EDITOR STATES IT WELL

One political issue is treated ably in an editorial by Editor Tom McKnight in the N. C. Mooresville Tribune, as it concerns candidate Jack Kennedy for the Presidency. Mr. McKnight mentions that Kennedy "was educated at Harvard, a Protestant institution, and not once in his political career has he allowed religion to interfere with affairs of state."

Here is Mr. McKnight's forthright appraisal of this candidate for the presidency: "I shall attempt no purple prose in defense of the Democrats nominating a Catholic for President. Nor will there be any vinegar in the ink for those whose personal convictions make it impossible for them to support a Catholic for this high office."

"I will simply state my position and be done with the subject once and forever.

"That Kennedy is a Catholic makes absolutely no difference to me in the appraisal of his qualifications for the Presidency. If the history of this office proves anything, it proves that church affiliation, or lack of it, has meant nothing.

"Four of our Presidents belonged to no church, Hayes, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Johnson gave only lip service to organized religion, never affiliated with any church. Two of them were never baptized and, in my humble opinion, one of them was at heart practically an atheist. Yet, of the four, Jefferson and Lincoln still rank among the world's finest statesmen.

"Ten Presidents have been Episcopalians, 6 Presbyterians, 4 Methodists, 3 Unitarians, 2 Baptists, 2 Dutch Reformed and 1 each of Quakers, Congregationalists and Disciples of Christ. Put the religious creeds of all these churches into a crucible and stir them and you come up with some weird stuff. A little Catholicism thrown into the pot isn't going to alter the fate of our nation one way or another.

"While our religious beliefs do not coincide at many points, I hold no fear of the Pope. My only fear today is for my freedom, a fear stemming from Russia. Perhaps the most powerful moral foe Russia has on earth today is the Pope. I'm mighty glad to have His Holiness on my side in this one.

"Senator Kennedy believes in the separation of church and state and his entire public record proves it. He keeps his religion to himself, has repeatedly defied the Catholic hierarchy in matters of state. For instance, the Catholic church, backed by strong pressure from the Papacy in Rome, opposed foreign aid to the Communist satellite countries. Senator Kennedy supported such aid and voted for it. When the Catholic hierarchy swooped down on him, he brusquely brushed them aside with the admonition they were out of bounds." Manteo, N. C., Coastland Times

AMBITION AMBUSHED

In case you've wondered why so few school youngsters are now employed during summer vacation, the Wellington (Ohio) Enterprise has come up with an explanation.

It recounts how a 16-year-old son asked his father, owner of a small factory, to give him a job during vacation. Dad was pleased and rather boastfully told his foreman to find a spot for sonny-boy. The foreman pessimistically pointed out some road blocks: "First you must apply for a special permit for the employment of a minor," he said. "Then you'll deduct 20 percent from your son's wages for income tax purposes.

"At the end of his employment you'll apply to the Internal Revenue Bureau for permission to refund the 20 percent, since the boy would not be earning enough in the vacation period to make him eligible as an income-taxpayer.

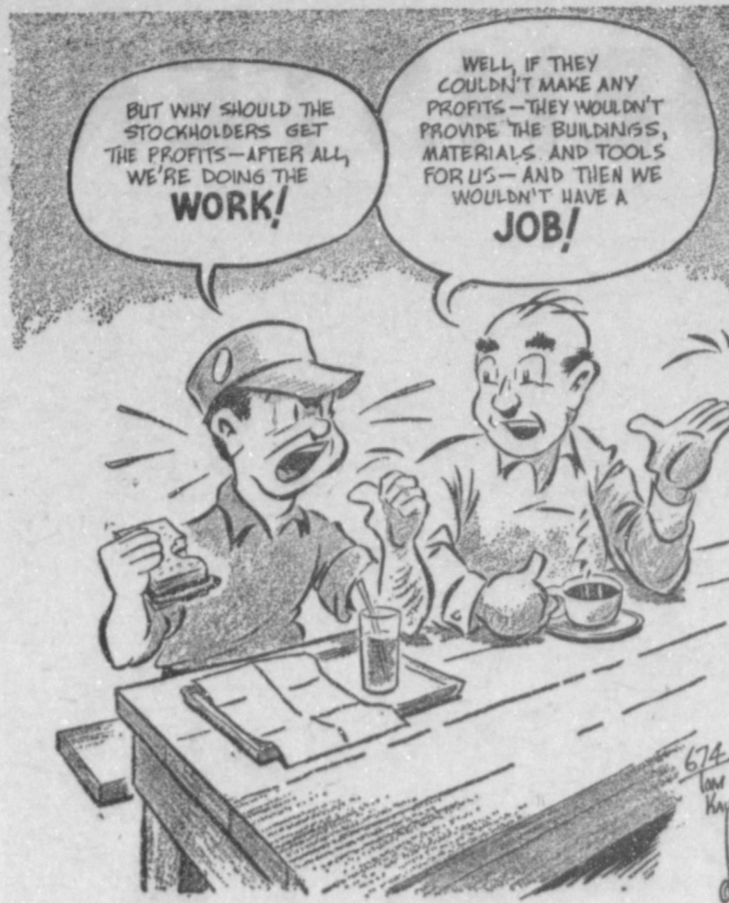

"Next, you'll report the boy's earnings along with your own, at the end of the current tax year, and pay taxes on them since the boy is a minor.

"You'll also have to report the termination of the boy's employment."

The Wellington Enterprise concludes this sad tale of ambushed ambition and punctured pride thusly: "Sequel: The boy attended a summer camp."

CAN OUR YOUTH BE FOOLED?

American youth is being wooed by the Communists. J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI, reports: "In 1959, the Communist Party, U.S.A. launched a major campaign with youth as its target. . . . The purpose . . . was to devise a program to attract young blood—teenagers, students, and working youth — to the ranks of the Party. . . . The Party began operating what amounted to a regular lecture bureau, with Party spokesmen seizing every opportunity to project their views on campuses across the country.

Economics Made Easy

"Further illustrating the tremendous drive the Party is making to infiltrate student groups is the agenda for a youth conference the Party held in Chicago, June 11-12, 1960. The major points on the agenda for the two-day conference were (1) 'mass developments on the campus' and (2) 'left-student development'. Discussed in relation to these points were ways and means by which young Communists could exploit such controversial issues on campuses as civil rights, academic freedom, and other so-called peace issues."

The Communist threat from without must not blind us to the Communist threat from within, which, if successful, would wipe out the very things Communism professes to promote, namely, civil rights, academic freedom and peace issues.

True, True

Most people know how to say nothing—few know when.

NEEDED: FACTS

Fred G. Clark and Richard Stanton Rimanoczy, in a leaflet published by the American Economic Foundation, describe some of the attitudes of high schools students toward the American business system, as revealed by various polls.

Substantial numbers of these student — well over half in many cases — think that increased productivity is not the way to improve national living standards; that better tools mean fewer jobs, even in the long run; that it is better for a worker not to produce more than the average of his fellow workers; that the profit motive is not essential to American business; that dividends are a burden on wages; that there is "practically no competition" in many basic industries.

So it goes, down a long and disheartening list of misconceptions. The authors observe that, "these misconceptions are not deep-rooted; they are based on wrong information, and are susceptible to simple truth". But these misconceptions, if left uncorrected, will breed a deep-seated feeling of suspicion against all private business and industry. It is frightening to think of this feeling being carried to the voting booths a few years from now. Realistic instruction in basic economics and presentation of the facts of business as they actually exist is critically overdue in our schools today.

A WISE MAN

By Doctor George F. Carter, Dept. of Geography, Johns Hopkins University

Some men read half a dozen languages. Some are incredibly learned in mathematics. Some can calculate the weight of an atom. Some men can even tell the age of a 5,000-year-old city by examining a handful of broken pottery.

SUCH MEN are great scholars. They are amazingly learned within their field. Many of them are truly intellectual. Yet they need not be wise at all. Learning and wisdom are not the same thing. I have known men who could neither read nor write yet who were wise.

What is a wise man? God has gifted us so that some of us are musical, some artistic, some intellectual, some muscular. It is the beginning of wisdom to recognize our differences and to accept our special gifts as a responsibility. A wise man does this. He knows why he exists and he knows how he should behave.

A WISE MAN keeps in mind that as important as science is, it deals only with the material things of nature. Science does not deal with the supernatural world, though in outbreaks of "unwisdom" scientists may at times deny the supernatural. These men may be learned, but certainly not wise. It is from their ranks that a regular procession of learned fools marches forward to embrace godless communism in the belief that this horrible evil can be good. It is not that skills and facts are are unimportant. It is simply that they are only relatively important. They are second to wisdom. Wisdom does not flow from just any kind of knowledge. Even less does wisdom come from skills with the typewriter or the microscope or the Geiger counter. Not even intelligence guarantees wisdom.

THE MOST important thing for wisdom is to know why you exist. God is the answer to this. Without God life is meaningless—a man a mere animal and the individual an unimportant cog in a machine. Without God the world becomes a beehive or a termite heap. This is the path that leads to socialism and communism. For without God, man as an individual has no meaning, and meaningless actions cannot be wise.

When we put Christ first, all other things take their proper place. Then we see that it is not our wealth or our fame or our position that really counts, but the kind of life we lead and the example we set amongst a confused people. We need Christianity at the grass roots. We need Christian family life, Christian participation in every part of our community. We desperately need wise Christian leadership. We need the wisdom that springs from a fully human, fully Christian way of life. We need to make our lives golden threads of Christian wisdom woven into the fabric of America.

WITH SUCH example man can be changed from an ant to an individual. Man can find purpose and meaning in life.

OUR DUTY lies before us.

The men glared at him for a moment. Then one of them said: Not me, I hate to stand in line."

'61 CHEVY TRUCKS

WITH WORK-PROVED INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!

Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more . . . the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!

You'll find new models for '61—long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive units—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on owner reports) that Chevy's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!

With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturdi-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel fight and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.

Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around the block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!

ing over from the 1. A pass for extra points failed and the visitors led 6-0.

The kickoff that followed was short and Muenster started a nice come-back drive from its 45. Four first downs in a row reached the Bobcat 8, and Muenster spirits were soaring as two line crashes went to the 3. But two end plays lost ground and ended Muenster's best chance of the night.

Statistically the first half was Muenster's. Except for the 66 yard romp on interception Newcastle gained a net of only 12 yards on the ground and 16 in the air. Even on the interception act, and just two plays before it, Harris came close to turning in a duplicate feat. He scooped 35 yards before being stopped in mid field.

The second half, however, definitely belonged to the visitors. They gained 95 yards to the Muenster's 31.

Early in the fourth quarter, especially, they put on a sustained push that went 50 yards to the Hornets 20. Muenster defense was equal to the job there and the next four plays advanced only 1 yard.

But a hand off three plays later went sour and the ball tumbled toward the goal.

Newcastle recovered on the 16.

Pounds almost got away but was nailed on the 3, giving the Bobcats a full series of downs for the few important yards. A penalty lost 5 and the next play lost 3, a pass went incomplete, another pass reached the 1, and Hulse made good on the last chance, crashing over from the 1. A run for bonus points failed.

FFA Boys Attend Area Program for Lone Star Farmers

Three members of the local FFA chapter, Donnie Vogel, James Whitt and Choice Stephens, along with their instructor, Edgar Dyer, and Superintendent L. B. Bruns attended the annual area banquet for Lone Star Farmers Tuesday night. It was sponsored by Farm and Ranch and held in the Pioneer Palace at Fort Worth.

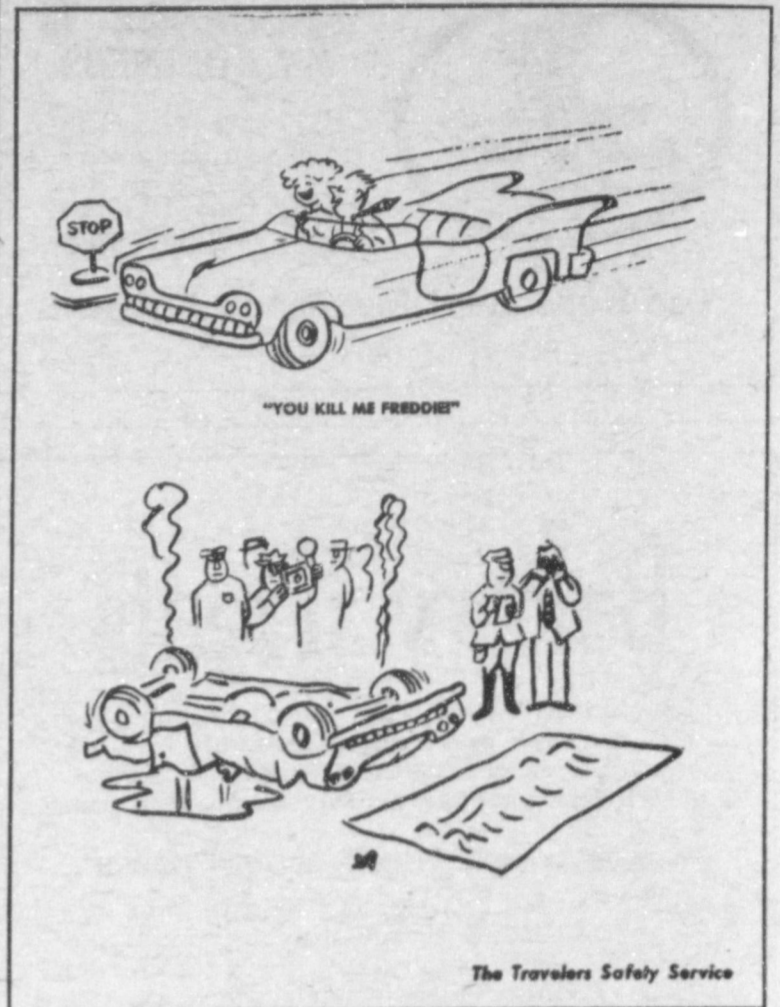

Featured speaker on the program was Joe Dan Penn of the Hudson Chapter and state president of the organization. He is dated to visit the Muenster chapter soon.

Muenster had no candidates for the Lone Star degree this year but some of its members are in line now to qualify for it next year. Four received it last year: Donny Trubenbach, Doug Hellman, Roger Fleitman and Ferd Haverkamp.

A man who was wanted by the police had been photographed in six positions, and the pictures had been sent out to the state police.

In a few days headquarters received this from a small town chief: "I duly received the pictures of six miscreants wanted. Five of them have been captured and we are on the trail of the sixth."

No more than $4800 of self-employed taxpayers' earnings is subject to tax. The self-employment tax is in addition to income tax. If you were self-employed, you must have a social security account number. You can get an application blank, Form SS-5, at your Post Office. NOTES FROM CITY LIBRARY

"A Rich Young Man" by John E. Beahn.

This fascinating new story about St. Anthony or Padua by John E. Beahn is based on the history, traditions, and legends that have perpetuated his memory. Born of noble Portuguese parents he renounced his rightful heritage to wealth and power to become a humble Franciscan friar.

The book follows Friar Antonio to Africa, Italy, and France. The miracles he performs, the throngs he converts, and the ordeals he faces both as a man and a priest are some of the episodes that make this book one of susinterest and high inspiration.

Although the author's interest in St. Anthony stems from his childhood, it wasn't until he was stationed in Italy during World War II that he determined to write a story for American readers that would portray this saint as the Italian people seemed to know him. From the devotion manifested by these people burdened with the tragedies of war he knew that St. Anthony was much more to them than just "a finder of lost things."

"I don't want to scare you," the eight-year-old told his teacher. "But my daddy says if I don't get better grades, somebody's gonna get spanked!"

Announcing the 1961 Ford... Beautifully proportioned to the CLASSIC FORD LOOK

The 1961 Ford Galaxie Club Victoria—beautifully built to take care of people

BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF

The 1961 Ford introduces a whole new concept of what a car can do for you . . . and for itself!

It lubricates itself. New nylon bearings and a newly developed lubricant keep the '61 Ford freshly greased for 30,000 miles. It cleans its own oil. The 1961 Ford's Full-Flow oil filter lets you go 4,000 miles between oil changes.

It adjusts its own brakes. A "mechanical brain" keeps brakes adjusted for the life of the lining.

Rust? Ford's body is specially processed to resist corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.

Ford takes care of itself on the turnpike, too, with a new 390-cu. in. Thunderbird Special V-8 that has all the punch you'll ever need. The 352 Thunderbird Special V-8 and 292 Thunderbird V-8 thrive on regular gas. And, for top economy, you can choose the '61 Mileage Maker Six.

This is the 1961 Ford . . . beautifully proportioned to the Classic Ford Look . . . beautifully built to take care of itself.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

LUBRICATES ITSELF. You'll normally go 30,000 miles without a chassis lubrication.

CLEANS ITS OWN OIL. You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes with Ford's Full-Flow oil filter.

ADJUSTS ITS OWN BRAKES. New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves automatically.

GUARDS ITS OWN MUFFLER. Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized—normally will last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

PROTECTS ITS OWN BODY. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing body panels beneath doors.

TAKES CARE OF ITS OWN FINISH. New Diamond Lustre Finish never needs wax.

March of Dimes Support Urged by Mother Who Lost Birth Defects Baby in 49 Days

(Editor's Note: Mary Strous, young Laurelville, Ohio, mother, tells in her own words the tragic story of what happens in a family when a child is born with a serious birth defect.)

By MARY STROUS

Our baby Laura was born on Mother's Day seven years ago. We lost Laura seven weeks later on Father's Day.

She gave a soft little sigh as she died in my arms. My husband and I buried her with the rattle to which she had clung tightly during her brief life.

But Laura, who died of the terrible birth defects known as open spine and too much fluid on the brain, still lives in the hearts of her father Don and myself. When asked by strangers, we always say we have three daughters (instead of really only two), and I want to explain why.

We feel that each of us, including our tiny Laura, is brought into the world to serve a purpose, even if our stay on earth is as tragically short as 49 days.

For years we were numbed by our baby's passing. But today we recognize that in being asked by The National Foundation to renew our memories of those despairing seven weeks, my husband and I are somehow fulfilling the purpose of Laura's fleeting visit with us.

That purpose is to repeat as forcefully as we can the lessons we have learned:

1. Scientists insist that parents should not be ashamed over the birth of an infant with a congenital malformation; instead, face the situation bravely and seek professional advice. Feelings of guilt aren't justified.

2. There is no medical evidence that birth defects are always hereditary; and

3. There is no evidence that because a couple have had one defective baby, they are likely to have another. Doctors at Columbus, Ohio, near our farm at Laurelville, said our chances of having another malformed baby were something like one in 40,000. (Donna Marguerite, Mary Strous, of Ohio, and daughters Julie Ann, two, and Donna Marguerite, five, study photos of youngest child, Laura, who died of birth defects at seven weeks.

five years old, and Julie Ann, two, who followed Laura after Don and I had reflected deeply and sought advice, could not be healthier or more normal.)

But by no means have Don and I forgotten our hopelessness and indeed our self-loathing during those 49 days and nights when we look turns holding Laura in our arms, or sat hour after hour beside her bassinet, watching life drain from her eyes.

We detested ourselves because of torments that something was wrong with us physically, or that a shameful defect had been inherited from our forebears (later proved untrue), and that we were thus responsible for this cruelty to an innocent baby.

Never will we forget the frantic drive, while our baby was dying, to our church so that she might be baptized before she left us. In some way our congregation had learned of the reason for our headlong visit, and the tears of those sorrowing folks flowed with ours.

Our Laura was one of 250,000 babies born each year in our country with significant birth defects; that tragic total is growing with our increasing population. Our baby was one of 34,000 who in addition die annually from these congenital malformations; and that awful figure is also mounting.

At last, something constructive is being done about birth defects. With March of Dimes contributions, The National Foundation is directing a broad study of this devastating puzzle, just as it fought polio and in time found the Salk vaccine to prevent it.

With a donation in January from each of us, in time there will be many fewer Lauras in our land.

A district director of Internal Revenue in Colorado found this notation written across the return from a taxpayer:

"Congratulations on the best puzzle you ever put out."

Then there's the tale which has an American and a Dutchman discussing their respective national flags.

The Netherlands flag, the Dutchman explained, has three stripes—red, white, and blue. "We say," he went on, "they have a connection with our taxes. We get red when we talk about them, white when we get our tax bills, and we pay them till we're blue in the face."

"That's just how it is here," replied the American. "Only we see stars, too."

A company's employment office was checking on references.

"How long did this man work for you?" the former employer was asked.

"About 4 hours," was the reply.

"Why he told us he'd been there a long time," said the astonished caller.

"Oh, yes," answered the ex-employer, "he's been here three years."

"Oh Henry," cried the irritated wife, "that woman next door has a hat just like my new one."

"Now I suppose you want to buy another one," replied the resigned man.

"Well, it would be cheaper than moving."

Things were quiet at the police station. One officer yawned and complained:

"What a dull week! No burglaries, no fights, no murders. If this keeps up, they'll be laying us off."

"Don't worry, Murphy," said the chief. "Something's bound to happen. I've still got faith in human nature."

Confetti . . .

in a lot of defamatory junk attacking the Catholic church in general.

It's hard to imagine how supposedly reasonable and fair people can go to such ridiculous extremes. If the slanderous stuff they dish out were true it would mean that every Catholic must be an imbecile. Do they really think that forty million of their fellow countrymen fit in that classification?

As regards their ideas of a Catholic president's clash of religious and civil duty, can they name the case of one Catholic in high office who ever encountered that situation? There have been senators, representatives, judges, governors, mayors . . . occupants of every office except the presidency . . . and none of them has ever faced such a conflict. They can't point to a precedent, of course, but they insist that the Catholic church is in conflict with the constitution, and they persist in that claim even though some of the best informed men of the Church have denied it. Do they claim to know more about the Church than those men? Or do they just presume them to be liars? That's either the height of presumption or the height of intolerance, or both.

And there's that old time-worn line about violating the sacred principle of separation of church and state. It would be amusing if it were not so pathetic. The critics should check up on their country's history, specifically the settlement of the colony of Maryland. They would find that separation of church and state, along with religious freedom, was introduced in America by the Catholic Lord Baltimore.

Regardless of such obvious facts they still say that a Catholic cannot qualify for president. What hogwash! It's deplorable that such ignorance and such prejudice are allowed to influence our voters.

If people could only realize it, religion has no bearing whatever on either man's qualification for office, and it will never have a bearing on either man's administration of office. The only problem facing voters is to decide which of the two is best qualified to do a good job.

"Nothing makes people go into debt like trying to keep up with people who already are."
