Parish benefit records successful gathering

A bright and sunny Sunday after weeks of dismal rain coaxed many parishioners and guests to attend the annual pre-Father's Day benefit picnic, bazaar, dinner and auction in Sacred Heart Community Center on June 14. However, the best day of weather conducive to the area harvest held many in their grain fields. Necessity leaned heavily in favor of combines and grain trucks, and rightfully so. Saving the grain was vital.

However, more than one thousand and fifty dinners were sold. Happily, many were carry-out meals.

A very successful auction completed the day, continuing about 6 p.m. to well past 10 p.m. Always drawing wide interest is

County to provide handicap accessibility

by Elaine Schad
Cooke County Commissioners have hired the architectural firm of Harper Perkins of Wichita Falls to make recommendations on how the county will comply with the new American Disabilities Act in providing access for the disabled to county facilities.

The county has until July 26 to have a plan of how it will comply with the act, said County Judge Ray Russell. The county has until 1995 to implement the plan, which will make all county-owned facilities accessible to the disabled, he said. The estimated cost for Harper Perkins to draw up a plan and present recommendations will be between $2,000 and $2,500.

Commissioners also authorized Russell to appoint a committee consisting of county officials, disabled people and citizens to advise the county on how to best meet the guidelines of the act.

Russell said the county is in fairly good shape when it comes to providing access for the disabled. He said work has been done in the Courthouse in recent years, providing wheelchair ramps. The plan will take into consideration the preservation of the historic features of the County Courthouse when recommending any facility changes, he said. One problem area is expected to be the Cooke County Library, where there is some access to the facility for the disabled, but access is limited in the restroom and other areas of the library, Russell said.

Winners in the children's raffle were, as follows: 18-speed mountain bike-Ginger Bartush; four tickets to 6 Flags-David Hesse; Little Tykes wagon-Rufus Henscheid; baseball glove-Tara Yosten; $35 cash-Lauren Dangelmayr; $30 gift certificate-Alfred Bayer; swim gift basket-Collin Walterscheid; Mickey Mouse watch-Dustin Wimmer; Artist gift basket-James Mollenkopf; Rod and Reel-Ida Mae Herr; Birthday cake-Hazel Flusche; Doll bed-Dainah Hartman; $20 gift certificate-Amanda Felderhoff; soccer ball-Amy Trubenbach; volleyball set-Ryan Green; Tennis racquet and balls-Michael Hacker; Fisher Price sprinkler-Dyan Fisher; Personal Cassette Player-Dustin Walterscheid.

Chairmen of all the booths voiced praise for all who worked and thanked all who helped in any way.

Lindsay reaches back in time

Beginning Thursday, June 18, at 8 p.m. and continuing through Sunday, June 21, when the Lindsay Park closes at 10 p.m., the community of Lindsay will celebrate 100 years of existence. Lindsay was founded in 1891 but opted to celebrate during the year that their first Mass was offered. It took place March 25, 1892.

Thursday, a Centennial pageant will be performed in the new Centennial Center. It will portray scenes from Lindsay's early days. Many of the stories were taken from the Centennial Book. The cast includes several students from Lindsay School and people of all ages from the community. Craig Hertel is the director.

Mass will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. on the Knight Football Field to open the Centennial Weekend. A reception follows in the School Cafetorium with everyone invited to attend.

Lindsay postmark to be available Fri.

This weekend, during the observance of the Lindsay Centennial, philatelists will be able to obtain a special Lindsay Centennial cancellation.

The postmark, to be made in red ink, pictures St. Peter's Church of Lindsay along with dates of the Centennial Celebration.

Postmaster Clara Hermes said special permission for the mark was granted by the U.S. Postal Service after a request was made by the Lindsay Centennial Committee.

The postmarks can be obtained by bringing by a first class stamped envelope or postcard - to mail or not to mail.

Envelopes already stamped and ready for the postmark will also be available for purchase.

The postmarks may be obtained at the Lindsay Post Office Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or on Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Postmarks may also be obtained at the Lindsay Park souvenir booth from 2 to 4 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, June 21.

Items include antique furniture, farm tools and German prayer books.

A much-anticipated parade will kick off Saturday's festivities at 10 a.m. in front of the church. It will proceed east on Main and then go west on Sixth Street. Floats will include some that are historical, one with the Centennial quilt and others from organizations.

Lindsay's annual Homecoming Picnic has been incorporated into the Centennial Celebration and will be a two-day event over Saturday and Sunday instead of the usual Sunday picnic. Food booths will be open in the park both days and, on Sunday, a turkey and dressing dinner will be served in the Centennial Center.

Highlighting the events in the park are old-fashioned games, games for all ages, crafts, bounce house, volleyball and horseshoe tournaments and various types of entertainment, including The Country Boys of Ennis with polka music, a clown show by Pinky the Clown, and a country dance by Dakota. Jack Endres selected as hospital administrator

The Muenster Memorial Hospital Board of Directors met on Tuesday, June 15, at 7 p.m. in a special meeting set to hire a new administrator to replace Herman Carroll whose resignation was accepted at the May board meeting. Jack Endres was selected from five candidates.

JACK ENDRES

Endres, a Muenster native, is presently employed as an associate of the law firm of Winstead, Sechrest & Minick, P.C. of Dallas. His practice deals with the business section of the firm and his specialty is tax law.

A Master of Laws in Taxation degree was earned by Endres in May 1986 from the New York University School of Law. In May 1985, he received his Juris Doctor from the Southern Methodist University School of Law in Dallas. Endres graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a Bachelor of Business degree in May 1982. His major was in Finance.

Jack is married to the former Mary Caplinger. They have been looking for an opportunity to return to Muenster to raise their family. They have four children, Eric, Jennifer, Emily and Scott. "This will be a great opportunity to contribute something to the community and move back to Muenster," remarked Endres.

July 1 is the date that Endres plans to take over the administrator's job. "I anticipate working very closely with Mr. Carroll to make this transition a smooth one," Endres said. "Having grown up in Muenster, I know that the hospital is a great source of pride for the community and I look forward to the opportunity to contribute to its continued success."

I am very grateful for the opportunity to work with the staff and board of the Muenster Hospital. Herman Carroll has done a fine job as administrator during a very difficult period for the hospital."

Board members serving on the committee to hire the new administrator were Don Flusche, Lora Hennigan, Sharon Felderhoff and David Bright.

In other business, the board voted to adjust employee salary structures retroactive June 1, according to a scale determined by a recent board study. It will be variable by different types of positions and the salaries paid elsewhere.

Dr. Walsh's contract was accepted by the board and it was decided that a full-time contract would be drawn up with Dr. Cole within a week's time.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 24, at 8 p.m. The public is welcome.

Construction to start on new MISD gym

by Steve Cooper
MISD Superintendent

MISD's School Board, during their June meeting, voted unanimously to build a new gymnasium. Reserve funds will be used to construct the facility. Plans call for the construction site to be between the administration building and the football field parking lot. After many months of considering alternatives to meet our need for more space and other district needs, the board made their decision based on what will best meet the future demands made on this district. The option to build a new gym was made because of the following reasons:

1. The existing gym is not suitable for interscholastic competition because the floor is worn out (it has been sanded down to the nails and it is also buckled). The floor cannot be replaced until the structural problem causing the buckling is repaired - this would involve great expense - the old gym is over 40 years old.

2. Our Elementary Site Based Management Committee has recommended having two classes for each elementary grade K-12. This is the basis for space needs. These recommendations are not because we are currently extremely overcrowded (we only have two classes now that are not split - 1st and 4th and these are borderline). The recommendation is based on a need for greater instructional effectiveness which is very important in light of current state standards for more accountability on the district level. The committee recommended a new gym - then moving everything housed in the existing field house to the new gym - then converting the existing field house into four classrooms dedicated primarily to our junior high students - this will allow the Science building to be used for upper elementary grades (as it is now). This then preserves the old gym for elementary/junior high use for physical education activities, etc. The old gym can adequately be used for this. Renovation of the field house has been projected to cost from $10-$15 a square foot.

3. The state keeps threatening to address school district fund balances. Just exactly what that means nobody is sure; however, each time the Legislature meets, they look at reserves in school districts, presumably for the purpose of forcing districts to use some of their excess funds. We recently received information that TEA is going to perform management audits in 50-100 districts this summer and one thing they will be looking for is the fund balances districts have generated.

4. Another factor leading to the decision to build was a new state law that becomes effective Sept. 1, 1992. This law deals with the construction of any new facilities after Sept. 1. All construction after this date must meet state standards and must be approved by a state board. This, of course, translates into more expense when red tape becomes a factor.

5. The CED's are operational for one more year. Under the original plan, Muenster will receive additional revenue from the state. Projections on Cooke County Education District's tax rate for this year appears to be less than it was last year. We have a one-year window that seems favorable to generate more state money and our CED rate will be less.

6. MISD has decided to hire a construction supervisor - this will save money by negating a general contractor's fee and it will allow us to bid out aspects of the building project in components. This, we hope, will get many of our local contractors involved in the building. This could, hopefully, help the local economy.

The decision was very difficult, particularly in light of the constant change in public education at this point and time, but it was that very fact (constant change and the uncertainty it creates) and at least a small measure of stability in school finance for one more year, that led to the decision.

PAUL FLEITMAN waits for the hopper to empty the oats into his truck. Approximately 2/3 of the local harvest nears completion as high winds, sunny skies and 90°+ weather assist the farmers. Local prices for wheat are ranging from $3.08 to $3.28 per bushel, with most harvesters taking a dockage for sprouted kernels. The quality of the wheat, due to germination, is the worst in the county in many years. Grain buyers plan to blend the burgeoning seed with better wheat to lower the sprout percentage.

Letter to the Editor:
To the residents of Muenster, Texas, the hospital staff of the Muenster Hospital, and members of surrounding communities that depend on the Muenster Hospital for their medical needs.

My name is Vicki A. Lee Fette. I am very proud to be the wife of Bernie R. Fette, the daughter-in-law of Elfreda Fette and the late R.N. Fette, the sister-in-law of Dave and Pam Fette and Dan and Claudette Fette, the mother of R.N. (Nicholas) Fette. All of my experiences in Muenster have been happy ones as my reasons for visiting your community center around visiting my husband's family. I am especially happy when I come to Muenster because I get to stay with my mother-in-law, Elfreda Fette, as she just happens to be one of my favorite people, in addition to the person responsible for bringing my husband, Bernie, into this world and thus into my life. I have additionally warm thoughts about Muenster, because it has been so good to Elfreda in times of sadness and joy and, yes, in times of illness.

Perhaps, though, this past Christmas, I was more blessed than any other time to be visiting your town. Several days after Christmas, I came down with the flu and sought treatment at your local hospital. In a 24-hour period I became quite ill; so ill, in fact, that we were unable to return home and I had to be admitted to the hospital. I have had many, many hospital stays in the past, due to a lengthy list of medical problems. I have always associated hospitals with the worst of all feelings - partly simply because of the illnesses I've endured but also, quite honestly, because of the less than desirable care I have received.

Although I live in an area that has seen a lot of growth in its medical community through expanded facilities and state-of-the-art services provided - trust me when I tell you that I have never received as good care as I received at the Muenster Hospital. Not only did I get well in a relatively short period of time, but my stay, which could have been quite dismal, was exceptionally pleasant, under any circumstances. I received wonderful care from the entire staff. Dr. Kralicke was responsive and effective. The nursing staff was pleasant, professional and compassionate.

In this day and age, with the state of medicine being what it is, you can be proud of the services your hospital offers its patients. Thanks again for the great service.

MISD School Board approves pay raises

by Elaine Schad

When the Muenster School Board met for the regular May meeting, the main topic of discussion was the construction of a new gymnasium, as well as renovation of the existing gym. (See related story in this issue). They did have other items on their agenda, however. In other business discussed during the meeting, the school board:

-Discussed final lunchroom budget figures. The district came out in the black for the 1992-93 school year.

-Reported that the state has requested more information concerning the district's request for a waiver for teacher inservice. The district will probably receive one day for teacher inservice, with that tentatively scheduled for Sept. 4, Supt. Cooper said.

-Received preliminary state funding figures for 1992-93. There is expected to be about a $75,000 pro-ration, but the district is still expected to receive additional state money this year.

-Approved state-mandated teacher pay raises and a 3.5 percent cost-of-living increase for support staff. The state requires that teachers who have not reached the top of the salary scale receive a $1,140 raise. That raise is expected to cost the district about $25,000 for 1992-93.

-Approved an increase in the above base salary for teachers. Teachers with a bachelor degree will receive $1,000 above state base salary, an increase from the present $800. Teachers with master's degrees will receive $1,500, an increase from the present $1,300. Cooper said the increases will bring the district almost even with area school districts, although Muenster will remain below some in this area.

College enrollment jumps!

by Elaine Schad

Cooke County College has been able to accommodate all of its summer session students despite an enrollment increase.

Enrollment figures for the first summer session this week show 1,556 students are enrolled at CCC campuses in Gainesville, Lewisville, Denton and Bowie. The figure is a 29-percent increase from last year's first summer session enrollment of 1,204 students.

The bulk of the enrollment increase is at the Gainesville main campus, Eddie Hadlock, CCC dean of students, said.

College officials are unsure of the reason for the enrollment increase, since CCC has not added any new or different courses for the summer. Most of the increase in course work has come in basic core subjects, Hadlock said.

Era hires superintendent

The Era school district will have a new superintendent at the helm after trustees hired former longtime Era science teacher Randal Beaver to take the job, official said.

The school board hired Beaver, 43, during the board's regular June meeting this week. He was chosen from among 50 applicants for the position, said Era Principal Sharon Durham. He will replace Dale Smiley, who resigned two weeks ago to take the superintendent's job at Jonesboro. Smiley was Era superintendent for nine years.

Beaver will be returning to Era, where he taught high school science from 1972 through 1987. Past positions include superintendent, secondary principal and elementary principal. Beaver is expected to begin his job at Era by the end of this week. He is a native and graduate of Callisburg.

WWII commemorative community program

A special program commemorating the 50th Anniversary of World War II is available to cities and towns across America according to Navy and Marine Corps Headquarters.

Local communities who establish programs to commemorate at least three (3) events of WW II a year, receive special recognition from the Department of Defense, to include: use of WW II and flag logos, an official flag, and a certificate of designation to the community.

Corporations and military installations are also eligible to apply for participation over the next four years, commemorating the World War II Years (1941-1945).

Although the commemorative events have already begun, this program encourages young people locally to become informed about the sacrifices made by those individuals who contributed to the war effort in the service and on the homefront.

Local governments, corporations and community organizations may contact the following office for information or may request a WW II Commemorative Community application package: Navy and Marine Corps WW II Commemoration Committee, c/o Navy Office of Information, The Pentagon, Rm 2E355, Washington, D.C. 20350-1200; phone (703) 697-7371/7372.

Gramm opposes tax hike on small businesses, farms

Addressing the Senate at the height of the tax bill debate, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm denounced the bill as an attempt to raise taxes on farmers and small businesses.

"Two thirds of the people who are being taxed with this 16 percent increase in marginal rates are small businesses and family farms," the senator said.

Gramm noted that after the tax law was revamped in 1986, many small businesses and farms chose to be taxed as individuals "in order to minimize their tax burden, build up retained earnings and expand their businesses and create jobs."

"Raising the marginal tax rate for small businesses by 16 percent will destroy jobs in America," said the Senator. "If this bill is adopted into law, we will see another 500,000 Americans lose their jobs in the next five years."

Although the bill subsequently passed, the President immediately rejected it.

Following closely behind educating our teenagers on the dangers of alcohol is the need to change the alcohol laws across the country. All states have deficiencies in their alcohol laws. Texas is no exception. Some of the shortcomings in Texas laws are:

*No statutes prohibit trying to obtain alcohol from vendors. This allows minors to go from store to store until they find one willing to sell to them. No legal consequences for trying to buy.

*Minor may legally possess alcohol in some instances.

*Small vendor fines ($100 to $500) for selling to minors is not much of a deterrent compared to potential profits.

*Vendors may pay fines in lieu of license suspension. This greatly reduces the impact of being caught selling to minors. Profits may exceed the fine.

*Small fine ($25 to $200) for minors who purchase, possess, or consume. No jail term.

*Small fine ($25 to $200) and no jail term for use of false identification or misrepresentation of age. Encourages use of false ID's to buy alcohol.

*Sales people can sell alcohol without supervision at age 18. Studies have shown that many minors try to buy from young sales people. Peer pressure encourages young sales people to sell to their friends. Also makes it easy for young sales people to buy for themselves.

*Can work for alcohol licensee at age 16. This can be a problem if not adequately supervised around alcohol.

*No Dram Shop or Social Host Laws specific to minors. Makes it more difficult to hold those providing alcohol accountable through civil actions.

*Creative enforcement methods discussed by Surgeon General are not used in Texas. (Driver's license suspension, affidavit of age, mandatory vendor training, and limits on advertising directed toward minors.)

The National Minimum Drinking Age Act of 1984 required all states to raise their minimum purchase and possession age to 21 or face a reduction in federal highway funds. Novello said that no state has been sanctioned, in part because the federal legislation allows for exceptions, which the states have widened into huge loopholes. (Washington Post 9/12/91). Surgeon General Novello has stated that the minimum drinking age of 21 is "largely a myth" because the state laws are riddled with loopholes, laxity and lip service."

All 50 states and the District of Columbia have laws that prohibit sales to minors, but five states and the District do not specifically make it illegal for minors to buy alcohol. Instead, they make it illegal for a minor to use false identification or otherwise misrepresent his or her age. A study this year by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety found that 19- and 20-year-old males were able to buy beer without showing identification in 97 of the 100 stores studied.

"It's a no-win situation," the Department of Health and Human Services report quoted one unidentified enforcement official as saying. "Law enforcement does not get public support for busting kids. Parents don't want their children arrested for something that every other child does."

Possession of alcoholic beverages by minors is legal in 38 states through exceptions provided in federal law. Exceptions include when a minor is in a private residence, club or establishment, when a minor is accompanied by a parent, spouse or guardian over age 21, or when a minor possesses alcohol for religious or medicinal purposes, or in the course of employment.

Forty-four states allow minors to sell alcohol without adult supervision. A Health and Human Services Department survey found that 3.5 million teenagers regularly purchase alcohol from stores with young clerks, and almost 3 million purchase alcohol from stores where they know the clerk. "Store owners need to know that youths are under a lot of pressure to sell to other youths," the report quotes a state official as saying.

During the press conference in which the Surgeon General released her findings on teenage drinking, the Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police, Col. Glen Walp, stressed, "It is time for America to wake up from its indifference. Madison Avenue would have us believe that 'it doesn't get any better than this.' But from a police perspective, the reality is pulling dead, mutilated bodies from mangled steel, and it doesn't get any worse than that."

Tara and Ryan united in ceremony June 6

MRS. RYAN JON BAYER
...nee Tara Lynn Walterscheid

Tara Lynn Walterscheid became the bride of Ryan Jon Bayer on June 6, 1992 in a Nuptial Mass in Sacred Heart Church. Father Victor Gillespie, OSB, heard their vows and officiated for the double-ring ceremony and Mass at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of James and Theresa Walterscheid of Muenster. The groom is the son of David and Janice Bayer, also of Muenster.

In a setting created by lighted candles on both altars and floral arrangements on the high altar, banked by a cluster of green plants in containers on both sides, the bride was given in marriage by her father, James Walterscheid.

For her wedding, she chose a glistening white satin bridal gown, designed with straight slim skirt, short sleeves formed by large satin roses. The fitted bodice and skirt were covered with appliques of pearls and sequins. The same sequin and pearl beading adorned the detachable, mid-length train that was held in place with satin roses matching those on the dress.

For sentiment, she carried her late Grandmother Fisher's rosary and wore her late Grandfather Fisher's ring rosary. She carried a bridal bouquet of white and dusty rose roses, embellished with pearls.

Her illusion veil was shoulder length, held by a pouf of gathered illusion and delicate pearlized flowers.

ATTENDANTS

Jamie Walterscheid of Austin, the bride's sister, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Stephanie Bynum of Arlington, a friend of the bride; Dianne Pagel of Muenster, bride's cousin; Melanie Bayer of Arlington and Deann Bayer of Muenster, both sisters of the groom. They were identically attired in teal taffeta tea-length dresses designed with stand-up bow at the portrait neckline and pleated skirts. They wore dyed-to-match slippers, and carried arm bouquets of dusty rose roses.

Curt Bayer of Muenster, friend and cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Darrell Dangelmayr, groom's friend; Joe Paul Walterscheid, bride's brother; Ricky Walterscheid, bride's brother; and Brandon Bayer, groom's brother. All are of Muenster.

Ushers were Keith Klement of Muenster, a friend of the bride; Mike Pagel of Denton, cousin of the bride; Chad Fleitman of Muenster, a friend of the groom; and Glenn Swirczynski of Muenster, a friend of the groom.

Matt Bayer, groom's brother, was the Mass server.

Wedding music was presented by a three-piece string instrumental group from Denton, "Windsong" before Mass; and for the processional, they played the Lohengrin Wedding March, and after Mass, the Mendelssohn Recessional. Annetta Earle was organist, accompanying Emily Klement and Roger Dieter with sacred songs.

Offertory gifts were presented by godparents of the couple, Neil and Gaelyn Fisher of Fredericksburg and Florence Grewing of Muenster.

Liturgical readings were given by Kim Walterscheid and Cheryl Bayer. Eucharistic Ministers were Kenneth and Marilyn Bierschenk, Regina Pels, Jenny Wimmer and Deanna Hellman.

RECEPTION

A reception, dinner and dance followed in the Sacred Heart Community Center, for 400 guests.

Denise Bayer and Melody Rohmer were in charge of guest signatures in the bride's book. Dinner was catered by Cathie and Francis Fuhrmann. The string instrumental group played for the dinner hour.

The three-tiered white wedding cake was trimmed in mauve and was made and cut by Betty Rose Walterscheid. The top keepsake layer held a satin puffed heart with pearls. A three-tier chocolate groom's cake was decorated with assorted fresh fruits and was cut by the bride's aunt, Sharon Walterscheid. Cake servers were Stephanie Bierschenk, Melinda Fanning Cartney, Leslie and Kelly Grewing and Lauren Frost.

Guests danced to music by David Muller, D.J.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's brothers, Larry Bearden of Bedford and Bubba Baenker of Brenham.

Wedding rehearsal was held Friday evening, followed by dinner at The Center Restaurant.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, they will reside in Muenster. The bride is employed as a receptionist in the office of Dr. Jon S. Tompkins. She is a graduate of Muenster High School, International Business School and attended Cooke County College. The groom is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School and attended Cooke County College. He is a machine operator employed by Borden.

No Aggie joke, either!

The Isenharts started college in the early '60s at Sam Houston State where they met, married and dropped out of school to raise a family. Now with the children safely into or out of Texas A&M, Mom and Pop decided to complete their own degree.

Parents of the Year is a title the university confers annually the father and mother of an A&M student. They are chosen because they are excellent examples of Aggie spirit through their involvement in campus, community and family activities.

Two undergraduate students at Texas A&M University are the school's 1992 Parents of the Year.

They are Thelma and Woody Isenhardt and their honor is not an Aggie joke. Thelma is majoring in political science; Woody in speech communications. And yes, they are bona fide Aggie parents.

Two of their sons are already Aggie graduates and a daughter will get her degree in 1994. In fact, it was the children who nominated their folks as the first students ever to also be chosen Parents of the Year.

Tax Talk

by: Duane Knabe, CPA

Duane Knabe will discuss a different topic each week. Any questions should be directed to him at 759-4010.

This week's topic is Simplified Employee Pensions (SEPs), which are basically group IRA's established by employers. IRA's were the topic last week.

A SEP is a retirement plan that is ideal for small proprietorships, partnerships or corporations. Even if there are no employees, the owner may be covered. Payments into a SEP are deductible by the business and deferred by the recipient.

The employer makes equal contributions for each employee limited to 15% of pay or $30,000. All employees who are at least 21 years of age and have worked in 3 of the last 5 years must be covered. The employer decides each year whether to make contributions to a SEP.

There is also a salary reduction SEP available to employers with less than 26 employees. The employees themselves can choose to set aside part of their earnings tax-free (until withdrawal).

Confederate Memorial Service a success!

The Confederate Memorial Service, held Saturday, May 30 during the Saint Jo Pioneer Days was deemed a success by its sponsors W.R. Scurry Camp No. 606 and

Chapter 1448. The March began in front of the Stonewall Saloon led by two Confederate Officers on horseback. In the ranks, clad in Confederate uniforms and brightly colored flags and dress, followed: one small drummer boy, three men bearing flags, four men carrying black powder rifles, several ladies in hoop skirts and numerous citizens of Saint Jo and surrounding areas.

Troops marched to the Old Indian Cemetery where the service was held. Mark Pelham of Midland, Tex. and Peter Orlebeke of Dallas delivered speeches on the Confederate Soldiers of Texas and their contributions to the war between the states.

A wreath was laid on the grave of Private James Harris by his granddaughters and a roll call was given of other local Confederate veterans with names that were submitted by local citizens and descendants.

A representation of a 21-gun salute and a cannon salute were given in honor of these Confederate veterans. To close "Taps" was played and a rendition of "Dixie" as a memorial. The mounted officers and the troops reassembled for the march back to the Stonewall Saloon. It was a very moving and meaningful ceremony. It is hoped that this will be the first of many ceremonies that will follow, to honor the Confederate veterans and the Confederate heritage.

For persons who attended but didn't get a program, there are some left locally or with Becky Pratt on the square; or send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Box 112, Perryton, TX 79070. For people who attended the ceremony but didn't sign the guest book, please let the committee know by writing to the above address.

CCC counselors help special population groups

Counselors Emily Klement and Robert Adams will be available in the Cooke County College Counseling Center this month to meet with people in two special population groups, limited English proficiency and sex equity, in a special outreach counseling service. They will offer advice on educational programs, services and options open to them.

According to Klement, persons with limited English proficiency (LEP) are members of a national origin minority who do not speak and understand the English language in an instructional setting well enough to benefit from vocational studies. They may include individuals who were not born in the USA or whose native language is other than English or individuals who come from environments where a language other than English is dominant.

Adams described sex equity populations as those people who desire a technical or vocational education based on their interests and abilities, not on their sex. He said that education in all fields is encouraged, regardless of sex.

"Often people who fall in these two categories don't pursue an education simply because they don't know how to go about getting started," Klement said. "It's especially difficult for those who aren't proficient in the English language. The process is often a frightening experience for them."

Those seeking assistance will be given placement tests to ascertain where interests and abilities lie, Klement said. She said most people in these groups are looking to enter vocational or technical fields.

"Education and training can open up new job opportunities for many people," Klement said. "We would like to help prepare them better for the technical world we live in."

Besides educational advice, Adams said other services are available for those who qualify. "Sometimes a person puts off getting an education because of various circumstances," Adams said. "Some funds are available for child care or transportation. We try to help these potential students in any area we can."

For more information about the program or to make an appointment with a counselor, call (817) 668/7731, ext. 274.

The lunch was made with low-fat ingredients.

The meeting came to order with Dorothy Fisher giving council reports and stated that Dorothy Hesse was named a delegate to the state convention in Galveston Sept. 22-24. Members voted to give a cash donation monthly to St. Richard's Villa for recreational games.

On July 8 the club will go as a group to a doll factory in Woodbine and then go for lunch. There will be no meetings held in July and August.

Fifteen members and two guests, Ida Hesse and Martha Moore, attended. Sue Weiler will be hostess in September. Before departing Lucille and her husband, Bill, gave everyone a bag of large red plums from their orchard for jelly making.

CC Homemakers have six clubs reporting June 9

Cooke County Extension Homemakers met June 9 in the TU Building at 1:30 p.m. Dorothy Fisher, chairman, presided. JoAnn Bibby of Liberty Bells Club led the pledge to the Flag and the Inspiration "TRY."

Wilma Richardson, secretary, called roll. Representatives of six clubs gave reports. Minutes were read and approved, and the treasurer's report was given.

Members present conducted an evaluation of the May bus tour, concluding that they would "Do It Again!" despite the rainy day. Cooke County will host the Texas Extension Homemakers Association training meeting on Jan. 13, 1993, but the location has not been decided. Family Community Leadership training will be held Sept. 1 and 2, 1992 in Brownwood.

Delegates were selected to the State Meeting on Sept. 21 to 25 in Galveston. They are Dorothy Hesse of Muenster, Susan Richardson of Ross Point and Tommy Johnston of Sivealls Bend, with Imogene Zimmerer of Liberty Bells Club as alternate.

Refreshments were provided by the Liberty Belles Club. Maryanne Fleitman is club reporter.

County Agent's Report

Coastal Bermudagrass Renovation

In Texas, Coastal Bermudagrass is planted on a vast number of acres. Many improved pastures in Cooke County, along with waterways and other areas, are sodded to Coastal Bermudagrass each year. Soil and climatic conditions in the county offer a potential of five to six tons annual production of good, quality hay or pasture from this acreage. Most pasture areas are low in native nutrients throughout the Texas Blacklands. Work done at the Soils Lab at Texas A&M have shown phosphorus to be extremely low throughout the Blackland areas. In addition, magnesium, zinc, and copper frequently are low or borderline for good forage and crop production.

In addition, most of the Coastal Bermudagrass is planted on acreage that was formerly in row crops, but had eroded or become unattractive for economic production. Coastal is a deep rooted, drought tolerant grass with an extensive root system that helps control soil erosion. Producers experience fairly good production the first few years of establishment, but production tends to decline in subsequent years. Dr. W.B. Gass, Extension Soil Fertility Specialist, began a Coastal Bermudagrass Renovation Trial on the Stiles Farm in 1991. The Stiles Farm is a farm operated by the Texas A&M University System near College Station. This demonstration was designed to show response of Coastal Bermudagrass to fertility management and renovation equipment for the improvement of soil moisture conditions.

The Hay King Pasture Renovator was used on the renovated acres. Injection of nutrients was accomplished using the pasture renovator. Dr. Gass found that there was no obvious differences due to treatments except for the expected forage increase due to increased nitrogen fertilization.

The injection of phosphorus into the rootzone gave an apparent response during July and August but total production would indicate no significant response to any treatment except for the addition of nitrogen. This year, results did not show a response to renovation due to the exceptional rainfall for 1991. The overall forage production was very good.

There was, however, a difference in forage yields during July and August on the injected areas. It is expected that subsequent year tests along with years where we have dry summers will show some difference in forage production due to the aeration and renovation of the soils.

My Views from the Farm

by Ed Cler

I have been a reader of Reader's Digest for quite a number of years and it often has a story, untitled, "My Most Unforgettable Character." This sometimes makes me think of a character I was associated with for a number of years, in the 'early '30s. Not a human one, but a character just the same.

Fritz was his name - he was about 10" tall, kind of a reddish tan, slightly whiskered little dog, that belonged to my good old aunt, Lena Kleiss. He lived with her just across the street west of Sacred Heart Church. Fritz was confined to the house yard, which had a good fence and solid gates and, while he had a lot of room to exercise, he soon became bored with his surroundings and began fussing and barking at anyone walking outside the fence. It wasn't long before some of the boys passing by began teasing him and poking sticks through the fence.

Fritz was a fairly hot-tempered little mutt, and this about drove him up the wall - well, at least, up the fence. He would just put all four paws into the wires and use them for a ladder to get to the top, then he would jump out and after the kids he would go.

First, he just chased them a ways, "bad mouthed" them a lot, climbed back into the yard and seemed real proud of himself. But the kids began throwing things at him and soon he didn't just "bad mouth" the boys, but actually nipped one or two, on the run.

My aunt soon decided Fritz had to go. She made arrangements for him to make his home with Al Vogel, who at that time lived southwest of Muenster on the farm now owned and occupied by Ben Voht. It wasn't long before Fritz had made himself at home with Al, and had appointed himself lookout for, and guardian of, all the farm and all of Al's possessions. He chased away all of the varmints that came around, including skunks on occasion, but he soon learned to keep some distance between himself and the latter, and just give them his loudest and most eloquent "bad mouthing."

Now, there was an oil pipeline running through the farm, and it ran just a hundred yards or so from the house. Nowadays, the pipeline owners use an airplane to fly over their lines, now and then, to check for leaks, but in those times they used men to walk the lines. One such pipeline walker was a Mr. Dick McEntire. He would walk to Fort Worth once a week, and spend the next walking back to Oklahoma. During the course of time, everyone hereabouts learned to know Dick, and he in turn became acquainted with most of us along his route. Dick had his regular watering stops with people he knew and liked, and he often took on water when there was no one at home.

It seems Al Vogel was one of his regular stops, so one hot afternoon, Dick unwittingly walked into Fritz's domain, when all he wanted was to take on fresh water.

Needless to say, he had Fritz to reckon with and he soon made the mistake of running. This was just what the dog wanted as he chased after Dick who, for lack of better protection, entered the first building he came to. It was a well built but small structure with a good door which he quickly closed. After his eyes became accustomed to the darkness inside, Dick found the only light and ventilation came from a couple of diamond-shaped holes in the upper part of the building and he realized he was in the family two-holer. The only way out was past Fritz, who valiantly stood guard a few feet from the door. It was late evening before Al came in from the field and rescued a sweating, thirsty and angry pipeline walker who, at that time, almost out "bad mouthed" Fritz.

It was soon decided by folks who knew and were interested in the little mutt that he needed to be with a family where there were young folks to romp with him and to keep him busy. That's why Fritz came to live with my family. He soon overcame his bad temper, but always was one to be reckoned with when people came into the yard alone, as the Highway 5 workers did when they needed water.

Fritz became a champion rat killer while with us. There was a regular rat plague at that time - most farms were overrun with them. We boys would try every means to find them and let Fritz do his thing. He always seemed so proud of himself when he did something to please his masters. There are a lot of stories to tell about Fritz, some of them very funny, and they make good memories. I do not know what finally became of him, but I will not soon forget him.
