Annual Meeting of Electric Co-op to be Held on Wednesday

With a great deal of satisfaction the column this week calls attention to the speedy acquittal of J. P. Flusche and Jimmy Lehnertz in their murder trials last Friday. Considering that trials frequently go on for weeks it is especially significant that these two were completed in a single day.

The reason is that there was an abundance of evidence in their favor and not a shred of evidence against them. After the case was presented there was not the slightest doubt in the jury that the victim who died was caught in the act of burglarizing and received his fatal wound while attempting to escape. In fact the complete lack of evidence to support the murder charge caused many to wonder why a grand jury indicted the two in the first place.

The answer is that Flusche and Lehnertz requested the trial. For their own future protection they wanted a court record as proof that they had been tried and acquitted. That closes the case, once and for all, and they need not worry about it ever being brought up again. Had they not been legally cleared they might possibly have been charged years from now when facts and witnesses would be more difficult to present.

Here is an excellent case to serve as an example that a grand jury indictment does not imply a defendant's guilt. So many of us had the idea that a man is half convicted when he is indicted. We felt that some damaging evidence must exist to justify ordering a jury trial. What we failed to remember is that courts exist to prove innocence as well as guilt. The defendant has a right to prove his innocence just as the prosecution has a right to prove his guilt. We should be thankful for the legal provision which enables a person to establish his innocence as a matter of permanent record.

Commenting on his current job of taking up the district school census, Superintendent Cowan was saying a few days ago that this community need not worry about juvenile delinquency. . . not if a Minneapolis police woman is correct in her theory that children become delinquent because they have little or no fun at home and have to look for entertainment away from home.

In that connection, Cowan says, lots of the mothers in homes he has visited offered apologies for playthings cluttering a floor when actually they had more reason to be proud. Homes in which kiddies are free to play and have fun are the backbone of the nation. And the more those kiddies continue to enjoy the home as they grow up the better are their chances of maturing into good solid citizens.

Getting back to the Minneapolis police woman's article, as reported in Look magazine, an outstanding fact derived from delinquency study is that delinquent children have no hobbies and go outside the home for their fun. Either there is no room at home for play or hobbies, or parents don't want to be bothered. So kiddies are permitted to drift, and they frequently drift into trouble.

As all mothers know, kids who have a big time at home can be quite bothersome at times. But there is a compensating factor. The more a mother worries with them the less she has to worry about them.

One of the fundamentals of ethics is that it is wrong to rob Peter in order to pay Paul. An act that is wrong in itself cannot be justified even though it is motivated by a worthy cause. In spite of that very basic principle, however, there still are men in Washington trying to justify the tidelands steal.

One congressman has proposed using the tidelands revenue to support schools in all states. Another suggests using it for hospital and medical purposes in all states. Both proposals are fine as far as motives are concerned, but they ignore the fact that

A full evening of business and entertainment along with drawings for 17 attendance prizes awaits members of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association at their annual general meeting next Wednesday night, March 26, in the auditorium of the public school.

According to M. D. Kaderli, manager, the purpose of the meeting is to elect directors for the coming year, present a financial report of the past year and consider any new business that is presented. Special attractions are an address by R. B. Galbreath of the management division of the REA, musical selections and drawings for attendance prizes.

Meeting time is 7:30 p.m. As members arrive they will register.

They also asked former players to bring their uniforms in Friday night.

Francis Wiese heads the Muenster VFW Post as commander as the result of the annual election of officers for the organization.

Other officers elected are David Trachta, senior vice commander; Frank Felderhoff, junior vice commander; Leo Lawson, quartermaster by reelection; Rody Klement, post advocate; Arthur Hess, three year trustee; Dr. W. The April meeting will feature the formal installation of the new officers.

Slick Road Marked By Warning Signs

In the future motorists driving on Highway 82 between Muenster and Saint Jo will be warned that the road is treacherous during a rain. Highway department workmen this week erected signs reading "Slippery When Wet."

Several accidents have occurred on this road in recent years, the worst being that of Sunday, March 9, when five persons were killed in a two car collision after one skidded out of control on the wet pavement.

3 Candidates File For School Election

Three unopposed candidates appear on this year's ballot for election of Muenster school trustees. Shortly before the filing deadline Arthur Hellman and Tony Walterscheid announced their candidacies for reelection and Norbert Klement announced as a candidate to succeed J. H. Bayer.

Another Muenster man is on the ticket for trustees to the county school board. He is Earl Robison, seeking election as county trustee at large.

$429 Given to Date In Red Cross Drive

Red Cross contributions in the community now total $429.50 and indications are that the quota of $555 will be reached, according to a report Wednesday by E. S. Lawson, community chairman.

There are still some workers, he said, who have not turned in any contributions and others who have deposited some money but expect to deposit more. He was confident that the money still to be turned in will be enough to put the community over the top. Names of those who contributed to the local drive will appear in next week's Enterprise.

Claude Cravens, 49, Passes at Sadler, Rites Held Sunday

Funeral services for Claude Cravens, 49, of Sadler, formerly of Muenster, were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Chapel in Gainesville with the Rev. C. M. Thomas, pastor, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Jimmy Helfin, pastor of the Sadler Baptist church. Burial was in Fairview cemetery with Vernie Keel Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Cravens died of a self-inflicted bullet wound at about 7 a.m. Friday. Justice of the Peace J. P. Spangler of Sherman, who rendered the verdict said evidence indicated ill health was the cause. Members of his family said that he went to the breakfast table twice but was unable to eat. After the second attempt, he went to his bedroom and the family heard a shot.

Mr. Cravens and his family lived north of Muenster on a farm before they moved to Sadler in January of this year. Failing health forced Cravens to give up active farm work.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Minnie Ulmer of Commerce; two daughters, Mrs. Wilma Ferguson of Lubbock and Miss Mildred Cravens of Sadler; three sons, Earl of Muenster, and Willie and Milburn of Sadler; five sisters, including Mrs. Lillie Martin of Muenster; three brothers, including Walter Cravens of Myra, and five grandchildren.

Reports Tuesday were that it was fine for growing crops but caused some delay to row crop planting.

Muenster 4-H club and FFA chapter members and their sponsors spent most of Tuesday in Gainesville attending the fifth annual 4-H Club Tractor clinic at the Community Center building.

Sponsored by Cooke county tractor dealers, the program is designed to acquaint boys with simple repairs and maintenance procedures for farm tractors.

Demonstrations and discussions were held on tractor cooling system, ignition system, carburetor, tractor safety, efficiency, and maintenance.

Determination Did It: Mrs. Horn Walks

Mrs. J. S. Horn walked Tuesday for the first time since she broke her hip almost two years ago. Using a cane, she walked through her home unassisted.

Mrs. Horn broke her hip in a fall in May 1950, had surgery which failed to join the bones sufficiently to permit her to walk, then in February of 1951 underwent another operation and spent ten weeks in a full length cast. For the past several months she got around in a wheel chair, assisting with almost all household duties in that manner. Determined to walk again, she practiced standing and moved about on crutches for short periods every day to strengthen her hip.

Mrs. Horn, 76, is a pioneer resident of Muenster and spent more than a quarter of a century managing the Muenster Telephone company. She was still connected with the company as night operator at the time of her accident.

News of Sick And Injured

T. M. Hammer became ill suddenly Saturday while he was in Gainesville on business and was taken to Gainesville Sanitarium for treatment.

James Eckert is recovering normally following an operation at the MKT hospital in Denison for a ruptured appendix. He will return home the latter part of this week.

Sparkmann Vann, route 2, Muenster, has been dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium where he was a medical patient.

Mrs. E. Newby is a patient at Majors Clinic in Nocona.

Tillman Bridges of Bulcher is confined to his home on account of illness this week.

In separate trials held last Friday, March 14, J. P. Flusche and Jimmy Lehnertz were both acquitted of murder charges in the fatal shooting of J. B. Posey Jr., 25 year old ex-convict of Bowie, on the morning of February 2.

In Flusche's case the jury deliberated only 12 minutes before returning its verdict of "Not Guilty." In Lehnertz's case the jury had been instructed by the court to return an acquittal on grounds that the evidence did not support the charge.

Both trials were held in the 16th District Court at Gainesville with Judge Ben Boyd presiding, County Attorney Carroll Sullivan conducting the prosecution and L. V. Henry conducting the defense.

At their own request the defendants had been indicted by a Cooke County grand jury on Feb. 6 in connection with the fatal shooting of Posey in his attempted escape after being caught burglarizing Jimmy's Service Station.

Testimony given by Miss Lena Herr and later corroborated by Flusche and Ben Seyler revealed that Lehnertz, Flusche, Seyler and Kyle Waggoner had formed a mutual protective group to cope with burglaries which had occurred frequently at Muenster. She also testified that a burglar alarm installed in Jimmy's Station some 15 months ago is wired to give a signal in the telephone office when a

The district baseball schedule consists of a double round robin in which schools of the east and west divisions of District 24B meet each other team twice. Winners in each division will

THE FAMILY THAT SURVIVED

There once lived a family named Smith. There were a father and mother and nine children. They had a good farm and two of the three older boys had finished high school and were helping their father farm. A third son, just out of high school, worked in a radio repair shop in the nearest town, three miles away. He had a $200 jalopy that he proudly drove back and forth to work. One daughter had finished high school and the family was helping to pay her way through college; she worked in the college kitchen to help with the expenses. The other five children were in grammar school.

A year came when the cotton fields on the rich Smith acres wilted under some strange blight. The crop was a dismal failure. A soil expert was called in. After a long series of tests it was discovered that a rare kind of bacteria had invaded the soil. Smith called in chemists. In their laboratories they experimented with chemicals that might eradicate the bacteria and leave the soil unharmed. Finally they found one. But the chemical would have to be applied over a two-year period. The farmland would be unproductive that long, and the cost of the disease-killing program would be $5,000. It was a disastrous blow.

IN DEBT

The Smiths had $1,200 in the bank but also an unpaid $1,000 crop loan note. John Smith called his older children and his wife together and they discussed the situation. The farm might stand as collateral for a $10,000 loan, but if, after getting back into production, a crop should fail or other adversity should strike, bankruptcy and loss of the farm would stare them in the face. At the end of the family conference, the Smiths had a plan, and all were for it.

The daughter Mary withdrew from college and took a stenographic job in a law office; and by scrimping she could send money home each month. The son who already worked in town sold his jalopy and began walking the three miles or hitching rides. One son remained on the farm full time to assist his dad with application of the chemical bacteria killer and other chores. The other son took a job in a nearby industry. The five young Smith children continued their schooling, but the family went on a frugal budget and spent money only for dire necessities.

Strengthening Experience
 At the end of two years the farm land came back into production, the daughter went back to college, and not one of the family seemed the least bit injured by the experience. In fact, John Smith knew that all had gained strength because of it. He and his wife remarked that the family ties had never been so well cemented. The Smith family had tightened its belt for two years and its muscles and heart had been immeasurably strengthened.

This story has an application. A disaster like the one that overtook the Smith family has now overtaken the American family of which we're all members. The bacteria that threatens us is Communism. It has built up a powerful military force and has outmaneuvered our government in every development so far. The expenditure of a great amount of money is necessary to make our nation safe and ultimately free again to produce and progress normally. But wisdom, too, is needed; it is indispensable.

Need for Common Sense

We're in debt far beyond a safe margin as a result of huge expenditures for World War II and because of non-essential spending and years of gross waste and graft in government. The same common sense budget rules which govern the family unit should, of course, apply to the government. If the waste were stopped, and every government department were forced to tighten its belt as John Smith's family did, $15 or $25 billion could be trimmed off the Federal tax bill annually and we could safely ride out the danger of fiscal bankruptcy.

The big spenders, however, are insisting that big spending go on as usual in most departments of the Federal government. They are demanding passage of an $85.4 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning in June. The plan is to assess $71 billion in taxes on the people and issue IOU's for $14.4. This would push the national debt close to $280 billion — and would demonstrate a refusal on the part of our government to follow a common sense solution to our gravest problems. Just as the family of John Smith had to readjust its entire living scale,

Your Family Can Help Save The World!

THE WORLD HAS torn up the rules, and the world simply is not getting away with it.

Current books, magazines and newspapers reflect a growing public consciousness that we are suffering from an epidemic abandonment of truth, honor, and duty; from a spreading practice of sacrificing principle to expediency; from the extensive problems of juvenile and parental delinquency, drunkenness, narcotic addiction, sexual perversion, crime and insanity.

And we recognize these things as symptoms. Symptoms of what? Of what we call the decline of morality? Or is that only a symptom itself and does the sickness lie deeper? Of the world's denial of the doctrine of good and evil? Or deeper yet?

WHATEVER THEY are symptoms of, the fact is that at home and abroad we are faced with a dozen sinister problems. But why all these at once? The answer is that they have not happened all at once. Sociologists, historians, and philosophers are agreed that all have been building up, not too subtly, for a long time. And they suspect that the fault is in man himself; that something must have happened in his heart.

This is a fearful suggestion, likely to tingle at the roots of the hair. Yet, since it implies that all these problems are in reality a single problem, it simplifies our dilemma if we will but accept it. Instead, we attack each problem separately and as if it bore no relation to any of the others. Desperately we use our pitiful brains but not our hearts and souls. And we are getting nowhere. For we have not yet got at the sickness, nor realized the remedy. For we are using education, statesmanship, science, and industry for all they are worth, but not religion for a fraction of what it could do for us. And plainly we are failing.

NO WONDER. We are not going by the rules. We are trying to do it all ourselves, without asking God to help us. Whose world, after all, is it? Whose children are we?

Already God has been offended too much. Still He will help any one of us who asks Him, and if enough of us ask Him, He will help the world.

It is out of the knowledge of God's goodness, power, and concern for us that there has arisen in America a movement for the propagation of family prayer. For the family is the strength of civilization, or the weakness.

THE FAMILY WAS meant to be the cradle of religion, and religion the soul of the family. In America, family prayer and scripture reading used to be general customs. They are no longer. They have not been for some years. The family is the weaker for it. There are broken homes in every street. The nation is the poorer.

But the family that prays together stays together. Restore to the family its religious soul and you enrich the country, you strengthen civilization. If enough families pray, they can save the world! — by Rev. Patrick Peyton.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has received hundreds of sarcastic replies to 52,000,000 letters sent taxpayers urging them to avoid mistakes in returns on 1951 income.

It reached the taxpayers when they were first learning about current scandals in the Internal Revenue Bureau. Replies have condemned graft and commented bitterly on mink coats and influence peddling.

With Coyotes Gone
Mice Take Charge

RED DEER, Alta.—Farmers east of here are wondering which is worse, coyotes or mice. Last year the farmers declared war on the wily coyote, they vowed they'd wipe him out. They fairly well succeeded. Too much so, perhaps because now they are becoming increasingly aware of a new threat—mice, millions of them.

As experienced hunters, trappers and farmers know, the coyote is the mouse's greatest enemy. The coyote as a mouser makes any cat look like an amateur.

Said one farmer: "We should pen up our hens and small stock, then let the coyotes run loose. It is far the lesser of two evils."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny West and daughter, Patricia, spent the weekend in Pilot Point with her parents, the E. M. Shifts.

BOY SCOUTS HAVE BUDDY HIKE; SEE PICTURE SHOW

Thirty-seven boys, members of Scout Troop 664 and their guests, spent Sunday on a buddy hike to the Alfons Walterscheid farm. At noon the scouts cooked their meal in the open, preparing enough for themselves and their guests.

Going, the boys made the trip in an hour and 15 minutes, returning took exactly one hour.

Monday night Committeeman Ben Seyler treated the troop to a movie. He provided cars and tickets to see the current attraction at the State Theatre. Scoutmaster Nick Miller, Steve Mosler and Seyler accompanied the boys.

Hand Loom Invented For Home Weavers

A 22-pound aluminum hand loom for making cloth at home has been developed by industrial research.

The pattern of the cloth is changed merely by inserting pegs in holes drilled in the framework. The manufacturers say the machine enables a woman to "create a fabric of her own design as easily as she can run up a dress on a sewing machine." It would take five hours, they said, to weave enough cloth for a new spring suit or topcoat. The loom makes fabrics in plain, satin, or twill weaves.

OIL-POWERED "MOUNTIES"

Petroleum progress has penetrated even to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, traditionally a strictly horse-powered outfit. From a total of 300 in 1873, the force has grown to 3,500 in 1950. Its transportation equipment now includes 192 horses, 776 motor vehicles, 281 sleigh dogs, and miscellaneous oil-powered equipment in the form of ships and planes.

ON THE RECORD

The National Production Authority wanted data on how shortages of metal had affected employment in 11,000 companies.

A direct-mail firm offered to do the mailing for $894, including airmail stamps, paper, and processing costs. But NPA decided to send the questionnaires by telegraph, which cost nearly $30,000.

And that's what happened to the money which 196 men earning $3,475 per year and supporting a wife and two children, will pay as income tax in 1952.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger-car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences.

Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

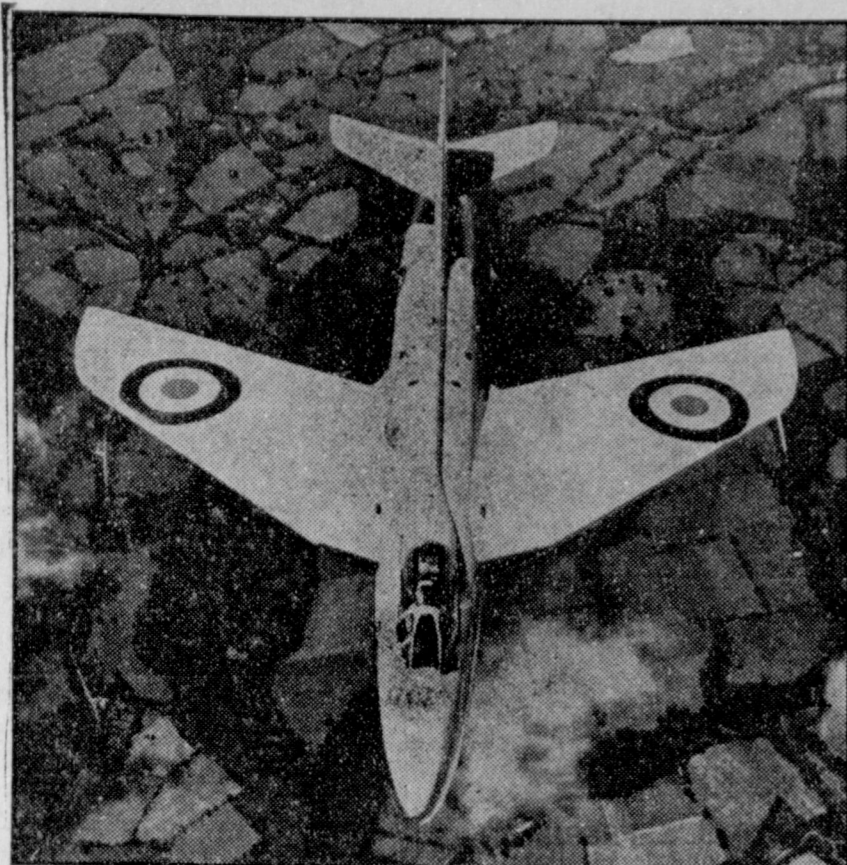

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

A new world's record for fast oil-well drilling was set by a drill crew in South Louisiana recently, when 2,575 feet of hole were made in a regular eight-hour tour, or an average depth of

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It Isn't the Heat— It's the Hide!

Big discussion after the Grange meeting Friday night. Tik Anderson was arguing that hogs were lots more affected by the hot weather than cattle. Skeeter Morgan declared that it wasn't so—that he never saw any hogs bothered by the hot sun like his cows were.

I was glad when Rusty Robinson stepped in.

"Boys," he says, "don't get so riled up. It all depends on what color the livestock are. Hogs or cattle, the ones with light-colored coats absorb less heat from the sun's rays than animals with dark coats. So you're both right!"

From where I sit, so many useless arguments could be avoided if a person would remember he doesn't have all the right on his side. Reminds me of folks who insist that coffee, for instance, is the only drink, forgetting that other people have a right to a glass of beer now and then. If we wouldn't get so "het up" about our prejudices—we'd all be better off!

Soon after dark-haired, smiling Willli Bruntjen, immigrant German farmer, left a cattle ranch in the Canadian province of Saskatchewan . . .

. . . Dread hoof-and-mouth swept through the herd. While police searched for the 27-year-old laborer to determine if he carried the virus from Germany to Canada on his clothing, authorities rounded up the infected cattle and loaded them in waterproof trailers that were later burned.

Their misery ended by the rifles of Royal Mounted police, the beasts were buried in a mass grave covered with lime. Among the animals destroyed was a herd of 45 cattle at a farm near the heart of the Ontario cheese-producing industry. Authorities believe that Bruntjen's arrest and the slaughter program have licked the epidemic which resulted in a U. S. embargo on the imports of Canadian livestock, meat, straw, and hay.

The three branches of government in the U. S. are the Legislative, Executive and Judicial.

Mrs. E. S. Lawson spent last week in Gainesville nursing her mother, Mrs. S. N. Bateman who was ill with flu.

Johnny Hacker has returned to oil field work in Graham after spending a week with his parents, the Andy Hackers.

Soil Conservation Notes

"It's an ill wind that blows no good," contended Emmitt Yoder, technician of the Muenster Soil Conservation office. "Last week's winds displaced tons of rich, high producing and irreplaceable top soil as they swirled in from the west. It irritated us, got into our eyes and food and on our furniture, but it served as a reminder that we must always do all we can to protect our valuable top soil from erosion by wind and water. Our soils can be safe only when we use each acre to grow the crop it produces best and treat each acre according to its needs for improvement and protection from erosion."

The winds did another good turn, Yoder added. They dried up fields so that spring sowing could get under way. Many land owners in the Muenster area are busy putting out clover for soil improvement and soil protection against wind and rain.

Operations waterway, designed to put acres of land to its best use and make possible the construction of terraces to protect more acres, continues to protect more acres, continues to make some progress. Sodding on the Andress estate is almost complete with about 30 acres sodded to Bermuda grass. Three waterways were planted to grass for protection against erosion and for a safe outlet for future terracing of the fields.

Wilfred Reiter has finished planting Bermuda grass roots on a waterway on his farm north west of Muenster.

Cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red Conservation district recently constructing new tanks for livestock are H. V. Kidd near Bulcher, Tony Fleitman on the farm seven miles northeast of Muenster, and Buckner Orphan Home on the ranch south of Muenster.

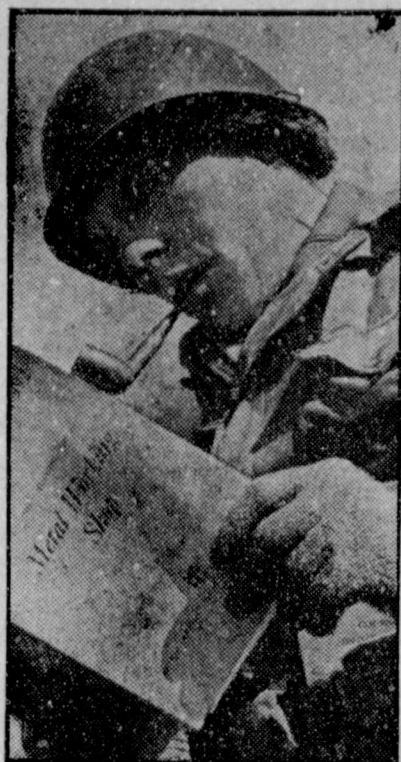

Game Group Elects Robison as President

Earl Robison was elected president of the Marysville Game Preservation group at an organizational meeting for the project in the Marysville community center building.

Other officers are C. J. Fette, vice president and Grady McElreath, secretary-treasurer.

Principal speakers at the meeting were State Representative Richard Stark and Game Warden John Hudson.

Stark told the group that they could have a closed deer season in the area next fall if enough landowners in the community support the program. Hudson discussed stocking procedures for various types of game.

FRONT-LINE FRESHMAN—Relaxing outside his front-line bunker in Korea, Cpl. Roy Hulbert of Bell, Calif., concentrates on a lesson in his "Metal Working Shop" manual. More and more G.I.'s, like Third Division recoilless rifeman Hulbert, are taking advantage of the 140 courses offered to military personnel by the Armed Forces Institute.

BULCHER PROGRESSIVE CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The Bulcher Progressive Club held its first regular meeting for the new contest year Thursday night, March 13, in the community center building with newly elected officers in charge.

Mrs. Johnny West called the session to order and Mrs. J. M. Shields read minutes of the previous meeting. Officers then appointed chairmen for various committees as follows:

J. M. Shields, roads; R. H. Sharp, building; Calip Cannon, land; Mrs. J. R. Samples, reporter. All served on the same committees last year.

Members agreed to meet Wednesday afternoon and varnish the floors of the community building, and J. M. Shields reported on road improvements and road signs.

After business, the women served sandwiches, cookies, coffee and tea to those present. A social hour of games and visiting followed.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS HAVE BUSINESS MEETING

Routine business furnished the principal activity at the regular meeting of the local court Catholic Daughters of America Friday night, Mrs. J. W. Fisher, grand regent, presided.

It was announced that the state convention will be held in Port Arthur in April and Miss Olivia Stock was elected as alternate to attend in the event Mrs. Fisher is unable to attend.

Mrs. Ben Hellman, reporting for the Mission Circle, stated that old sheets or other white linen are needed for hospital bandages and anyone wishing to contribute to the cause may leave the material at her home.

Announcement was made that the April meeting will be held on April 4 instead of the second Friday, which is Good Friday.

Building And Improvement Notes

Foundation work was finished Tuesday on a new house being built by Dick Trachta south of Vincent Felderhoff. It will be a two-bedroom house with built-in garage.

The new Vincent Felderhoff home is almost ready to be occupied. Interior painting is well advanced, after which floor finishing will complete the job.

A new 60x60 barn is almost finished on the Frank Hess estate, occupied by John Hess.

Construction work is well advanced on an extensive remodeling job at the Edgar Klement home. The job includes new roof, siding, wallboard and floors along with new room arrangements. Finishing work is due to start soon.

A general improvement job recently completed at J. P. Flusche's scrap metal yard includes moving scrap iron to the back, surfacing the lot with gravel and converting two oil tanks into stock rooms and covering them with aluminum paint.

A storm cellar is under construction at the Starling Lawson home.

Extensive changes will be made at Fisher's market as soon as new equipment, ordered last Saturday arrives. Meat vault and meat counter will be moved to the back of the store, new grocery racks will replace most of those now in use, and a new checking counter will be built near the door. At the same time the offset front door will be moved forward, flush with the front wall. The result will be more space, more convenience and better appearance.

SURPRISE PARTY GREET CHARLIE HAVERKAMP

Charlie Haverkamp was greeted with a surprise birthday party at his home Tuesday night when a group of relatives and friends gathered to help him celebrate. His wife planned the affair.

Games of sheephead and dominoes entertained the group until Mrs. Haverkamp served sandwiches, birthday cake and coffee.

Present were the Robert and Albert Knabe and their families, the Ben Knabes, Bill Knabe, Mrs. John Hacker and children, the Herman Stoffels, the Meinrad Stoffels and family and Nick Stoffels.

Bulcher Meets $45 Quota for Red Cross

Bulcher citizens raised their $45 quota for the Red Cross in the current drive and Chairman J. M. Shields turned the money over to county headquarters Saturday.

A benefit pie supper Friday night netted $33.50 for the fund and the four families in the Tyler Bluff community, included in the Bulcher district, contributed $11.50 to complete the assigned quota.

Dexter Dennis was auctioneer at the pie supper. Coffee and tea were available during the evening and the assemblage joined in a sing song to close the program.

door or window is opened in the station after closing time.

Miss Herr further testified that the burglar alarm sounded about 12:30 a.m. on Feb. 2 and she looked across the street and saw someone in Jimmy's Station. She then called each of the four men of the protective group.

Flusche stated that as soon as notified he dressed, picked up his .22 rifle and rushed to a prearranged position at the south side of the station. Seyler went to the east side of the station and directed his car lights on the lot behind the station. Lehnertz went to the front and ordered the burglar to come out of the front door with his hands in the air.

In spite of the order, Flusche continued, the man appeared twice at an open window and was driven back twice by warning shots from Flusche's rifle. The third time he slid through the window head first and dashed for his car. Flusche said he fired twice at the man then emptied his gun at the car tires. Just before the man drove away he clubbed out the windshield with his empty gun, breaking the stock off his gun.

When the man drove away Flusche and Lehnertz followed in Lehnertz's car in a 100 mile per hour chase that ended when the Posey car struck a bridge railing about 4 miles east of Nocona. An ambulance took Posey to a Nocona hospital, where he died about five hours later.

Dr. R. E. Major, who treated Posey at the Nocona hospital, testified that the victim died from a bullet which entered the left shoulder, passed through the lung and came to rest in his left side.

Testimony given in the Lehnertz trial was substantially the same as that given in the Flusche trial.

Witnesses who appeared in the two cases are Flusche, Lehnertz, Seyler, Gilbert Yosten, Lena Herr, Dr. Major, Ranger Lewis Rigler and Highway Patrolman Lester Robinson.

Confetti---

the government has no right to take the tidelands revenue. It's like hijacking and contributing the proceeds to the Red Cross.

As far as morality is concerned it doesn't even matter that the state's tidelands revenue is already put to a very worthy use, supporting the state's public school system. The important fact is that the tidelands belong to Texas and no power has a right to seize them. No matter how wisely or foolishly we use it, it's ours, period! In justice it remains ours until we voluntarily give it away.

This tidelands issue prompts us to wonder: Doesn't Washington know right from wrong? Or doesn't it care about right or wrong? Either way the answer is something for America to be ashamed of.
