

Herr-Walterscheid Vows Exchanged in Tuesday Ceremony

Miss Della Rose Herr became the bride of Denis Walterscheid Tuesday morning in a double ring ceremony during a nuptial high mass in Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herr and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Walterscheid.

Rev. Louis Deuster, pastor, officiated at the rites in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends of the young couple.

High School Choir Sings

The Sacred Heart High School choir of which the bride is a former member sang the mass. Sister Dolores presided at the organ for the mass and also presented the traditional wedding processional and recessional.

The couple exchanged their vows before an altar adorned with Easter lilies, white carnations and greenery.

Mr. Herr gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a lovely floor length gown of white bridal satin and Chantilly type lace, designed with a fitted bodice of the lace featuring a sweetheart neckline and petal point sleeves. A scalloped, tapering peplum of lace accented the gathered satin skirt. Her circular veil was finger tip length attached to a lace helmet edged with a ruffle of net and adorned with orange blossom sprays. She carried an arm bouquet of white glads and valley lilies.

The bride wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and for something old and borrowed wore a heavy gold band ring belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Katy Roberg, and formerly worn by the bride's great grandfather Bruns. It is more than a hundred years old. She carried a blue lace handkerchief and wore a penny in her shoe.

Cousin and Brother, Attendants

Miss Ethel Mae Bayer, cousin of the groom, was maid of honor wearing a ballerina length orchid nylon marquisette frock over taffeta. It was designed with a fitted waist, short sleeves and bouffant skirt. She wore a matching poke bonnet, the brim covered with lilacs. Her flowers were a bouquet of yellow roses.

Ronald Herr, brother of the bride, was best man.

Donald Bayer and William Walterscheid were ushers and the bride's brothers, Thomas and Charles Herr, and the grooms cousins, Melvin and Gene Schoech and Sonny Walterscheid, were mass servers.

Groom's Parents' Anniversary

Sharing honors with the bride pair during the day's festivities were the groom's parents who observe their silver wedding anniversary this week.

Mrs. Walterscheid wore a rose-pink nylon lace dress over taffeta. It was designed with a bolero jacket with long sleeves and mandarin collar. Her corsage of white glads carried out the silver wedding theme with a silver ribbon and bow. Her accessories were in navy.

For her daughter's wedding

Mrs. Herr wore a navy two piece suit with matching accessories and a white gladiola corsage.

The four grandmothers of the couple wore white carnation corsages. They are Mrs. Fred Herr and Mrs. Katy Roberg, grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. Joe Walterscheid and Mrs. I. A. Schoech, grandmothers of the groom. I. A. Schoech, grandfather of the groom, wore a white boutonniere as did men in the wedding party and the fathers of the couple. Mr. Walterscheid's boutonniere was backed with a silver leaf in keeping with the 25th anniversary theme.

Festivities of the Day

Immediately after the services, a wedding breakfast was served in the home of the groom's parents to members of the bridal party, the parents and Fathers Louis and Cletus. Decorations in the home combined the bride's colors of white and orchid with the silver theme. An arrangement of tulips centered the bride's table and a decorated cake centered the jubilarians' table.

At noon the bride's parents were hosts for a dinner in their home for 35 guests. Here again the tri-color scheme was accented. Both tables were covered with lace cloths and held decorated cakes, flanked with tapers. Arrangements of glads and irises held vantage spots throughout the home.

From three to five an informal reception honored the couple. About 75 persons were guests. Miss Joan Roberg of Fort Worth presided at the bride's book, and Mmes. Lawrence Roberg, Jerome Pagel, Frank Roberg of Gainesville and Al Walterscheid and Miss Carrie Roberg served coffee and cake.

A dance in the VFW club concluded the day's program.

Will Live in Muenster

After the dance Mr. and Mrs. Walterscheid left on a wedding trip not revealing their destination. For traveling the bride wore a tailored beige dress of Salyna cloth with beige and brown accessories and a corsage of red roses. When they return they will make their home here. He engages in farming.

Mrs. Walterscheid is a graduate of Sacred Heart High school with the class of 1951, and before her marriage was employed at Steve's Cafe. Mr. Walterscheid served with the army air force during world war two. He was stationed at Amarillo.

Among out of town guests at the wedding were the bride's great uncle Matt Theisen, and her cousin, Johnny Dun, both of Muskogee, Okla., Miss Joan Roberg of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberg of Gainesville.

Married Here in 1927

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Walterscheid, who are observing the 25th anniversary of their wedding on Saturday, April 19, were married here in 1927 and reside on a farm south of town. They have two other sons, Cpl. Julian, a member of the army air force serving on Okinawa, and Sylvan, at home. Mrs. Walterscheid is the former Miss Marie Schoech.

Julian sends gifts and congratulations to both couples, along with regrets that he was unable to attend.

THE "ACADEMIC FREEDOM" ISSUE

Is academic freedom threatened in the United States? The answer is, yes. But it is not threatened, as some would have us believe, by the citizens who are protesting the teaching of varying degrees of Socialism in some of our school classrooms and in some high school and college textbooks. Academic freedom is threatened by the growth of Socialism in America and by Communism, both from within and from without our nation. Such freedom cannot survive in either a Socialist or a Communist nation.

The issue of "academic freedom" has been raised many times in recent months. Last week it was my privilege to participate in a radio debate on the question, "Is academic freedom threatened?" I presented the viewpoint that patrons of a school have the right to protest, for instance, against what they believe to be teachings in classrooms or textbooks that would make Socialists of their children. In my opinion such protests are not an infringement on academic freedom.

THE ISSUE STATED

The opposing viewpoint contends that school authorities should be free to select textbooks without interference from patrons, or parents, or taxpayers; and that teachers should be free to discuss their personal economic or political conclusions without interference from anyone, including school authorities. This issue ought to be understood by every American, especially all parents. For both the Socialists and the Communists declare openly and repeatedly in their official party writings that a basic tactic is to lure educational people to their banner and get the textbooks written to favor their cause.

The American Socialist Party, according to one of its long-time leaders, Dr. Harry W. Laidler, looks upon the "intellectual worker" (teacher) as "the primary instrument for social change." The official publication, THE COMMUNIST, said in 1947: "Communist teachers must take advantage of their positions, without exposing themselves, to give their students . . . working class education. They must be thoroughly grounded in Marxism-Leninism — inject it into their teaching at the least risk of exposure . . ." That the Socialists and Communists have been successful to some degree in American education cannot be denied.

NOT A LICENSE

Academic freedom is a concept originated in the universities of Germany more than a century ago. It proposes, in effect, that teachers be unrestrained in searching out truth of facts and presenting their finding in the classrooms. Within certain limits this is good. But it does not give teachers license to teach fallacies as facts; nor does it give them license to use the classroom, without fear of protest, to inculcate students with economic or political doctrines which seek to destroy the very principles upon which freedom is maintained.

Actually, academic freedom is not a freedom explicitly stated in our Constitution. So far as I know there are no state or federal laws specifically setting forth and defining academic freedom. Therefore, this freedom

But the aroma (?) lingers on must necessarily rest upon the foundation of Article I of the Bill of Rights which enunciates freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Article I doesn't give a college professor or a high school teacher any special kind of freedom that a parent or a John Doe taxpayer hasn't got.

JUST PLAIN FREEDOM

That still leaves an American educator free to teach anything he wants to teach (excluding the overthrow of the United States government by force or violence) if he can get a classroom and some students. If he is determined to teach, for instance, that government ownership of the basic industries is better than private enterprise and he can't get a public school classroom or students because of objections of parents or taxpayers, he can put a soapbox on a street corner and teach his Socialism to all comers. Or he can open a school of his own. That's academic freedom. It's also just plain American freedom of speech.

On the other hand, if a state university is teaching from an economics textbook that advocates forced redistribution of wealth and denounces the habit of thrift as anti-social (as some of the most widely used textbooks do), any taxpayer or parent of a university student has the freedom to demand the withdrawal of the textbook. Other taxpayers and parents have the freedom to side with the university authorities or with those protesting use of the book. If carried to its final conclusion, the university authorities must act upon the wishes of the majority of the people whom the university serves—the taxpayers and patrons. That's the democratic process at work.

Use Your Handicaps!

RECENTLY AN EDITOR was admiring the splendid, brilliant colors of a famous illustrator. You have seen this artist's work in magazines more than once, if you are a reader of even a few magazines.

The art editor looked over the shoulder of his business associate, discussed the latest picture, and mentioned casually "our color-blind friend." The editor was stunned. He could not believe the artist was color-blind.

"Oh yes," explained the art editor, "he hires a man to mix his paint. His mixer tells him which paint is red, blue, yellow — of course the artist can see that dark blue is darker than light blue and so on — but otherwise he would just as easily use dark red as dark blue when he wants contrast."

The editor persisted: "Yet he has made such a great reputation as a colorist?"

"Not only that," replied the art editor, "but we pay him twice what we pay others, just because he handles color so beautifully."

NO QUESTION of it — the people who really excel in a certain field very often have reached their eminence just because of the handicaps with which they started out.

To England, Lord Nelson is still the greatest hero of all for his marine victories. He was the best and most valiant strategist England ever had in its Navy. Yet he never conquered the seasickness which assailed him the first time he took to the water and kept recurring all his life whenever he boarded ship.

WHAT GRANDER symphonies were ever written than Beethoven's, and yet the master of melody was deaf and towards the end of his life could not even hear his own immortal notes.

Clarence Chamberlain, the aviator who flew the Atlantic, could never pass the standard test for depth perception which enables flyers to know how far they are from the ground when landing. Yet he was known as one of the safest fliers in the game, able to set a plane down on the ground "as gently as if he were landing on egg-shells."

Glenn Cunningham, who hung up new records for the mile in running, had both legs so badly burned he was expected never to be able to walk again. . . His handicap proved a blessing.

STUDY YOUR handicap: it may be a real boon. From it you rise "on steppingstones of your dead selves to higher things."

Simon of Cyrene cursed the day when he was forced to carry the cross of Jesus. But Simon later learned that the Holy Cross was the greatest blessing in his life.—by Rev. Bruno Hagspiel.

Why the right power is so important to truck buyers

WHEN a truck engine is too small for the job, you'll pay in poor performance and high upkeep. When it's too big, you'll waste money on operating costs.

To be sure of the right power for top performance and top economy on every job, Dodge builds eight great truck engines. There's one that's "Job-Rated" to fit your kind of work.

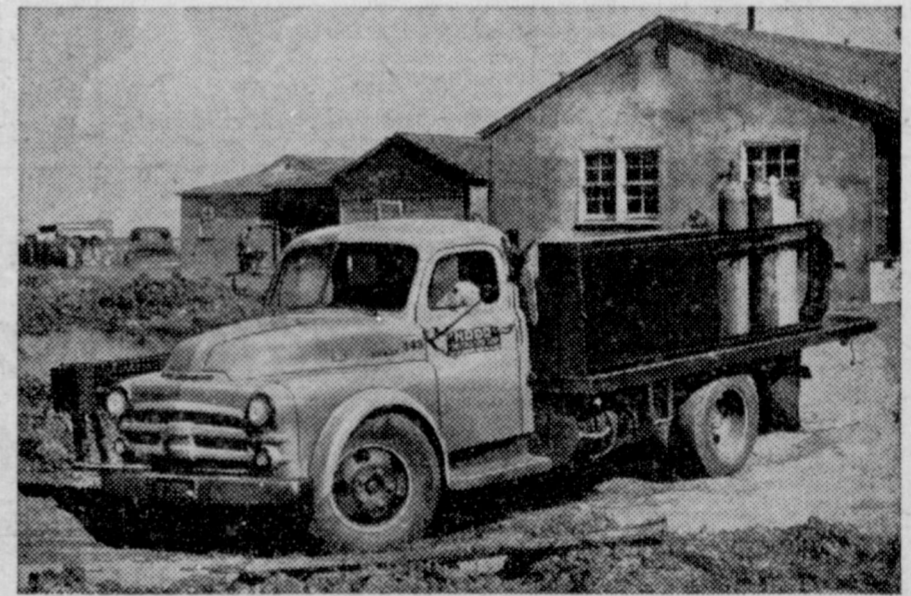

In fact, you get a truck that's "Job-Rated" in every way. Every load-moving unit is factory-engineered to meet the most severe operating conditions. And every load-carrying unit is factory-engineered to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Visit your friendly Dodge dealer today for all the facts about Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks.

Tests prove power with economy. To save gas, powerful Dodge truck engines employ compression ratios as high as 7.0 to 1. And on high-tonnage models, a twin carburetion and exhaust system is used.

Records show low upkeep. For dependability and low repair costs, rugged Dodge truck engines have 4-ring pistons with chrome-plated top ring and heat-resisting exhaust valve seat inserts.

Owners report, "Greater value!" You get all these plus values: Cyclebond brake linings; easier handling, sharper turning; gyrol Fluid Drive available on all 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton and Route-Van models.

"When power is needed, Dodge trucks have it!"

says C. R. SHEARMAN, Hood Construction Co., Lynwood, Calif.

"We've been big Dodge users for many years, because our business demands trucks that are dependable, economical and rugged."

"We do most of our driving over rough ground, a lot of it in the mud. The trucks work with crews who are laying pipe in the field. This kind of hauling calls for plenty of power to carry equipment to the men."

"And when power is needed, Dodge trucks have it! They seem to be able to pull anything."

Life Begins to Get Complicated at 40

AUSTIN, TEXAS — From a literary point of view life may begin at forty, but from a health standpoint, life after forty begins to be more complicated for the average individual, than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, diabetes, and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are healthier than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, should enjoy even better health than their parents of today.

Medical care in middle life has two important phases. The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete physical checkup, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness which may mean the difference between prompt recovery and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important.

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examinations and who follow the advice arising from them tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas if neglected until later stages they often cause permanent invalidism and even death.

Good advice for persons over forty is that they have regular physical examinations and obtain prompt medical attention for any and all illnesses.

Good Deeds

It wouldn't be much, but how mighty
Nice if you truly could say
Before you get into your nighty:
"I did a good deed today!"
Of course, two would even be better
Better would be three or four;
But just don't sit on your setter—
Keep on the look-out for more.
It's wonderful stuff for the system,
Peace before hitting the day,
To say to yourself — (and not list 'em):
"I've done some good deeds today!"

Garden Club Tour Is Set For April 28

Plans are complete for a joint pilgrimage for members of the Muenster Civic League and Garden Club and the Maggie House Garden Club of Gainesville. It will be a soil conservation tour to farms in the Muenster area of the Upper Elm-Red conservation district to inspect soil building and soil saving practices. The date is April 28.

Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel, local pilgrimage chairman, announced plans to members at the regular meeting last week. She urged a one hundred percent attendance and requested members to turn in their names to her by noon on Saturday, the 26, so arrangements for the picnic lunch can be completed.

The Muenster State Bank and the First State Bank of Gainesville will provide the boxed lunches for the occasion.

Emmitt Yoder of the local soil conservation service will conduct the tour and Clyde Wells of Gainesville, district conservationist, will give a short explanatory talk in the high school auditorium at 2 o'clock, just before the tour begins. Others joining in the tour will be Mrs. F. G. Scott of Denton, District 2 councillor, Lee Toothaker of the local work unit, Banker Claude Jones of Gainesville and Banker J. M. Weinzapfel.

The chairman pointed out that the pilgrimage will include stops for conservation inspection and some walking and reminded members to wear comfortable shoes and clothing.

Garden Club Hears Talk on Rose Care

Members of the Civic League and Garden Club enjoyed an interesting program, featuring a talk by Mrs. Joe Luke on "Rose Diseases and Their Treatment," at the regular monthly meeting last week.

Mrs. Luke pointed out that the diseases of roses are greatly exaggerated and that much rose trouble can be avoided if the plants are closely observed. She quoted the American Rose Society which made a survey that revealed only two diseases widespread and serious enough for concern. The total list numbered only four, in order of their importance, black spot, mildew, canker and rust.

She then explained the symptoms of the diseases, how they affect the plants, and listed control measures, giving formulas for sprays and dusts for treatment.

Other program features were a report by Mmes. Steve Moster and Frank Yosten on the Dallas Garden Club pilgrimage they attended, and a report by Mmes. Luke, T. S. Myrick and J. M. Weinzapfel on the District 2 meeting they attended in Denton.

Mrs. M. J. Endres displayed an arrangement of iris grown in her yard. During the business session Mrs. Steve Moster, president, FISH FOR THE BOYS—Grinning in anticipation, three Tokyo lads inspect Carp-flags which will be on display in homes all over Japan in celebration of Boys' Day. Family groups will gather to pray for the health and good courage of their younger sons.

An Easterner was being driven by a rancher over a blistering and almost barren stretch of west Texas when a gaudy bird, new to him, scurried in front of them. The Easterner asked what it was. "That is a Bird of Paradise," said the rancher. The stranger rode on in silence for a time then said, "Pretty long way from home isn't he?"

The editor of Christian Economics received a letter urging him to "present something constructive," instead of "always picking subjects to pieces."

He replied: "Freedom is the most constructive force in the realm of economics. Pointing out those things which interfere with it and destroy it, and seeking the abandonment of such practices, it seems to us, are the most constructive services we can render."

Soil Conservation Notes

Spring is "bustin' out" all over. Old Mother Nature took a healthy swig of the juice from the recent rains and is trying to out-do herself pushing up green plants to carpet every inch of soil and is stirring nature's creatures to a feverish pitch of activity. The birds are a-singing and the bees are a-buzzing, observes Technician Emmitt Yoder as he makes his daily rounds, looking over sweet clovers, vetch and alfalfa in the area.

This brings up an important subject, Yoder says. The production of clover and vetch seed depends upon how well the blossoms are pollinated. The big task of distributing pollen from plant to plant falls to the honey bees and other insects.

Man finds the job of pollination too big to handle himself, but he has millions of willing helpers eager to do the job if man will provide a home near the fields of blooming crops. Man used to depend on wild bees for pollination, but he plowed up all the land he could, grazed and burned the rest, and so reduced the places wild bees could call home that they gradually decreased until today bees must be provided for crops.

Increased yields of up to 75 per cent are not uncommon when a hive of bees per acre is placed in the field at blooming time.

The Muenster area is lacking in sufficient bee colonies to do a good job of pollination on all the acres in vetch, clovers and alfalfa that will soon be blooming. There is still time for farmers who expect to harvest legume seed to arrange for colonies of these winged assistants who will work long hours for him to increase yields. Bees can make money as well as honey.

Operations waterway continues to roll along with the district-owned sprig planter supplying the heavy artillery to keep the attack going.

Emmet Sicking used the machine to plant a waterway on his farm south of Myra to Bermuda grass roots. The waterway will enable him to terrace his entire field when it is established to grass.

Johnny Sicking and N. L. Fenley are other cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red district who used the machine to put Bermuda grass roots on waterways and on land ear-marked for pasture.

Things You May Not Know

As the rabbit is an animal of flight its ears are large and turned backwards, the better to hear the sounds behind him. Most animals of prey have their ears standing forward, so they can better hear the sounds before them.

The beak of an unhatched bird is covered with a horny excrescence which allows it to chip the hard surface of the shell. This falls off shortly after the young bird emerges.

The elephant's trunk contains more than 4,000 muscles, a greater number than is found in the entire human body.

The eggs of sharks and rays have long filamentous processes attached to them, allowing them to cling to seaweed so that they may not be beaten against the shore and broken.

May the Lord grant us the serenity to accept that which we cannot change, the courage to change that which we can, and the wisdom to know the difference. — Anon.

Dallas Sports Show To Be Biggest Ever

DALLAS, Texas, April 18 — The crowds attending the fourth annual Southwest Sports and Vacation Show at State Fair Park here will be larger than ever, requests for tickets indicate.

The show, the only one of its kind in the Southwest, has drawn more than 100,000 people each of its first three years. It is sponsored by The Dallas Morning News and will be held April 18 through April 27.

The show is in the huge Automobile Building, which is so large fifteen basketball games can be played in it simultaneously. More than 150 exhibits of the latest in fishing tackle, hunting gear, camping equipment, boats and motors and attractive travel display will need hours of perusing by visitors.

There is also a twice daily ninety-minute twelve-act stage and pool show featuring such acts as trained seals, dogs, a talking crow, aerial acrobats, jugglers and contortionists.

A large display of every wild game, bird, animal and fish native to Texas always attracts much interest.

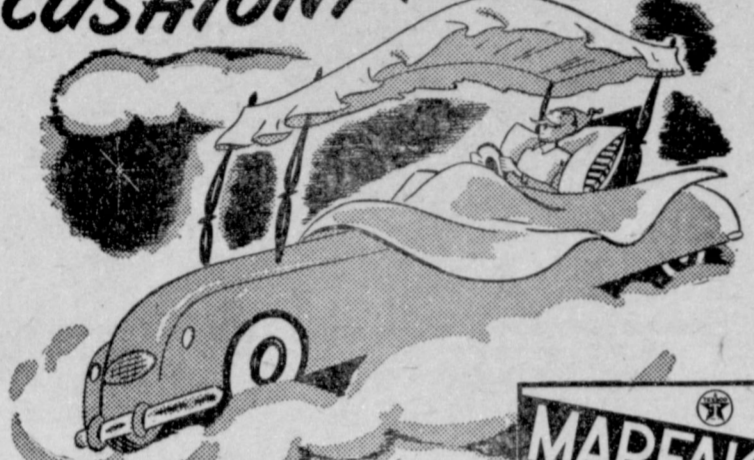

Proceeds of the show are contributed by The News to worthy causes.

Not "warmed over" but strictly brand new!

YOU OWE it to your pocketbook to drive this Chrysler engine before you buy any fine car today.

It's not a "warmed-over" engine, but a basically brand-new one!

It gives a new kind of performance that means new value for every dollar you pay out for purchase, upkeep, or operation.

It was built brand-new around a hemispherical combustion chamber which makes better use of gasoline, and also permits sounder all-round engine structure, than any American motor car engine has had before.

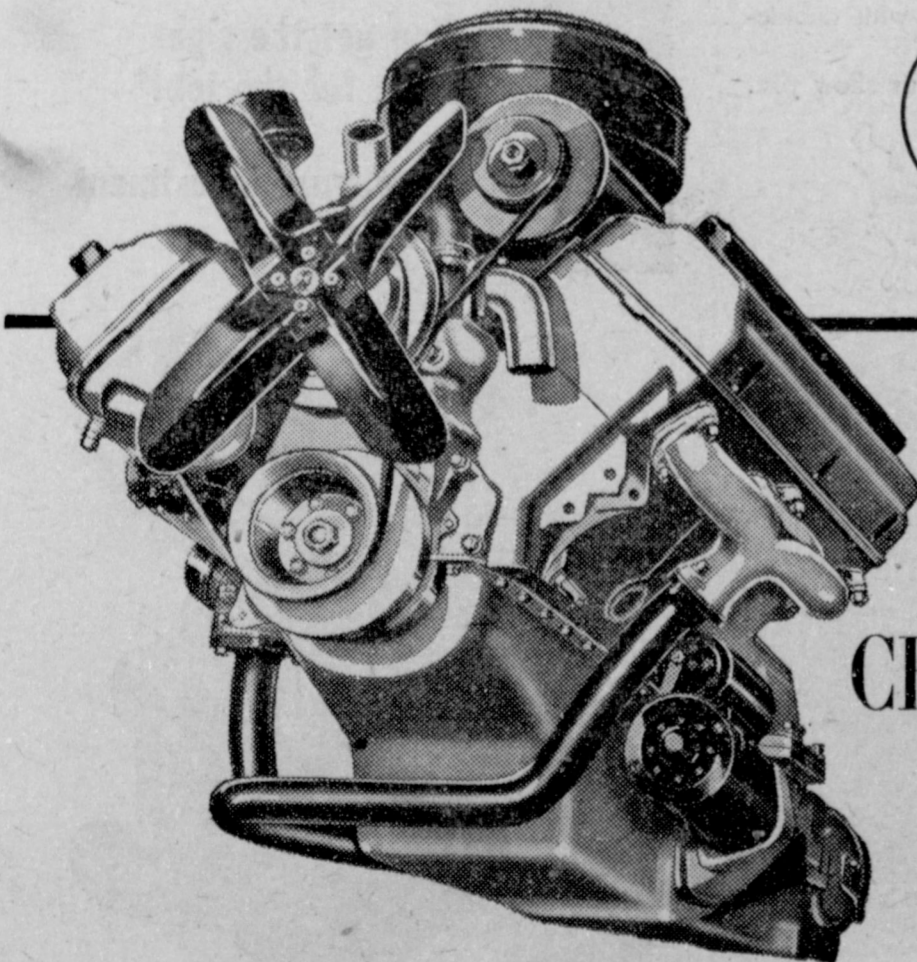

It delivers 180 horsepower . . . without requiring you to buy premium gasoline. It runs with less waste, less heat, less friction and less wear than previous designs can equal. Its combustion is so clean it literally develops almost no carbon deposit at all.

It will last longer than any engine you've ever known. It will cost you less along the way. It will stay "young" in performance thousands of miles past the point where an ordinary engine shows old age.

And on top of all that, it makes driving a lot more pleasure! Its smooth response . . . its safety-power, in reserve for emergencies . . . its easy scorn for distance or hills . . . make you just plain feel good at the wheel as you've never felt before.

For the good of your purse and your pleasure too . . . we invite you to drive it, soon!

magazine must be okayed by the commies before publication.

Under such conditions it seems that the only purpose the magazine can serve is to provide jobs for a few state department pencil pushers, business for some publisher and a bit of paper tonnage for the Russian scrap paper drive. Even assuming that the magazine gets around over there, what can it accomplish when Moscow decides what is in it and who reads it? Would you be in favor of such an appropriation?

Another request is that of an assistant secretary of the Navy for 48,000 paperweights. To cut down that figure, he indicates, is a matter of saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung, because if personnel don't have them they'll improvise, using other items of office equipment. The implication seems to be that lots of $100 items would be substituted for the 10 cent paperweights, but does not allow for the fact that the average gob would solve his problem without undue expense to the department. To our way of thinking, however, the best solution is fewer papers. Eliminate about 48,000 paper stacks and just cancel the order for weights. We taxpayers would also like fewer paper fumbler.
