SERVICE MEN WILL STUDY COMMUNISM

Air Force Chaplain Major George M. Rinkowski of Toledo, Ohio, has inaugurated an indoctrination program for the combat crew members of the 18th Fighter Bomber Wing.

The chaplain said the greatest enemy of freedom is ignorance. "Knowledge of communism, its philosophy, strategy, tactics, and knowledge of the right answers are the surest safeguard against it."

To better illustrate the contradictions of communistic philosophy, an analysis of the philosophy of democracy is used as a yardstick for comparison. This phase of the indoctrination covers the nature of man as a creature of God, his rights and corresponding duties.

Chaplain Rinkowski is giving the course to aid the GI's in their fight against those who "attempt to destroy the freedom of man in the brutality of 'brainwashing.'"

Rumor had it that young Stanley had been jilted, but his cheerful demeanor belied it. "Has your engagement been broken?" a friend asked bluntly.

"Not exactly," Stanley replied. "Has it or has it not been broken?" the other insisted. "Well, it was this way," Stanley wryly explained. "She told me the amount of her annual clothing bill and I told the amount of my annual salary; and the engagement just sort of dissolved."

Miss Walterscheid And Weldon Bezner Say Vows Tuesday

Miss Rose Marie Walterscheid and Weldon Bezner exchanged marriage vows in Sacred Heart church Tuesday morning at 8:30 with Rev. Alcuin Kubis of Scranton, Ark., cousin of the groom, officiating at the double ring ceremony and nuptial high mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphons Walterscheid of Muenster and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bezner of Lindsay.

Wedding music was presented by the church choir and Anthony Luke, organist, and Mrs. Norbert Walterscheid who sang "On This Day" as a post-nuptial solo.

Miss Dorothy Mae Walterscheid, aunt of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Viola Bezner of Fort Worth, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Raymond Sandman of Lindsay was best man and Wilmer Walterscheid, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Miss Walterscheid and Miss Bezner were identically gowned in dusty rose taffeta frocks with fitted bodices and bouffant net overskirts. They wore short matching taffeta capes and elbow length mitts, and half hats of pleated taffeta and net. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of white mums and they completed their costumes with pearl necklaces and earrings.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length dress of Chantilly lace over bridal satin. It was designed with a moulded bodice, stand-up collar, petal point sleeves and wide, graceful skirt. She wore a sweetheart crown of lace and satin edged with seed pearls and a fingertip length veil of nylon illusion netting. She carried a single white orchid with a purple throat on top of a white prayer book borrowed from Mrs. Lambert Bezner and carried a crystal rosary a wedding gift from the bridegroom. For something old she wore an antique gold bracelet formerly belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Schilling of Houston, who gave it to her as a sentimental wedding gift.

The altar before which the couple said their vows was adorned with mums, greenery and candles.

Raymond Walterscheid, uncle of the bride, and Lambert Bezner, brother of the groom, were ushers.

After the services, members of the bridal party and their immediate families were served a wedding breakfast in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Bezner, 215 McClain St., Gainesville.

At four o'clock the bride's parents were hosts for a wedding reception and buffet supper in the parish hall for about 300 guests. Mrs. Wilfred Bezner and Mrs. Norbert Walterscheid presided at the guest book.

The bride's table carried out her chosen colors and held a large double ring wedding cake which was cut by the couple and then served by Misses Evelyn and Genevieve Noggler.

Mrs. Walterscheid attended her daughter's wedding in a grey suit with a matching topper and black accessories. The groom's mother wore a navy suit with navy accessories. Both had white mum corsages, as did Mrs. John Walterscheid, paternal grandmother of the bride.

A dance in the VFW hall preceded Mr. and Mrs. Bezner's departure on a trip of unrevealed destination. For traveling Mrs. Bezner wore a navy suit with navy and sky blue accessories and the orchid she carried at her wedding.

When they return they will make their home on a farm at Lindsay.

Mrs. Bezner attended Sacred Heart and Muenster High schools graduating from Muenster High in 1953. For the past three months she was employed by the Cooke County Electric Cooperative as a typist and file clerk.

Mr. Bezner graduated from Lindsay High school in 1946 and attended college at Subiaco, Ark. He was a member of the Navy Seabees and served overseas 18 months.

A CATTLEMAN'S VIEWPOINT

William G. Davisson, of Ardmore, Oklahoma, is a cattleman. He also is one of Oklahoma's best known lawyers and represents a large association of cattlemen as well as many individual livestock producers. The TULSA WORLD, which has printed a number of his articles on problems confronting livestock producers, notes that "he is highly respected for his judgment in the cattle industry." In a recent article, Judge Davisson pointed out some of the realities associated with high rigid government price supports for farm products.

"Most of the cattlemen of my acquaintance do not want either subsidies or supports," he said, "and they believe that their misfortunes are largely due to the price supports that already exist under grain, protein feeds and other products which cattle producers must buy. Ordinarily, the chief competition which the packing companies must meet in buying livestock is furnished by the stocker and feeder buyers throughout the country, but chiefly in the grain belt of the nation. The price supports under grain have made it more profitable for these feeders to sell their grain to the government or to other buyers at support prices than to feed it into cattle, and they have largely dropped out of the market and removed the competition which the packer-buyers would otherwise have had.

Millions Lost

"Especially has this been true as to the types of cattle which should have gone back to the country for feeding. Thus, price supports under grain have caused losses of many millions of dollars to the livestock producer not only by forcing him to pay higher prices for his feed, but by destroying the market for his stocker and feeder cattle."

On another aspect of the subsidy idea, Judge Davisson wrote: "Probably the most weighty reason so many producers do not believe in subsidies or price supports is that the courts of the United States have held that what the government supports, it has a right to control, and they regard this whole system of price controls as socialistic and inimical to the best interests of the livestock producers and of the country as a whole.

Control Follows

"Whenever producers accept governmental handouts, either in the form of subsidies or price supports, they must be prepared to take governmental regulations and controls along with them. If this were not so—if the government simply guaranteed them a profit on all of the livestock they could raise—then half the people of the nation would go into the production of livestock and shortly the taxpayers would be footing a loss which would make the immense potato subsidy loss sink into insignificance.

"Once price supports shall be established, then the only way this loss can be prevented will be through governmental control of production and marketing and when this happens, we will be driving headlong toward national socialism and the destruction of our free enterprise system, and that we are not prepared to accept."

Facts to Remember

"While in my judgment the producers of livestock do not want subsidies and detest controls," Judge Davisson observed, "they may be forced to accept both as the alternative to going broke, unless processing, distribution and feed costs are reduced in proportion to the drop in the prices of livestock. If this is done, the consuming public will soon take care of any livestock surplus which may exist, and the law of supply and demand will have a chance to operate, and neither subsidies nor supports will be needed to enable the livestock producer to stay in business."

During the 170 years of our existence as a nation, the economic law of supply and demand, operating in the competitive market has proved to be the progressive, dynamic force in our unmatched material progress. If we now discard this successful principle, for a government controlled economy, which never has proved successful, we will be turning back the clock to the age of man's enslavement. Every citizen should clearly understand this fact.

MORAL STANDARDS ARE ETERNAL AND UNCHANGING

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association praised producer Sam Goldwyn for his "reaffirmation of faith in the principles of the Production Code."

Johnston stressed that the Code "like the Constitution of the United States, is a living document" and its regulations have been amended and reinterpreted from time to time. However, Johnston was careful to point out that the principles of the Code are "rooted in the Ten Commandments which are unchanging and eternal truths."

OH, YEAH!

They find fault with the editor. They say he should be shot. The news sheets are as peppy As a cemetery lot; The staff shows faulty judgment. The jokes, they say, are stale. Some stories are so jumbled. We can't make head or tail. But when the paper's issued, (We can say with a smile), If someone doesn't get one, You can hear him yell a mile.

Parents Rate More Than A Monthly Check

By Reverend Joseph Manton

SOME SOCIAL WORKERS tell us that today, when it comes to taking care of their own old father or mother, many young people, otherwise almost pious, have callouses on their hearts.

Our parents provided for us for many years when we could not provide for ourselves. Why should we not do as much for them now? Maybe they are a care, and tie us down. Do you not think we were a care when we were young? Perhaps they are cranky and crochety now and then; so were we. Maybe they upset our routine a little; we used to upset their whole house.

I DO NOT IMAGINE it is easy to be old. There are many old parents living in little rooms, all alone. Do you think it is enough if a son or daughter mail them a few dollars every month? Surely they deserve more than mere support. They are hungry for more things than food—hungry for a little affection, a little visit, a little remembrance, a little love. All this is not sentimental charity. This is our solemn bounden duty. It is the Fourth Commandment.

Practically the last words our Blessed Lord preached from the pulpit of the Cross were addressed to St. John. Looking toward Mary, His Mother, He said to him, "Son, behold thy Mother!" as if to say, "Be good to her, take care of her, when I am gone." The eyes of Christ still look lovingly on those who are good to their parents before they are gone.

FOR EXAMPLE, often a daughter gives up her own motherhood to take care of her mother. In return the world is pretty cruel to her, pinning on her the label of old maid, spinster. They forget that when her generation walked up the aisle to marriage, she was not left behind; she stayed behind. For the young and vigorous that is not always easy.

The girl who cares for a parent, the girl who takes her mother's thin arm as she hobbles down toward the sunset, when she might have slipped her arm into some man's and headed toward the sunrise of a new life of her own, the girl who is pitied as Aunt Peg or Aunt Sue—this girl is not pitied by God. I think God loves her dearly and will reward her richly. Maybe she is not a saint; but she belongs to those martyrs not of blood, but of blood-relationship, who do not lay down their lives but who give them up.

THAT GOD WHO LOVES old people will write high in His Book of Life, the Catalogue of Heaven, those who appreciated and valued and cared for the treasure they had, their own old mother or father.
