

If the topics most vivid in a person's mind are proper for a column like this, yours truly has every reason this week to devote this space to memoirs of a most pleasant and interesting vacation.

Recalling literally hundreds of memorable scenes and places along a 4400 mile drive through a half dozen great western states, Con has material for at least a dozen articles. Since however, a person should get his spirit as well as his body back on the job we'll settle for a brief summary of the itinerary and points of interest along the way.

A person might say that real summer vacationing from here does not begin until he has completed a long day of driving. Our destination the first day was Eagle Nest Lake, N.M., a cool scenic wonderland about a mile above sea level which helps justify the slogan on New Mexico car license tags. "The Land of Enchantment". Approaching it from Cimmaron, on the north, is splendid mountain drive mostly beside a mountain stream which at least half the time appears to be running up hill. Driving is tricky around there. A person seldom knows whether he's going up or down.

The overnight stay at Eagle Nest was especially chummy, thanks to the hospitality of the Milton Wades, former residents of Gainesville. Milton is tops as a tourists' and vacationers' host. Operates a lodge and cabins. Until a couple of months ago he had the snazziest place in town. A dandy building with chrome and other fancy furnishings and a really artistic collection of mining equipment. He called it the Gold Pan. A fire changed all that. Left nothing but a heap of ashes. He's rebuilt, but in a completely different way. The name is still the Gold Pan but the building follows the design of a rugged prospector's shack. Unpainted planks in place of highly polished hardware. Milton's idea is to come back the slow and sure way, making improvements as circumstances permit and gradually restoring the lodge's former splendor. And he'll do it, we betcha!

The Red River drive between Eagle Nest and Taos ranks as one of the most beautiful in the nation. Words are inadequate, but we'll settle by saying that it's about all anyone can hope for in a combination of cliffs, valleys, vegetation and water. It's a wonderful eyefull.

Taos is quaint, old, pretty and shabby, depending where you go. A mecca for art students and tourists with a yen for the old Indian and Spanish American atmosphere. Abode is the predominating building material and many of the structures are still serviceable after 200 years or more. The town is packed with history, tradition and curio shops.

Outside a couple of miles is a pueblo village that's downright fascinating in a repulsive sort of way. It's interesting to see how primitive Indians lived. At the same time it's disappointing to see that they have so little spunk as to continue living that way.

A bright spot in Taos is the La Donna Luz restaurant. In an old abode building saturated with old world tradition, the gracious hospitality of Spanish blue-bloods lingers on. But the present hosts are Frenchmen. The cuisine, wonderful.

Santa Fe, the only state capital in the nation not served by a railroad, is another remnant of the old world. Incidentally, Carson City, Nevada, another town on our itinerary has the distinction of being the smallest state capital in the nation. But getting back to Santa Fe. It's another town featured by history, abode and curio shops. How those places play up to the tourists! Which may be a good thing, cause they'd probably have a skimpy living otherwise.

The two places we chose to visit during our limited time there are San Miguel's, the oldest church in the United States, and the Miraculous Staircase (Continued on Page 10)

John Myrick, 16, sustained a broken leg last Wednesday afternoon in the first scrimmage session of the Gainesville Leopards. He was a backfield performer and was a squadman on last year's team. The mishap occurred when young Myrick was doing down field blocking ahead of a ball carrier. He was treated at Gainesville Sanitarium and is resting well here at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Myrick. The break is at the ankle and John is wearing a cast that covers his leg including the knee.

Dorothy Mae Bayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bayer, had her tonsils removed at M&S hospital in Gainesville Friday.

Three tonsillectomies were performed at the local clinic last week. Those having their tonsils removed were Tommy Dankesreiter, Donna Hofbauer, and James Hess.

John Hartman is back at his home since Tuesday. He is resting well following major surgery at Gainesville Sanitarium.

Ervin Walterscheid entered Gainesville Sanitarium for medical treatment Sunday and was dismissed Tuesday.

Since Saturday Mrs. Jim Cook is up and around as usual, recovered from surgery performed at Gainesville Sanitarium. She says many thanks for the cards, flowers and visits while she was ill.

Joe Horn and his mother, Mrs. J. S. Horn, returned Thursday from Glenrose where they spent two weeks for their health. They were accompanied to Muenster by Mrs. Catherine Gehrig who had spent 10 days at the health resort.

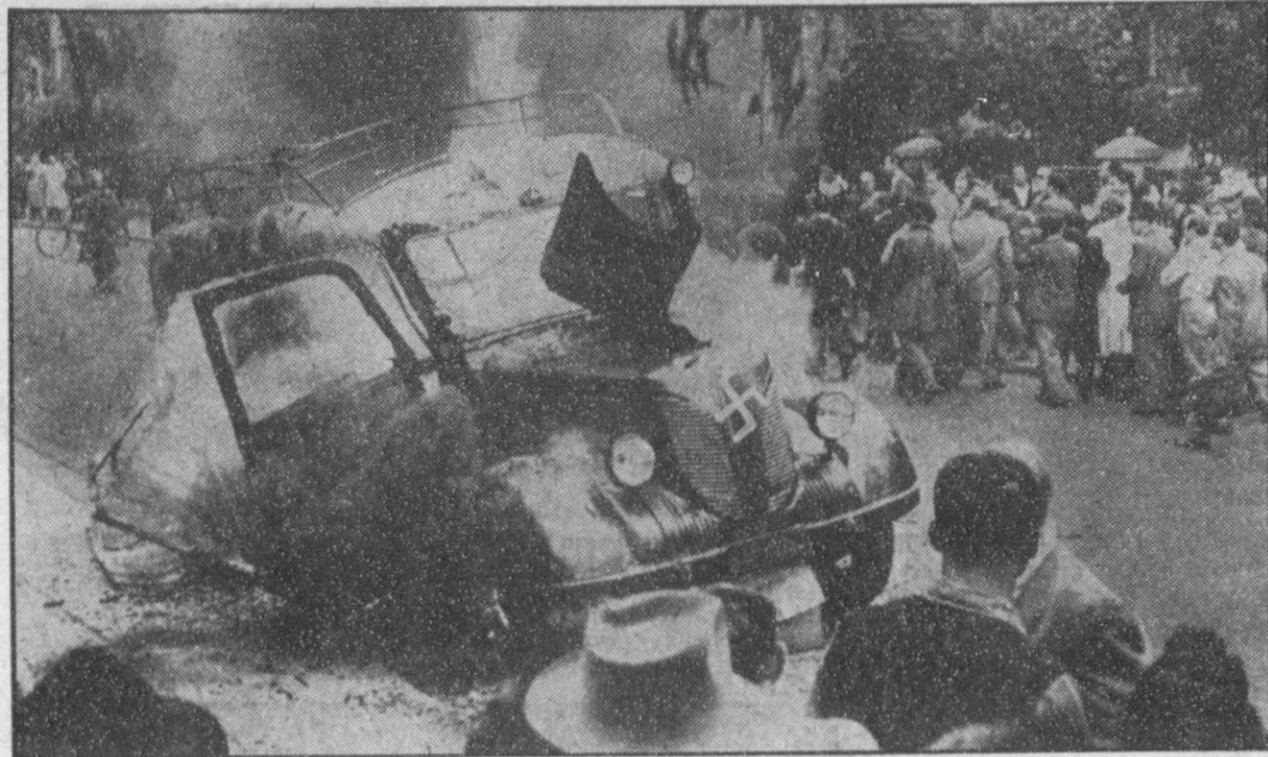

Bill Hoffman is recovering satisfactorily after being quite ill as the result of a sun stroke at his farm Friday afternoon. The Hoffman family planned to leave Monday for Wisconsin to make their home but will not get away until Bill recovers his strength.

Dr. R. W. Crawford, 84, retired physician, formerly of Muenster, continues ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joe Herr, in Arlington. He recently underwent two operations. His other daughter, Mrs. Bill Herr, and two children, of Odessa, who had been attending his bedside returned to their home Friday.

THEY MUST BE 6

Children 6 years old or over before Sept. 1 may enroll in the public school. Superintendent Leo Neyer quoted the state regulation this week for the benefit of any parents who might desire that information.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tischler moved to Celina Wednesday to make their home. They came here from Celina 8 years ago. The farm they vacated is now occupied by Bill Hess.

TROUBLE IN MUNICH—In this ominous scene of postwar German unrest, Jewish DPs are marching on the office of a German paper which had printed an anti-Semitic letter. The rioters have just finished painting the hated swastika on a police car as 1100 Jews and German police fought. Five Jews and 20 police received injuries. Parochial School Staff Consists of Thirteen Teachers

The staff of the Sacred Heart Parochial school this year will consist of 13 teachers. According to information given this week by Sister Canisia, there will be nine grade school teachers, three high school teachers and a music teacher.

The identity of the teachers is not definitely known this week, however Sister Canisia said that she had been assured by her superior in the Jonesboro, Ark., motherhouse that the three high school teachers will be fully qualified to meet the rigid new requirements of the state department of education, hence the high school will be qualified to continue its present affiliated status.

In the elementary department there will be two teachers for the first grade and one for each of the other grades. The list of names of teachers in complete at this writing.

School will open on the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 6. Registrations and assignments will last until noon after which children will be dismissed. Actual work begins on Sept. 7.

SACRED HEART ALUMNI WILL MEET FRIDAY

Members of the Sacred Heart Alumni Association will hold their annual meeting this Friday night at 8 o'clock in the parish hall, Mrs. Lou Wolf, president, announced this week.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers and to plan the association's program for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Herr are visiting in Hereford this week.

Federal Grant On Ten Bed Hospital Offered to Muenster

For the asking Muenster can have a federal grant on the construction and equipment of a 10 bed hospital. That information, submitted by the State Health Department, was received Monday by J. M. Weinzapfel, president of the Muenster Cooperative Hospital Association.

The grant is offered under provisions of the Federal Hospital Construction Act, which assists hospitals that are recommended by the State Health Department.

Muenster's recommendation is based on a survey of hospital facilities which indicated that only 85 per cent of the general hospital bed needs in Cooke County are presently met. To make up the shortage the Health Department encourages Muenster to submit an application for federal aid on the project.

According to the Federal Hospital Construction Act the federal government pays one third of the building and equipment cost and local interests pay the remaining cost.

$6,000 Fire Destroys Myers-Rivoire Barn

Loss estimated at $6,000 with no insurance was caused by fire which swept through a warehouse in the Camp Howze area, eight miles north of Gainesville Monday.

The blaze involved the warehouse, owned by H. E. Myers & Son and Paul Rivoire, and 150 tons of hay belonging to Myers, which had been put in the warehouse for storage only last week.

It was believed the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. The blaze was discovered at 8:15 p.m.

Religion, Home Ec, Music Get Place On School Program

Three important developments mark last week's preparations for the coming scholastic year at Muenster High. One is the approval of a special free period during which students may attend religious classes away from school. Another is an extension of facilities in the Home Economics department. The third is an arrangement for band and glee club activity.

The free period for religion classes was set up especially for Catholic students of the school. On the recommendation of the school board Superintendent Leo Neyer arranged the free period in the regular schedule to permit children to attend religion classes at the parochial school. Protestant children are encouraged to attend similar classes under the supervision of some person or persons suitable to their parents.

The extension of the Home Economics department is regarded as a specially fine opportunity to high school girls and ladies of the entire district. After a meeting last week the trustees announced their decision to promote Miss Ruby Kelly from Home Economics instructor to Vocational Home Economics director, thus extending her field from the classroom to the entire district.

Miss Kelly will work under provisions of the Smith Hughes act, serving as a teacher in school and a technical adviser to the entire community. Her extra curricular work, which extends into the summer, consists principally of girls club work and home demonstration activity.

The opportunity for band and glee club work resulted from the board's appointment of Frederic Huff as an English teacher to succeed Mrs. Effie Hembree who resigned in order to remain with her family in Louisiana. Huff, a native of Denton, is qualified to teach music as well as English and will have charge of band or glee club activity that develops at the school.

VFW Auxiliary To Give Benefit 42 Party Tuesday Night

Members of the Muenster VFW Auxiliary will sponsor a benefit 42 party next Tuesday night in the parish hall beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. John Huchton, chairman, and members of the entertainment committee announced this week that attractive prizes are awaiting winners in the 42 series and that hostesses for the evening will serve refreshments. Admission will be 50 cents per person. Everybody is invited to attend.

Jim Walker had as his guest several days this week his daughter, Edith Loy Moreland of Fort Worth.

Work Begins This Week on Muenster New School Project

Work on Muenster's new $300,000 public school building got under way this week. Since Monday bulldozers have been leveling the building and playground site and actual construction will begin on September 6, when Jack Owens of Dallas will arrive to supervise construction.

Stanley Brown of Dallas is architect for the building and Owens is construction supervisor representing the school board, which has retained charge of the project instead of turning it over to a general contractor. Sub contractors such as plumbing, electrical and concrete workers will deal directly with Owens and the school board.

With a full year to go the board has set the first of September of next year, as the goal for completion of the building. The plan is to have it ready for the beginning of the 1950 school year.

Built according to the latest designs in school construction the building will have a total floor space of 35,485 square ft. occupied by 8 high school classrooms, 4 elementary classrooms, auditorium, gymnasium, library shop, offices, storerooms, toilets, etc.

Space allotted to each section of the building is as follows: High school, 14,029 sq. ft. Grade school, 3,960 sq. ft.; Shops, 3,416 sq. ft.; Gymnasium, 8,500 sq. ft.; Auditorium, 5,580 sq. ft.

Hood Bears Down on Grid Fundamentals In Early Workouts

With an average of about 30 youngsters reporting for pre-season practice every night the Muenster High football squad is gradually shaping up for a rugged 1949 season. Coach Hood has been drilling the lads intensively in fundamentals and expects to settle down on playing methods about the beginning of the school year.

Hood also issued a general invitation this week to every football minded boy of the community. Whether or not they have been reporting for pre-season practice, he said, they are still more than welcome. By the beginning of the school year he hopes to have more than 40 in uniform.

Anticipating a large squad he secured an additional supply of helmets, pads, shoes and other equipment.

Meanwhile Hood has almost completed his schedule for the season. On Sept. 16 his charges will clash with Boyd HI for the opener and on Sept. 29 they will meet Electra. Other dates are not definite at this time but games are practically assured with Gunter, Collinsville, St. Joseph's of Sherman, St. Mary's of Gainesville, St. Xavier's of Denison and Lanier of Fort Worth. Nine or ten games is the season's goal.

Along with his regular squad Coach Hood will take over the training of his prospective future players. Seventh and eighth grade parochial lads will practice under his direction and will play as many games as Hood can match with other grade school teams of North Texas. The little fellows will not start practice until school opens.

Community response, like that of the squad members has been gratifying to date. Every practice session has been well attended by local fans... a good sign, in the opinion of Coach Hood, because the boys show more enthusiasm when they know others are taking an interest in them.

Spike Jones Crazy Music Show Booked As Fair Attraction

The Spike Jones Musical Depreciation Revue of 1950 has been booked for the State Fair of Texas, Oct. 8-23, after breaking box office records in 90 per cent of the huge civic auditoriums and theaters in which it has appeared this year, Julius Schepps, chairman of the Fair attractions committee, has announced.

The assault of Spike and his city slickers on Fair Park Auditorium in Dallas will be one of the most popular entertainment features ever presented by the exposition, Fair officials believe.

The crazy antics of Spike and his company of 44 assorted madmen — and pretty girls — are said to appeal to music lovers, music haters, farmers, city folks, socialites, anti-social people, financiers, people without any money in the bank, and just the plain guy-in-the-street.

First catapulted to fame in 1942 when they did it in "Der Fuehrer's Face" with a tuba, the Jones City Slickers have since contributed such bits of satirical music as their breakdowns on the old favorites, "Cocktails for Two," "That Old Black Magic," "Chloe" and "My Old Flame." And "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth" is, of course, an American classic by this time.

The show starts out with 44 people on the stage, each trying to be nuttier than the other, and bit by bit new instruments appear on which the Slickers and Spike create Bedlamic music (you should pardon the expression.)

There are pistols, gongs, wash-boards, tin cans of all sizes and battered water buckets. There's a "pianothirty" for student musicians not expert enough to play the piano-forte, and the "jukelele" which plays Hawaiian music when Spike drops a nickel into it. (Ideal for musicians with broken hands.)

And the genuine slot machine on the stage gives out with the sweetest music of all during each performance, when a jackpot of $24.35 rools out.

Members of the cast include an eight-foot giant, midget, four pigs, five pigeons — and Feetlebaum, the most swayed-backed race horse in show business.

The Musical Depreciation Revue will play in Fair Park Auditorium every evening during the Fair with matinees Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

"Clover for Texas Pastures" was prepared by R. R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist of Texas A. & M. College. He says every grassland needs a clover and every clover needs a grass. They just go together most everywhere, and it takes a variety of good grazing plants to make a real pasture.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gehrig and children spent Sunday at Denison visiting the Al and Joe Schnitker families and Grandpa Herr, who at 87, is still "doing fine." The Gehrigs were accompanied to Denison by Shirley Schnitker who returned home after a week's visit here with relatives.

AN AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC RANGE KEEPS YOU— Cool-Calm-Collected

Cooking electrically these days is a small matter of pushing a button or turning a switch. What could be easier than that? Your kitchen remains degrees cooler because the cooking units are in direct contact with the cooking vessel and very little heat escapes around or up the sides. You stay cooler, too, for your work is done when you put the meal in the oven and set the accurate temperature-control. This economical temperature control cuts on and off to maintain an even, uniform heat... cooks a great portion of the time with the current off. The generous size oven cooks a complete meal at one time... even desserts. So, why not stay cool, calm and collected this summer... turn your cooking duties over to a modern electric range. You'll get perfect results every time!

Washington Newsletter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20—The House this week cut five hundred and eighty million dollars off the Administration's one billion four hundred and fifty million dollar program for military aid to Europe. Notwithstanding some of the speeches made in the Congress, none of our military experts in their testimony before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs would say that this military aid program was necessary. They did advocate the program but refused to go on record to the effect that it was vital in any way to our national defense. As a matter of fact, the House action did not drastically curtail the program. The Administration's bill called for a two year authorization, whereas the House bill provides for only a one year program. Those of us supporting this cut—the reduction from two years to one year—want to see how the program works out. We want to know how these European countries use the supplies to be furnished. These European countries have not yet worked out a plan for the use of this equipment. If they use it efficiently, if they work out a sound program of self-help, then Congress will probably go along with further aid. Otherwise, the program will be reduced rather than increased by subsequent Congresses. From my brief travels in Europe, and from my study of European affairs, it seems to me that the biggest need of those folks is to go to work. Someone has said that the only wrong with Europe is Europeans. In many places in Europe, it seemed to me the people were putting in one half their time making wine, and the other half drinking it. While in Paris and Madrid last October, I was impressed with the vast numbers of peoples on the streets in both cities who were trying to sell lottery tickets. Both France and Spain conduct national lotteries as a means of raising public funds. This, to my mind, indicates a form of national depravity. (Incidentally, I am glad to see our F. C. C. cracking down on these radio-give-away programs. They should be stopped.) Furnishing guns to Europeans is not going to make good soldiers out of them. Furnishing them billions in equipment is not necessarily going to make them work.

On Monday of this week, Representative Francis Walter, of Pennsylvania, introduced two new Tidelands bills. He did this at the request of the Speaker of the House, the Honorable Sam Rayburn, of Texas. One bill is known as the Administration bill, the other as the States' bill. Both bills were drawn as a result of several months of negotiations between State officials and Federal officials in an effort to reach a compromise on the tidelands issue. The chief difference between the two bills is in the matter of control and ownership. Both bills provide that the States shall receive 62½% of the income from submerged lands, i.e., the so-called Tidelands, while the Federal government will receive 37½%. Both bills provide that the States and the Federal government will share 50-50 in the income from the Continental Shelf, i.e., the area beyond the so-called marginal sea. Tidelands is somewhat a misnomer. What is meant by tidelands, as currently used, is the area from the low watermark three miles seaward. In the case of Texas, however, this means the area from low watermark ten and one-half miles seaward, or three marine leagues. The Texas boundary was described by the Republic of Texas in 1836 by metes and bounds. Our boundary was reaffirmed in the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and was recognized by all the nations at that time, including the United States of America. It described our boundary as beginning at the mouth of the Sabine River, thence extending into the Gulf three marine leagues from the shore, and extending in a line parallel to the shore to a point opposite to the mouth of the Rio Grande, and thence up the Rio Grande including what we know as the Republic which then included portions of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Kansas.

In the so-called States' compromise bill, the Texas boundary is recognized to conform with the line set up by the Republic of Texas. In the Administration's bill, our line is recognized as being only three miles seaward. Hearings on these two alleg-

The American Way BACK TO WORK

An American returning to his homeland after an absence of twenty or twenty-five years would wonder what in the world had happened to the industrious people whom he had left behind. He would be saddened at the spectacle of millions of Americans demanding and getting more pay and giving in return work, less in quantity and inferior in quality.

The present situation brings back to mind a motto which I saw some years ago on the office wall of a business executive. It read:

"I AM A GREAT, BELIEVER IN LUCK; I FIND THAT THE HARDER I WORK, THE MORE I SEEM TO HAVE OF IT."

A few days after reading this brief essay on luck and work, I was the week-end guest of a friend at his shooting lodge. There above the immense fireplace extending across the end of the livingroom was another motto. It seemed to go hand in hand with the one seen a few days before. It read: "HE WHO CHOPS HIS OWN WOOD GETS ed compromise bills are set for Wednesday of this week. It is extremely doubtful that Congress can or will act on either of these bills during this session of Congress.

WARMED TWICE."

Those two mottoes, it seems to me, most tersely and eloquently describe the America that was; an America that we must revive to make it once again a land where men work and take pride in doing their jobs well.

It used to be the American concept that the man who worked harder & a little better deserved a larger reward than his less industrious and less skillful fellow-worker. Until recently no one in this country had ever thought of denying to that worker his right to a larger compensation. It was the competitive spirit between Americans, whether they were workers or bosses, which was largely responsible for making America the most prosperous country the world has even known, with the highest standard of living for all classes.

In recent years, sad to relate, certain individuals and groups have been trying to upset this American scheme of things which justly rewards individual effort, initiative, ability and thrift. They would have us abandon our right to pursue individual opportunity as it presents itself, or as we seek it out; they would deny to the individual the right to share in the profits of his own personal accomplishments. They demand that we set up here in America a different system under which there would be no incentive for the individual to work and to create.

For lack of a better name we call this great American system "Free Enterprise." Under it, for over a century and a half, as a nation and as individuals, we made great progress. If we cast out this system our forward progress will cease, decay will set in, and we will lose our place at the head of the parade of nations. Defeat of Hitler and Hirohito will have availed us naught, and the billions of dollars we are now spending abroad to head off Communism will be wasted if we lose at home those things for which our armed forces fought so valiantly and successfully in World War II, and which our dollars now fight for overseas.

Let us, therefore, turn deaf ears to the defamers of our American System of Free Competitive Enterprise. There is nothing fundamentally wrong with this system. True, there are some individuals who abuse it, but for one hundred and fifty years we were gradually eliminating those abuses. Let us resume with that refining process to make the best economic system ever devised in all the history of mankind, work even better.

Let's have done with something-for-nothing schemes; let's quit looking for a daily visit from Santa Claus, instead of his time-honored annual pilgrimage. Let's recognize again the old truth that "HE WHO CHOPS HIS OWN WOOD GETS WARMED TWICE." Let's get back to work. Hard work brought us luck in the past and hard work will bring us even better luck in the future.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

If They're Wild, They Belong To Tik!

Saw Tik Anderson last week and was reminded of the first time I ever spoke to him. The missus had sent me out one Saturday afternoon to hunt for some blackberries.

I took a long hike and couldn't find any. Finally, I came to Tik's house along that low stretch east of the fork on River Road. "Hi there," I says, "any blackberries around here?"

Tik says, "There used to be—but I don't know much about things that grow wild." Later, I found how Tik supports his family by picking berries. Ever since, I've been like the rest of folks in town—respectful of his right not to tell where "his" berries grow.

From where I sit, respecting other folks' rights comes natural in our town... in America for that matter! Whether it's a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale, or whether it's Tik Anderson's right to keep secret where his berries are, it's all a big part of a real democracy!

Mission Sewing Circle Rolls Bandages; Makes Appeal for Old Linens

Members of the Mission Sewing Circle, meeting Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ben Hellman, rolled bandages for a leper hospital in Japan. Mrs. Joe Swirczynski, president, read a letter from a missionary in Japan. He thanked the ladies for a recent shipment of bandages and appealed for old sheets. He wrote that his patients in the leper colony are being covered with banana leaves and newspapers because linens are not available. The Mission Circle therefore is asking for old linens. They will remake them into bed linens and use the more worn portions for bandages.

Small Grain Pastures For Winter Grazing Top Dairyman's "Must" List

COLLEGE STATION, August — There are certain items that should be on every dairyman's "must" list and one of these, says R. E. Bureson, associate extension dairy husbandman of Texas A. & M. College, is small grain pastures for fall and winter grazing. Plan at least one acre for each cow in the herd, for it is one way to get more feed for less money and that means lower production costs and more net income.

Silage is another source of cheap feed nutrients so have the silo ready for filling by the time the crop you are growing for silage is ready for harvesting.

In many sections of the state, it will pay you well to supplement the drying pastures with plenty of good quality hay and silage, says Bureson. Give the cows all they will eat. They will pay you well for it. Summer isn't over in Texas and chances are good that many pastures will be brown from the heat and dry weather before fall grazing crops are available so have the supplements ready.

Herding is always in order, says Bureson. Make the herd fit the feed supply. The same amount of feed produces more milk when fed to high producing cows, he adds. There is no profit in feeding cows that only pay their board bill. They should be culled.

The mark of an efficient dairy herd is a high average production of milk and butterfat per cow. The efficiency of the breeding program is indicated not only by the high average production, but also by the increasing percentage of uniform high producing females born in the herd each generation and a decreasing number of low producers born each generation.

The proved-sire system of breeding, says Bureson, has demonstrated its worth as a sound method of improving the efficiency of dairy herds. Through artificial breeding associations, services of outstanding bulls are widened and are made available to dairymen who could not otherwise afford to own such animals.

County 4-H Clubs Have Annual Rally

4-H club members from Muenster joined other county 4-H clubbers for the annual 4-H Rally last Wednesday. Ninety-three members registered for the all-day program in the Community Center building.

The boys and girls who attended the June camp at Trinidad were leaders for a part of the day's activities. These included Billy Whitt of Muenster. The morning program featured games, a sing-song and instruction in metal art work. In the afternoon the children received lessons in square dancing and saw the presentation of four skits. A candlelighting ceremony in the evening concluded the program.

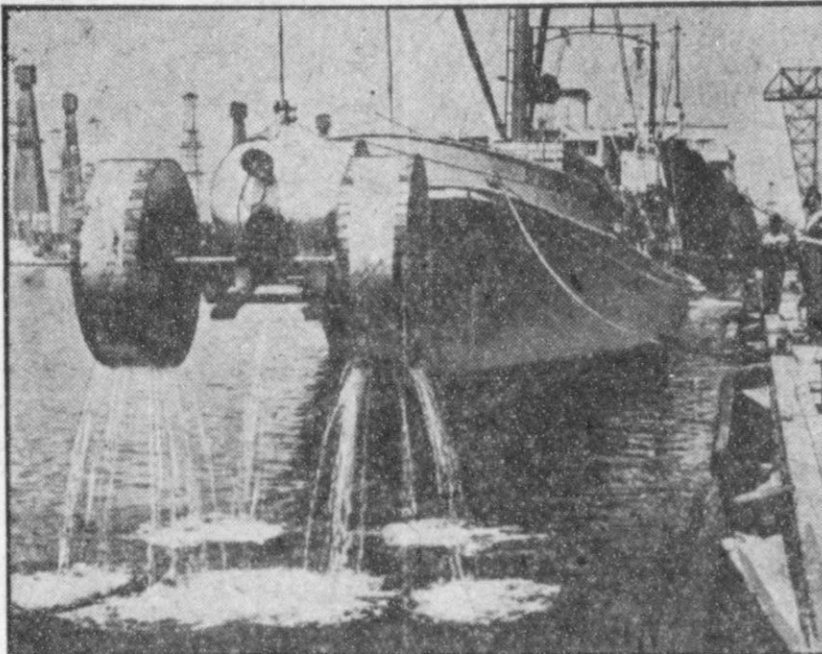

County Agents B. T. Haws and Mildred Chapman served hot dogs, doughnuts and cold drinks during the evening intermission. Those who attended brought their own food for a picnic lunch at noon.

Attending were members from Valley View, Lindsay, Era, Callisburg, Walnut Bend, Downard, Fairplains, Ross Point, Woodbine, Gainesville and Muenster.

Sister Thomasina returned to Jonesboro, Ark., Monday after being here for the funeral of her father, John Walterscheid, and visiting with her mother and family.

Barton hopes to reach depth of 300 fathoms (1800 feet).

Don't Drive Blind

AUSTIN. — Would you drive with your head tucked under the dashboard of your car?

It's as sensible to do that, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer says, as to ignore warning signs along the streets and highways. "Either one represents a case of flying blind," Greer said, "and cars aren't equipped for blind flying."

The Texas Highway Department is cooperating with the Texas Safety Association in an effort to impress the importance of traffic markers on motorists and pedestrians alike.

"Traffic signs and signals and pavement markings cover almost every situation that can be anticipated, yet the regularity with which they are ignored is appalling," Greer said. "A conscientious observance of traffic signs would help greatly to reduce traffic accidents.

Greer pointed out that traffic signs are easily recognized by their distinctive shapes, even at a distance that makes their lettering illegible. And he urged drivers to increase their own traffic protection by learning what these shapes are.

"Round markers are used to indicate approaches to railroad crossings," he said. "The familiar 'crossbuck' marks the crossing itself. Oblong signs indicate speed limits or other regulatory instructions. Diamond shaped signs warn of danger ahead. Eight-sided signs are used only for stop signs.

The Highway Engineer emphasized that every sign has a meaning and a purpose, and is installed for the protection and guidance of the people only after study by traffic engineers has established its advisability.

Mrs. M. H. King spent Monday night and Tuesday in Wichita Falls with a cousin and attended a Ford dealers accounting club meeting. Accompanying her were Mrs. R. M. Felty of Hood and Mrs. John Trew of Valley View.

They were accompanied back home by their daughters, Carol Ann and Henriette, who and visited here and at Lindsay for the past two weeks. On Sunday they were hosts for a Starlight Operetta party. A group of young people were guests for both affairs.

The Charles Schmitts and two daughters are back in Muenster to make their home after living in Washtucna, Wash., for the past five years. Until they get settled in a place of their own they're visiting with relatives. They returned to Muenster after a tour of California and other west coast states and were accompanied by Miss Joyce Parish of Spokane who is their guest for an indefinite visit. Mr. and Mrs. Alois Trubenbach and children who were on a vacation trip visited the Schmitts before they left Washtucna and accompanied them on the west coast tour.

THERE'S A BOOM IN BARN PAINTING—Painting the barn is no longer the chore it used to be. A spray-painting service in Lincoln, Ill., has developed this aerial telescopic boom which eliminates ladders and scaffolding. Now it's a one-man job.

Mmes. Lambert Bezner and Darrell Adams entertained Saturday night honoring their father, Ben Seyler, on his birthday. A family dinner preceded a card party for which Ben's cronies who play hearts joined him. After the games a birthday cake was cut and served with other refreshments. Present were Dick Cain, John Fisher, Dr. Myrick, Rudy Hellman, Otto Walterscheid, John Wier and Jimmy Lehnertz.

Mrs. T. Miller returned home Sunday from a week's visit in Fort Worth with her daughters, Mmes. Stan and Paul Yosten. Mr. Miller drove to Fort Worth Sunday to spend the day and bring his wife home.

ATTEND GRANDDAUGHTER'S WEDDING IN LONGVIEW

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Gallaher and granddaughter, Edwina Gallaher, spent the weekend in Longview and on Sunday afternoon attended the wedding of the Gallahers granddaughter, Billie Marie Badgett, to Dr. R. O. Dortch, in Emmanuel Baptist church in that city.

Little Miss Edwina Gallaher was in the wedding party serving as flower girl. Rev. Hill officiated at the double ring ceremony and the bride's parents were hosts for a reception in their home after the services.

FELDERHOFF FAMILIES HAVE REUNION HONORING GUESTS

Members of the Felderhoff families enjoyed reunion visits Saturday, Sunday and Monday, when Sisters Lutgardis, Amora and Mildred of Jonesboro, Ark., and Very Rev. Henry Felderhoff of Corsicana were here to complete the family group.

They were guests of their brothers and sisters, Messrs. and Mmes. John, Hubert and Tony Felderhoff and Mmes. Ben Sickling and Joe Felderhoff.

Tuesday the three Sisters joined Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Felderhoff on a trip to Carlsbad, N. M., to visit Carlsbad Caverns.

Correct Posture
 Is Aid to Physical And Mental Health

AUSTIN.— Correct posture in school children, and adults as well, is necessary to proper physical and mental development, says a warning from the Texas State Department of Health. "Good posture is a sign of self respect and plays an important part in winning the respect of others," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Many of the ills of childhood and the deformities of adult life have their beginning in poor posture acquired during childhood," he said, "and it is particularly important that the child's posture conform to nature's dictates. Most children are born in good physical condition and yet examination of large groups of school children show a high percent to be suffering from poor posture. Malnutrition and fatigue are productive of poor posture. These lessen the size of the chest and decrease the lung capacity. Abdominal organs may also be pushed out of natural position, which may seriously interfere with their action. These conditions must be corrected before the body is able to attain normal weight and nutritional standards."

STARS OVER CHICAGO—The "stars" in this unusual night photo of Chicago's skyline are 50,000,000 candlepower flares dropped by an Army B-17 bomber to help out the photographer. The flares, seen in the center of the sky, were fired from the plane at three-second intervals.

"School children who have poor posture are said often to average lower in attendance and in school mental and physical activities than those who have good posture. A child may be forced to hold his body in an unnatural position by a desk that is too high or too low. Desks and work tables should be just high enough to allow the feet to rest on the floor and the forearms and hands to rest upon the tops without the shoulders being hunched up.

"Begin early in life to teach your children to stand straight and sit straight for health and self-confidence, and they should grow into strong, well-built men and women."

Notes On Soil Conservation

Hugo Lutkenhaus recently developed a conservation farm plan with assistance of the Muenster Work Unit of the Soil Conservation Service. Terraces that could outlet onto permanent grass were staked off and Mr. Lutkenhaus has them built. A waterway was located and will be sodded next winter or spring. One field was in sweet clover this year and more will be planted next spring. The sweet clover will be seeded with small grain and will be used for grazing. By controlling the grazing to allow reseeding it should not need replanting very often.

Bill Lutkenhaus recently bought a farm 8 miles southwest of Muenster. He is developing a conservation farm plan and has already started construction on 3 diversion terraces that will protect his good cultivated land from outside water. Bill has located a waterway to be sodded next spring. This waterway will carry the runoff water from part of his cultivated land. Some old cultivated fields that are to be developed into pasture, will be seeded to sweet clover next spring. Sweet clover and Johnson grass should provide good grazing and good ground cover until permanent grass can be established.

A new farm pond and diversion terrace are being built by Gus Lutkenhaus, whose farm is north of Hood.

J. W. Fleitman is sloping some ditch banks and shaping a waterway on his farm east of Muenster. He plans to sod the waterway to bermuda grass next spring. Mr. Fleitman sodded about 8 acres to bermuda grass this past spring.

BABIES IN INDIA PLAY WITH COBRAS

NEW DELHI. — Babies fondle cobras and vipers instead of playthings at Molar Bund, a dusty village 15 miles from New Delhi.

Molar Bund is a village of snake charmers. There are wicker baskets of assorted reptiles in every family hut, and every male is taught the art of charming almost as soon as he can walk.

When a boy is old enough and skillful enough, he is sent away with a bag of snakes and musical instruments to earn a living in the cities. Only the failures and the women stay behind.

There is more to snake charming than blowing a flute. Among other things, a Molar Bund apprentice must learn how to catch a snake in the field, how to keep him happy in captivity and how to mix a quick antidote for bites.

He also must know to extract venom. Contrary to popular belief, snake charmers seldom put on a show with deadly reptiles. It would be too risky.

"Bite people," the heard charmer of Molar Bund (now retired) explained to a visitor.

The head charmer, an old man with dots of gold inlaid in his teeth, got out a round basket to demonstrate how the job was done. He stripped off a wrapping of damp rags and lifted the cover. Coiled inside was a five foot cobra, greenish gray on top with creamy underneath. It had been trapped the day before.

As its head swayed up and out of the basket, the old man grasped it with a thumb and forefinger just behind the eyes, with a tiny knife he made a deft cut near the inner angle of the jaw and scooped out a pale sac about the size of a pea. The snake hissed.

"Bad poison," the old man said.

A circle of teen-aged apprentices sat on the ground playing fat gourd flutes and drums built of wood and rubber inner-tubes. They wore dirty turbans of brilliant colors and their ears were pierced with ivory rings.

Nearby, in the shadow of a hut, a dozen or more snakes were feeding. Some of them lay half submerged in huge flat pans that contained a thin mixture of milk, water and some kid of meal. Two boys kept an eye on them.

There were cobras, vipers and one snake as fat as a man's biceps which looked like a python. Not more than 10 feet away, a naked fly-tormented baby sat crying in the mud doorway of the hut.

The head charmer gathered the big snake as fat as a man's biceps, around his shoulders, walked to the hut and folded the great coils around the infant's knees and stomach.

"Waaaa," screamed the baby, louder than before.

The snake's head swayed up inquisitively, flicking a dark tongue at the infant's mouth. Fascinated, the baby stared. Then he patted the heavy coils with tiny fists—and grinned.

"Snake good," said the head charmer.

Confetti - - -

at Our Lady of Light Chapel. Both were most interesting.

San Miguel's is an abode church with walls 5 feet thick. Some say it was built in 1541, some place the date as late as 1607, and there are records to show it was used as a parish church in 1629. About all that is left of the original structure now is the walls. Ravages of weather, age and Indians have made other repairs necessary. The original roof was burned by Indians in 1680. The original tower fell in 1872. Beams, plaster and floors have been replaced or repaired, as the need arose. The principal beam now remaining, is oak with a carved inscription dated 1710. Other distinguishing features are very old paintings, carved wood statues and a bell cast and hammered in Spain in 1356. It weighs 780 pounds, is made of copper, silver, iron and gold and has 5 distinct notes.

The miraculous spiral staircase of Our Lady of Light chapel in the Sisters of Loretta convent has two distinct claims to fame. Its construction baffles the best engineering minds of our time and its origin is mysterious. It became world famous through the "Believe It or Not" feature of the late Robert Ripley.

The fascinating legend connected with the staircase is that by an architectural fluke no provision had been made for a staircase when the chapel was built in 1873-78. After a balcony was already in place the staircase could not be built without blocking doors or obliterating beautiful stained glass windows. So the sisters prayed to Saint Joseph, carpenter and patron saint of builders, to help them through their dilemma. Some time later an old, unknown carpenter came to the convent, offered his services and erected the stairway. But when the Sister Superior wished to pay him he was gone.

The mystery is that none of the persons who saw him at work, including his three helpers, had ever seen or heard of him before or since. Furthermore no business house in Santa Fe had any record of selling the material which he provided for the stairway. Many believe that Saint Joseph answered the sisters' prayers in person.

Equally amazing is the testimony of architects and engineers. They say it defies all known laws of engineering and cannot understand how the structure possibly stands. It's a winding stairway, with out a center supporting beam. Its only support is the bottom step on the floor and the connection of the top step with the balcony. Engineers say it should crumble under its own weight but it supports a procession of people marching up its 33 steps. The material is oak throughout and put together with oak pegs. Not a nail or screw in the entire job.
