School Board Urges Bond Issue Support At Parish P-TA Meet

A few weeks ago when members of the Muenster school board decided to call the special election on a $300,000 bond issue to finance the construction of a new public school they felt confident that the merits of the proposal are so numerous and so outstanding as to assure its approval by a comfortable majority. The opinion was that a voter who becomes familiar with all of the issues involved cannot reasonably vote against the proposal.

A sampling of opinions seems to justify the confidence of board members. So far yours truly has not found anyone who expects the bond issue to lose, but he has found persons who predict a favorable majority of 60, 75 and even 90 per cent.

The inquiries, however, have also revealed that some persons of the community are not familiar with the proposal. In the hope of clearing up a few misunderstandings the column will attempt here to explain just what is planned and how it will affect the community.

First and foremost it intends to point out that the plan does not include any manner of consolidation or combination of the parochial and public schools. Parents who were concerned on that score may rest assured that the independent status and the course of instruction at the parochial school will continue exactly as it is. The proposed change involves the public school, and it only.

In other words, the intention is to have two good high schools in Muenster. The parochial school will continue its high standard in academic courses, the public school will offer a complete high school course including vocational subjects which are not taught at the parochial school.

As pointed out by Deputy State Superintendent Rice, the subjects offered at the parochial school are up to standard and there is no reason why they should not be continued, nor why the state should not continue to recognize its credits. But the school does not go far enough. It does not teach manual training, home economics, agriculture and other vocational subjects. Those courses should be taught in the public school, which has the financial resources to provide necessary facilities. The deputy state superintendent also pointed out that Muenster can maintain two separate accredited schools... and that is the goal that the present school board has in mind.

Understanding that the proposed system will not hinder the parochial set-up in any way, let's consider some of the other factors involved.

One is the responsibility of Muenster residents to the public school pupils. As all of us know, parochial parents here are in the majority. By their vote they control the destiny of the public school, and by that very circumstance they have a moral obligation to provide an adequate school. There's no getting around that principle. A reasonable code of ethics dictates that power to control a minority implies an obligation to treat it fairly.

The issue also has a powerful dollars and cents appeal. In order to get a clearer understanding of that let's think for a moment of expected changes in the state educational system. Bills already in the legislative hopper propose to make every public high school measure up to state requirements or annex to a school that does measure up. The law hasn't been passed yet but people familiar with the trends tell us it is coming.

Now suppose it does come, and the Muenster school cannot qualify, what will happen? The Muenster school district will cease to exist independently and will become part of some other district. Whether they like it or not Muenster taxpayers will be assessed to help support a school away from here. What's more they will pay a higher tax, because the high valuations in this area would make them the principal supports of the enormous and expensive system required by a larger super-district. People familiar with the subject estimate that this district can support its own system for about half of its share in supporting the big system.

But that isn't all... if the law passes and we fail to qualify. Besides losing our public school and paying an enormous tax we will lose the local control we have always enjoyed. As part of a huge, far flung district we will not be able to elect our

Whether or not a parent's primary interest is in the parochial school, he will best serve the interests of himself, the community and the parochial school by supporting the school bond election on May 7.

That is the substance of the message presented by trustees of the Muenster Independent School at the regular meeting of the Sacred Heart P-TA Thursday night, April 21.

Herbert Meurer, secretary of the board presented the issue, explaining the circumstances which induced the trustees to call the election and also the conditions which may possibly develop as a result of the bond issue's passage or defeat.

Albert Henscheid, president, and John Klement and Arthur Hellman also spoke on the coming election.

Henscheid stated that recent developments in the state educational system place the Muenster district in a critical position and that the board had no choice other than planning necessary improvements and submitting their plans for community approval.

Klement said that the welfare of the community depends to a great extent on the excellence of the local school system and added that defeat of the issue may eventually bring on a higher tax rate than its passage. He also urged a spirit of tolerance and generosity toward the minority group whose school is controlled by the vote of parochial school supporters.

Hellman offered a few brief remarks to the effect that gymnasium and vocational training facilities which will be available to all children of the community, can be provided through the bond issue at a much lower cost per individual than through a parish improvement program.

The community's long period of delaying public school improvements has been brought to an abrupt end by current developments in the state educational system, Meurer pointed out. He quoted officials of the department of education to the effect that schools of the future will have to meet first class rating or combine with other first class schools.

Then he explained that the school board had drawn up a $300,000 improvement plan which will enable the school to qualify as first class on a tax rate of approximately 80 cents. The proposed $1.00 rate he said includes a 20 cent safety factor and may never go into effect.

If the school does not qualify and must be annexed to some other district it will be stuck with the tax rate of the other district. The result, he summed up is that Muenster can support its own school for less than it can help support a school away from here.

CENTURY PLANT AT WILSON HOME STARTS BOOMIN' 'N' BLOOMIN'

Something fascinating and spectacular is going on at the Clarence Wilson home these days. It's the blooming of a century plant. As yet the flowers have not broken into the open, but the actual blooms when they appear are not likely to be any more interesting than the phenomenal growth of the stem that holds them.

Last Thursday afternoon the Wilsons noticed something different about one of their two 15 year old plants. In the center between the folds of its long spear-like leaves a new growth was just coming into view. The next day it was clearly in the open and it's been shooting up at an amazing speed ever since. At noon Wednesday, less than six days after the original discovery it was 25 inches taller. During the previous 18 hours it had grown 5 inches. The Wilsons have no idea how much higher it will grow before the flowers break out. They're just watching closely hoping not to miss the epochal event.

The stem's spectacular growth seems all the more amazing because of the plant's slow growth in the years past. When set out it was about the size of a vegetable bowl, now it measures only about two feet across. Both plants were pulled up by the Wilsons from their wild growth in the Davis Mountains about 15 years ago. The flowering plant is the larger of the two.

Technically known as an agave the plant is popularly known as a century plant because of the many years it requires to produce a flower. After that, says Mrs. Wilson's encyclopedia, the entire plant withers and dies.

Charges at Horse Show Will be Applied on Ball Park Improvement Debt

In keeping with the custom of the past five years, the horse show next Sunday will not have an admission charge. Anyone can see the show for free, but special accommodations will cost and the money raised by them will go into the fund to pay off the ball park's grandstand and fence.

They observed the day with a renewal of their vows during a high mass at Sacred Heart church and a reception for about 275 relatives and friends in the parish hall. Both are natives of Iowa and came to Muenster in 1905. He is 75 and she is 71 years old.

CLASSES RESUME BUT ATTENDANCE IS LOW IN MEASLES EPIDEMIC

Classes at the parochial school are back on schedule but attendance is still far from normal in the community's current epidemic of measles. First and second grades, dismissed last Thursday and Friday were resumed Monday. In the public school primary grades classes were continued with about a 50 per cent attendance.

There have been approximately 200 cases to date, according to the estimate of Dr. T. S. Myrick, and to his knowledge all are confined to children of 14 and under. Most are light cases and some have been followed by light cases of mumps. However none have developed into pneumonia or other serious complications.

For those afflicted Myrick recommends bed rest from the first appearance of symptoms until 3 or 4 days after the symptoms disappear.

The last measles epidemic hit the community in April 1941. At that time classes were dismissed for a week.

Washington Newsletter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., April 23.—This is Saturday afternoon. I have just returned from making a speech to the Washington Chapter of The American Association of University Women. At their invitation, I discussed the Displaced Persons problem. I am getting letters from numerous organizations all over the country urging me to support the so-called DP bill. This is a classic example of how people fall for propaganda and respond to organized pressure campaigns.

I am very much opposed to the bill to bring in 40,000 more displaced persons from the DP camps of Europe. This bill would reward the least deserving, the least desirable and the most dangerous of millions of people who would like to come to this country. There are 14,000,000 expellees in our military zones of Europe. These fourteen million people are those who were driven out from behind the iron curtain because they were supposedly of German blood. They are not classified as DPs and are wholly ignored and overlooked in this program. Most of them are in greater distress, in greater need, and are of better stock than those who have stayed in our camps under our care and custody for the last several years.

Each year, many bills are introduced in Congress to authorize special stamp issues. Commemorative stamps were first issued to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. This was the beginning of the issuance of these commemorative stamps which are only supposed to commemorate some historical event of national importance — not sectional — and should be issued on appropriate anniversaries. The Philatelic Agency in the Post Office Department was set up in 1921 for the purpose of serving the stamp collectors who collect commemorative stamps. When the number of these stamps are kept down to 8 or 12 issues per annum, this Agency is equipped to handle the issues without additional employees or equipment. Under the present setup of the Philatelic Agency, maximum issuance of these stamps should be kept down to 12.

At the beginning of each calendar year, the Post Office Department considers its program for the ensuing year for the commemorative stamps. In 1948, the Department planned for the issuance of 10 of these stamps, but Congress passed resolutions for 19 additional stamps, making a total of 29 for the calendar year of 1948. Up to last week, 59 resolutions have been introduced in the House of Representatives for commemorative stamps, the purposes of a few of them are as follows; 100th anniversary of the birth of Hambletonian, (famous sire of American trotting horse); Commemoration of the centennial of the Angora goat; Dedication of Theodore Roosevelt National Park; Stamp in furtherance of national safety against accident hazards; Booth Tarkington commemoration; stamp in honor of soil conservation districts; Booker T. Washington birth; Lake Washington Floating Bridge; First Cotton mill in the United States; Commemorative of Old Home Week; 100th anniversary of the Michigan Annual State Fair; Commemoration of the 100th anniversary of Independence Missouri; Special stamp for volunteer workers and contributors to the community chests; The cutting of Cass River Cork pine at Vassar, Michigan, in 1849; 100th anniversary of the cranberry industry; Commemorating Eleventh Tennessee Walking horse celebration; — and many others of a more significant or more serious nature.

There are approximately ten to twelve million stamp collectors in the United States, many of whom are school children. The filling of mail orders for these collectors is approximately 90 days in arrears, with over 33,000 unfilled mail orders for stamps valued at $850,000.

Because of the numerous stamps authorized, the Philatelic Agency receives many complaints from collectors all over the country, criticizing the number of commemorative stamps issued, the designs, the color, subject matter, et cetera. The Post Office Department says if they are required by law to issue all the commemorative stamps proposed in bills and resolutions now pending before the Congress, it would be impossible for them to get this job done in a three year period.

FEDERAL AID

In a recent radio address, the Honorable Arch W. McFarlane, former Lieut.-Governor of Iowa, quoted from a report by the Appropriations Committee of the Iowa House of Representatives regarding that State's Social Welfare and Aid to Dependent Children setup. Here follows part of the quote:

"... regardless of our opinion in reference to Federal domination of this program, it is necessary for the State of Iowa to adjust its program to the Federal pattern else Federal Administration will refuse to Iowa Federal Aid in the financing of this relief agency. It should be understood that the Federal pattern in this instance is not unlike the Federal Aid system generally. It's an ingenious device. It amounts to this:

"1—The Federal Government by divers special and extraordinary taxes obtains this money in the first instance, from the Iowa taxpayer, to create the Iowa portion of the Federal fund.

"2—Then the Federal Government says, in effect, to Iowa, 'It is now necessary for Iowa to use, in addition, its OWN money to set up a State fund so that the State fund can be used to match the money that the Iowa taxpayer has already paid to the Federal Government.

"In effect it says 'If Iowa doesn't comply; if it doesn't match its own money and then allow the Federal agency to dominate the operation of the program, then the so-called Federal Aid is denied to Iowa.' In such event Iowa money paid in the first instance to the Federal Government would be lost to our State and would be diverted to some other State or States that had subscribed to the Federal pattern and program."

Then the Honorable McFarlane added his own caustic comment as follows: "In other words, we raise our taxes to send to Washington, and then we raise some more taxes to match the amount we have already sent to Washington in order to get back the amount we originally sent. That is what is known as 'Federal Aid.'"

Mr. McFarlane, in this particular address, omitted one most important factor. He could have pointed out that a very considerable portion of the Iowa money collected by the Federal Government does not return to Iowa — that is the portion that is lopped off to feed a retinue of Federal employees in a manner to which they were not formerly accustomed. And what is even worse, the greatly reduced portion that does actually return is freighted with political power.

What transpires in Iowa is taking place in all forty-eight of the states. It is so obvious that any state or local government is fooling itself in believing it is getting 'something for nothing' when it asks for and receives Federal Aid." It borders on the absurd that State and local governments not only condone this chicanery but eagerly participate.

This Nation made great progress long before the brilliant (?), long-haired politicians thought up this swindle misnamed "Federal Aid". Communities and States took great pride in doing for themselves, and in that doing became strong, self-reliant and prosperous. They kept full control of the projects their own ingenuity and enterprise had created; they took no dictation from a swivel-chair bureaucrat at Washington who could not possibly have knowledge and understanding of their own particular needs and problems.

The sooner our local and State Governments awaken to the folly of holding out their hands to our Federal Government, begging for a return of part of their own tax money, the sooner this Nation will resume the progress so sadly interrupted by the introduction of "Federal Aid."

How We Licked The Parking Problem

For a while it looked like we'd have to put up parking meters. Folks working in town—including some of the store owners—were taking up all of the space along Main Street.

Farmers coming in to shop never found a place to park, and sometimes had to lug stuff a half mile or so. Some started to do their buying in other towns. Finally, store owners and farmers had a get-together—with the result that the empty field near the depot was fixed up for all-day parkers.

Now farmers get their shopping done comfortably, and the merchants have a better place to park than they had before. Just took a little friendly co-operation to make everybody happy.

From where I sit, most differences can be ironed out by just talking things over—maybe with a cup of coffee or glass of beer—and seeing the other person's side of it. Next time you have a problem or a little difference to settle, why not try just that?

1896 German Booklet Gives Early Community History

Editor's Note: This is the second and concluding installment of a translation from the German booklet on early Muenster history found in the Cornerstone of the old Sacred Heart Church.

In regard to a church Muenster has made good progress. On the eighth of December 1889, barely 3 weeks after the arrival of the first settlers, Rev. Father Brickley of Gainesville offered the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass for the first time in Muenster. The ecclesiastical authorities supported the colony as much as possible, enabling the opening of a Catholic school as early as April, 1890. At present the enrollment is 180 children taught by one lay teacher and three Sisters.

The parish was hardly two years old, when His Excellency, the Bishop, sent Rev. Blum of Dallas as resident priest under whose direction the parish put up a beautiful frame building at the cost of $6000.00. Rev. Blum was, however, called back to Dallas. At present Rev. Bonaventura Binziger, O. S. B. is our Pastor. He has been with us already three years.

In the meantime a cyclone totally destroyed our church on the 31st of July, 1894. This was a severe blow to the parish especially since the insurance did not cover the debts which were still on the church. Yet this act of Divine Providence was patiently born, and the task of enlarging the schoolhouse with the wreckage of the church was begun promptly. The former serves at present as church, school and sisters' home. This very year brings the beginning of construction on the new church which will be built of rock; when finished it will be the most beautiful church in the diocese of Dallas and it will be an ornament to the St. Joseph's parish in Muenster.

To all those who look for a new home, and wish to live in a healthy and mild climate in order to carry on agriculture and cattle raising, or who perhaps want to retire, we recommend in all honesty our German Catholic colony as the greatest and most flourishing colony in North Texas.

Come and chose for yourselves, or obtain information from the inhabitants of this colony, whose name, occupation and former

JEAN HUTTON EXCHANGES VOWS WITH JOHN BACH

Friends here will be interested in hearing of the marriage of Miss Jean Hutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hutton of Gainesville, formerly of Muenster, to John Frederick Bach of Kirkwood, Mo. The double ring ceremony and nuptial mass took place April 18 in St. Mary's church, Gainesville, with Rev. Peter Molloy officiating.

Miss Mary Helen Hutton of Dallas and Glenn Bach of Kirkwood, were the couples' attendants.

The bride attended school here, graduated from St. Mary's High school, and attended Victory College in Fort Worth. In 1948 she graduated with a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Saint Louis University School of Nursing. For the past several months she was on the staff at M&S hospital. The couple will be at home in St. Louis.

Mmes. Francis Wiese and John Hacker of this city attended the wedding.

HOUSEFLY CONTROL IS VITAL FACTOR IN PRESERVING HEALTH

AUSTIN.—Countless thousands of lives are lost annually throughout the nation, from diseases that are transmitted by the common housefly. Dysentery, diarrhea, typhoid fever, tuberculosis and many other disabling and even fatal diseases are spread by flies, and the control of houseflies becomes of great importance when considered in the light of public health.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, says that in order to protect our families we should make sure our homes are fly-proof through proper screening, and then concentrate on eliminating filth, garbage, and other breeding places for flies.

"See that your windows, doors and porches are screened so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor cannot molest your family", Dr. Cox said, "and make sure that your grocer observes proper sanitation standards and keeps your meat, food and vegetable supplies screened from flies.

"Then direct your efforts to eliminating all fly breeding places such as open garbage pails, open privies and other filth that offers the fly proper warmth, moisture and food. Flies thrive on filth, and inasmuch as one female housefly will lay from 600 to 1000 eggs per season, it can easily be seen that one breeding place left available in a community, can be responsible for a tremendous horde of flies."

Dr. Cox recommended organized community efforts as being effective in ridding a community of flies, and emphasized that no matter how clean one family's home and premises are, they are still not safe if another home down the street leaves exposed filth where flies can breed.

REPORT WAS PHONY; DDT IS OK FOR YOUR COWS, COX DECLARES

'Tain't so, says Murray Cox, farm editor for Station WFAA. That report about DDT being bad for milk and not to be used on dairy cattle is strictly a false alarm and should be ignored by everyone who has taken it seriously.

Cox made the statement in a broadcast last weekend and specifically identified it as a correction on the report previously given by himself. He mentioned also that the false report had been published in many newspapers and farm journals.

The Enterprise was one of the papers with the original story. In the issue of April 15 it carried an article released by G. G.

Four-year-old Skipper Smith, right, uncorks a potential haymaker, wide of its mark, but gravity and a 12-ounce glove prove to be his downfall. Opponent Lanny Wolf, 4, tries to slip in a right cross before Batting Smith kisses the canvas. The pugilistic pair, sons of Navy men stationed at Annapolis, Md., slug it out for the 38-pound title.

Would You Believe It?

Why Not? These days there are unions to cover practically every type of worker. It is only natural therefore, that there should be a union covering gravediggers. There is, and it's the United Agricultural, Canning and Packing Workers Union.

Gibson, extension dairy husbandman of Texas A & M College, stating that small amounts of DDT in food might be harmful in time, hence it is not recommended for use on dairy cows. No correction from that source has been received by the Enterprise.

Local retailers can vouch that many a dairy farmer of this area took the report seriously. DDT sales went into a terrible slump when former steady users announced they would not have the stuff at any price.

If two stacked glasses become stuck, there's a way to get them loose without breaking them. Pour cold water in the top glass while the lower one stands in warm water. And if a stopper sticks in a bottle, try running warm water over the neck of the bottle.

To prevent metal cans of scouring powder from leaving stains on damp linoleum or enamel, dip the bottom of the can in melted paraffin. When cool and hard, the paraffin coating will help against stains.

Carolyn Ann is the name of the new granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mosman. She is the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosman of Saint Jo. She was born April 21.

Miss Patricia Bengfort was in Muenster Sunday to be godmother at the baptism of her nephew, Raymond Herman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fleitman, born April 22. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bengfort are the grandparents.

Miss Betty Lou Bezner made the honor roll for the first semester at Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, according to word from the school president. She ranked within the upper 10 percent of the entire student body. Betty Lou is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bezner.

NUPTIAL AT LINDSAY UNITES RAY HESS AND LUCILLE FUHRMANN

Miss Lucille Fuhrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fuhrmann, Lindsay, and Ray Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hess, Muenster, exchanged marriage vows in a pretty nuptial service Wednesday morning in St. Peter's church at Lindsay.

Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony and at the nuptial high mass in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends of the young couple. Acolytes for the mass were Richard Hermes, Harold Dieter, Raymond Haverkamp, Cecil Hermes and LeRoy Kupper. White snapdragons and greenery decorated the altar.

Mrs. Wm. Fleitman, organist, played the wedding marches and accompanied the church choir in rendering music for the mass. After the service the couple proceeded to the Blessed Virgin's altar and presented a bouquet of white gladioli while the choir sang, Mother, At Your Feet We're Kneeling.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white slipper satin. The dress featured a sheer marquisette yoke edged in wide ruffled lace and a high neckline. The sleeves were long and fitted, terminating in points over her hands. The full skirt, attached to a fitted bodice, featured a modified bustle and a long, graceful train. The bride's full length veil was edged with lace and fell from a sweetheart crown of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with white gladioli. The book is a gift from her sister, Sister Catherine Henry. She also carried a white rosary, a gift from the groom. Her only jewelry was a four-strand pearl necklace.

Miss Emilia Hermes, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress of pink marquisette was designed with a net yoke and lace ruffle, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore an open crown picture hat of net and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Arthur Hess, brother of the groom was best man and Julius Metzler and Arnold Fuhrmann were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue ensemble and a corsage of pink carnations, and the groom's mother wore a navy blue floral print dress with a pink carnation corsage. Men in the wedding party wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Immediately after the services breakfast in the home of the bride's parents honored the couple, and at noon dinner was served to immediate members of both families and Father Conrad. The bride's colors were stressed throughout the home in floral arrangements and the table, covered with white linen, held a three-tier decorated cake.

At 5:30 an informal reception was held in the Lindsay hall and a buffet supper was served to about 175 guests. Miss Trudy Rauschuber presided at the bride's book. A dance concluded the day's festivities.

Also receiving congratulations during the evening were the bride's uncles and aunts, Messrs. and Mmes. Matt and Joe Fuhrmann, who were married in a double wedding on that day 34 years ago.

During the dance Mr. and Mrs. Hess left on a wedding trip, the bride wearing a navy blue dress with pink and navy accessories and a corsage of white glads. When they return they will make their home in Muenster on North Main street.

Mrs. Hess is a native of Lindsay and a graduate of Lindsay High school with the class of 1946. Mr. Hess was born and educated in Muenster and was in the army during the war. He is employed with Hess and Hess Drilling company.

SADDLE CLUB WINS CLUB DIVISION PRIZE IN ROUNDUP PARADE

The Muenster Saddle Club received the trophy in the division of clubs in the Circus Roundup parade last Wednesday at Gainessville and two of its members, Mrs. T. S. Myrick and Donald Walterscheid, received awards as mounted riders. Donald was second in the men's division and Mrs. Myrick second among women riders. Twelve of the blue-shirted Saddle Club members participated in the parade.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Muenster VFW entered a red-white-and-blue decorated car in the parade.

Scores of Muenster persons attended the event. An estimated 8,000 persons were present.

HARRISON RESIGNS AS PRECINCT CONSTABLE

Since last Friday this community has no peace officer. On that day Andy Harrison resigned as Constable of Precinct 8.

Harrison's reason for quitting the job, he said, is that it takes too much time from his business. Besides it is an unpleasant job and the pay is not sufficient for the responsibility and trouble. He feels that a mere $12.50 per month salary is not enough for the frequent demands on his time, many of which have been during business hours.

Mrs. Paul Arendt, Jr. entertained with a party in observance of her husband's birthday Tuesday night in their home. Parents, brothers and sisters of the couple were guests. They presented gifts to the honoree and spent the evening playing card games. The hostess served refreshments.

own school board. We will not be able to continue the co-operative spirit now existing between the two schools. Busses will drive from here instead of to here, and parochial children will not ride them at all. Public school children will take long, needless bus rides every day. The city will be handicapped by a lack of a public high school and the community will be deprived of a gymnasium, auditorium and other desirable facilities.

Understand, all that can be expected if the law passes and our public school is not up to standard. But if this bond issue passes we'll be prepared for anything that develops. We'll have a qualified system of our own. We'll keep our own school district and continue to elect our own neighbors as trustees. We'll have a fine system and a small tax instead of no system and a big tax.

Even if the expected law does not pass the bond issue is a wonderful bargain. For an additional tax of only 50 cents on $100 of valuation this community can erect a modern school unit with complete facilities and approved courses. Assuming that the present cooperative spirit between schools will continue, this means that pupils of both schools will enjoy some wonderful improvements.

In case there is any confusion about the tax rate, this is to explain that not all of the proposed $1.00 rate is expected to apply. Fifty cents is the rate intended to retire the $300,000 bond. Adding our present authorized rate, we get the requested rate of $1.00. However, as most of us are aware, the school board is not using the full authorized rate to support its bus system. The effective rate is only 30 cents, and if that figure can be maintained the total rate will be 80 cents.

And here's another possibility. If other districts should happen to consolidate with ours the rate to retire the bond could be set at less than 50 cents. It is quite possible that the entire tax to support the bus system and pay off the school will be less than 75 cents.

All of which makes the bond election shape up as about the most attractive proposal this community has ever had. By passing it we take advantage of a wonderful bargain. By defeating it we invite an enormous tax in addition to imposing a handicap on both schools. One way we can't lose, the other way we can't win. On that basis there can't be much doubt about how to vote.

As to who may vote in the election, the law says every qualified voter who has rendered property for taxation. So if you have paid your poll tax, and if you have rendered any kind of property, personal or real estate, you are entitled to a vote.
