Republican Nominees Are Landslide Winners

PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

VICE-PRESIDENT RICHARD M. NIXON

Muenster Favors Eisenhower 8 to 1 In Record Ballot

Like the nation, the state and the county, Muenster swarmed to the polls Tuesday and voted its overwhelming preference for Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon as the next president and vice president of the United States.

The only difference was that Muenster surpassed by far the percentages of preference by the nation, state and county. Final count in the two voting boxes was 645 out of 725, or 89 per cent for Eisenhower.

Broken down according to the two local voting boxes the count was as follows: North box; 489 for Eisenhower and 60 for Stevenson. South box 156 for Eisenhower and 20 for Stevenson.

Besides being the largest Republican majority ever polled here, the election was Muenster's largest on record. The north box had 595 votes and the south box had 176 for a total 771. Eligible voters listed were 520 poll taxes and 25 under poll tax age exemptions in the north voting precinct and 153 poll taxes and 8 exemptions in the south precinct. Over poll tax age voters, of which no list is available, are estimated to number about 150 in North Muenster and about 30 in South Muenster.

A few more eligible voters are persons who formerly voted at Freemound. That voting box was not open, and the people did their voting at South Muenster and Roston.

Counting all eligibles Muenster had an estimated voting strength of 900 and the ballots cast represent about 86 per cent of the possible vote.

Tuesday was a great day . . . for General Eisenhower, for the Republican party, and for the people of the United States. It's the day which we fervently hope will mark our government's change from the alarming socialistic and bureaucratic trends of recent years back to the solid principles upon which were built the vigor and stamina which enabled us to survive the enormous strain of a global war followed by a global reconstruction program along with an appalling record of inefficiency, extravagance and corruption in domestic affairs.

There's no reason to think we are headed for a Utopia. However there is reason to believe that we can look forward to notable improvements in many ways. Along with the millions of voters who gave Ike his overwhelming majority we confidently expect that the changes to be made will be changes for the better. Certainly we have a right to expect more efficiency, honesty, loyalty and wisdom than we have had in recent years. We have a right to get back to safe and sane economic standards as well as to restore our honor and prestige before the rest of the world.

As we start on this great crusade in behalf of the dignity of the citizen and his country it is well for us to assume the same cooperative and humble attitude that the new president showed when accepting the mandate of the voters . . . also the same spirit that the defeated candidate showed in his gracious statement conceding the election.

The contest of parties is over. This is not the time to gloat over victory or to sorrow over defeat but the time to work together as Americans for the common good of all. With such a spirit we can go forward to greater achievement and greater happiness while leading the world to new heights of dignity and happiness.

Will Muenster get residential pavement or not? That is the big question around town, and one that deserves a lot more thought and effort before it is brushed aside as a hopeless project.

It's apparent that serious problems are involved. Too many of us are aware of the faults in methods proposed, so we're giving up without due consideration of other factors, if we have to continue getting along without pavement.

This column will not bother to enumerate the merits of pavement. People don't have to be sold on such matters as better driving, better appearance and cleanliness . . . especially after the constant cloud of dust they have had during this year's drought.

The big objection, it seems, is that we can't afford pavement . . . or that we are not willing to pay what it costs. But how many have wondered whether we can afford to get along without pavement? How many have compared present street costs with pavement costs?

According to published reports by the city treasurer during the past two years the city spent almost $3500 on material, labor and equipment for streets during that time. And anybody who has driven around town lately knows a lot more money will have to be spent soon. The cost of the drought in street damage probably is not far from $1000.

In other words Muenster is paying a terrific price now for its dusty, gravel streets. Over a long period they cost as much as good streets would cost. And since that is true, can the town afford to continue with the inferior streets?

Once that point is decided it's no longer a question of whether we should have pavement, but of the best way to get it.

In that respect the views expressed at the city council meeting Monday seem to indicate a compromise between two proposed plans as the fairest and most practical way. Finance the project partly on bond issue and partly on assessments.

Here's the idea in general. Set up the project to include the main traffic arteries, about half of the town's street mileage. That would cost only half as much as (Continued on page 10)

Council Fails to Adopt Plans for Pavement Project

Muenster's paving project is in trouble. After a long discussion Monday afternoon members of the city council ended just where they started and left property owners to get along as best they can on their own.

Three methods were considered as possible ways for the city to handle the project, and none was adopted. One was by bond issue to be paid out over a period of years by taxes. Another was by assessing property owners for the cost of pavement in front of their own property. The third was waiting until the city has completed present water bond payments and then pave as current revenue allows.

The objection to the first plan is that a bond to pave all streets would be too much of a financial burden and one to pave only the arteries of principal traffic would be opposed by most people not lucky enough to be on the favored streets.

Assessing owners for their share of the pavement cost, which was said to be the plan followed in most other cities, likewise met objections on behalf of people who are either unwilling or unable to pay their part.

The third plan was equally unattractive in that first of all it postpones the pavement for several years and then gets it in short expensive lengths.

About the only course left is for those who want the pavement to work up the project on their own streets. The city council is still willing to cooperate with owners who get the pavement on their own. It will prepare base for the surfacing and pay for surfacing the gaps at street intersections and alleys.

Two Hornet Teams Meet at Homecoming

In their Homecoming game, and the last home game of the season, Muenster High's Hornets will be mixing with another swarm of Hornets this Thursday night.

The opponent is Era High, also a member of the 11-B Interscholastic League district. Game time is about 7:30 o'clock following homecoming ceremonies.

The game is one in which odds are stacked definitely in favor of the local boys, but it is far from a cinch. Era ranks fourth in conference standing with victories over Boyd and Callisburg, a tie with Valley View, and losses to Saint Jo and Sanger. Muenster has the better record in games with all teams except Saint Jo, but not enough better to rule out the chance of an upset.

Lions Will Sponsor Drive for TB Fund

Members of the Muenster Lions Club Tuesday night got behind the drive to raise funds for the Cooke County Tuberculosis Association. President M. D. Kaderli appointed a committee of ten members to contact all business men of town to sell TB bonds in connection with the annual sale of TB Christmas seals.

Dr. T. S. Myrick, president of the county TB unit, explained that bonds are in denominations of $5, $10, $15, $20 and $25. Of the money raised by them 94 per cent remains in the county unit and the balance is sent to the state association. Money retained (Continued on page 10)

Miss Hellman will be crowned in colorful ceremonies, scheduled for 7 o'clock, on the 50 yard line. Co-captains Burt Hamric and Wilfred Klement will escort Her Royal Highness and present her with her crown and a bouquet.

Attending Queen Jane will be Princesses Louise Butler, Mary Nell Hellman and Norma Jean Klement. Duchesses from the grade school, the entire Hornet squad and the pep squad will also participate in the ceremonies.

The Community Band will open the program with a Grand March and will close it with the National Anthem.

The school's annual homecoming dance has been postponed until the following night.

Post Office Move Being Considered

There's some truth in the report now going around that the post office will be moved. It's being considered but the Post Office department still has not given its okay.

Postmaster Arthur Endres said the location under consideration is the former Schmitz Furniture place adjoining Fisher's market. A post office inspector on a recent visit here approved the place as better than the present location and sent his recommendation to the Post Office department.

If the approval comes through soon the change will be made promptly. If later the change will wait until after the Christmas rush.

The principal advantage of the proposed location, as mentioned by the inspector, is more floor space allowing a better arrangement of boxes and service windows as well as more working space and better arrangement in the back.

Hornets Bow 26-0 To Power Drives Of Sanger Indians

The Sanger Indians, consisting of ten good men and a superman, humbled the Muenster High Hornets 26-0 at Sanger last Friday night to claim top spot in the 11-B Conference standing.

The loss drops Muenster to third place in the district race, with a chance of moving up to second when it plays Saint Jo. . . unless the Panthers upset the favored Indians. In that case the Hornets can still share a three way tie for first place by upsetting Saint Jo later.

Muenster did not have a ghost of a chance Friday night as the big powerful and smoothly operating Indians played magnificently on both offense and defense. They could not gain nor could they stop the relentless Sanger drive, especially when big Bishop was toting the ball. He accounted for well over half of the Sanger yardage and all the scoring. With the help of a stout line he seldom had trouble finding an opening, and once he got through he consistently picked up ample distance before two or three Hornet backs could bring him down.

On defense the Indian record was equally good. Muenster's only first downs were registered near the end of the game against the Sanger reserves.

VFW Auxiliary to Honor War Dead On Armistice Day

An Armistice Day program, the annual Christmas party, and gift packages for Muenster servicemen overseas, were the principal topics of discussion at the regular meeting of the local VFW Auxiliary Monday night.

The program honoring Muenster war dead will be held on Nov. 11 at 8:30 a.m. at the servicemen's section of the cemetery. The ceremony will be short, consisting of prayers and a talk and the placing of a poppy wreath on the servicemen's monument. Mrs. Carl Schilling, auxiliary chaplain, and Mrs. Maurice Pagel, president of the organization, will conduct the services. The public is invited to attend.

Overseas Gift Packages

The committee in charge of sending Christmas cheer to Muenster servicemen overseas reported that gift items have been coming in nicely, donated by members, and that those who have not made their contribution yet still have time to do so. Suggested items to fill in with those already on hand are hard candies and canned delicacies such as small cans of fruit, boned chicken or turkey and shoe string potatoes.

The packaging committee will meet next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to prepare the 22 boxes for shipment.

Yule Party December 19

The annual Christmas party for children of members will be held on the afternoon of Dec. 19. Names were drawn for a gift exchange among members and a committee will be named to take charge of children's gifts, decorations, santa's appearance and refreshments. Details will be announced when they are completed.

Contribution to TB Fund

In lieu of the usual attendance prize given at meetings, members contributed ten dollars to the current TB fund drive.

After business, hostesses for the evening, Mmes. Arthur Felderhoff and Lawrence Roberg, served refreshments to 43 members.

Hornets Lose ---

Muenster had the ball Sanger held and the Hornets kicked on fourth down. The Indians, when in possession, either made the distance on a sustained drive or renewed the drive after being stopped temporarily by the Hornets.

During the first quarter Muenster stopped two drives but by the end of the period Sanger was headed for its first score. Bishop went over early in the second quarter.

The second score, also in the second period, followed a big push that started on the Indian 27 and went the distance in nine plays.

Opening the second half the Indians again stopped the Hornets on their first series then drove all the way from their 24. And again Bishop figured in most of the plays, either running or passing for good gains.

For a while then, about the duration of a quarter, the teams played on more even terms. The ball changed sides five times, Muenster still failing to make a first down but holding Sanger to only one first down. But Bishop broke the deadlock suddenly with a 38 yard charge to the goal.

Facing mostly reserves the Hornets then made their only bid for a score, on a 43 yard drive that played out on the Sanger 27.

Today I did easily and quickly a task that floored me yesterday. I'd forgotten why I couldn't do it.—Nuggets.

ST. JOHN'S SAYS WELCOME AND FAREWELL TO PASTORS

A program last Wednesday evening at Valley View honored Rev. Thomas Weinzapfel and Rev. Antoni Gadjia. For the former it was a farewell tribute, for the latter a welcome party.

Father Weinzapfel has been transferred to Dallas to be on the staff of the new diocesan publication, the Texas Catholic, and is being replaced as pastor of St. John's church by Father Gadjia who comes to Valley View from St. Edward's parish in Dallas. He was a chaplain in the Polish army during world war II, was taken prisoner and later escaped.

Father Paul Charcut of Pilot Point was master of ceremonies for the program. Brief talks were followed by the serving of punch and cookies.

Joining Valley View parishioners for the evening were friends and relatives from Muenster, Whitesboro, and Sanger, and Fathers Silk of Decatur, Walter of Denton, and Molloy of Gainesville.

The American Way

LEARNING BY DOING
 By George Peck

One may reasonably entertain doubts regarding the future of America insofar as its over-all economy is concerned. Spend-thrift habits are hard to overcome and all too many Americans have become inured to waste and debt. The lessons of thrift and integrity will have to be learned over again, if we are ever to be a solvent nation again. But, fortunately, there is one segment of our economy over which we need have no sleepless nights or grow any prematurely gray hairs. Today American agriculture, is definitely in good hands. That healthy condition will continue thus for many a year to come, because growing to manhood and womanhood on America's farms is a large group of teen-agers that is being thoroughly trained to take over the huge task of running those farms and of feeding America, as well as other parts of the world.

It is hardly necessary for me to state that this group comprises the more than 2 million youngsters who belong to the 86,000 4-H Clubs located in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

On November 30 some 1,200 of these 4-H boys and girls will "blow" into the Windy City where the 31st National 4-H Club Congress is to be held commencing on that date and running through to December 4. These 1,200 enthusiastic young people are winners of 4-H projects conducted under the State and Federal Extension Services. As Congress delegates, they will receive various awards arranged through the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, a citizens' group which lends support to the 4-H Program.

More than 40 business firms, foundations and public-spirited individuals sponsor national and sectional 4-H award projects as their contribution to this sound, successful youth program. The donor organizations provide to the National Committee grants totaling more than $750,000 to be used for 4-H medals, college scholarships, watches, savings bonds, leader training and other worthwhile objectives. These donors are to be heartily commended for their wisdom in helping to create a sound agriculture in the years to come.

"The awards presented at the 4-H Club Congress are bestowed for self-earned advancement," G. L. Noble, Director of the National Committee, points out. "To 4-H Club members they are priceless symbols of achievement and public recognition. That is why so many of our agricultural and industrial leaders are interested in providing incentives that will help to build aggressive, sturdy citizens."

While these 1,200 4-H Club "Champs" are in Chicago, they will be royally entertained and dined, but not wined. All work and no play makes even a 4-H'er a dull youngster. At the same time, the sober purposes of the meeting will not be overshadowed by festivity. These kids are serious and they mean business. Fortright group discussions, addresses by prominent speakers, exchange of ideas with youths from other countries and other stimulating features will be a part of the Congress, which will stress the theme of the year: "Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H."

There is no segment of American youth more serious-minded than the boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Club work. Through practical training in farming, home-making and related fields, 4-H'ers develop a sense of responsibility far beyond their years. At the same time, they make a real contribution to the nation's economy in their program of "Learning By Doing."

The achievements of the 2 million members in their 86,000 4-H Clubs under the guidance of their 293,000 Local Volunteer Club Leaders are too numerous to mention in the short space allotted to me here, but they are magnificent—so magnificent that, as aforesaid, we need have no worry about the future of agriculture here in America. May these 4-H'ers have the enjoyable time they so richly merit at Chicago November 30 to December 4; may they gain in stature and wisdom as a result of the get-together; and may they return to their local 4-H Clubs fired with an even greater zeal to make of themselves the best farmers that have ever been, any time, anywhere.

Hearts Yearn For Life, Truth And Love

EVERY HEART and mind and soul in creation desires fundamentally three realities and only three realities—Life, Truth, and Love.

The first deep-seated yearning in the human heart is the yearning for life. Of all our treasures it is that which we surrender last, and with the greatest reluctance. Titles, joys, and wealth, power, ambition, honor—all of these we will let go provided we can hold on to that precious, palpitating, vibrating thing called life.

The second most fundamental craving is the desire for truth. The very first question we asked was the question "Why?" We are incurably bent on knowing and discovering the truth of things—that is why we hate to have secrets kept from us.

The third fundamental inclination of human nature is the desire to love and to be loved. From the first day in the Garden of Eden, when God said, "It is not good for man to be alone", on even to the crack of doom, man has thirsted and will thirst for love. And so the quest goes on from the cradle to the grave.

WE DESIRE life and truth and love, but do we find them in their plenitude on this earth? We possess a fraction of life, a fraction of truth, and a fraction of love, but do we possess them in their fullness?

Life is mingled with death; truth is mingled with error; and love is mingled with hate.

Where find the source of these three realities?
 IF I AM to find the source of the life and the truth and the love that is in this world, I must go out to Someone who is Pure Life, Pure Truth, and Pure Love.

GOD IS the fullness of Life and Truth and Love.

God is that Life which has throbbled throughout the agelessness of eternity, wherein each moment is eternity and eternity is as a moment.

God is that Truth in whom darkness and ignorance can find no place, before whom all is spread out in its widest extent and smallest detail.

God is that Love who ever wills and loves the good because it is His nature, that Love whence has come the love of spouse for spouse, and that yet stranger love of a Stephen who loved and prayed for those who stoned him in hate.

If, then, God is the source of the life, the truth, and the love in the universe, do we not owe Him something in return? Since He gave us truth, are we not in duty bound to know Him? Since He gave us love, should we not love in return? Since He gave us life, should we not serve Him?

IF WE WOULD know what God is, then we need only look into our own hearts. Something God-like is mirrored there; for whatever is best in the treasured lives of heroic men is but the dim reflection of that which in God is perfect.

If a human heart can increase the joy of living, then what must be the great Heart of God! If the spark is so bright, oh, what must be the Flame!

Amble over to Bob's Restaurant Tuesday for lunch and noticed a new sign "Left Ham Sandwich, 40¢... Right Ham Sandwich, 30¢."

"Why the sign, Bob?" I asked. "Don't tell me you believe hogs scratch more with their right leg than with their left—so's the left ham is more tender?"

"No," he says. "I don't take any stock in it. But, some people have ordered those 'left' sandwiches. When I explain to them that there's nothing to that fable, that the sign is just a business-getter, and I've only one price, they enjoy a regular, old fashioned, plain ham sandwich all the more!"

From where I sit, stories like "right" hams being tougher than "left" ones are with us because some people get ideas into their head and hang onto them for dear life. It's like those who think an adult like myself hasn't the right to a glass of beer with my supper. I say let's keep our opinions free from being "sandwiched-in" by misinformation.

MORE TERRITORY

Junior was one of those little terrors, and papa was surprised when mama suggested that they buy him a bicycle. "Do you think it will improve his behavior?"

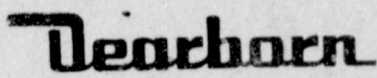

"No," replied mama grimly, "but it will spread his meanness over a wider area."

Whizzing over tomorrow's landscape, the high-speed monorail superliner seen at left above may be the railroad's answer to challenge of the airplane. Built near Cologne, Germany, for test runs only, the model car is two-fifths normal size, travels 100 miles per hour. Backed by Swedish millionaire, Axel Wenner-Gren, the new train was kept secret by the Rail Transportation Research Society until this year. At right is the unique monorail track at a switching point which is set to curve right. Electric power is fed to the engine through metal bands on the rails. Rollers, built into a deep slot on the engine's underside, ride on the one rail which is six feet above ground. Full-scale models are expected to travel 210 miles per hour.

Farmers Urged to Improve Ponds Now

The Assistant Chief Aquatic Biologist of the Game and Fish Commission suggested that Texans utilize the drought to improve tanks, ponds or lakes that have dried up.

He said that the tanks and ponds could be deepened and enlarged and silt removed from the bottom since, contrary to popular belief, silt is harmful rather than beneficial to water bodies.

The Assistant Chief also pointed out that the enlargement will increase the surfaces and thus benefit fish life since most fish foods are produced in the upper one foot of water.

Future food facilities also may be improved, he said, by planting legumes in the dried-up bottom area.

Farmers and ranchers also were advised to capitalize on the opportunity by planning to restock their tanks and ponds with desirable species and thus keep down the rough fish which prey on the game fish.

The Game and Fish Commission cooperates with persons with tank or small lakes since they provide increased facilities for the fishing public and since private waters oftentimes supply such as brood bass for state hatcheries.

The Assistant Chief reminded persons who have ordered fish from state hatcheries to notify the nearest hatchery if their tanks or ponds have dried up or are about to. Such persons, he said, will be given priority when wet weather returns and the deliveries are resumed.

Self-satisfaction is the short route to self-elimination.

BIG BUBBLE—Looping up slowly from the deck of U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Eastwind, a huge instrument-carrying plastic balloon begins the long ascent to the stratosphere where it will record data on cosmic rays for the Office of Naval Research. Released near the geomagnetic pole in northern Greenland, the balloon carried scientific and instrumented rockets which measured the charge and energy spectrum of primary cosmic radiation and the interaction of radiation with earth's atmosphere at high altitudes.

HOW'S THAT NEW CAR? COSTS 8 CENTS A MILE

If you operate a relatively new car you pay about eight cents a mile in travel costs.

If your car is of an expensive make the price runs up to 10 cents a mile.

Figure it out: if you run a car 1000 miles a month, chances are it costs you $80 to $100 per month, depending on the kind of car you drive, whether you know it or not.

You can cut down by running a "jalopy," doing your own repair work, and cutting out garage rent. This way you can get the cost down to two or three cents a mile.

These are some of the findings of a study by Dr. Ralph A. Moyer of the University of California Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering.

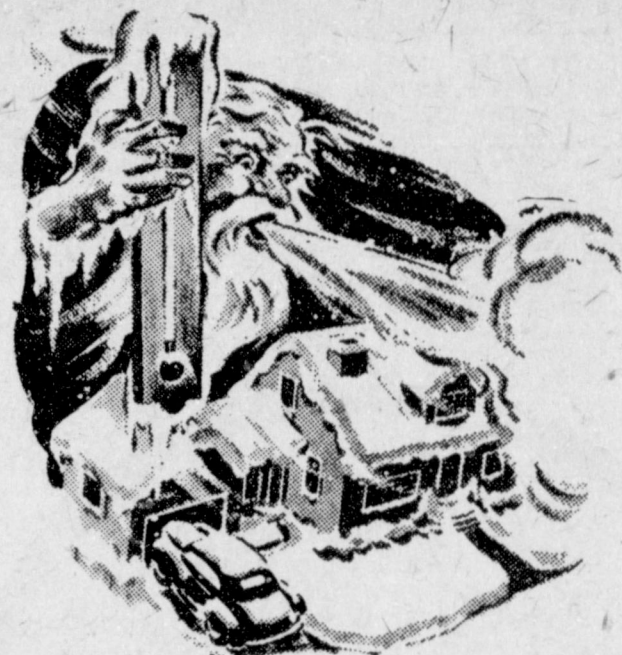

While modern costs of operating an automobile put the owner in the luxury class, he seems willing to pay the premium for the freedom and flexibility the automobile gives him, Dr. Moyer said.

Even so, the modern car owner is better off than in 1903 when the cost of operating a relatively new car of ordinary class ranged from 10 cents to 20 cents per mile.

It takes a Russian worker 466 minutes—7 hours and 48 minutes—to earn a pound of bacon that the average American employee earn in half an hour.

Half the amount one large company pays in income tax would give employees a 10 per cent rise in pay, stockholders a 10 per cent increase in dividends and leave enough to buy equipment to put 3,000 more employees to work, according to an editorial in the Eagle, Wichita, Kan.

Tested and Found Good

Everybody has something to sell. It's an axiom so true that the very man who tries to persuade you he has nothing to sell is proving its truth—he is trying to sell you an idea. That is why we bought the pears.

It was 10:00 o'clock on busy Monday. A dozen things needed to be done when a man with a basket stopped at the office door. We rose to head him off before he could enter with whatever wares he was peddling. He said, "Everybody has something to sell. What I have is pears, fresh, juicy pears, and they're cold—you know, a pear isn't good unless it's cold. They're good pears. You'll enjoy eating one or more."

We enjoyed eating two. But we found even greater pleasure in the man's approach. It bears analysis. First, he put himself and the prospect in the same bracket, the brotherhood of man trying to sell. And, in the same words, he left no opening for the prospect to deny his interest. Second, he drove home his sales points in quick but courteous manner. "Pears (not just pears, but) fresh, juicy pears." He followed up with no loss of time for the prospect to halt him, "and they're cold." Then, while the prospect still listened, he jumped back on the same side of the fence by saying, "You know, a pear isn't good to eat unless it's cold." You agree on that.

Then the close, a sincere statement ("they're good pears") and the appeal to the prospect's interest ("you'll enjoy eating one or more").

Maybe the Pear Association had Elmer Wheeler train the salesman. Or, maybe the pear man could tell Elmer's Tested Sentence Institute something about selling. We don't know the backstage. But for 15 cents, we got two cold, juicy pears and a lesson in sales approach. It was not only a bargain, it was a pair of them.

SHHS, MHS Cagers Win Double Headers

Muenster High had stronger competition at Sanger. The first game was a neck and neck affair all the way with the Muenster reserves finally nosing ahead 26-25. Joyce Grewing scored 14 of the points. The Muenster A team, sparked by Carol Hellman's 18 points, forged ahead with the more comfortable margin of 33-23.

Here's How Little Rain We're Having

Everybody knows that this is the year of the big drought, but in case anyone doesn't know how little moisture the community has had here are a few figures taken from Steve Moter's official record.

The month just past was bone dry, the second completely dry month since January 1946, when the record started. The other no-rain month was November 1949.

Records also show that total moisture for the past five months, June through October was only 2.40 inches, about one fourth the average during those months during the preceding six years, and also the driest five month period on record. Almost as dry was the five months of October '49 through February '50 for a total of 2.62 inches.

Another record is the scarcity of rainfall since the beginning of the year. Figures show a total of 17.05 inches up to November 1. The average for the first 10 months in the preceding six years is slightly over thirty inches.

Unless this month and next bring far more rain than the average of closing months of past four years, the 1952 total will be less than 20 inches. The lowest total record here is 26.25 inches, in 1948. The highest total is 43.53, in 1950, and the average is 36.93.

an over all paving job and still serve the city's purpose very well.

Let property owners along those streets pay for half the paving. It's worth something extra to them to have the pavement pass their doors.

But at the same time let's bear in mind that the pavement is valuable also to the people still living on gravel streets. When they drive they will use the pavement . . . probably no one will be more than a block from it one way or the other. And since most people will drive on it there will be little traffic to raise dust on the gravel streets. Everybody benefits and it's reasonable for everybody to help pay.

The idea of buying pavement in shorter strips as we can pay for them has at least a few serious shortcomings. One is that several small projects cost considerably more than one large one. Another is that we continue paying the present maintenance costs for many years longer. And then there's the matter of what neighborhood to favor with the first short strip of pavement. Everybody wants to get away from the dust as soon as possible.

This column does not presume to offer the only solution of financing the project, and most likely somebody will work out a better one. But that isn't important. What counts is that we will eventually pay the price of a pavement job whether we have it or not. Well, then why not have it?

Election - - -

Eisenhower-Stevenson count in the north box is accounted for partly by absentee ballots and partly by improper marking.

Election judge I. A. Schoech explained that election materials included names of 12 absentee voters. Their names were listed on the poll register but their ballots were tallied and kept at the court house. The actual number of ballots counted here was 583.

The other 34 ballots were improperly marked in the presidential race. After voting in the first and second columns persons failed to cross out remaining columns all the way to the top. As a result the names of two or more presidential nominees were left standing and that part of the ballot could not be counted. Schoech said that the ballots, as marked in the first two columns, were overwhelmingly for Ike and if properly marked would have given him a total of well over 500 in the box.

Farther down in the columns markings were proper and the combined Democratic and Republican votes coincided with the total vote.

Only about half the people bothered to vote on the amendments. The amendment for insurance for state employees was opposed 208 to 172, and the medical fund amendment was opposed 236 to 138.

Mrs. Gregory Ege Of Lindsay Passes

Funeral services for Mrs. Gregory Ege, 65, of Lindsay, were held Wednesday morning, Oct. 29. She passed away in a Gainesville hospital where she was a patient suffering from a broken hip sustained in a fall about a week earlier.

Bearers were Tony Sicking, Joe Bauer, Ray Kupper, Andrew Zimmerman, Bernard Gieb and Cletus Bauer.

Mrs. Ege, the former Bertha Diesner, was born Aug. 6, 1877 in Nebraska and was married to Mr. Ege at Spalding, Neb., on Nov. 20, 1907. The couple moved to Cooke county 40 years ago, settling on a farm north of Lindsay.

In addition to her husband, survivors are one son, Bill Ege of Lindsay, two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Sharpsteen and Miss Teresa Diesner, and one brother, Herbert Diesner, all of St. Joseph, Mo.

"MY SIX CONVICTS"

are we FARMERS? ... or MINERS?

A MINER takes products from the earth and puts nothing back to replace them. In time the mine is abandoned and the land is left with ghost towns and desolation. The Western United States has a great many examples of this.

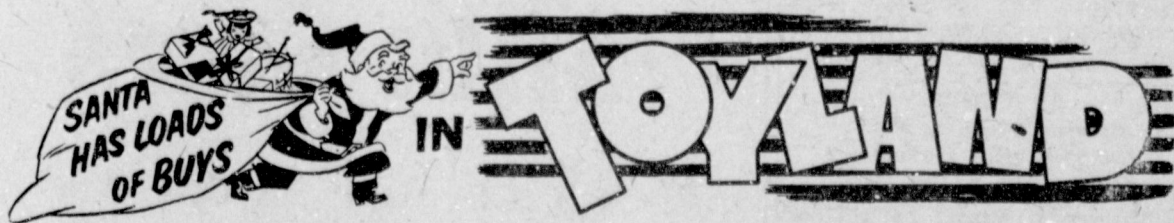

A FARMER takes products from the earth and through cover-cropping, contour farming, strip cropping, stubble-mulching, fertilizing (either commercial or green cover crops turned under), temporary pasturing and water conservation, restores the elements to the earth which his products have taken from it, never depleting the earth, but keeping its state of fertility intact, and even improving that fertility. Where FARMERS carry out these practices there will never be any ghost towns or desolation.

Let's look around North Texas and see the people leaving the land, the shift of population from the small towns to the cities. Then, let's evaluate what we see and ask ourselves:

Are We Farmers Or Are We Miners?
