Cost Increases, Aid Decreases; Price of Meal Upped to 25c

In connection with Labor Day, which many of us will observe Monday without quite knowing why we do it . . . did it ever occur to you that this is the only holiday on the nation's calendar that is dedicated to a group of contemporary citizens where as all other holidays commemorate great names or events? All of us know the meaning behind Independence Day, Memorial Day, Armistice Day, Christmas, Thanksgiving, Washington's and Lincoln's Birthdays. Each has its obvious historical or religious significance. Each is deeply rooted in the past.

But not so with Labor Day. It's for the man of today. If it has any connection at all with the past, it is as sort of a memorial to the emancipation of the Labor.

There was a time, we know, when Labor was the economic slave of industry. Workers got as much as was offered and toiled as much as they were told to, or else. Little by little they organized, demanded recognition of their just rights, and got a better deal out of the American economic system.

All of that was fine. It is only right that the full dignity of every human being should be acknowledged and respected. Likewise it is altogether proper that we as a nation set aside a special day to honor the millions of persons who come under the classification of Labor.

While giving credit and respect where they are due, however, we as a nation have been inclined to minimize the recognition that should be given to other segments of our society. It is significant that the country so far has not dedicated a national holiday to its millions of investors, without whose tools and materials Labor could never have risen to its present glory. Neither has any recognition been given to that smaller group of people, the executives, whose efforts enable workers to use other people's tools and materials to make the things we need and want.

It is a fundamental principle of economics that three factors are essential to production. Labor, capital and management are all needed. Either would be helpless without the other two.

But judging from the attitude of some people, especially politicians who measure importance by voting strength, Labor is the only element of production that deserves consideration. People who saved and invested are due a mere pittance as a reward for their thrift. Executives are similarly taken for granted. The great concern now seems to be to devise ways by which Labor can claim increasingly larger shares of the fruits of industry.

While these things are being done Capital and Management keep fighting their fight to survive. They want their profits and salaries as much as Labor wants it wages. The result is increased prices, the constantly rising cost of living which is giving the whole country a headache.

It has always been this column's contention that the way to get out of economic troubles is to work harder. Any farmer or business man knows that from personal experience, and it's reasonable to assume that the nation could prosper by using the same formula.

So it seems that emphasis on this Labor Day should be placed on labor, with the small "l" rather than the capital. Think a little less about wages and other benefits we favor for Labor and think more of how much work is to be done. After all, the greatest service this country can render the working man is to get the economic system in balance. Let him have a chance to earn the better life. Don't give it to him and deprive others in the process.

What we need to do is get back to the basic thinking of Henry Ford when he first paid the unheard of wage of five dollars a day. He said that no wage was too high as long as he could make a reasonable profit. Besides, better paid men made better customers. The important point is that he got a good day's

Community Program Honors J. W. Hess for Conservation Work

J. W. Hess, winner of the Texas Bank and Trust Company award for the outstanding soil conservation supervisor in Texas in 1951 was honored Sunday night in the school auditorium at a special program sponsored by the Saint Joseph's Society.

Father Louis Deuster, master of ceremonies, presented Mr. Hess with a trophy given by the Catholic State League of Texas at its state convention in July. Father Louis had accepted it in the absence of Mr. Hess who was then enjoying the vacation trip he had won as his prize. The trophy was given in recognition of his long and outstanding service in soil conservation.

In his presentation speech Father Louis emphasized the importance of conservation in the community's welfare. We depend on the soil, he said. If we save it and improve it Muenster will prosper. If we permit it to get away Muenster will fade away.

As an example he mentioned the pyramids of Egypt, saying it seems odd that such gigantic and magnificent structures should be in a desert rather than a densely populated area. But that area was not a desert when the pyramids were built. It was fertile land supporting a thriving civilization, but the land and civilization were both lost through neglect.

In his response Hess said that conservation is the first essential to a country's survival. Political parties and governments can come and go but people can stay and thrive as long as they have their land.

Mr. Hess also gave a report on his trip, commenting on farming and conservation methods along the way and calling attention to certain areas that have been lost through erosion. He also displayed a large sterling tray presented to him by Texas Bank and Trust Company as outstanding supervisor in one of the state's five conservation zones before he was judged winner of the state award.

Concluding the program Emmitt Yoder of the local SCS work unit projected colored pictures of local achievements in soil conservation and described each scene. He also showed pictures taken by Mr. Hess on his trip.

The 26th annual Cooke County Fair opens in Gainesville, Texas, next Monday, September 1, with a triple-barreled entertainment program.

The Gainesville Community Circus will exhibit Monday and Tuesday nights, September 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in the rodeo arena at the fair grounds.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, the Lone Star Ranch Rodeo will be presented in the rodeo arena by Producer Bobby Estes of Baird, Texas.

The Bill H. Hames Shows, outstanding carnival attractions will be on the midway throughout the week.

There will be livestock, poultry, field crop, home demonstration club and club boys and girls shows throughout the week and a shetland pony show is an addition to the livestock division.

Mrs. Peter Kappas returned to Wichita Falls Tuesday after spending a week with members of the Voth family.

Whisnand Wins in Sheriff's Run-off

O. E. Whisnand was the successful candidate in last Saturday's Democratic primary run-off for nominee for Cooke County sheriff. In a hot contest he defeated the incumbent, Sheriff Emory Horn 2455 to 2341.

Muenster voters turned out almost as strong as in the first primary, 460 as compared with 532 at the previous election, and cast their votes almost 3 to 1 in favor of Horn. Totals in the two boxes were 132 for Whisnand and 328 for Horn.

Local voters favored the winner, however in the state wide race for Supreme Court justice Culver received 277 and Bell received 76. Many local voters did not cast a ballot in the justice race.

City Sets Another Water Use Record

For the second consecutive month Muenster has set a new record in water consumption. Water Superintendent Steve Moster reported this week that more than 3.25 million gallons have been delivered through meters for the July 15 to August 15 period. Last month's record was slightly over 3 million gallons.

Moster said an additional million gallons were delivered by the city pumps. About one third of that was used in return to well, to keep bearings lubricated when not in use, and the balance was used through fire hydrants and lost in leaks.

The record volume of water used is explained mostly by the fact that people can have all they want. In spite of the current record breaking heat and drought the city has kept pace with the demand. Last summer it was necessary to urge water conservation.

County Dairy Sale Set for Thursday

The annual Cooke County dairy sale held in connection with the county fair will be held next Thursday at 2 o'clock on the fair grounds, County Agent B. T. Haws announced this week.

The sale, jointly sponsored by county ABA and DHIA units will offer choice heifers from leading dairy herds of the county.

News of Sick And Injured

Fred Hennigan was dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium Sunday after being a patient for 15 days receiving treatment for a leg ailment.

George Gehrig returned Saturday from the Major Clinic in Nocona where he had a major operation. He was back at his place of business Monday but was "taking it easy". He says many thanks to all who remembered him with cards, visits and other kindnesses while he was in the hospital.

Dale Wilde Is Fifth Local Polio Patient

Dale Wilde, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilde Sunday became this community's fifth polio victim for the current year.

The child was taken to Gainesville Sanitarium for examination and was transferred to Parkland Hospital in Dallas after his illness was diagnosed as polio. He is still in fever this week and is not yet paralyzed. His condition was reported to be satisfactory.

Muenster's other polio patients this season are Mrs. Tony Hacker, Miss Florence Fette, Mrs. Marcus Fuhrman and her three-year-old daughter, Margie. Mrs. Hacker and the little girl have recovered and Miss Fette and Mrs. Fuhrman continue improving slowly. Mrs. Fuhrman was taken from Sherman to Dallas Thursday for further examination and is back at Sherman.

Committee Set for Labor Day Picnic

Plans are complete for the Labor Day picnic sponsored by Sacred Heart parish next Monday as a benefit for the new church fund. Committee members meeting Tuesday night with Father Louis Deuster and chairman Charley Hellman discussed the picnic in detail and decided they are ready to put on a well organized party.

The event, to be held in the parish park, will feature the usual concessions. Probably the most important change will be roast beef and sausage lunches served on paper plates instead of boxed chicken lunches. Foods will be prepared in the lunch room, taken in large containers of the park kitchen and served there.

The kitchen is one of the park's improvements since July 4. It is a 16 x 40 building with concrete floor and metal roof. Sides are boarded to counter height and screened the rest of the way up. Outside the screen are light weight sides hung on hinges. They serve as a wall when the building is not in use and open to provide shade when the building is in use.

Other improvements include more brush clearance allowing more breeze and better parking and a new bridge on the road to the park.

The picnic begins about 9 a.m. and will continue into the night. A dance on the park platform will begin about 9 p.m.

Saint Jo Man Joins Public School Staff

Faculty assignments at the Muenster public school were completed this week with the addition of Bill Phillips of Saint Jo, who will teach driver education and a math class in high school along with math, health and science in the elementary department.

Phillips, a veteran with 3½ years of service in the Air Force during the last war, graduated at NTSC, Denton, in 1950.

This week he is attending a special teachers' training course in driver education at the San Marcos Teachers College.

Charter Presented At Cub Scout Meet

Muenster Cub Scouts received their charter last Wednesday evening during a meeting for which their parents were guests. Cecil Rayburn, field executive for Circle 10 Boy Scouts Council, presided at the charter conferring ceremony.

During the meeting parents of the cubs checked den achievement charts, heard a short address by Father Louis Deuster, and participated in a pop question period conducted by Mr. Rayburn on "Five Points for a Successful Pack".

Members answered roll call by telling something they did to save or conserve during the July program which was Conservation - Respect for Property and Natural Resources. The Bob Cats recited the conservation pledge.

The new theme, "The Mail Goes Through", was discussed and the group sang one verse of "America the Beautiful".

Father Louis opened and closed the meeting with prayer. Cub Master Jerome Pagel was in charge of the program.

Current Campaign Promotes Increase In Vetch Acreage

"Let's turn Cooke County green this Winter."

"If you want to save the soil elect Hairy Vetch."

These are slogans in a current campaign to have Vetch elected as a soil conserving crop favorite in a large part of Cooke County.

Each night of this week a meeting is being held somewhere in the county under the joint sponsorship of the First State Bank of Gainesville and the second National Bank of Houston. The program offers talks by O. F. Armstrong of Texas Friends of Conservation and by Dooley Dawson, vice-president of the Houston bank, in addition to eats, musical numbers and a question and answer session. Claude Jones of the Gainesville bank presides at the meetings.

Places at which meetings are held, in the order of their dates on the schedule, are Woodbine, Callisburg, Dexter, Sivelles Bend, Marysville and Rosston. These are the sandy land areas especially adapted to the growing of vetch. Black land areas, more adaptable to alfalfa and clover, are not included in the campaign.

The campaign fits in with the Upper Elm Red District soil building objective to plant 92,000 acres of vetch in the district in 1952. Advantages of planting the crop are listed as a cover crop to protect soil against wind and water erosion, a valuable grazing crop, a soil builder for both pasture and crop lands, a profitable seed crop, and also a good honey crop . . . if the farmer has bees.

Grayson and Montague counties are also campaigning for Vetch. Tuesday night J. W. Hess and Emmitt Yoder met with a group of Nocona business men to help them plan meetings in Montague County. A report from Grayson County reveals that a series of meetings is also planned there.

Teachers Named at Parochial School

Faculty assignments announced this week at the Sacred Heart School reveal that most of last year's teachers will again be back at their regular duties. The only changes are the addition of one teacher in the high school department, increasing the faculty from three to four, and a change of two teachers in the grade department.

High school teachers are Sister Theresina, principal, and Sisters Geraldine, Celine and Louise. All except Sister Louise are last year's teachers. Sister Louise returns after teaching at Holy Angels Academy in Jonesboro for two years.

Grade school teachers are Sisters Carmelita, principal, and Sisters Christine, Gregory, Gabriel, Evangelista, Pauline, Ann, Grace, Rose, and Canisia, local mother superior. Sister Rose and Sister Grace are teaching in Muenster for the first time. They replace Sister Theophane and Sister Cabrini.

Sister Doiores continues as music instructor and Sister Anselma continues as housekeeper in the Sister's home.

Sister Theresina Wednesday announced high school subjects and instructors as follows: Sister Celine, English and the social sciences; Sister Louise, Mathematics and typing; Sister Geraldine, English and bookkeeping; Sister Theresina, science and Latin.

The American Way

Aftermath Ten Times Worse
 By DeWitt Emery

The steel strike is over, at least the men are back to work and the mills are running. Actually, however, the strike is still on for many of the manufacturers and fabricators who had to shut down because they ran out of material. And the "strike" hasn't started yet for thousands of small plants, some pretty big ones too, which will have to shut down sometime within the next thirty or sixty days because they can't get steel.

Some of these plants will be down for three or four months, maybe longer, and others will never reopen because the owners will not be able to carry the overhead while waiting for steel and thus will be forced into bankruptcy.

Before the strike, defense production was taking about 20% of all of the steel produced. For the next several months defense production will take at least 40% of the total. This, on top of the twenty million tons lost by the strike, means that an awful lot of non-defense manufacturers aren't going to get any steel at all until sometime next year. The strike itself was bad enough but the aftermath will be ten times worse.

I said in my last piece that "the steel strike is a national disgrace." It is and if it hasn't hit you yet, directly or indirectly, it will and when it does remember that it was all caused by two men, Phil Murray, President of the C.I.O., and Harry Truman, President of the United States.

In the final settlement Murray accepted terms which the steel mills offered before the strike was a week old. Truman, any time after the first day of the strike or even before it started, could have stopped it by invoking the Taft-Hartley Act. Then once the procedures set up by this Act were put into operation, the steel workers would have had an opportunity to vote by secret ballot on whether to accept the steel mills' last best offer or go on strike. That ballot unquestionably would have killed any possibility of a strike.

However, Truman, playing dirty ward politics which is all he knows, told Murray before the strike started that he would not use the Taft-Hartley Act and the strike was on. This country, that means you and me and all of our neighbors and other friends, has paid a terrible price which it's impossible to calculate because Sidney Hillman, a union labor boss, cleared that little guy for Vice President in 1944.

What about the future? John L. Lewis, in a matter of a few weeks, may take his miners out on strike and shut the steel mills down again.

How much longer are the American people going to stand for this sort of thing?

How much longer are they going to permit a half dozen unscrupulous, power-hungry union labor bosses to have complete control over the welfare of 160 million Americans?

When are they—the people—going to have sense enough or guts enough to force Congress to bust up the union labor monopoly which is by far the most dangerous monopoly this country has ever known?

The remedy, which I have spelled out in these pieces time and again, is for Congress to amend the Taft-Hartley Act to put a ban on industry-wide bargaining.

Now while the congressional campaign is on would be a mighty good time for you to find out how the candidates of both parties in your district stand on this important matter. Ask them point blank, "if elected, will you vote to put a ban on industry-wide bargaining?" and, if necessary, insist on a straightforward yes or no answer.

This is only one of several things in the national picture which must be corrected if every American is to continue to have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness so long as he does not interfere with these same rights of any other American. I'll discuss some of the others in future columns.

ON HITCHING OUR WAGON TO THE STARS

In 1858, a farm wagon with the name "Studebaker" stenciled on its sides, marked the beginning of the American phenomenon of mass-production . . . by which this country stole an economic march on the Old World.

This farm wagon, and not the buggy (as most people think), was the fore-runner of the automobile industry. It marketed the first expression of the radical idea of building a stock of vehicles in advance of their sale, instead of building them to order

Thirty cents out of every dollar the customer spends goes to the government in hidden taxes.

Based on the Economic Report to the President January 1952 and the first time that vehicles were sold under a trade-name!

No doubt these are among the things we'd never have known, but for the fact that Studebaker is currently celebrating its hundredth anniversary, and has pieced together out of the old records one more of the inspiring stories of American free enterprise. It is pretty impressive, for instance, to learn that the Studebaker brothers built three wagons during their first year in business, and the present company sold more than 285,000 vehicles in its hundredth year.

What should concern us most, however, as we pause momentarily to look back over a trail we have blazed, not merely for ourselves, but for all the world, is whether we can maintain this leadership. When we have taught our methods of making and selling things in vast quantity to the nations that envy our class-less prosperity what then? Will we be destroyed by our own generosity and the willingness of foreigners to work harder for less pay?

The answer, we think, lies not so much in the ability of others to follow, as in our continued ability to lead. And this depends, not on wage-scales, but the pre-

Determined Few Changed Course Of History

by Rev. James Keller

THE RECENT WAVE of prison riots caused millions to shudder. The rioting showed in miniature how a determined handful can take over in a moment.

This shocking outbreak convinced us more than ever before of the pressing need for a few—with the vision of the good and the daring of the evil—to take it upon themselves to strive for the things that make for peace.

A moral breakdown already has our country tottering—through disloyalty, corruption, graft, delinquency, narcotics, immorality, and a host of other abuses.

Is all of this a final warning? Is it the beginning of the end?

SOMETHING CAN STILL be done about it—it is not too late. There can be a great hope for the future, if only one percent of Americans can be found, without delay, to risk everything to stem the tide and rebuild the spiritual foundations on which our country began.

God will bless even the least individual who tries to play a part in this breathtaking opportunity to change the world for the better.

EVEN LENIN paid tribute to the power of the few. When asked what helped the Communists most in overthrowing Russia, he promptly replied, "The weakness of our enemies." Then he continued: "If there had been in Petrograd, in 1917, only a group of a few thousand men who knew what they wanted, we would never have come to power in Russia."

Often have we thought of those "few thousands." They were probably very good people who felt no obligation to anyone but themselves.

Those "few thousands" missed the chance of a lifetime—yes, of a century—to change the course of history toward peace.

NOW IT'S our turn. Will we measure up to this extraordinary challenge or not? You have part of the answer to that.

In God's plan a very few in America may have it in their hands to bring lasting peace and freedom to the world for generations to come. One of those few can be you.

Yes, you can help save the world before it is too late! What a great time to be alive!

Soil Conservation
Notes

It's going to be Hairy Vetch all the way this fall in the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District, according to J. W. Hess, chairman of the district board.

When the five man district board met in Gainesville for their regular monthly meeting the all out drive for 92,000 acres this fall was up for discussion.

In order that conservation equipment will be available to help accomplish the goal, the district board has on order 20 new combination drills to go along with the 24 now on hand. According to Mr. Hess 44 drills will plant a lot of vetch, if planting can begin early in September.

"Now is the best opportunity we've ever had in our district to get a big acreage planted because we have just completed harvesting the largest seed crop in the history of our district", G. E. Blackmon, district supervisor of Bowie pointed out.

One and one-half million pounds is a lot of vetch and from the dollars and cents angle figured at .15 cents per pound this would be a $225,000 seed harvest.

Rush Freeman, supervisor of Southmayd, points out that most district cooperators in his zone who have had vetch in the past plan to plant a much larger acreage this year. From 50 to 100 acres is not uncommon.

Henry Reynolds, supervisor of Nocona, states that a lot of vetch will be planted on retired needle grass fields and pasture as well

COST OF TB HIGH

The average cost of one case of tuberculosis can be estimated as $14,000 or $15,000, the National Tuberculosis Association reports. This is a composite figure obtained as a result of several studies, most of which were made by the New York State Department of Health. This amount includes cost of medical care, compensation, loss of wages, pensions and relief payments to the patient's family while the patient is incapacitated. The estimated figure does not include loss of the patient's productive capacity and the potential future earning power of those who succumb to this disease.

Boom Expected to Hit Next Week in Auto Inspection

Between now and September 6 business will be booming at Muenster's safety inspection stations. Monday of this week, according to reports submitted to T. M. Rains, safety department inspector, slightly more than 800 cars have been checked and about 500 remain to be checked. Rains also cautioned that persons who fail to get their stickers on time had better keep their cars off the road after Sept. 6 until they can get an inspection. Violation of the safety law, he said, is a misdemeanor subject to fine as high as $200.

By way of consolation, however, he said that the safety regulations aren't nearly as tough as they have been described. Requirements are a bare minimum of conditions needed to keep a car under reasonable control.

For instance, vehicles having brakes on all wheels must stop within 30 feet at 20 m. p. h. Those not having brakes on all wheels must stop within 40 feet at the same speed. Brakes on all cars must be equalized. Cars must have two headlights of at least 3,500 candle power each. That's about one fourth of normal strength, not much more than a good flashlight. It must have one tail light. Steering wheel may have up to 4 inches of free motion. A horn must be heard as far as 200 feet. Windshield blemishes are excused so long as the driver's vision is not seriously affected. If the car has no windshield it can pass anyway.

Other requirements are equally lenient. In fact, Rains said, any car that does not meet these standards would be a hazard even when driven by a careful driver.

He pointed out the need for safety inspections by showing that mechanical faults killed an average of one Texan a day in 1951. On the experience of other states the safety department hopes to prevent more than 10,000 accidents in the first year of operation. He explained also that Texas laws for many years have required adequate brakes, lights and other safety equipment. But the trouble in the past was that defects usually were discovered after accidents. The purpose of inspection is to find and correct faults before they cause accidents. There is no way to see that a car is safe.

LIBERTY BAPTIST CHURCH TO END REVIVAL SUNDAY

Members of the Liberty Baptist church at Hays this week extended a general invitation to former members, friends and everyone interested to attend the services Sunday, the closing day of the revival. Those attending are requested to bring covered dishes or basket lunches for a picnic at noon. Members look forward to having a record breaking number in Sunday School and at services.

Rev. R. G. Barrington, pastor, will bring the morning message and Don C. Cooke, Sunday School superintendent, will be in charge of the young people's program.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Hess and sons spent Sunday and Monday in Duncan, Okla., visiting the Joe Yostens and the Richard Yostens. The group had a picnic to observe Joe's birthday. Dennis Hess remained to spend several days with his uncle and aunt.

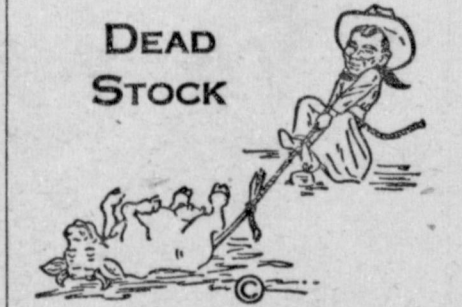

A convicted murderer was scheduled to die in the electric chair. On the morning of the day of his execution, he was asked by the warden, "Is there anything special you would like for breakfast this morning?"

The condemned man replied, "Yes mushrooms. I've always been scared to eat them for fear of being poisoned."

"Father," said little Frank, as he turned the pages of his history, "how did the cliff dwellers keep warm in the winter time?" "Why, I guess they used the mountain ranges. Now don't ask me any more foolish questions."

work for a good day's pay. Labor leaders could apply his principle to their members' benefit today. If workers have trouble making ends meet they could improve their condition by cooperating in lowering the prices of things they have to buy. A little more work for the same pay would reduce unit costs. That would be followed by reduced selling prices with corresponding increase in the value of the wage dollar.

Suppose the steel dispute had been handled that way. If workers had agreed to give an extra two or four hours a week at the same pay steel prices could have been reduced accordingly. If workers in all industries did the same thing all prices would come down, and all workers would have a better living without a higher wage.

The constantly rising cost of living during the past several years is evidence a plenty that our economic system is out of balance. In spite of successive raises in wages, Labor doesn't seem to make any real progress. Under such circumstances can we claim that we are doing things for the working man? Isn't it about time that we tried some other solution? Well, why not emphasize labor instead of Labor?
