is kept in ignorance of his wife's condition. Physicians fearing the effect worry might have on his weakened system, in line followed influenza contracted in New York while he was arranging for a vaudeville tour of Europe.

GEN. AGUIRRE IS EXECUTED

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—(AP)—(10:30 a. m.)—General Jesus M. Aguirre, chief rebel commander in the province of Vera Cruz, was executed at Magras, Vera Cruz province, 7 a. m. today after courtmartial. The presidential castle did not state whether the body would be brought to Mexico for burial.

Aguirre was captured in all of day after a short fight with federal and his forces in which two general officers were killed and it was announced in a tepee castle.

of San Angelo, spent Sunday night and Monday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Sheffield.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church, as had been previously announced through the press and other ways, staged their play Monday night—Wanted—Mamie—at the Theatre building. Miss Gibson as Miss Jane Bowers and Miss Rhodes as Mr. Gunter, a travelling salesman, proved to the crowd that love at first sight was a wonderful thing. Mrs. Baugh as Lucia kept the crowd laughing with her humorous sayings. Mrs. Pulliam as President of the "Better Day Club," told of her love affair with Deacon Cobb. Maggie Martin as club gossip caused the club members a lot of uneasiness by telling everything she knew. The old maids, Mesdames T. D. Holder, Maurice Bell, Chester Wilson and Maggie Martin, and Misses Lola Mae Daniel, Dahlia Bolter, Effie J. G. Wilson and Ella Gilbert, and the two sets of twins of Mr. Gunter, Misses Mary Smart, Kathryn Aschcraft, Bonnie Lee Baugh and Odessa Martin kept the crowd laughing most of the time. The Glee Club girls of Bangs school were present and rendered several numbers. A solo by Jim Harris was greatly enjoyed. A large crowd attended and $78.80 was realized. The same play will be given again next Monday night.

It's better to have a "fixed idea" than one that rattles.—Farr and Firside.

Must Look Forward.

Educational workers must always be looking forward. Unlike the painter or the sculptor they cannot see the result of their work day by day. They must to a great extent work by faith, believing that none of their work is likely to be without good result if it is wisely directed and is animated by the right spirit.

13 Rattlesnakes In Bunch Shown Here Thursday

Thirteen Black Diamond rattlesnakes were brought into Brownwood Thursday by E. E. McKnight, J. C. Wallace and William Wallace. The rattlers, blasted from under a large rock on a mountain in the McKnight pasture 9 miles west of town on the Trask road, had probably been bedded up all winter in their den, according to Mr. McKnight. The largest of the reptiles sported 17 rattlers and a button, however some of the others were not far lacking in the number of "buzzers." Mr. McKnight stated it was necessary to blast the rock three times before all of the snakes were captured. They were killed with sticks and rocks. A period of three hours was devoted to the capture and despite the danger involved in "killing" a rattlesnake den, the men seemed to enjoy the sport. After being exhibited at the B. Bulletin office, the snakes were tied to a long pole, placed on the outside of a car and displayed over town.

PIONEER RESTS IN GRAVE DUG BY OWN HANDS

MABANK, Tex., March 15.—(P)—A grave in the old Bethel Cemetery, east of Mabank, today contained the body of the digger, A. A. Tucker, who also prepared his own casket. Funeral services were held yesterday for the pioneer Van Zandt county man, who was better known as "Uncle Aaron." In preparing his own grave "Uncle Aaron" walled it with brick and instructed that his body should be buried in a leaning posture. With this purpose in view, the pioneer inclined one of the walls about 30 degrees so that the casket might be placed against it and not incline to one side.

COUNTY SCHOOL EXAMS FOR ENTRANCE INTO HIGH SCHOOLS SOON

Examinations for county pupils in the seventh grade were sent out of the office of County Superintendent J. Oscar Swindle Tuesday to all schools in the county. Possibly one hundred students will take this examination this year, during the second week of April, those passing after being graded by the superintendent to be given county certificates allowing entrance into high school. Graduating exercises will be held about the middle of May in Brownwood. The examination covers questions in English, Arithmetic, Texas History, United States History, Spelling and Geography. Term and book report forms are being sent out by Mr. Swindle, he emphasizing the necessity of complete and accurate term reports from each school. Mr. Swindle is also requesting the teachers to send in to his office the term grades of all high school students. Permanent records of all the high school pupils are kept in the superintendent's office.

VENDING MACHINE IN COURT HOUSE CAUSES COMMENT PRO AND CON

A vending machine which dispenses cigarettes, candy and gum on the deposit of nickles, appeared mysteriously in the corridor of the court house Tuesday morning. Questioning heads of various departments in the building they all disclaimed authority for the placing of the machine; no one man in that edifice of government claiming he authorized the presence of the silent vendor. Judge E. M. Davis referred the questioner to the Commissioners' Court stating that that body would have the say as to the presence of the machine, though he knew of no action by the court permitting it. Personally the judge said he preferred the court not going into competition with the stores in the city. Meanwhile the machine stands silently, quite a pretty piece of furniture, and even though it has been there but a few hours the sale of candy bars and cigarettes has emptied some of the space of its interior.

Negro Arrested In Slaying Case

GARY, Ind., March 20.—(P)—Gill Mac, six-foot-two negro, was arrested in his room early today in connection with the slaying of Josephine Adorizzi, 20-year-old grocery clerk. He is 28. A hatchet was found in Mack's room, officers said, and it was covered with dried blood. Miss Adorizzi's body was found yesterday hidden in a vacant lot, her head crushed. She had been missing since Sunday night. Police believe the slayer waylaid her as she passed, struck her over the head and dragged her to a clump of bushes where he assaulted and killed her. Several women in Tolleston had recently reported being chased by a negro who waxed an axe or club. THE CENTER OF SERVICE MOODY RENEWS PLEA TO MAKE TRAFFIC BEAR ROAD BURDEN HOUSTON, March 20.—(P)—the conditions to which such a policy might lead. He mentioned that $416,000,000 would be necessary to complete the state highways which have been designated. If the counties bear only one-fourth of this cost, their bonded indebtedness will be swelled from $75,000,000 to almost $200,000,000, the Governor pointed out. The proposed $175,000,000 issue was characterized as the "soundest thing that has been offered yet." The Governor asserted that some such scheme would have to be worked out, and he pointed out some of the alleged flaws in the present "pay-as-you-go" policy. Tiltolston In Audience Among those listening to Governor Moody's address was Representative Leonard Tiltolston of Sealy, one of the leaders in the fight against submission of the road bond proposal. The present policy of forcing county property to bear a portion of the expense of building cardinal roads was attacked as inequitable. The chief executive diagrammed in imposing a burden on the producing class out of proportion to that on any other group," the Governor said. "By taking the burden of road building off the property and placing it on the traffic, we would do much to relieve that inequity." The Governor paid a few compliments to Texas A. and M. College. "As a graduate of the University of Texas I say that A. and M. College has contributed more to the growth and development of Texas than any other state institution," he said. Mary Joe Sallee and Katherine Berry to Declaim for Jr. High Mary Joe Sallee won first place and Katherine Berry second place in the Junior High School declamation contest held Monday morning. These two girls will represent their school in the county contest March 29 and 30. Five girls competed in this elimination contest, all of whom had been trained under J. Fred McLaughly. LET A LITTLE SUNSHINE IN

The ancient's of many races worshipped the sun as a god. For centuries it has been used as a symbol of purification, and even in Christian churches today we find our children singing, "Let a Little Sunshine In." Until comparatively recently, however, it was not suspected that there was a real basis, in fact, for all this symbolic reverence for the sun.

Now, science tells us that the ultra-violet rays of the sun perform at least two very important services for humanity and for animal life generally. Certain harmful germ life cannot survive in the presence of these rays and certain chemical processes necessary for proper physical development cannot proceed without them. Perhaps the most important service rendered in this way is the aid given to the growth of bony structures inside the body. This is particularly important to poultry raisers.

We hear a lot about vitamins these days. No one seems to know just what they are, but quite a lot is known about what they do and that is the important thing. Of the four known vitamins, Vitamin D is the one needed to transform certain mineral elements of food into bone and eggshell. This important vitamin is manufactured right in the bodies of fowls by the direct action of the violet rays in sunshine.

This is one reason why I am always insisting on open front poultry houses and plenty of range space for fowls. Every possible means should be employed to expose their bodies to the helpful action of sunlight. Of course, this does not mean that they may not seek shade on extremely hot days. Too much of anything is not good. Even in the shade, in some cases, the ultra-violet rays can reach the fowls in sufficient measure to continue their good work. Chicks that get plenty of sunlight will not develop "leg disease" or rickets, and soft shell eggs will be rare among hens of whom the same thing is true.

Not the least of my reasons for so ardently sponsoring the open front type of house previously mentioned in this article is the antagonism of sunlight to unwelcome bacteria. Here again we find the ultra-violet rays responsible. They can penetrate many substances which will not admit other light rays, but they cannot go through ordinary window glass, consequently, if it should become necessary to close up any part of the front wall space ordinarily intended to be left open, use a glass substitute over a portion, and thin white muslin or cheesecloth over the balance. This will admit the ultra violet rays and considerable fresh air.

Before going very far with inclosing hen houses, however, it is well to remember that the less hens are pampered, the better off they will be. Pity for fowls merely because they are cold is pity misplaced. Cold, fresh air that has been purified by sunlight is always preferable to the warm, stagnant air usually found in a closed house. Besides, it must never be forgotten that the closer a house comes to being inclosed on all sides, the more it is excluding the indispensable elements that only sunshine can provide in full measure. It should also be remembered that there is less sunshine in winter than at any other time, so all the more reason for taking the fullest possible advantage of what is available.

Finally, we must not overlook the fact that, without sunshine, all of the food products so necessary for bodily development and egg production would be valueless if not non-existent. It is quite plain, therefore, that the value of plain, everyday sunshine is something we cannot afford to take for granted. It is a big, important subject and for that reason I shall be glad to go further into it with any poultry raiser sufficiently interested to write me in care of this newspaper.

County Clerk L. B. Parter and family visited relatives in Stephenville last Sunday.

The Commissioners Court was in regular session last week and came back Saturday to consider a petition signed by a number of voters in this county asking that the Commissioners Court order an election to determine whether or not the property tax paying citizens of this county desire to create the office of County School Superintendent. The election was ordered held throughout this county on the 20th day of next April. This county has never had the office of County School Superintendent that work being taken care of by the County Judge.

Mrs. Otto Simpson has been helping in the County Clerk's office several days lately.

The many friends of Mrs. L. R. Conroe are glad to learn she is improving from her recent operation in a Temple Sanitarium and it is hoped she will soon be fully recovered.

Barney Carter of Ranger visited relatives here the first of the week. Mrs. Bratton of Fort Worth is here visiting her sister, Mrs. L. R. Conroe.

Delton (Pony) Barnett and Omar (Hogge) Rudd celebrated their birthday together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Barnett in this city last Monday night. Quite a crowd attended and a very enjoyable time spent.

The people of the Baptist church have secured Dr. Marion E. Hudson, pastor of the First Baptist church at McKinney to hold their annual revival. The meeting is to begin May 12.

The recent rains have put the ground in fine condition for the farmers. All seem to be hopeful for a good crop this year.

Homer Bowden and wife visited in Fort Worth last week, taking with them Mr. Bowden's mother, Grandma Bowden, better known as Mother Bowden, she will make an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Printiss, Fort Worth, and before coming home will visit her son in Alvarado, Mr. W. O. Bowden.

Mrs. Herman Thompson and son with Mrs. L. J. Garnett of Brownwood were welcome visitors here Tuesday.

Mr. Tom Robason and Earl Burns visited the Fat Stock Show at Ft. Worth last week.

Dr. Horace McDaniels is on our sick list this week, with the flu.

Mrs. J. M. Harris has had an attack of flu this week.

The Rebecca lodge, met Wednesday night, with another new member added to their lodge. The lodge is growing nicely and much interest is being manifested in their circles.

Quite a few of our people have been going to Rising Star this week to see "King of Kings" which is playing there.

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Merrett of Sabinal visited Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Jarvis this week. Mr. Merrett is a prosperous ranchman, and reports a wonderful country round Uvalde and Sabinal and conditions very favorable for a successful year.

Miss Tula and Ralph Petty spent the week-end with parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Petty.

Mrs. Sam Keeler of Idalou visited relatives here this week.

Surveyors passed through our city Monday and Tuesday, surveying road No. 4 west of May and east to the Comanche county line. The Blake road No. 3 has already been located and a number of hands working there, this road will soon be completed.

The road from Holder to Rocky is ready for grading.

Mr. Chas. Morrison, our road commissioner has been working hard on our roads and highways and deserves much credit for the way he is handling this work.

Methodist church notes Sunday

Methodist Church Notes

Sunday will be observed as Christian Education Day.

The Pastor will preach on Christian Education at the morning hour, at the close of this service certification will be presented to those who recently completed the first unit in the Cokesbury course. At seven-thirty the pastor will deal with the question—Is Godliness profitable?

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. M. George to sew. Last Monday they met at the parsonage and enjoyed an old fashioned quilting.

Rev. and Mrs. Wallace is going to entertain the two junior classes in their home Friday afternoon from four until six.

Little James McDaniel is a new flu patient this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brewer, and Euell Brewer met their father and brother, L. G. Brewer and family in Coleman Sunday, and spent the day. Mr. L. G. Brewer resides in Norton.

Mrs. E. E. Gilliam who has been on our sick list is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Jarvis visited in Junction Sunday and Monday.

Dr. J. F. McGee has had a slight attack of flu.

Quite a nice rain fell here Tuesday night and most all day Wednesday. Crops and gardens that are planted are doing nicely.

"The fact that the young men, who make up the pilot personnel of the fleet are all graduates of well known universities, shows the part that college men are playing in business today. Probably these boys, or at least some of them, are the future executives of the Goodrich Company. They have been in training for sales work for the past six months at the factory in Akron. Many of them have enviable athletic records in the various college sports."

Goldthwaite

Again this community has been visited by the death angel and took from our midst one of our oldest and most respected citizens. Last Monday night about 11 o'clock Mr. Jimmie McAlexander passed away at his home on South Parker St. He had been sick for some time, but his condition was thought to be better until just a few minutes before he died. Mr. McAlexander had lived here for a number of years. He came to Texas with his parents in early young manhood from near Holly Springs, Miss. They lived in the Antelope Gap community for some time, later moving to Goldthwaite, where he resided until his death, Monday night, March 18, 1929. He leaves a wife and two sisters, Mrs. P. G. Palmer and Mrs. F. N. Irioin, both of this city, several nieces and nephews, a host of friends and other relatives to mourn his going. To the sorrowing ones we offer sympathy.

A series of services will begin at the Methodist church next Sunday and continue till Easter Sunday. The services will only be held at night. The pastor, Rev. S. D. Lambert, announces that all Methodists are expected to co-operate. All others cordially invited.

Frank Taylor, proprietor of the Blue Ribbon Bakery has recovered from the recent burn he sustained while moving the oven in his bakery. In some way the steam blew out and painfully burned his face, chest and arms. Fortunately the burns were not of a serious nature.

The school board has again re-elected Prof. D. A. Newton, Superintendent of our public school for another term and Mrs. Joe Palmer, principal of the grammar school.

Neal Chesser and family, Meredith Chesser and family, Mrs. H. C. Casey and family, all of Brownwood and Mrs. R. R. Collins of Cross Plains, spent Saturday and Sunday here in the home of District Clerk John S. Chesser and family.

Work started this week on the Chevrolet Garage north of the Saylor Hotel. The hotel lobby is to be made into a display room for the Chevrolet salesman, Kelly Saylor and he is building an up to date garage adjoining the hotel on the north, reaching out to the marble yard. The hotel lobby will then be on the south and front. Joe Palmer's store and all the east side of the hotel and fronting Fisher

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Cochran, the Governor's mother, never has quite approved of her daughter-in-law, Molly. After she has overheard a conversation between Molly and Arthur Bancroft, a politician, in which the revelation of an incident in the former's girlhood life is threatened, she agrees with the younger woman that it is best for her to disappear, in order to save the Governor. So Molly writes a note to her husband, telling him she is leaving to seek a literary career.

"There's just one way," she said then briefly. "We must make them believe that I am dead. Oh, I shan't be, of course," she added quickly, reading in the keen old eyes how glad she would have been to see her lying there dead at her feet if that could have saved her son. "Much depends on you," she went on. "You must listen very carefully and do exactly as I tell you."

Five minutes by the clock it required to outline the plan. The other nodded from time to time, dubiously at first; toward the end with growing conviction and hope.

"I think you'd better give him this," Molly concluded, handing her the letter she had written. "You can say you found it in my room. You must never let him suspect the real reason why I am going, and you will have to do everything on your own initiative. He would not consent."

"But—you have no money!" Sarah Cochran gasped. The thought had evidently just occurred to her. "Yes, the three hundred dollars Greg gave me on my birthday," Molly said. "You will need more." She looked about vaguely for her own purse—remembered she hadn't it with her. "You must send me some address," she said then. "I will keep you supplied, Greg wouldn't want you to lack for anything."

"I shall manage," Molly was at the door. She seemed for a moment to hesitate. Finally, without looking back: "You'll do the best you can—for him—won't you? It's not going to be easy—for him."

Molly, walking in the direction of the station with the suitcase, was thinking: "She has her son again, and she is glad. But she will have to watch him suffer. He won't show that he suffers, and that will be more terrible for her."

CHAPTER XXVI

The ticket to New York which Molly purchased involved no conscious act of will. Hong-Kong or the Antipodes would have served as well. Her one thought was to lose herself; to sink identity, personality—if such a boon might be, memory.

When she stepped on the ferry-boat in the dun-gray fog of early morning, the city on the opposite shore looked but a thing of vapors and uncouth shadows, a mildewed blotch on the encompassing dun-gray waters. The damp, piercing cold cut through her light coat, straight to the bone. Shivering, she wondered dully what she had ever imagined in such a place. Where was the enchantment, where the splendor and the terror, where the brooding giant? Fit symbol—her dreams always reckless, keyed too high; the reality dun-gray and unequivocal.

After hours of dogged tramping, miles of dingily carpeted stairs, she found a room within the possibilities of her purse. It was the smallest room she had ever seen. The old lean-to at home was spacious in comparison. She dropped her suitcase, paid the landlady two weeks in advance, locked the door, and fell full length across the dingy couch. She had not taken a Pullman for the three day's journey—she would not have slept, anyway.

Now as she lay motionless on the hard and narrow couch and stared about her at the ugly, narrow room as exasperating line kept pounding through her brain—beating time to the city's muffled yet sinister roar: "Each in his narrow cell forever laid—"

On the afternoon of the fourth day the landlady panted up the three flights of stairs and rapped with businesslike intent at the door. Molly was sitting by the one window—dressed apparently just as when she arrived. Her hat, gloves, purse, lay in precisely the same spot on the washstand.

"Did you see something?" she asked, without turning round or taking her eyes from the prospect of dingy roofs and dingier skylights.

Molly rose and took up her hat from the washstand. "I'm just going out to get something to eat," she said, with a suggestive glance at the door, which her caller's bulk had but concealed.

"Faith an' I reckon 'twon't hurt you none, neither," Mrs. Mulvaney flattened her self obligingly sideways, and noted with increasing respect for her own psychic powers that the hat went on without so much as a peek at the mirror. "Come boy, come girl, 'tis eatin' an' drinkin' we must still be after doin'." Molly turned the key in the lock and made good her escape. Once she had swallowed her spoonful of the soup which a scornful waitress set before her, her head cleared a little, her limbs grew more dependable. She inquired her way to the place where papers from home were to be had, bought a half dozen and carried them to the nearest park bench.

GOVERNOR'S WIFE DROWNS IN PLEASURE BOAT.

The headlines shrieked with heavy black type. She skimmed briefly through the double columns: Mrs. Gregory Cochran, who with her husband's mother preceded the Governor some days since to their summer camp in Michigan. . . . Alone in a small canoe—sudden squall—capsized. . . . Body not yet recovered, but every effort still being made. . . . Governor Cochran had already started North to join his family when the tragic news reached the capital. . . .

Saturday. . . . The papers sloped unnoted to the ground. Again for the thousandth time she had to live that hour of his homecoming. Unsuspecting, loving her, trusting her, hurrying home—to that letter, to that vicious, cowardly stab in the back. If she could have spared him that—the first moment of it, even—taken it somehow on herself. . . . Her own anguish was nothing. She hardly knew whether she suffered. But Greg—to picture him growing only a little more quiet and self-contained—even his mother persuaded after a while that he no longer felt the sting. . . . But he would feel it. She, Molly, knew. Molly had fancied that she had some knowledge of poverty. During the weeks and months—finally years that followed, she came to understand that she knew not even the alphabet of that grim science. In Laws' Chapel, one might suffer from poverty as from a plague or a leprosy—endure hardship, degradation. But one did not starve or take carbolic. Here people did.

She could have made money—perhaps—if she had been willing to give her mind to it, and if she had not been too dazed and stunned to care. On the day when she moved her scanty belongings into a tiny apartment of her own a wing lifted for the first time in her heart. Scarce hope, but some old spring of action and desire that abated passion for a place all her own—a place where she could take out her thoughts and stow them comfortably about, know they would always be there to greet her when she came home.

Little by little, things began to creep fearfully back—but holding themselves ready for instant and panic-stricken flight. Images, visions, a face in the dark, a voice at her elbow—faint will-o'-the-wisps of that awful beauty and ferocity of life—more awful now and more beautiful. Slight, evanescent nothing, yet hers; oh, so wholly hers! They plucked and teased at her, hinting slyly—if she would but give them a chance. . . . She might as well. There was the seasoned instrument now—or better, perhaps, seasoning. . . . Work was the supreme opiate. No world could be altogether hopeless where one could still think and work with power.

To have one's mind for oneself—the ultimate luxury—a luxury to be purchased with a price. She did purchase it with a price. She had seen cattle branded out on the plains. Those first years in New York were burnt like that into her brain and soul. Self-denial, grinding toil, disillusionment, heartache.

Then she met Myron Eldredge. Myron Eldredge was the greatest dramatic critic in New York.

"ORGATONE WAS JUST WHAT I NEEDED," SHE SAYS

"I Got to Where I Couldn't Eat Anything and Wasn't Able to Rest at Night, But Am Relieved Now," Says Brownwood Woman.

Mrs. L. A. Brandenburg of 505 Melwood St., Brownwood, Texas, in her statement regarding the benefits received from Orgatone, a few days ago, she said: "I have just taken one bottle of Orgatone and am greatly pleased with the results in my case. I just haven't felt like myself for several years. I scarcely had no life or energy about me, and my appetite was very poor and suffered terribly from indigestion. I just got to where I couldn't eat anything without suffering and having intense pains in my stomach afterward. Gas would form on my stomach and I felt depressed and down hearted and just had to force myself to do my work. I had nervous sick headaches, and at times couldn't get any sleep at night. I felt that my condition was getting worse and needed something to build me up."

"Orgatone was just what I needed to bring me out of it. It seemed to go right to the spot, and I could tell a change in my condition right after the first few doses. I'm not nervous like I was and get plenty of sound, refreshing sleep every night. I eat anything I want now, and am not bothered with the severe pains in my abdomen anymore. I seldom have a headache, and feel like doing something, and have more vim and energy. Orgatone is a good medicine and I am glad to recommend it because it has given me relief."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Brownwood exclusively by the Camp-Bell and Peerless Drug Stores, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. For sale in Coleman by Owl and Bowen Drug Stores. (adv.)

ARRANGEMENT MADE TO ENTERTAIN FEDERATED CLUB WOMEN IN APRIL

Arrangements for the Sixth District convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Brownwood April 30, May 1 and 2, were perfected at a meeting held here Tuesday afternoon. A group of women, chairmen of the various committees on arrangements, headed by Miss Carrie Reaves, general chairman, met in the club rooms, the meeting followed by a luncheon at the Southern Hotel in honor of three guests present.

Mrs. John J. Perry of Sweetwater, president of the sixth district, accompanied by Mrs. Hagerman of Ranger and Mrs. Perkins of Eastland, state officers, were present at the Tuesday meeting.

It is expected that approximately 150 women, leaders in club work of this district, will be present on the three days of the convention, a portion of which will be open to the public.

Do You Know
That Diversification Means
INDEPENDENCE

One crop producers are invariably short of money—and have obligations that they cannot meet—when emergencies arise they are unable to cope with them—and the reason is that they have depended upon one crop to pay for itself and buy everything else needed for the farm and family—and that is impossible.

Therefore before you plant this spring—give serious thought to providing your food and feed for another year—No one crop can be relied upon to provide food and the other necessities for the family—Feed for the livestock—Pay the debts and leave money in the bank—If you are to succeed you must first produce your living at home—And let your money crop be your surplus crop.

BROOKE SMITH WINS SUIT IN COURT TODAY

After being out since 4 p. m. Tuesday the jury in the case of Brooke Smith Sr. et al vs. the Western Union Telegraph Company et al in district court returned a verdict for the plaintiffs at noon Wednesday.

The suit was brought by Mr. Smith to clear title to property on which he lives which he claimed was a homestead and purchased by Mrs. Smith. The case necessitated the calling of many witnesses since it started Monday morning with Judge M. S. Long of Abilene on the bench. The suit named several defendants in addition to the Western Union.

Judge Long is taking the place of Judge E. J. Miller on this case and eleven others on which Judge Miller is disqualified.

Following the case now being tried Judge Long will take up the following cases:

Marion M. Cox, et al vs. Sinclair Gulf Oil Co., action to cancel lease, case filed May 2, 1923.

Brownwood State Bank vs. American Indemnity Co., et al, for recovery on indemnity bond.

Brownwood State Bank vs. Fidelity Union Casualty Co., et al, for recovery on indemnity bond.

Marion M. Cox vs. Preston Oil and Gas Co., for debt and damages.

C. W. Warren vs. J. A. Goodman, et al, for debt and foreclosure of lien.

Marion M. Cox, et al, vs. Dave Gully, et al, for debt and damages.

Marion M. Cox, et al, vs. George Lamb, et al, for debt and damages.

Marion M. Cox, et al, vs. Charles Avery, et al, for debt and damages.

Ben L. Shropshire, et al, vs. J. R. Forsythe, et al, for recision and recovery of title.

Coy McIntosh vs. Tom Vaughn, et al, for debt.

Brooke Smith, et al vs. A. F. McAlister, suit for debt.

BLANKET HOLDS SCHOOL DINNER

The feature attraction this year among schools in the Blanket community was the Good Will banquet held in the Blanket High School auditorium last Friday evening, according to R. L. Fortune, superintendent of the school.

The dinner was well attended by trustees and teachers of schools in that section of the county, the forty-six present representing Antioch, Center Point, Willow Springs and Mountain Valley schools.

L. L. Lanford acted as master of ceremonies, and a number of talks were made, food will and cooperation between the schools being the keynote of many of the speeches.

Dr. E. Godbold, president of Howard Payne College, made the principal talk of the evening, stressing in his talk the importance of preparing the rising generation to meet the demands which the new industrial epoch will make upon them.

Others to talk included: W. B. Jones, principal of Center Point; Mr. Fortune of Blanket; J. R. Lynch, trustee at Mt. Valley; Alvin Richmond, trustee at Willow Springs and Trustees Townsend and Bramlett of Antioch.

An exhibit of the work of pupils from the primary through the high school grades was on display in the auditorium. This display will be kept intact for a week to allow inspection of visitors, all being invited to see it.

QUARTER INCH RAINFALL HERE

Rain totaling .24 of an inch fell in Brownwood Tuesday night according to rain gauge readings at 8:30 Wednesday morning. Intermittent showers continued through the morning with slight indications of a let up during the remainder of the day.

According to reports received from other towns and cities in this section Tuesday night's rainfall was general with the precipitation being heavier south and southwest of Brownwood, Abilene, San Angelo and Ballinger had only slight showers but Coleman and surrounding territory had good rains.

Brady, Menard, Mason, and intermediate points had heavy rains during the night. The rainfall was also heavy along the Santa Fe to Temple. Rising Star had a heavy rain, as did other points north of Brownwood, Comanche, Zephyr and May report only light showers.

Although last night's rainfall was not greatly needed, the additional moisture will not do any particular harm to crops and farm lands, it is stated.

FAULTY BRAKES ARE HARD ON TIRES, SAYS LOCAL FEDERAL DEALER

Mr. O. W. McDonald, Federal dealer for this territory, in a chat with the reporter, stated that brakes had a great deal to do with the wear of tires. When brakes are set so that one wheel locks and slides more quickly than the others, that wheel does most of the braking and the tire on that wheel will wear down sooner than the others. Sometimes this may not be noticeable to the driver and serious damage to the casing may result, so care should always be exercised to have the brakes adjusted and lined evenly with a good lining which provides satisfactory, and uniform friction with no tendency to lock and slide the wheels unnecessarily. Sudden application and constant severe use of the brakes, locking and sliding the wheels, wears the tread rubber away rapidly and often causes premature failure.

ANNOUNCE DATE AND SPEAKERS FOR HOWARD PAYNE COMMENCEMENT

The speakers for the spring commencement at Howard Payne have been secured according to an announcement by Dr. E. Godbold, president. The speakers for the day are Dr. T. Luther Holcomb, executive secretary of the state board of Baptist General Conventions at Dallas and Rev. W. C. McClung, pastor of the First Baptist church of Denton, Texas.

The commencement this year will be Wednesday, May 22, and the days program will start at ten o'clock with the sermon by Dr. Holcomb to the class and friends, and will continue through the day until eight o'clock when Rev. McClung will deliver the Baccalaureate address. After the evening address and the giving of the degrees to the thirty-five members of the class the alumni banquet will be held.

McCulloch County Interscholastic School Contests March 29 and 30

BRADY, Texas, March 20.—(Sp.)—"Not a dull moment" is promised as the feature of this year's McCulloch County Interscholastic School Contests which will be held at Brady on March 29 and 30.

General Director, J. C. Trussel of Rochelle and Athletic Director R. L. Williams of Brady have just completed the two-day program with Saturday, March 30, as the main day.

According to the program, special stress has been laid upon the athletic features. As a special attraction, a Sub-Junior Division for boys under ten years of age has been added to the program for Saturday.

Both these speakers have been asked and both have accepted, and the other details of the days program are being worked out by the president of the senior class and a committee from the class and the faculty. Further announcements will be made from time to time and later a complete list of those to receive degrees will be published.

Getting up Nights Is Nature's Danger Signal

Jos. F. Boedeker, R. 36, Baden Sta., S. C. says, "I will write about my complete relief with Liblated Buchur Keller Formula. How I was relieved of getting up nights and the terrible burning. Noticed a change in 3 days. Its acts on bladder as epson salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Camp-Bell Drug Store. (adv.)

You Get Strong, If You are a tired-out or "run-down" woman, by taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Women by the thousands write letters like this:

"I have since taken the 'Prescription' during my expected periods and it kept me in such good physical condition that I never had any trouble—suffered as most women do at this time. It not only keeps a woman in good condition but helps to make the child healthy and stronger."—Mrs. C. E. Reese, 108 S. Hill St., Dallas, Texas.

The use of "Favorite Prescription" has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it from your druggist, liquid or tablets. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., for free advice. Send 10c if you want a trial package of tablets.

ONE WOUNDED, ONE JAILED AS HOLD-UP ATTEMPTED FAILS

COVINGTON, Ky., March 19.—(AP)—Gene Jacoby, 28, who said he was from Tulsa, Okla., was probably fatally wounded and his companion, Walter Cook, 39, Hamilton, Ohio, was in jail today charged with an attempted holdup.

The two men late last night entered a drug store operated by E. D. Riley. Jacoby fired a shot into the ceiling and ordered Riley to put up his hands. Instead, Riley opened fire, one bullet taking effect near Jacoby's heart. Both bandits escaped in an automobile to be captured later by a motorcycle policeman.

AGED MAN DEAD RIFLE BULLET IN HEART IS CAUSE

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas, March 19.—(AP)—Henry Kusenberger, 70, retired farmer, died here today from a rifle bullet through his heart. A rifle was by his side. Kusenberger's brother told the coroner his brother had been despondent and had worried since the courts recently upheld the incorporation of Fredericksburg to which Hena Kusenberger was opposed.

LET A LITTLE SUNSHINE IN Wife

The ancients of man shipped the sun at times it has been a bit of a nuisance. A gang of five gangsters drove a car out of the apartment of Frank Sacco, former convict, in Astoria, Ore., today, battered down the door and shot him and his wife, Rose, to death. The slayers escaped in their automobile.

Sacco, the police said, was released from Sing Sing prison about a month ago, where he had served a term for perjury. They said that search of police records indicated the slayings were in revenge for that is the four k... that Sacco gave in a trial which followed a gang shooting in April, 1925, in which one man was killed and Sacco seriously wounded.

The slain couple had evidently expected trouble, for the police found that the inside of the door leading to their apartment was heavily sheathed with iron.

ORGATONE GIVES YOU HEALTH

Is Bringing Health and Happiness to Thousands—Brownwood Man Tells Benefits and Remarkable Change.

If you do not wake up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed, and ready for your day's work; if you are not brimful of energy and vitality—you are not enjoying the blessings of health that should be yours.

Medical Science has at last found a way to overcome the great majority of common, every-day ailments, which make us physically and mentally inefficient.

However, you can't cure constipation, indigestion, gas, dyspepsia, headaches and biliousness by blasting out of the intestinal tract with strong laxatives, or cathartics, which give only temporary relief, if any at all. These ailments can be overcome in one way and in one way alone—by treating them at the source, which in seven cases out of ten has been found to be a sluggish liver and the consequent lack of bile flow.

In short, most of the half-sick, run down people of today, with sallow complexions, headaches, coated tongues, bad breath and lowered vitality, who are troubled with indigestion and gas, dizziness and constipation simply are not getting enough bile. Medical research has revealed that seven people out of ten, past the age of thirty, are in this condition, such was the case of H. B. Everitt, of 510 Mayes, Brownwood, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently, he says:

"I suffered for two long years with indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I had fermentation, and gas formed and crowded my heart, which made me very miserable. I would get bilious and dizzy, and have headaches and bloating spells. I had high blood pressure and a bad case of constipation, and was just in a general run down condition and didn't have any strength or energy.

"Orgatone was recommended to me for my troubles and I began taking it. It has certainly proven to be the right medicine in my case. I am entirely relieved of my indigestion and feel a lot better since taking just a part of a bottle. I eat anything I want, and enjoy hearty meals and my constipation is a thing of the past, and, in fact, I am just in better condition all around and am glad to tell what Orgatone did for me."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Brownwood exclusively by the Camp-Bell and Peerless Drug Stores, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. For sale in Coleman by Owl and Bowen Drug Stores.—Adv.

AFFIRM THREE DEATH VERDICTS

AUSTIN, March 26.—(P)—Three death sentences were affirmed by the court of criminal appeals today.

Jessie Charles, Liberty county, charged with the murder of Winfred Silas Jarman, convicted in Grayson county for the robbery in Cooke county on October 8, 1928, of Mrs. A. R. Hassenpflug. It was alleged he threatened her with a steel-yard, placing her in fear of her life and bodily harm. It was charged he took an automobile from her. Jarman was a negro cotton picker working on the Hassenpflug farm. While Mr. Hassenpflug was away the negro went to the house and asked Mrs. Hassenpflug to take him to one of the fields. After they had started he attacked her and took the car.

Mauro Guajardo, Williamson county, convicted of the murder of Arthur Bunnell on May 28, 1928. The Jones county court verdict of 15 years against Clarence Beauchamp for assault to murder was affirmed. It was charged that Beauchamp shot his wife, Bennie Beauchamp. The two were in an attorney's office at the time of the shooting, and were endeavoring to arrange a divorce. Beauchamp claimed he intended shooting himself and wounded Mrs. Beauchamp accidentally.

NOTED MUSICIAN IS AIDING IN REVIVAL AT BAPTIST CHURCH

H. Virgil Reynolds, noted pianist, of Denton, arrived in the city this morning and will appear in the Coggin Avenue Baptist revival tonight. Mr. Reynolds was announced to be here last Sunday to begin the revival but was detained with another engagement in Jacksonville, Texas, where he had been in a revival with Rev. Frank Weedon, pastor of the Central Baptist church of that city.

This is not the first time Mr. Reynolds has appeared before a Brownwood audience, but it has been several years since he visited our city last. He has been in most of the leading Baptist churches in the South as well as in all the denominational conventions for the past several years. His talent is unusual, as are his methods. He will perform on the piano, directing the choir from the instrument. While the congregation is singing he will leave the piano to his assistant, and catch the music on the mirlimba which adds charm to the singing.

"If you have not heard Mr. Reynolds, you have heard nothing like him as he is unique in his field. Dr. Hornburg, the pastor, says, 'All Brownwood is invited to hear this noted musician. He will appear twice daily at the revival being conducted at Coggin Avenue Baptist church. Services daily at 10:10 to 11:00. The services will continue through Easter.'"

TYLER TWINS
Twin infants of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Tyler, 1205 Vine Street, born about 8 o'clock Friday night at the Medical Arts Hospital, died shortly after midnight, their death occurring only a few minutes apart. Funeral and burial services were held for the twin babies at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, with burial being made in the Cedar Point cemetery.

NEVER EXPECTED WELL DAY AGAIN

"I Honestly Feel Like a Young Man Again, I'm So Full of Life and Energy, Since Taking Orgatone," Says Brownwood Man.

"About three years ago I didn't think I would ever be a well man again, but Orgatone has put new life in me and I feel like a young man again," said R. A. Parks of 507 Beaver Street, Brownwood, Texas. Mr. Parks has been the janitor for the Christian Church for several years, and is known by nearly every one in this city.

"I suffered for about three years," he went on, "from rheumatic pains and sciatica that run up and down my sides like fire breaking out and burning. I was also bothered with indigestion, and kidney trouble and just suffered something terrible. I was unable to eat hardly anything and what I did eat did not agree with me. Gas formed and would bloat me up, and crowded my heart until it would palpitate so bad I could hardly get my breath."

"My nerves were in a pretty bad state and this worried me all the time. I would just roll and tumble all night long, and it was just impossible for me to get any sleep, and had to get up several times every night with my kidneys. At times a hard lump would form in my stomach that made me very uneasy, and would pain me something terrible. I had a very bad case of constipation and had to take something most all the time."

"Orgatone was recommended so highly I decided to try it, and have just taken a part of a bottle and it has done me a wonderful amount of good. My nerves are perfectly steady like when I was a younger man, and I am feeling more like my old self again. I feel lively and more energetic and want to be stirring about and doing things. I eat anything I want now, and it doesn't bother me afterward and I enjoy every meal. I would wake up in the morning after a good night sleep and feel fine, and ready for my day's work. My rheumatism has disappeared, and the gas and bloating spells don't bother me any more. Orgatone has done me more good than anything I ever saw or took in my life before, and I gladly recommend it every chance I get."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs, and is sold in Brownwood exclusively by the Camp-Bell and Peerless Drug Stores, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. For sale in Coleman by Owl and Bowen Drug Stores. (adv.)

Laverne Walker and Ben Arvin Winners in Declamation

Miss Laverne Walker and Ben Arvin won Monday evening the honor of representing the Senior High School in the county Interscholastic League declamation contests to be held in Brownwood Mar. 29th. The annual elimination contests for the coveted honor were held at the High School building. The speeches were splendid, in the opinion of the judges and all who heard them, and the contest was very close.

Eight girls took part in the senior girls' declamation contest. Ina Guthrie, Essie Jones, Sybil Dodson, Anathala Williams, Isadora King, Laverne Walker, Cleo Cobb and Margaret Darnon. Laverne Walker won first, Margaret Darnon second and Isadora King third. J. W. Peevey, Jr., Jeff Thomas Wilkes, John Will Jennings, Jr., Ben Arvin, Floyd Taylor and Leander Hall were the six boys who declaimed. Ben Arvin winning first place, Leander Hall second and J. W. Peevey, Jr., third.

Silver Loving Cup For Girls' Debate

The silver loving cup that will be given the winner of the Girls Debating contests to be held in conjunction with the Brown County Interscholastic Meet in Brownwood, March 29th and 30th, was received Monday morning. The cup was purchased by Roussel-Robertson and will be given to the winning team at this year's debating contests. The cup stands about 20 inches high and is one of the prettiest to be offered this year. It can be seen on display in the show windows of Roussel-Robertson.

Thought for Today
We've all got to go to school, I expect, and we don't all get the same lesson to learn, but the one we do get is our'n, 'aint nobody else's, and if it's real hard, why, it shows the teacher thinks we're capable.—Rose Terry Cooke.

Doesn't Work Right
The discouraging thing about dieting is that you can lose 20 pounds without seeming any smaller in the place you wanted to lose it.

Both Wholesome Needs
Solitude is as needful to the imagination as society is wholesome for the character.—Lowell.

What "tire economy" really means

"Economy" doesn't mean buying cheap tires. True, you may save a dollar or two on first cost, but suppose a dealer does offer you tires at less than the price of the standard makes? It stands to reason that's all they are worth.

You can come in here, pay a fair price for a Kelly-Springfield (no more than you would pay for any other reputable make) and get the quality product of the tire industry. When the "price buyer's" second set of tires is wearing out, you are still turning in cost-cutting miles on your Kellys. Which buy is the real economy?

If you are not already using Kellys, get acquainted with us; we can show you what "tire economy" really means.

Sisters of Subject Of Magazine Story Live In Brownwood

The write quotes "Shorty" with saying: "I don't supposed there's been a Christmas yet since I left home but I've planned to go back. A dozen times I've saved up money to go home but when I hit town, somehow the money slips away. But I did send some of my pictures once and my sister who I've never seen wrote how interesting they were."

The sister of "Shorty" Caraway, whom he has never seen, lives here in Brownwood. She is Mrs. Lois Manning who resides with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mayo, 421 Milton Avenue. Mrs. Mayo, formerly Nellie Caraway, is also a sister, however she has seen her brother several times since he left home. Mrs. Manning states that "Shorty" ran away from home with a bunch of "cow punchers" when he was a boy and since that time has never returned. The home at that time was in Mills county, near Caradan.

The writer of the American Magazine article says: "Of all the cowpunchers I have ever known Shorty is to me the most interesting."
