FORCE AND COERCION IN FREEMAN-KENNEDY FARM PROGRAM

It has taken us thirty years to find out that you can't intervene in farm market prices to support farm prices with subsidies. We've plowed under cotton, slaughtered the pigs, cut production by cutting acreage (so we thought), we've had the food stamp plan, the 90 percent of parity, the Brannan Plan for outright subsidy, the flexible parity, a series of overseas surplus disposal plans and actually withdrawal of land where we paid farmers not to plant. They've all failed.

Now we've got the Freeman-Kennedy farm program. At first study it would seem more of the same. But on serious study it's worse than all the others for it uses force and coercion to get the farmers in line. The object of the program is to slash production below the needs of this country for several years to come. It's like a doctor attacking an infected finger by cutting off the hand. It's ruthless.

The new program has both marketing quotas as well as acreage quotas. At present a wheat farmer at least has the freedom to market his wheat so long as the wheat is produced within his acreage allotment. Not so under Freeman's plan. It would clamp fixed limits on the wheat the farmer could market for food and export irrespective of the number of acres on which the wheat is grown.

And as to the force and coercion, here's how that will work. Should the farmers reject the controls on wheat and feed grains they would lose not just a portion of the price-support level but all price supports entirely and all direct government payments. The penalties on individual farmers who overplant their allotted acreage are also increased to a prohibitive level.

Supposing the farmers reject the program nationally as they have in this country and state for years — what happens? That's all been figured out too. The government has the right to dump at once ten million tons of feed grains and two hundred million bushels of wheat on the open market. This would break the market wide open. And they say the farmer has a choice!

There's but one approach we think and that is the return of farming to the freedom of the market price. For the first two years it would be rough, but the cattlemen can do without the price support and the rigid controls it involves, why not the wheatmen? Under this Freeman program we can only see the same failure that has hit the collectives in Russia. Calvin Coolidge said in a few short but succinct words back in the 1920's when he vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm bill — "Government price fixing, once started, has alike no justice and no end."

"STRAIGHT TALK"

Following are a few bull's eye shots by Tom Anderson, publisher of the Mississippi Farmer:

"The good old days: Back when the only thing your wife owed was a cup of sugar, to the next door neighbor.

"Parity: A government program to make every farmer as poor as his neighbor; return to serfdom with the government as the master.

"Capital punishment: The government taxes you to get capital to go into competition with you and then taxes the profits on your business in order to pay the losses on . . . government businesses.

"Dictionary: The only place where SUCCESS comes ahead of WORK.

"Perpetual: Duration of any government handout program, once begun.

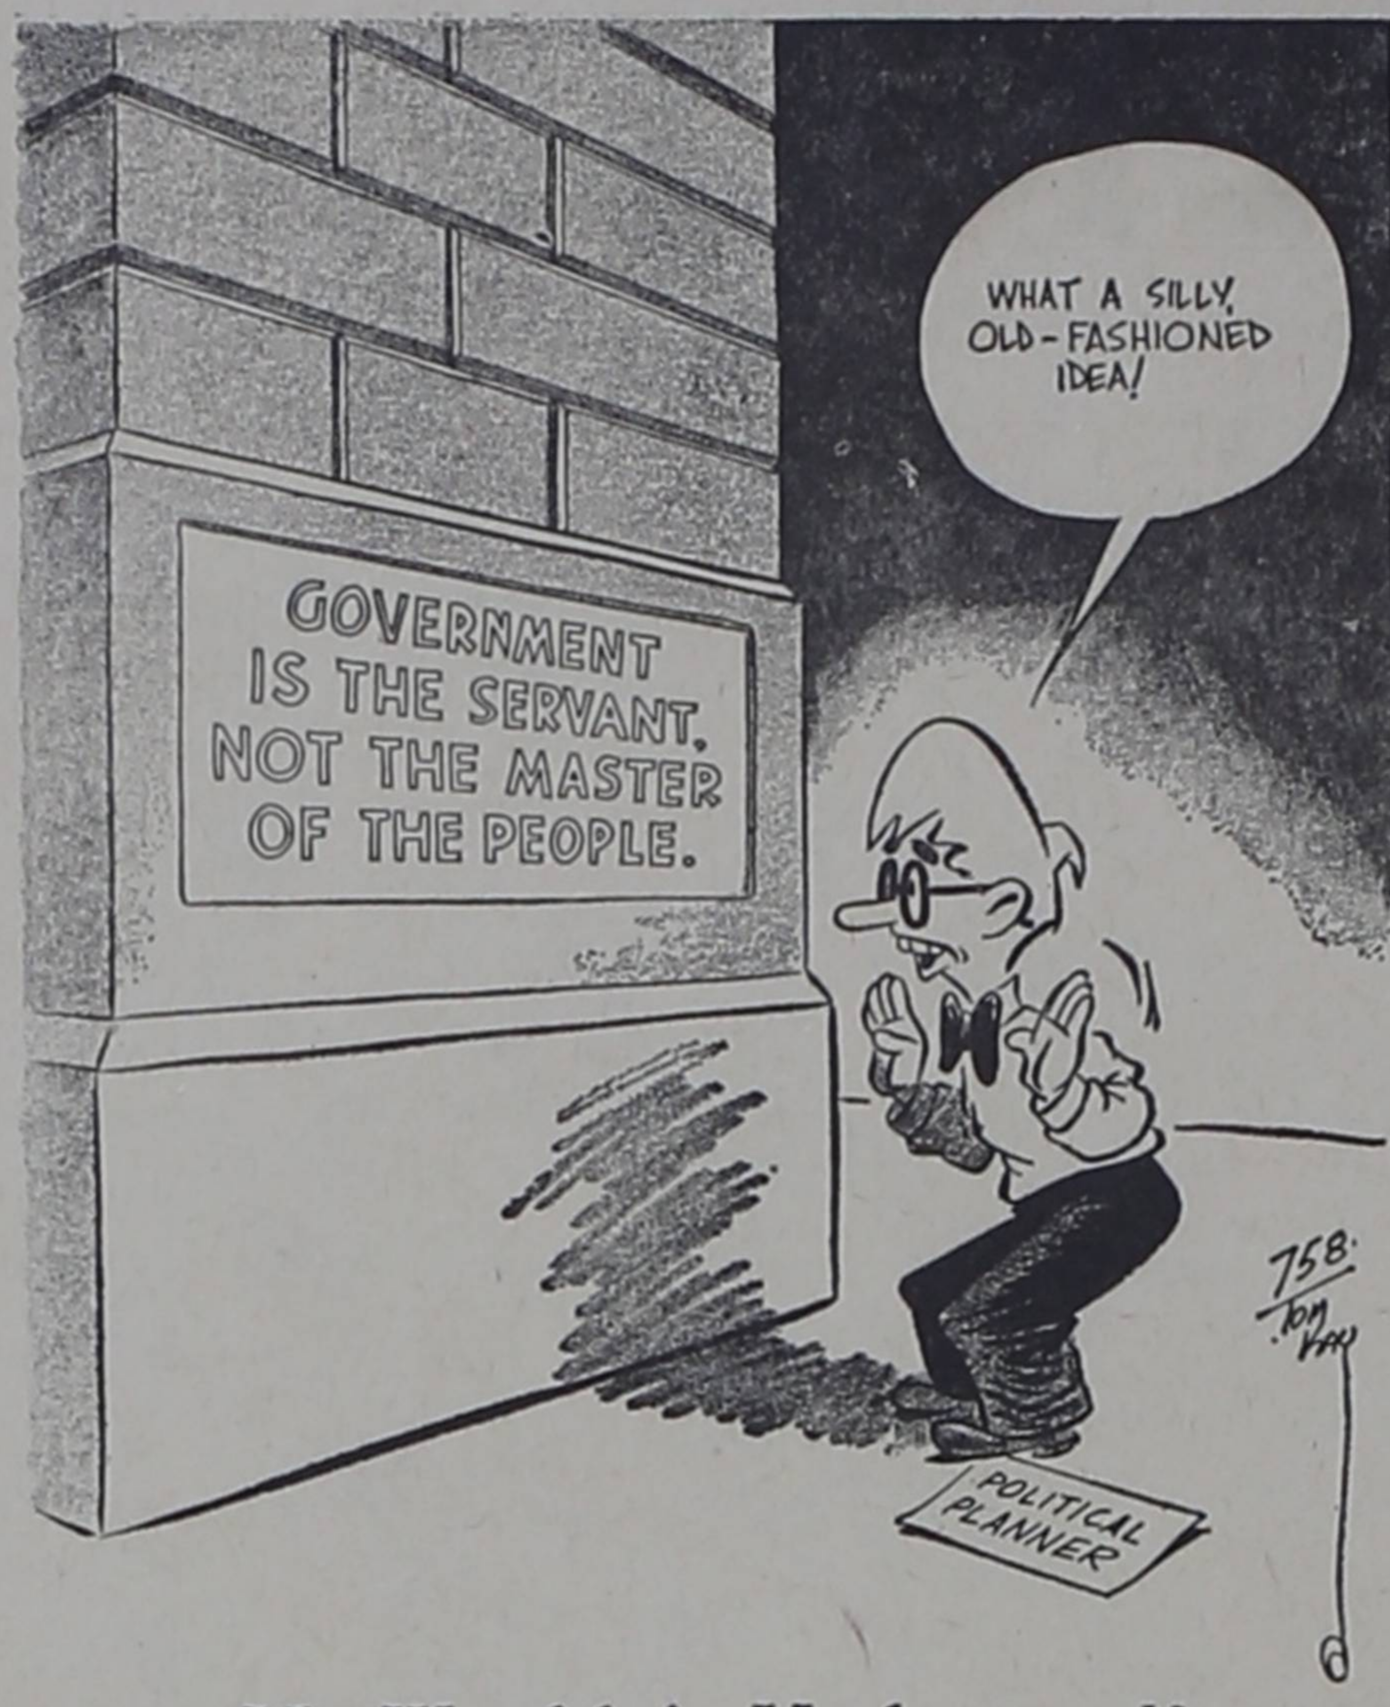

"Mother hen: A symbol of the federal government — formerly known as the eagle."

WORTHY OF SHYLOCK

The latest on revision of the crazy quilt federal income tax system is a plan now before Congress to enable the government to get more of its taxes from a citizen's earnings before he receives them. It would withhold 20 cents of every dollar of dividends, interest earned on savings accounts in banks, savings and loan associations, etc. If more taxes are withheld than owed, the taxpayer could apply to the treasury for a refund. There are already withholding taxes on wages and salaries.

A depressing aspect of the bill is the lack of confidence shown by the government in the honesty of its citizens — it treats them all as dishonest in order to catch the few who are.

Tax revision can go one step farther — require that all salaries, wages and earnings be paid to the government, and then have the government return to each individual or company whatever might be left to them after the tax-gatherers had done their work. Sounds crazy, but that would make it easier to deal with a nation of crooks.

He Wouldn't Understand!

HOW TO BUY VOTES

By Dr. George S. Benson

When Congress denied to the Kennedy Administration a proposed Department of Urban Affairs it reflected the traditional grass roots caution about expanding the power and authority of the central government. The Congress, somehow despite heavy political pressures for an obviously political move motivated strategy on the part of the Administration, has once again found its conservative base regarding the encroachment of executive power.

A department of urban affairs would have started off by overseeing federal expenditures of more than $4 billion, which undoubtedly is enough to keep the big city vote in line for this year's congressional elections.

Then, when one considers the kind of Urban aid programs that might be added before 1964, the advantages of this power concentration become obvious. Heavy emphasis has been experienced in the past year on federal aid and influence in related areas, such as relief and re-development assistance, old age programs, union bargaining and organization, and raises for government employees.

Taxes For "Payoff?"

All this adds up to something for everybody, which is not to say that all of it is undesirable. But it is a sort of "payoff" from a newly elected administration that has promised to "get the nation moving" again.

The movement of funds out of the Treasury will eventually require the movement of tax money back into Washington. If the country is not in fiscal chaos by 1964, all this activity will probably sound like votes when recited at the convention. This kind of strategy worked under Roosevelt and under Truman. More and more, the American economy is becoming a government planned economy directed by the party that promises most. Increasingly, the people are urged to leave it up to the President to do this or do that. Bills for every conceivable need or group flood the Congress. Is our society so complicated that one can no longer do anything for himself? Or is it so uncomplicated that all economic problems are merely "oysters" for the planners? Have the economic laws of the free market been replaced by government decree?

An Outmoded Congress
 Some Americans apparently believe that we, the people, merely by giving up power, may expect Utopia. The President wants power to fight recessions, to cut taxes (raise them, too?), to spend by executive order, to hand out millions to the jobless, to aid education, to control farm production, to unofficially establish wages and prices, to balance foreign trade, etc. The executive department, through the federal banking system, already controls the supply and cost of money. What else is left? If the Congress grants all the powers being requested there will be little left for Congress to do except okay big appropriations bills in a routine way and lift the ceiling on the national debt. This will undoubtedly give Congressmen more time back home with constituents for the purpose of obtaining more federal funds and preparing for the next election! For thirty years we have had continuous erosion of legislative power in favor of the executive department. It is most dangerous. We can lose representative government this way.

FOR and AGAINST

for CHRIST-against COMMUNISM

BY BILLY JAMES HARGIS, LL.D.
 FOUNDER CHRISTIAN CRUSADE

Has Communist Propaganda Destroyed The Monroe Doctrine?

As a part of their intensive campaign to take over Latin America, and thus complete an important phase of the plot to encircle our nation, the communists have undertaken a propaganda campaign against the Monroe Doctrine. On July 9, 1960 Nikita Khrushchev, the Butcher of the Ukraine, arrogantly proclaimed that the United States was through in Latin America. He threatened us with Soviet rockets if our government dared to do anything about the communist conspiracy's takeover of Cuba. On July 12, 1960 Khrushchev tried to put the Monroe Doctrine into its grave with the following words: "We consider that the Monroe Doctrine has outlived its time . . . has died." In short, he was announcing to the United States and to the world that the international communist conspiracy was taking over in Latin America.

The usual strange left-wing liberal voices in America have backed up the Kremlin's demands that the Monroe Doctrine be abandoned by our nation. Among these was Max Ascoli in the September 15, 1960 Reporter magazine. He said that perhaps Americans should recognize "that the Monroe Doctrine is about as obsolete as Washington's Farewell Address."

In this drive to destroy the Monroe Doctrine, our communist enemies are using their long-time technique of trying to instill fear in the minds of their future victims. The idea is to create fear of a shooting war and an attitude favorable towards more concessions to the communist gangsters. In this case the goal is to propagandize Americans with the line of thinking that any move against international communism's plans in Cuba and Latin America would bring on a disastrous war. For example the May 1961 issue of Political Affairs, official communist monthly in the United States, contended that any move by America to free Cuba from communist tyranny "would result in catastrophe."

Actually, Americans had better fear the consequences if our policy makers continue to refuse to make any move to free Cuba of communist dictatorship. The peril to our nation will be increased enormously if Khrushchev, Castro, and the international communist conspiracy which they represent are allowed to continue building up missile bases, air power, and a fifth column campaign against the rest of Latin America and the United States. Continued weak-kneed appeasement will spell the end of freedom in this hemisphere. Courageous and intelligent anti-communist action will result in a catastrophe for international communism only.

Opposition Needed

These trends, besides ignoring basic and fundamental freedoms of the individual under the constitution, leach away the responsibilities that such freedoms assign to the individual. These developments lead to a resignation of local and personal responsibility in favor of an all powerful State which pre-supposes (and tries to convince the people) that vast power for good ends is always justifiable. We are on the wrong track, and we are likely to find that absolute power can corrupt absolutely.

There was encouragement, therefore, in the refusal of Congress to establish a department of urban affairs. This action shows the existence of a basic resistance to these powerful thrusts toward government centralization. We need to see more such opposition.

Week after week carefully tabulated figures published in "Automotive Market Reports" show that Chevrolet trucks are worth more in resale value.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?

There may be several reasons, but among them would be:

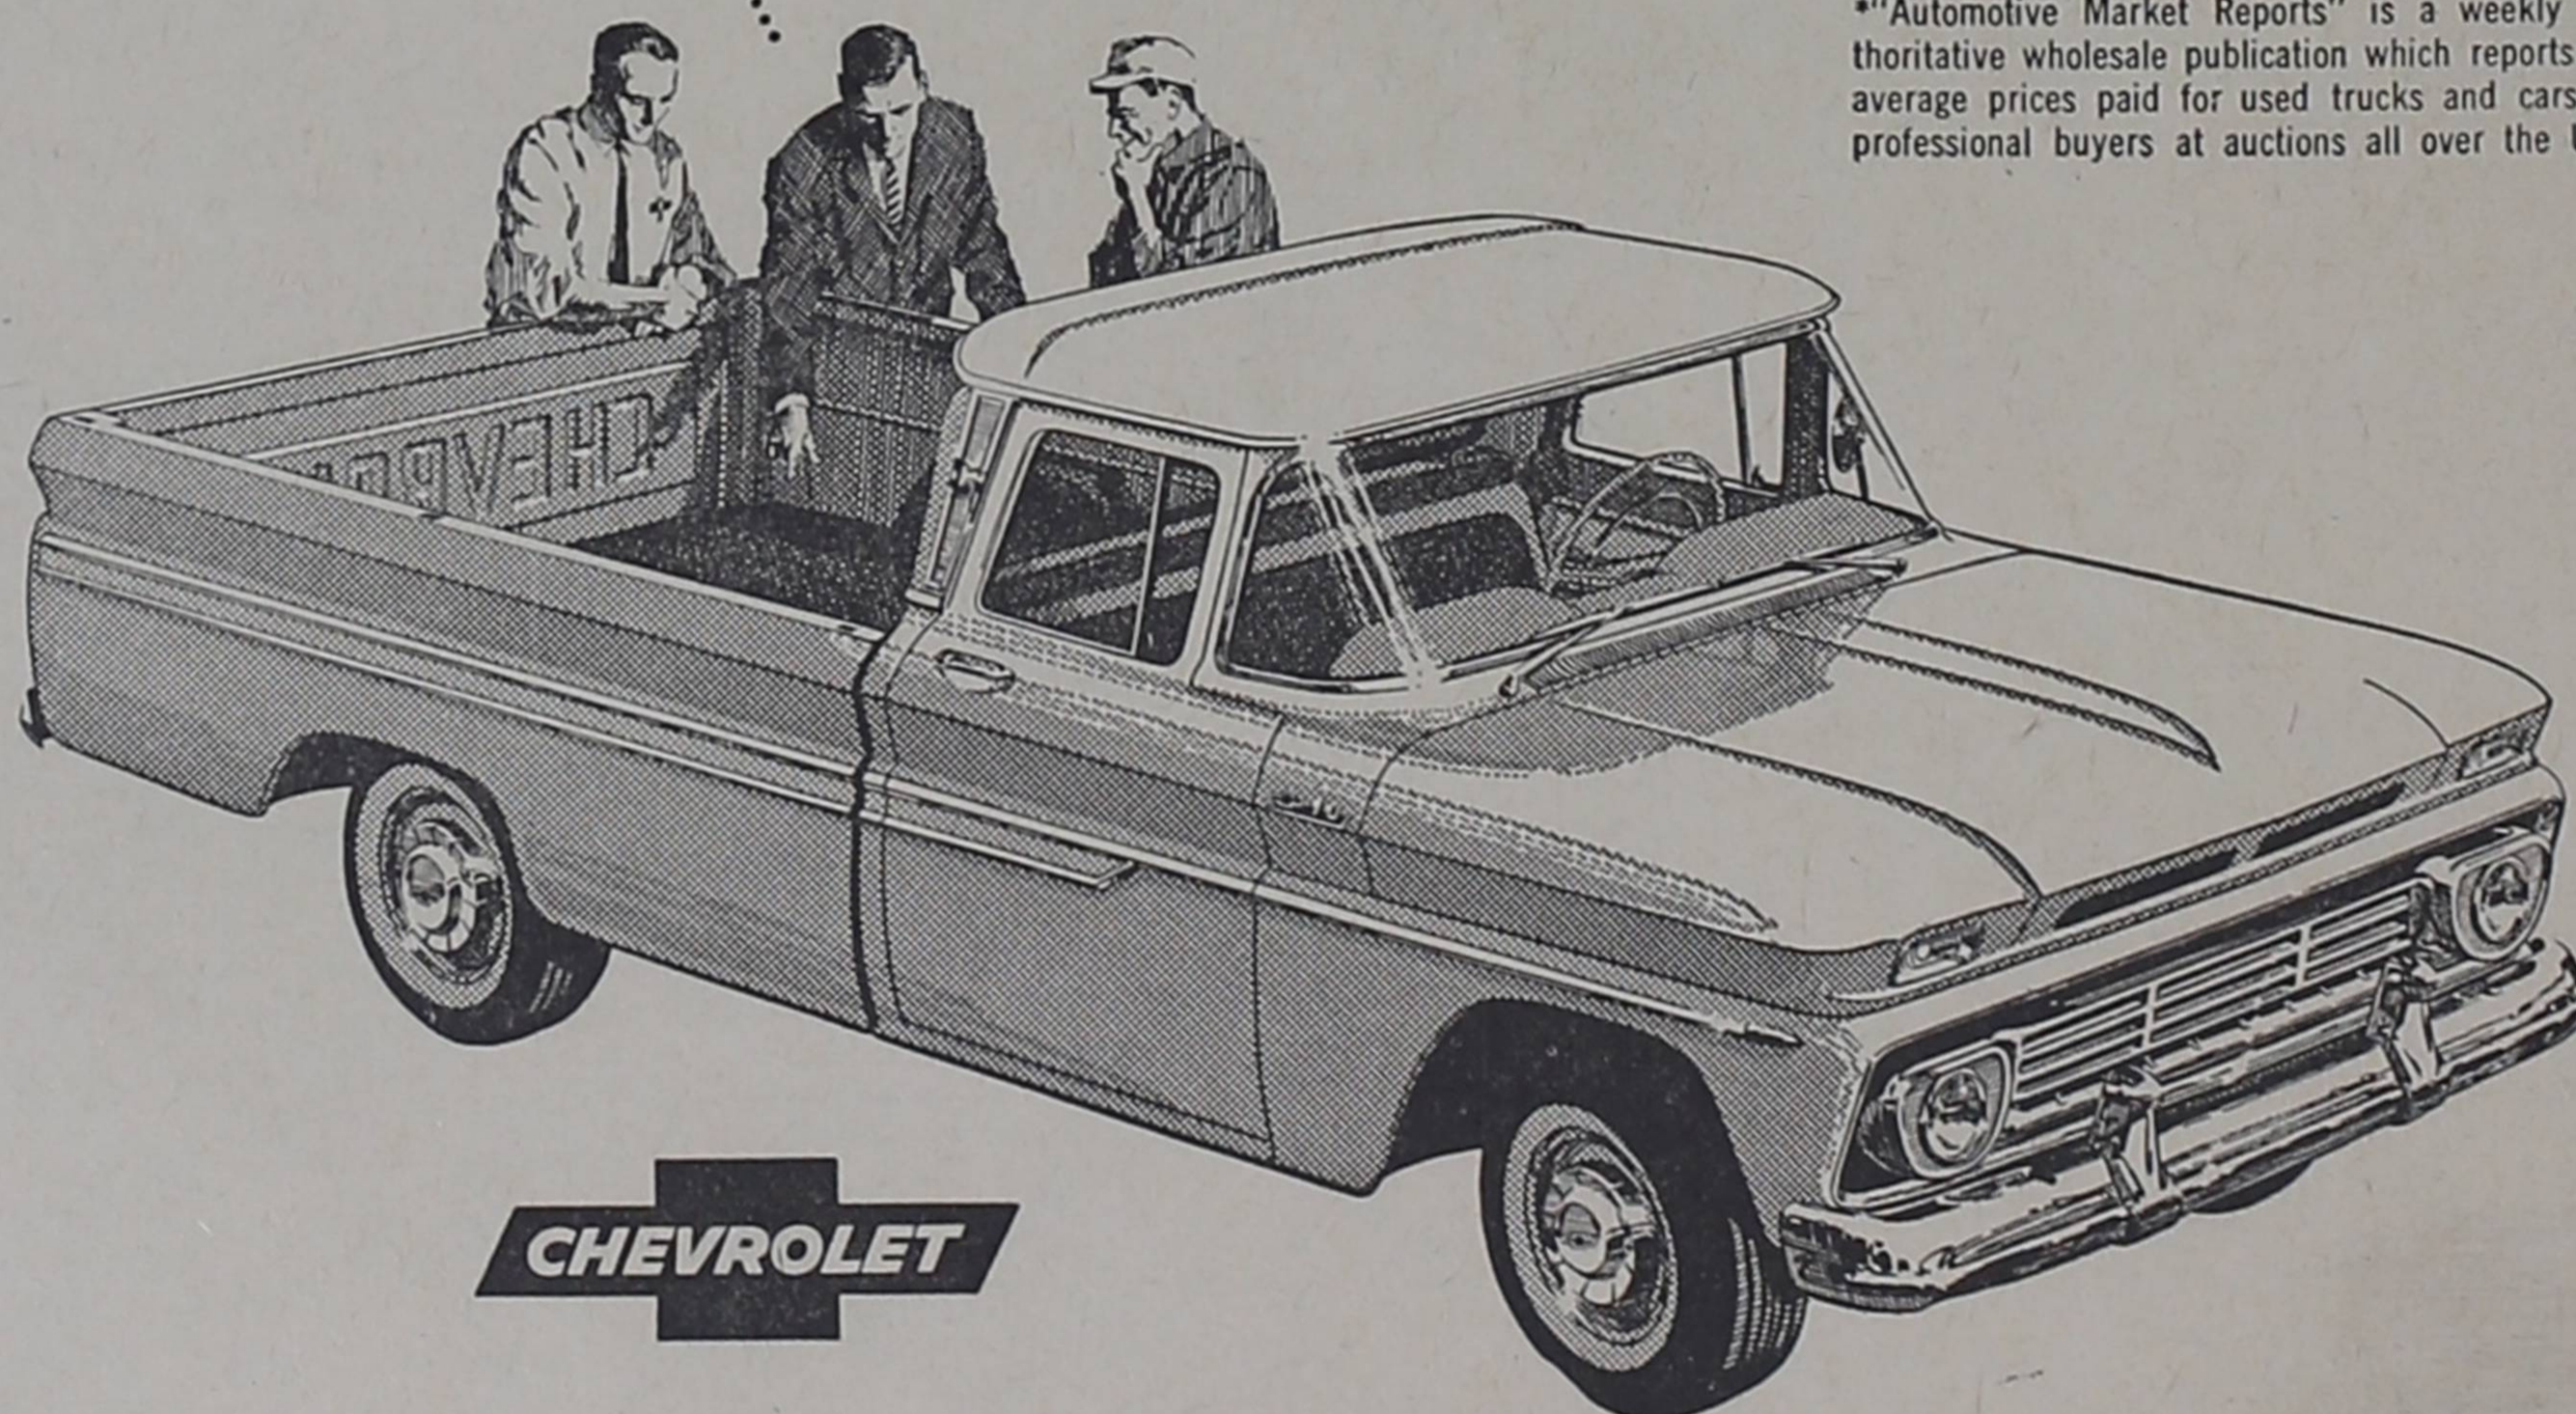

1. A greater demand for the product
2. A more desirable product for resale

2. A more desirable product for resale

So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

Farm Facts

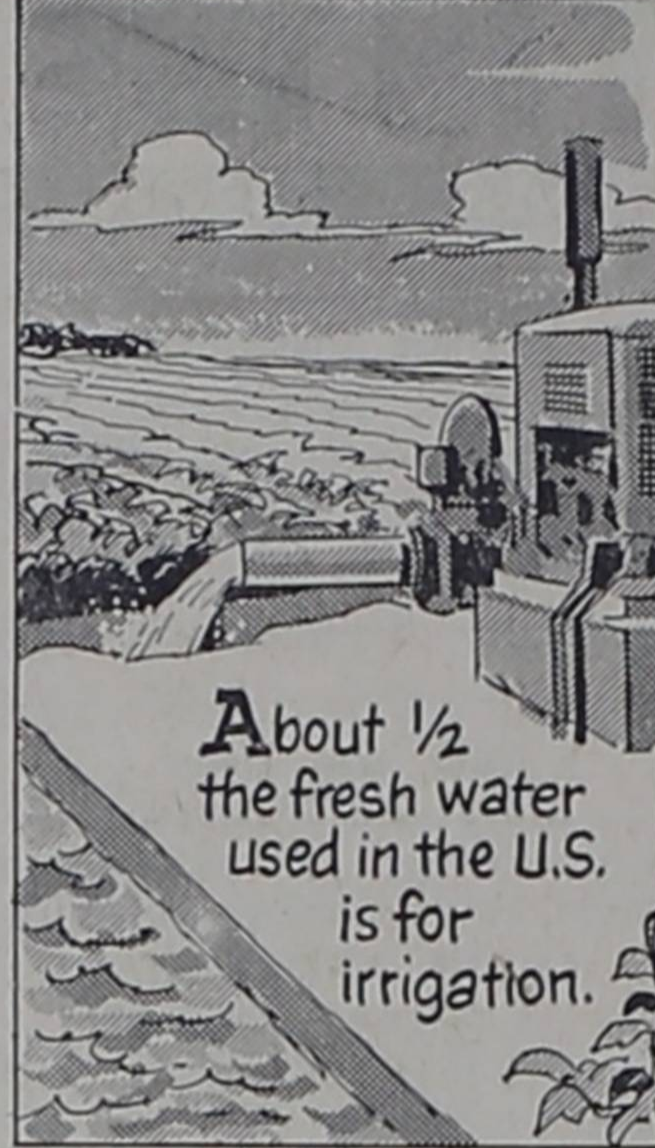

The greatest single use of fresh water in the United States is for irrigation—75 billion to 100 billion gallons a day, or about half of the fresh water we use annually.

Next largest consumer is industry and steam power plants. According to Karl O. Kohler, Jr., writing in the 1955 Yearbook of Agriculture, they require about 70 billion gallons of fresh water daily. It takes 18 gallons of water, for example, to refine a barrel of oil and about 800 to make a barrel of beer.

Kohler notes that application of irrigation water is relatively inefficient. Annual delivery to a farm may range from less than an acre-foot (325,850 gallons) up to more than 7 acre-feet (2,280,950 gallons) to an acre.

A cutting of alfalfa requires about 325,800 gallons of water an acre, and a crop of cotton, 800,000 gallons.

In 1959 more than 33 million acres were irrigated as compared with about 20.5 million acres in 1944. Most of the irrigated land is located in the 17 Western states, Louisiana, and Hawaii.

About 1/2 the fresh water used in the U.S. is for irrigation.

Increases in irrigated acreage in the Far West and rapid introduction of supplemental irrigation in the Midwest and in the Eastern and Southern states in recent years have contributed to a much heavier consumption of water.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

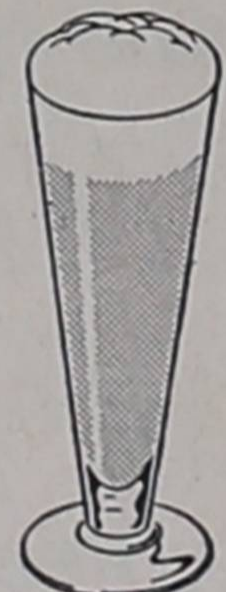

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN TEXAS... near Galveston, Confederate General J. B. Magruder piled cotton bales on the decks of little river boats. These famous "cotton clads," manned by the 26th Texas Cavalry, trounced the Federal war fleet then holding Texas' largest port. As the war ships hastily departed, the event was toasted in good Texas-brewed beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation—light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Southwestern hospitality to any occasion. Texans have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

They left Thursday, making the trip by car with a teacher and other students and returned Sunday night. Enroute they stopped at Austin for sight-seeing and visited the Goliad Mission.

While in Corpus Christi Eddie Joe visited by phone with Abbot Alfred Hoenig. The tight schedule of meetings at the convention prevented a visit at the abbey.

New Plastic Globes Thwart Vandals

The remarkable impact resistance of the butyrate globe is demonstrated in this stroboscopic photo showing the globe dropped from a 10-foot height. Mounted globe is shown in inset.

The picnic is over for rock-throwing vandals, wielders of BB guns and after-dark Romeos who for years have taken turns smashing the glass globes used atop street-lighting standards in residential communities of Long Island, New York.

Harassed by the enormous breakage in glass globes, and by the $50,000 a year it was costing to replace them, the Long Island Lighting Company recently solved the problem by installing globes made of rugged Tenite butyrate plastic.

The new acorn-shaped globes, developed and introduced by the lighting company after two years of experiment and testing, are virtually indestructible. They look like their glass counterparts, have much the same light transmission qualities, and are exceptionally resistant to weathering.

The complete unit, consisting of the plastic globe, an aluminum canopy and a finial, or handle, costs slightly less than the glass globe assembly.

The butyrate luminaire will ultimately replace glass on all of the company's 25,000 residential street lights.

Don't worry about avoiding temptation after 50. That's when it starts to avoid you.

More Pay Allowed Without Affecting Social Security

There is a new law about how much money you can earn and still receive some or all of your Social Security payments.

As in previous years, a person earning $1200 or less in the year will receive all of his benefits for that year. If his earnings exceed $1200, his total family benefits for the year will be reduced by $1 for each $2 that he earns from $1200 to $1700. For every $1 of earnings above $1700, his family benefits will be reduced by $1.

For example, if a husband and wife together are eligible for benefits of $120 a month, and the husband earns $1800 in 1962, he and his wife would still receive $1090 in Social Security benefits for the year.

If a wage earner has several dependents, it may be possible for him to receive some benefits if his total yearly earnings are less than $4,498.

In any case, all workers over 65 years of age, whether or not retired, should make application for their Social Security benefits. By so doing, they will determine whether or not they can receive some payments despite their earnings. Also, their applications will be processed so that any time in the future they retire or limit their earnings, their benefits may begin by their simply submitting a retirement statement on a postal card form given to each claimant. All new earnings will be added to their Social Security accounts, so that it could not be harmful to file applications at age 65.

For more information, contact your Social Security Office at 300 East Houston in Sherman, Texas.

HUMAN LIFE—GIFT OF GOD OR PAWN OF MAN?

Americans believe:

That human life is a precious thing granted by God; that a child who is not strong should be given every opportunity to live a full life; that people in their advanced ages should be able to enjoy the fruits of their labors, or be cared for by their families even though they have outlived their usefulness to industrial society.

Communists believe:

That there should be applied to man the rules of animal husbandry—that man's treatment should be toward the improvement of the breed, much like animals; that the aged should be eliminated as surplus; that the concept held by people of free nations—that life belongs to God and cannot be eliminated—is false and, therefore, must be disregarded.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF LIBERTY
To renew and awaken interest in our precious heritage of Freedom, and its superiority over the Communist philosophy, these messages are being published by the Texas Power & Light Company, an investor-owned, tax-paying electric utility.

Suggested Ways To Cure Hiccups

The remedies that have been suggested for hiccups are unlimited. Everyone has hiccups now and then, and everyone has had "helpful suggestions" from friends and acquaintances on how to stop them. Hiccups are spasmodic contractions of the diaphragm. They occur in healthy people spontaneously or from trivial causes. In rare cases hiccups will continue for long periods and control becomes difficult. In these instances, medical attention is required.

Babies often hiccup after rapid feeding, or swallowing of air. Sometimes hiccups are noted along with neurosis and with certain diseases, such as flu.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, offers several suggestions for curing the hiccups.

In the case of babies, administer sips of warm water; take the child in your arms, patting his back.

One of the best remedies for simple hiccups in older children and adults is to lie down and relax.

Other measures that sometimes help include: Drink water slowly, trying both warm and cold water if necessary; if an upset stomach sets off the hiccups, take a teaspoonful of baking soda in water; breathe in and out into a paper bag, so that the carbon dioxide level in the blood is raised.

The important thing in stopping the hiccups is to relax, and any prudent thing that helps the subject relax and gets his mind off the hiccups may be helpful.

There are occasional cases in medical history of individuals whose hiccups have persisted for hours or days. If hiccups don't go away after a reasonable period, say, an hour or two, call your doctor.

Soil Shedding on Moldboard Helped By Plastic Cover

Ever have trouble with soil sticking to your plows? U. S. Department of Agriculture agricultural engineers have found an answer to this problem.

In tests conducted at Auburn, Alabama, moldboard plows covered with sheet plastic did an excellent job of shedding soil. Two plastics, Teflon and H. D. polyethylene, were effective in turning sticky, difficult-to-plow clay soil.

The plow covered with Teflon required 23 percent less pulling power than a conventional steel moldboard plow. The USDA engineers say this is the first time the Davidson clay used in the test has been satisfactorily plowed with a moldboard since the tillage machinery laboratory began using this soil for tests nearly 25 years ago.

Later tests of the plastic-covered plows were conducted at Plains, Ga. A rye cover crop was completely turned under with six inches or more of soil by a Teflon-covered moldboard. In an adjacent field, an uncovered moldboard failed to shed the soil, which was merely broken loose and pushed over. The soil in these fields was a very sticky clay.

Although both Teflon and H. D. polyethylene were effective in shedding soil, tests comparing sheets of equal thickness showed that Teflon lasts longer. The engineers estimate a 14-inch moldboard plow covered with Teflon will turn about 30 more acres of highly abrasive, sticky soil than will a similar plow covered with H. D. polyethylene.

USDA engineers are presently working with coverings for moldboard plows only, but they believe plastic coverings may eventually prove useful on any farm implement that comes in contact with the soil. This research is continuing.

The plow coverings are not yet commercially available. Manufacturers will have to determine, on the basis of potential demand, whether production of these items is economically feasible.

When will they start trimming the budget instead of the taxpayers?

It was once the law in Turkey: the husband's failure to supply the wife with coffee served as legal grounds for divorce.
