NAVY'S NEW FLYING BATTLESHIP IS LAUNCHED

7 Receive Minor Injuries In Crash West Of Muenster

Seven persons miraculously escaped without serious injury early Thursday morning when two cars collided on the highway five miles west of Muenster. One was a local car, owned by Alphonse Felderhoff, and driven by his brother, Vincent, the other was an out of state car.

According to a statement by Alphonse Felderhoff, the other car came completely across the highway and hit his machine even though the right side was more than two feet off the pavement. He thought the other driver must have fallen asleep at the wheel.

The two left front ends met, after which Felderhoff's car turned over several times. Minor scratches and bruises were the only injuries even though the car was demolished beyond repair. Persons who saw the wreckage expressed surprise that anyone survived. The other machine skidded off without turning over. It's only damage was its left front end.

An ambulance rushed to the scene of the crash, went away without any passengers.

Occupants of the local car were the Felderhoff brothers and Raymond Hess and Misses Louise Martin and Viola Godwin of Saint Jo. The identity of the two in the other machine was not learned.

County Quota For Red Cross Roll Is 2475

Quota For Muenster Is 120; Mrs. G. H. Hellman Named Local Chairman

The most intensive drive for Red Cross membership in recent years got under way on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. As pointed out last week in a meeting of the county chapter, this year's goal is to more than triple last year's membership—2475 as compared with 750. The roll call will continue through the Thanksgiving holidays.

Roy Wilson, roll call chairman, stated that quotas all over the nation had been tremendously increased this year in order to raise funds for the organization's tremendous task in war-torn countries, in addition to normal local activities and relief at the scenes of major disasters.

Attempting to reach the new high quota the county committee intends to conduct the most thorough membership campaign in the history of the Red Cross in Cooke county. It intends to reach every family within the county's boundaries. J. L. Leazer, chairman of the board of directors, estimated that more than 275 workers will be in the field.

Vernie Keel was again appointed chairman of rural districts and Mrs. G. H. Hellman chairman of the Muenster community. The local quota as estimated by the county board, is $120. As in years past, Mrs. Hellman has hopes of passing her quota by a substantial figure. Last year, when the county quota was $1,000, Muenster's quota was $50 and the amount actually collected was $138. During a special Red Cross war relief fund drive in May 1940 the community had a quota of $75 and raised $123.

Farmers Asked To Repair Machinery

College Station, Nov. 12.—Repair all old farm machinery by the end of the coming winter is being asked of every Texas farmer, according to B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA Defense Board.

As an initial step in the nationwide farm machinery repair program, all farmers signing their Food-Freedom pledges are being urged to check their machinery, order necessary parts now and, if parts are not available to notify their county defense boards.

Checking and repairing machinery now will facilitate difficulties in starting farming operations next spring, Vance declared.

"Requirements of steel for armaments has made it necessary for the Office of Production Management to curtail the consumption of steel in every civilian channel. Not only will there be a smaller amount of farm machinery manufactured in 1942 but there will also be less wire fence, steel fence posts, nails and other iron and steel materials available for farm use," the board chairman said.

In many instances farm machinery that normally would be discarded must be used in 1942 and maintained at maximum efficiency if the food production goals are to be reached.

County defense boards are expected to make an appraisal of the farm equipment situation in their counties, an inventory of machinery repair and welding shops, and check on the availability of skilled mechanics and farmers skilled in repair work.

"This is not a farmer program alone. It must have the support and assistance of manufacturers, merchants, mechanics, blacksmiths, schools and colleges," the Texas chairman pointed out.

Youth Unconscious 7 Weeks After Motorcycle Crash Slowly Improves

Adolph "Sonny" Bernauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bernauer of Panhandle, is well on his way to recovery from the serious injury he received in a motorcycle crash near Amarillo on May 13. Visiting here Friday and Saturday with the L. A. Bernauers he stated that he has regained normal use of his senses and is just now beginning to regain the use of his arm. His voice and general physical condition is improving slowly and he is confident that he can return to work after a few more months.

Bernauer was in a very critical condition for many weeks after being found unconscious at the side of the road on May 13. He did not regain consciousness for seven weeks. It was in the company of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kuehler who were returning from Panhandle to their home in Baytown, Texas. Mrs. Kuehler is Sonny's sister, Marie.

The following from a Philadelphia draft board is music to our ears. "If you join an illegal or jurisdictional strike you will be inducted into the army." That was the ultimatum to its 4100 registrants, 800 of whom were granted deferment because of their employment in defense industry. Who can deny that this move is good sense? The man who is excused from serving in the camp only because he serves at the work bench obviously loses his privilege when he quits the work-bench.

It would be just fine if every draft board in the country adopted that rule and put real teeth in it. Workmen would be much less reluctant to do the bidding of labor cars if a little pressure from the opposite side were bearing on them. The trouble is that most workmen are eager to keep going but are organized to defy the strong arm persuaders of their own unions. A dilemma might induce them to create such organization.

Whoever did not think the unions are getting out of hand has probably changed his mind since CIO announced its intention to enroll a million employees of the Federal Government. Won't this be a fine predicament when John L. Lewis starts telling the government what to do and what not to do? Here is anybody's opportunity to understand CIO's real objective. They can't kid us any more about efforts in behalf of labor. Government employees do not need any help. Their salaries and working conditions are already the best in the world. So, what's the only answer? Power for CIO, of course.

Well, the administration should not be surprised. It has been generous to a fault in pampering the radicals, and all the while it was aware of the old saying about biting the hand that feeds them. In fact, it should have suspected from the way they have been snapping at the hand in the past few days. And this goes on while all Americans face a common danger abroad! The contemptible stuff some men are made of!

In lighter vein, the column turns to an essay recently sent to the British Minister of Health by a 10-year-old lad. "The cow is a mammal. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. This is the reason for fresh air in the country." Well, that clears a problem for us.

Cactus fiber is now used in padding upholstery of motor cars, a news item advises us. Our only hope is that they don't get careless and use too much of the plant.

The hairs of the head are numbered. Someone—apparently with lot of curiosity and as much spare time—took the trouble to count out the following figures: Blond, 140,400; brown, 109,440; black, 102,362; red, 88,740. Now all you have to do is guess at what percentage of a normal supply you have, determine the exact shade and start calculating. If you're good at colors and mathematics the answer will be fairly correct. If you're not good figure it out anyway. Neither you nor anyone else will ever know how wrong you were. Science marches on.

Says the Dallas News: There isn't much question what a fellow would do now if he suddenly acquired a million dollars. He'd pay taxes with it. By coincidence Con encountered that remark about the same time those two dusky packing house boys inherited 7 million simoleons, and could not resist the urge for a little mental calculation. Just for the sake of convenience, let's skip an inheritance tax and the other taxes they will have to pay. Income tax alone will chip off about 75 per cent which leaves approximately 1 3/4 million of which they'd better expect to lose the 3/4 million

Turkey Season Ends Monday: Five Carloads

Expect As Many More of Better Quality Birds For Christmas Program

Local turkey packers have passed their Thanksgiving market quota and declined opportunities to take hundreds of extra birds. The buying season ended Monday and the last turkeys were ready for shipment Wednesday night.

At a glance the summary of the project is as follows: 7,600 turkeys weighing approximately 105,000 pounds make up a total of 5 heavy carloads. FMA members furnished 3,100 turkeys. The average price was 19 cents for hens and 17 cents for toms for a total of approximately $19,000. Pickers earned about $825. All figures are estimates made by Rudy Hellman and Roy Callahan before final tabulations were complete.

The lower demand for turkeys this season is responsible for the plant's decision to close while birds were still coming. It had already taken a carload over its quota. Most other North Texas dealers, unable to get disposition for their turkeys, had closed on Saturday.

In Callahan's opinion, no more than half the birds in this locality have been dressed, hence he expects a lively Christmas market. He also expects a vast improvement in quality now that more favorable weather has returned. The past week has already produced a considerable improvement, he said.

Men in charge of the packing program are concerned over the problem of finding a sufficient number of pickers. Until the last few days they were consistently working short-handed. The largest number of pickers at any one time was 60. The difficulty can be overcome, Callahan said, by installing a mechanical picker which removes the greater part of the feathers and reduces the hand picking time at least 50 per cent. Most other packers are using such machines but the local plant kept it out solely for the benefit of persons who wished to earn some extra money. Now it begins to seem as though the machine will have to be installed.

Of the first two carloads shipped out one went to Miami, the other to New York.

Arrangements Made By Sanitation Committee For Garbage Disposal

A new service to be inaugurated in Muenster next week is that of garbage disposal. It was announced by Mrs. Herbert Meurer, chairman of the sanitation committee of the Civic League and Garden Club at the regular session Wednesday afternoon.

Garbage will be picked up each Monday, Wednesday and Saturday and there will be no charges to those who participate. It was stressed, however, that all garbage to be disposed of in this manner be kept free from glass, paper and tin cans. Pails should be set at places convenient for pick-up.

To set this project under way it was requested that those who wish to have their garbage hauled notify Mrs. Herbert Meurer or John Grewing before Monday so that a convenient route for the hauler can be arranged.

MISSION SCHEDULE NEXT WEEK PRESENTS FOUR SERVICES DAILY

The mission to be held all next week in the Sacred Heart church will consist of four services daily, according to a tentative schedule released Wednesday by Father Frowin, pastor.

Masses and sermons will be held at 6 and 9 o'clock, and the other two services, also with sermon, will be held at 3 and 7:30 p. m. Benediction with the Blessed Sacrament will be given at one, perhaps both of the latter services, Father Frowin said. The regular schedule of Sunday masses will not be affected.

Two Franciscan Fathers, Rev. Honoratus Bonzelet, O. F. M., and Rev. Servatus Ritter, O. F. M., of Chicago, will be in charge of the mission.

Along with his announcement the pastor renewed his invitation to Non-Catholic friends to attend and become better acquainted with Catholic doctrine. He especially urges members of the congregation to arrange their affairs so they can attend the greatest possible number of services.

Garden Club Hears Speech On Art of Flower Arranging

Mrs. Margaret Scroggs Carruth, of Dallas, authority on flower arranging, was presented by the Civic League and Garden Club as its guest speaker of the year at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the public school.

Mrs. Carruth, who is well known in garden club circles throughout the state, gave a delightfully informal, instructive lecture on "The Art of Flower Arranging", beginning with the cutting of the flower on through the process of its arrangement, illustrating as she spoke, until the finished bouquet was presented.

She discussed the basic fundamentals of flower arranging and color blending and answered questions that were asked. Members brought approximately thirty bouquets for her criticism.

Committee reports included that by Mrs. N. K. Miller, who stated that 64 cedars had recently been planted at the cemetery to replace those that died from red spider infestation and that 12 cedars had been set out around the Corpus Christi chapel.

Mrs. Herbert Meurer, chairman on sanitation, announced the city cleanup for next Wednesday and Thursday and the hauling of garbage which is to be a regular service in the city hereafter.

Mrs. J. B. Wilde reported on 4-H girls' activity and Mrs. Tony Gremminger read the treasurer's report. Announcement was made of the St. Jo Flower Show which will take place this Friday and Saturday, and amaryllis bulbs, the club's horticultural project for the year, were distributed with the notation to plant before December 1st.

After adjourning members and guests were treated to coffee furnished through the courtesy of Magnolia Coffee company and the FMA Store.

CITY-WIDE CLEAN-UP SPONSORED BY CIVIC LEAGUE NEXT WEEK

A city-wide clean-up for Muenster is scheduled for next Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 19 and 20, it was announced this week.

As in previous campaigns of this kind, the Civic League and Garden Club employs a truck and sponsors the project. A minimum charge to each person participating is twenty-five cents.

This will be the final clean-up for this year and all citizens are urged to take active part.

Henry Grewing will make the rounds over the entire city limits, including the business district. All trash should be sacked and placed at curbs or in alleys.

Armistice Observed But Business As Usual

Armistice Day in Muenster was observed with the offering of a special high mass at Sacred Heart church, a holiday for public school pupils, an early dismissal for parochial school students, who, during the morning, gathered in general assembly for patriotic songs and a salute to the flag. The bank and post office were closed for the day and the flag was flown from a number of business houses and at both schools.

Red Cross Born In Switzerland, 1863; In U. S. Since 1881

Henri Durant, a Swiss humanitarian, first conceived the idea of the Red Cross.

A group of Swiss, friends of Durant, first interested themselves in his plan. Later he laid it before Prince Frederick of Germany, afterward Kaiser Wilhelm I, the Empress of Austria, the King of Savoy and Napoleon III.

In 1863 the first international conference in Geneva was called, and sixteen states or nations were represented. A number of important resolutions were adopted but no formal action taken.

In August, 1864, another meeting was called and thirteen European nations and the United States were represented—but the latter unofficially. This conference drew up the famous articles now known as the Treaty of Geneva. The immediate signers were France, Switzerland, Belgium, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Spain, Netherlands and Baden.

At this conference, the United States was represented by George C. Fogg, the American minister to Switzerland, and Charles S. P. Bowles, European agent of the Sanitary Commission. The Civil War was being fought in the United States and public-spirited men and women had created the voluntary Sanitary Commission, which served in some measure to hospitalize the wounded Federal troops, to give them comfort, provide women nurses and to raise funds to pay for this work.

Seventeen years intervened between the first gathering in Geneva in 1864 and the first governmental recognition in the Red Cross in the United States.

Clara Barton, a former school teacher from New England, America's first woman government clerk in Washington and during the Civil War a volunteer worker among the war wounded, was the second person to work actively to bring the Red Cross principle into use by the U. S. Government.

The first encouragement came in the administration of President Garfield, when his Secretary of State, James G. Blaine, wrote on May 21, 1881, that he would recommend adherence. On that night 50 friends of Miss Barton met at her home in Washington and organized "The Association of the American Red Cross," electing her president.

Miss Barton remained president of the association of the Red Cross until its reorganization in 1905 under a new Congressional charter. She died in Washington April 12, 1912, at 91 years of age.

FARMERS URGED NOT TO PLOW UP PLAINS DURING THIS WAR

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12—Texas farmers and ranchmen, avoiding the mistakes of the First World War, can achieve the Food-Freedom goals without impairing their production plant the soil on their farms and ranches.

That statement was made here by Paul H. Walser, state coordinator of the Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service and a member of the Texas USDA Defense Board.

"In the last war, we produced the foods and fibers and vegetable oils needed for victory, but we ruined millions of acres throughout the nation," Walser said. "We turned under and planted to wheat land which should have been left in grass. We ran our rows up and down hill. We plowed and plowed and harrowed without reckoning with soil erosion. As a consequence, the nation's agriculture plant was damaged permanently.

"That won't happen to Texas farm and ranch lands this time," the state coordinator declared. Be Ready For Winter With Good Connections Gas Men Warn Users

Local gas users are being urged by officials of Community Natural Gas Company to check their appliances and house piping now, to be sure they're ready to go into the winter heating season.

"It's a mistake to wait until cold weather sets in before making sure that appliances and piping are in good condition," the gas men point out. "The beginning of the heating season often means several accidents involving gas equipment. Stoves are sometimes carelessly set up by inexperienced people. Worn out rubber tubing is used to connect appliances to gas connections. Wall cocks may have been battered and loosened during the summer and fall readjustment of furniture. Accidents from any of these sources can be eliminated by having a test made for leaks, and correcting any possible hazards around the house."

Through the summer months the gas company's crews have been busy extending and repairing service and main lines, replacing worn equipment and getting their system in readiness for heavy winter demands of its users. "In the face of rapidly rising operating costs of all kinds, while gas rates remain at the same low level, the gas company is striving to keep its property and equipment in first class condition to protect the service of its customers. No gas service, however, is better than the equipment in which it is used," local gas men warn. "That's why we urge our customers each year to get their equipment in shape for winter before they need to use it constantly."

Marine Corps 166 Years Old Nov. 10

On November 10th in the year 1775 the log book of the United States Marines begins. The very first entry shows the authorization of the Continental Congress to enlist two battalions of "soldiers to serve by sea". Tun Tavern, Philadelphia, was the first recruiting station, and men of the waterfront clamored for the chance to enlist. The proprietor of Tun Tavern, Robert Mullan, dispensed much good cheer to his guests and spoke loud and long of the new branch of the service. In short time he was made captain and Samuel Nicholas, a Quaker gentleman of dash and spirit was the first marine leader.

The first expedition of those Continental Marines met with great success. They landed in the Bahamas in 1778 and captured ammunition and supplies. It was the prophetic beginning of a brilliant career of colorful and successful exploits all over the world. The Marines have landed in every port of call and have title to the most colorful branch of the services of the United States.

In 1805 the Marines made their first trans-Atlantic trek, and met with pirates in Derna. They conquered them and hoisted the American flag in Tripoli the first time the Stars and Stripes flew over a fortress of the Old World. They once again carried our flag to foreign soil in the Mexican War of 1847, when they stormed the Citadel of Chapultepec. That was the decisive battle of the war.

The Marine Corps was first established as men who would be soldiers of the sea. But their wide experience and the training given today makes a modern Marine the soldier on land or sea, and in the air. Men between the ages of 17 and 30 are informed that the lid is off, there is no limit to the ranks of the Marine Corps today. and do be careful!

"Five mornings a week, nine months a year, we mothers of Texas get our children ready for school. In our home and a million other Texas homes, that's one of the first and most important duties of a mother's day. Sometimes Dad finds out what a job it is when he has to do it by himself."

All of us want our children to have the best education possible. Most of us look to the public schools for this.

Fortunately, Texas has the best public schools in the South. Helping to build and operate them is the Texas petroleum industry which pays 24 million dollars a year in taxes for school purposes.

These petroleum taxes pay an average of one-fourth the cost of educating our children. Altogether, they meet the entire expense of schooling nearly 400,000 Texas boys and girls.

In addition, oil has contributed substantially to the 70 million dollar permanent school fund. Oil is also responsible for much of the 30 million dollar permanent university fund, which has made possible the expansion of the University of Texas and A. & M. College.

Furthermore, taxes on petroleum products add another 10 million dollars a year for the schools of our State.

Our children get a better education today because of the Texas petroleum industry.

"EVERY AMERICAN SHOULD JOIN"

Tuesday of this week marked the opening of another Red Cross membership drive — another opportunity for Muester to go over the top in assistance to suffering humanity.

Certainly no one needs to be reminded this year of the tremendous task that lies before the Red Cross. As usual, it will bring relief to many poor people in our own locality, it will serve at calamities such as storm, flood and conflagration, and it will pursue its new duty of routine attention to the hundreds of thousands of men in the nation's service.

Besides, there is the inexhaustible need for assistance in warring countries. The good that can be done among starving, ill-clad people of Western Europe, the Balkans and the Far East plus the medical aid to soldiers on every front will be determined solely by the response the organization receives in its drive for funds. If America opens its purse, it simply means that the Red Cross will be able to send more workers with more equipment and supplies to more places.

For several years Muester has been known for the most generous response in the county to the Red Cross roll call. Consistently it has gone over the top, contributing far more than its quota based on population. This year, considering the world's urgent need for help, is certainly not the time to let that record slip.

Let every person in the community, child as well as adult, appreciate how much is to be done and resolve to help the cause as much as possible. The one who doesn't contribute should actually feel guilty of turning a deaf ear to a fellow man's cry of distress.

Muester could easily double or triple its former contributions. We have dozens who could give 5 or 10 dollars without ever missing it. Almost every other adult could give one dollar. The few who must watch their money closely could add their bit by making a small sacrifice. And perhaps children would be willing to give up a few bars of candy for the cause.

Let's keep in mind that the current Red Cross drive is not a routine peace-time affair to provide for routine troubles. This time millions of people are suffering and dying and every little bit added to the fund is precious relief to some fellow human being.

Quotas are meaningless now. The question is not "what am I expected to give?" but "what can I give?"

When your turn come to join, think of your comforts and luxuries in contrast with the misery of people abroad. Then dig deep, brother, and dig out a generous gift to someone whose life perhaps depends upon your help.

WE'RE NOT SO BAD AT HEART

At least three fourths of the news we hear nowadays has its origin in hatred and violence. We hear of men in the old world deliberately trying to annihilate one another and the fruits of one another's labors for many centuries. We hear of our own industrial anarchists betraying our glorious American heritage of justice and liberty. It seems like a bleak dreary world until we pause to appreciate some of the things that go on behind the scenes—little everyday events that reveal the real character of people.

During the past few days three little items were literally buried by the deluge of violent news — doubtless a careful survey would have produced more such bits — but they manifested a spirit which will survive and make life worth while in spite of all the rough stuff.

In Delaware a printer's combined home and print shop was badly damaged by fire. A few days later twenty neighbors turned out with saws, hammers, etc., to help him get the place in order.

In Oklahoma a 19-year-old boy, whose father had died some months before, was faced with the necessity of quitting school because of cotton that needed picking. But 32 classmates of the vocational agriculture class had another idea. They secured the principal's permission to go out and pick their friend's entire crop. A pilot in the RCAF had the misfortune of losing his wallet with $30. Members of his squadron, more than 300 of them, chipped in a dime each and more than compensated him for his loss.

The same spirit has been manifested here many times. We could cite dozens of occasions when neighbors came together to help others in distress. Every critical sickness, every fire, brings forth the finer points of human character.

People are meant to be like that, and most of them are like that in spite of the thin veneer of calousness accumulated through the modern era of self-sufficiency. They are like that in spite of the greed and hatred that have caused our present wars and economic clashes. Remove the influence of a few powerful war lords, a few industrial slave drivers and a few labor racketeers and most of the violence would vanish also.

As long as the normal everyday men and women are willing to help a neighbor in distress it is certain that they have a worth-while basic character. Regardless of the champions of hate and violence, such people will continue to make life worth while.

Economic Highlights

This country is just beginning to encounter some of the biggest and most difficult problems that a military economy makes unavoidable. The arms program is getting into stride. Our aircraft production is at the rate of about 25,000 planes a year. Production of tanks, machine guns, army trucks and other vital necessities, is increasing fast. The two-ocean navy will be completed far ahead of the original schedule. In the next two years, unless something unexpected occurs to change the picture, we should become the foremost military power on earth.

This doesn't mean that we are doing our theoretical utmost. We aren't. Labor troubles continue to mount and undermine production. Governmental red tape, delay and indecision still hamper industry. A few segments of industry have not been able to get away from the "business as usual" point of view. There is plenty of politics in the defense set-up, and there is too much divided responsibility which makes for passing of the buck and general disorder. Even so, the gigantic American production machine is moving forward, and it is successfully making the immense change from a peace-time to a war-time economy.

To some, this change means profits and expanded opportunity. To others, the change means possible ruin. In that sorry category fall thousands of businesses which have not been given a place in the defense picture, and which are now unable to continue their normal, peace-time ways.

These are the businesses which are caught by priorities. No one without a high priority rating can now obtain the basic metals. No one can build a home costing more than $6,000. There are shortages of paper, cloth, rubber, chemicals, fluids—commodities which in normal periods are excessively abundant. And legions of businesses, employing millions of people, depend on such commodities as these for their very life.

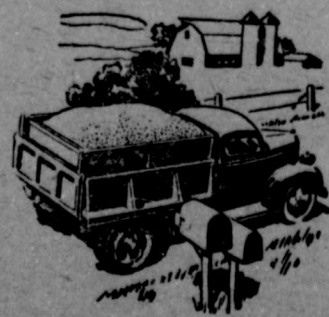

Pessimists believe that this defense program may mean the virtual death of little businesses in this nation. That may be an excessively dark forecast. But the hard fact remains that no one has yet been able to formulate a program under which we may obtain maximum military production and at the same time preserve our business system more or less intact.

Washington, of course, has given attention to this small business problem. There has been an effort to farm out contracts, under a subcontracting system, so that small and middle-sized concerns may obtain a fair share of the orders. So far, however, little progress has been made. The bulk of small businesses haven't the equipment or the personnel which are needed. When you want a tremendous job done, you naturally turn to the mass-production industries which are geared to make the largest possible quantities of goods in the shortest possible period of time. The dollar-a-year men in the defense bureaus are taken from big industries. And so small business finds it more and more difficult to obtain the supplies it must have.

If this trend continues, it is apparent that a revolutionary change will take place in the American economy. Whether that change will be for the better or worse is a matter of argument. In the meantime, it is an ironical fact that hundreds of thousands of men are being thrown out of jobs during a time when there is a shortage of suitable labor—and thousands of businesses are in danger of being shut down during a time when the consumer demand and consumer purchasing power for all manner of commodities, is extremely high. The figures indicate that there simply isn't sufficient supply of many basic materials to meet the war demand and the normal demand at the same time. And the smaller enterprises of the country, which aren't able to produce the tools of war, are taking the beating.

The army is gradually weeding out incompetents among its officers. The way the wind blows was shown when a high-ranking general was summarily retired after the army he commanded did badly in war games.

Between World War I and two, the Army was given little attention, little money, little equipment. Officers advanced when and only when their superiors died or reached retirement age. This made for a bureaucratic sort of officer who simply bided his time, played internal politics, and learned nothing.

The American Army seems to be taking a page out of the book of the German Army. Nazi commanders are mainly young. Promotion is made on merit, not seniority. During and resourcefulness are rewarded. In our Army, men with the right stuff on the ball are today being jumped in rank over the heads of their elders.

General Marshall, the Chief of Staff, has little use for sterile traditions. Under him is a group of Lieutenant Generals who demand results. So many an officer is going involuntarily into retirement or to an unimportant post because he doesn't have the capacities which modern warfare demands.

It sometimes requires a keen sense of humor to crack a joke without making a break.

Correction

We wish to make a correction in the first paragraph in the Mosaics of October 31, 1941.

Imelda Felderhoff received "honorable mention" in the National Latin contest, held by the Auxilium Latinum in which she took part last spring. On Monday she received the Certificate of Honorable Mention from Albert E. Warsley, Editor of Auxilium for having obtained a score of 100 out of the possible 120.

The Annual

For the first time in the history of its existence, Sacred Heart High School plans to have a "Year Book". Since it is to be a part of the English work of the Juniors and Seniors they elected the staff officers on Monday during the regular English class. Manager-Editor, Celia Walterscheid; Historical Associate, Florene Endres; Personality Associate, Beatrice Reiter; Essay Associate, Rose Marie Endres; Staff Artist, Rose Hennigan; Sports Editor, (boys) Leo Becker; Sports Editor (girls) Evelyn Wiesman; and "Ads", Joe Starke. The librarian reports that all the books in the library are classified. There are at present over a thousand volumes in the library. The latest added is "The Port of Call."

The Catholic High School "Book-a-Month Club" received its selections for November. The list of books from which students may choose by paying a small price are, "Blow All Balloon" Nat A. Games

The members of the volley ball team were the victors after their encounter with the Muenster HI team last Wednesday. Our team won two games out of three. It was one of the worst games the team has encountered this year, for the wind was so strong that the girls could do very little to control the ball. During the last game the girls' new ball came, but there was no time left to use it. A new net is expected in the near future. On Friday the Freshmen and Sophomores took the game from the eighth grade of the grammar school by taking the first two games.

LINDSAY SCHOOL TATLER

Thursday, October 30, was Freshman Day at Lindsay School. How big and mighty the seniors looked beside the puny, insignificant freshmen, who had to go through the ordeal of initiation before the upperclassmen deigned to recognize them as full-fledged high school pupils. The seniors reported that the freshman class showed real sportsmanship throughout the initiation and proved that they could "take it." Congratulations, GREENIES!

After the initiation the high school enjoyed the annual Halloween party in the school auditorium. The Halloween motif and color scheme was carried out in both decorations and refreshments. Wonderful school, leadership and cooperation were manifested by the junior and senior committees in planning the party.

The Book Week Poster Display, activities of all kinds, centering around the effective use of the library and the proper care of books, lectures and round-table discussions on "THE TREMENDOUS POWER OF BOOKS TO MAKE OR MAR OUR LIVES", and the program, "Forward With Good Books" given at assembly on Friday afternoon were all indicative of student initiative and real creative ability.

The annual Thanksgiving Picnic sponsored by the Mothers' Society will be held on Thursday, November 20. This year the newly-organized Catholic Action Club of the high school will add some very amusing features to the picnic. Our announcement is made early so that you will leave that date open and attend the big THANKSGIVING FESTIVAL at St. Peter Church.

The following students receive HONORABLE MENTION for clever posters: Marcella Schmitz, Alphonse Bengfort, Helen Arendt, Hubert Bezner, Victoria Kuntz, Anna Doris Geray, Frances Bengfort, Mary Louise Bezner, Dorothy Beyer, and Norma Jean Mosser.

Hubert Bezner, Marcella Schmitz, Lucille Bezner, Rita Popp, Mary Louise Bezner, Anna Doris Geray, and Coralee Fuhrmann deserve credit for participation in the assembly program on Friday afternoon.

ROY ENDRES, JR., AND ELITHA NEU UNITED IN TUESDAY RITUAL

Lindsay.—The solemn vows of matrimony were recited at St. Peter's church Tuesday to unite Miss Elitha Neu and Roy Endres, Jr., popular young people of Lindsay and Muenster, respectively. Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiated at the nuptial high mass and performed the ring ceremony. Music was furnished by the church choir with Miss Regina Fuhrmann at the organ.

For her wedding the bride wore a lovely frock of white satin fashioned with a long princess bodice and a gathered skirt falling into a short train. The dress also featured a sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. The bridal veil was floor length and was held in place with a wreath of valley lilies. As a bit of sentiment the bride wore a "something old" a gold chain and cross, worn by her mother at her wedding, and for "something borrowed" she carried a white linen handkerchief belonging to the groom's mother. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Isabel Neu was her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a princess frock of ice blue taffeta with a matching hat and wore a shoulder corsage of pink snapdragons.

El Endres of Muenster, brother of the groom, was best man, and James Endres and Alfred Neu were ushers. A large assemblage of relatives and friends from Muenster and Lindsay attended the rites.

Following the church services the bridal party was honored with a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. At noon dinner was served to the immediate families and in the evening at 6 o'clock a reception for approximately 80 guests was held. The day's festivity was concluded with a dance for all in the Lindsay hall.

The Neu home was decorated throughout with late autumn flowers and the bride's table was pretty in a white and blue theme. It was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal figurine and flanked with candles.

Mrs. Endres is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Neu. She was born and educated at Lindsay. Mr. Endres is the eldest son Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Endres of Muenster. He is a native of that city where he attended Sacred Heart school and later graduated from Subiaco Academy, Subiaco, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Endres are making their home in Muenster where he is employed with the J. B. Wilde Chevrolet company.

CHRISTINE KNABE, FRANK HELLINGER MARRY WEDNESDAY

A pretty church wedding took place here Wednesday morning at 8:30 to unite Miss Christine Knabe and Frank Hellinger of Gainesville. Rev. Father Frowin, pastor, officiated at the ceremony and at the nuptial high mass.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and assisted Sacred Heart choir in rendering music for the mass. The altar before which the vows were exchanged was decorated with chrysanthemums and greenery.

The bride was attractively gowned in a floor-length white satin frock made with a square neckline, long sleeves and snug-fitting basque bodice from which fell the full circular skirt. Her veil of silk net was floor length attached to a fan-pleated halo of net and was held in place with a wreath of valley lilies. The bridal flowers were an arm bouquet of white mums tied with tulle. "For something borrowed" she wore a gold chain and cross, the property of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Knabe of Gainesville.

Miss Agnes Hellinger of Gainesville, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of pink chiffon, a flower-head-dress with a pink shoulder-length veil and a corsage of pink carnations.

Lawrence Knabe, brother of the bride, was best man.

Members of the bridal party were honored with a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Knabe, following the church rites. The bride's table carried out her chosen colors of white and pink and was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a bridal figurine.

During the day an informal reception for relatives and close friends was held and in the evening a wedding dance was given in the Lindsay community hall.

Mrs. Hellinger was born and reared in Muenster and during the past several years was active in the Young Ladies' Sodality. Mr. Hellinger, a son of Pete Hellinger of Gainesville, attended school in that city. They will make their home in Gainesville where he is employed with Berend Brothers Feed Store.

One sure sign that times are getting better is apparent at the FMA nowadays. They haven't to date had a sufficient number of turkey pickers.
