

MUENSTER ENTERPRISE

VOLUME VI

MUENSTER, TEX., COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1941

One of these days alert filling station operators will begin inviting ponies around for a wash job — if they can take a hint from the fellow who gave his mount a bath 4n front of a main drag station. As popular as horseback riding is nowadays, this definitely is an opportunity to create extra business.

Cowboys have insisted all along that automobiles would never replace horses. For a while we had our doubts, but now that horses have become service station customers — even though this horseman had to provide his own service — we'll admit they're still in the running.

Can't you just imagine yourself loping up to a station and the attendant rushing out with a curry comb? With a few deft strokes he yanks out the most conspicuous knots in Dobbin's mane. Then he'll tug at the belly band to see that it's tight enough to hold the saddle and yourself on top, and turn his attention to the metal trimmings on your saddle. While pretending to buff 'em up a bit he notices a squeak or two. "How about a grease job?" The horse had been romping around in the mud, so, of course, it needs a wash job too. And with shoes like the nag is wearing he'll begin limping any day. "Better get a new set of shoes or you'll have to start walking."

And that's only the beginning. There are possibilities of overhaul jobs on saddles and bridles, another nice profit on the replacement parts to say nothing of accessories that a glib salesman could talk off on the customer. And how about a dealership for new and used saddles, a line of remedies for distemper, gall, bloating and whatever else ails a horse? Then there's an opening for horse trading to fit right in with the used car business. All these opportunities stare garage men in the face, and they don't even come out front while a would-be customer washes his own horse!

While pondering over these horse ideas Con keeps thinking about the unfortunate error in this paper's report on an equestrienne's plight last week. It was grossly understated. This wasn't an ordinary event like being pitched off. Our fair bronc buster was stepple-chasing, and her obstacle was a low fence. At jumping the right hind horse changed his mind, and she took off, clearing the fence with plenty to spare and landing in a nettle bush — just like Bette Davis once landed on a cactus. It wasn't fright that induced her to lead the horse home. Under the circumstances walking was more comfortable than riding.

This is one of the times Confetti regrets that it reaches only a limited number of readers. The nation heard of Bette's troubles, and she received nation-wide sympathy. But this heroine seems destined "to blush unseen" — and suffer uncomforted.

When a boy in khaki gets a distress message Uncle Sam really goes the limit in accommodation and service. In camp at Houston "Doc" Hellman went to the CO with the message of his brother's fatal accident. Of course he could have the leave, and a special plane for the trip home besides. Two and half hours after taking off the trainer ship circled town a couple of times then headed for Gainesville. Charlie Hellman understood and drove to the airport. The pilot returned to Houston.

Doc is first sergeant now. Looks fine, doing fine for both himself and Uncle Sam. It was pleasant to see him but regrettable that the tragedy was the cause of his visit.

Doc must have been absent minded coming in with that plane. Otherwise why didn't he direct the pilot to the Muenster Flying club's field which he remembers quite well as the place where he used to drive up the cows and hunt jackrabbits.

Muenster Sets New Record In Red Cross Roll

Total Contributions of Community is $166-80; Quota Was Set at $120

Muenster not only topped its Red Cross roll call quota by a substantial margin this year but also marked up a new record for the community.

At the close of the campaign Monday, December 1, Mrs. G. H. Hellman, local representative of the organization, disclosed that Muenster had contributed $166.80. Of that amount $154.55 was contributed in the roll call and $2.25 by school children of the Junior Red Cross. It was pointed out however that 50 cents of each membership donation, $1 or more, and 50 per cent of all contributions under $1 will be submitted to the national chapter. Fifty Years Ago—Storm Demolishes First Church Here

The following item appeared November 28 in the Dallas News under the heading "Fifty Years Ago Today":

"Gainesville.—The new Catholic church at Muenster, which was in course of construction, was blown down and completely demolished. The church would have been a handsome and costly one, equaling any church building in North Texas. The work of rebuilding began today."

Old timers of this community will recall the incident, and the heartbreak it brought them. For almost two years the limited number of pioneers had no church, then, at a tremendous sacrifice they were nearing completion of a $6,000 building—to them an edifice. Then the storm completely demolishing the object of their labor and sacrifice.

At night, when the garage is not open, Hugh Lee Tuzigle will have it at his home, ready to answer calls.

Raymond Hellman Fatally Injured In Truck-Auto Crash

Dies Shortly After Arrival At Hospital; Three Other Persons Slightly Injured

'Peace In Muenster' Is Title Of Painting By Famous Artist

"Peace — In Muenster, Texas" is the title given by A. B. Jeffreys, Tyler artist, to an exquisite oil painting of a harvest scene in this community. It presents a field of grain shocks in the evening with four prominent landmarks of the city, the church, parish hall, parochial school and water tower, in the background, rising above a fringe of trees.

With its soft blend of colors in the tranquil scene the picture is suggestive of the title and is effectively identified by the landmarks, however a person familiar with this area quickly notices a discrepancy. Obviously the field is that in the northeast corner of town, but there should be no trees to fringe the horizon, nor, from that direction, should the water tower appear to the right of the buildings.

"Artist's License" is the reason the man gave for assuming the privilege of changing the landscape. Artistic balance was achieved by the re-arrangement, he explained. The result is a glamorized version of an ordinary scene, considerably more colorful than the real thing.

FMA PLANT OPENS CHRISTMAS TURKEY MARKET THURSDAY

The annual Christmas turkey packing program is again under way at the Farmers Marketing Association. The market opened Thursday morning, December 4 and picking started about noon.

As usual the project is being handled cooperatively by the FMA and Wilson and Company of Oklahoma City. FMA furnishes equipment and the packing company has charge of the program.

Responding to a request sent out early this week, FMA members started the program off with a bang. The majority of them brought in their birds the first day to permit the packers ample time to dispose of them before birds begin crowding in.

FAST EXTENSION OF VOTH POOL MAY BE SHOWN BY NEW TEST

Another test for the South Muenster area is about to get started. Wednesday Whitfield and Grimes were nearing completion on installation of a rig on C. J. Fette's land adjoining G. H. Hellman. The location is slightly more than half a mile east of Voth production.

In the Linn area there are reports that several operators will drill after the first of the year for a deeper sand recently found at 1750 by Ray Bourland while drilling a deep test on C. J. Fette's.

Two recent additions to the TCU-Linn pool are the Dodson and Iglehart No. 1-B and No. 2-B Linn wells, both good producers. J. G. Richards and Son are reported making steady progress in developing the Felderhoff Estate lease a mile north of Muenster. They are drilling No. 3 after finding good production from shallow sand on Numbers 1 and 2.

Peace In Muenster Is Title Of Painting By Famous Artist

Raymond Hellman, 33 Muenster city secretary and barber, died about 2 o'clock Friday morning in a Gainesville hospital some 40 minutes after the car he was driving collided with a loaded truck on Highway 82 two miles east of Muenster.

Three other persons involved in the accident escaped with minor injuries. Miss Marie Geray, Hellman's companion, miraculously escaped from the torn and battered 1937 coupe with only a few scratches on the face and hand. Occupants of the truck, John Millap and B. G. Payne of Sulphur Springs, were slightly bruised. Since the point of impact on their machine was near the rear wheels they were in the clear and suffered nothing more serious than a shake-up inside their cab.

As the machines collided the left side of Hellman's car was demolished, some of it caved in, some ripped away. In the driving position, the victim was directly exposed to the impact. He sustained fractures on the left side of his face and skull and his left arm and left leg. Persons arriving at the scene shortly afterward removed the injured man from the wreckage and placed him on an automobile cushion awaiting arrival of an ambulance.

The truck's load of sweet potatoes was scattered along the roadside when it overturned, and its dual left wheels rolled on down the pavement after having been knocked off by the collision.

Funeral services in Sacred Heart church Monday at 9 o'clock were followed by burial in the Muenster cemetery. Father Frowin, pastor, officiated at both and Nick Miller had charge of funeral arrangements. Pallbearers were six cousins of the deceased, Roman Trachta, Dick Trachta, Pat Stelzer, Jerome Pagel, P. W. Hellman and Clarence Hellman.

A crowd estimated near 500, including several dozens from neighboring cities and communities, were present to pay final tribute to the popularity of the young man.

Ray was born here on April 5, 1908, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hellman, and resided here all his life except one school term in Dallas and several months in San Antonio prior to opening his barber shop here. He attended both local schools and Dallas Academy.

He has been consistently active in civic and community undertakings, having served as an officer in the Knights of Columbus council and one of the leaders in local dramatic work. He held the position of city secretary since May 1938.

Survivors are his father, with whom he made his home, and four brothers: Virgil, Chicago; Charles, Muenster; Ralph, Fairbanks, Alaska; and Sgt. Leon "Doc" Hellman, in the army at Houston.

Bermuda Strip Will Be Planted Along Sidewalk From Town to Church

Another cooperative project of the city of Muenster and the Garden club was undertaken at the city council meeting Monday night with approval of the ladies' suggestion that the strip of ground between sidewalk and curb extending from the business section to church be cleared and planted in bermuda.

Several Garden club members appeared at the meeting to present their offer to plant and maintain the grass if the city will prepare the ground for planting.

Considerable work will be necessary for the improvement. Tons of surface rock will have to be moved out and tons of dirt will have to be hauled in to low places.

City Council Honors Memory of Secretary; H. Meurer Is Successor

Members of the Muenster city council in regular session Monday night paid tribute to the memory of their deceased secretary, Raymond Hellman, with a three-minute period of silent meditation and a resolution to send messages of condolence to members of his family. A copy of the letter is included with the minutes of the meeting. As Hellman's successor for the unexpired term the council unanimously approved Mayor Ben Seyler's appointment of Herbert Meurer.

WHO'S THE REAL GOAT?

Average American citizens, standing on the sidelines and cheering for their favorites in this brawl between labor and industry, are beginning to realize that the blows are falling upon them more than on the adversaries.

Consider what's happening and judge for yourself. Each faction is grabbing after money. Laborers, many already receiving outrageously high wages, are clamoring for more. Meanwhile industrial profits are going up by leaps and bounds — apparently sufficient justification for labor's demands.

But there's another angle to consider. Those extra profits and extra wages are all added to the cost of the product, and Uncle Sam pays the bill — with money that we tax-payers will have to dig up in years to come. Some of that tax money naturally will come from those who are now reaping the harvest, but how about us millions of others who have to rock along about the same as we did before. We're not getting our share of the extra money to carry our share of the extra burden.

The worst offender in this fight is the referee. He is not lifting a hand to keep the participants from making the spectators miserable. He's even contributing a share of the abuse by his own reckless spending on non-essentials.

If the American public is to get a square deal three different factions in the defense program will all have to reform — industry, labor and the government as well. Everyone of them can get along on far less.

A DRIVING MISTAKE TAKES ITS TOLL

The tragedy which shocked this community last Friday morning has caused some serious thinking and, in some cases, a change in driving habits. To us this accident is different. It is grim reality whereas those other accidents we read about every day are mere statistics. This victim was one of us. His passing strikes us more forcibly because we associated with him, spoke and laughed with him.

Here is a powerful inducement for the rest of us to take a mental inventory of our driving habits, especially those faults that might end in tragedy.

Like all accidents, this one was the result of someone's mistake. Just now it doesn't matter what the mistake was or who made it. The result is the cold fact that haunts us. We can't help thinking about our own mistakes, many perhaps as bad as this. The difference is we were lucky enough not to encounter fatal trouble. And some of us have been mighty lucky. How long that luck will last, no one knows, of course. We hope we'll have it as long as we need it. But the safer course is to be more careful so we'll need it less frequently.

There are two rules that will keep us clear of most trouble. Know traffic regulations and common sense driving rules, and practice them until they become second nature. And be alert. Being constantly on guard will prevent many of one's own mistakes and often avoid the fatal consequence of another's mistake.

Want to know how this will affect Muenster? Drivers will be better for awhile, then gradually they'll begin taking things for granted again. It's human nature, works that way everywhere. And then another sudden jolt. But the next victim isn't likely to be the one who was permanently impressed by this tragedy.

Economic Highlights

The great British drive into vital Libya could not have come as much of a surprise to the German and Italian garrisons. It had been rumored for weeks that the campaign was brewing, and it was known that Britain had been sending tremendous quantities of supplies to Africa. However, it is a distinct possibility that the Axis powers were surprised by the number of troops involved, and by the quantity and extent of their equipment. It is probable that this is the first time in the war that Empire land troops have met Axis land troops without being definitely inferior so far as mechanized equipment is concerned.

The Libyan drive is providing a good test of American war materials. The 600,000 Empire troops engaged are largely equipped with American tanks, planes and other weapons. Trustworthy reports from the front cast great credit on American design and manufacture. It is said that the American tanks are definitely superior to German and Italian tanks of comparable size. Their armor is tougher, their fire power is as good or better, and their tracks permit going in terrain and under weather conditions which stop the Axis machines. The American Army has a General on the scene in the role of military observer, and he will be able to bring home very interesting and informative news.

Britain's purpose in shooting the works in Africa is manifold. First, it is of definite aid to Russia by placing a strain on Axis troops and resources. A new front has been opened. Germany will not be able to move troops and equipment from Africa to help in the Eastern front. Instead, she may have to divert resources of men and material from Europe to Africa.

Second, the African campaign answers the Churchill government's critics, who have been demanding more action. A sweeping British victory would do a great deal for Empire morale.

Third, it helps place Britain on an offensive, instead of a defensive war basis. In other words, she apparently no longer feels that she must keep all resources as intact as possible for purposes of self-protection. She now feels that she can carry the war to the enemy on a major scale.

Fourth, and most important, from a military strategist's point of view, is the possible effect of the Libyan campaign on Italy. If the campaign achieves complete success, it will give the British possession of invaluable Mediterranean bases. These bases can and no doubt will be used to wage naval and air war against Italy on a terrific scale. In addition, a workable naval blockade could be established to prevent Italian shipping from leaving or entering home. Some authorities are confident that these methods would in time knock Italy completely out of the war, and force her to sue for peace.

On the Russian front, it is apparent that Hitler is getting farther behind schedule all the time. In addition, he is taking tremendous losses which may prove disastrous in the long run. The Russians claim that 5,000,000 German troops have been killed, wounded and captured. That is probably a great exaggeration. But there is no question but what casualties have been far heavier than Hitler's generals who figured on a two-month Russian war, anticipated. In addition, the Russians have taken or destroyed vast quantities of tanks, planes, field pieces, etc. The resistance of the Russians, soldier and civilian alike, is writing a new and heroic chapter to the military annals of history.

The Allies have certainly not won this war. But their gains in strength since the awful disaster at Dunkirk are nothing short of miraculous. Little more than a year ago it looked as if England was beaten, and that no force capable of even slowing the Nazis much less stopping them, remained. Time has proven otherwise. And today, Time works against Hitler at last.

Judging by the tone of the government-inspired Tokyo press, one wonders why Japan went to the expense of sending special envoy Saburo Kurusu over here. The papers say with monotonous regularity and uniformity that all hope of maintaining peace in the Pacific is gone, and that war is inevitable.

Japan's peace offers to this country have been Hitler-like—in other words, she will accept peace if she is given everything she wants.

One school of experts thinks that Japan may be stalling for time—that she is bluffing on the one hand and talking vaguely about understandings on the other, in order to keep the United States from def-nite action now. Every day that passes obviously makes it a harder job to unseat her from her position of military power in Asia. However, every day that passes also makes Japan weaker economically. This government is giving absolutely no ground to Japan. The American attitude, in effect, tells Nippon that if she insists on conquest she will have to war with us.

MOSAICS of Sacred Heart High

Edited by Martin Becker and Dolores Lehnertz
Monday found a smattering of relief on the faces of the High School students. It was with a light heart that we celebrated Thanksgiving. Now the drastic question remains, "Did we flunk?"

Address of Principal
The students were honored with a short visit from the principal, Sister Angelina, last Monday. She reminded them of the coming feast, The Immaculate Conception, and also of various mortifications they should practice throughout Advent.

Class Rings
The Seniors were all smiles Tuesday when Sister Theresina announced that their class rings had arrived. Everyone was very much pleased with them. Soon you will see them sporting their class emblem.

Assistant's Feast
The High School enjoyed a program given in the Parochial School on Tuesday afternoon. It was given to commemorate the feast of St. Richard, the patron saint of Father Richard. A skit entitled "Discussion Club—Or What?" was presented by the Sophomores who also helped to compose it.

Human Heart: A heart for the biology class? Yes, the model of the heart in plastics has arrived as the most recent addition to the science department. We are sure the biology class will find it very useful when they begin to study the human body and the functions of one of the most vital organs, the heart.

Report Cards: Reverend Father Frowin came for his six weeks' visit to distribute the report cards and to administer his mottoes and his sound advice. He encouraged those who had good marks to keep on the road to progress. Incidentally he remarked that he has been here for over twenty years and that he intends to remain for many more years to come. The students always appreciate his remarks. In these, his timely talks to them.

Athletics: The "Red Skirts", as we are so fondly named, won another splendid victory over St. Mary's Volley Ball team last Wednesday. Keep it up, girls, you can't afford a break in your victories now! Make it a year of victories.

School Daze

MUENSTER PUBLIC SCHOOL
Editors: Irene Lutkenhaus and Kathleen Center.

Wednesday evening the girls and boys of Muenster High School accompanied by Mr. Welch, Mr. Grey, and Miss Bradshaw, played Valley Creek school at 7:30. Could it be that the girls weren't sufficiently warmed up that caused them to suffer defeat in the volley ball game? The boys were more fortunate in basketball with a 23 to 25 victory. Then a basketball game was played by teams made up of men from the audience.

Those who came home from the games with Mrs. Martin are wondering if her car is suffering any effects of the heavy load.

All the rooms of the school, through their contributions, are now Junior Red Cross members. Each pupil gave immediately, and

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

The How and Why Health Club composed of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, closed its second six weeks' contest in neatness and cleanliness Wednesday afternoon before dismissal for the Thanksgiving holidays. The boys, led by A. J. Huchton, treated the girls, led by La Vetta Martin, with refreshments of cookies and cocoa. Guests for the party were Mr. Grey, Miss Luke, and Miss Wiedemann.

The club didn't lose any time in organizing for the third six weeks which began Monday morning. It used part of its class period to elect the following officers: Betty Jo Hamilton, president; Katherine Reeves, secretary; La Vetta Martin, vice president; Della Beth Bowling, reporter; Harold Reeves and Lola Mae Center, captains. J. L. Cole, A. J. Huchton, Richard Grevins, Martha Jane Jennings, Ruby Lee Jennings, Betty Cole, Earleen Bowling, and Millie Yeakley were chosen by Harold Reeves. The opposing team under Lola Mae Center includes Billy Ray Harmon, Della Beth Bowling, La Vetta Martin, Katherine Reeves, Betty Jo Hamilton, and Bobbie Dale Roberson. The party which will be given in January to conclude this six weeks will carry out a patriotic scheme.

Miss Luke's room was beautifully decorated for Thanksgiving. In the sand table a Pilgrim's village, made of logs, was surrounded by a forest. She also had a collection and identification of various autumn leaves. The room was full of turkeys, but they were only paper.

We're glad to have Katherine Reeves back in school after her two-weeks' vacation which as she says wasn't fun at all. She was suffering with a swollen, bruised leg which resulted from too much exercise. We're hoping that you will be able to play ball with us again, Katherine.

ELECTION OF COUNTY AAA COMMITTEEMEN TO BE HELD DEC. 9

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 2.—The State AAA Committee has set Friday, December 19, as the date for election of county committeemen and delegates to the county convention.

The same procedure will be followed in the committee elections this year as in previous years, George Slaughter, state committee chairman said. Farmers in each community will elect three committeemen who will serve during the coming year. At the same time, they will elect a delegate and alternate delegate to a county convention which will be held the following day. The convention will elect the county committee of three members and two alternates.

"Selection of the right men to serve as committeemen is more important this year than ever before," Slaughter, a Wharton county farmer, declared. "The Food-Food-Freedom campaign has resulted in more work for committeemen, and it is expected that the follow-up on the campaign will require that committeemen spend more time working with the program than in previous years."

The AAA official emphasized the added importance of selecting the right man as county committee chairman, especially since he serves also as chairman of the county USDA defense board which administers the Farm Defense Program. "County chairmen should be good organizers and leaders, capable of obtaining the fullest cooperation from all board members and farmers," Slaughter said.

PROMOTE WELFARE, SAFETY OF CHILDREN AS DEFENSE PROJECT

Austin, Texas, Dec. 3.—"The Texas State Department of Health has joined the President of the United States, and the United States Children's Bureau, in cooperative measures designed to promote the welfare and safety of children," declared Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. This is a part of the Civilian Defense Plan that is being set up throughout the nation.

Adequate provisions for safety and health for every child, lead the list of objectives in the defense program for children. Emphasis is laid on the importance of advance planning to assure safety in case of grave emergency; and on the continuation and extension of the health services now available for mothers and children, including maternity care, continuous health supervision of all children; medical, surgical and dental care of children and young people beyond school age.

Measures that will keep children well and strong physically, with particular reference to their nutritional needs, come next on the list, with special reference to the education of parents and children in the selection and preparation of foods; extension of school lunch services; extension of the food stamp plan for low-income families; and utilization of advisory services of nutritionists in health and welfare agencies.

Security in home life comes next among the objectives, including provision for proper housing, care of dependent children; aid to mothers and responsible care and supervision of children whose mothers are employed; social services through county or local agencies to help conserve home life and make good school and community relationships possible for children with special needs and handicaps.

Recognition of the need for maintaining and extending all possible safeguards against the employment of children in hazardous occupations in industry and agriculture is urged as a further objective; and particular emphasis is laid on the importance of character building and the training of children for citizenship through the continuation and extension of educational and other services, to learn to accept responsibility, to understand the rich heritage and purposes of our civilization, to develop high standards of personal integrity and intelligent loyalty to democratic ideals and institutions.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the many courtesies extended and the sympathy expressed by our neighbors and friends during our recent bereavement. We especially thank the Knights of Columbus council and the Volunteer Fire Department for their help and thoughtfulness, and we are grateful for quiet flowers and for the spiritual bouquets.

B-19, LARGEST PLANE DECLARED OBSOLETE

WASHINGTON.—It was only a few short months ago that the greatest airplane in the world was completed—the Army Air Corps B-19 Douglas bomber. Weighing 82 tons and costing the neat sum of $5,000,000, this ship was heralded with a blaze of publicity.

But the shocking fact is that the B-19 is already virtually obsolete. It has had some test flights, and the net opinion is that it is impractical for modern warfare. Designed before the war, this air monster is now much too slow for tactical purposes and is being considered for such a relatively safe mission as a good-will trip to Latin America. After that—no one knows what to do with it.

Air corps officials insist, however, that the B-19 already has served a great purpose in blazing the trail for more advanced designs. Thus the army is adopting a bomber half the B-19's weight, but heavier than the present Flying Fortresses. The fortresses weigh 25 tons, whereas the new bombers now being built, will scale between 30 to 40 tons and will have a speed well over 300 miles an hour.

It is well known that these new bombers will be used by the British to rain destruction on Germany.—Pearson and Allen.

Intelligence Test

Army recruits are now given an intelligence test. They have to do a sort of jigsaw puzzle—picking out the right pieces to complete a series of formal pictorial designs. Twenty-five per cent is the usual score; 50 per cent is good. But the other day the Army thought they'd discovered a superman. He scored 100 per cent by completing all the designs correctly.

A special Board was convened to investigate the "find." But they only needed to ask one question: "What was your occupation in civil life?"

The reply was: "Wallpaper designer."—Answers.

Program By Parochial Pupils Honors Father Richard On Patron's Day

In observance of the feast day of his patron saint, Rev. Richard Evedl was honored with a program by pupils of the parochial school Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the school auditorium. Sister Lucy, teacher of the eighth grade, directed the presentation.

The program opened with the group singing of "Happy Feast Day, Father", after which a Biblical play in five scenes was presented. Monte and Damian Hellman then played a piano duet, followed by an accordion solo by Virginia Walterscheid and a piano duet by Jeannette Meurer and Bernice Henschel.

The Little Bugle Corps gave a selection accompanied by Daniel Luke on the drum and Jeannette Meurer at the piano, after which Betty Lue Buckley presented a violin solo and Lillian Wimmer gave a reading. Girls of the seventh grade then appeared in a recitation, "The Hands of the Priest", and the high school students enacted a skit, entitled "The Study Club Discusses Blessed Richard".

The school's gift to Father Richard was then presented with best wishes from the student body by Ella Dell Starke and Edward Fette of the third grade. One gift was a biretta, the cap worn by priests at divine services, and the other gift was presented in an envelope.

After this the honor guest gave a short address in which he expressed his thanks for the program and the presents and stated that his first year in Muenster had been a very happy one.

The program closed with a song by the group accompanied by Monte Hellman, pianist.

Or is an army plane expected to land only at licensed airports?

The Saint Jo Tribune admits it swiped this yarn from somebody else: Tough and grouchy old Uncle Zemo Clutchbach was the owner of the Cuttyhunk department store. One day Zemo and the local editor locked horns in a heluva row, after which Zemo cancelled his regular ad on the back page. Ye editor was confronted with a gaping blank spot but he didn't let that worry him long. He had a file of prepared-in-advance obituaries, to save time in case prominent citizens should die shortly before press time. He'd got the old crab's goat by running his obituary in his regular ad space. But did Zemo get mad? No sir. He came in, made up with the editor and doubled his advertising agreement. That write-up was the nicest thing he had ever read about himself.

Talking about advertising here's another: There were three waiting for the signal from the tower of the Old North Church. Each of them was mounted and spurred just as Mr. Longfellow described Paul Revere. They all rode the signal. They all rode and roused the farmers, spreading the alarm. Afterward, one of them became an officer in Washington's army; another became the Governor of one of the States. Not one in 20,000 Americans has ever heard the names of these two. (William Dawes and Dr. Samuel Prescott), but there is hardly a person alive who doesn't know all about Paul Revere. Did Paul Revere make the history, or did Longfellow? It pays to advertise!

Just in case you hadn't thought of it: Only 17 more shopping days till Christmas.
