Commissioners Approve Change In Assessing Tax

The average person isn't really aware of the amount of income tax he pays to the federal government. Because of the withholding arrangement, most people think of their take home pay only as their income. They don't realize that the wool has been pulled over their eyes. Nor do many realize that employers give a lot of free service in collecting their income tax and submitting it to Uncle Sam.

A firm in Tennessee decided a few weeks ago to convey that information by a forceful demonstration. Making its weekly payroll it gave each employee an advance on the next week's pay equal to the amount of tax withheld. It was an emphatic reminder to everyone just how much he was earning and how much was taken out. Furthermore, the tax-equivalent portion was paid in silver dollars, to make the lesson even more obvious — and to bring the impact of the lesson to retail stores as well. There were 4362 of those silver dollars. As they circulated, the entire community had occasion to ponder how much local purchasing power is skimmed off weekly and sent to the big central government of Washington.

Needless to say, the same fact was demonstrated in another way the following week. Deduction of the previous advance was a jolt reminding employees again how much is being taken out for tax.

After those two weeks it's probable that most of the employees concerned would be inclined to listen to the merits of the Liberty Amendment. That's the proposal, you know, which seeks to abolish all personal income tax by the simple method of getting the federal government out of all business which is not authorized by the constitution.

Sponsors of the amendment have presented figures showing that Uncle Sam's business interests run up annual losses which are equivalent to the total of all personal income taxes. In effect, all personal income tax is used to make up the losses of these federally managed concerns which operate in competition with private enterprise. Getting rid of them would save enough to eliminate the personal income tax.

The amendment has another important merit. Many billions of dollars of value are tied up in the government owned investments. Selling them to private capital would raise the money for substantial reduction of the federal debt.

And there's still another big merit. As those firms go into private ownership they become taxpayers instead of tax eaters, adding substantially to the volume of private enterprise business which is subject to corporate income tax. That would either produce an increase of corporate income tax revenue to support essential and proper functions of government or permit a reduction in corporate rates.

Of course it's hardly necessary to say how the average individual would be affected by that addition to his personal budget. The stimulant to his buying power would be enormous, beside which the stimulant envisioned in the Administration's tax reduction proposal would be mere peanuts.

Does the idea appeal to you? Well, the Liberty Amendment is more than just a theoretical brainstorm. It has been adopted by six states, including Texas, and it is being considered by many more. When ratified by two thirds of all states it becomes a part of the Constitution.

It is conceded that Strategic Air Command in Omaha could be wiped out by the blast of an enemy H-Bomb. Being only 45 feet down isn't nearly enough. To correct that situation SAC has ordered a new vault 3/4 of a mile below the surface of the earth and hewn out of bedrock.

The place, they say, is to be manned by 150 SAC personnel, who will be the nerve center of our defense system, equipped with electronic computers, radios and the famous red telephone over which the president's order will come if SAC is to release a retaliatory attack.

One detail not explained about the special safety precaution is how to be sure that people will be able to get out of the extra deep hole. There

JCs Plan Banquet At Installation of 1963-64 Officers

Plans for their first installation banquet were shaped up by Muenster Jaycees at their meeting Tuesday night. The banquet will be held Saturday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Muenster High School lunch room, and will feature an address by Miles K. Brown of Fort Worth, past state vice-president of the Jaycees and in popular demand as a speaker. The public is invited and all who endorse the JC program are encouraged to attend. Tickets can be bought at $2.00 each from any of the members.

Also discussed at the meeting is the tennis court project now under way in the city park. It was reported that St. Joseph and VFW Clubs have both agreed to give $200 to the project and KC Club has assured its help but has not had a meeting to set the amount. Also helping is Commissioner Earl Taylor, who is hauling in the gravel base, and Russell and Russell Drilling Company which will furnish iron pipe for use in backstops.

Muenster, Nocona, Saint Jo Firemen In Skill Contests

Fire drill for the local firemen last Thursday night was a combination of contests and practice session. They were at Saint Jo, competing with that town's and Nocona's volunteers in games that are intended to improve skill while appealing to the spirit of competition.

One contest is known as water polo. A regulation tether ball is suspended on a horizontal wire 15 feet off the ground and the object is to move the ball by use a water stream to the opponent's end of the line. The useful side of it is to improve adjusting of nozzle and direction of stream of a fire hose also development of coordinated action in advancing or pulling back the hose. A bonus benefit is a thorough soaking.

The other contest involved speed in making connections of water hose and nozzle. It's done by pairs. From opposite ends of the hose each runs its length then one connects the hose to the truck while the other puts on the nozzle. Best time in getting a stream is the winner. Tardiness in putting on the nozzle results in more soakings. Again the object is to develop speed in handling equipment.

High scorer was Saint Jo. However both Muenster and Nocona are eager for the next contest.

DEFICIT FINANCING
 "I have a new investment system which guarantees 50 per cent profit on your money every 45 days."

With that simple little advertisement in the Boston daily papers, Charles Ponzi in 1919 launched himself in business. People came a-running with money by the fist full. They shoved it through the wicket with such speed and regularity that Ponzi ran out of storage space, and had to move to larger quarters.

His "investors" eventually totaled 40 thousand, and their "investments" nine million dollars before the law cracked down.

Ponzi's swindle followed a simple formula of paying off yesterday's "investors" with the boodle which today's and tomorrow's suckers delivered.

Austen Lake, writing in the Boston Record American, says: "In a miniature skeleton form, it was the same fiscal system which the New Frontier is using on United States taxpayers — by pyramiding the national debt to a new peak of 320 billion dollars, on the bland assumption that an ever-expanding national income will cover its ballooning debt, to achieve what it calls a 'floating balance,' or until the balloon goes bust."

Ponzi eventually was jailed for paying off his current liabilities from his anticipated revenues. Today, Mr. Lake opines, Ponzi would make a fine Government economist. Times do change, don't they?

OVERDOING IT

A trip to Ireland, to the ancestral seat of the Kennedys Dunganstown, would, we think, have been a fine and happy thing for the President — even restful, perhaps. But we still wonder about this latest Grand Tour.

Lionized as he appeared to be in West Germany, President Kennedy could not possibly have been welcome in Britain in her hour of purple shame and the political upheaval — in which the US change of heart on Skybolt was almost as devastating as the charms of Miss Christine Keeler. President DeGaulle was not on the calling list, and the Italian visit seems a bit pushy both politically and ecclesiastically.

But, perhaps brave speeches are better received abroad than at home. It is easier, no doubt, for the President to promise the Germans that US forces will remain in West Berlin than to assure his countrymen that the US Marines will remain in Guantanamo. But it must be confusing to the Germans to remember that The Wall, "an offense against humanity", was built in August '61 while the

The Constitution gives the federal government no authority to provide aid to education; no authority for Social Security; no authority for socialized medicine; no authority for ownership of private businesses; no authority for a list of government activities that could be extended to the hundreds.

In view of the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine upon the takeover of Cuba by Khrushchev, the words of the President of the United States might have sounded a little hollow to some when he said: "We will keep this Free World free until the day comes, as Thomas Jefferson predicted it would, that the disease of liberty, which is catching, spreads throughout the world."

Little Island Of Old Mexico

State Highway Department has discovered an island of Mexico in the heart of El Paso.

Highway department claims that there is a quarter-mile section on U. S. Highway 80 in El Paso where you can drive through Texas and see Old Mexico with one eye and New Mexico with the other eye.

Department says Cordova Island became a Mexican oasis in the Texas city of El Paso under the Guadalupe Hidalgo Treaty for 1848. Treaty provided that artificial changes in the Rio Grande's course would not affect Cordova Island's boundary. Now that the meandering river has changed its course the Island is surrounded by American soil.

"... the American people are not as gullible as they used to be about political promises, whether they concern 'benefits' or anything else. For example, we all can remember how Kennedy, when he was campaigning in 1960, promised again and again that he would balance the budget and keep it balanced. Yet now he and his New Frontiersmen are telling us that deliberate budget deficits are the secret to fiscal success. The budget promise, then, was way overblown. The same holds true for political promises in the realm of 'benefits'. For example, the TVA was born in a sea of promises to bring everlasting prosperity to the Tennessee Valley, but after a quarter of a century goodly portions of the area are officially classed as 'depressed.'"

From National Review: "Dr. Clarence Martin of Jamestown, North Dakota bought space . . . to insert his 'Declaration of Independence' in the Jamestown Sun. Hereafter, said the doctor, he would refuse all payment from the government for treating welfare patients. Dr. Martin had found that he was spending four times longer in filling out the forms for the government than he was in treating the welfare patients. This, he noted, had an effect on his disposition (adverse) and at the same time deprived him of the 'job of helping someone.' No need to say this unprofessional performance on Dr. Martin's part has the local welfare department in a tizzy. It had asked for $19 million for local health care in the next two years and it may have trouble spending it all . . ."

Snow Use!

An Eskimo won a trip to New York as a prize for catching the most seal in a season. When he returned home, he brought with him a length of pipe, which he set up in his igloo so it protruded through the roof.

His wife asked what it was for, and he replied, "That's a trick I learned in New York. When you want more heat you bang on this pipe."

The sun is losing weight at about 2,000,000 tons a second, estimates physicist Eugene N. Parker of the University of Chicago. In 5,000,000,000 years, he figures, the sun has lost more than 200,000,000,000,000,000,000 (200 sextillion tons). Where does it go? Parker believes a sort of "solar wind," a hot blast of particles traveling at 200 to 400 miles per second, continually blows outward from the sun into space where the energy is dispersed. The force of this wind, Parker says, pushed the Echo balloon satellite off course.

BEER IS A NATURAL
 From nature's light grain comes sparkling, light beer . . . Texas' traditional beverage of moderation — it's light, sparkling, delicious.
 And naturally, the brewing industry in Texas considers it noteworthy that it contributes more than twenty million dollars to the state in excise taxes each year plus additional millions in licenses and permit fees. These millions of dollars help support our public schools, farm roads, old age pensions, teacher retirement funds and help needy children and blind citizens.

Farm Facts
 In all, there are some 30 separate steps in research to bring a pesticide chemical to market. As many as 8,000 compounds may be screened before a single promising one is found.
 Up to six years and 100,000 man-hours of research and testing may go into making sure everything possible is known about the chemical.
 The chemical is tested in the greenhouse, in the laboratory, and in test fields. Small quantities then are sent to field stations. Once through these tests, the material will be taken to state agricultural stations and the U. S. Department of Agriculture for extensive testing under field conditions.
 All the while it is being tested for possible hazards. Laboratory animals are used to find out effects, if any, when the material is swallowed, if it touches the skin, or if it is inhaled.
 Before the pesticide may be offered for sale it must be submitted to USDA scientists for review. If it is to be used on food crops, and there is any evidence it will leave any residue, it must be reviewed by the Food and Drug Administration.

At the conclusion of the concert, two ushers were applauding harder than anybody else. County Tax Offices Are Troubled by Poll Tax Puzzle

By — Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

County tax assessor-collectors are meeting in Austin to try to untangle the poll tax puzzle. It seems that the Legislature created a snarl which will hit the county tax assessor-collectors about October 1. That's the date when people begin paying poll taxes and getting exemption certificates.

In a special election on November 9, voters will decide whether or not they want to repeal the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting. If they repeal it, a new law will go into effect, setting up a 25¢ registration fee.

To make matters more complicated, the November 9 vote really would not repeal the poll tax. In theory, it still would be due and payable. But not many are expected to pay the tax if the voting privilege is removed from it.

If the tax assessor-collectors solve their problem this fall, by waiting until after November 9 to fill out and mail poll tax receipts, they may face another crisis in the spring. This because 36 states already have passed a proposed amendment to the U. S. Constitution outlawing the poll tax as a requirement for voting for president, vice president, U. S. senators and congressmen.

In January, Arizona and South Dakota legislatures will meet and if they pass the amendment, it could be carried to law. In that event, a provision by the Texas Legislature would set up a system by which voters would apply to their harassed county tax assessor-collectors for special registration certificates — at no charge — to vote on races involving only federal offices.

Tastier feed for livestock should be developed, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Forage, Feed and Seed Research and Advisory Committee. The committee has in mind certain processing methods or additives to make grains, pastures, dried forage and silage more palatable to animals.

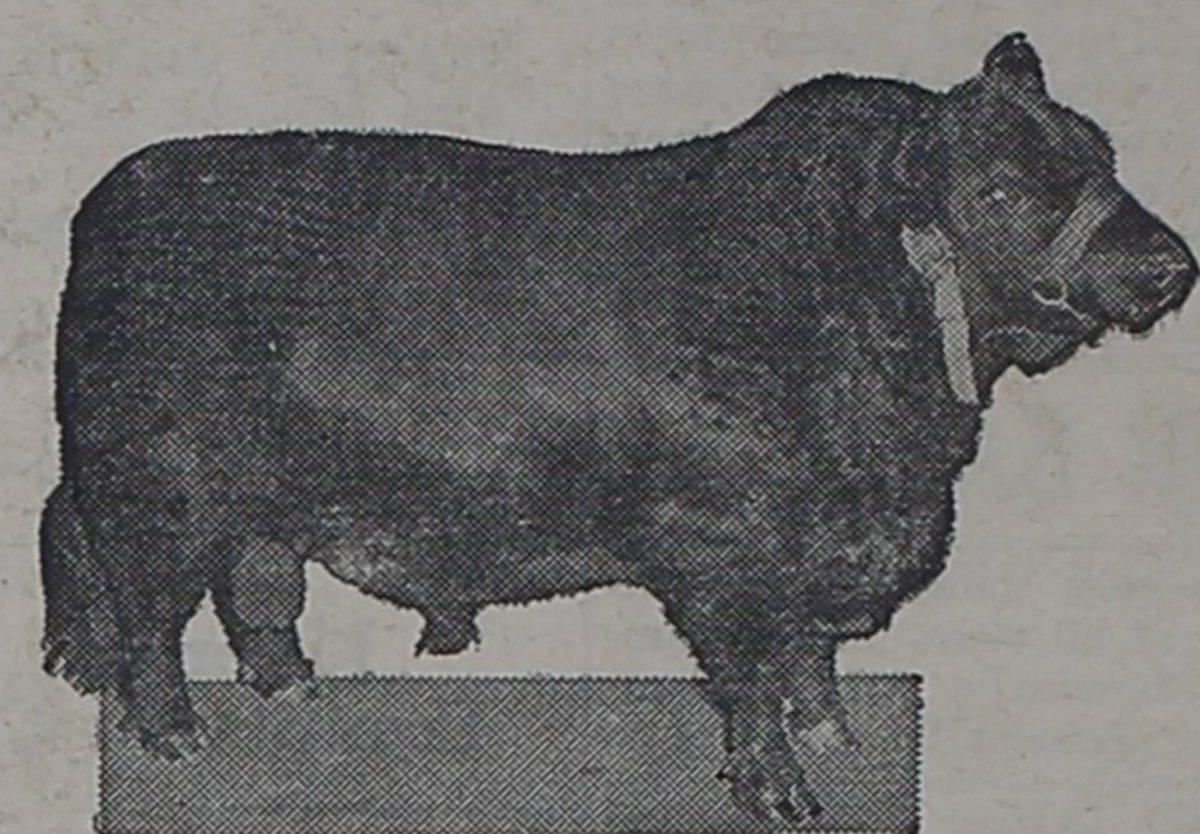

In a 15-month period federal spending would be enough to buy up everything that Russia produces in one year.

BIG PROBLEM—Next to riding these strange vehicles, getting on and getting off are the hardest problems according to Douglas Schiller, left, and Dennis Oostdik of Monroe, Wis.

Eclipse-Watching Hazardous Hobby

On April 8, 1959, 170 Australians — principally school children — suffered permanent retinal damage and partial loss of central vision in watching an eclipse of the sun.

Similar eye damage may be anticipated over most of North America on July 20, the date of the coming solar eclipse. The eclipse will be total from Alaska to Maine, and partial over most of the Continent.

To those persons planning to watch the eclipse, the University of Rochester Institute of Optics offers this piece of advice: Don't. Less than a second's exposure to the direct rays of the sun can cause permanent blindness without, the University points out, necessarily causing any pain.

Using binoculars or a telescope is particularly dangerous, the Institute says, and even camera fans trying to photograph an eclipse should never look at the sun through a viewfinder. Experts know the precautions necessary to view an eclipse safely but amateurs should throw away that piece of smoked glass and watch the show on a TV news broadcast.

The words from the song, Oh What A Beautiful Morning, from the musical "Oklahoma," inspired this picture taken at Six Flags Over Texas. At Fort St. Louis in the French section of the famous family fun land midway between Fort Worth and Dallas, corn and vegetables are grown just as were cultivated in the early days to feed the inhabitants. Now the corn — not the stalks — is as high as an elephant's eye, but baby elephant Sis Flagg and Hostess Mona Freeman are somewhat skeptical as to whether the Texas corn will "climb clear up to the sky," as it does in the famous song from the popular Rodgers and Hammerstein show, "Oklahoma."

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no antifreeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

must be an answer, of course, but so far I haven't heard what happens if the exit is hit by a bomb. Maybe, after all, that place can be as fatal as the other. Surviving involves more than just living over the blast.

The predicament seems to be vaguely similar to that of the chemist trying to concoct a universal solvent. Suddenly he began to wonder what kind of container he'd keep the stuff in. Solving one problem sometimes leads to another problem that is still harder to solve.
