AN UNJUST CUT

From the time the first newspaper was published, the state and national governments have been asking things "for free" from newspapers under the guise of "news" — and "patriotic duty."

Many years ago, most people stopped working for nothing because the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker had to be paid for the services which they rendered and a money income was therefore needed. At that time the daily newspapers established a pay-as-you-go policy and drew a definite line between news and propaganda. The mail was sorted carefully and the free advertising and propaganda mail were dropped into the wastebasket.

Weekly newspaper publishers were operating with a shortage of help and didn't have the time to smell of the various releases to determine if they carried news, free advertising or propaganda, with the result that much tripe found its way into print in the small-town newspapers.

Because free advertising and propaganda were getting into the small town papers, government and big business said to themselves — "Why pay the smalltown publishers for his wares when he will give it to us free?" Following that thought, public relations men were hired at big salaries to prepare news copy containing hidden advertising and propaganda until today every editor in the rural area gets three loads of junk mail (with a release date) each day.

Here at the Tomah Journal office we have to hire a boy to empty seven wastebaskets each evening.

The thing about the requests for "free" that gets me is that everyone connected with the publicity projects gets paid but the publisher. The man who writes the copy is not a poverty problem individual, the paper used it paid for at the regular prices, the stenographers who are connected with the project get the going wage, the machines that produce the copy are bought at standard prices — in fact, everyone but the publisher gets his just cut on the deal!

PRAYER FOR PEACE

THANKSGIVING 1966

In many homes across the nation today, there's a vacant seat at the dinner table. It seems like yesterday, when the high chair was put up in the attic, and he sat down at the table for the first time, propped up with a few pillows.

As he began to grow tall, he talked about many things. He would be one day a policeman or space scientist, professional ball player or a college professor. The world was his oyster.

His adolescent years passed quickly — high school days had come and gone — and suddenly overnight he became a man — for Uncle Sam beckoned and approved.

His turkey dinner with all the fixings will not be the same as ours. The Viet Cong may not wait. We'll miss his infectious grin — his kidding around with the rest of the family — no, he is on serious business now.

To those families with the empty chair — words are inadequate to express feelings of a family separated by war.

What all of us can do, when we sit down to that traditional Thanksgiving Day feast, is to pause — give thanks to the Supreme Being and pray that a safe return may be granted to those absent and that peace will come to the world.

And as George Washington proposed in his Thanksgiving Day proclamation in 1789 thanks for constitutional government, let us hope that the governments of the world may become servants and not masters of the people.

Thanksgiving Day

in our

"One Nation Under God"

Let us not forget that our nation is what it is for us today because of the courage and enterprise shown by the deeply religious people who preceded us—people with a strong sense of duty to church, country, and family. No day could be more symbolic of this early American credo than Thanksgiving Day!

when the half ended. Next half started fast. A pass made a first down and Dodd got away for a 69 yard romp to the goal. A pass added 2 more points and the score was 14-0 about two minutes into the second half.

Muenster came back with a pair of first downs and the next series was stopped by an interception. From there Alvord gained 30 to Muenster's 9 where Hornet defense got tough and held the next four plays to a gain of only 1 yard.

From there Muenster gained back to the 21 then a fumble gave Alvord another setup on the 17. Three plays went to the 5, then a holding penalty against Alvord helped the Hornets. Four tries reached the 2.

There is where Muenster finally got started on a sustained drive. Ken Stormer was the work horse on the ground plays and five completions to Stormer, Cason and Hellman accounted for 54 in the 98 yard push. Stormer made the last 2 yards and a run for bonus points failed.

Riding Club Has New Meeting Date

Members of Gainesville Riding Club at their Monday night meeting in the Gainesville auction barn voted to change their meeting night from the first to the third Monday of the month beginning with the third Monday in January.

Tom Binford, new captain, presided and plans were completed for the club's participation in the Muenster street parade. A trail ride was planned for Sunday, Nov. 20. Members will meet at Mt. Springs community center at 2 p.m. Those who plan to eat before starting are reminded to take sack lunches.

Before adjournment Capt. Binford read the by-laws. Next meeting will be held Dec. 5, 7:30 p.m. in the First State Bank Community Room.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Floodwater retarding structure number two in the Clear Creek Watershed was accepted as being complete by the board of supervisors of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District during a meeting Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The board also approved the annual essay writing contest, and full details of the event will be announced later. Fifteen new soil and water conservation plans were approved during the meeting.

Attending were Harold Skaggs of Sherman, Keith Kemplin of Valley View, J. H. Bayer of Muenster, W. H. Green of Bowie and Charles Howard of Nocona.

The conservation plan on the James Bayer farm near Spring Creek was revised and updated last week. Bayer has been on the farm about 10 years, and has sodded about 60 acres of Common Midland and Coastal Bermuda Grass, built two farm ponds and five miles of new terrace. He has plans for sodding another 30 acres to Coastal Bermuda for hay for his cattle and sheep.

James Geray's conservation plan was revised recently. Geray's land is located four miles southwest of Gainesville. He plans to sod about five acres of cropland to Midland Bermuda Grass next spring, and has about 15 acres of Clear Creek Common Bermuda Grass pasture which will be renovated and fertilized next spring.

The conservation plan on the Leo Prescher farm was updated and revised recently. This 78-acre farm is located two miles south of Valley View, and is being managed as the headquarters for a dairy. Several new terraces were built with farm equipment this summer, and Prescher plans to sod four acres of land to Coastal or Midland Bermuda Grass next spring. An old Bermuda Grass pasture will be renovated and fertilized next spring.

The Bureau of Land Management wants to abolish a herd of wild horses in Wyoming. Could it be because these horses cannot vote.

les put on law enforcement by the supreme court and to restore voluntary prayer in public schools.

In the civil rights movement the new congress can demand equal respect for the law by colored and white people, and punishment for violence regardless of color. And it may decide that transporting children to achieve racial balance in unjust to both races, that integration is not more important than educational opportunity.

One of the most gratifying developments of the civil rights movement is the election in Massachusetts of the colored Senator Brooke, a man with the right view in civil rights issues. He is proud to have been elected on merit and he makes no bones in urging others of his race to seek their gains on merit rather than on color. The country will have fewer race troubles if his idea is more generally accepted and rabble rousers are put in their places.

On Thanksgiving we can be grateful for better prospects that America will remain a great country.
