CAMP YOUNG, SUNDAY, AUG. 23—In a way this Sunday ought to be considered as a day and a half. It happens to be taken up by a week-end pass that began Saturday noon. And what a wonderful diversion from the routine of army life! Especially, life in the desert!

A person rides through quite a contrast in scenery going from here to Yucaipa, which happens to be situated in just the kind of scenery California people like to brag about. The town is nestled in a beautiful irrigated valley only a few miles off the road from here to Los Angeles, about midway. I was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Len Morris (Aunt Libby to me—and an intimate acquaintance to lots of others in the old home town.) They live on one of these California ranches, which is considerably less than a farm back home. It would take several dozen of 'em to occupy the acreage of a small Texas ranch.

But when it comes to vegetation, that's something else. Looking over one of these mid-gate ranches a person is inclined to wonder whether it doesn't grow almost as much as our more expansive ranch.

The long suit on the Morris place is fruit, principally peaches and plums. Row after row of trees with few of them able to hold their loads. Limbs have to be propped up to keep from breaking. This is about the middle of the peach season. Early varieties are cleared out, late varieties are due soon, and others are just right. Those, principally, are the ones I saw. Hales and Elbertas, larger than baseballs and bright as a rainbow. Plums, big purple beauties, have all their color but aren't quite ready for the crates.

Fruit isn't all that does well. Vegetables, flowers, shrubbery and shade trees grow profusely in that seemingly bottomless rich loam. As far down as roots will reach they can assimilate their fill of plant food.

On the road between here and there a person can see quite a number of such garden spots, places that have been magically transformed by moisture. It all makes a person wonder about the potential productivity of the thousands of square miles of waste land in the southwestern corner of the nation. Apparently our population can grow a great deal before we have to worry about food.

Something completely new to me was the date palm. The date around India—what has been reclaimed by irrigation—has groves and groves of them. Of greater interest to me was the peculiar way in which the fruit grows. A tree has several large clusters, each probably weighing eight or ten pounds and all just at the lowest fringe of foliage. Harvesting those things appears to be a cinch. A bucket-full of fruit at one clip. Sometimes the clusters are almost touching the ground, sometimes they are as high as 15 or 20 feet. I assumed that the difference in the age of the tree accounts for the variation.

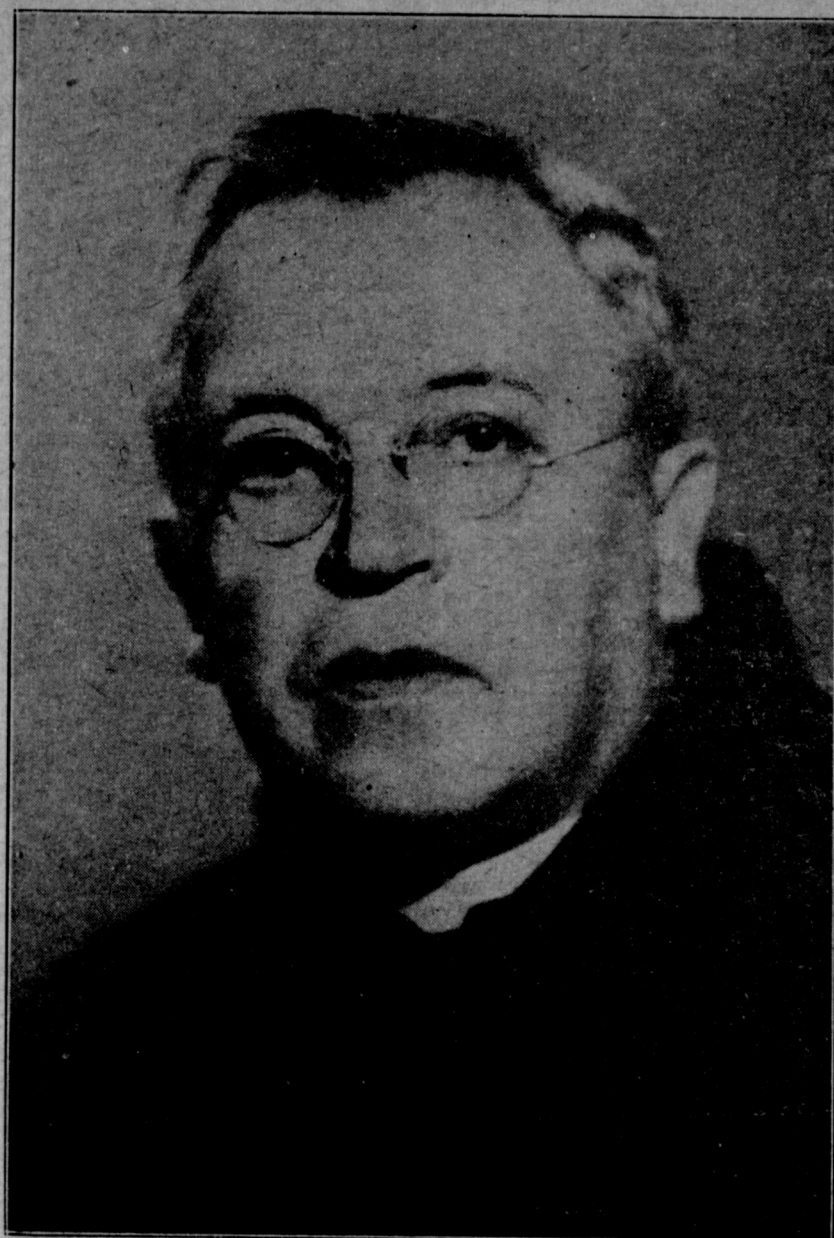

Returning to camp Sunday proved to be a revival of my hitch-hiking experience. In accordance with the old system, I stood at the roadside intending to take a bus unless some big-hearted motorist picked me up first. You know, hope for a lift, but depend on the bus as a last resort. But this time the system back fired. Within a few minutes two buses passed me like a freight train passes a tramp. They were loaded. Nothing left to depend on but luck—which was equal to the emergency.

People out here are fairly generous with their rides. Nevertheless, there are still a large percentage of tight-wads. People breezing along with plenty of room but not willing to help the stranded soldier. I was wondering how they can have the nerve to do it. Enjoying homes, cars, good jobs and all that, but lacking the decency to do so little for the men who are taking the knocks for them and fighting their battle, especially since most of them know how a soldier is handicapped for transportation.

On the other hand, there are exceptions. (Continued on page 4)

Pastor of Sacred Heart Parish 1918-1942

Rev. Father Frowin's 24-Year Career As Local Pastor Ends

Farewell Sermon To Parishioners Is Read Here Sunday

Rev. Frowin Koerd, O. S. B., pastor of Sacred Heart church here for the past twenty-four years has informed his parishioners that he will not return to Muenster. During the past several weeks he has been in Arkansas and Missouri for his health and word of his not returning reached this parish during the weekend. On Sunday at all services his farewell sermon to his parishioners was read.

Father Frowin suffered a hemorrhage in his left eye in May which has resulted in near blindness. His right eye had been affected since childhood. He can no longer undertake the strenuous duties connected with the Muenster parish and it was with a feeling of deep regret and loss that parishioners heard his parting salutation.

Volumes could be written on the work and improvements that have taken place during his pastorate here, for both the spiritual and material good of the parish. Most persons are familiar with Father Frowin's achievements during his stay in Muenster. The beautiful parochial school stands as his memorial.

His words of farewell, as read at services Sunday, follow: In the Sacred Heart of Jesus Beloved Friends!

Dear Parishioners! You all know that during my twenty-four years' stay with you I have always tried to strengthen your faith, confirm your hope, and advance you in the love of God, your Creator, that in fulfilling His Commandments you may make sure your salvation, for "he who loves me, keeps my Commandments," says Christ.

Now, since God has given me an unmistakable sign, that my portion of the work among you is done, and another leader will guide you on your road to heaven, I feel like Moses before his departure as leader of the Israelites to leave you a resume of my teachings. I would like to imprint on your minds the greatest of all Commandments, which is so much forgotten in our days. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole soul, with thy whole mind, and with thy whole strength." If all the world turn away from God, do you love Him steadfastly and cling to Him.

Never forget the promises made in holy Baptism and so solemnly renewed on your first holy Communion-day to renounce Satan, his works and his pomps and be faithful to Christ and His Church. Make true in your daily life what you promised before the Altar of the Living God. Your life passes quickly, and the hour of judgement no one will escape. This is no fairy story—but actual truth—see that you stand at the right of the Judge on that day and not be cast away as an unprofitable servant who would not follow his Master into everlasting joy.

Bring up your children in the fear and love of the Lord. Teach them what they must know to go to heaven. Don't follow the modern educational ways by which they are taught every thing except what they ought to know to save their immortal souls. "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his immortal soul," says Christ, and He knew what He was saying and did not exaggerate. The loss of the soul is the greatest calamity that can befall a human being—and a child must know how to avoid it.

Keep up your Catholic School as you have done so far. The faith is worth more than the inheritance of a paltry sum of money. Look out for eternity—long everlasting eternity. Your children are a sacred trust to you from God, do unto them what is right before God and your soul. To rear children is a great responsibility and a most sacred duty, see that you fulfill it; soul for soul you will have to answer before the Lord. It is here, I would like to plead for the preservation of the innocence of the child. There are some who either out of levity or total lack of a sense of responsibility scandalize children and lead them astray. The child is placed at the cross-way of life and does not know what is for his best, but takes up what it sees and hears from elders. Respect the child's dignity, pity its helplessness—guard its innocence and lead it right. "Woe to him" our Lord says, "who scandalizes one of these little ones"; it would be better for that man, if a millstone be hung to his neck, and he be drowned in the depth of the sea.

Again, I say, our Lord knew what He said and did not exaggerate; be afraid to do evil before a child—for his angel acts as avenger.

And now—your children—forget not the fourth Commandment. Honor and love your parents that God may bless you, and all go well with you. Obey your parents, help them, cherish them; for they represent God in your behalf.

Young men be honorable in all your conduct; wherever you are the eyes of God rest upon you. Be valiant and stand the man if called to defend the country. You young women be modest and virtuous and remember that men stand or fall according to the standard you set them. The virtuous women uphold the land. Woman is that secret influence for goodness and happiness of the

Sister M. Bertha Leaves Muenster After 30 Years

Sister M. Bertha, beloved second grade teacher in the Sacred Heart school for the past thirty years, will not be at her usual place in the class room when school opens next Monday. She leaves Muenster early next week and will teach in Stuttgart, Arkansas, at Holy Rosary school this term.

During her stay in this parish Sister Bertha has endeared herself to the entire congregation and is well known throughout Cooke and Montague counties.

For thirty years she instructed the tiny tots of this parish for the reception of their First Communion and for many years conducted catechism classes during the summer at Montague.

It is with deep regret and the feeling of losing one of the mainstays of the parish that members of the congregation bid her farewell.

She, who had taken the vow of poverty forever for herself, begged industriously on the streets of Muenster—and nobody questioned for a moment her right to do it. She is loved by Catholics and Protestants alike, and by persons who aren't particularly strong on any faith. Some of the toughest sinners in town would shell out generous contributions to Sister Bertha. She stopped folks on the street, came into their offices and halted them coming and going, to ask alms for the school fund, the church fund, or any other fund that needed money.

The years have not been bleak for her. Instead they have been full of love and labor and worship. She has been happy, she had nothing to worry about, she had nothing of the world's wealth to lose and invested everything in the good of the next world, which nobody can take from her.

Today there is joy in knowing that her work has been well done and tomorrow there will be new blessings poured out on her and on those with whom she comes into contact.

Sister Bertha this week thanked all Muenster residents and all persons who have helped her in the past with their cooperation and donations to causes for which she collected. She again expressed her heartfelt thanks to all those who made possible her trip to Europe four years ago, and concluded that no matter where she is, she will always think of the Muenster people and remember them in her prayers.

30,000 POUNDS OF SCRAP COLLECTED FIRST THREE DAYS

Muenster's scrap harvest campaign got off to a flying start with 30,000 pounds weighed in at the collection point by J. P. Flusche during the first three days of the drive, and more coming in during the following days.

Salvage Committee Chairman Ben Seyler reports that farmers and oil men are working splendidly looking for scrap and urges that they get their collection in as soon as possible to swell the total and make possible the shipment of a carload this weekend.

Persons who have not yet done so are urged to collect their scrap and carry it to the local junk yard where J. P. Flusche is present to weigh it and pay for it on the spot. Anyone who wishes to donate scrap can do so and Mr. Flusche will take charge of the money, turning it over to Red Cross or any other charity, should one be designated by the donor.

Red Cross Knitters Finish 14 Garments

Local Red Cross knitters were again praised this week when Mrs. G. H. Hellman, chairman, turned in fourteen completed garments, sweaters and mufflers, to the county sewing room. At the same time she received another assignment of wool for knitting and a bolt of woolen material from which skirts will be cut and distributed for finishing in the near future.

Mrs. Hellman also reported that more than a dozen sweaters and mufflers are being made at the present time by the local women and that she has wool for more garments in case anyone is interested in knitting.

Precautions For Safety Of Water Supply Are Given

Program Presented At Waterworks Meeting At Gainesville

"Protection and Maintenance of Public Water Supply Under War Conditions" headlined the topics discussed at the meeting of the North Texas Waterworks and Sewage Association in Gainesville last Tuesday.

Mayor Ben Seyler, president of the association, presided during the meeting and representatives from Denton, Celina, Nocona, Gainesville and Muenster attended the meeting.

Gainesville City Manager Ross P. Reagan was the principal speaker. He listed precautions which should be taken to provide safety for the home water supply stating that an "air raid may cause damage to waterworks distribution mains, the intricate network of piping which carries safe drinking water into the home. In this emergency when the water fails to flow from the tap, what you do may affect the health, comfort and property of each citizen." He listed the following ten precautions to heed:

1. Keep available at least one quart bottle filled with drinking water for each person in the house. Reason: Water service may be interrupted and may not be immediately restored.
2. Always turn water faucets off everywhere in the house when water service has failed. Reason: When water comes on, you may have forgotten about that open faucet upstairs. Water will be wasted, damage may result from (Continued on Page 2)

"ALL SET" FOR GALA LABOR DAY PICNIC, DANCE

Plans are complete and parish societies are "ready to start" the gala Labor Day party at the parish hall. The affair is scheduled to begin at noon and there will be a plentiful supply of hamburgers, barbecue sandwiches, cold drinks, ice cream, home-made candy, etc., to satisfy even the most fastidious appetite.

During the afternoon, and continuing through the evening hours, there will be fun and entertainment for young and old, including softball games, contests, races, horseshoe pitching for championship, novelty games, tango, a country store, hall of wonders and a fortune telling booth.

A concert by the Youth Band, under the direction of Rev. Father Richard, will be given from 8 to 9 after which the dance will be on the main floor while other attractions continue in the basement. During the dance, cake walks will be featured.

Everybody is invited to attend and have a good time of fun and fellowship. Rev. Richard Ewald is general chairman in charge of arrangements and is assisted by presidents of the parish society and members of these organizations. Proceeds, it has been announced, will be for remodeling the parish hall kitchen.

S.H.H. Alumni to Meet

The Sacred Heart High School Alumni will have a meeting next Wednesday, Sept. 9, it has been announced. Members are urged to attend, as a social affair is to be planned and other important business discussed. The session is scheduled for 9 p.m. in the high school building.

Sacred Heart School Opens Monday, 7th

Registration to Take Place In the Morning; Classes Begin Tuesday

Next Monday, September 7, will find Sacred Heart School opening its doors for another scholastic year. Decision regarding the date was announced Sunday. Classes proper will begin on Tuesday, but registration will take place on Monday morning.

The public school will begin classes the following Monday, September 14, Herbert Meurer, head of the school board advised this week.

Enrollment at Sacred Heart School is expected to be substantially the same as last year, around the 300 mark. Thirteen Benedictine Sisters from the Jonesboro, Ark., convent will be connected with the system. Eight are elementary grade teachers, three high school instructors, one music teacher and one housekeeper.

This year finds several changes in the teaching personnel. Five Sisters come to Muenster for the first time, one after the absence of a year. For the first time in thirty years Sister Bertha will not be on hand to greet second graders, and Sister Anastasia, for the first time in 34 years will not be in charge of the tiny tots of the first grade.

Sister Genevieve, a newcomer to this city, will teach the first grade and Sister Anastasia will be second grade teacher. Sisters Ursula and Gertrude, in Muenster for the first time, will teach the fourth and sixth grades, respectively. Sisters Gebharda and Charles, will be back as third and fifth grade teachers, and Sister Lucia, as eighth grade instructor and principal of the grade school has the same position she has held for the past several terms. Sister Ignatia is back after a year's absence to teach the seventh grade.

The only high school instructor returning for this term is Sister Geraldine. Sister Paula and Sister Geraldine are newcomers on the staff. Sister Leonarda is back as music teacher and Sister Irma as housekeeper. Sister Anastasia has been named general superior.

Teachers not returning this year are Sister Angelina who has gone to Paragould, Ark., to teach the 7 and 8 grades; Sister Agnes, assigned to Weiner, Ark.; Sister Theresina, at Jonesboro Academy; Sister Frances, Little Rock, Ark.; Sister Jane Frances, Pochontas, Ark.; Sister Anna, Engelberg, Ark.; and Sister Bertha, Stuttgart, Ark. Registration of pupils is expected to be completed by noon Monday and school will be dismissed so that students may attend the parish Labor Day picnic in the afternoon.

WILL A. MEDLEN JOINS STAFF OF THE BOWIE NEWS

Will A. Medlen, linotype operator for the Muenster Enterprise since last October, left during the weekend to accept employment with the Bowie News. For his sake the rest of us are happy to see him move beyond the limited possibilities that a small institution such as this can offer. So instead of begrudging his departure, the rest of us are thankful that he was permitted to stay as long as he did. Mr. Medlen has a wealth of experience as printer and publisher, having been associated with weekly papers for more than thirty years.

His departure leaves the Enterprise in a rather strained position, as another operator was not immediately available. Our big-hearted neighbor, Earnest Hayley at Saint Jo, is helping us through this week's issue by setting type for the paper. For his sake (because he's already a busy man without our copy) and for our own, we hope to announce next week that we have a new operator. But the Enterprise will be in the mails each Thursday night, as usual, regardless.

Before leaving Mr. Medlen asked that his best wishes be conveyed to all our readers and to all Muenster citizens. He stated that he enjoyed being here and that his association and business dealings with local persons were most pleasant.

Rupert Wernet was here Friday to visit his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bernauer and friends. He was inducted in the army on September 1 and is stationed at Camp Wolters. Formerly bookkeeper for Flusche Bros. here, he moved with them to Decatur several years ago. His mother lives in Waco.

Mrs. Gus Sicking has gone to Foss, Okla., to visit with her brother, Joe Files and wife.

family as well as the nation. If women deteriorate the nations are perverted. I have washed you all in the Baptismal water and made you heirs of heaven—see it now that the gate to everlasting joy be not closed on you, because of a frivolous life. "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth" the Good Book says; Keep troth to your God then you will persevere on the road of virtue till old age. Young people—in taking a life's partner, remember my advice—take one of your faith. "Where there is no unity of faith, there is no unity of heart."

And now, beloved Friends—accept a word of thanks for helping me along all these years by your cooperation: Without this many good things that have been accomplished would not have been done. I deeply appreciate your good will and thank you all, each and every one, including my faithful Assistant, Father Richard, and also the good Sisters for all you have done for me.
I have always cherished the fond hope to be able to erect a worthy temple to the Living God in your midst. But this seems not to be God's will. Like David of old I was allowed to collect material for it—the temple—another will erect. God's will be done! I beg you to keep this project in mind and work for it. The Lord will surely not forget to bless you.

And now farewell. I place you all into the Sacred Heart of Jesus and commend you to the protection of the Blessed Mother and dear Saint Joseph.

I bless each and every one of you and hope that all of us will some day meet in the home of God above the stars to enjoy everlasting happiness.

flooding and water pressure may be lowered over the city.
3. Do not fill bath tubs with water following air raid alarms or during air raids. Reason: Such action if taken simultaneously in many homes will seriously reduce water pressure in the mains and limit the volume of water. This would result in a dangerous lack of water for fire fighting purposes.
4. Leave valves alone. Reason: Trained men will shut off all necessary valves.
5. Remember that the water department knows the service is off in your area. Your telephone report is not necessary. Reason: The air raid warden will promptly report troubles in his area. Telephones are needed for important official calls.
6. Discontinue immediately use of flush toilet when water service goes off. Following the directions of the health department: Reason: Body wastes will accumulate in the bowl and the small volume of water stored in the home is insufficient to continue flushing.
7. Protect your health by boiling the drinking and cooking water if the health department so advises. Reason: Disruption of water mains by bombing may draw sewage from sewers or house plumbing into the water main. It is advisable to boil all drinking and cooking water for five minutes during the first 24 hours after water service is restored.

REA CONTINUES TO MAKE PAYMENTS IN ADVANCE DATE DUE

Continued improvement in the financial affairs of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association, Muester, was reported today by Manager R. L. McNeley, who said that the Cooperative in the last three months had made three payments on its Rural Electrification Administration loans in advance of the due date.

The Cooperative made prepayments totaling $5,000.00 during the May-July period, in addition to the regular principal and interest due on its loans. These prepayments raised the total of all advance payments credited to the system on August 1 to $29,000. A total of 110 REA-financed distribution systems made prepayments amounting to $624,306 during July.

The prepayments made by the Cooke County Cooperative are in line with the Treasury Department's policy of encouraging the reduction of private debt to prevent inflation, Mr. McNeley said. The Cooperative recently received a letter from REA Administrator Harry Slattery, pointing out that by making payments on their loans ahead of the date due REA Cooperatives are strengthening their credit position for post-war expansion, contributing to the financing of the war, and speeding the day when Cooperative members will enjoy the full ownership of their systems.

REA has loaned the Cooke County Cooperative $266,292 which has enabled it to finance 392 miles of line serving 938 rural consumers in Cooke, Montague and Denton counties.

NO RESTRICTIONS ON CHRISTMAS PARCELS BUT — MAIL EARLY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Merchandise from the ODT! Despite the transportation problem, there won't be any government restrictions on Christmas cards.

That was the answer of the Office of Defense Transportation yesterday when government agencies were asked whether carloads of Christmas mail still would be permitted to roll across the country as in the days when munitions and airplane parts weren't competing for space.
The Postoffice department said it hadn't thought about the matter yet, but ODT already had delved into the problem and come up with the answer given above.

The bundles for soldiers and kin-folk will move mainly in boxcars, ODT said, and it appears there will be "a comfortable supply" of such cars even though "open-top" cars, like coal cars and flat cars, are in direct need. Christmas cards travel in railway express cars, also plentiful enough.

ODT's loading regulations have conserved much boxcar space and these will be cinched up again on Sept. 10 when no car may carry less than ten tons of package freight. Last year the average load for this type of cargo was five tons.

Neither will there be undue delay in handling the mail, ODT predicted. This results from the order requiring railroads to divert shipments to other carriers if they cannot handle them within 24 hours. But just one reminder—the War department last Saturday advised early mailing of those all-important bundles for the fighting men overseas.

October 1st was mentioned as an appropriate date for mailing packages to service men overseas, and the latest date for such mailing has been set as November 1st, it was announced.

"Occasionally; but usually her aim is perfect."

MARKETING CARDS TO BE MAILED TO COTTON GROWERS

Cotton marketing quotas being in force and effect during the forthcoming season, the sale of all cotton will be by use of marketing cards, such as have been used in former years. Luther F. Woodridge, secretary of the county ACA, has announced. Farms coming under the heading of "compliance" farms, or farms planting within their allotments, will receive penalty free "white" marketing cards, and those over-planted will market their cotton by use of excess or "red" marketing cards.

This year, in order to save wear and tear on cars and tires, the Cooke County A.C.A. office will forward all "white" marketing cards to cotton producers by mail in time to use in marketing cotton. The A.C.A. office is making preparations to mail these cards to compliance producers within the next few days.

Producers having to use the "red" marketing cards will call at the office to complete receipt of this type of card.

Also, this association has received written information from the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission that Elm Creek, above Gainesville, is not a state stream, and any person entering this area to hunt or fish will be prosecuted according to the state laws.

LINDSAY GIRL RATES PICTURE, WRITEUP IN LOS ANGELES PAPER

Lindsay residents will be interested in knowing that one of their home town girls had her picture in the Los Angeles Daily Times of August 21 and received a nice write-up in that paper.

The article concerns Mrs. Ed Corcoran, the former Miss Cecilia Bezner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bezner. With the assistance of two neighbors, Mrs. Corcoran contributed her part in the national scrap drive.

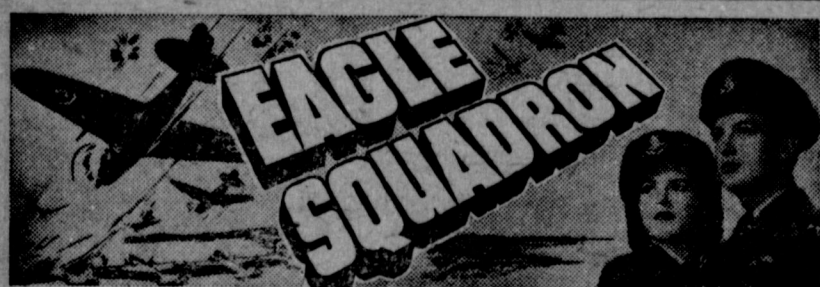

For years, so the story goes, an old abandoned automobile had been gathering dust near her home, wedged between fences. It could not be removed intact to join Uncle Sam's scrap heap, so the three neighbors went to work with hammers and wrecking bars. The picture shows them busily engaged in dismembering the old auto. The precious metal was given to the salvage campaign.

Mr. Corcoran is employed at Consolidated Steel corporation and during the weekend of Aug. 21-23, Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran had as He literally cleared the road of soldiers, picking them up, two, or three at a time and letting them off the same way. Regular street car service. At one time he had 27 men squeezed into the truck's small gravel bed. One of the fellows was saying that another trucker had done the same thing the preceding Sunday. If there were more like them this would be a lot better world.

aftermath to a dandy week-end. On returning I discovered that my turn had come for K. P. duty—and brother, out here that's something, since they've started dishing it out in doses of a full week. They figure it all comes out about right in the long run, and this way we don't have the confusion of frequent changes of duty.

But that week is an ordeal. Not only an unpleasant job, but every day is a full day with very few breaks, and lasts until about 8. Then, after the shave and shower, there's practically no time left. No shows, reading, writing or otherwise. (That's the reason this is being written Thursday night instead of Monday. More of that later. Here I content myself with saying that I was very afraid this would be late.)

At last we have the straight dope on our participation in maneuvers. We won't go. That after lots of rumors and one definite report that we were to pull out Tuesday. Just the same, I'm not accepting this latest decision as final.

TUESDAY, Aug. 25—As for my own activity, there was plenty, but it can be summed up in very few words. A continuation of K. P. Already developing dish-water hands and sour disposition.

Quite an eventful day in other respects though. Arnold Schilling popped in for a surprise visit. He's been in camp for a couple of weeks, attached to the station hospital. Looking fine and gripping as profusely as any of us. We had a dandy visit even though he had to just hang around while I carried on. Our meeting really was an epochal event, timed, by accident of course, to coincide with an eclipse, which, incidentally, was a beauty from this viewpoint.

Also, the day was marked by the arrival of a few hundred rookies for the battalion, 103 of them for our Company. That fills out the battalion. In other words we can expect to be going places not so long after those men have completed their basic training—about two months. How I feel for those guys! Direct from the induction center at Fort Dix, New Jersey. All are from that vicinity.

We can expect this combination of training and climate to thin their ranks considerably for the first several days. This heat is peculiar. New comers seem to feel the full impact of it, whereas we old timers are quite comfortable. Today, for instance, the rookies were going strong for water while we were doing all right. The temperature was somewhere near 120. Some of them were worried about the nights, but they ran into a real surprise.

Lately we've had fall weather every evening after sun-down. Not cool, but cold. It chills a guy to the bone. Not content with one blanket, many of us have been spreading the heavy G I overcoat on the bed. A few have gone a step farther and slept with their clothes on. Strikes me as a good idea. Believe I'll try it one of these evenings.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 26—Lots of work but not a thing worth mentioning.

THURSDAY, Aug. 27—Maybe this is a big day in my military career. This afternoon, while in the middle of the kitchen montony, I was told to report and try my hand at the job of company clerk. I have an idea that I am going to like it. Not only more interesting—because a person gets to learn things about the administration end of the army—but it also has some responsibility attached to it. Consists principally in keeping records and making out reports. Hours henceforth will be longer but less strenuous. However, there will be slack periods that can be spent at reading or writing. Another advantage, a desk on which to write personal letters.

FRIDAY, Aug. 28—First day at the new post was mostly a beginning of getting acquainted with new duties and banging the typewriter. Back in line it seemed to me that the men at Company headquarters had little more to do than prod along. Now I know better.

They have a check and double check in everything, and reports on most of it have to be passed on to a higher authority every day. This is the beginning of a system that goes up and up until it finally reaches the general's desk. That's how the War Department always knows what is going on in all units of the service.

Since starting this I've been wishing that I had not neglected my typing practice quite so much the past few years. This job would really be a breeze for anyone who can show speed on the typewriter. Maybe this will prove to be one of the army experiences that will be useful after the duration. There have been many times the past several years when I wished I could save writing time.

SATURDAY, Aug. 29—In general, a typical Saturday, beginning with calisthenics and the mile run, inspection, etc., and off at noon. However, the Company Clerk's work is heavier than usual on this day, so there was nothing to do but carry on a few hours longer.

Just as I guessed. Another report about maneuvers. Now they say we're going, definitely—the whole battalion, rookies and all. And you should hear the tales they tell about the country we're going into. Temperature 140 with other conditions to match. By the time this appears in print I'll be starting to sweat through it.

We are in position to vaccinate your chickens for chicken pox, don't fail to do this. Now is the time or you will not get eggs this fall.
