

Parish Needs More Cash To Start Church

Seek Official OK to Remove Present Church and Clear Site for New Building

Construction of Muenster's new church must be delayed until a larger amount of cash and negotiable paper is actually on hand.

Muenster persons attending were Father Frovin Koerd, J. M. Weinzapfel, C. J. Fette, and Felix Becker.

Another decision Sunday night was to seek permission from the Diocese to remove the present church.

A second incentive for removing the church is to have a more comfortable place—the school basement—for services this winter, and also to remove a serious hazard.

Gone 45 Years Is Amazed By City's Growth

Mrs. August Flusche of Muskogee, Okla., spent Saturday here with her nephew, Joseph Flusche and family.

Mrs. Flusche is the wife of the late August Flusche, one of the original founders of this community.

While here she visited all the places of interest and remarked that "words simply failed her" when asked what she thought about the Muenster of today.

MUENSTER KNIGHTS TO SPONSOR PICNIC ON SUNDAY, SEPT. 15

On Sunday, September 15, the Muenster Knights of Columbus will sponsor a community picnic in their hall.

Another decision of the Knights was a change in their meeting schedule back to that of several years ago.

Mrs. T. S. Myrick and children accompanied her sister, Miss Charis Bradshaw, to Weatherford Tuesday and spent the day with her parents.

TROUBLE FLARES ON BALKAN BORDERS

Clashes between Russian and Rumanian troops in the vicinity of Dorohoi (1) are reported to have caused many casualties.

spotlight of the world is centered in the Balkans. Axis powers have decided to cede Transylvania to Hungary and the decision of Italy and Germany was hardly news when Russia started asking for its share.

Weinzapfel To Supervise Soil Election

The proposed soil conservation district for Cooke county and parts of Montague and Grayson has been approved by the state soil conservation board.

At that time Weinzapfel accepted the appointment as election superintendent for the district with authority to determine where each box will be located.

Weinzapfel will consult with county agents of Cooke, Grayson and Montague in the near future to outline the number of boxes and the area assigned to each.

Every land owner who is an otherwise qualified voter will be entitled to vote in the referendum, whether or not he lives on a farm.

When Weinzapfel and the county agents complete their report they will send it to the state soil conservation board.

PLYMOUTH IS FIRST 1941 MODEL CAR TO ARRIVE AT MUENSTER

As in the past several years Plymouth is the first car to introduce its new model at Muenster.

Though no radical changes have been made in design there are numerous small changes resulting in better appearance, more power, and more convenience.

Outstanding among other additions is a new powermatic shift to reduce effort of driving.

Protective features for the car are a seal throughout the body to keep out dust, water, heat and noise.

The 1941 Plymouth is offered in three models, the Standard, the DeLuxe and the Special DeLuxe.

SEPTEMBER 16TH IS OPENING DAY AT MUENSTER SCHOOLS

Both Muenster schools, the Sacred Heart Parochial and the Public School, will officially open the 1940-41 scholastic year on Monday, September 16.

Announcement of the parochial school's opening was made Sunday by Father Frovin, and trustees of the public school, feeling that it is more satisfactory to have both schools open and close at the same time.

Teachers at the parochial school have not been announced to date. Seven of the Benedictine Sisters are in Muenster and the remainder of the teaching staff is to arrive from the motherhouse next week.

The seven nuns here now are Sisters Anastasia, Bertha, Gebharda, Theresina and Agnes, school teachers, and Sister Leonarda, music instructor.

At the public school the faculty has one change. Miss Mary Wiedeman will replace Miss Mary Barker who resigned last year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wieler are the parents of a daughter, Emma Gene, born at the local clinic Thursday evening.

LABOR DAY PICNIC ADDS TO FUND FOR NEW PARISH CHURCH

The traditional Labor Day picnic and dance sponsored by the Mothers' Society of the parish Monday was attended by almost all of Muenster and a good representation of citizens from neighboring communities.

The event opened at 1 o'clock, and in spite of very warm weather, attracted a large group.

The Walterscheid orchestra, just returned from an engagement in Rio Grande Valley, furnished music for the dance on the main floor while the usual bazaar attractions continued in the basement.

Muenster Riders Win Places In Motorcycle Races At Sherman

Four Muenster motorcyclists shared in the prizes last Sunday afternoon when motorcycle clubs of North Texas sponsored a field day and race at Sherman.

Urban Endres, winning one first and two second places, tied for second place honors for the afternoon.

The Muenster motorcycle club participated in sponsoring the event, which was hardly as successful as that staged here three weeks earlier.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Frost of Ada, Okla., were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hellman.

Three Badly Hurt In Four Accidents During Week End

Death Claims Clem Hermes 83, Of Lindsay

Progressive Farmer and Prominent Citizen Had Been Lindsay Resident For 34 Years

LINDSAY. — Clem Hermes, Sr., 83, a resident of this community for 34 years, died at the home of his son, Ben Hermes, Thursday, August 29, following an illness that sent him to bed 5 weeks ago.

Funeral services were held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at Saint Peter's church with Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiating at the mass of requiem and at burial in the Lindsay cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of George J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home and pallbearers were Jake Bezner, Val Dieter, Peter Block, Nick Block, John Neu and Matt Neu.

Mr. Hermes was born May 22, 1857, at Fishbach, Aldenburg, Germany, and came to America when he was 30 years of age, settling in Kentucky. Two years later he was married to Miss Mary Felthouse.

Mr. Hermes was a thrifty and progressive farmer, farming the place now occupied by his son, Ben Hermes, and was esteemed by the entire community. He was known for his willingness to assist in activities, both religious and civic.

He is survived by 10 children, Ben, Clem, Jr., Julius and Tony Hermes, Mrs. Ben Sandman, Mrs. Joe Bengfort, Mrs. Pete Neu and Mrs. Theodore Neu, all of Lindsay, and Sister Marcella of the Order of Divine Providence, San Antonio. Also 53 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild.

Sewer Crew Returns To Full Time Schedule; Still In Rock Formation

With the beginning of a new work month in which the full WPA crew is permitted to work full time, E. K. Whittaker, resident engineer, expects considerable progress on the sewer project in the next three weeks.

All the ditch crew is back in solid rock. Those on the alley east of Main struck theirs again at First street and those west of main just before reaching Second.

By that time drainage lines will also be completed and service will be available throughout the business section.

HIRSCY BAKERY WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK IN OLD BANK BUILDING

After suspending business for several months the Muenster Bakery will open again next week in a new location.

As he neared the end of his remodeling and installation program this week, Joe Hirschy, manager, said he was reasonably certain the place would be operating next weekend.

Many changes and improvements have been made in the old building in order to prepare it for this business. The structure itself was renovated by repair jobs wherever needed and an application of paint.

Hirschy will add one new unit to his equipment, a kneading machine to assure a finer textured loaf.

One Fractured Neck Two Fractured Legs

Local People Badly Bruised And 2 Cars Demolished In Three-Car Accident On Highway

Four accidents resulting in three serious injuries and several minor injuries disturbed the quiet of this community during the past weekend.

The worst accident was a three-way collision at 10:40 Saturday night on Highway 82 about 4 miles west of Gainesville in which Ben Seyler was involved.

The other machine, a Chevrolet, came to a stop in the middle of the road and less than a minute afterward was struck by a Plymouth coming a high speed from the opposite direction.

Five persons riding in the Seyler car were all injured. O'Neal is still in the hospital with the fractured neck vertebra and is destined to wear a special brace at least two months.

John Rohmer's injury was sustained about 8 o'clock Saturday night near his home north of Muenster. He was riding in a wagon when struck by an old model car driven by Joe Dankesreiter.

An accident south of Muenster near Linn school, also Saturday was very unusual. Lee Huckleby was a stalled car and had just flagged down a truck to tow him home.

No one was hurt and little damage was done Sunday morning when the car driven by Arnold Hess collided with Henry Luke's empty car in front of his home.

The winter schedule of services at Sacred Heart church will be in effect next Sunday, September 8, the pastors announced last Sunday.

The time for Sunday masses will be 6, 8 and 10 o'clock. A change in the time for the first mass was not made as previously.

WINTER SCHEDULE OF CHURCH SERVICES EFFECTIVE SUNDAY

The winter schedule of services at Sacred Heart church will be in effect next Sunday, September 8, the pastors announced last Sunday.

CHAPTER XXVII

When it was evident that the Senator had indisputably won, when Brother Wilkie had conceded his defeat, they had a fresh bowl of punch and cut the victory cake. Aunt Olympia wouldn't allow the girls to be disturbed. It was Cecil Dodd who first suggested it, and that alone was enough to stiffen her determination.

"Hilda put them to bed and they're staying in bed," she said decisively. "We'll save them a piece of cake. Tomorrow, I'll buy them a whole cake if they want it. They're not to be disturbed any more tonight."

Presently the guests began drifting away. They had worked hard during the campaign. They were worn to the ragged edge. Now, well dined, well wined, they were ready for bed. Mrs. Mabel Shane-Tomkins was a good deal disconcerted not to lay immediate hand on her squirrel jacket, and muttered a few disagreeable remarks about what you could expect among politicians, drunk with the spoils of victory. But Hilda was sardonically diplomatic about it.

"I'll give you a receipt for the coat and see you get it and here I got Miss Slopsire's mink coat for you which cost the Senator plenty dough and as good as new. I been sort of removing things around and putting 'em away in safety including Miss Limpy and I probably put your squirrel away in safety but I got no time right now to get into—storage for it. I'll see you get it tomorrow and you needn't give me a receipt for Miss Slopsire's mink 'cause I know you got it so you take the mink and if you don't get your squirrel tomorrow you can keep the mink and Miss Slopsire can fight it out with the Senator."

Not more than a dozen remained, clustered in the library, avidly drinking in the late returns, when Hilda, who had been a good deal upset over the whole matter in her cold, Scandinavian way, saw a cab turn into the drive and pull up to the western veranda. She had the door open for Limpy.

"You forgot your aspirin and Miss Slopsire's a good deal upset about it and kindly give me that squirrel 'cause Miss Slopsire's going to be as mad as a wet hen if she doesn't get back her mink that cost the Senator two thousand dollars and wasn't worth it in my opinion," was her surly greeting. "And they're all in the library now and asleep on their feet and me the same."

Limpy gave her the coat. "Oh, Hilda," she said. "If I feel very lonesome tonight—and can't sleep—may I come and get in bed with you? I feel—very lonesome."

"I'll change the sheets," said Hilda. "I'll bring you a turkey sandwich."

Limpy opened the door of the library. She looked very small and pale.

"Oh, Aunt Olympia, I've got bad news for you," she said timidly. "Bad news! There is no bad news! Why, we won in a walk!"

"Oh, how terrible!" said Limpy. "Are you sure? . . . Then probably he'll never get a job and it will take all the insurance money to support them and I'm no better than a pauper."

Uncle Lancy straightened his glasses for a better look at her. Cecil Dodd turned off the radio. Every eye was on Limpy.

"My dear," said the Senator reproachfully, "she's feverish! Haven't you been keeping an eye on her?"

Hilda came to the door. "Well here's two sandwiches and a glass of cider and you're wanted on the 'phone and it's Iowa again."

Limpy didn't bother to go upstairs. She leaped lithely to the 'phone on the Senator's big table.

"Darling!" she said. And after a long pause: "Darling! . . . Oh, darling! . . . Good-by."

"Three dollars for three darlings," said Aunt Olympia. "And cheap at the price," said Cecil Dodd.

Hilda had waited dourly with the sandwiches and cider.

"You'd better eat a bite," she said. "You look pretty washed out to me."

Limpy took the plate, with a melting smile into Hilda's resentful blue eyes. "Oh, Auntie, I forgot to tell you the bad news!"

"There isn't any bad news," said Aunt Olympia. "Brother Wilkie's already conceded." And then, in a panicky voice she added, "Unless you've got a chill! Hilda, where's that aspirin?"

"I haven't. But Auntie—you—remember Helen, don't you?" Aunt Olympia's lips parted but she had nothing to say. Uncle Lancy coughed deprecatingly. "Well, she voted all right. And her vote counted, too. Her congressman won. But that isn't the worst of it. You know Helen! She wasn't satisfied with just voting for a candidate, so she went right ahead and—married him. She wore her wind-up costume to do it in. A swell chap, Uncle Lancy, though Republican. The Republicans are quite good class, in Iowa."

"She married a—congressman-elect!" ejaculated Aunt Olympia. "What's she going to do about that grocery store?"

"Oh, that's so, too! Well, you know Iowa, Auntie. Such a state! The grocery store turns out to be the congressman-elect and now he's my brother-in-law."

Aunt Olympia was surprised but she rallied. After all, she had known from the beginning that Helen was lost to her.

"Well," she said cheerfully, "that bucks up my grocery bill no end. We'll charge from this on."

"Oh, but darling, that isn't all!" said Limpy warningly. "What a day it has been!"

"You mean there's more? Don't tell me she's suing for a divorce already!"

"No. It's . . . Adele."

The sudden silence rather frightened Limpy. Uncle Lancy took off and put on his glasses several times. Aunt Olympia sat motionless.

"You see, Auntie, darling Auntie—Adele—she's so tender-hearted! She felt so sorry for Len, the poor dumb cluck; with the Governor mad at him, and no job, and Adele not speaking to him for six weeks. So she went over for a minute!"

"She went over where?"

"Oh, just over to the Governor's mansion! To see Len a minute and cheer him up. And so they decided they'd better get married and I went over and Brother Wilkie married them. I was sad about it, of course, but it was rather amusing. It wasn't at all political, Uncle Lancy. Brother Wilkie performed the ceremony and they used the defunct victory cake for a wedding cake. And the brats and I were the bridesmaids but the helmside got mixed up and thought it was another speech and right in the middle of the ceremony she banged with her trumpet and shouted, 'Tell 'em, Nevvy!' But you certainly can't blame Adele, for what could she do about it? She's always been tender-hearted! . . . Aw, Uncle Lancy!"

The Senator wiped his glasses. "He's a nice boy," he said. "I always liked Len."

Aunt Olympia rallied to this more slowly.

"You mean—she's already married him?" she asked in a strangled voice.

Yes. And perfectly legal too. And quite impressive—except for the helmside and the brats. It was almost elegant. She had lovely flowers—but no ring; they hadn't time for that; and probably no money for it either. They're going to live on our insurance until he lands a job."

"Well, there's one thing, Del," said Olympia, "if you run for the presidency, you've got a publicity man. I'm not afraid of Len Hardesty. It just takes a firm hand to hold him down and I've got a firm hand. Sit down, Limpy. Hilda, bring her an aspirin. I mean a sandwich."

"Oh, but Auntie—darling!" wailed Limpy. "You haven't heard the bad news yet!"

"The—bad—news? There can't be more! There couldn't be more, Del!"

DETROIT BOY WINS SOAP BOX DERBY

AKRON, Ohio.—More than 40,000 persons Sunday lined the gayly bedecked concrete course that is Derby Downs to watch Thomas D. (Tommy) Fisher, 12-year-old Detroit (Mich.) boy, win the seventh All-American Soap Box Derby. To capture the All-American honors, Tommy nosed out Robert Londerree of Charlestown, W. Va., in the final heat. More than 130 champions from all sections of the United States, Canada and the Canal Zone competed. Photo above shows general view of Derby Downs Sunday as Tommy Fisher of Detroit won the final heat to win the 1940 All-American Soap Box Derby.

CO-EDS AID BUILDERS

Gayle Monk and Shirley James of Northwestern University do the carpenter work as the Illinois Road Builders' Association, opens that state's part in a national campaign against diversion of highway user taxes.

she said, in a voice suddenly accusing.

"About me," said Limpy humbly. Aunt Olympia went weak then. She looked dully in the direction of Cecil Dodd. She couldn't even find voice to express her intention of strangling him.

Limpy broke in quickly, with diplomatic acumen. "Oh, no, darling, not that!" she said. "I mean—you're stuck!"

"Stuck! We're stuck? You mean the election? Have things gone wrong? Turn up that radio!"

"Oh, no, Auntie, not the election. Just me. You're stuck with me from this on," said Limpy pathetically. "Here I am, one poor lone orphan—no home—no Helen—no Adele—no insurance money! Of course, Helen and Brick say I can live with them, and Adele and Len say I must live with them, but I don't approve of outsiders going to live with young married couples, do you, Aunt Olympia? So—you're—just—stuck!"

"What'll you take for your option, Senator?" said Cecil Dodd, briskly. Aunt Olympia broke into happy tears. She held out her arms to Limpy. "My child!" she said. "My child!"

Limpy started, but the Senator, being closer, caught her first.

"We won't let you be lonesome, Limpy," he assured her. "You can go around with me as much as you like. I'll go down town first thing tomorrow and buy you something. What do you want, Limpy? I'll buy you anything."

"Del Slopsire!" boomed Aunt Olympia indignantly. "You give me that child! You may be a United States Senator but you needn't get setting yourself up as that child's mother! You hand her right here."

"Anything you want," repeated the Senator, speaking to Limpy, still holding her. "Anything."

"Ask for an assistant publicity man, Limpy, quick!" suggested Cecil Dodd.

"Del, you silly dunce!" cried Aunt Olympia happily. "It's not presents that child wants. It's folks! And you've got them, Limpy! You've got them! . . . Hilda! Where's Hilda? Hilda, bring back that Victory Cake!"

(THE END)

HE LISTENED TO OTHER MEN'S IDEAS

A young salesman of scouring soap was given a new territory. He was delighted; he was on his toes; he was determined to make the home office sit up and pay attention. He was so confident of himself that he assured them that he was going to make a sale to the first customer he tried! You've heard of that salesman. His name has gone around the world. Today his company is the biggest advertiser of a single product in the United States. His name? William Wrigley, Jr. Yes, the founder of the chewing gum interests.

There was a whole household of Wrigleys, and he was the oldest of nine children. He didn't receive much in the way of education—only as far as senior class in high school—for he had to earn money for the younger Wrigleys to wriggle along. First, he got a job in a factory at $1.50 a week. But he believed he had selling ability, and he set about to find out.

He selected for his first customer a man he knew nothing about. He didn't know it then, but the man was famous as being the toughest nut in the town to crack. He had dyspepsia and a perpetual frown; he was so short-tempered that some of the soap salesmen would not even call on him.

As Wrigley arrived, another salesman was leaving hurriedly, the short-tempered man "bawling" him out as he scurried away.

He laid his cold and glassy eyes on young Wrigley. "What do you want, young man?" He eyed the sample case.

"I want to see you."

"What about?"

"Scouring soap. I have a brand of soap I think will increase your business."

The sourpuss turned loose. He said he had no use for a salesman who started a sales talk in such an assigne way. He berated young Wrigley up and down, "I wouldn't put a cake of your soap on my shelf if it was the only soap in the world!" he finished.

Wrigley did some quick thinking. He said: "This is the first sale I ever tried to make. I wonder if you would be good enough to give me some pointers on selling. You have heard lots of salesmen and you know the kind of talk that has the most appeal."

"Huh?"

Young Wrigley repeated his request.

The man softened. "Well, I might give you a point or two," he said gruffly. A point or two! He gave him a dozen. He talked for fifteen minutes. He neglected customers to talk to the young man who was drinking in his every word with rapt and respectful attention.

Wrigley guided him into extolling the virtues of his own scouring soap. When he left he had a six months' order!

He had made a sale to his first customer! He had accomplished it by admitting his inexperience and by appealing to the other man's desire for feeling of importance. The next time you are rebuffed by a cross-patch prospect, think of how William Wrigley, Jr., handled the same situation.—Exchange.

LILLIAN FISHER AND LEO APPEL MARRY TUESDAY MORNING

Miss Lillian Fisher became the bride of Leo Appel in rites solemnized at Sacred Heart church Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Edwin Koerdt, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony and at the nuptial high mass.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the traditional processional and recessional for the entrance and exit of the bridal party, and assisted the choir in rendering the "Mass of the Blessed Virgin."

The bride wore a lovely floor length gown of white mousseline de soie designed with a fitted bodice, very full skirt and bishop sleeves. Her veil of illusion was full length, edged with gold lace. She wore an antique gold cross that has been in the Fisher family for 125 years and was originally the property of her father's grandmother. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of white gladioli and tube roses.

Miss Lorena Fisher attended her sister as maid of honor. Her frock of perrywinkle blue mousseline de soie was a duplicate of the bride's and she wore a shoulder corsage of peach gladioli. Her head dress was a cart wheel cap of blue grosgrain ribbon from which fell a short blue veil.

Earl Fisher, brother of the bride, was best man for Mr. Appel.

A reception for approximately 150 people was held at the Fisher home after the ceremony. The bride's chosen colors of white and blue were stressed in decorations throughout the reception rooms. Miss Dorothy Fette presided at the punch bowl and Miss Mary Davis of Gainesville was in charge of the bride's book.

In the evening a dinner for the immediate family and a few close friends honored the couple, after which a wedding dance was given in the K of C hall.

Mrs. Appel is a daughter of Joe Fisher. She was born in Muenster and received her early education at the parochial school. She graduated from Our Lady of Victory Academy at Fort Worth, and finished nurses training at the Gainesville sanitarium two years ago. She was employed at St. Vincent's hospital, Sherman, for one year and has been residing at Muenster the past year, doing private duty.

Mr. Appel is a son of Mrs. Mary Appel of Plainview, Minn., where he was born and attended the state schools. He moved to Texas 4 years ago and was employed in Sherman and then in Gainesville before coming to Muenster a year ago.

The couple is at home in the northwest part of town, east of the John Walter residence.

CATHERINE WIELER AND DALLAS DOCTOR MARRY AUGUST 30

The marriage of Miss Catherine Wieler of Dallas, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Wieler of this city, and Dr. Alfred A. Hellams, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hellams of Oklahoma City, took place Friday, August 30, at 8 p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Swift, Dallas. Rev. Father John Wiewell of Sacred Heart Cathedral performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a Bender and Homberger original model in gray vigny crepe with a silk marquisette yoke and short bolero. Her gloves were of Angulo blue and other accessories were of black. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias and stephanotis.

The couple was attended by Miss Ida Lee Beaty of Dallas and Dr. Allen Walker of Ferris.

Following the ceremony a reception honored the couple, after which they departed on a short wedding trip to the Ozark mountains. When they return they will reside at their newly built home at 7018 Vivian Ave., Dallas.

The bride was born in Muenster and received her early education at the parochial school. She graduated from Our Lady of Good Council Academy and Saint Paul's school of nursing at Dallas. The groom attended University of Arkansas and received his doctor's degree from Oklahoma University School of Medicine.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wieler and Mrs. Joe Felderhoff of this city and Mrs. J. E. Hellams of Oklahoma City were among out-of-town guests at the wedding.

SHOWER-PARTY HONORS BRIDE OF THIS WEEK

Miss Clara Hess, who was married to Frank Evans of Pilot Point on Wednesday, was complimented with a pre-nuptial party and shower given by members of the Blessed Virgin sodality in the parish hall Thursday afternoon.

Hostesses for the occasion were Misses Martha and Helen Hess and Christine Knabe, who directed table games for the afternoon's diversion. Sixteen members of the society, who remembered the honoree with gifts, were present and the party closed with the serving of refreshments.

A special guest was Rev. Father Richard, spiritual director of the society.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS AT FISHER HOME MONDAY

Out-of-town guests at the wedding of Miss Lillian Fisher to Leo Appel Wednesday were: Mrs. Walter Cash and Miss Ida Fisher of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fisher and family, Valley View; Rev. Edward Devers, Decatur; Miss Pauline Hughes, Mrs. Mae Morris, Mrs. Tom Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sullivant, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Travis King, Mrs. Ballard Watts, Mrs. C. W. County Agent Offers To Help Farmers Locate Better Seed Wheat

Farmers wishing to have a better grade of seed wheat for this year's sowing are invited by County Agent Albert Brient to see him as soon as possible. With a view to increasing quality and yield of Cooke county wheat, Brient has secured a list of farmers and seed houses with varieties of wheat that are adapted to this locality. He also has a list of farmers in Oklahoma and Kansas who sell pedigreed seed wheat.

NEW CHAIN IDEA

Here is something new that is bound to make a big hit! Most of us will want in on the ground floor, so that we may receive the full benefits. It is reported by John Bort Graham, editor of the Rotary Lubricator of Waxahachie. He says one of their members has received a letter, a new kind of chain letter which reads as follows: "Dear sir: This chain started in Reno in the hope of bringing happiness to the tired business men. Unlike most chains this does not cost any money. Simply send a copy of this letter to five (5) gentlemen friends. Then bundle up your wife and send her to the man whose name heads the list. When your name reaches the top you will receive 15,799 wonderful women! Have faith. Do not break the chain. One guy broke it and got his wife back. Hopefully yours."

WEDNESDAY RITES UNITE CLARA HESS AND FRANK EVANS

Solemn services at Sacred Heart church Wednesday morning at 8:30 united Miss Clara Hess, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hess, and Frank Evans, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Pilot Point.

Rev. Father Frowin performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial high mass. "The Mass of the Angels" was sung by the church choir, assisted by Anthony Luke, organist, who also played the pre-nuptial music and the recessional.

The bride wore a lovely floor-length dress of white lace, over satin. It was made on princess lines and designed with long sleeves that were puffed at the shoulders and fitted from elbow to wrist. Self covered buttons adorned the back to the waist and the neck line was high. Her long veil of illusion was held in place with a wreath of valley lilies and she carried an arm bouquet of white carnations and fern.

Miss Alice Hill of Pilot Point, cousin of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a blue chiffon frock, made with a full skirt and girded with a pink sash. Her tiny hat was made of pink ribbon and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of pink carnations.

Raymond Hess, brother of the bride, was best man.

Immediately after the services breakfast was served to members of the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with a handsome linen cloth and
