Soil Moisture Monitoring Devices

When should I irrigate and how much water should I apply?

Bailey County irrigators ask themselves these questions every year trying to determine crop needs.

The two most common devices on the market today, used to determine water needs, are gypsum blocks and tensiometers.

Gypsum blocks are used more in clay type soils and tensiometers are used in sandy soils.

Both act the same as plant roots, in that they show moisture differences of the crop, during the growing season.

Tensiometers are water filled tubes with a porous tip.

Tensiometers measure existing soil moisture conditions by the amount of soil moisture suction required by the plant to extract water from the soil.

Water is stored in the soil around soil particles and in the spaces between the soil particles. Plant roots draw moisture from the soil particles due to the higher concentrations of salts in the roots.

Water drawn through the porous tip of the tensiometer will change readings on the gauge. When these readings change you will know a moisture difference has occurred at the depth of the tensiometer tip. Two or more tensiometers may be used to monitor various depth of the root zone.

Irrigation or rain will reverse the readings to show more water is available to the crop. If the soil section is broken, air is allowed in the tube and gauge readings will drop sharply. Once air is in the tube you will have to pull the tube out and reinsert it. Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

Players, Parents, Coaches Compose Sports Program

During a recent meeting with basketball parents, Coach Randy Adair led a discussion on several topics. The discussion addressed three major areas of concern and was of benefit to all involved.

First, Coach Adair pointed out that the "program" (meaning the entire sports program) is composed of many elements but the primary three are players, parents, and coaches. Each of these is dependent upon and related to the others.

As Athletic Director, Coach Adair is involved in an ongoing process of evaluating and improving the coaching staff. Progress is being made and will continue to be made in that area. The coaches feel strongly that the process of helping the players become successful is already taking place in the program. Also, according to Coach Adair, we must encourage our parents and fans to be the best parents and fans they can be.

Regardless of which component of the program is concerned, Adair stressed that parents and fans MUST support and believe in the players! Parents were asked to never criticize the players, especially in public. Every athlete on every team deserves respect, honor, and courtesy for simply being there, for trying. Any criticism that is not constructive is always destructive to individuals and to the team.

Second, Coach Adair related the importance of proper treatment of visitors and officials. He informed the parents attending the meeting of the severe consequences of any improper behavior toward officials or guests. The U.I.L., the governing body of Texas high school athletics, is extremely intolerant of poor treatment of officials. Fans and parents are reminded that the U.I.L. athletic code states that all persons should accept decisions of sports officials without protest and without questioning their integrity. The school district is responsible for extending courtesy and protection to sports officials from participants, school personnel, and spectators. Further, we are to regard our opponents as guests, putting clean play and good sportsmanship above victory at any cost. Win without boast and lose with bitterness.

Third, Coach Adair asked the parents to let the coaches coach. Specifically, he asked the parents not to "put down" the coaches in public. Cont. Page 6, Col. 2

Farm Workers Advised On Filing Returns

It is tax season again, and many farmworkers will be receiving 1099-MISC forms instead of the usual W-2's. It has become common practice for farm employers to issue the 1099-MISC forms to farmworkers as if the farmworkers were independent contractors. They are not. In most cases, farmworkers will be entitled to receive a tax refund. However, if they file their taxes with a 1099-MISC, the workers are more likely to pay money to the government than to get a refund.

"Issuing a 1099 form is not fair to the farmworker because then he must pay more taxes, including a 15.3 percent social security tax," said Cecilia Garza, paralegal for Texas Rural Legal Aid. "Farmworkers lose money and benefits by filing their tax returns with a 1099-MISC."

In the past, many farmworkers have been forced to file Substitute

WJH Student Wins Local Geography Bee

Steven Madrid, a seventh grade student at Watson Junior High won the school-level competition of the National Geography Bee on January 12 and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship.

The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the fifth annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by National Geographic WORLD, the Society's magazine for children, and Amtrak.

Ten students from the Muleshoe Independent School District made it into the final competition and included: Chris Hall, Weston Price, Roxanne Garcia, Kamal Bhakta, Timothy Madrid, Steven Madrid, Steven Sexton, Amber Bruns, Joe Keith Turner and Joe Mata.

Two of these students, Steven Madrid and John Keith Turner, made it to the Championship Round.

Steven went on to become the champion of the school-level Geography Bee.

The kick-off for this year's Bee was the week of January 4, with thousands of schools around the United States, the District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Steven, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state Bee April 2.

Discipline Key To Raising Happy Children

Dr. Ken Reavis, of the Utah Office of Education, will hold a discipline management workshop for parents in Muleshoe on Thursday, January 21, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Catholic Center.

Refreshments will be served and babysitters will be available.

Reavis is currently holding a series of training seminars for teachers in Lubbock at the Regional Education Center.

Approximately 18 teachers, teacher assistants, and administrators from the Muleshoe schools are attending these seminars.

The following gives an example of some of the items Dr. Reavis will share in the parent workshop.

Children who learn poor self-management skills at home will become self-centered, unsocialized, undisciplined, and have difficulty getting along throughout their lives, says child behavior specialist Ken Reavis, of the Utah Office of Education.

Reavis gives parents tips on raising responsible, healthy, happy children. Kids want to live by rules and maintain order in their lives. It makes them feel safe. Parents want the same thing, but they often sabotage the experience by falling into the trap of being ineffective in managing children. Discipline is a special form of love. It takes a lot of work and planning, but it is a lot easier to build children than to repair adults.

For more information call Venida Collins at the Special Education office 272-5239.

with its co-sponsors will provide an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee national championship on May 25 and 26. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second-place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third-place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

Alex Trebek, host of "Jeopardy!", will moderate the national finals, which will air as a primetime special on the Public Broadcasting Service at 8 p.m. May 26.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10-country Gallup survey conducted for the Society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24--the youngest group surveyed--knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries in the survey.

The National Geographic Society, with nearly 10 million members, has as its mission the "increase an diffusion of geographic knowledge." In addition to the

When asked what she was going to do now that she had won a part of the lottery, she stated, "I am going to buy another lottery ticket." (Journal Photo)

War On Trash Saves Texans Loads Of Cash

It was on New Year's Day seven years ago that the first "Don't Mess with Texas" commercial was aired. Since then, the Texas Department of Transportation's tough-talking antilitter slogan has not only become the state's most popular battle cry, it's also saved Texans a lot of money.

According to TxDOT estimates, the state has saved a total of $7.1 million in litter expenditures since the slogan hit the airwaves in 1986.

"What's more impressive is the annual estimated savings is now $4.7 million per year," says J. Don Clark, director of TxDOT's Division of Travel and Information. "It's been proven over and over again that just picking up the trash will not solve the litter problem. Changing people's attitudes and their behavior produces much better results. This is the goal of Don't Mess with Texas."

Between 1979 and 1985, the cost of picking up litter along highways in Texas was increasing at a rate of 15 to 20 percent every year. Once the campaign was implemented, the expected growth of litter expenditures was curtailed and the state began to realize an annual savings—even taking into account the cost of administering TxDOT's comprehensive antilitter program.

This program includes Don't Mess with Texas, Adopt-a-Highway, partnership with Keep Texas Beautiful, Inc., and the annual Governor's Community Achievement Awards which reward local cleanup, recycling, and beautification efforts.

This good news complements a survey conducted by the Institute for Applied Research, Sacramento, California, which found that visible roadside litter in Texas decreased by 72 percent between 1985 and 1991. This reduction made Texas the cleanest jurisdiction measured by the institute, which has conducted some 50 surveys in the United States, Canada, and Bermuda.

"We're happy that most folks are heeding our message," says Clark, "but some just don't seem to care. It takes everyone, pulling together, to make Texas a safer, cleaner place."

The Texas Historical Commission announces that nomination deadlines for its slate of preservation awards are drawing near. The awards fall into different categories of activity, including history, architecture, and museum services. Deadlines for nominations are:

A.A.U.W. Names Girl Of The Month

The American Association of University women is a national organization devoted to advancing the status of women and girls in our society. AAUW is dedicated to promoting equity in education and providing informative programs for its members. The local branch of AAUW meets at 7:00 p.m. the first Monday of each month. (during school months) and welcomes any new member who is a graduate of an accredited university. This organization also offers a scholarship to a deserving young college student each year.

AAUW in the Muleshoe area began a tradition several years ago of honoring deserving young senior girls for their achievements in academia and service. Each month, an outstanding young lady is chosen from the Muleshoe High School Senior Class as "Girl of the Month", and twice a year, a Senior girl from the Lazbuddie Senior Class is chosen as either the "Fall" or "Spring" outstanding young girl. These young ladies are chosen for their contributions to school, church, and community as well as for academic excellence. The members of AAUW are very proud to be able to recognize these wonderful girls and further honor them with a dinner party in the month of May.

The Muleshoe branch of the American Association of University Women is pleased to announce this year's fifth girl of the month, Miss Amanda Ashford. She is the daughter of Ronald and Flonita Ashford of Muleshoe, and a senior at Muleshoe High School.

Edward Terry Wins Lazbuddie Geography Bee

Edward Terry, an 8th grade student of Lazbuddie, won the school level competition of the National Geography Bee on January 13, 1993 and a chance at the $25,000 College Scholarship. The school level Bee, at which students answered oral question on Geography, was the first round in the fifth annual National Geography Bee, which is sponsored by National Geographic World, the Society's magazine for children and Amtrak.

The kick-off for this year's bee was the week of January 4, with thousands of schools around the United States, the District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Edward, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state April 2.

The National Geographic Society with its co-sponsors will provide an all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. for state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee national championship on May 25 and 26. The first place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship; the second place winner, a $15,000 scholarship; and the third place winner, a $10,000 scholarship.

Alex Trebech, host of "Jeopardy", will moderate the national finals, which will air as a prime-time special of the Public Broadcasting Service at 8:00 p.m., May 26.

The National Geographic Society developed the national Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10 country Gallup survey conducted for the society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the

Grunsboro Navy Man Aids Somalia Relief Effort

The USS Ranger battle group had been on station enforcing the "no-fly" zone over Iraq. But, as U.S. sailors and Marines from the USS Tripoli amphibious task force prepared to go ashore in Somalia in support of United Nations relief efforts, the carrier's mission changed.

Before an amphibious landing could take place, the aircraft of Carrier Air Wing Two aboard the carrier had to be in the sky over Somalia. Their new mission--providing tactical aerial reconnaissance photos and forward-looking infra-red video to ensure the safety of the ground forces during the largest humanitarian operation in the United Nations' history.

Petty Officer 3rd Class Donald E. Holt, the 22-year-old son of Carol Burham of Muleshoe, is a Navy signalman aboard the carrier.

"USS Ranger's mission in Operation Restore Hope was to support amphibious and land objectives by providing tactical and close air support for ground forces going ashore, as well as a platform with global communication capabilities for area commanders and extensive medical facilities," said Holt.

"As a signalman, my role was to the presence of players. Coaches do represent "the teacher," "Authority," and "rules." If you "bad-mouth" coaches, how can they expect the players to play for them? Adair encouraged the parents to teach players to be doers and not complainers or excuse-makers. Further, the coaching staff is continually being evaluated. The process of helping players, coaches, and parents improve is ongoing and will require patience and persistence.

In addition, Coach Adair reminded parents that we are all in the program together. In the truest sense, all the coaches, players, and parents want the same things; we want to be successful, more productive, and striving for improvement. The program in all sports is better, is improving, and will continue to get better with time and commitment by all.

Coach Adair also strongly encouraged each party concerned to be more accessible to the others. The coaching staff, players, and must all be willing to communicate.

The Athletic Department has written guidelines for parents, a code-of-conduct contract between players and coaches, and guidelines regarding individual expectations for players. These printed materials are available from Coach Adair. He invites any and all constructive input from anyone interested in the future of Muleshoe athletics.

KELLY AIR FORCE BASE--Airman Manuel C. Elizarraraz has graduated from Air Force basic training at Kelly AFB. During the six weeks of training the airman studied Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community College of the Air Force. Elizarraraz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Elizarraraz of Muleshoe. He is a 1992 graduate of Muleshoe High School. (Guest Photo)

"I feel our role in Operation Restore Hope was important because I was over there to help protect the Somali people and help make sure the waterways are open so supply ships could bring in supplies," said Holt, a 1989 graduate of Lazbuddie High School. "I found it rewarding to be a part of such a great team and be part of a relief effort that will help make the world a better place."

The carrier remained on station until relieved by USS Kitty Hawk on December 18.

Lazbuddie Man Aids Somalia Relief Effort

For the people of Somalia, USS Rushmore was in the right place at the right time.

The dock landing ship, and the two other ships of the amphibious readiness group (ARG), USS Juneau and USS Tripoli, were in the Indian Ocean on a routine Western Pacific deployment. When Operation Restore Hope began December 9, the ARG put its more than 1,700 deployed Marines ashore at Mogadishu in what has become the largest humanitarian operation in United Nations' history.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Reginald C. Treider, the 30-year-old son of Raymond Treider Jr. of Lazbuddie, and husband of Tracie Renee Treider of Levelland, is a Navy fire controlman aboard the ship.

"Our mission is to deliver Marines to Somalia in the initial assault on Mogadishu. Our ship is also tasked with giving support by means of daily tactical supply shipments ashore. My responsibility is to provide armed protection to the ship in case of attacks by small boats, guns, or cruise ship missiles," said Treider.

Operation Restore Hope is the Navy and Marine Corps' first opportunity to demonstrate the new "...From the Sea" strategy developed in response to the challenges of today's world. It is a fundamental shift from open-ocean warfighting on the sea toward joint operations from the sea. Changing the naval forces to an enabling force, the strategy allows the Navy and Marine Corps to respond to global crises and provide an initial capability for joint operations.

"The most challenging obstacle here is being kept at sea for so many days continuously without going ashore. The most rewarding thing is that I know that I am part of an effort that is actually saving thousands upon millions of men, women, and children from starvation. News From Texas Farm Bureau

Saying U.S. Rep. Mike Espy (D-Miss) is receiving only "high marks" from the agricultural community, Texas Farm Bureau president S.M. True praised the nomination of the Mississippi congressman as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Espy, a four-term congressman from rural Mississippi and a member of the House Agriculture and Budget committees, has been selected by President-elect Bill Clinton to head the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"I'm not sure he's too acquainted with Texas agriculture, in particular, other than the fact that our state and Mississippi have an awful lot in common when it comes to growing cotton, soybeans, cattle and some of the grain crops," said True, a grain, cotton and cattle producer from Plainview. "We do share some of the problems, though, such as water. And I think we can relate to him pretty well because of his involvement in these issues in Mississippi."

While serving on the House Ag Committee, Espy has been active in a number of areas, including crop insurance, disaster assistance, wetlands, and trade. True said Espy is known for his pro-business approach, which will be important in the international trade arena.

"He is for free markets and the free enterprise system. I'm very confident he will be looking after agriculture's interests in these areas," said True. "I also understand he supports the North American Free Trade Agreement, which is really one of the most important goals we should be working towards as an industry."

Incorporated Basketball Season Gets Underway

The Muleshoe-Lazbuddie "Kings" fifth and sixth grade boys' basketball team stormed into Clovis for the first game of the Play Incorporated basketball season.

The Clovis team was not as aggressive as the Mule-Buddies, with the Mule-Buddies winning by an amazing 49 points, 55 to 6.

Dustin Cleavinger led the Kings attack with 14 powerful point and tremendous rebounds. Chipping in 10 points and several assists with ease was Bret Clements.

Josh Morris from Lazbuddie also shot well scoring nine points and hit a three-point shot in the fourth quarter.

Mason Sinclair tossed in eight points had many assists and steals, and scored a three-point shot early in the third quarter to bust the game wide open.

Cade Morris also from Lazbuddie scored a handy six points and paced the Kings with several aggressive

Soft Drink Containers Are Reused, Recycled

(NU) - "Going green" is easy when it comes to recycling soft drink containers.

Soft drink cans and bottles are America's most recycled packaging, according to the National Soft Drink Association (NSDA). More than half (54 percent) of soft drink containers were recycled in 1991 through curbside, buy-back, drop-off and other programs.

The rates for each of the four container types — aluminum, bi-metal, glass and PET (type of plastic soft drink bottles) — already exceed the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's goal of 25 percent recycling.

As more Americans cooperate in recycling, the amount of soft drink container scrap going into the nation's landfills has dropped. Soft drinks containers — as a percentage of the waste stream — decreased by 19 percent since 1988, and in 1990 measured only 1.3 percent of all solid waste.

Innovations in packaging have lightened the weight of containers by 24 percent since 1972 — and lighter packaging means less waste. Secondary packaging has improved as well the NSDA reports. Plastic six-pack ring carriers are now 100 percent recyclable and photodegradable, while paperboard cartons contain 25 percent consumer recycled materials.

The soft drink industry is committed to the environment and the recycling of its packaging, according to NSDA. Most soft drink bottlers participate in plant and community recycling programs. And to date, NSDA has awarded more than $1 million to 30 states and the District of Columbia for the development of effective solid waste management programs.

Market Management Key To Staying In Business

Better marketing and better management of the crop are the keys to staying in business and making a profit in the next five years, growers at the Beltwide Cotton Conferences at New Orleans were told by a cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In the next three to five years, there will be little change in cotton acreage in Texas and Oklahoma, Dr. James R. Supak, Extension Service cotton agronomist at College Station, said. Only slight gains in yields are anticipated, he said, but lint quality will improve. His predictions were based on a survey of producers, ginners, Extension faculty and researchers in nine subregions which make up the growing area of the two states.

Some 4,500 growers, agribusiness representatives and educators attended the annual production and technical conferences at the Marriott Hotel in New Orleans, Sunday, January 10 through Thursday, January 14.

Supak told the delegates the survey indicates that six factors are most likely to influence acreage yields and quality in the Southwest region (Texas and Oklahoma). He said these are weather, insect management (pesticide resistance), rising input costs, government regulations, loss of support programs and farm credit availability.

Options for reducing per unit production costs include "fine tuning" production practices, short-season production systems and conservation or reduced tillage. Available technology that could be adopted, according to the survey, included crop management systems, narrow-row production, low energy precision application (LEPA) irrigation, practices to improve stand establishment, weed control, crop termination and harvest practices.

"To stay in business, growers must improve their marketing skills, work to implement a statewide boll weevil eradication program, improve management skills, become proactive with regard to environmental and other governmental issues, become more involved with producer organizations and be willing to accept leadership roles," Supak said the survey reported.

He said the survey indicates: * For the most part, farmers do an excellent job of producing cotton but have only limited marketing expertise. With reductions in government support programs, growers will need to learn the principals and use of the available marketing tools and become more involved in forming marketing groups, and promoting locally grown cotton and "value added" products.

* Cotton farmers need to become even more skilled as managers. This means learning more about growth and development of the plant and using this knowledge in timing and application of crop inputs, such as fertilizer and water.

* For several years, profitability was closely associated with yields. There was a reasonable probability that additional inputs which increased yields would also boost net returns. But low cotton prices and rising costs of inputs forces growers to reassess their production strategies and concentrate on increasing profits regardless of what happens to yields and quality.

* With the exception of the Texas High Plains, the implementation of an effective boll weevil eradication programs considered the most viable alternative for containing insect control costs and managing insect resistance to pesticides. At present, the boll weevil is the key insect pest around which production systems must be structured.

Supak said the survey and additional data from the Crop Reporting Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, enabled certain conclusions to be reached which are specific to the nine subregions. Those regions are the Rio Grande Valley, Winter Garden, South Texas, Blacklands, East Texas, Rolling Plains, High Plains, Far West Texas, and Oklahoma. These regional lines were based on similarities in climate, soil resources and other factors.

The right guess is never as good as the correct answer.

NEW LIFE

Nothing is more interesting than young new life. It represents all that is fresh and innocent, but more, it represents the unlimited potential of the future. How much many of us would give to have some of the vivacity and energy of the young and more yet, to have our future before us.

We can't have yesterday over again, but we can have a new life. We can be born again from above, fresh and new. God wills to give everyone this new life, abundant life, free of fear and anxiety. Go to Church this week and hear of the God who gives new lives for old.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH

THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

Is something wrong with your life— an inner restlessness, dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!
