

Three times to date the current request for foreign aid has been whittled down. Now, if only it can be trimmed once or twice more by the Senate before its final approval perhaps it will get down to a size that we the people will find more to our liking.

When the House vote came last week slashing the appropriation to $3.5 billion, Administration folks were definitely unhappy. President Kennedy denounced the action and laid the blame on Republicans, conveniently forgetting that Democrats have a whopping majority in the House, hence that there must be substantial opposition in his own party as well as in the other. Incidentally, the president also seems to forget that he himself had a record of consistently voting against foreign aid while he was in the Senate.

As it looks from here Congressmen were not just being cantankerous when they decided to reduce this year's foreign aid give-away. More likely they were heeding the many reports of outright waste and of direct and indirect help to our enemies. Doubtless they were also influenced by the flood of unfavorable opinion from folks back home.

Still another factor that might have influenced them is our dwindling gold reserve. Credits already built up in other countries, largely as a result of foreign aid gifts, already far exceed our available supply of gold. If confronted by a demand for payment we'd have to default and our monetary system would be in a mess. We're like a bank with insufficient funds to pay off its depositors. Certainly we're not in a financial condition to keep on giving.

Because of such considerations it has been gratifying to hear of the three cuts in the foreign aid appropriation. The original recommendation of 4.9 billion set off a storm of protest, so the administration found a face saving way of making the first cut. It appointed a committee headed by General Lucius Clay to study foreign aid needs. The result was a revised recommendation of 4.5 billion.

Next the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House made a further study and decided the figure should be reduced to 4.1 billion. Then Representatives on the House Floor reduced the figure to 3.5 billion and called for a vote. The ballot adopted the new low by a count of 222 to 188.

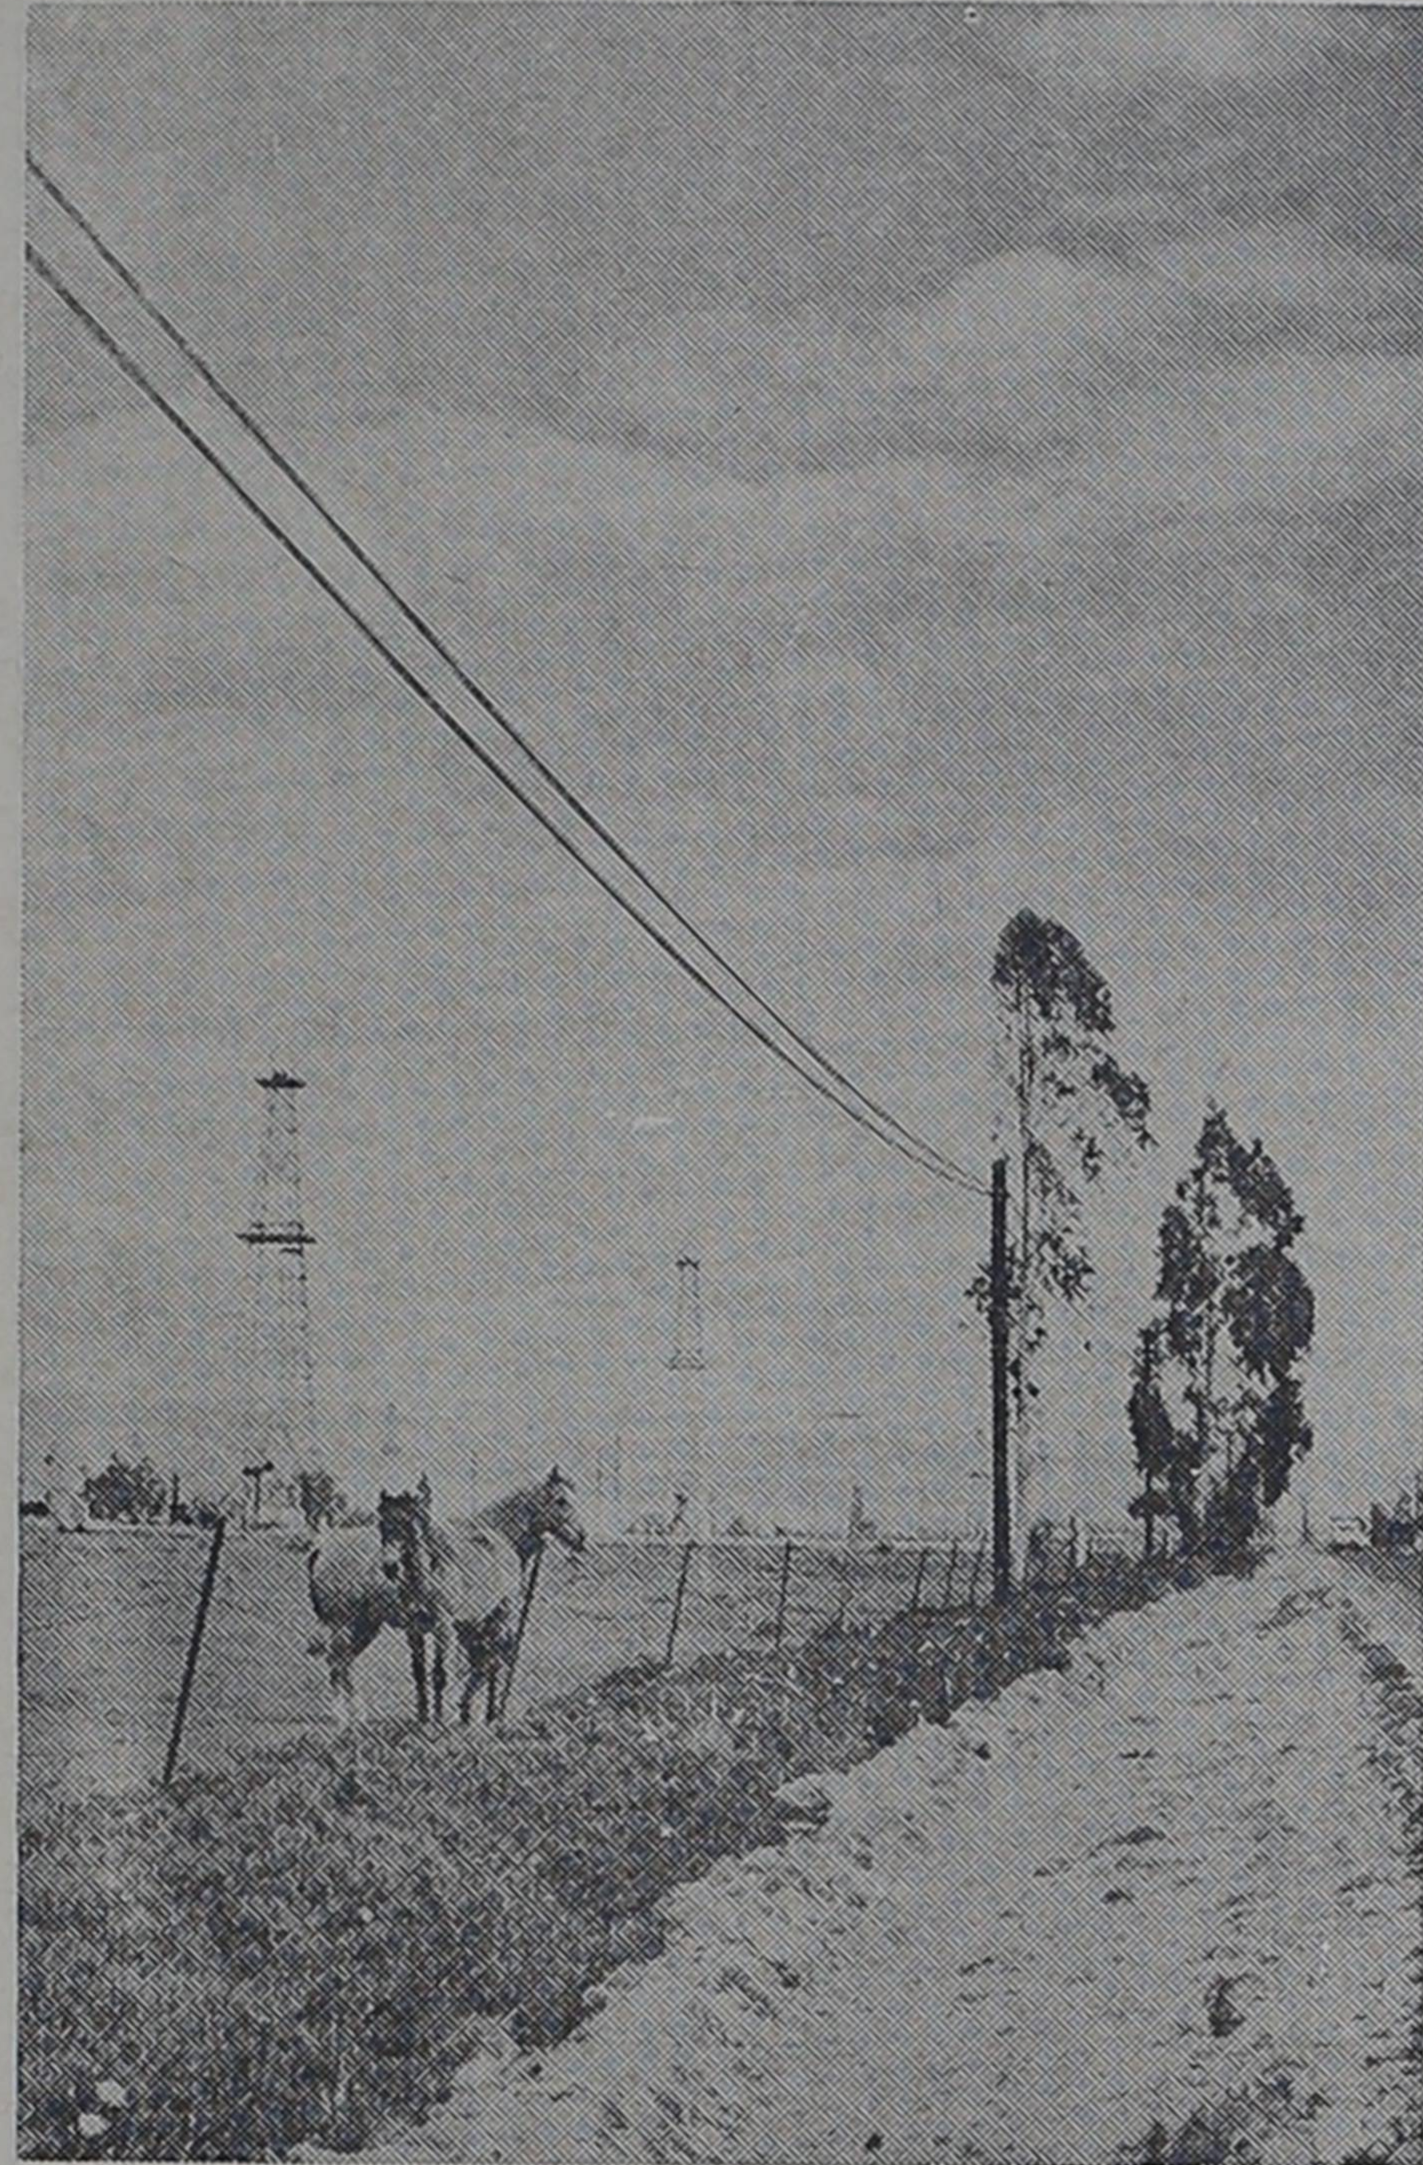

Next the aid bill goes to the Senate, where our state's junior senator, John Tower, served notice that he will introduce an amendment which, if adopted, will bring on more reduction. He proposes that "foreign aid funds will not be made available for certain projects unless it can be proved and shown that private funds are not available to finance those projects."

There's a lot of merit in his proposal. Suppose the project is to build a steel mill, or develop mining or oil property. Why should our tax money be given to foreign governments to do such things if private investors are willing to do the job?

This column isn't familiar with the procedure of considering foreign aid grants, but it presumes the first duty is to study the list of proposals and eliminate those which do not seem practical. For instance a TV station in a country whose people can't afford TV sets — and that has happened. Then Tower asks for further study to decide which of the worth while projects can get private financing. Let those projects be developed as bona fide business deals. Let this country in its effort to help other countries encourage the system of free enterprise rather than the system of socialism. After all, it is rather inconsistent for us to claim that this country got where it did through the free enterprise system and then offer to help other countries by financing their ventures in socialism.

Senator Tower can add a lot of force to his proposal by pointing out also that privately financed projects are more likely to succeed, therefore to bring lasting benefit to the countries favored. To illustrate that point he needs only to mention what is happening in this country today. Government managed business consistently operated at a loss. It is sustained only by tax

Notes on Building & Improvement

Work started on Labor Day on the new home for the Paul Walterscheids. It will feature three bedrooms, double garage, brick siding, central heating and cooling. It's on the location of the old home which was recently bought and moved by Lawrence Martin to a two acre tract bought from the northwest corner of Andy Schoech's farm. Temporarily the Walterscheids are renting the former Pat Hennigan house.

Martin drilled a water well and will give the house a general fix-up, paint-up before moving in.

In about two weeks the John Mosmans expect to move into their new brick home adjoining their present house. It has three bedrooms, two baths, central heating and cooling, double garage.

Also nearly finished is the remodeling job for Tony Luke. Work there includes addition of bedroom, bath, utility, covered patio, also enlarging den and kitchen.

Sisters' Shower Set for Sunday

The annual shower for Muenster's Benedictine Sisters has been set for Sunday, Sept. 8, in the Parish Hall. It will begin about 8 o'clock, after evening mass.

Saint Anne's Society annually sponsors the event and urges a full attendance and generous gifting. Items for the pantry and locker — all edibles — and cash contributions are welcomed, will be useful and appreciated.

Local grocery stores are cooperating and will deliver orders called in for the Sisters, or things selected and left at the stores for delivery.

The sponsoring group especially emphasizes attendance. The Sisters will be present, mothers and fathers will have an opportunity to meet their children's teachers and those who are new in the parish this year will be introduced. Hostesses will serve refreshments. Everybody is invited to attend.

J. M. Weinzapfels Return from Trip To Foreign Lands

Back in Muenster after a month of travel abroad, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel find it almost impossible to pick out the chief highlights of their flying pilgrimage to world-famous shrines and cities, including an audience with the Holy Father, sight-seeing in Paris, mountain climbing in Switzerland, bathing in the miraculous waters at Lourdes, and joining in the candlelight procession to the shrine, boat riding in Holland, visiting their daughter and family in Germany.

They first set foot on foreign soil, at Fatima, Portugal, where the Shrine of Our Lady of Fatima was the chief attraction. They also visited the home of Lucia's parents.

Sight-seeing in Lisbon was followed by a day in Assisi, Italy, birthplace of St. Francis, and then Loreto. In St. Giovanni Rotondo they saw Padre Pio, the stigmatist, and attended a mass he celebrated. Men in the party were privileged to meet him personally.

Four days in Rome were filled with highlights climaxed by an audience with Pope Paul VI. They toured Vatican City, the Catacombs, attended mass at St. Peter's, went "down under" into the tomb of St. Peter, saw the Ecumenical Council chambers, and attended a play in the Amphitheater.

Switzerland was next, remembered for its snow-capped mountains, yodeling, excursion into the Alps on cable cars to the top of Mt. Pilatus, the sale of Swiss watches to American tourists, the Church of Our Lady of Hermits, and boat rides. Geneva, Zurich and Lucerne were visited.

They flew into France setting first at Paray-le-Monial, saw Ars, Paris, and Lourdes. The immense shrine of Blessed Margaret Mary of the Sacred Heart, the Basilica of the Visitation, the Church of St. John Vianney and seeing his body which is still perfectly preserved, left never to be forgotten impressions.

Paris was for seeing the Shrine of the Miraculous Medal where the Blessed Virgin appeared to St. Catherine Labouré, the famous statue of St. Vincent de Paul and Notre Dame Cathedral. And on the lighter side: French perfume, famous night clubs, French pastries, boat excursions, the Arch of Triumphs.

Lourdes was "simply tremendous," with over a hundred thousand pilgrims on the holy day, Aug. 15. The night-time candle-light procession to the Shrine, bathing in the famous waters, drinking from the springs, the blessing of the sick, Benediction, a visit to the home of St. Bernadette.

The world famous airport at Brussels and a tour of the countryside highlighted a short trip into Belgium.

After this the Weinzapfels left the conducted tour to go to Germany to visit the David Bright family who met them at Cologne airport and took them to Bonn, where Lt. Col. David Bright is stationed with the Air Force. It was a happy reunion... the joy of seeing their grandchildren and getting (Continued on page 8)

Tigers Prep for Tough Game with Cowtown Outfit

One of the toughest games for the Tigers last year was with Fort Worth Christian. The Tigers won 6-0 and they remember they never had to play any harder.

Friday night, at 8, in Sacred Heart's opening game, veterans from last year will predominate on both teams, with the Tigers probably having more of them.

As Coach Adam Wolf sizes up the two outfits he says the visitors will have more tonnage in the lineup but he'll have more in reserve. His big advantage in substitutions, he feels will more than offset Christian's weight advantage at the start.

Regarding team condition, Wolf isn't certain that his boys are up to the same standard they were for the opener last year. But they are doing well, offensively and defensively, as indicated in their scrimmage with the Muenster High Hornets last week. And they are all in good physical condition.

4 New KC Members

Four new members joined the Muenster KC council in an initiation at Fort Worth Sunday. They are Donald Vogel, Johnny Yosten, David Huchton and Roy Monday.

News of the Men in Service

Weekend Visitors

Father Joe Weinzapfel of Dallas and a priest friend visiting there from Mexico were guests Wednesday of the Weinzapfels. Father Joe, who speaks Spanish, was interpreter for his friend who speaks no English, until they visited at school with Sister Geraldine and "talked up a Spanish storm."

Gas Leak Stopped, Hot Lunch Resumed At Public School

Muenster Public School has resumed its hot lunch program, which has been replaced by a cold sandwich program since school started.

On the first school day cooks discovered low gas pressure and carried their food to and from the electric ranges of the homemaking room. Other days they served sandwiches until the gas was turned on Tuesday morning.

The trouble: leaks in various areas around the grounds. Some of the pipe was replaced, some repaired.

Hornets Will Face Favored Bearcats In Season Opener

Coach James Polk is enthusiastic about his Muenster High Hornets, but he is worried about how they will get along in their season opener at Pilot Point Friday night, at 8 o'clock.

Reports reaching here say that the Class A Bearcats are stronger than usual this year. In a practice scrimmage with Allen last week they were 2 to 1 winners, and looked good on both running and passing plays. With a weight advantage of at least 20 pounds per man they definitely rate as the favorites.

The big question is whether the Hornets have enough spirit and polish to overcome the Bearcat advantages. Polk thinks they are doing fine lately — showing good progress in team work and aggressiveness. They were losers by a one sided count in practice with Sacred Heart last week, but Polk was still happy, considering the Tigers' power this year. And he thinks they have made nice improvement since the scrimmage. Physically the boys were OK as of Wednesday.

Their spirit will be high as they come to the field at Bearcat Field Friday night, and it can be helped still more, Polk thinks, if they can see similar spirit in the fans. Folks who go from here are asked to join the cheering section on the field as the Hornets return to the field just before the game.

County FB Starts Policy Meetings

Cooke County Farm Bureau's annual program of policy development started at a meeting Tuesday night when dates were set for community meetings at Gainesville and Muenster.

Local meetings are held as the beginning of national FB policy, as recommendations go from grass roots to national convention.

Other business at the meeting was appointment of a nominating committee for the annual election of county officers in October. Members are J. T. Cole, E. V. Fox and Joe Bauer Jr.

Young Farmers to Hear Agronomist

Jaycees Invite Contest Entries For Miss Muenster

Work has started on the community's preparation for observance of Muenster Day at the State Fair of Texas. The project, being conducted by the Jaycees, consists of selecting Miss Muenster and four attendants for the occasion and also of arranging a display for a 12x40 space to be used by the community on "Muenster Day".

Every business in town is invited to sponsor a candidate in the Miss Muenster contest, which will be held in connection with a variety show on September 25. Contest rules adopted by the Jaycees are that the young ladies must be single and between 16 and 21 and must appear in the contest in a dressy street dress. There will be no appearance in swim suit or formal dress. All names of entries must be submitted by September 15 to one of the contest committee, consisting of Mmes. Donald Bayer, Ervin Hamric, Louis Roberg and Joe Galloway.

Attendants for Miss Muenster will be selected at the same contest. They will be the winners of second, third, fourth and fifth places.

Plans for a community display in the exhibit space are not complete.

Designation of Muenster Day at the Fair is tied in with German Day on October 6. As a prominent German community, Muenster was invited to participate, and Jaycees offered to take on the job. West is the other town participating.

Muenster's official delegation for the event will be Miss Muenster, the four attendants, Mayor and Mrs. Earl Fisher, and five other couples, all participating in a luncheon and parade.

HOW NOT TO HELP PEOPLE

Judy Bauer, teen-aged editor-in-chief of the Burbank, California High School's newspaper, set herself down recently and pondered one of the troublesome questions of our times. First she raised the question:

"Where is equality when a ragged man picks his way through a garbage can looking for his supper, while a debutante lavishes $3,000 on a 'coming-out' party?"

"When a family of 11 sits down to a supper of three pieces of bread in the slums of Los Angeles, does it seem right that a millionaire and his wife spend $60 for a dinner at a lush restaurant ten blocks away?"

"Does it seem in keeping with the American way of life when a Negro boy in the San Joaquin Valley walks to school shoeless in tattered rags, while a teen-ager in Beverly Hills has six cashmere sweaters in her overloaded closet?"

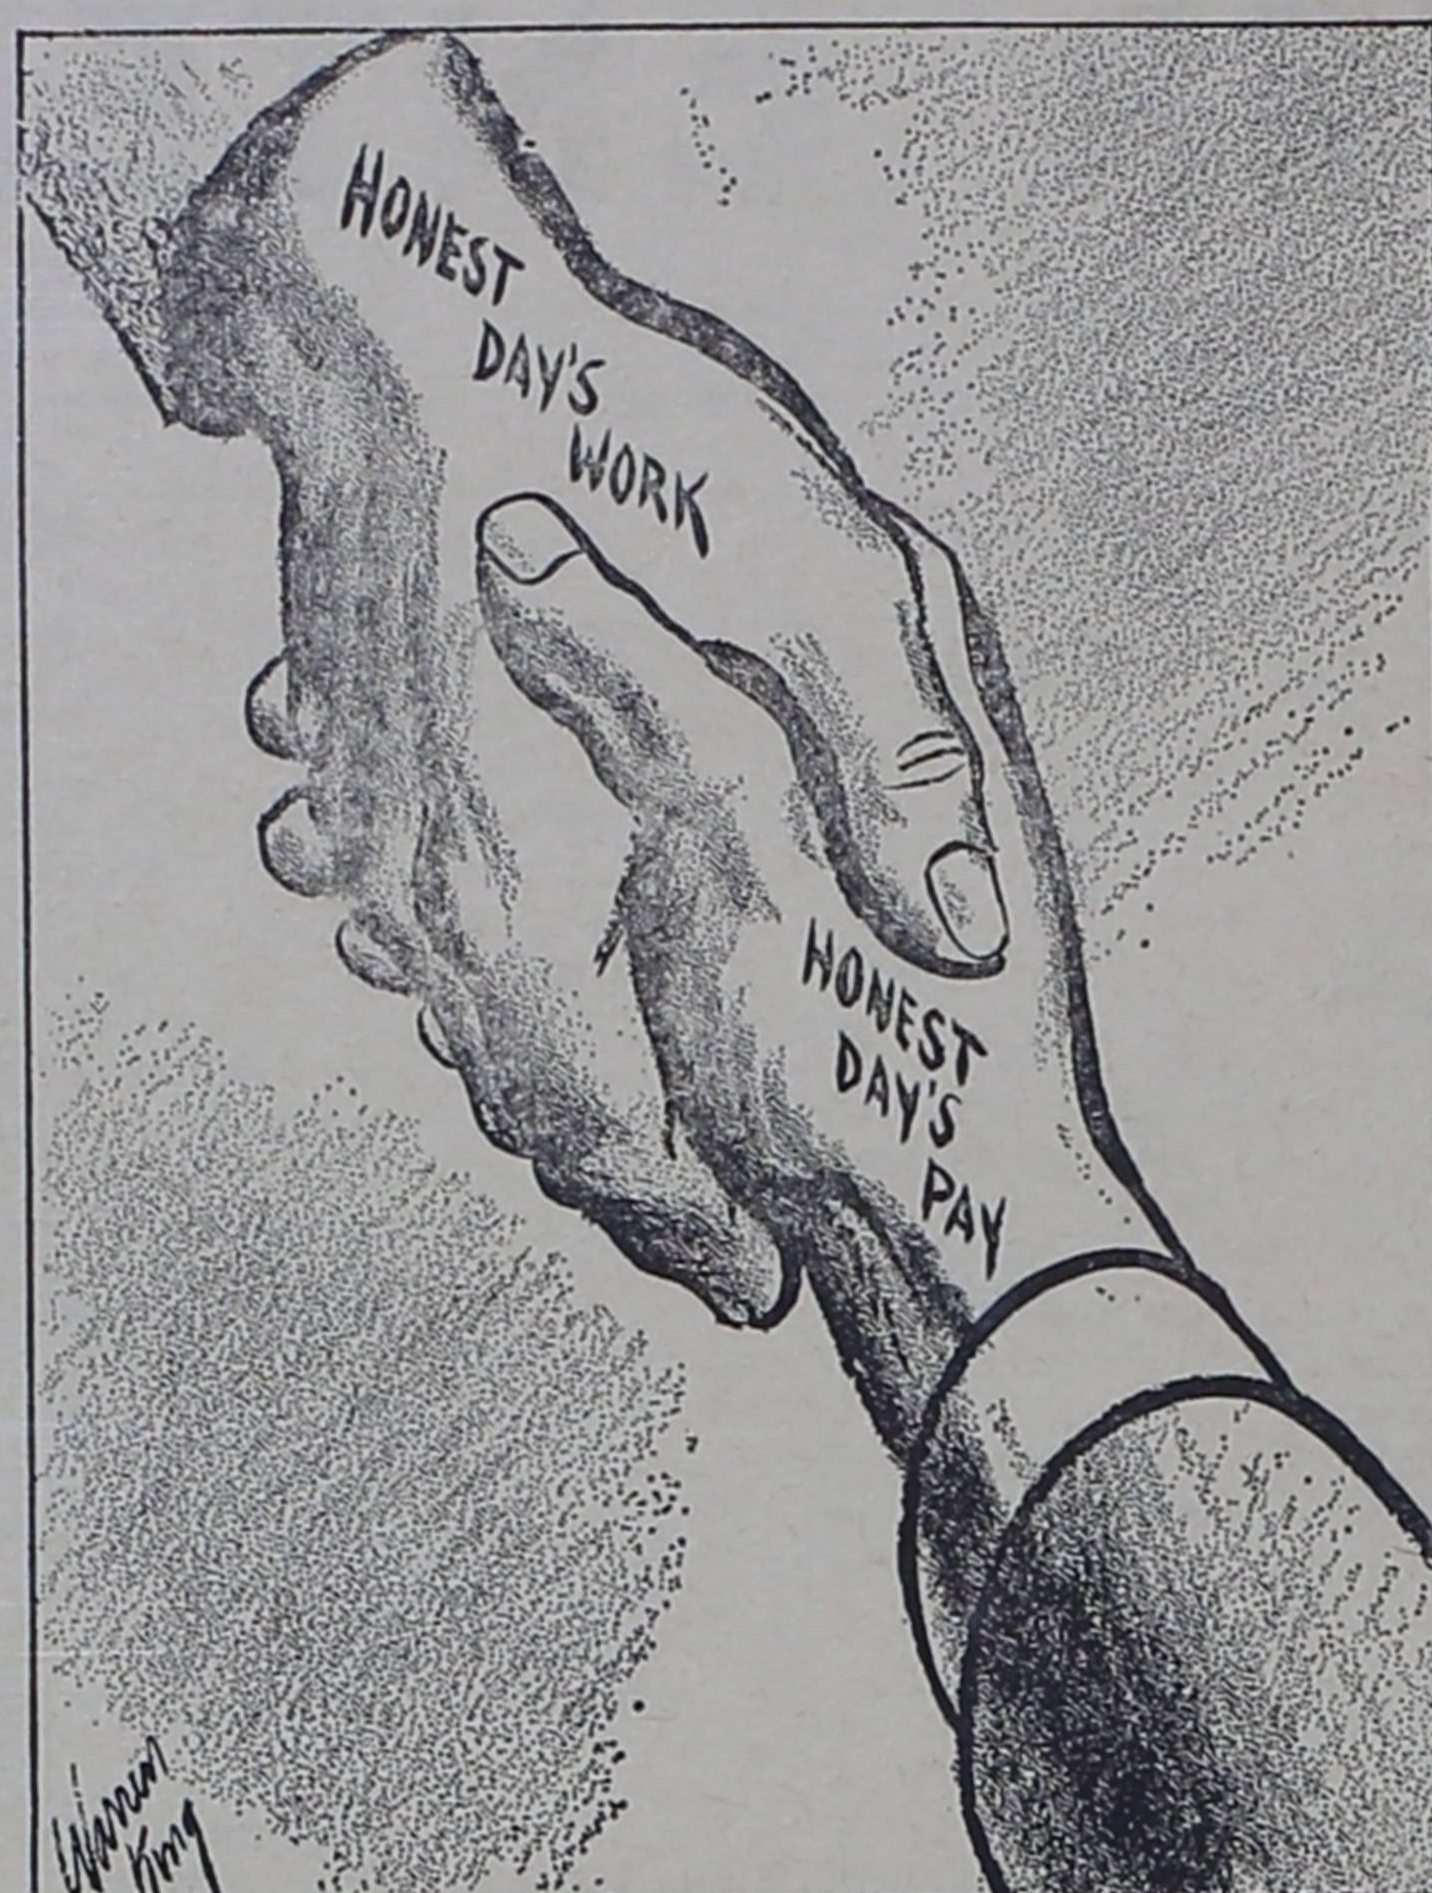

"It seems that those who have more than enough should share with those who are needy. And so, the system of taking from the 'haves' and giving to the 'have-nots' has held universal appeal ever since Robin Hood took gold from the rich, pompous lords of England and gave it to the needy peasants.

"In actual operation, is this theory sound? For example: 'When a teacher in a high school class in economics in Kansas found that his pupils were in favor of the theory of taking from those who had more than enough and giving to those in need, he announced that, beginning immediately, he would put the system into operation in the class.'

"He would subtract from the grades of the top students and add it to the grades of the poorest students, so they would all have an average grade."

"The first month the system worked pretty well because the grades of the best students were high enough to offset the deficiency of the lower ones, and the class average was above the passing mark. Then the situation changed.

"The top students saw no reason to put forth the extra effort required to get good grades for which they would not get credit. The average students put forth less effort because they were assured of passing grades. The dullards did not work at all, since they would pass with the aid of the grades taken from the others."

"So, while at first this system provided passing grades for all, within a very short time the entire class was failing. Then they realized that this socialistic-communistic theory was impractical."

QUESTION DODGING

As things are going in Washington, it appears that youths contemplating government service would be well advised to pressure colleges into developing courses on ways of avoiding frank and honest answers to essential questions.

For example, Richard L. Phillips of the State Department was asked the other day about charges by a Florida congressman that Fidel Castro was allowed to select half the refugees who came to this country on Red Cross ships these past few months. The ships, incidentally, delivered to Castro the ransom for the Bay of Pigs prisoners.

Mr. Phillips apparently did not like the question, and obviously did not intend to answer it. The accusations, he said, were academic.

The question may have been "academic" but the answer was insulting to the intelligence of the American people. The accusation deserves an honest, frank answer from those responsible, even if it takes a congressional investigation to get it.

The security, the survival of this nation, could easily depend on finding the truth about this matter in time. If Castro selected half the refugees, it becomes a certainty that hundreds of them are trained Communist agents. These Red agents will spy, agitate, and engage in sabotage at the drop of a hat.

Government officials are supposed to be servants of the people. The people are entitled to answers to questions.
 — Columbia, S. C., State

NO SPECIAL NATIONALITY

There is no such thing as an Albanian Communist, a Chinese Communist, a Cuban Communist, an American Communist, or any other special kind.

Once a person accepts communism he has no allegiance to anything except communism per se, and he is bound to do whatever the leaders of the conspiracy call on him to do.

When we give billions to Yugoslavia, Poland, and the other Communist countries we are not helping the Yugoslavs or the Poles; we are helping to strengthen the Communist regimes in those countries. When we support any leader who is partial to the Kremlin, we are assuredly building up a potential enemy.

"Doing for people what they can and ought to do for themselves is a dangerous experiment. In the last analysis, the welfare of the workers depends upon their own initiative."

"Whatever is done under the guise of philanthropy or social morality which in any way lessens initiative is the greatest crime that can be committed against the toilers."

"Let so-called busybodies and professional 'public morals experts', in their fads, reflect upon the perils they rashly invite under the pretense of social welfare."

It may surprise you to learn that those words were spoken by the late Samuel Gompers, generally regarded as having been the father of the organized labor movement in this country.

We do not know of a more statesmanlike Labor Day message.

DON'T LEAVE A DEATH TRAP!

A short time ago "Don't Leave A Death Trap" week was observed throughout Oregon. That observance, and application of the lessons that were then widely publicized, should be made a part of every day of every week of every year.

The death trap in this case is a valuable and almost universally used appliance — the home refrigerator. Old ones are discarded, and left in places accessible to children. They are air tight and sound proof. The fascinated child who gets inside and closes the door will suffocate in a matter of minutes.

Figures tell the tragic story. Over a period of years 246 children have met a terrible and needless death in this manner. And last year was the worst of all, with 35 thus killed.

A memorable slogan reads: "Don't Let Another Child Become A 'Statistic'!" Those who are fighting this menace urge that if you see an abandoned refrigerator, call the police department, the sheriff's office, or a member of the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society. The help of everyone is needed.

TAXES, PAYROLLS AND DIVIDENDS

A world of changes have taken place in this country over a 30 year period.

And one of them has to do with the relationship of the tax collector to a successful business enterprise.

Take, for instance, the typical experience of an oil company.

In 1932 it paid total taxes of $1.6 million. In the same year it paid its employees $13 million in wages and salaries, and its stockholders got $5.2 million in dividends. The tax collector, then, was low man on this totem pole.

Thirty years sped by. And in 1962, employee compensation came to $57 million; stockholders received $20 million; and taxes amounted to $34.5 million.

So, in just 30 years, payroll and dividend payments increased four times — where taxes zoomed 21 times.

This isn't the whole story. If the taxes the company was required by law to withhold from its employees' paychecks, along with payroll taxes, and the estimated income taxes stockholders paid on their dividends (figured at the minimum taxable rate of 20 per cent) are counted, the tax bill reaches the $50 million level. That works out more than three times the stockholders' returns after taxes — and more than the employees received after withholding and payroll deductions.

So — who comes out farthest ahead when an oil company does a good job, pleases an army of customers, and makes money? Answer: the tax collector. And this is true of any other enterprise and industry.

CAPITALISM NEEDED TO FINANCE SOCIALISM

Government power is not cheaper than private power. To the contrary. It is more expensive, the efficiency of a government operation as compared to private efficiency being demonstrably inferior. But the government can knock down the price so long as there are enough taxpayers left to make up the difference plus the increased costs.

The best example of government vs. private efficiency is in collectivist, Communist Russia, where the government owns everything and everything comes at a higher price than its equivalent in the U. S. In Russia there are no private industries to pay the taxes to make up the difference, and as the U. S. government expands its operations into the private sector, there will be fewer and fewer of them here, so that "it can happen too," that our scale of living will be reduced to that of the Russian and our grandchildren, as Khrushchev prophesied, will be "living under socialism."

The government in the power business is no different in principle to the government in any other line of business where private enterprise stands ready to serve. No doubt the federal government could open supermarkets and sell groceries cheaper than the privately owned markets, it could confiscate housing and reduce rents to a fraction of the present rates, it could sell farm machinery, haircuts, TV sets and plumbing service at a reduced rate — so long as there are enough taxpayers to stick with the remainder of the true costs.

Relatives See 13 Boys Settled at Subiaco for Term

Almost keeping the road hot between Muenster and Subiaco are the Al Kleisses. During the past weekend they took their son Gene back to school. He's a sophomore at Subiaco Academy. The week before they took their son Mike back to Subiaco. He had to report earlier to enter the novitiate at the abbey. This weekend the Kleisses will be back in Subiaco again for ceremonies in which Mike makes his simple vows Saturday, Sept. 7, as a member of the Benedictine Monastery.

Other local people will be in Subiaco for that event and for ceremonies on Sunday, Sept. 8, when Frater Frowin Schoech, son of the Andy Schoechs, makes his solemn vows.

Others taking boys back to Subiaco for the new term which began Tuesday were the Pat Hennigans, returning their son Pat Jr., and also taking Dickie Schoech. The Dick Trachtas took their son Wayne; the Otto Walterscheids going along to see Robert Walterscheid. Robert left last week to practice with the football squad. Taking him were Otto Walterscheid and John Wieler. Gene and John Riggs left to return to Subiaco last Friday, going with Msgr. John Harold Shea who was returning to Memphis, Tenn. after visiting the boys' parents Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders and family. He is a long-time friend of the Medders and this was his first trip to Muenster. He also visited in Decatur with friends, the L. W. Flusches and Frances Bernauer.

From Lindsay, the Ed Schads took their son Eddie, and their nephew John Henry Streng of Muenster. Going with them for a bit of a vacation were their twin daughters Alice and Phyllis and Mrs. Schads' sister, Miss Anna Hermes.

Leaving Monday for Subiaco were Jerry Taylor, Ricky Endres, Charles Sicking and Dwayne Hess. Roger Taylor took them by car.

Robert Fetsch, seminarian studying for the Benedictine Abbey, will report at St. Bernard's Seminary, St. Bernard, Alabama, for his course of study this term. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fetsch. And one Lindsay young man, Pat Hermes, will also study at St. Bernard's. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hermes Sr.

Feast Day Party

Feast day of Sister Rose Friday was celebrated with a party for her eighth graders of Sacred Heart School. The 40 youngsters had a splash party at the Medders' pool, then a poolside picnic. Sister Rose and roommates joined in the picnic.

A single flash of lightning (if bottled up) could supply an average home with electric power for 35 years.

Miss Bettye Dodds Gives Travelogue Of Summer Trip

Miss Bettye Jane Dodds has returned to Muenster for the school year, reporting a fabulous summer which included a month's trip into Canada.

Leaving the first week in June, Miss Dodds, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dodds of Decatur, made their first stop in Dodge City, Kansas. They drove across the corner of Colorado into Cheyenne, Wyoming, where they visited the Capitol and other points of interest. In Wyoming they spent some time in awe in Grand Teton National Park and Yellowstone National Park.

Continuing north they visited Great Fall and Havre, Montana, and drove over the breathtaking Going-to-the-Sun Highway across Glacier National Park from Montana into Alberta, Canada. Calgary, Banff National Park and Jasper National Park occupied their time in Alberta, but the high point of their visit to Alberta was their stop at the Columbia Icefields and their snowmobile trip five miles on to the Athabasca Glacier.

Wild life was plentiful throughout the parks and they saw many bear, antelope, deer, elk, and moose. Turning west at Lake Louise, Alberta, they proceeded through Yoho National Park, Glacier National Park, and Revelstoke National Park in British Columbia. Crossing the Georgia Strait they spent two wonderful days on Vancouver Island seeing the many attractions in Victoria, the capital of British Columbia.

From Victoria they crossed the Juan de Fuca Strait to Port Angeles, Washington, and stopped in Forks on the Olympic Peninsula. In the rain forest of the Hoh Valley in the Olympic National Park they felt they entered a nether world — mysterious, almost palpably quiet. They stopped at the Capitol in Olympia, Washington, then continued southward through Portland and Salem, Oregon, and stopped in Crescent, California, where they visited the Battery Point Lighthouse, built in 1856, one of the oldest on the Pacific Coast still in operation.

Leaving the Redwood Highway, they drove through the gigantic redwood forest on the Avenue of the Giants, where trees 300 feet high have their girth measured in yards rather than feet. In San Jose they saw probably the most picturesque — certainly the strangest — dwelling in the entire country, the 160-room Winchester mansion which rambles over 6 acres and has trap doors, secret passageways, closets opening onto blank walls or into space, inside rooms with no outlet, yet with screened doors and windows, and stairs that go nowhere.

While visiting relatives in Los Angeles, the trio went on a harbor cruise and deep-sea fishing. Before returning home, they visited relatives in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and spent one day north of Santa Fe at the Bandler National Monument in Frijoles Canyon, and another day at the Baptist's Assembly in Glorieta, New Mexico.

Father Neu officiated at the funeral services at Our Lady of the Lake Convent where the aged nun had been a member of the Sisters of Divine Providence for almost 60 years.

The group also visited nuns-relatives at the convent: Sister Ann Theodore Wiesman, Sister Miriam Dorothy Lueb, Sister Christina Flusche and Sister Emerita Flusche, a sister of the deceased, and the last of the four Flusche sisters who entered the convent from Muenster in the early days of the community.

The true art of memory is the art of attention.

A small boy in the visitor's gallery was watching the proceedings of the Senate Chamber.

"Father, who is that gentleman?" he asked, pointing to the chaplain.

"That, my son, is the chaplain," replied the father.

"Does he pray for the Senators?" asked the little boy.

"No, my son, when he goes in he looks around and sees the Senators sitting there, and then he prays for the country."

Farm Facts

On the average, at least 50 different food items are used in family meals in a week. This is reported by Janet Murray and Ennis Blake in the Yearbook for Agriculture, 1959.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers based their facts on information obtained from more than 6,000 householders.

Meals of the average family for a week included about 10 pounds of vegetables and fruit, 4.5 quarts of milk or corresponding amounts of cheese and ice cream, 4 pounds of meat, 7 eggs, 1 pound of fat, 1.5 pounds of sugar, and 3 pounds of cereal products for each person.

In 1955, according to the survey, meat, poultry, fish, or eggs took 35 cents of the food dollar — about 24 cents for beef, pork, veal, and lamb; 5 cents for poultry; 4 cents for eggs; and 2 cents for fish.

Vegetables and fruit accounted for 18 cents; milk and milk products, 14 cents; flour, cereals, and baked goods, 11 cents; and beverages, 10 cents.

The remaining 12 cents were divided fairly evenly among fats and oils, sugars and sweets, and a group of such miscellaneous items as soups, nuts, catsup, pickles and olives, fillings, mixtures, and seasonings.

We consume at least 50 different foods in a week.

California sight-seeing included Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, Marine Land, Monterey, and other scenic spots with additional sight-seeing on the way out and returning. They had a three-week vacation, spent all but two days of it away.

Two morons each had a horse, but they couldn't decide which belonged to whom. So they cut the mane off one to differentiate, but it grew back again. Next, they cut the tail off one, but that also grew back. Finally, they measured the horses, and found that the black one was four inches taller than the white one.

St. Anne Society Told How to Help Muenster Hospital

Members of St. Anne's Society learned how they can be helpful by contributing a little of their time to a sewing project for Muenster Hospital when Sister Mildred Felderhoff, hospital administrator, was a guest speaker at their September meeting Sunday night.

She solicited the aid of members in making items for the operating room. A group volunteered to help and will meet some time later — after the materials arrive — to cut the needed articles in the school's homemaking room, then distribute them to members to sew at home.

During the business conducted by Mrs. Alphonse Hoenig, president, plans for the Sisters' annual shower were announced. It will be held in the Parish Hall next Sunday, Sept. 8.

An added feature of the meeting was a report on convention proceedings of the Catholic State League meeting in San Antonio by those who attended. Mrs. Ervin Henschel and Mrs. Sylvan Walterscheid represented the society. They reported that 249 delegates registered and they repeated highlights of addresses given by principal speakers. They also mentioned that the mission exhibit was outstanding. It was valued at $1900. Host parish for the next state convention will be either Lindsay or Windthorst, those parishes to decide.

An expression of appreciation was voiced with thanks going to Mrs. Clarence Wilson who pieced and donated a quilt top and to Mrs. H. J. Fuhrman for quilting it. This was included in the mission exhibit.

Father Martin, spiritual director, led the opening and closing prayer and spoke briefly. About 30 members attended and Mrs. Albert Hess won the attendance prize. After adjournment, the ladies joined members of St. Joseph's Society for a social hour and refreshments.

Grandpa's Way Used in Making New AF Sausage

Grandpa's method of sausage making is used today by the Central Texas Packing Company, makers of new AF Whole Hog Sausage.

"Except for highly mechanized equipment, modern packaging techniques and Federal Inspection," said Plant Manager, T. F. Vander Laan, "we follow grandpa's procedure, using the whole hog instead of the trimmings".

Federal Meat Inspection was granted by the US Department of Agriculture after plant buildings and equipment, located in Corsicana, passed the rigid Federal Government requirements. This means that a USDA inspector is on hand to give continuous inspection whenever the plant is in operation.

AF Sausage is made from heavy, corn-fed whole hogs from the heart of the nation's corn belt. Another important factor aiding in the flavor distinction of AF sausage that specially blended natural seasoning is added while the pork is still warm, allowing spices to permeate more thoroughly. With the technique used, tissues are not broken down, all the natural juices are retained, so that sausage doesn't fry away.

After chilling overnight, the meat goes from 1000 pound stuffers via stainless tube into the packaging machine. This new, ultra modern machine pinches off the thermo-plastic film... closes the one or two-pound package and clips both ends simultaneously at the rate of 6000 pounds an hour.

Eugene C. Thornton, president and head of production in the spacious new plant, said average production during a 40-hour week was 150,000 pounds. "We have facilities for tripling production during peak seasons," he added.

The new sausage is made exclusively for Affiliated Food Stores and is now distributed all over the state. It is available in one and two-pound packages with both both hot and regular seasoning.

Reflecting the growing popularity of golf in Japan in the past few years, golf driving ranges have been mushrooming in increasing numbers throughout the nation. It is estimated that in the Tokyo area alone, more than 1,000 driving ranges have been constructed to meet the practice needs for the metropolitan duffers. A recent addition has been the three-tiered range which opened in the shadows of the famed Tokyo Tower. It is said to be the largest of its kind in the world, with a capacity of accommodating 150 golfers at a given time. The range is open from 6:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m., and is patronized by some 1,500 golfers daily. All practice balls are delivered to the driving tees by a conveyor belt and are washed automatically prior to being used. The range provides more than 250,000 practice balls which are retrieved only at night.

Lindsay Knights Will Open Season At Windthorst

The Knights of Lindsay High, again playing in District 9 of eight-man football, will start their new season Friday with a determination to carry on where they left off last year.

Opponents for that first tussle will be their old time rivals of Windthorst, and the action will be at Windthorst, starting at 8 o'clock.

Coach Henry Schroeder and his team will go into that game full of confidence. The boys are husky and their lineup includes five who were on last year's bi-district championship team. That size and experience showed up last week as Lindsay bested Era High in a practice scrimmage.

The Knights' schedule this year includes games with Windthorst and Carroll and two games with each of the four foes in their District 9 loop. The Carroll game will be 11-man, the other nine will be 8-man. The schedule: Sept. 6, Windthorst, there Sept. 12, Tom Bean, here Sept. 20, Carroll, there Sept. 28, Gunter, here Oct. 3, Collinsville, there Oct. 17, Prosper, there Oct. 24, Collinsville, here Oct. 31, Gunter, there Nov. 7, Prosper, here Nov. 12, Tom Bean, there money from free enterprise. Why, then, should we support socialism elsewhere? It's all right to help foreign countries do things which are plainly their governments' responsibility. But we should rule out the projects which private capital is willing to do — and able to do better. And that leads to still another consideration. Naturally private capital is not likely to offer its help in dictator countries — too much danger of the investment being seized by the government. That presents all the more reason why grants to such countries should be red-penciled on the first reading. As a general rule we might say that if a project properly belongs to private capital, but is not a safe one for private capital, it is not a proper one for our foreign aid program either. If Tower's amendment is adopted, and if this policy of caution were applied, we could confidently expect the foreign aid budget to be trimmed to a figure all of us can approve. It would mean confining all help to friendly countries, letting part of that help be given by private capital, and using foreign aid funds only for the proper government functions in those countries.
