D-Day has arrived at Muenster. That's Dedication Day, on which formal ceremonies will dedicate the magnificent new Sacred Heart Church and the fine new Sacred Heart High School to the service of God and the welfare of the community.

Both buildings have been in use some time and most of us already take them for granted as a part of Muenster. Nevertheless this is still a big event, somewhat like opening the package of a newly acquired prized possession even though we knew before what is in it. This is the ceremony which formally marks the completion of the two structures and turns them over to the community for its edification and pride into the far distant future.

Architecturally speaking the church cannot be described except by a profuse use of superlatives. It is as if the solid rock on which it stands were projected through the earth's crust to form a structure as durable and permanent as the rock itself... as if the perfection of workmanship and materials created a special beauty independent of design and color.

There are some among us who have said that they do not like this or that feature. Such remarks are to be expected, because tastes differ. There never was a building or any other object which pleased everybody. Nevertheless, though we should disagree indefinitely on certain details, there is one point which all of us admire in common, the beauty of perfection. Greater excellence than this is beyond the scope of most of our imaginations.

In addition, of course, there is an abundance of beauty in design. The majestic tower and steeple, the graceful arches, the carved woodwork, the harmony of colors and patterns, and other features by the dozen all combine into a simple beauty that registers an appeal even through the barrier of individual preference. Like a lily's appeal to a person who is especially fond of roses. He readily admits that it is pretty.

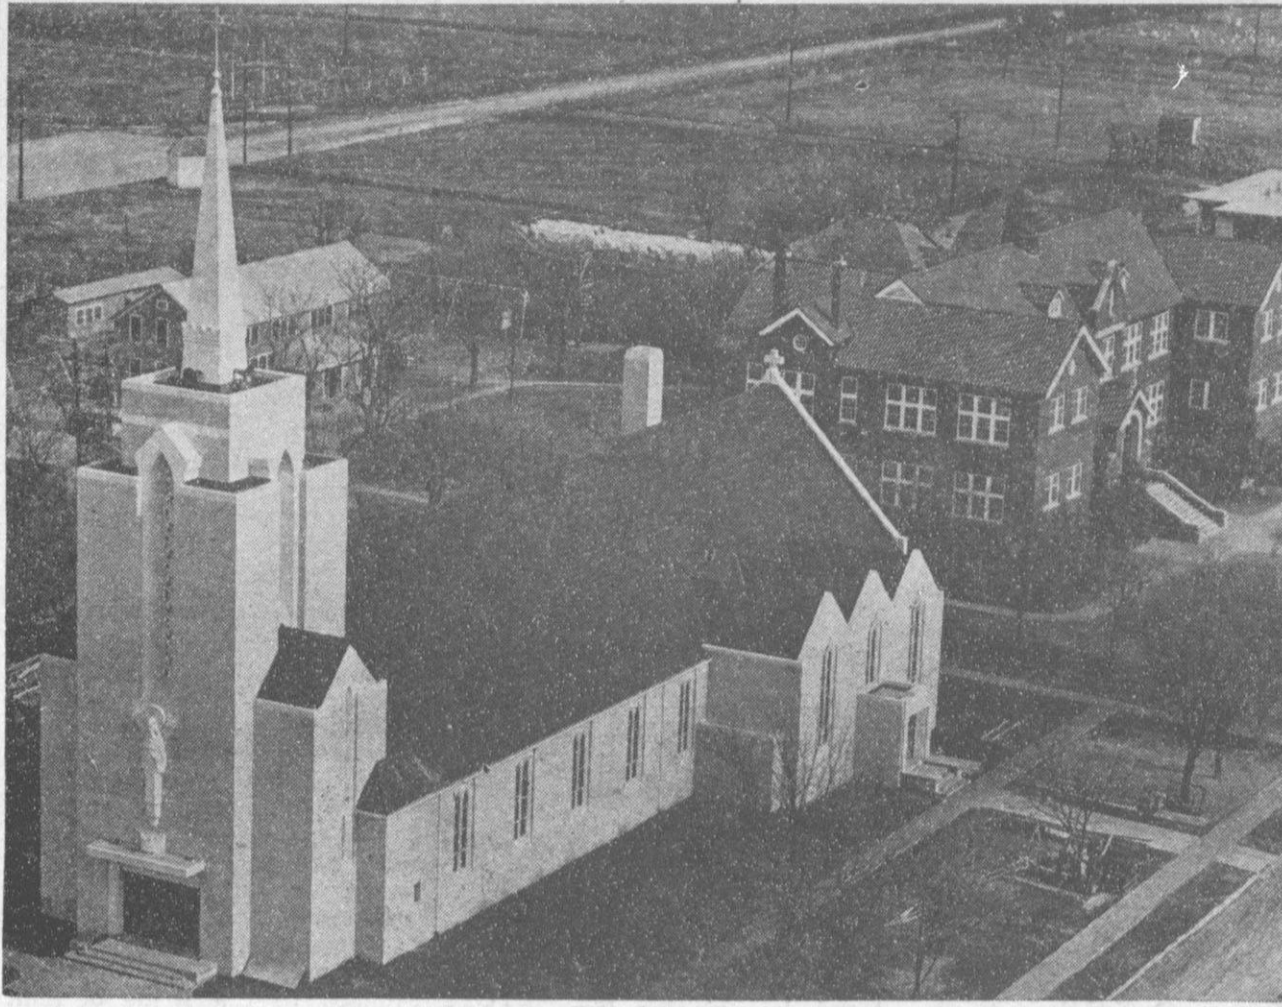

That's how it is with our church, and that's the reason why every member of the community ought to be intensely proud of it. The half million dollars that it cost is of no consequence at all. Though that figure looks big in one lump it is a trifle in relation to the time the church will be here and the number who will help pay. What really counts is that we have the church, a delight to the eye, a credit to the community and a compliment to the Heavenly Father.

That last consideration, incidentally, is actually the most important of all. As long as people claim to consider a church as the House of God they should at least be consistent and provide Him with the kind of house they can be proud of. In our case, nothing short of magnificent was good enough. We owed it to Almighty God simply because we were able to give it.

Like the church, the school is another object of community pride. It too is a beauty, but more important, it symbolizes Muenster's desire to provide the best it can in educational facilities. Incorporated in its construction are the latest features of design in classroom and recreational facilities along with a general excellence that makes it truly outstanding. It is abundant in details of beauty even though utility was the prime consideration in its construction.

With the completion of this fine building Muenster really has a long start in the development of a wonderful school system. No matter what course is taken in future improvements the new parochial school will have a great part in giving local children the opportunities they deserve. If that happens to be separate development of the local schools both are equipped to go places. If it happens to be a cooperative or combined program the facilities of both schools become available to all children.

Wonderful progress has been made in the past year. A continuation of our present cooperative spirit along with calm judgment and sincere regard for community welfare can lead to a great deal more progress in the future.

SACRED HEART CHURCH recently completed at a cost of more than a half million dollars will be dedicated by Bishop Gorman Thursday morning. It is semi-Gothic in design and has a seating capacity of 800. Also prominent on the picture is the Sacred Heart elementary school built in 1925.

Beauty and Strength Are Main Features of Sacred Heart Church

Formal dedication services conducted on Thursday, Oct. 7, by His Excellency, The Most Reverend Thomas K. Gorman D.D., D.Sc.Hist., Bishop of the Dallas-Fort Worth Diocese, officially mark the completion of Muenster's magnificent new Sacred Heart Church.

The building, which has been used as the parish church since Holy Saturday of this year, had been finished several weeks before that date but awaited essential furnishings such as a main altar, pews, and confessionals, the installation of which were completed just in time for occupancy before Easter Sunday.

Since then other furnishings have been installed. Carved white oak items which had been custom built by the E. Hackner Company of LaCrosse, Wis., arrived and were put in place during the week of September 20. Outstanding among those items is the large crucifix which is on the front wall over the main altar. Its cross is 19 feet high and the corpus is 9 feet high. Other items were the communion rail, a similar rail erected at the offset along the north wall, where an altar will be placed, and two pieces of sanctuary furniture. They are the sedilia, occupied by priest and servers during the Gloria and Credo of a high mass and the credence table, for water, wine, etc., at the right side of the altar.

Those installations still leave the church incomplete, however. The principal things yet to be added are the two small altars, a pulpit and the 14 stations of the way of the cross.

Those items along with touch-up work on the large crucifix could not be finished in time for the dedication. It is understood that more carved oak is to be installed on either side of the crucifix to serve as a background, also that all the newly installed woodwork will be painted to harmonize with other woodwork of the church.

Liturgical Altar

Of the furnishings installed prior to occupancy, the main altar is the outstanding unit. Identified as a liturgical altar, it is extremely plain topped by only the tabernacle, and candle holders and limited space for floral decorations. However the rugged simplicity emphasizes the beauty of its materials. The altar valued at $35,000 was built by the Vermont Marble Company of imported Botticino marble. It is buff colored and rests on a platform of buff and green marble. At its front an inscription consisting of a cross and Greek letters is cut an eighth of an inch deep. The mensa, on top is a single piece of flawless marble measuring 4 feet by 9 feet 6 inches by 2 inches thick. This entire top is also the altar stone, a feature which distinguishes it from the altars in most churches.

Normally a small stone about 8 inches square, with relics sealed in, is inlaid in the wooden mensa

Bishop Gorman Dedicates New Church and School in Formal Ceremonies Thursday

Dedication of the new Sacred Heart Church and the new Sacred Heart High School by the Most Reverend Thomas K. Gorman, bishop of the Dallas-Fort Worth Diocese, will headline an all day parish holiday Thursday formally commemorating the completion of the two parish buildings.

Ceremonies begin at 10 o'clock at the new high school as Bishop Gorman officiates at laying the cornerstone and blessing the building. After that the bishop will go to the church and conduct similar ceremonies.

Bishop Dangelmayr Consecrates Main Altar of Church

The main altar of the Sacred Heart Church was consecrated Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Most Reverend Augustine Dangelmayr, Auxiliary Bishop of the Dallas-Fort Worth Diocese. Assisting him in the ceremony were Fathers Louis Deuster and Patrick Hannon of Muenster and Father Fred Mosman of Dallas.

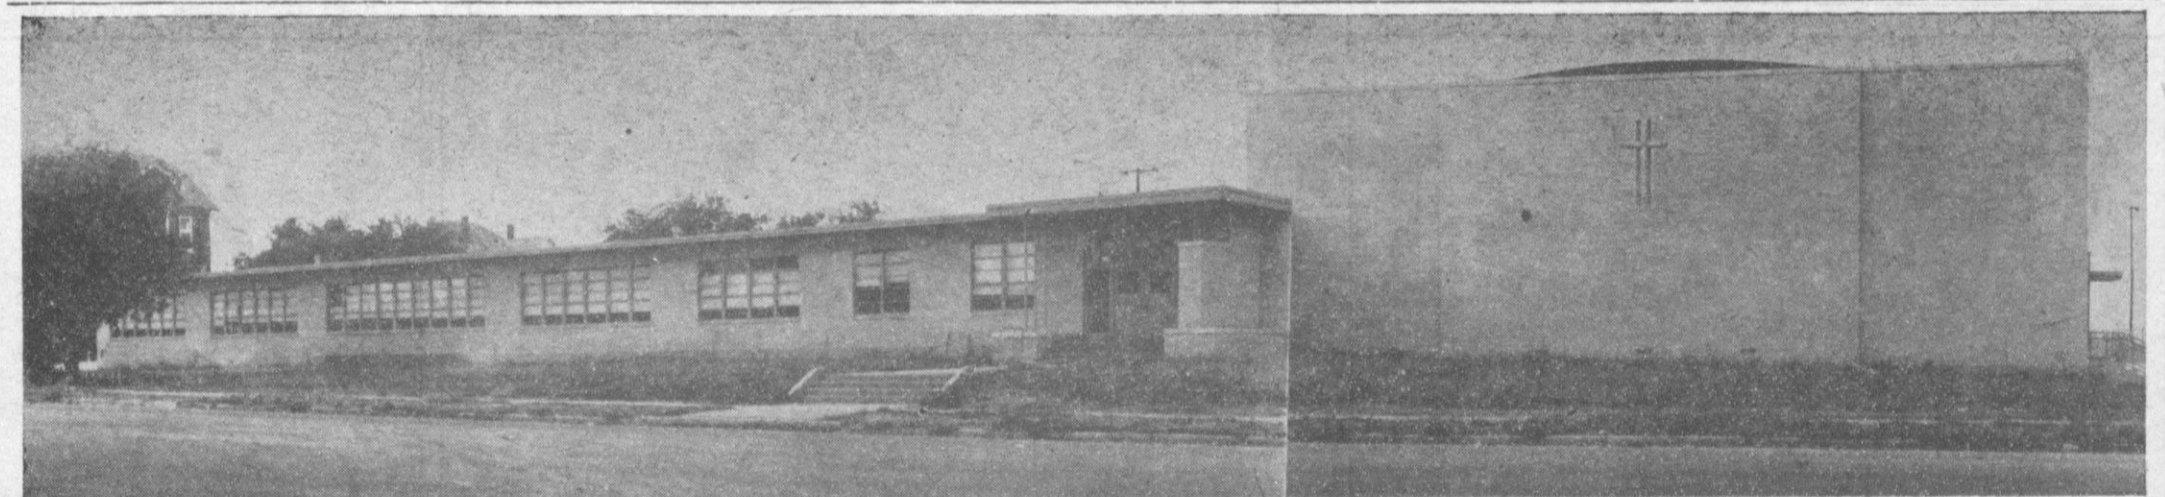

As a part of the ceremony Bishop Dangelmayr "buried" in the altar stone a small metal casket containing first class relics of nine early saints of the church. A first class relic is identified as a portion of the person's body such as a bit of bone, hair or skin, whereas second class relics are bits of possessions such as clothing or other objects regularly used by the subject. Those relics were placed in the "sepulchre", a small rectangular hole cut out of the altar stone, then the sepulchre lid, a small piece of marble cut to fit the opening, was permanently cemented in place.

All the relics were taken from the altar stone of the former church, and they are identified, in Latin, as being taken from the remains of the following saints: Fortunus, Laurentus, Bonifacius, Religijs Johannus Nepomucene, Christophorus, Callistus, Columba and Illuminata.

Another item originally included with the relics was a small slip of paper hand written in red ink and stating in Latin "On May 3, 1893, Bishop Dunne blessed this church and consecrated this portable altar." The reverse side of the document was signed by Father Gall, O.S.B., Father Meinrad, O.S.B. and Father Bonaventure, O.S.B. as witnesses.

Consecration of the old altar differed from that of the new one

SACRED HEART HIGH SCHOOL will be dedicated Thursday by Bishop Gorman. Featuring a library, gymnasium and vocational facilities along with academic classrooms, it has a total floor space of about 25,000 square feet and has been in use since September 1. New Parochial High School Formally Opens Thursday Muenster's new Sacred Heart High school was blessed and formally opened in special ceremonies conducted Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by His Excellency the Most Rev. Thomas K. Gorman, bishop of Dallas-Fort Worth.

Laying the cornerstone and dedicating the building preceded the new Sacred Heart church dedication and the community's all-day observance in connection with the dual ceremonies combined into a single program.

The event officially introduced the new parish school which opened on Sept. 1 for classes this term.

To meet the pressing need of a rapidly growing scholastic population, construction on the $200,000 building was started July 27, 1953, with Walter Nashert of Oklahoma City as the builder and T. E. Brackett as supervisor. Architects Beauford and Feinberg of Dallas designed the building.

Actual construction, favored by exceptionally good building weather, was well ahead of schedule under a contract calling for 365 working days. However, interior fixtures—principally cabinets and homemaking department furnishings—especially built, were not finished by the manufacturers ahead of schedule and it wasn't until August 6 that Brackett, finally satisfied with the interior, turned the key over to Father Christopher Paladino, school superintendent.

Latest Designs

Built according to the latest designs in school construction, the L-shaped building has 25,000 square feet of floor space divided into the classroom wing and the gymnasium wing which also includes the homemaking department and shop department. Its 270 foot front faces Walnut Street at its intersection with Sixth, a block east of the elementary building entrance.

The school's exterior is finished in light brick and the interior is acoustical tile. Asphalt tile covers the floors throughout except the gymnasium which is maple and the entrances which are surfaced with terrazzo. Interior coloring favors a combination of rose tan and palace green.

Some of the class rooms are finished in these shades in a two-tone combination, the library is entirely in green, and the science lab and one classroom are finished in pearl gray. The halls are tinted light cream.

Interior of the three spacious entrances, at the south, west and north, by contrast are dark red. The coloring here has a tendency to absorb bright sunlight coming through the glassed doors and also gives a softening effect to the other color shades. The terrazzo on the entrance floors is red and white.

Sound Foundation

The building rests on a foundation of a continuous concrete beam supported by pillars that reach down to solid rock.

The long, west wing consists of four class rooms, science department, arts and crafts room, commercial and typing rooms, library, offices for principal, superintendent and clerk, rest rooms and storage rooms. In the east wing, under the gym, are shower rooms for boys and girls.

Every class room has an outside wall, with abundant glass de-

We Are Proud Of Our Stake In the New Church and School

In addition to our direct contributions to these priceless community assets, we have helped even more substantially in an indirect way.

Ever since the founding of this institution in 1923 we have participated in the program of community development and stability which provides the sturdy financial foundation for the erection of these fine buildings.

We are proud of this role in the past. We look forward with pleasure to a career of ever increasing community service.

of an altar. This stone, upon which the chalice and host are placed during the sacrifice of the mass, is the essential part of an altar. For mass in an emergency location the priest places the stone on whatever surface he uses to convert it into a temporary altar.

For the past several months, until the stone was blessed and relics sealed in, the stone of the main altar has served simply as an altar top. The stone taken from the altar of the old church was placed on it for Divine services.

Another feature of the altar is that it rests on its own foundation, independent of the rest of the building. This feature meets ecclesiastical requirements of construction to qualify it for special consecration.

The altar, like all other furnishings and the building itself was designed by Edward Schulte, Cincinnati architect, who specializes in church construction, and has built several other churches in the Dallas-Fort Worth diocese. Cowdin Brothers of Dallas was the contractor and Floyd McAdam, who has been with the firm for 17 years, superintended the construction.

Groundbreaking

Work on the new building started on April 30, 1952 when the Most Reverend Bishop Augustine Dangelmayr officiated at ground breaking ceremonies attended by most of the parish and a considerable number of priests and lay visitors from other parishes of North Texas.

For more than three years prior to that time the site had awaited the ceremony. The old red-brick church with lofty steeple, which had been a community landmark since 1898, was vacated during the week following Christmas 1948 and was razed during the early weeks of 1949. From then until the new church was occupied, the parish hall served as the temporary parish church.

As excavation got under way, immediately after the ground breaking ceremony, workers learned why the former church did not stand as it was expected to. The huge rocks which formed its foundation were resting on dirt, not on solid footing.

Far from repeating that structural mistake, builders of the present church went to the opposite extreme in putting down their foundation. The section of the building under the nave goes deep into rock, and the section under the sanctuary was excavated through 20 feet of solid rock to provide for the basement, in which heating and cooling equipment are located. In general, the church was integrated with the immovable rock below.

To Stand For Centuries

Resting on such footing and built with the extra strength that features the old mediaeval cathedrals, the church is expected to stand for centuries. Opinions of builders vary on that point. Some say 500 years, some say 1000 years or more.

The church measures 195 x 83 feet at its longest and widest dimensions and the center line of its arched ceiling is 37 feet above the level of the floor. The narrowest dimension is 50 feet. Its massive front tower, which includes the vestibule and choir balcony, rises to a height of 70 feet. Above that a stone steeple rises another 30 feet and is topped with a cross 14 feet high. Architecturally the church is identified as semi-Gothic.

Material in the walls consists of brick and cut stone. Brick work includes about 285,000 common brick and 124,000 pearl gray velour texture face bricks. Exterior stone includes hard gray Indiana limestone for steps and risers and Texas limestone for exterior trim. The modernistic statue of Christ which features the front and is located directly over the entrance is made of Cordova cream limestone. Interior walls consist of Austin shell cream limestone with plain cream limestone for window frames, pillars, and partial pillars under side panels. About 2000 pieces of stone were used in the interior, all pre-cut to fit into their particular places.

White Oak Woodwork

All the woodwork is made of matched selected Appalachian white oak. Included under this heading are the heavy doors, both interior and exterior; the arched ceiling beams and the panels which blend from the beams into the wall; the pews, confessionals and the cases and cabinets of the sacristy; and the highly ornate organ grilles and choir balcony.

Ceiling beams and side panels have been painted pearl gray and trimmed with a stripe of mint green. In addition symbols in mint green and gold signifying invocations from the Litany of the Sacred Heart have been painted on the panels. The choir balcony, in natural oak color, is hand carved and inscription letters are inlaid in gold leaf.

Seating capacity of the church is about 800. The nave which measures 50 x 120 feet, has a row of 16 pews at either side of the center aisle, and each pew will accommodate 10 persons. Additional pews in the transept and the choir loft will seat about 100 more. Emergency seating in the wide aisles could possibly accommodate 200 more for a crowded capacity of about 1000. Kneeling benches, also of oak, are finished with sponge rubber padding covered with plastic.

Air Conditioned

The center aisle side of each pew is fitted with a grille behind which a duct leads through the floor and into an air return tunnel under the center aisle. This is a part of the forced air heating and cooling system. Air enters the nave through grilles in the walls under the windows. In the sanctuary, sacristy, vestibule, choir loft and rest rooms air returns through wall grilles just above the floor and enters through grilles at a higher level. An 80 ton air conditioning system provides the refrigerated air. For heating a large boiler sends steam through coils over which the air passes before being forced into the church. Temperature in the building is controlled thermostatically.

Floors throughout are of terrazzo, with a dominant color of light green relieved by bands of black and buff.

Ruggedness in keeping with the rest of the church is built also into its roof, which is supported by heavy steel beams. On top of the beams is a decking of two inch matched lumber, a thick layer of felt and a surface of extra heavy clay shingles. Under the beams is a ceiling of acoustical tile one inch thick and the oak beams.

Temporary windows of frosted amber glass are to be replaced later by art glass windows. Members of the parish will have an opportunity to donate those windows as memorials.

Bells and Music

Replacing the traditional church bells is a record player with high volume amplifier which can be set up to send its sound considerably farther than the bells used to. The machine consists of two players which are timed to ring the angelus and church service bells automatically. Another player is manually controlled for use in sending out any other desired sound, such as the death toll, sacred hymns, Christmas music, etc. All the bell toll records in use here were made in European churches which are known for the fine tone of their bells. Musical records are reproductions of sacred music on high quality chimes.

The sound system, which was acoustically designed for the church reaches the cry room and the choir loft as well as the main part of the church.

Lighting fixtures were also specially designed for the church. They consist of fourteen chandeliers hand made from brass and aluminum with circular deflections under the lamps to diffuse the light into a soft even glow. Ten of these fixtures are in the main part of church, three in the transept and one in the choir balcony. Additional light for the altar is provided by a spot light mounted behind a panel on each side wall. Indirect lighting illuminates the vestibule, cry room and rest rooms.

Modern Touch

A modern touch has been added to the confessionals. A small light over each compartment, showing when it is occupied, is automatically controlled by wiring to the two kneeling benches and the priest's chair.

Though construction of the church has been under way for the past two years, it could be said that it actually got started in the late thirties. Father Frowin Koerdt, who served as pastor here a quarter of a century, started his drives for funds at that time, and had visions of seeing the church built within a few years. But the war changed things. After the war, as materials slowly became available again, people were reluctant to get started, always hoping that prices would come down. Even after the old church was removed the work was postponed, until it was finally realized that costs would probably continue rising instead of starting down. So it was that the church which had originally been estimated at about $200,000, eventually cost a half million dollars.

John Louis Hess and Marcella Sandmann
Say Vows Tuesday

Miss Marcella Sandmann became the bride of John Louis Hess during a nuptial high mass in Saint Peter's church at Lindsay Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock with Rev. Conrad Herda officiating and directing the exchange of vows in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sandmann and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hess, all of Lindsay.

Mrs. William Schmitz, organist, and members of the church choir presented the music. Baskets of pink gladioli and greenery adorned the altar.

Mr. Sandmann gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over bridal satin designed with a picture neckline filled with a tulpe yoke applique with a flower motif. The figurine bodice fastened down the back with tiny lace covered buttons and the voluminous skirt swept into a chapel length train. The bride's veil of French illusion was fingertip length caught to a lace cap trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a purple orchid on top of a white prayerbook. For something old and borrowed she carried a dainty lace handkerchief carried by her grandmother at her wedding seventy years ago.

Attendants

Mrs. Tony Rohmer of Muenster, sister of the bride and Mrs. Julius Metzler, sister of the groom, were matron of honor and bridesmaid. Their floor length gowns of Alpine rose velvet featured scooped necklines and net overskirts. They wore matching mitts and headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of pink pom pom mums.

Little Shelia Hennigan and Donna Kay Stoffels of Muenster, nieces of the bride, were flower girls wearing pale rose nylon net and taffeta dresses with matching mitts and headpieces. They carried rose colored baskets of pom pom mums.

Cpl. Wilfred Hess of Fort Hood was his brother's best man and Edward Sandmann, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Raymond Sandmann and Alfred Hess ushered.

After mass the bride placed a bouquet of pink gladioli on the Blessed Virgin's altar.

Reception

Immediately following the services Mr. and Mrs. Sandmann were hosts in the Lindsay Hall for a reception and buffet supper. Some 250 guests registered in the bride's book at which Misses Anna Belle Metzler and Betty Rose Zimmerer presided.

Hall decorations stressed the bride's colors in arrangements of gladioli. The bride's table held the large double wedding ring cake.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hess left on a trip to Tennessee and Kentucky she was wearing a blue suit with pink and charcoal accessories and the orchid she carried at her wedding. When they return they will make their home in Muenster.

Mrs. Hess was graduated from Lindsay High school in 1952 and has been employed in Gainesville. Her husband attended Sacred Heart school in Muenster and is employed there with an oil well drilling company.

Pre-Nuptial Shower

A miscellaneous gift party complimented Miss Sandmann last Wednesday in the Lindsay Parish Hall when members of the Blessed Virgin Sodality entertained. Twenty-five guests were present.

HINZMANN-ROHMER RITES
SET FOR TUESDAY, OCT. 19

Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Hinzmann have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ursula, to Albert Rohmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rohmer.

The marriage will be solemnized in Saint Mary's church at Gainesville on Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 4 p.m.

Miss Hinzmann came to the United States in 1952 from Germany where her family still lives. She was born in Duderstadt on a farm that the family handed down from generation to generation for over 250 years until world war II. During the war the Hinzmann family was driven from their home and became displaced persons. Ursula planned to come to the United States in 1948 but didn't get her visa until November 1951. She made her home with her cousin, Mrs. C. S. Strauss, route 1, Gainesville, until she learned to speak English and secured work.

The prospective groom is a world war II veteran having served in the European theatre as a tank battalion mechanic after training at Camp Rucker, Ala., and Camp Pickett, Va. He is in business here as an automobile mechanic.

GIFT PARTY COMPLIMENTS
CLARA FLUSCHE SUNDAY

Miss Clara Flusche, bride-elect of Julius Hermes Jr., was complimented with a miscellaneous gift party Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Tony Otto with Mrs. Tony Hoenig, Mrs. Sid Otto and Miss Frankie Marie Owen as co-hostesses.

The party rooms and refreshment table carried out the honoree's colors of white, gold and bronze, and the hostesses presented Clara a gold mum corsage.

Nineteen guests enjoyed table games and refreshments of cake and punch.

Miss Flusche will be married to Mr. Hermes next Tuesday in Sacred Heart church during the nuptial mass at four o'clock.

IS "COEXISTENCE" POSSIBLE?

The Congressional Committee on Communist Aggression, composed of five Republicans and four Democrats, returned recently from Europe where a series of hearings in London, Munich and Berlin led to the labeling of Communism for what it is. Among the 112 witnesses heard were Exiled King Michael of Rumania, Col. Grigori Stephanovich Burlitski, former top official in the Russian MVD, high ranking former officials of the governments of Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Ukraine, Poland, and scores of citizen leaders who had lived under Communism in a half dozen Iron Curtain countries, before escaping to the West.

On the basis of the testimony given, together with its previous investigations over a considerable period the Congressional Committee has just published a series of clearheaded conclusions and has addressed an urgent recommendation to President Eisenhower (House Report No. 2650). Highlights of the findings are:

Its True Nature

1. "Life under communism is one of ruthless and absolute tyranny. The State is god. The dignity and inherent rights of man have no place under communism."
2. "Communism is a conspiracy which utilizes an extensive and complex international criminal mechanism. It seeks to destroy all free nations and to replace them with a system of Red colonialism."
3. "The leaders of the international Communist conspiracy regard the United States as the main roadblock to their plan for world conquest."
4. "Communism is able to maintain control over the peoples it enslaves only by the exercise

"Blind Man's" Bluff

You know how Handy Turner down at the hardware store goes in for weird advertising stunts. Well, when it came to plugging his new Venetian blind department, his enthusiasm nearly landed him in trouble.

Handy painted a warning on the tailboard of his truck: "Caution—blind man driving."

"Had driven about a mile," Handy says, "when a state trooper stopped me and told me that sign might cause trouble. Guess he was right. From now on I'll advertise in the Clarion."

From where I sit, I agree—the highway is no place for jokes. We all ought to be considerate of the other fellow when we're driving. In fact, let's respect our neighbor's right of way always. Then, when we have differences of opinion—say about the best route to Centerville, or whether beer or buttermilk is better with lunch—there will be less chance of anybody developing any "blind" spots.

of the most brutal and inhuman methods known to mankind, such as wholesale arrests and deportations, forced famines, mass killings, and the crime genocide against entire nations."

To The President

"Because of the foregoing findings, based on testimony sworn to before the committee, we conclude," the Committee said, "that peaceful coexistence is a Communist myth which can be attained only through the complete surrender of our free way of life for one of slavery under Moscow-controlled communism." The following recommendations were addressed to Congress and the President:

"That the President of the United States take the initiative in convening an international conference of all free non-Communist nations for the following purposes:

"(a) To express formal recognition of the fact that the Communist governments, which now control over 800 million human beings, are not representative of the will of the people.

"(b) To seek agreement whereby the free non-Communist nations acting in concert will withdraw diplomatic recognition from all Moscow-controlled Communist governments.

"(c) To reaffirm the friendship and solidarity of the people of the free world with the people and nations enslaved by communism.

"(d) To develop a program for the rapid and complete termination of all commercial treaties and trade with Communist governments and the initiation of a program of trade among all non-Communist nations which will strengthen the security of the free world.

"(e) To develop an overall, dynamic program for the defeat of the international Communist conspiracy. . . ."

"That peaceful coexistence be clearly identified as a Communist myth. It should be rejected on the grounds that it is impossible for a civilization based on a belief in Almighty God, to coexist with an aggressive criminal conspiracy dedicated to the destruction of civilization and to the enslavement of all mankind."

The Committee issuing these powerful recommendations is

America Needs a History Lesson

By Rev. John S. Kennedy

SCRUTINY OF THE PAST may help us both to understand the present and discern something of the future. Pitirim Sorokin is a renowned social scientist who has made his reputation by studying vanished civilizations and evaluating our own civilization in the light of those defunct.

In a recent magazine article Mr. Sorokin wrote: "Today one of the biggest threats to our continued existence as a healthy, powerful, nation is the preoccupation of our population with the worship of sexual prowess. We are in danger, as my college students put it, of going 'sex-crazy'. I do not think it is going too far to say that the kind of sexual freedom which millions of Americans calmly accept as normal today is as menacing to our internal security as anything yet uncovered."

Sorokin

AS EVIDENCE of this derangement, Mr. Sorokin cited the sales in one year of millions upon millions of books depicting and glorifying sex-sadism; the acceptance of the Kinsey report (on the sex behaviour of "less than .01 percent of our female population") as not only a picture of the sex behaviour of all our female population but also as a justification for sexual malpractice and aberration; the fact that in our civilization "we encounter some kind of sexual lure every nine minutes of our waking day."

This attests the existence of what Mr. Sorokin called "sex anarchy." By this is meant a condition wherein the place, the purpose, and the moral law of sexuality are misconstrued or ignored. Sex is regarded as sovereign, as a means of sensual gratification only, and as beyond right and wrong.

HISTORY ABOUNDS in proof that "sex anarchy is a cancerous growth that destroys the very vitals of nations." Mr. Sorokin alluded to examples of this in the stories of Greece, Rome, Egypt, Babylon, China, and India. He spoke of the lessons learned by the Soviet Union which, after encouraging sexual license and sweeping away the traditional Christian view, found that the resultant social devastation threatened to be mortal and therefore turned back to the ideas it had sought to drive out.

Sex anarchy is of course to be avoided because in practise it has always brought disaster to any society in which it prevailed. But even if sex anarchy brought material benefit to society, we should be bound to refrain from it. For it is unchangeably at odds with what is reasonable and good.

ROUGH ON RED

Shed a tear for the plight of the Communist Party organizer who, so the story goes, wrote this complaint to his superior:

"It is becoming increasingly difficult to reach the down-trodden masses in America. In the spring, they're forever polishing their cars. In the summer, they take vacations. In the fall, they go to the World Series and football games. And in the winter you can't get them away from their TV sets.

"Please give me suggestions on how to let these people know how oppressed they are."

A Priceless Community Asset

Spiritual values cannot be measured, so we have no way of knowing just how much the new church and school mean to Muenster and the Sacred Heart Parish. However, we know for certain that the value is tremendous.

On a much smaller scale . . . and in another field . . . this business, too, is a community asset. We strive constantly to do our part, and more, toward making Muenster a better place in which to live and to make a living.

GOOD CHURCHES... GOOD Schools...

Are the Backbone of Our Nation

The survival of this country as the home of the free depends not so much on atomic power or industrial might as on spiritual values proclaiming belief in God and respect for our fellow man.

The emphasis placed on church and school in Muenster stands out as evidence of the community's deep concern for those spiritual values.

We heartily congratulate the Sacred Heart parish on the dedication of its fine new church and school.

County Votes Down 30c Tax Proposal By Strong Majority

By a majority of more than 2 to 1 Cooke County voters in a special election last Saturday turned down the proposal for a 30 cent increase in the county's ad valorem tax. The count was 717 for and 1471 against.

The tax had been proposed as a source of revenue for lateral roads and flood control and also as a means of relieving present county funds for use in purchasing right of way for federal roads.

Both Münster boxes opposed the measure by heavy majorities. The result was 82 to 5 in the north box and 165 to 29 in the south box, the most decisive vote polled in the county.

All the larger boxes of the county opposed the tax strongly, and the only boxes favoring it were Cosfield, North Woodbine, Burns City, Marysville, Hood and South Lindsay.

Principal opposition to the proposal came from a group of citizens who favored a 10 cent tax as sufficient to support an adequate road program.

Mrs. Joe Swirczynski returned home Monday after a seven week visit with her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Erpelding and family, in Bode, Iowa, while Clarence was in the hospital at Council Bluffs. She also visited in Omaha, Neb., with relatives and stopped over with the Joe Henscheids at Westphalia, Iowa. She said Clarence is regaining his strength nicely.

Local Kin Attend Pilot Point Funeral

Mrs. J. C. Trachta, Mrs. John Wieler and Otto Walterscheid attended funeral services Wednesday for their uncle, Louis Hilz Sr., at Pilot Point. The requiem mass was read in St. Thomas church and burial was in the parish cemetery.

Mr. Hilz, who would have been 80 next month, died suddenly Monday while he was visiting a daughter in Edinburg. He was a long-time resident of Pilot Point but had lived in Dallas the past few years.

VFW AUXILIARY WELCOMES NEW MEMBERS MONDAY

Two new members, Mrs. John Hosea and Mrs. George Swirczynski, were welcomed in initiation ceremonies at the regular meeting of the Münster VFW Auxiliary Monday night.

During the business session Mrs. Ray Swirczynski, president, presided and members voted a contribution to the Sacred Heart cemetery fund and to the Christmas Fund for orphans at the national VFW home.

Mrs. Steve Moster reported on the Auxiliary and VFW plan to find the most courteous and careful driver of the month and said that the winner of the first month's ten dollars would probably be decided next week. She also reported that one needy child's lunch bill had been paid for one month at each of the Münster schools.

Mrs. Richard Trachta accepted hostess duties for the next three months and Mrs. David Trachta was hostess for the evening serving sandwiches to 15 members.

Mrs. Arnold Wimmer won the attendance prize.

Improvement Bond Needs No Raise in Tax, Council Says

How can the city assume a $50,000 improvement bond without raising taxes to support it?

That seems to be a difficulty local residents are encountering as they consider the proposal to a bond issue to finance water and sewer work.

The answer is that the city has plenty of revenue to meet the obligations on schedule, also that it could not raise the tax rate if it wanted to. The present rate of $1.50 per $100 of valuation is the limit allowed under the state's municipal regulations, under which the city operates.

As explained by City Manager Steve Moster and Alderman Herbert Meurer the city needs only to designate a portion of its present revenue to provide a sinking fund for the bonds. The council has agreed that a rate of 60 cents will be ample.

Here is how the arrangement works out. With a rate of $1.50 and a valuation of about $800,000, the city's tax revenue now amounts to about $12,000 a year. Diverting 60 cents to the sinking fund would provide $4,800 a year to meet bond payments and leave $7,200 a year in the general fund.

Assuming payments are set on a 20 year schedule at 3½ per cent the first payment would amount to $4250 . . . $2500 for principal and $1750 for interest. The first payment actually requires less than a 60 cent tax, and after that the interest decreases annually.

Assuming next that 60 cents of the present tax is set aside for bond payments. Does that leave the city enough revenue to operate on?

The remaining 90 cent rate would leave $7,200 for the general fund and the annual revenue from water and sewer service would add about $18,000, making up a total annual revenue of about $25,000 for the general fund.

Next question is, would the $25,000 take care of the city's current expenses? A look at this year's record would seem to indicate that it will. The two big items this year are $6,000 on water and sewer work and $12,000 on payment. The former item would be included in the bonded projects eliminating them from the general fund. The second item would be considerably less because most of the city's paving work is finished. There are other expenses of course. Utility bills, salaries, equipment upkeep, payment on obligations, etc. All of them are being met now out of what remains in the general fund after the heavy sewer, water and pavement expenditures. With those expenditures eliminated even more can be done.

That's where the swimming pool comes in. The council believes it can be financed in a very short time with money that will be available in the general fund.

The figures are there and they reveal that the city can do all it claims with the bond issue . . . that is, improve water and sewer systems and build a swimming pool without raising taxes.

signed to reduce glare while admitting plenty of light. Each room has its separate heating unit and ample indirect electric light fixtures that eliminate shadows. Each room also has a white tack board for bulletins, announcements and the display of student projects in various subjects. "Blackboards" are all green and chalk used on them is yellow. None of the chairs and desks—they're of blonde oak and light weight steel—are stationary and may be moved about for individual discussion groups or other purposes as the occasion calls for.

Each room has a door opening into the straight hall that runs the length of the building. Exit doors swing out at a slight shove on the push bar, and every door in the building can be opened from the inside after it has been locked outside—a safety precaution eliminating the possibility of any one getting locked in.

Complete Gymnasium

For the first time in Sacred Heart parish history the boys and girls have their own gymnasium. The highly polished floor is marked for basketball, volley ball, tennis and shuffleboard. The seating section on the far east side accommodates over 400 persons and is sharply sloped so that spectators have a good view of the playing floor. There's an electric timer and score board, and two sets of practice basketball goals in addition to those on the main court, and there are exercising bars and other equipment.

The homemaking department, also a first for Sacred Hearters, consists of three complete kitchen units with stove, sink and cabinets in each. One range is electric, two are gas models. All cabinet tops are of rose tan Formica. Other furnishings consist of an electric washing machine, clothes dryer, refrigerator, six electric sewing machines six table and chair sets, a mirrored wall, 33 individual student drawers, and a dressing room.

Science Department

The science department has been rated by the Texas Educational Agency as among the best and most complete in the state. This room, however, is still without its custom built cabinets. Economy-minded Sr. Theresina, long in charge of the department, believed cabinets used in the past would suffice in the new building . . . they were substantial and handy . . . and would serve their purpose. But when they were moved into new surroundings they stood out as definitely outmoded and didn't "fit in" with the new look of the modern department. After that, cabinets to be made according to specifications were ordered but they haven't been delivered by the manufacturer.

The commercial class room and the typing room are divided by a glass partition so that one instructor can supervise two classes at work. While the twenty typewriters are sending out a steady tattoo during typing periods their tapping doesn't penetrate the sound-proof glass section to disturb bookkeeping or shorthand students in the commercial room.

Library-Study Hall

The library, one of the most inviting rooms of all, radiates a living room atmosphere and also serves as a study hall. Tables and chairs are comfortable, and walls are lined with shelves of smooth South American pine. There's a specially built library charging desk, and a book store annexed.

There are more than 200 steel lockers for student use, 179 in the main hall and the rest in the two basement shower rooms. Drinking fountains are numerous and conveniently placed.

Holding a vantage spot in a niche in the main hall and clearly visible from both the south and the west entrance, is a life-size statue of the Sacred Heart, patron of the school and of the parish. It was presented to the school by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hess.

Also in the hall is a glassed-in trophy display case, a niche for the U. S. Flag, and 4 large bulletin boards.

The wide front west wing of the building is centered with an eight-foot Benedictine cross of white stone slightly recessed in the LaPerle brick wall.

Everything that can contribute to the health and comfort of students and teachers was planned into the new building and educators, salesmen, and personnel of other schools have praised it highly. Some have said that it ranks among the best schools in the nation.

Sacred Heart High, with an accredited rating in the full course of subjects taught, is staffed by Olivetan Benedictine Sisters whose motherhouse is in Jonesboro, Ark.

Sacred Heart Cubs Mauled 32-12 by Big D Youngsters

Elementary kids of St. Cecilia, Dallas, used their superior experience and size to advantage last Sunday and licked Father Patrick Hannon's Sacred Heart Cubs by a count of 32-12.

Before the Muenster lads had time to work up a sweat they were trailing by two touchdowns. The first happened on the first scrimmage play as one of the Big D boys intercepted a Cub pass and hoofed 60 yards for the counter.

On the kickoff that followed the Cubs fumbled and St. Cecilia recovered. The next play was good for 45 yards and another TD.

From then on the game was more of a contest as the Cubs shook off their jitters and held their own admirably. The second quarter netted a touchdown apiece and the third was a scoreless deadlock.

In the last quarter, however, St. Cecilia extended its lead, pushing over two touchdowns while the Cubs got one.

Nogger carried over for both Cub scores besides in addition to doing a fine job offensively and defensively all the way through. Other standouts on the team were Hosea, Hess and Zimmerman.

Muenster Deserves the Best

As a community that has practically lifted itself by its bootstraps, Muenster has shown in many ways that it is outstanding. By industry, thrift and cooperative effort it has developed an open prairie into the beehive of activity and progress that we know today.

Hence, it is fitting that the community's pride should center in a church and school that would do justice to a town several times Muenster's size.

As an organization including almost every rural family of the area we are in a position to know the community intimately and to sing its praises.

Tigers Win Third Straight, Wallop Greenhill 25-0

Win number 3 for the Sacred Heart Tigers was salted away easily last Friday night as Father Christopher Paladino's boys rambled over Greenhill of Dallas for a 25 to 0 decision.

It was Tommy Herr and company operating with clocklike precision against an unbalanced and poorly organized team featuring a few huskies who did not have a chance to offset the weakness in the rest of the lineup. Besides, the visitors had only four extras to draw on for substitutions.

Statistics as well as the score reveal the comparative strength of the teams. Sacred Heart marked up 12 first downs and a net yardage of 259. The Big D boys made 3 first downs and a net yardage of 35.

Herr was easily the outstanding performer of the tussle. As quarterback he directed his teammates for consistent gains, did a good deal of effective ball toting, and racked up every one of his team's 25 points. Less conspicuous but also doing a swell job were Walter, Hofbauer, Hennigan, Sylvan Walterscheid and Paul Hesse. All figured strongly in practically all Tiger successes as well as Greenhill failures.

Along with his other achievements Herr had the unique distinction of catching his own pass and taking it over the goal line. It happened after the third touchdown when he tried a short pass over the line for the extra point. The play was broken up and two or three slaps at the ball sent it back to Herr who scooted around left end for the point.

The Tigers lost no time in putting on the offensive pressure. Their first play after kickoff Walter hoofed 37 yards to the Hornet 43. A few more plays added 15 but a fumble interrupted progress and the Tigers had to wait a kick before getting started again. Herr's 47 yard kick return got to the 23 and six more plays produced the TD.

Next came more of the same thing. After holding the visitors the Tigers marched 30 yards to pay dirt. Their only completed pass of the game, Herr to Fleitman, accounted for 18 yards of the distance.

The third score was delayed slightly as Greenhill halted the Tiger drive. But the visitors fumbled the ball away a few plays later and Sacred Heart was on the go again. Herr covered most of the distance on a neat broken field gallop that reached 40 yards to the 2. Walter added 1 and Herr sneaked over, his third touchdown on as many quarterback sneaks.

The final score came late in the third quarter after another drive that was halted temporarily by a Hornet stand. It was almost halted twice but Herr's gamble from kick formation paid off. He ran instead for 18 yards and a first down on the 20. Little Howard Mollenkopf went to the 4 and Herr scooted around right end for the score.

From there on Father Christopher let his youngsters take over and Greenhill looked somewhat better, gaining all three of its first downs and most of its yardage of the evening.

Elm-Red District Plans Field Day on Range Conservation

Final plans have been made for a Range Conservation Field Day to be held in Gainesville, Tuesday, October 12. This affair sponsored by the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce and the Supervisors of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District is being held to encourage better management and use of native grassland over the area. All who own or are interested in grass management are invited to attend.

The group will assemble at the Pavilion in Leonard Park at 9:15 a.m. After a short briefing transportation will be furnished to the Wright Ranch where native grasses under different conditions will be observed. D. H.

Taylor, Plant Technologist of the Soil Conservation Service in Fort Worth, will climax the affair with a talk on grassland management.

Weldon Blanton, chairman of the Chamber Agricultural Committee, who is in charge of arrangement says, "I am sure that ranchers and others will see and hear some practical aspects of Grassland Management which will be worthwhile. We have purposely made the affair a short one so that it will be over in two hours. Those who own a business and also operate grassland may attend with a minimum of lost time".

..and I've really been busy keeping you folks cool!

We have just been through one of the hottest summers ever known in this area. The number of days in which temperatures soared to 100° or more approaches the equivalent of two whole months. Yes, it's been a scorcher! But, thanks to air conditioning the heat was not nearly so rough as it has been in past summers with milder temperatures.

You may be one of the thousands who have installed electric air conditioning in the home. In so doing, you gave Reddy Kilowatt the job of pumping the heat out of the house . . . bringing mountain-cool comfort right at your fingertips. This means Reddy had to work harder for more hours. That's why your electric service bill may have been more this summer than in past summers.

This extreme heat has had its effect on the folks at TP&L and our power supply has been ample to meet the unprecedented extra load, but a tremendous amount of work has had to be done installing heavier transformers and stringing more wires . . . and much of this equipment won't be needed again now until next summer.

TP&L is happy to supply service through which you may enjoy mountain resort cool comfort right in your home during the sweltering summer days. Then, when you consider the many extra hours of summer time work you give electricity, we are sure you will agree that electricity is by far the biggest bargain in your household budget . . . summertime, wintertime . . . any time at all.

"Nothing," he retorted smugly. "Nothing at all. I'd be too polite."

"4 YEARS IN NORTH TEXAS"

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bierschenk of Fort Worth are happy over the arrival of a daughter Sunday, Oct. 3. She weighed five pounds nine ounces. The couple has three boys. Grandparents are the Val Dieters of Lindsay and the Joe Bierschens of Weatherford. Mrs. Dieter left Wednesday for a visit with her daughter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Dieter Jr. of Pasadena, Texas, have returned to their home after a visit with his parents and other relatives.

Women of Lindsay with children in school have organized a Mothers Club and elected officers. Mrs. Ben Hermes is president; Mrs. Bruno Zimmerer, vice president; and Mrs. Norbert Zimmerer, secretary-treasurer. Room-mothers are to be named in the near future and a program of activity arranged.

The bonds of matrimony aren't worth much unless interest is kept up.

Erection of Street Markers Completed

A speedup during the past week completed the erection of street markers which was under way on a leisurely spare time schedule for the past several weeks under the direction of City Manager Steve Mosier.

A total of 83 posts with two plates each have been erected at most of the busy intersections of town. Along Main there are two signs for each intersection. In the rest of town there is one sign for each intersection.

Next on the city's program is identifying locations by their proper numbers. The numbers have already been marked on the official city map and each home or business location is due to receive a postal notice soon revealing its correct number.

The postal will also urge people to order their numerals from the garden club . . . to help along in a campaign for funds to be used in city beautification work.

Altar Consecration

in that only the stone, referred to as a portable altar, was consecrated. In this case the entire altar, a "fixed" altar, was consecrated. To be "fixed", according to Church requirement, an altar must rest on its own foundation, independent of the rest of the building. The old altar simply rested on the floor of the church, hence only its stone could be consecrated.

The record of the 1898 ceremony has been removed from the little casket and included with the assortment of other documents sealed into the cornerstone of the church at the dedication. Likewise the record of the present altar's consecration was sealed into the cornerstone rather than in the altar.

Procedure in the ceremony was as follows. The bishop blessed salt, symbolizing preservation, water symbolizing purity, and ashes symbolizing penitence and mixed the three. Then he blessed wine symbolizing joy and added it to the other mixture. This mixture of four ingredients was sprinkled on the altar.

Next each corner and the center were anointed with oil of the catechumens, then the stone was similarly anointed with holy chrism and the sepulchre was also anointed with chrism.

After blessing cement the bishop then paced grains of incense and the relics in the sepulchre and cemented the top in place.

Cpl. Danny Haverkamp of Fort Hood spent a weekend pass with his parents, the Bill Haverkamps.

THE ALTAR AND CRUCIFIX which stand out as the principal interior features of the new Sacred Heart Church. The solid marble liturgical altar was consecrated by Bishop Dangelmayr on October 5. The carved oak crucifix above has a 19 foot cross and a 9 foot corpus. It was installed on September 23 and still awaits background carvings which were not finished in time for the church dedication. The chandelier at the right is one of 14 similar fixtures specially designed for the church. (Boyd and Breeding photo)

Tigers and Hornets Meet St. Mark's and Callisburg Friday

The odds are stacked for the Hornets and against the Tigers in the two grid tussles slated for the local teams this week. Records of the season up to now point to John Hosea's public school youngsters as having a definite advantage over Callisburg also to Father Christopher's parochial lads as the underdogs when they tangle with St. Mark's of Dallas. Both teams play Friday night, the Hornets here, the Tigers in Dallas.

What impresses Father Christopher about the St. Mark's team is its size, the line averaging near 190 pounds. That's a tremendous advantage over his comparative midgets who average much closer to 150. The feat of holding Whitesboro's powerful Bearcats to a 26-13 count also makes a big impression and identifies the Big D outfit as the most potent on the Tiger schedule to date. And, Father Chris adds, this time he does not think he is overestimating the foe as he did a few times before. At the same time he has confidence in his boys. He predicts that they will not be clobbered, and he's entertaining a slim hope that they will spring an upset.

The Muenster-Callisburg game, according to the dope so far, should be an easy Hornet conquest. The Wildcats are rated weaker and the Hornets stronger than last year when Muenster easily dominated the annual contest. And comparative records up to now are heavily slanted in the Hornets' favor. Against a common foe, Pilot Point, Callisburg took a beating and Muenster won by three touchdowns.

Pioneers Dreamed About This Event

When the community was founded in 1889 devout settlers expressed the hope that the parish would one day have a truly magnificent church and a fine complete school.

Their dream has been realized in the dedication of the new church and school buildings.

We are proud to be a part of the thriving community they started.
