Farm Boys Receive Bankers' Awards For Soil Building

Reports on a recent meeting of Protestant educational leaders in Cincinnati offer a hope that, little by little, religion will be given its proper place in the American public school system.

There has been more and more on this subject in recent years. If the trend keeps growing it is quite possible that it will start snow balling in a few more years, after which communities will start making adjustments and state educational headquarters will start giving their okays.

One of the speakers at that gathering hit the nail squarely on the head when he declared "Our founding fathers did not mean to insist upon the separation of church and state, but rather sectarianism of religion and education."

The man is completely right in that. There is evidence galore in the records of those early days to prove that religion and morality were the prime considerations in founding schools. Recognizing their dependence on and responsibility to Almighty God the early Americans based their thinking on the conviction that religion must be the very foundation of a child's training, an essential to both personal and national welfare.

Our only trouble is that their successors went to an extreme when they applied the principle of religious freedom to the public school system. In their eagerness to avoid favoritism to any one religion they decided that no religion will be taught. . . . apparently thinking that each church would supply that part of its members' education.

From the beginning Catholic leaders expressed their disagreement with that theory, and they have backed up their convictions to the extent of providing their own schools at considerable sacrifice to see that religion gets its proper place in the education of their children. All along some Protestants expressed the same opinions until now, fortunately, the number seems about large enough to start getting results.

An approach to their final solution is already available in the released time arrangement which was originated a few years ago for the benefit of Catholic students in public schools. During certain agreed periods the students are granted time to attend religious classes away from the school.

Protestants could do the same thing, attending classes taught by some qualified teacher of their own denomination. Methodists, Baptists, Episcopalians, all of them who can arrange for instructors, could have their released time classes at convenient places away from school. That satisfies the public school arrangement and is also in keeping with the best American traditions.

Of course, that is obviously only the first step in the right direction. When a sizable percentage of students start following that routine people are going to start harping on the absurdity of sending hundreds of children to their special teachers. Why not allow the teachers to come to them?

And why not? Can any person advance a good reason why each denomination should not be permitted to send a teacher to its students and spend that released time in the public school? After all the school is there only for the welfare of the child and religion is an essential factor in its welfare.

For that matter, who can state definitely that such an arrangement is not in effect in some localities at this very time? Considering all the sincerely religious people serving on school faculties, it is hard to imagine that they would fail to present a nugget of religious teaching when the occasion arises. Regardless of legality, some denominational religion is being taught in public schools. Parents know it and are glad. State educational heads probably know it also, but they are not inclined to be fussy as long as communities are happy. Besides, they are also aware of the need of religion in school.

As a matter of fact the state school bosses practically invite the teaching of sectarian religion in public school. They recognize Bible as an accredited course. Theoretically it is a strictly ob-

Wieler, Mollenkopf Have No Opponents

The election of two city aldermen on April 6 appears to be a mere formality, unless a write-in campaign develops between now and election day.

John Wieler and George Mollenkopf, both seeking re-election are the only persons who filed their candidacies in time to qualify for a place on the ballot. The deadline was last Saturday, March 6.

Other present council members, whose terms will expire next year, are Rudy Hellman, J. A. Fisher, Herbert Meurer and Mayor Urban Endres.

Eleven Ball Games On Tiger Schedule

At least eleven baseball games are on schedule for the Tigers of Sacred Heart School, Father Christopher Paladino revealed this week.

District competition in the Southwest Academic League consists of three games each with Laneri, Buckner and Boys Ranch after which the team with top standing will play Catholic High of Texarkana a 2 out of 3 series for the loop title. Non-conference games agreed upon are a pair with St. Mark's of Dallas.

Coach Red Teague of Boys Ranch has been assigned the job of drawing up the loop schedule, and Father Christopher will announce his dates as soon as he receives his copy. Then he will also arrange his dates with St. Mark's.

Parish Starts on Program to Honor Father Weinzapfel

Plans were initiated Sunday afternoon for a community dinner to be held in Muenster on the day the Rev. Joseph Weinzapfel celebrates his First Solemn Mass.

Announcement of the First Mass and program plans for the day were made by Father Louis Deuster at a regular meeting of the St. Anne's Society and members expressed their willingness to take over the preparation and serving of the meal as the organization's share in the program.

Exact date for the event is not definite but will be during Easter Week, probably Wednesday, Father Louis said.

The ordination has been set for Easter Monday with ceremonies in Sacred Heart Cathedral, Dallas.

Tickets for the dinner will go on sale soon and all receipts over actual expenses will go into the new church fund. This is in accordance with the wishes of the Weinzapfel family.

At this time it is not definite if First Mass services will be held in the new church.

Other business during the meeting included an announcement that the district spring meeting of the Catholic State League will be held in Pilot Point on April 25.

After business, during which Mrs. Victor Hartman, president, presided, Father Louis gave a short inspiring talk on vocations.

Fifty-four members attended the meeting and Mrs. Herbert McDaniel won the attendance prize.

Two Nocona Men Speak at Banquet For MHS Athletes

Jeff Henderson, manager of the Nocona Chamber of Commerce, provided the inspiration and Tony Fenoglio, Montague County Congressman, provided the fun, in their combined after dinner speech at the Muenster High athletic banquet honoring football and basketball lettermen Saturday night.

Henderson gave students a pep talk on the marvelous opportunities awaiting them as Americans and the value of athletic discipline in their future endeavors. He said that this country's standards of freedom and initiative are the reasons for its achieving more in 200 years than other countries have achieved in thousands of years. There is no limit on the individual's opportunity . . . "You can do anything you want to do" . . . and the spirit of cooperation and hard work, applied on the athletic field will be helpful in attaining personal goals.

After his talk Henderson presented Fenoglio who went into profuse praise of the Hornets and practically everything about Muenster, until he remembered that a few of his constituents were in the group and he had

Grass Planted on New Church Lawn And Football Field

When the time arrives for the formal opening of Muenster's new Sacred Heart Church it is possible that the appearance of the lawn will be in keeping with the splendor of the building.

Members of the SCS work unit finished their part of the job Tuesday and if the weather will cooperate a fine growth of bermuda grass should be established by Easter. In fact, the grass should do all right in spite of the weather. Plenty of water is being applied at this time.

The lawn job consisted of filling in with rich loam and generous additions of fertilizer before working the soil thoroughly with a chisel plow and shaping it with a grader. Then the bermuda was planted with a sprig planter.

Another landscaping and lawn job is that on the football field of Muenster High School. Rains last fall revealed that the field needed a lot of improvement. It had lots of puddles. Besides the grass made little headway during the hot, dry summer.

So the field is being completely worked over. It is being graded to make water drain from the center to both sides, after which the soil will be thoroughly worked and fertilized and planted with bermuda sprigs. And there's going to be plenty of watering in hopes of developing a heavy turf for the next football season. Soil Conservation men are supervising that job also.

Smaller dirt moving jobs have been completed. Steve Moster, using the city grader has shaped a track on the field East of the MHS gridiron and has also cut down the rough spots on the city baseball field.

Talent From Both Schools Will Form Summer Ball Team

Whether either or both of the two Muenster schools will have strong baseball teams this spring is still a big question, but it is probable that the community will have a good teen-age team during the summer.

Father Christopher Paladino this week announced his intention to sponsor a summer ball team composed of the best talent from the two school teams. Besides providing a vacation recreation program, he said, he is interested in giving the boys practice and experience which will help them in next year's school competition.

He and Coach Troy Stewart are making arrangements to practice together during the rest of the school year in the city ball park. Neither of the schools has an adequate baseball field.

Father Christopher has hopes that a school-boy baseball league will be organized for the summer among several of the neighboring towns in this area. If not he expects to take on any teams that will schedule games with his boys.

Another possibility is a Pee Wee team composed of kiddies under 14, to play with teams of the junior league recently organized at Gainesville. Father Christopher said he is interested in the Pee-Wee team if he can get help in the sponsorship and management.

Callisburg is host school for the meet, however Muenster was favored for the one-act plays and tennis because of better facilities. For the same reason track and field events have been transferred to NTSC of Denton on Friday the 26th.

Garden Club Hears Gainesville Lady On Hemerocallis

A discussion of hemerocallis was presented for members of the Muenster Civic League and Garden Club who met in the home of Mrs. Joe Luke with Mrs. Steve Moster as co-hostess Monday night.

Mrs. Austina Roberts of Gainesville, a hemerocallis enthusiast, was the club's guest speaker. She illustrated her lecture with colored charts.

Her interesting talk included a history of the day lily and the charts contained pictures of new varieties as well as many of the old and most popular ones. She elaborated on the night blooming hemerocallis which is especially adaptable for flower show display. The speaker also gave hints on the planting and care of day lilies.

Mrs. Roberts was accompanied to Muenster by Mrs. J. E. King.

Mrs. Tony Gremminger, president, presided for the business session and members answered roll call with "I am going to plant this—"

Committee reports revealed that plans are progressing for the annual flower show and that it will be held during the time when irises are at their best blooming stage. The date and show schedule will be announced later.

Pitcher arrangements were displayed in the Luke home where the mantel was adorned with red carnations in a brass pitcher; the coffee table with yellow daffodils and forsythia in a white pitcher; and the buffet with white stock. Another display was of daffodils in a blue pitcher.

The hostesses presented white carnation corsages to Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. King and served refreshments to 24 members and guests. Refreshment plates carried out the St. Patrick's Day theme with cake squares iced with green shamrocks, inscribed napkins, nut snacks and coffee.

A teacher in the public school, Holland is using his spare time nowadays building the golf course and expects to have it ready by June 1.

Other amusements he has in mind are horseshoe pitching and shuffleboard . . . provided the concrete slab can be slicked-up sufficiently for the game. Swings, merry-go-rounds and see-saws are already there for the kiddies.

Holland intends to have a concession stand for soft drinks and candies and probably also will serve watermelon wedges while they are in season.

Dearborn-Wood Brothers Combine The ONLY 6 foot Combine that has a WALKER TYPE Straw Rack

Now, for some of the windshield farmers we'll explain that a Walker Type Straw Rack is so called because it actually "walks" the straw from the cylinder on out the back end. It does this walking by being split into four sections that move up and down and back and forth opposite one another which gives the most positive movement of the straw and the most agitation with a fluffing up of the straw to give the best possible separating action.

This idea must be pretty good because the other manufacturers use it in their larger self propelled machines, but only Dearborn has it in a six foot combine.

Now this straw rack is a full four feet wide, the same as the feeder canvas and cylinder, and SEVEN AND A HALF feet long. This gives us more square feet of separating than any other six foot machine, besides using the "walker" type rack.

All this adds up to a straw rack that will handle anything you will ever put through it and get more grain out of the straw.

Say! Why don't you all just come by the tractor house and let me show you all this stuff? I could just keep on and on about these Dearborn Combines and still have lots to tell you, but I might have to give the Enterprise one of 'em to settle for the advertising bill. They say "talk is cheap", but not when you go to putting it in the paper.

But seriously, we really would like to show you what we've been talking about the last few weeks, and save you that pre season discount of $105.00 per month from now till June first. That's a $315.00 clear saving during this month. That's just our way of accommodating folks by giving these real good bargains. Now you all come on in so we can accommodate you.

A-MAN'S BEST FRIEND

The late Senator Vest of Missouri was at one time called upon to defend the owner of a sheep-killing dog. This famous and touching eulogy (of which this is an excerpt) won the suit. "Gentlemen of the jury, the best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter whom he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us—those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name—may become traitors to their faith. The money a man has he may lose. It flies away from him perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one unselfish friend a man can have in this selfish world—the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous—is his dog.

Mandy Smith swore out a complaint against her husband for wife-beating, and Rastus was promptly hauled into court and brought before the judge. Mandy displayed as evidence one eye completely closed and the other only half open, a broken nose, a bleeding mouth and several missing teeth.

The judge turned to Rastus. "Rastus," he said. "You heard what your wife just told me. Now what do you have to say for yourself?"

"All I got to say, Judge," Rastus said, "is don't you pay any attention to what that woman says, She's punch drunk."

I can see a reason these days for that expression "contented as a cow." Why wouldn't they be, standing around in all that high-priced meat?"

America As Others See It

What would typical industrial workers from one of the advanced European countries think of working and living conditions in the United States? An illuminating answer is provided in an article by Dewitt C. Morrill which appeared in a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal.

It seems that the head of a Dutch concern which manufactures linoleum is an enthusiast for American ways. He decided that he wanted some of his employees to see for themselves how things are done this side of the Atlantic. So he sent five of them over here, paying their fares and continuing their salaries in their absence, to work for three months in the Pennsylvania plants of a leading American manufacturer of linoleum and allied products. Mr. Morrill's article deals with what the quintet thought and felt when the three months were up and it was time to go home.

They didn't find that everything is good in this country. They were disturbed by the fact that so many wives work here. And they didn't believe "... that an American with his automobile is any happier than a Dutchman with his bicycle." They were proud of Holland's record of amicable labor-management relations—there hasn't been a serious strike there in 15 years. But for the most part their reaction to American life was one of pleased surprise.

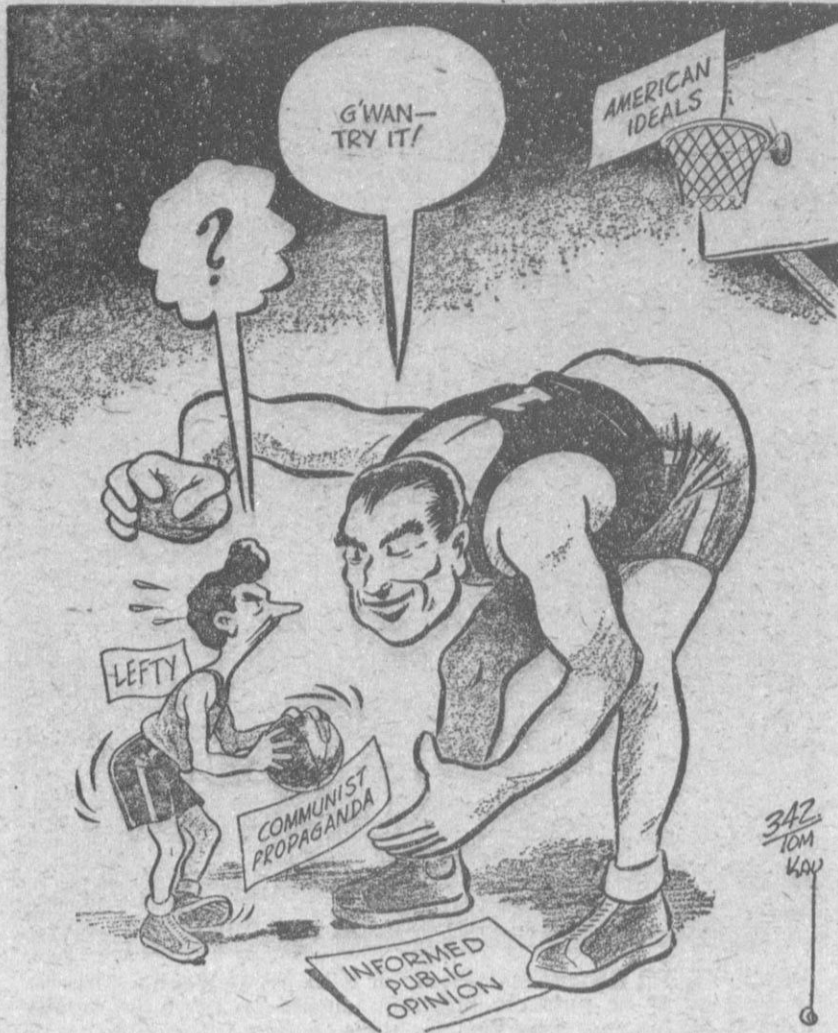

One source of their surprise is that the high degree of mechanization in American factories "doesn't take the bread out of the mouths of people, but gets more work in the same time." Another is the overtime pay, which is hardly known in Holland. And their wages were very high by comparison with those they had been accustomed to. All the men, being temporary employees, did unskilled work for the most part, but the weekly pay checks ran from $60 to as much as $90 with overtime. In Holland, the government fixes the work week at 48 hours and hourly pay is about 36 cents.

Most startling of all to them, Mr. Morrill records, was what their wages would buy. He quotes one as saying, "If I were 20 years younger I'd never think of staying in Holland if I could come here." Another, who has a large family, said that at home he has to make an overcoat last 10 or 15 years and can afford meat but once a week. Still another said in wistful fashion, "If there were a way to drive to Amsterdam from here I could, after only three months of work, buy a used car and drive right to my door. In Holland, I couldn't accomplish that in a whole lifetime."

They were also deeply impressed by the amount of leisure time allowed workers on the job. One of them told Mr. Morrill that such little luxuries as a five-minute break for a smoke or a soft drink is unheard of in Holland. Another said: "So many vending machines in the factories! And so much used. I got so I hardly thought about buying two packs of cigarettes a day. At home, if I did that, I would be spending money my family needs."

One of the few remaining hand-set newspapers in Texas is The Jewett Messenger, published by Mrs. A. B. Pettey. The woman editor hand-sets the type, operates the gasoline engine Campbell press, hand-folds the edition, hand-cuts it and hand-addresses the four-page weekly. The 79-year-old Messenger was founded by her father, the late J. S. Robinson.

"I do the very best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."—Abraham Lincoln.

An Informed Public Is An Impregnable Defense

A Prayer For Our Country

by George Washington
 "Almighty God, who hast given us this good land for our heritage, we humbly beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor and glad to do Thy will. Bless our land with honorable industry, sound learning and pure manners. Save us from violence, discord, and confusion; from pride and arrogance, and from every evil way. Defend our liberties, and fashion into one united people the multitudes brought out of many kindreds and tongues. Endue with the spirit of wisdom

Self-Knowledge Cures Self-Deception

By Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

THERE IS A PROBLEM each of us must someday face: Do you want to control morality, or do you want morality to control you? Do you want a conscience which will suit the way you live, or do you want to suit the way you live to your conscience?

If the latter, then begin to examine your conscience tonight. Start with a prayer to the Holy Spirit to illumine your conscience. Put your conscience in God's hands as you put your watch in the hands of a watchmaker, knowing full well that if He examines it, it will work well.

THEN SPEND A FEW minutes bringing to the surface the faults of the day, discovering the weeds that are choking the growth of God's grace. Examine your thoughts, words, acts, the good things you left undone, such as failure to aid a needy neighbor, or the evil things you did, such as sins of pride, avarice, lust, hate, overindulgence, jealousy or laziness.

Concentrate also on your main fault. Every person in the world has one sin which he commits more than others. If we blotted out one great sin a year, in a short time we would be perfect.

IF YOU EXAMINE your conscience you will be cured of self-deception. Every person has a little corner in his heart he never wants anyone to venture in, even with a candle. That is why so many can become self-deceived and why our neighbors know us better than we know ourselves.

This examination of conscience will show you to yourself, hold the mirror up to your soul, reveal yourself as you really are, that is, as God sees you. Only then will you have a standard outside yourself, namely, God's holy will. Instead then of conscience being identified with your desires, your desires will be identified with conscience.

IN THE FACE of divine innocence there are no false illusions of virtue, for when the Saviour said: "One of you is about to betray me," twelve asked: "Is it I, Lord?" You will discover you are more lovely without the mask of self-deception than with it.

This examination of conscience will cure you of depression and fears. Depression comes, not from having faults, but from our refusal to face them. The evil conscience is always the fearful conscience. Morbidity increases with the denial of guilt. But if you examine your conscience, confess, and have sorrow and repentance, you will get what you desire most of all—a second chance with the help of the God of love.

hearts with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in Thee to fail; all of which we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Steve Tips the Balance

Was just leaving home this morning when the Missus reminded me to stop at Steve and Al's Meat Market for a pound of hamburger. "Be sure to get it from Steve," she said.

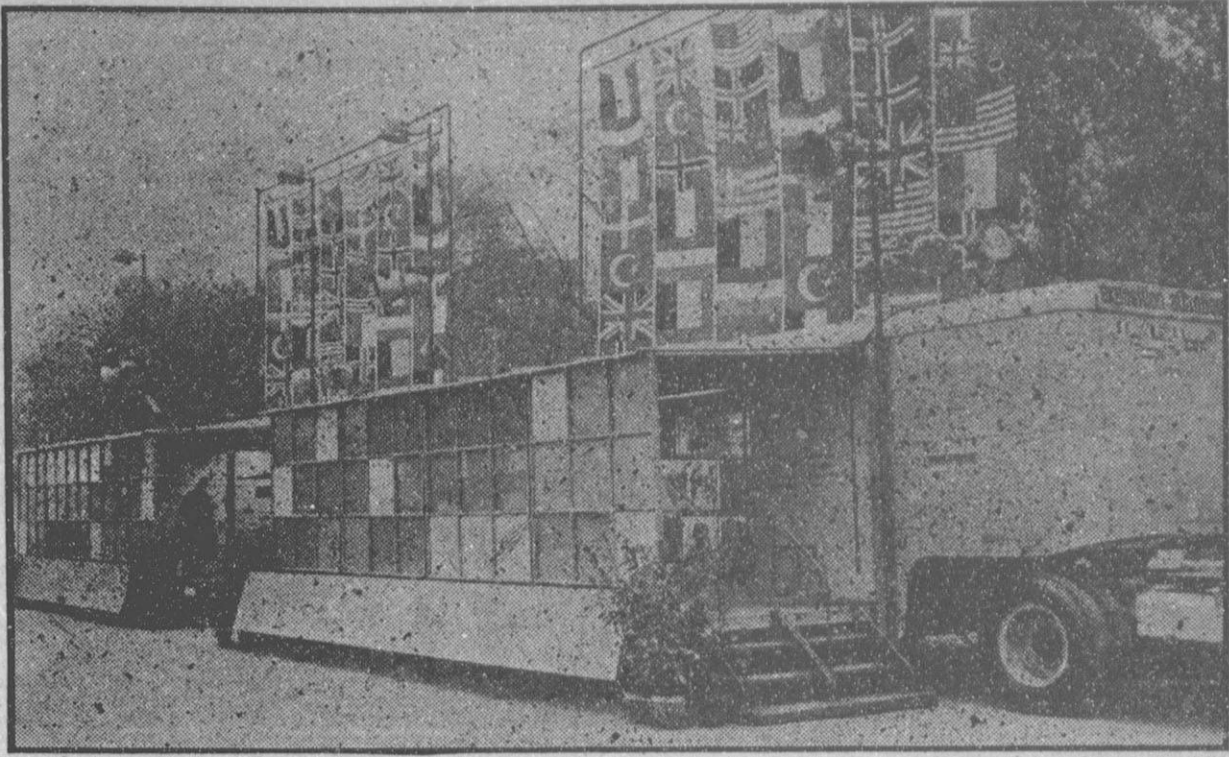

"Why?" I wondered. So when I got to the market I asked Steve if he knew. "I'll tell you, Joe," he said. "Al and I sell the same meat, and a pound is a pound. Maybe it's just that we go at it differently."

"Al loads the scales and takes away 'til he has a pound. But I put too little on and start adding.

To your wife—that probably looks like a better buy."

From where I sit, there's always more than one way to approach a thing and still come out fair and square to all. My wife likes a cup of tea with dinner; I prefer a temperate glass of beer. We get along fine. Gets me pretty mad though, when somebody starts "throwing his weight around" and demands that I see things exactly his way.

THAT'S ONE WAY TO PUT IT!

"Two score and one years ago our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game.

"We are now engaged in a great mass of calculations testing whether this tax-payer, so confused and so impoverished, can long endure. We are met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who here spend their lives that they may spend our money.

"It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this, but in a legal sense we cannot evade, we cannot cheat, we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who compute here have gone far beyond our poor power to add and subtract.

"Our creditors will little note nor long remember that we pay here, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue can never forget that we report here. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining; and that we here highly resolve that the next year will not find us in a higher income bracket."

The Clubwomen were peppering the explorer with questions following a dramatic lecture on his adventures in Malaya.

"Is it true," asked one, "that wild beasts in the jungle won't harm you if you carry a torch?"

"That depends," replied the explorer. "on how fast you carry it."

Cars Give 10 Jobs For Every One Lost In Carriage Trade

The carriage and wagon industry was one of America's big employers, until people began buying automobiles and motor trucks. But the upstart horseless carriage makers have hired 10 workers for every one laid off by the declining industry. When carriage and wagon production was at its peak in 1904, it employed a total of 77,882 wage earners. According to the latest U. S. Census of Manufacturers, production of wagons, carriages, pushcarts, wheelbarrows, sleighs and other miscellaneous transportation equipment employed a combined total of 4,562 in 1947. So the carriage industry's 43-year employment loss amounted to at least 73,300 jobs. Meanwhile, employment in motor vehicle and parts manufacture rose from 13,200 in 1904 to 776,200 in 1947—a gain of 763,000.

Net gain for the nation: About 690,000 jobs, or more than 10 added for one lost.

Actually, the automobile has done much more than this for the nation's job holders. Vast new areas of employment have been opened to supply the materials that go into motor vehicles, the fuel and oil they consume, and the highways over which they travel. At the same time, almost everyone's job is somehow related to the use of cars and trucks, and to the transportation services they provide.

Wife: John, will you match a piece of silk for me on your way home from the office today?

Hubby (with a bright idea): Oh, do you mean at the counter where that pretty blonde works? The girl with the big eyes and—

Wife: On second thought, I won't bother you. It's not fair of me to ask you to do errands for me after you have finished a long day's work.

It may make a difference to all eternity whether we do right or wrong today.

It is a rare thing to win an argument and the other fellow's respect at the same time.

Farmers Face Serious Grain Storage Problem

The government called upon farmers Saturday to store on farms another year about 500,000,000 bushels of 1953-crop grains to help meet what it described as the most serious grain storage problem ever faced.

The problem will reach a peak when this year's crops are harvested next summer and must compete for storage with record surpluses accumulated from past years.

As an incentive, the Agriculture Department offered farmers storage payments to hold such grains as wheat, corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums, rye and flaxseed stored under the government's 1953 price support loan program.

The loans fall due this spring and summer and the grains will, in effect, belong to the government unless farmers pay off their obligations and redeem the grain.

The department also announced that it will continue for another year the farm storage and equipment loan program designed to encourage expansion of farm storage. Under this program, farmers may borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of building or buying additional storage space.

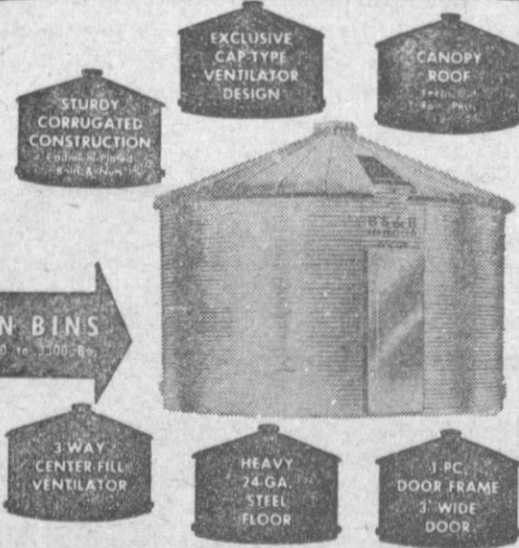

How about YOU?

Do you need more storage space?

Chessie Brandberry was back in classes Tuesday after missing school since Thursday when she hurt her left side paying ball. She received treatment at Major Clinic in Nocona. Visiting her Sunday at the home of her parents, were her sister, Mrs. EuVell Oldham and family of Bowie.

Cleta Sue Cannon and a classmate from Denton were here for a weekend with homefolks.

Mrs. C. D. Johnson and her daughter and family, Mrs. R. L. Shields, Shirley and Sharon of Archer City, spent the weekend visiting her brother, R. J. Samples and family.

Teddy H. Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Cannon of Bulcher, on leave after serving overseas with the Navy, was married to Miss Edith Faye Lee of Leon, Okla., on Saturday, Feb. 27. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Frazier of Leon.

BULCHER H.D. CLUB HEARS TALKS ON BULBS, FLOWERS

The Bulcher Home Demonstration club, meeting Thursday in the home of Mrs. August Hyman, heard two interesting talks; one on bulbs and tuberous plants by Mrs. R. J. Samples who gave information on how and when to plant; the other by Mrs. Dexter Dennis on annual spring and summer flowers. She discussed how, when and where to plant, and listed those best suited for cut flower arrangements.

Mrs. Gid Prather conducted the business session and members answered roll call by naming their favorite flower. The club voted to give a five dollar donation to the current Red Cross drive.

Mrs. E. Newby was in charge of recreation and after adjournment the hostess served refreshments to Mmes. R. H. Sharp, Mary Stadalman, E. L. Robison, Dexter Dennis, J. M. Shields, Charles Crabtree, Calip Cannon, R. J. Samples, E. Newby, Gid Prather, Claude and Alex Cannon and Johnie West.

"Oh? What do you say that's so much better?" English Visitor: "Well, instead of saying 'Hello,' we say 'Are you there?' Then, of course, if you're not there, there's no use going on with the conversation."

Soil Conservation Notes

Lack of moisture has all but halted the sodding of waterways and pasture to Bermuda grass roots in the Muenster area. Sodding operations are stalled until rain comes.

During the last two weeks more waterway pasture strips have been added to the Muenster landscape. Frank Hacker shaped and sodded a natural drain running through his field to Bermuda. The strips will serve as a terrace outlet, and furnish pasture on land that was too wet to cultivate.

Jack Reeves has sodded the sides of a drain ditch on his farm near Hood to prevent gullies from eating back into the field. Noel Finley has planted grass roots on both sides of a gully on his farm near Hood. When the grass is established terrace water will be blocked out of the gully and will run on the grassed waterway while the ditch is shaped and sodded to grass.

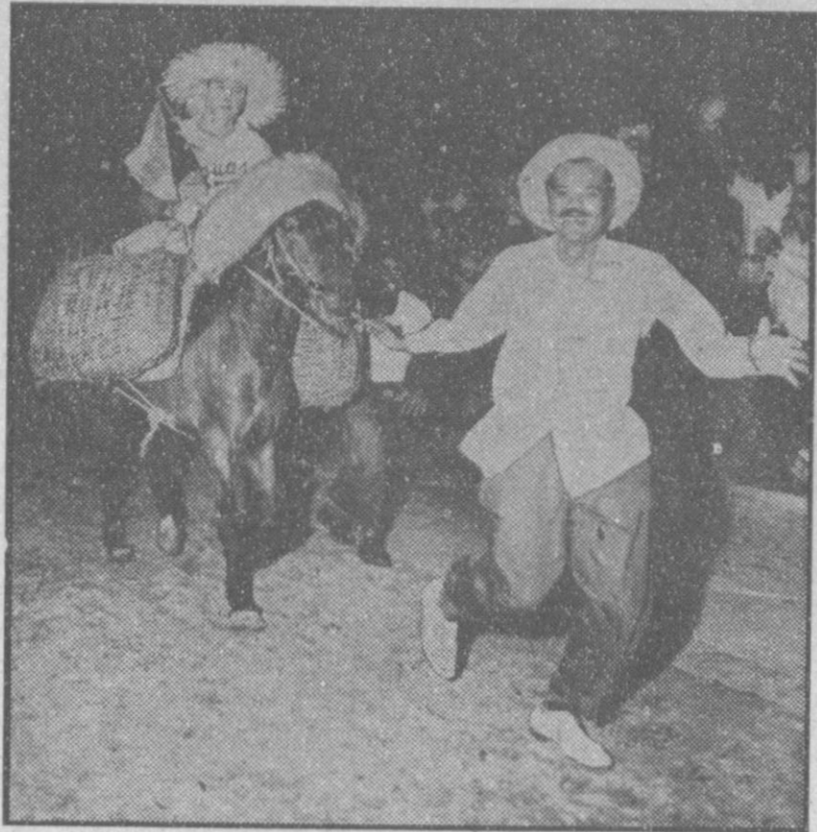

Tom Sicking has just completed sodding a waterway to provide an outlet for terraces on his farm south of Muenster.

Hubert Felderhoff and sons have finished sodding a waterway on their farm at Era and another on the Etter farm northeast of Muenster. Both grass strips will act as safe areas to outlet terrace water and will also serve as additional pasture.

All these grass plantings were made with the sprigging machine owned by the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation district. The machine is rented to landowners cooperating with the district to apply conservation practices to the land. The sprigger is a two-row machine. It opens a furrow, drops roots and fertilizer, covers and packs in one operation.

J. W. Fleitman has just finished seeding a five acre waterway to Indian grass. The area will be used as a hay meadow and will offer a safe exit for terrace water. Indian grass is one of the tall native grasses of this area and is a high forage producer.

Ponds for livestock water have recently been completed on the Danglmayr brothers' south ranch, on the Kaiser farm operated by J. W. Fleitman and on the R. M. Davidson ranch at Marysville. The ponds will also furnish water cattle and will enable landowners to better manage their grasslands by better distribution of grazing. The ponds will also furnish water so that stock may be kept on

...and it handles with ball-bearing ease

CONVENTIONAL KINGPIN SUSPENSION depends on hinge-like joints for movement of front wheels up and down or right and left. This system also requires lubrication at 8 points of wear at each front wheel. Doesn't permit maximum up-and-down wheel travel and is not sealed against dirt and water.

NEW FORD BALL-JOINT FRONT SUSPENSION replaces "hinges" for pivoting and up-and-down wheel movement with sealed ball joints. This eliminates 12 points of wear... helps keep front wheels in line longer. You get a smoother, more level ride. Your Ford keeps that new car "feel" longer.

It's THE GREATEST chassis advance in 20 years. And only the '54 Ford in its field has it! It pays off with the smoothest ride you've ever experienced in a low-priced car... easier handling... fewer service worries... and many, many other advantages.

And besides this revolutionary advance, Ford offers two brand new deep-block power plants: the 130-h.p. Y-block V-8 and the 115-h.p. I-block Six. You'll also find a new stronger frame... a beautiful new Astra-Dial control panel... new styling inside and out... plus all the other fine-car features that have already established Ford as America's "worth more" car!

Balloons, fancy hats and train whistles were given the children and they were served the cake and fruit salad.

Guests were: Tommy Felderhoff, Janie and Bobby Knauft, Bertha Jane Fleitman, Judy and Jimmy Danglemayr, Diane and Dale Felderhoff, Sheryl and Lynn Reiter and Glenn Schoech, Clarice and Larry Schumacher, Ancilla Kneupper, Everett and Linda Spaeth, and his sister, Patsy Spaeth.

His grandmother, Mrs. George Spaeth of Lindsay, assisted with the party.

discussed by the group.

Miss Puckett then proceeded with a lesson on sewing. She explained that being accurate in marking and cutting the material for sewing, makes the garment appear neat and attractive. The girls were told that in order to prevent stretching or pulling of the material while working, they should stay-stitch the grain of the fabric.

With singing led by the song-leader, Eileen Fuhrmann, the meeting adjourned.

Adult leaders Mrs. Joe Bengfort and Mrs. Ben Hermes were present for the meeting.

The boys' 4-H Club held its regular meeting in the classroom with Eugene Block presiding. The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge. James Denton, Assistant county agent, demonstrated how to prune fruit trees.

Cecil Hermes gave an account on his trip to Kansas City, Missouri. Then the meeting adjourned.

New Assistant for County Agent Ok'd

William Eugene (Gene) Sears of Henderson was this week named to fill the vacancy in the county agent's office to be created April 1 when James Denton will assume his new duties as Parker county agent. Cooke county commissioners approved the appointment in a regular meeting Monday.

State Farm Bureau Director Welcomes 147 New Members

William Bezner presided for the session and J. E. Pybas introduced Mr. Gaston.

One hundred and forty-seven new members were welcomed during the social hour. Jake Bezner won an electric coffee maker for securing the most new members in the membership contest.

MHS Banquet

better reserve some of his loyalty for Montague County. Along with his collection of well presented yarns Fenoglio had one bit of serious advice to offer . . . to carry team spirit on into community endeavors as a means of attaining community happiness and prosperity.

About 250 persons attended the banquet which was sponsored by the Mothers' Athletic Club. Superintendent Weldon Cowan served as toastmaster. Father Christopher Paladino gave the opening invocation and Rev. Stanley Daniels gave the closing benediction. Mrs. Henry Pick, club president, extended the welcome and Mildred Fisher responded. Dan Hamric and Marceline Wimmer gave trumpet and vocal solos.

Presentation of the football and basketball jackets was made by Coaches Bob Williams and Troy Stewart. Williams first introduced his players on the Pee Wee football team, then all the girls who participated in basketball. After that he awarded jackets to his nine lettermen and two student managers. Stewart presented jackets to 18 football and basketball lettermen and two student managers and also to Superintendent Cowan.

After that the coaches were on the receiving end of two awards, gift certificates for clothing given by their charges of the past season. Rita Cain and Eugene Walter made the presentations.

jective study, but anyone knows that every teacher's interpretations will be influenced by his own affiliation.

From the way things look now religion in public education is staging its comeback. The trend is getting stronger. The pendulum which swung away from it is on the way back. In time, maybe just a few years, it will take its place openly and prominently on the public school curriculum.

When that happens America will have returned to the ideals intended by its founding fathers . . . that is, freedom of religion instead of freedom from religion.

Relax Review

"War Arrow"

Usual Indian and Cavalry stuff, enhanced by O'Hara and good Technicolor photography. Rating: GOOD

"Thunder Over the Plains"

Randolph Scott at his best in Cavalry uniform. Lex Barker gives him trouble and Phyllis Kirk is lovely. Good story, good cast and direction, good Technicolor photography. Rating: GOOD.

All the Brothers Were Valiant

Robert Taylor and Stewart Grainger are brothers operating rival whaling ships out of New Bedford, Mass., in the 1850's. That was the age of "wooden ships and iron men", and these guys prove it. Taylor marries Ann Blyth, Grainger causes Taylor's crew to mutiny but has a change of heart and gets killed fighting for his brother. Lots of action and top-flight cast. Rating: VERY GOOD.
