MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 JULY 15, 1966

NUMBER 34

The immensity of the Texas Water Plan, now being aired in a series of hearings throughout the state, is overwhelming. In brief, it grapples with the fact that our state, which has experienced water shortages while its population was under ten million, has to do a lot of providing to meet the needs of an estimated 30.5 million people in the year 2020.

The plan proposed to do the job has an estimated price tag of $3.7 billion. It is described as "bold and imaginative" by Governor Connally, as "the most comprehensive and far reaching in the world" by internationally known water authorities. It seeks to provide not only for proportionately increased consumption by the state's tripled population but also for additional use by new industries and vast irrigation developments. Truly it is an enormous program that staggers the imagination. Furthermore it is an objective that must be reached if the anticipated development of state potential is to be reached. Whether it will be done by proposed methods or some others depends mostly on the current series of hearings.

Starting point of the proposed plan is our own Trinity River basin, including the watershed which has to provide water for the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area. The program calls for a vast increase in reservoir capacity to catch and hold a greater percentage of the area's rainfall. More lakes are to be built, some existing lakes are to be enlarged, and some are to be converted from their present flood control type to storage type. Garza-Little Elm reservoir at Lewisville is one of this latter group.

Mention of such conversion already presents one problem. How about increased danger of floods? The main feature of a flood control reservoir is its normally unused capacity standing ready to catch big volumes of water from heavy rain and thereby preventing a gush of floodwater in the channel below the reservoir. After the heavy rain water is released under control until the lake has room for another big surplus of water, Garza-Little Elm's present function is to protect Dallas. But if the conversion is made, the function changes. The reservoir's purpose then is to hold as much water as possible for the city's use. The lake's level would not be lowered after the rain and its flood control potential would be obviously reduced.

We wonder why the conversion is planned. Have the water engineers perhaps decided that flood control isn't needed there after all? Or do they think that the urgent need of more water storage justifies more risk?

To supplement increase of water from its own area, the Upper Trinity is due to receive some of the surplus water from the Red River Basin of Northeast Texas. An ambitious plan calls for a reservoir from which water can be diverted to the East Fork of the Trinity, which flows into the Trinity below Dallas. Another diversion east of Dallas would send some of that East Texas water into the Dallas system.

Going beyond the Upper Trinity area, the water plan continues with its bold and fantastic program. Some seventy miles below the East Fork outlet there's to be a huge reservoir from which water can be diverted to the Brazos basin. And 170 miles down the Brazos another big reservoir permitting diversion into the Colorado River basin. And 16 miles farther still another reservoir with an outlet to a 190 mile aqueduct along the Gulf coast to the Rio Grande Valley.

All along the way that fantastic waterway is intended to provide a vast volume of additional water for urban and industrial use as well as for irrigating — the latter especially in the Rio Grand Valley. Furthermore, many additional reservoirs are in the plan to hold for use a greater percentage of rainfall in their respective areas.

Providing all that water, of course, is only half of the job. The other part is to make the water useful by a program of pollution control. That part will not be as dramatic as the (Continued on page 8)

Yostens Stranded By Airline Strike

A fabulous flying vacation — 11 days of it — ended suddenly before final days of the itinerary and concluded with a bus trip from San Francisco home. Mr. and Mrs. Felix Yosten were stranded by the airline strike.

In company of their daughter Gloria, stewardess for American Airlines, they flew to Mexico City where Gloria was in the wedding of a girl friend. They spent four days there. From there they flew to Los Angeles for sight-seeing and went to La Puente to visit the Norbert Henscheid family. From there to Chicago and two days of visiting with Mr. Yosten's sister, Mrs. Nick Mayer and family who took them sight-seeing. From Chicago to San Francisco and two days of sight-seeing.

There Mr. and Mrs. Yosten took the bus home. Gloria remained with friends, expecting a flight within a few days.

They had planned to go from San Francisco to New York for the final days of their two-week flying trip, courtesy of the airlines through Gloria's being a stewardess.

His tour of foreign duty is nearing the end and he will be at home in Muenster on leave for 30 days. His wife and small daughter Susan have been living here with his parents, the Ray Owens, while he was overseas. He has re-enlisted for six more years of Navy duty.

City Starts Use Of Spray Machine

If fewer mosquitoes are after you since the beginning of the week you can be grateful to the city for buying its new fogging machine. Steve Mosler had the unit out Monday night and expects to make the spraying run about every 15 days.

The job, he said requires about two hours and fifteen minutes during which the machine uses about $16 worth of insecticide and about $8 worth of diesel fuel to mix with the poison — a total cost of about $24 for every job.

The spraying is done at night, when cool air allows it to settle down better than it would during daytime heat. Best results are obtained after ten o'clock.

The new mosquito blitzer is much more efficient than the old one. Besides shooting the spray farther it breaks up the solution into a finer mist for better distribution.

African Students See Facilities at Colonial Acres

Eight advanced students from Africa touring the United States under auspices of "Operation Crossroads Africa," were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders Monday for a tour of Colonial Acres Farm and luncheon at noon.

With them were an interpreter from New York and a filming crew from United States Information Agency.

Presently located at Austin College, Sherman, the group came to Muenster to see the model farm as part of their study of American methods of breeding and caring for show cattle. They saw Black and Red Angus cattle, barns and equipment at Colonial Acres, then more Angus cattle on pasture near Saint Jo.

The eight Negro students are described by their interpreter as men of responsibility back home in Africa. Some are teachers, the others are youth leaders, all with the purpose of gathering ideas they can use, and establishing better understanding between the two countries.

The Department for Cultural Affairs, which sponsors the trip of the visitors, also has its purpose: to provide direct experience for the Africans with Americans as a step toward breaking down barriers of misunderstanding.

They are on a three months tour of this country. They were headquartered at Milwaukee for industrial tours, at Des Moines for agricultural tours and are concentrating on education while stopping at Sherman. Next stops are Dallas, Atlanta, and New York, then the return to Africa on August 9.

The men said that the trip is clearing up some of their misunderstandings of this country. For instance that America is torn with dissension on the Vietnam war and most of the people oppose the government's stand. They found the situation to be just the opposite. Also they learned that American Indians are not savages as shown on TV and movie.

Bro. Thomas Mosler Visits at Lourdes

Greetings to Muenster from Brother Thomas Mosler come from Lourdes this week. He attended the beautiful candle-light procession among thousands of people carrying candles and singing Ave Maria. He also witnessed the procession of the Blessed Sacrament among hundreds of people in wheelchairs.

Since his last travel note, Brother Thomas and his group of pilgrims, while in Rome, visited the Sistine Chapel and received the blessing of Pope Paul in St. Peter's Square. The four took them to the ruins of Pompeii and they spent a day on the Isle of Capri, and climbed to the top of the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

From Italy they went to France, visited at Monaco and the famous Monte Carlo Casino, also enjoyed the beautiful Riviera of Nice. Next stop was to be at Paris.

All Star Games Booked for Juniors Of Little League

The all-star phase of Little League baseball for Muenster kids begins this week when the pick of the local junior division takes on youngsters of the same division from Saint Jo.

The game will be played Friday night at 8 on the Muenster baseball field. Willie Walterscheid will manage the boys and Muenster Jaycees will sponsor them.

Team membership was determined by picking outstanding players from the four teams of the junior division based on their performance during the season just ended. They are Gary Walterscheid, Jim Endres, Larry Grewing, Jim Schmitz, Alan Miller, Gary Endres, Glenn Felderhoff, Ricky Swirczynski, Randy Wolf, Phil Endres, Terry Walterscheid, Hank Trachta, Melvin Luke and Dolphy Trimbell. Each will wear the uniform he wore through the regular season.

The intention, says Manager Walterscheid, is to match as many games as possible for the youngsters during the rest of the summer vacation. Invitations are being sent to towns of the area with the intention of working out a schedule for boys of the 10-11-12 age bracket.

Walterscheid said that similar plans are in the making for boys of the 13-14-15 age bracket, the senior division players. All-Stars are to be selected and a schedule is to be drawn up within a few days.

Animal Scientist Will Head Program For Cattlemen

Dr. Jan Bonsma, internationally known animal scientist, will be the headliner of a special program in Wichita Falls Saturday night sponsored by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, the Wichita Farm and Ranch Club and the American Hereford Association.

The event will be held in the 4-H Club barn on Hampstead Lane beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Other big attractions of the affair are a barbecue dinner, a slide presentation and a cattle demonstration.

Dr. Bonsma, head of the animal husbandry department of the University of Pretoria, Pretoria South Africa, was a visiting professor at Texas A & M University in 1964-65. During that time he appeared in a program on animal fertility at Wichita Falls and the enthusiastic response of people who attended inspired the effort to bring him back to Wichita Falls.

The man has amazed beef cattlemen and animal scientists all over the nation with his unusual ability to look at a cow and almost instantly tell whether she is of high or low fertility; how many calves she has had; whether she has ever aborted; whether she is a regular or difficult breeder; and other details of her production record, though he has never before seen her or her production record.

His accuracy has been checked at every demonstration he has made. At Texas A & M University he appraised more than 200 breeding cattle on which careful lifetime records had been kept. He had an over-all accuracy of 95 per cent on evaluation of fertility.

Asked about his ability to correctly "read" an animal, Dr. Bonsma says, "The cow tells me." Actually he developed his keen ability to measure fertility visually after thirty years of study and through measuring more than 20,000 cattle and correlating their physical characteristics and their fertility records.

Dr. Bonsma has prepared a new updated series of slides which he says are "absolutely dynamic" on "Selecting Cattle for Efficient Production."

Muenster has a new resident since Thomas Berry moved over from Gainesville. He's at home in the Weinzapfel cottage on N. Walnut Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Taylor moved from Muenster to Houston this week Thursday. He was transferred there by J&L Supply Co. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Vogel bought their home at 603 N. Cedar.

TEDDY GREMMINGER has started this week on his new assignment as manager of the Denver Zone of Kraft Foods Corporation. He started with the firm in September 1956 at Fort Worth and was transferred to Midland a year ago for special training in the work he is doing now. He and the family moved from Midland to Denver last week.

Merit Awards Are Presented to VFW At July Meeting

July meeting of Muenster VFW Post 6205 Monday night was favored by the presence of district officers and was highlighted by the presentation of certificates for honors earned.

McDonnell then presented a certificate to Quartermaster Herbie Herr for his outstanding achievement in community service. McDonnell brought the awards back from the state encampment in Houston. Muenster was not represented at the state meeting.

Ernest Sheldron, McKinney, incoming district commander, addressed the men briefly, discussing program planning for the year.

Mrs. Earl Fisher Heads Garden Club As New President

Muenster Civic League and Garden Club, meeting Monday night, elected a new president and vice-president to fill the unexpired terms of Mrs. J. D. Hanna and Mrs. Don Bayer. Mrs. Hanna, president, resigned in June due to health reasons and Mrs. Bayer moved from the city.

Heading the organization as the result of the election is Mrs. Earl Fisher. Mrs. Dan Luke is vice president.

Members discussed honorary memberships and decided that those who pass their seventieth year and have ten years of active membership will be listed on the honorary roster.

The group also discussed programs for the coming year and gave suggestions for the new year book which will be compiled and printed for distribution in September. Mrs. Dan Luke heads the year book committee.

Program for the evening was showing colored films and slides by Miss Diann Henzler, a former teacher at Muenster Public School, who has just returned from a teaching term in Tainan, Taiwan. Her commentary added interest to the pictures.

Mrs. Joe Luke and Mrs. Victor Hartman were co-hostesses in the Luke home. They served refreshments to 19 members and six guests including Mrs. Oscar Detten who joined the club. Other guests were Mmes. Harvey Schmitt, Al Yosten, Bernard Swirczynski, and Mrs. Henry Henzler of Pilot Point.

Water Use Gains But City System Is In No Strain

The arrival of real summer weather in Muenster can be verified this week by records of the city water department. Steve Mosler, water superintendent, said Wednesday that the year's water consumption peak to date was reached Tuesday. The total was 365,000 gallons. Until then total daily consumption had been below 300,000 gallons.

The increase was expected, Mosler said, and will probably go much higher if the heat and dryness continue. Lawns and shrubs are beginning to suffer. They will need persistent heavy watering until rain arrives. At some time during the summer the peak will probably top last year's all time high of 445,000 gallons.

Regardless of how high it goes, however, the city water system will not be strained. Mosler said the daily production capacity is 600,000 gallons and can be expected to remain well over 500,000 even through prolonged heavy demand. Besides storage tanks are usually full, adding 350,000 gallons to the output of the wells. Actually the city could deliver almost a million gallons in a day in case of emergency. That provides a comfortable margin of safety, considering that the expected peak will likely be less than half of that volume.

The only problem that might arise, Mosler said is failure to deliver the water in case use becomes heavy enough at any time. Tuesday the consumption was 200,000 at 5 p.m. During the next three or four hours it increased by more than 150,000 gallons. It is possible to use water faster than booster pumps can deliver. Even so, that would be tremendously heavy use. Booster pumps can put 84,000 gallons an hour into the mains. The level of the storage tank does not drop until the rate of consumption exceeds that figure.

In case anyone noticed a bit of hardness in the city water Tuesday night, there's a reason, Mosler said. For the first time in months the big downtown reservoir dropped to two thirds level and water from the North Main reservoir automatically started mixing in. It has some hardness. As heavy consumption continues other traces of hardness can be expected occasionally. But only occasionally. Normally water from North Main does not get into the system. Because of its hardness it is used only as a stand-by.

Firemen Answer First Summer Call

The first grass fire of the summer serves as a reminder that it's time again to be more cautious about burning trash. Firemen Monday afternoon were called out to take care of a blaze that probably would not have occurred a few weeks ago.

Hot, dry weather has created the annual local hazard. Grass can be ignited easily by bits of burning debris from a trash fire.

Fire Chief Alvin Hartman recommends that trash burning be avoided in high wind and that danger be further reduced by keeping grass and weeds mowed near incinerators.

Regarding rural grass fires he particularly asked for guide service directing the firemen to gates so they can get to the job as quickly as possible. Too often firemen are delayed because they have to hunt their way in going to a pasture fire.

Struck Oil with Pick and Shovel

A Wyoming oilman who recently found oil in a hand-dug well 21 feet deep astonished the experts. according to Oil Facts.

Al Smith resorted to a pick, shovel, and a few sticks of dynamite because time was running out on his lease and no drilling rig was available.

Although more than two million holes have been drilled in the United States in search of petroleum in the past century, no other hand-dug well is known to exist. The average well is more than 4,000 feet deep, and only one out of nine drilled in unproven areas finds even a trace of oil or gas.

IS THE MIRACLE OLD-FASHIONED?

Is it old-fashioned to plead for a commonsense, live-with-in-your-means approach to government spending? Old-fashioned or not, some of the country's most progressive businessmen and civic leaders are still doing it. Mr. E. C. Sammons, chairman of the board emeritus of the U. S. National Bank of Oregon, in a recent address, said, "You can read history and find that no nation has ever been able to spend itself rich. Banks, corporations, cities and nations can't do it."

"We must do something about this to save America, or we will go down the drain just like 19 other great nations of the past who tried to spend themselves rich." Mr. Sammons called attention to the fact that while the President is urging businessmen and housewives to curtail their spending in a move to cut inflation, the federal payroll is expanding by leaps and bounds. He cited figures that show 300,000 persons have been added to the federal payroll since June, 1965, and concluded, "The miracle of America has not been our big industrial plants but the intelligence and character of our people."

ed in learning. It has undetermined every dollar of savings in the country and is responsible for the vicious contest between wages and the cost of living.

An Arizona Farm Bureau Federation news release has something to say about inflation and farmers that should be of interest to anyone who has a dollar in his pocket: "Inflation can be generated only by government. Business firms, labor unions, or consumers with excessive market power can do many objectionable things that are contrary to the public interest. But, they cannot cause inflation. Only government — with its power to tax and to mint and print money, with its dominant position as a consumer of goods and services in both domestic and foreign markets can do that."

Government attempts to control inflation by settling up "guidelines", and imposing controls on the free market are a grand hoax that if attempted by private citizens would mean jail.

FISHING FAR FROM HOME

In the interests of conservation, the Senate Committee on Commerce is pushing for legislation to establish a "fishery zone" 12 miles wide in all U.S. coastal waters. With few exceptions, foreign fishermen would be excluded from operating in that zone, which is presently the case within only that 3-mile zone internationally recognized as our "territorial waters."

The report of the Committee's hearings clearly demonstrates the need for a border area of exclusion. And this could be reasonably done, according to legal testimony, without claiming an extension of territorial waters and with no interference to ordinary shipping on the high seas outside the 3-mile-zone.

Presently, foreign fishermen are able to operate in the very mouths of some of our most important bays and harbors, and over grounds which our own fishermen have for years worked with utmost care to maintain a continuing good supply of marketable fish. In recent years, some foreign vessels, most notably those of the Soviet Union, have been dragging those grounds with nets so fine in mesh that hardly a minnow can get through. And according to U.S. fishermen who claim to have observed it, the Communists lack even the decency to throw the small ones back. After picking out the larger, edible fish, they dump all the rest in the hold to be ground up as fish meal or fertilizer. We don't think it far-fetched to suggest that they may be deliberately trying to damage or destroy our off-shore fishing grounds.

In any case, that's what they've been doing. And the effects are already evident in diminishing annual hauls of such important seafoods as crabs, shrimp and salmon. Also, the big Soviet trawlers have time and again destroyed stationary equipment (set nets and traps) which U. S. fishermen use, instead of trawlers, as part of the program to conserve the fish for coming years.

While there's certainly justification for a 12-mile zone in the interests of conservation alone, there may be some equally compelling reasons. For some of those Soviet trawlers spend a lot of time in the mouths of some of our harbors where there are few if any fish to be caught. When fishermen far from home dip their nets and drop location markers where they know fish do not abound, there is reason to wonder for what they are really fishing.

A tiger was prowling through the jungle and came across a beautiful female tiger. Softly he growled: "How about a kiss, baby?"
"Get away from me," she replied. "You smell like gasoline."

HO'S THREE ACES

Ho Chi Minh lost a few chips as a result of recent bombings of supply areas near Hanoi and Haiphong. But he still holds at least three aces. They were handed to him by the some "dealer" in Uncle Sam's Potomac River "gambling palace," who have at long last allowed our pilots to hit a few really significant targets in North Vietnam.

Ace number 1: Ho and his cohorts are still assured a personal sanctuary. Defense Secretary McNamara said during his dramatic TV performance explaining the bombings: "Our objectives in South Vietnam are limited. Our objectives are not to destroy the Communist government of North Vietnam."

Ace number 2: In addition to the fact that he had lots of time beforehand to disperse supplies from those areas which were finally attacked, Ho apparently can count on some time for resupply and further dispersal while the dealers in Washington wait, as they have said they will, to see if he might now want to negotiate. Mr. McNamara said during his TV appearance that he intends to continue the same policy of "military restraint" he has followed in the past. That includes forbidding the mighty U.S. fleet to interfere with any ships hauling supplies into North Vietnam and allowing no air strikes in the North except when and as approved by the political croupiers in Washington.

Ace number 3: Ho's trump ace: According to present rules of the game, as set by the house (White House) manager himself, should the strikes in the North become more damaging than Ho wishes to bear, he needs only to agree to negotiate in order to get them stopped completely. At the same time, no condition has been set by the house manager that attacks by the Communist forces in South Vietnam must be stopped before Ho can play that trump ace.

Recent history speaks vividly on the tragic consequences of that kind of game. During the Korean conflict, far more men were killed and wounded — on both sides — after peace negotiations were started than before.

Recent history also indicates that, so long as dealers like McNamara and Rusk are left in charge of the game, Ho Chi Minh can count on all his aces remaining playable.

Muenster's class of 17 in Operation Head Start and their teachers Mrs. Jim Christian and Mrs. Casey English have enjoyed three recent field trips.

At the Joe Hess farm — one of the pupils is Kevin Hess — they visited the dairy, toured the farm, saw the cattle and horses. Mrs. Hess served milk and cookies.

CDA Court's New Committee Gives Report at Meeting

A new committee formed by Muenster CDA Court in June gave its first report at the July 8 meeting.

The committee is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ernest Medders "to administrate possible new programs designed to inspire participation in Catholic Daughters of America."

Members serving on the committee with Mrs. Medders are Mmes. Thomas Dankesreiter, Leon Fleitman, Rufus Henschel, Albert Herr, Ed Knauf, Bernard Swirczynski, Robert Vogel and Theo Voth and Miss Sara Fleitman.

They offered a tentative outline of activities and planned programs for the next 12 months and asked the membership for questions and discussion. Mrs. Leon Fleitman announced that court activity in August will include an outing at Voth's Lake for members and escorts.

Mrs. Paul Fisher, grand regent, conducted the meeting in the K of C Hall. Sixty-three members were present. Mrs. Tony Gremminger gave the library report.

Highlight of the meeting was an inspiring message brought by a guest speaker, Mrs. A. J. Koriath of Sherman. Her talk was entitled "The Importance of Woman's Role in Civic and Community Affairs." Mrs. Koriath is a past president of the National Council of Catholic Women.

A social hour with refreshments of punch and cookies followed adjournment.

Offshore Drilling Activity Increases

NEW YORK — About 150 mobile offshore drilling rigs will be probing the oceans of the world for new oil and gas reserves by the end of 1966, according to Oil Facts, published by the American Petroleum Institute.

The total value of these rigs will be approximately $600 million. Some will be able to drill exploratory wells in water 1,000 feet deep.

Some industry leaders believe that in another five years the number of seagoing rigs will reach 200, with a total worth of $1 billion. By that time, some oilmen believe it will be possible to drill exploratory wells from floating rigs in water 3,000 feet deep.

So far, the petroleum industry has invested an estimated $3.5 billion in offshore operations in U.S. waters and an overall total of $10 billion in similar projects throughout the world. Oil Facts points out that the dollar return from these activities still lags far behind the amounts spent.

Several new concepts in ocean exploration are being developed, including proposals to send complete drilling rigs enclosed in watertight shells to the ocean floor, where drillers could work for long periods of time. Another idea being discussed calls for sending a crewless rig to the bottom of the sea, to be operated by one man on shore.

Who Wouldn't?
 Testifying in court, the plaintiff who was suing the railroad braced himself stiffly in the witness box as the defense counsel started cross-examination.

"You say you were hurt in the accident?" the attorney asked.

"That's right," the witness said.

"Then, at the time of the accident, when you were asked if you were injured," pursued the attorney, "why did you say that you weren't?"

The witness shuffled his feet. "It's like this," he said. "Me and my horse and wagon, we didn't see no train coming so we started across the tracks. Next thing you know there's this train and we're knocked in a ditch. You never saw such a mess. I'm flat on my back with my feet up in the air, my horse is the same way, and the wagon upside down."

Interrupted the lawyer: But when the engineer asked you how you were, you said 'okay'." "First things first," replied the witness. "The engineer comes over and sees the horse's leg is broken, so he goes and gets the gun and shoots the horse. And then he comes over to me and asks if I'm hurt. Sure, I told him I was okay."

Nearly 275,000 pedestrians were injured and 9,000 were killed during 1965 in the United States, according to The Travelers Insurance Companies. This includes 300 persons who were injured while actually standing on a traffic safety isle.

Today's Indians Extend Hand Of Friendship To Summer Vacationists

Nobody speaks with a forked tongue about today's Indians. At least not if they're talking about the progress many tribes are making in attracting tourists to their reservations during the summer. The Bureau of Indian Affairs has even launched a program with the theme: "See America first with the first Americans," the idea being to get you to stop by at a reservation on your way to or from your vacation jaunt. They — the Indians, that is — have even got Dan "Hoss Cartwright" Blocker of the NBC-TV Bonanza show to do a mess of spots for them on radio and TV. "Many reservations are areas of unspoiled, scenic beauty" says Dan, "and they offer some of the finest recreation spots in the country, fishing, especially, is outstanding."

WORKS FOR INDIANS — NBC-TV's Dan Blocker has contributed his services to the Indian economy by making a series of radio and TV spots telling of the advantages of visiting Indian Reservations for fishing, scenic beauty and historic sites.

ervations can range from some very fancy ones, complete with lodging, swimming pools and hot baths, to simple trails through wooded forests. If you like to rough it, there are still places where you can blaze a trail. If you like comforts with your out-of-doors enjoyment, you're not limited in your choice, either. If you tarry, you can expect to drop a little wampum for handicrafts, a fishing license or a guide. A letter to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C. will get you a list of the 25 States with federally administered reservations and a free map of those areas. As Dan Blocker says: "When you take a vacation in Indian territory today, you're going to see some beautiful scenery, get in some good fishing, relive historical moments, and at the same time you're helping these Americans help themselves, economically." Good medicine.

About Half of Us Have an Allergy

About half of us are allergic to something. Pollen in the air can trigger hay fever, certain foods may start hives. Possible allergens are countless — house dust, animal fur, feathers, cosmetics, bleaches, medicines, foods, pollen. Some people are even allergic to heat, cold or sunlight. And there is the classic case of the woman who was allergic to her husband.

Most common results of allergies are four illnesses — hay fever, asthma, skin ailments and digestive disturbances. Hay fever is in inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages. Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes of the lungs. Food allergies, a sensitivity to one or more foods, can affect the skin, the digestive tract or the respiratory system. Skin allergies cause itching, sometimes rash.

Reaction to an allergen varies with individuals. One person may be only slightly upset by eating an egg. Another could become violently ill from the small trace of egg in salad dressing. There still are many unknown factors about the reason why someone suddenly becomes allergic to something. Allergic diseases are not usually fatal, but they cause untold discomfort and suffering. Although worry and stress might be a contributing factor, allergy is not an imaginary illness. It is very real to the sufferer.

Sometimes the allergen is known and can be avoided. Sometimes many tests by a physician are required to arrive at the true cause. Medical care is necessary in all cases for relief of discomfort and for protection against future attacks.

If you suspect you are allergic to something, see your doctor. Self-diagnosis and self-treatment not only are futile, they frequently are dangerous. Your doctor often can prescribe medications that will relieve the discomfort. And sometimes he can provide treatments that will desensitize you, so that the allergen no longer causes illness.

A Frenchman, the guest of a German, asked how they distinguish an optimist and a pessimist in Germany. "It's very simple," replied the German. "The optimists are learning English and the pessimists are learning Russian."

A law school professor was puzzled about the mark he should give the student who wrote about wills: "A will is a written document in which a person tell how he wants his property divided among his errors."

Salvation Army to Be Here July 19

Household discards are of value to the Salvation Army, notes Major Byron A. Freeman, commanding officer of the Men's Rehabilitation Center for North Texas.

"Summer or winter clothing, bedding, repairable appliances and furniture, and many other household items are always needed. We invite our friends in Muenster to call 759-4311 and a Salvation Army truck will pick up these discards from their home Tuesday, July 19," he added.

The Salvation Army cleans and rebuilds household items. This process supports the rehabilitation of over 1100 men each year. Through working in Salvation Army shops men seeking rehabilitation learn skills which help them become self-supporting after graduation from the center.

Household discards are tax deductible, notes Major Freeman. "We furnish receipts which may be used in determining a fair value for deduction on an income tax return," he added. The Salvation Army Men's Rehabilitation Center is completely self-supporting. This branch of Salvation Army work does not receive funds from community drives or governmental agencies.

Finnish Midsummer Festival

Midsummer Bonfire in Finland

NEW YORK (CFN)—Finland, which belongs to the Scandinavian group of countries, is known for its 60,000 sparkling lakes, medieval castles and modern cities. It is a beautiful, gay country and it has many enjoyable festivals, particularly during the pleasant summer months.

One of the most important festivals is the annual celebration of Midsummer on the Friday evening closest to June 24th. On that Friday afternoon the whole of Finland gets an atmosphere of carnival. It is Midsummer Eve and the entire nation turns out to celebrate the "longest day of the year." During Midsummer the sun does not set at all in the northernmost part of Finland and in the south of Finland there is dusk only for a couple of hours. At Midsummer every home, boat, train, bus and automobile is decorated with birch boughs. Countless bonfires, signifying the victory of the light over darkness, are lit all over the country along shores of the scenic lakes. Young and old take part in the gaiety of attending some of the many bonfires where plays, recitals, dancing and singing are part of the colorful program. It is a gay occasion and most of the young people add to the color by wearing their national costumes.

Of the many customs observed in the past on Midsummer, only the birch bough and bonfires have survived to our own days. In the old days the Midsummer festival was connected with many beliefs and practices, most of which related to love. Thus, for instance, upon her return home from the merry-making around the bonfire, it was the custom for a maiden to pick nine different species of flowers, bind them together into a wreath and place it under her pillow. The belief was that with such a magic garland under her head, the maiden would see her future husband in a dream.

NEW YORK (CFN) — Finland, which belongs to the Scandinavian group of countries, is known for its 60,000 sparkling lakes, medieval castles and modern cities. It is a beautiful, gay country and it has many enjoyable festivals, particularly during the pleasant summer months.

One of the most important festivals is the annual celebration of Midsummer on the Friday evening closest to June 24th. On that Friday afternoon the whole of Finland gets an atmosphere of carnival. It is Midsummer Eve and the entire nation turns out to celebrate the "longest day of the year." During Midsummer the sun does not set at all in the northernmost part of Finland and in the south of Finland there is dusk only for a couple of hours. At Midsummer every home, boat, train, bus and automobile is decorated with birch boughs. Countless bonfires, signifying the victory of the light over darkness, are lit all over the country along shores of the scenic lakes. Young and old take part in the gaiety of attending some of the many bonfires where plays, recitals, dancing and singing are part of the colorful program. It is a gay occasion and most of the young people add to the color by wearing their national costumes. Of the many customs observed in the past on Midsummer, only the birch bough and bonfires have survived to our own days. In the old days the Midsummer festival was connected with many beliefs and practices, most of which related to love. Thus, for instance, upon her return home from the merry-making around the bonfire, it was the custom for a maiden to pick nine different species of flowers, bind them together into a wreath and place it under her pillow. The belief was that with such a magic garland under her head, the maiden would see her future husband in a dream.

Bezners Together In San Antonio

It was a family reunion for the Jake Bezners during the weekend in San Antonio where they attended celebrations in connection with the centennial of the Sisters of Divine Providence at Our Lady of the Lake Convent.

Mr. and Mrs. Bezner joined their daughters, Sister Anna Rose, Sister Ramona and Sister Kathleen and Mr. Bezner's sister, Sister Alban in the festivities. Another daughter, Miss Viola Bezner of Memphis, Tenn., had a short vacation to visit her parents and joined them on the trip. Also with them were Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Bezner.

A highlight for the Bezners was seeing their daughter, Sister Kathleen, receive her masters degree at commencement exercises in the chapel auditorium at the college Friday afternoon.

They also attended the Friday night drama and pageant in Municipal Auditorium. The presentation told the 100-year history of the order and included nuns from the convent and professionals from San Antonio. Another inspiring event was an out-door Mass at 6 p.m. on the campus with over a thousand persons in attendance. A reception followed with punch and cookies served on the grounds.

On the return to Lindsay, Sister Ferdinand accompanied the Bezners. She is teaching the Head Start Class at Lindsay and also spent the weekend attending the festivities.

Lindsay Group at Centennial Rites In San Antonio

Lindsay was well represented at the centennial celebration at San Antonio during the weekend when the Sisters of Divine Providence observed their 100th anniversary.

Among those attending the festivities were Father John Walbe, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hermes accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Bohac of Fort Worth, Mrs. William Bezner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zimmerer and son Larry, Mrs. Bruno Zimmerer, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Zimmerer, Mrs. Joe Bengfort and daughter Dorothy and granddaughter Charlotte Stoffels, Clem Hermes Sr., Mrs. Ed Schad and daughter Joanie, Mrs. Gregory Hundt and daughter Nancy, Albert Kubis, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Zimmerer and daughter Barbara, Mrs. Herman Zimmerer, Miss Marie Zimmerer, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bezner accompanied by their daughter Miss Viola Bezner of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Bezner.

They were among the more than 3,000 that attended the historical drama and pageant, the outdoor Mass on the campus that was witnessed by more than a thousand, and the reception afterward with punch and cookies. All visited with their nun relatives and with former Lindsay teachers.

Some of them drove on to New Braunfels to take in part of the Catholic State League meeting.

Some were surprised to find that their earnings permitted them to receive some benefits this year, Jones said. Others, as they expected, are earning too much to receive any benefits this year. Even so, Jones added, they know how much their payments will be when they do retire. Now, all they need to do is notify the social security district office when they stop working to get their benefits started.

WILD WEST SHOW AND PORPOISE ACT NEWEST ATTRACTIONS AT SIX FLAGS

The Overland Stagecoach being attacked by Kiowa Indians is just one of the exciting features of Six Flags Over Texas' newest attraction, the Wild West Show. Visitors to the 2,500-seat, open-air arena see the turbulent days of early Texas re-created as part of the colorful pageant which is presented three times daily throughout the summer.

Arlington, Texas: The size and scope of Six Flags Over Texas continues to expand as the state's most popular single tourist attraction recently added a Wild West Show and a performing porpoise to its entertainment list.

The Wild West Show presented by Six Flags is a throwback to the traveling spectacles of yesteryear. An especially built 2,500-seat open-air arena located in the west corner of the Texas Section provides the setting for a recreation of the turbulent life of the early days of the Old West. Visitors see war-painted Kiowa Indians attacking the Overland Stagecoach, followed by mounted cavalry coming to the rescue. The action-packed show features trick riders, bull whip and rope artists and dance-hall girls among the cast of forty performers.

Produced for Six Flags by pioneer rodeo impresario Frank Rush of Lawton, Oklahoma, the performances are staged at 1:00, 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. seven days a week throughout the summer months. The Wild West Show here is not on the tomahawk and souvenir bead level, but rather places its emphasis on the excitement and historical pageantry of early Texas.

Over on Skull Island, in the Confederate Section of the 115-acre Park, a bottle-nose porpoise named Skipper II now ranks as the favorite of the young set. Put through his paces four times daily by his pretty blonde trainer, Diana Langer of Marathon, Florida, the talented and acrobatic 400-pound mammal frolics in his newly built 25,000-gallon water tank.

Both the Wild West Show and the Porpoise Act are free, as are all the rides, attractions and shows inside Six Flags being covered by the one all-inclusive ticket purchased at the main gate.

65? Don't Delay Application for Social Security

More and more persons in this area are applying for social security retirement benefits as soon as they reach 65, even though they still work regularly, Gus Jones, social security district manager in Sherman, reported today.

"We are pleased that so many are heeding our advice to apply at 65. Others who are eligible but have not applied, should take a close look at the experiences of these recent applicants," Jones continued.

Some were surprised to find that their earnings permitted them to receive some benefits this year, Jones said.

Others, as they expected, are earning too much to receive any benefits this year. Even so, Jones added, they know how much their payments will be when they do retire. Now, all they need to do is notify the social security district office when they stop working to get their benefits started.

Several applicants thought they might lose credit for future earnings if they applied before they quit work. They were assured there are no disadvantages in applying at 65. The benefit rate, established when the application is filled, will be refigured automatically after each year in which earnings are reported that would increase it.

"Any insured worker now 65 or over," Jones stated, "should apply without delay. Even if he gets no monthly payments at this time, he will insure he has the full protection available under the new Medicare, or health insurance program.

An eligible worker who applies will find that a single application will establish his eligibility for a monthly retirement benefit, hospital insurance and voluntary medical insurance, if he so decides to sign up.

Jerry Nelson, field representative from Sherman Social Security Office will be in Gainesville each Tuesday and Thursday, in Room 6-B of the Federal Building. Office hours from 9:30 A.M. until noon. Gainesville area residents may contact him for assistance with social security business.

1.3 Billion Tons of Oil Moved a Year

The amount of petroleum transported in the United States has more than tripled in the past quarter-century, Oil Facts reports.

More than 1.3 billion tons of crude oil and refined products are moved in this country in a year's time. Pipelines transport 44 per cent of the total, trucks 28 per cent, ships and barges 26 per cent, and railroads 2 per cent.

Oil Facts points out that competition among different forms of transportation helps keep petroleum prices reasonable.

One way to be popular is to listen carefully to a lot of things you already know.

Medders Entertain Subiaco Alumni at Poolside Buffet

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders were hosts Monday night for a patio party and poolside buffet at Colonial Manor where some 50 guests gathered for the annual observance of the Solemnity of St. Benedict, a special feast among Benedictines.

Benedictines of North Texas, officers and past officers of Subiaco Alumni Association and their wives and special friends were invited by Father Alcuin Kubis, local pastor, for the Benedictine Day event.

Among those present were the Rt. Rev. Michael Lensing, abbot of New Subiaco Abbey, Fathers Finten, Clement and Dennis of Subiaco, Fathers Damian, Maurus, Anselm and Daniel of Ft. Worth, Father John of Lindsay, Father Anthony Gajda of Valley View and Father Thomas Taaffe of Gainesville. Alumni members and wives attended from Muenster, Gainesville and Lindsay.

first, but it is absolutely vital, and possibly presents a challenge of equal size to the anti-pollution engineers.

As of now all of that program is still just a plan. Obviously the engineers who put it on paper think it will work and will meet the state's water needs for the next fifty years. Meanwhile they are hoping that the series of hearings in all vital areas will bring out problems that were overlooked and lead to necessary modifications for the plan's success.

As they look for final endorsements, we look upon the overall plan with pride. It's a Texas size idea, that's for sure. Possibly the biggest idea ever dreamed up by any of the states. Because of it the biggest state — next to Alaska — may some day have the biggest population.

"My, your folks are old-fashioned," the little girl exclaimed to the friend she was visiting. "I see you are still using hand-operated tooth brushes."
