

Improvement Job For Water System Gets City's Okay

Pleasing news indeed is the weekend report that the steel strike is settled. With an expensive election already set to determine how workers feel about company offers, and another big fuss almost certain to follow as a result of it, we can have a couple good signs of relief. It's nice to save the quarter of a million dollars of tax payers' money estimated as the cost of the election. It's also nice to get an earlier start at returning to normal.

Not so pleasing, however, was the condition of settlement. Despite the enthusiasm of government mediators, it's hard to understand how this deal can be hailed as non-inflationary. A wage increase of 40 cents an hour in an industry as large as steel is certain to have its effect on the country's general economy.

Industry leaders, obviously under pressure, agreed not to demand a corresponding increase in prices unless and until they find that the new wage hike cannot be offset by increased efficiency. For that they are entitled to the nation's gratitude. But what assurance do they or we have the labor will cooperate in bringing about the greater efficiency? That involves automation and changes in work rules, which have been stubbornly opposed all along by labor leaders. Regardless of good intentions the odds are that prices will go up.

Even if steel prices do not rise, it's hard to understand how anyone can claim the deal was not inflationary. When the highest paid workers in the country get a wage boost we can be certain that other workers will start making demands . . . and receiving them. After which some industries, probably most of them, will have to boost their prices accordingly. Not many will be able to absorb the higher costs or offset them by greater efficiency. In those cases, at least, we will have the higher prices. We'll have more inflation traceable directly to this so-called non-inflationary settlement.

The most discouraging feature about this affair is that the negotiators, after seeing the steel industry's willingness to make a concession, did not make their solution from the other side of the problem. If the companies can depend on efficiency to allow higher wages at the same price level, why could they not allow lower prices at the same wage level?

In other words, since industry had to make all of the concession, why wasn't it made in favor of the public rather than in favor of men who were already enjoying the nation's best wage scale? Or why not a compromise . . . by giving the workers a smaller increase and making a slight cut in the price of steel.

The explanation here is the same selfish attitude that has applied from the beginning of our inflationary trend. Labor leaders have not been interested in solutions that benefit everybody, including their own members, but only in grabbing whatever advantage they can enjoy until consequences of their selfish policy catch up with them.

Consider the circumstances in this steel squabble. Steel workers, with their handsome wage scale, were certainly able to hold on while waiting for lower steel prices to benefit them along with the rest of the country.

And consider the possible chain reaction that could follow in other industries. If other workers would hold on and get the benefits of a trend to lower prices all would soon find their pay reaching farther.

A little temporary sacrifice . . . at the wage most are receiving it would not even be a sacrifice . . . would permit this trend to reverse, adding to the value of everybody's pay. But that isn't their way. Their aim is to crowd ahead and grab an extra portion of the economy's fruits regardless of how slim the pickings get later.

The deplorable near sightedness of labor's demands is apparent to anyone who looks at the consequence. History, since the beginning of inflation, has been that price increase soon catches up with wage increase, and pay reaches farther than it did before. In the meantime, however, the value of insurance, bonds and cash savings decline in value. The person who received the pay increase is actually a loser.

A major improvement for the Muenster Water Department was approved Monday night by the city council and is due to get under way soon. It is a 1600 foot extension of the 8 inch water main to connect with two 6 inch mains.

As explained by Water Superintendent Steve Mosler to the city council, this improvement will provide an adequate supply in several areas where pressure falls during peak consumption. The connections will complete loops allowing water to come into both ends of the 6 inch mains.

The 8 inch line will start at Third and Oak, extend a block east to Walnut and 3 blocks north to Sixth Tie-ins with the 6 inch lines will be made at Fourth and Sixth Streets.

Cost of the pipe is estimated at $3500 and cost of installation depends on how much rock is encountered. With luck that item will be about $1,000, but it could be twice as much.

The city is anxious to get the project under way so that it can be finished before time to pave Walnut Street.

Need for the expansion was shown in a comparison of peak consumption figures since 1940. In that year the city's peak for a 24 hour period was 27,000 gallons. In 1950 the peak was 147,000 gallons and in 1959 it was 247,000 gallons. The city's all-time peak was 365,000 gallons in 1956, the drought year. If the trend continues it was estimated that peak consumption will be over 500,000 gallons in 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hennigan Jr. are parents of identical twin sons, Billy and Bobby, brothers for little Dianne. The tiny boys, in somewhat of a hurry to have birthdays in 1959, weighed four pounds two ounces and four pounds ten ounces upon arrival at Gainesville Sanitarium Dec. 31 at 1:52 and 1:54 p.m., and will be spending a few weeks in incubators. The attending doctor said they are "doing fine" and their mother has been dismissed from the hospital. Surprised and happy over having twin grandsons are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hennigan Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knabe. The great-grandparents are Mrs. Mathilda Wimmer and Gus Knabe. A six pound ten ounce boy joined the Norbert Hoedebeck family on Dec. 28 to make four boys and four girls for the parents. He's a grandson for the Fred Hoedebecks and the A. J. Preschers of Scotland. The great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prescher, live at Lindsay. The new baby was christened Sunday afternoon with Father Martin officiating and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sicking as godparents. His name is John David.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder of Lindsay welcomed a second daughter on Dec. 28. She arrived at Gainesville Sanitarium at 3:10 a.m. weighing seven pounds nine and a half ounces. Her grandparents are Messrs. and Mrs. Frank Schroeder and Eugene Anderle of Windthorst.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hacker, formerly of Muenster now living in Valley View, have a baby girl born at Gainesville Sanitarium Dec. 30 and named Lesa Marie at her christening Sunday afternoon in St. John's Church with Father Anthony Gajda officiating and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Prescher as godparents for their niece. The eight pound seven ounce daughter weighed in at 4:12 p.m. She has two sisters and two brothers and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prescher of Lindsay.

Pagel's Store Completes Fifty Years of Service

Pagel's Store has just completed 50 years of service to the community — an unmatched record in Muenster.

Pagel's is the oldest continuous business here, operating in the city for half a century occupying the same location on Main Street and owned by three generations of Pagels. The third generation is now beginning its fifth year and the fourth generation is growing up in the store.

It was on Jan. 1, 1909, that Jacob Pagel Sr. opened the business as a general merchandise store. After his retirement in 1938 his son Jacob Jr. succeeded him and when Jake retired four years ago his son Maurice Pagel took over. Pagel's Store withstood the adversities of bad years and prospered in lush seasons. In the early days and during lean years Pagel's carried many families through on charge accounts until crop returns made payment possible.

Today Pagel's Store is larger and better stocked than ever. It has been modernized to meet ever-increasing customer demands.

It's still a general merchandise store and it's still practicing the old fashioned virtues and high standards established by its founder. Among those are quality merchandise, fair prices and courteous service. These are among the things that are remembered in connection with Pagel's Store by thousands of customers in this community and trade area during fifty years.

Council Appoints Mosler City Judge

Local lawbreakers who have to pay fines will be patronizing the home town from now on . . . that is, at least part of the time.

The city council Monday night appointed Steve Mosler as city judge and authorized him to collect fines assessed by officers for violations of law in the city limits. Many cases, however, will continue to go before county officials.

Reasons for the appointment were to dispose of some cases quickly and easily without requiring the officer to take his prisoner to Gainesville, also to give the city some revenue to compensate for its expense of enforcing the law.

Muenster will be the next meeting place for the Gainesville chapter of Toastmasters International, an organization for training and practice in public speaking. The event is set for Rohmer's Restaurant Tuesday night.

The reason for meeting here, besides giving members a change in routine, is to provide an opportunity for local prospective members to see what the organization does and how.

Meetings are held in connection with dinners and business sessions are held to a few minutes. Then comes the primary purpose of the organization, the members' speeches followed by criticisms.

Persons interested in attending may contact any of the three local members, Mike Sloan, Arthur Endres or Henry Weinzapfel.

Clear Creek Vote Okays 10 cent Tax For Flood Control

By a count of 167 to 35 voters of the Clear Creek Watershed last Thursday approved a ten cent tax for maintenance of flood control structures and to finance operation of the Clear Creek Watershed Authority.

The favorable vote clears the last barrier to a big flood control program including 52 detention reservoirs at an estimated cost of $4.5 million. According to regulations of the Soil Conservation Service none of the structures can be built until arrangements have been made for their upkeep.

Directors of the Clear Creek Watershed Authority will meet at the Muenster State Bank Saturday night to canvass the election returns and proceed with details of getting the flood control program under way.

The tax of 10 cents on $100 of county assessed valuation, received a strong approval in each of the watershed's six voting boxes. Tabulations were as follows.

4 Inch Layer of Snow Blankets Muenster Area

Muenster definitely took on a wintry look this week even though it had only a mild wintry feel. While a 4 inch blanket of snow covered the area temperatures remained mostly in the thirties, allowing a steady thaw, and at their worst did not fall below the high twenties.

Snow started falling Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock, coming faster until about 10 o'clock and tapering off after that. All the while temperature remained at a little above freezing. As the snow melted slowly travel conditions became sloppy, but no ice formed to make it hazardous. A drop in temperature through the night froze the remaining snow, however.

Wednesday saw more thawing followed by another freeze. Moisture measure of the snow was estimated at .44 inch, and rain and sleet brought the total measure to .99.

Added to the .42 recorded on New Year's day, which actually fell the last day of last year, and another .01 recorded on the 2nd, the current rain measure for 1960 stands at 1.42.

The new job will combine the duties of three present appointed officers, the city secretary, the city treasurer and the tax assessor-collector. William Fette, 69 Of Kilgore Dies After Long Illness

William Fette, 69, of Kilgore, a former Muenster resident, died at Nan Travis Hospital, Jacksonville, Sunday morning after two years of lingering sickness.

His final illness came suddenly the day after Christmas ending a period of several months during which he enjoyed comparatively good health. He had been active daily, enjoyed a family reunion on Christmas and was planning to join other charter members of the Muenster K of C Council in observing its golden jubilee on January 17. He entered the Jacksonville Hospital a week before his death and was in a coma the last three days.

Funeral services were held at Christ the King Church, Kilgore, at 10 o'clock Tuesday with the Rev. Joseph McMahon celebrating the Mass and delivering the funeral sermon. He also officiated at funeral prayers in church and at the graveside in Kilgore Cemetery.

Six of the deceased's grandsons were casket bearers. Before the funeral members of the Kilgore K of C council served as honor guards at the funeral home.

William Fette, a retired teaming and trucking contractor, was born at St. Paul, Iowa, on August 27, 1890. He came to Muenster with his family, the Ed Fettes, in 1902. He was married here to Rena Schnitker on January 31, 1912.

For about 14 years he was engaged in farming, then, with the coming of oil activity in this community, went into business as a teaming contractor. In 1930 he moved to Kilgore and shortly thereafter, as trucks replaced teams, he changed to a trucking contractor.

Survivors are his wife; three daughters, Mmes. A. D. Crutcher and V. O. Henderson on

Farmers Exempted In New State Law On Trailer Titles

Farmers do not have to comply with a new state law requiring title certification on trailers of 4,000 pounds gross weight or more when the trailers are used for hauling their own produce to market. This reminder was given local farmers this week by Paul Fisher, president of Cooke County Farm Bureau, who said many farmers are not aware that the new law exempts carriers of farm produce.

The law, which was passed by the 56th Legislature during its regular session this year, requires issuance of certificates of title on all trailers having an unloaded weight in excess of 4,000 pounds. The Texas Farm Bureau was successful in getting an amendment to the law exempting vehicles used by their owners for transporting their own farm produce to market, the county FB leader explained. He said the exemption does not apply when such products are being transported for hire.

The Farm Bureau president said the local organization has information on the new law, and others passed by the 56th Legislature in its files of copies of the Ausin Newsletter, a weekly publication issued by the Texas Farm Bureau legislative department while the Legislature was in session and also a Legislative Report prepared by the TFB legislative department following the close of the 56th Legislature, regular session.

RED FAKER EXPOSED

by Dr. George S. Benson
 Lloyd Mallan, noted American science writer who spent three months in Russia investigating the scientific progress of the Soviets, believes they are far, far behind the United States in missile and air power development, in space medicine and other fields of scientific research. This is contrary to the belief of key officials of our government, including President Eisenhower. Who is right and who is wrong about this important question?

After careful reading of Mr. Mallan's book — Russia and The Big Red Lie — and an examination of other available information, one fact seems to stand out, and it is this: All of the information which seems to confirm the latest reported achievements of Russia, particularly the Moon shots, either comes directly from the Communists themselves or is based on information released by them. In other words, no scientist or tracking station in the free world can make the unqualified statement that Luniks I, II and III actually were launched and did what the Russians claim they did. On the other hand, a great mass of evidence, seems to indicate that most of the Russian claims are false.

Important Question

Because of their importance to the world, the true facts about the Soviet's scientific progress should be obtained and given to the American people. We can't afford to just accept, without absolute proof, the continuing reports of sensational scientific achievement by Soviet Russia. Mr. Mallan in the USSR found evidence which forced him to conclude that the Communists are from 20 to 50 years behind the United States in really important scientific technology. He found the Soviets have been crudely copying American scientific developments — our electronic equipment, our pace-setting commercial and military aircraft, our automobiles. But even their copies are of now outmoded American equipment.

He found, and he printed in his book, examples of how the Communists have faked photographs and drawings of American equipment in an attempt to "further the myth" of Soviet superiority. In fact, while in Russia Mr. Mallan found a photograph in the Russian science publication Znanie-Sila which he himself had made in the U.S. White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico — a photo of a radar-optical tracking device. The Communists were using it as a photograph of one of their own scientific developments — a blatant deception!

Faking Always

When I read Mr. Mallan's report on this faking, it reminded me of the tall, gleaming white buildings along Stalinallee in Soviet East Berlin. They too are fakes. For nearly a mile, the 12-story white brick fronts from a splendid-looking avenue. But when you walk around behind them you find they are false fronts exactly like a movie set. Many have floors and rooms but they are constructed cheaply and the sandy concrete is crumbling and cracking. Stretching out behind them are the pitiful crumbling slum dwellings which characterize nearly the whole of Communist East Berlin. Communism has been built upon fakery and deception.

Mr. Mallan, recognized in America as one of the world's top science journalists, says that the Russians have no modern guidance equipment for space vehicles comparable to ours in the U. S. He believes their vaunted rocket thrust power comes not from a single missile but from several strapped together in a bundle.

Soviets Inferior?

He accepts the Russian sputniks as real but says they were merely thrown up into space by clustered, multiple rocket power — and all in the same general orbit and without guidance equipment. He says the U. S. could have done this long before the Soviets did. Even President Eisenhower, when the first Sputnik was launched, said the U. S. could do it. But because Russia claimed to have done it with a single missile, the U. S. has stuck to single rocket projection.

Lloyd Mallan went to Russia believing in their scientific superiority. But in everything he investigated, he found them extremely inferior. Khrushchev, for instance, has boasted that the Communist education system was far ahead of the American system — and many have accepted this. "I examined the Soviet education close-up," says Mr. Mallan. "It doesn't begin to match what we have in America... Certainly Soviet schools are mass-producing technically-trained youngsters — maybe more of them than our schools are. But few of these Soviet graduates are true engineers. They're textbook mechanics. They've been taught to tinker, not to create."

This whole question of Confirmation of Russian claims should be investigated by Congress, carefully, thoroughly and with competent assistance.

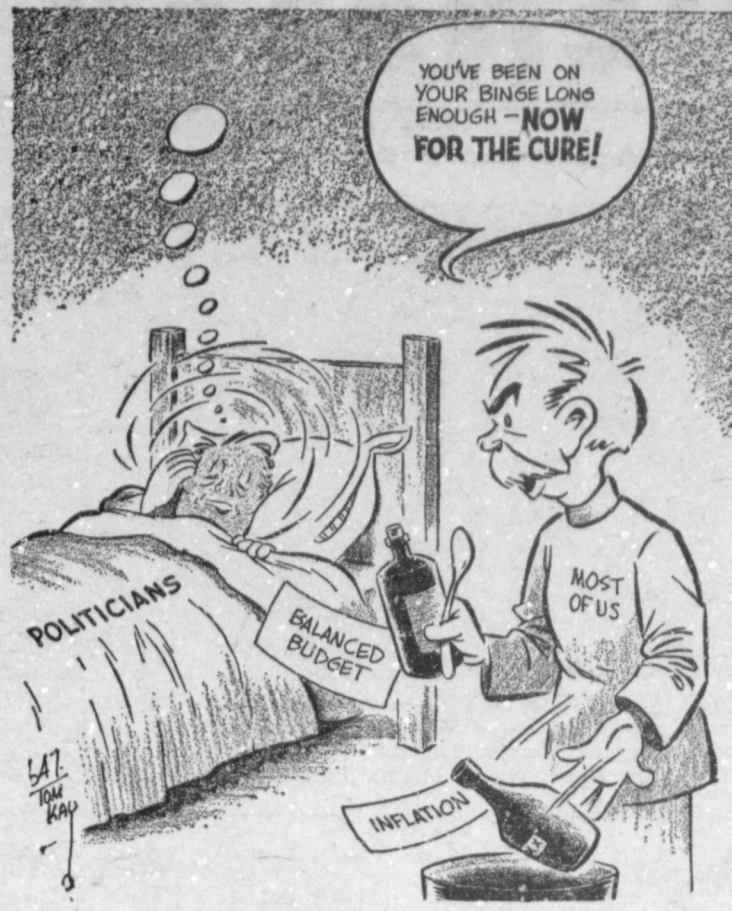

THERE WILL BE A SEQUEL

The case of the presumed suicide of the former anti-Communist UN official, Povl Bang-Jensen, has not been closed by the New York police at this writing, although there is no word of further official progress toward a solution of the mystery.

However, the Washington newsmagazine Human Events credits to "reliable sources" the news that private investigators, put on the case by friends of the deceased, have found a witness who saw the late Danish diplomat 24 hours after his reported disappearance. These sleuths affirm the suicide theory, saying that he was forced to his death by Communist agents who said they would kidnap his family if he did not kill himself.

"The reason why the Red agents wanted the Dane out of the way," says Human Events, "was not because of his famous role in protecting the Hungarian rebels as popularly supposed. It was because Bang-Jensen was in touch with some employees of the UN who were Communists, but who were seeking to leave the party to take asylum with US authorities, and 'tell all' about the UN. Bang-Jensen, because of his thorough knowledge of the UN, would have been invaluable in such an expose, and would have played a major role in their defection."

Such a development, the publication suggests "might have rocked the whole UN", and notes that: "In any case, it loomed as a psychological warfare defeat the Communist apparatus sought by desperate methods to prevent.

Proven Time-Tested Tonic

Hence the Bang-Jensen case. So runs one current interpretation of the mysterious and tragic event."

Whether this dedicated foe of Communism was hounded to death because he refused to divulge the names of the secret witnesses at the UN probe of the Hungarian revolt (who might otherwise now be dead), or whether this latest theory is correct, Bang-Jensen remains, as National Review said of him recently, "an authentic hero".

As for the UN, it has escaped being "rocked" only temporarily, as its rocking is greatly overdue. And when it happens, it should be remembered that Bang-Jensen helped to bring about the upheaval that may provide a chance to reconstruct a broken dream.

THE HOME'S THE THING

Not long ago a New York City Judge wrote to the New York Times saying that in the seventeen years he had been on the bench not one Chinese teen-ager had been brought before him on a juvenile delinquency charge.

P. H. Chang, Chinese Consul-General in New York, was asked to comment. He said: "I have heard this story many times from many judges. I will tell you why I think this is so. Filial piety is a cardinal virtue my people have brought over from the China that was free. A Chinese child, no matter where he lives, is brought up to recognize that he cannot shame his parents. Before a Chinese child makes a move, he stops to think what the reaction of his parents will be. Will they be proud, or will they be ashamed? Above all other things, the Chinese teenager is anxious to please his parents."

The amazing record of the Chinese children and young people shows that it is in the home that the cure for juvenile delinquency will be found — and in no other place.

A Name To Know - And Respect

By Rev. Leo J. Trese, author of THE FAITH EXPLAINED, WISDOM SHALL ENTER, and others

"What's in a name?" once asked Shakespeare. His famous answer, "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet," is only half true.

A NAME, whether it be of a person or of a thing, gathers many emotional overtones by constant use. A name ceases to be just a group of letters taken from the alphabet; a name comes to represent the person or thing which bears the name.

The emotions aroused in us by the word "rose" are quite different from those evoked by the name "skunk cabbage." A young man in love only has to hear his sweetheart's name mentioned, even casually by a stranger, to make his pulse rate rise.

MEN have killed — and been killed — "in defense of their good name." Whole families have been grieved because some member of the family "brought disgrace on the family name."

All this is obvious, of course. But it serves to recall to mind why it is a sin to misuse God's name — to use it carelessly or irreverently.

THE MOST common way in which we may fail in our duty to respect God's name is the sin of profanity — the use of the Holy Name simply to relieve our feelings. "My God, no!" "For Christ's sake, stop making that noise!" Seldom a day passes, as we go about our activities, that we do not hear these and similar phrases.

Sometimes, indeed, there is not even the excuse of emotion; we encounter persons who scatter God's name throughout their conversation as casually as you or I might mention apples or onions. Always, of course, they testify to a lack of shallowness in their love for God.

USUALLY such language is the result of thoughtlessness and carelessness rather than malice — there is no deliberate intent to dishonor God or to show contempt for His name. Still, it shows disrespect for God and it can cause grave scandal: for example, if a parent by his profanity weakened respect for God's name in his children.

If we love God we shall love His name and never speak it except with reverence. We shall never use it as an expletive, as an expression of anger or impatience or surprise; we shall do nothing to bring infamy upon His name.

INDEED, a name stands for the one who bears the name — and our attitude towards God's name reflects our attitude towards Him whose name it is.

Swirczynski Clan Has Get-Together

Separated again after a reunion here are members of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swirczynski's family. They were together for New Year and again on Sunday, the second gathering honoring Mr. Swirczynski on his 79th birthday.

The Alex Knaufs and three children who were here for the holidays left early Monday to return to Colorado Springs, Colo.

When they were all together Sunday they enjoyed a telephone visit with Sister Helen at Jonesboro, Ark., then had another pleasant long distance visit with a long-time family friend, Msgr. E. A. Hemmen who called from Brinkley, Ark., to wish Mr. Swirczynski a happy birthday. And finally, a third visit by phone with George Swirczynski and his family who called from Beaumont.

Over Christmas and summer vacations parents find out why teachers need a long summer vacation.

FORD'S ECONOMY TWINS FOR 1960

The Economy Choice of a lifetime — Two new Fords... Two new low-price fields...
Two wonderful new ways to go "The Finest"

THE 1960 FORD FALCON
Now there's both a new economy-size Ford and a large economy-size Ford.
The new economy size is the Ford Falcon—America's lowest-priced 6-passenger car. It's up to $124 less than other 6-passenger cars in the compact field.* It goes up to 80 miles on a gallon of regular gas. Servicing is easy and repair costs are low. You can even save up to 15% on your insurance.
And the Falcon is the one American compact car that is thoroughly proved for American driving. There's room for 6 people—luggage and all.
*Based upon a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices

THE 1960 FORD FAIRLANE 500
Now consider the large economy-size Ford, the Fairlane 500. Here is the most car per dollar ever built. The Fairlane 500 brings you fine-car styling, luxury and comfort, yet it offers Falcon economies like regular gas, 4,000-mile oil changes, double-life aluminumized mufflers, and no more waxing. Like the Falcon, too, it brings you big price news: $142 less than last year's popular Fairlane 500!
Come see, come save, come pick the Ford economy twin that saves and serves you best. Visiting hours as usual at your Ford Dealer's.

Highway Accident Mars Holiday Trip

A holiday trip from California to see her sick father in Louisiana almost ended in tragedy for former Muensterites Mr. and Mrs. Joe Streng who were in a highway accident on New Year's Day and were hospitalized four days at Marshall, Texas, just about 30 miles from their destination.

Telephone calls back and forth between Marshall and Muenster kept his family, the Henry Strengs, informed on the couple's injuries and progress and the last call Monday advised that they were leaving the hospital that day to continue their trip to Louisiana.

The Streng car reportedly struck a car stalled on the highway. He received cuts on his lips requiring 20 stitches and other facial cuts and bruises. His wife suffered broken teeth and body bruises.

Milners Back From California Visit

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Milner returned Monday evening from a two-week vacation in California, reporting a wonderful time. The trip was made especially to visit their daughter and family, the Frank Haynes Jr. at Chatsworth and to see how much their granddaughter Nita Marie had grown.

Disneyland is as much for adults as children, they think and other enjoyable sightseeing for the two couples included Marineland, the highway along the ocean, San Diego Harbor and historic old San Diego.

Most fantastic and fabulous sight, according to Mrs. Milner, was the rose parade in the annual Tournament of Roses at Pasadena where thousands upon thousands of fresh flowers passed in review. One float was done up with 6000 roses and 100,000 orchids and was the parade winner.

The displays were shown for three days after the parade which was witnessed by a million people. Many of them slept in the streets the night before, some brought chairs and sleeping bags, others came with charcoal stoves. An unusually low temperature for Southern California, 31 degrees, prevailed at the time.

New Holland's Hayliner 67 is big news for farmers who want quality hay baling at an economical price.

This is the baler with New Holland Flow-Action feeding, field-proven knotters and 56 inch pickup that makes it easy for farmers to follow windrows. The low price of the Hayliner 67 was accomplished by subtracting some of the baler "extras" some operators demand.
