Official reaction to the kidnap and murder of our State Department representative, Dan Mitrione, by communist terrorists of Uruguay, leaves most of us Americans with a feeling of disappointment and frustration. A statement credited to the White House referred to the double crime as "a despicable act that will be condemned by men of decency and honor everywhere." It seems like a very feeble reaction to a crime which violated all standards of civilization and which, furthermore, showed such contempt to our nation.

The statement failed to tell the world what really needed to be said. That is, that Mitrione was an American martyr in communism's world wide assault on civilization. His death is a part of the red global conspiracy, and the persons really responsible for it are the red bosses of Russia, China and Cuba, who are sponsoring all the terrorism of the Western Hemisphere.

We should have pointed the finger, telling everybody that this is the kind of human scum which wants to rule the world. Reds are always eager to have a favorable image, and we seem always reluctant to tarnish that image even when our national honor is held in contempt by the most depraved criminals.

While public reaction is a mixture of anger and shame we are inclined to wonder whether the statement really expresses the government's attitude. There is, of course, a possibility that Uncle Sam would prefer not to alert the enemy by saying what is really on his mind. Assuming that authorities of Uruguay, with possible help from a few of our own lawmen, are out looking for the scoundrels, it might be better to let them feel cocky.

Common sense leads us to assume that this crime and the recent similar murder of a German diplomat are not being overlooked. We prefer to think that our two countries and any others who have diplomats in the Latin Americas are all working together to bring the communist criminals to justice. Likewise we hope that they are working on a method of dealing effectively with future incidents of the kind.

An old time slogan recommends fighting fire with fire. Why can't it be applied in our struggle with the communist global conspiracy? When reds announce that a person is held hostage for the release of a dozen terrorist prisoners, why can't they be told that the dozen will die unless the one hostage is freed?

Do-gooders and idealists have the answer to that. It does not fit in our standard of justice. We can't execute without conviction on a specific charge which carries the death penalty. We can't stoop to the barbaric practice of making hostages forfeit their lives for another person's crime. It's all very noble, but we should have learned long ago that it doesn't get results. It's not a fair fight if we abide by the rules while the reds do not.

If we'll think it over we can understand that a big reason for communist success so far is its policy of liquidating enemies. When reds take over they ruthlessly dispose of all who opposed them and might lead in later opposition. It was their way in every country that's been taken in Europe and Asia. But our side observes civilized standards, so most captured reds live to fight again. We are at a very definite disadvantage in our conflict with the communists.

While this isn't sufficient justification for us to adopt the same rules all the way, it does seem to suggest that we ought to get a lot tougher than we are. Surely we should have the right to hold the life of their criminals as cheap as they hold the life of our diplomats.

Likewise in our conflict with revolutionaries over here, we need to adopt the communist code of procedure at least to some extent — being aware of course, that the program of revolutionary violence, bombing, arson and murder is one of the stages of the over all communist conquest. We definitely need to be tougher.

Our officials know dozens of their leaders and could haul in most of them in a simultaneous nation wide raid, and then prosecute all of them to the full extent of our laws. The revolution would stall in

41 Local HS Graduates Will Continue Studies

Almost two thirds of this school's 1970 high school graduates will continue their studies in colleges and trade schools this year. There will be 41 of them from the classes of 43 at Muenster High, 17 at Sacred Heart High and 3 at Subiaco Academy. In addition, two have joined the Army.

Of the remaining 20 grads, sixteen are working, three are married or to be married soon and one is deceased.

Cooke County Junior College will have the largest representation of the community's college students.

There are thirteen, including John Dangelmayr, Jerry Fleitman, Frank Tuggle, Steve Walterscheid, Joan Wilde, Chris Yosten, Paul Bayer, Connie Endres, Melvin Schilling, Joan Pels, Barbara Knabe, Judy Klement, and Betty Stoffels.

Next in popularity with the Muenster students is Bell & Howell's DeVry Institute at Dallas. The eight attending there are Clifford Zimmerman, Carl Endres, Tom Henschel, Terry Miller, John Monday, Henry Sicking, Robert Sicking and Fred Lippe.

North Texas State University will have six students from here. They are Darlene Hess, Dianne Sicking, Elaine Otto, Karen Sicking, Sandra Sloan and Pam Stoffels.

Four are attending Texas A&M University. They are David Fette, John Felderhoff, Lynn Joe Klement and Glenn Rohmer.

Other students and the schools they will attend are Gretchen Koesler and Joyce Sicking to Grayson County Junior College; Sue Flusche to Garland Beauty School, Carol Grewing, Patti Sicking and Monica Yosten to beauty

Weather Is Still Hot and Dry but Water Use Drops

The water crisis appears to be ended here even though the weather can receive little credit for it. Consumption has dropped sharply in spite of continued dry and hot weather.

Water Superintendent Joe Moster thinks that prospects for rain late last week may have induced people to do less watering, and disappointment when the prospect fizzled may have induced them to give up hopes for a lawn. Whatever the reason, average daily use dropped to 370,000 gallons a day from the previous 450,000 gallons.

Highest readings for the week were 464,000 last Wednesday and 405,000 Monday. All others were below 400,000 which is comfortably under the city's production capacity of about 475,000.

To date nothing has been done, however, to end the recently adopted schedule of watering on alternate days. Odd numbered houses are expected to water on the odd dates, even numbered houses on the even dates.

Rain, which seemed like a cinch last week, turned out to be a disappointment. The total here was only 13 inch while areas around Muenster got fine soakers up to two inches. That was the first for August following 2.18 for June and July. The year's measure is 17.95.

Meeting Booked September 3 on Catfish Farming

A meeting on catfish farming sponsored by County Agent Neil Tibbets will be held Thursday night of next week, September 3, in the Texas Power and Light Co. meeting room at Gainesville.

Headliner on the program is Dr. Homer R. Schmitt, fisheries specialist of the Texas A&M extension service.

Everyone interested in catfish farming is invited to attend.

Stout Dragons to Test Hornets in Practice Tussle

The Muenster High Hornets will get a fairly good sample of what the '70 grid season has to offer when they take on the Chico Dragons in a scrimmage on the local field Friday night. Starting time is 7:30 o'clock.

Advance report on the visitors, as heard by Coach Glenn Richardson, is that they are favorites to take their conference title this year. Which means that they are stout for Class B and capable of giving the Hornets a good tussle, though somewhat less than the Hornets can expect later. Considering the two classifications, MHS will have to come out ahead to maintain any hope of getting along in its Class A schedule.

12-A teams this year are Nocona, Pilot Point, Muenster, Frisco, Sanger and Lake Dallas — picked in that order by sportswriters attending the coaching school. In another kind of classification Muenster can be identified as the smallest — barely over Class B, whereas some of the others are barely under Class AA.

Starters were not definitely known early in the week, however Richardson said that they would be picked from the following list. Backs: Jim Endres, Tim Hennigan, Earl Koelzer, Henry Knabe and Hank Trachta. Linemen: John Schneider, Gerry Cash, Leon Klement, Allen Fleitman, Tim Hartman, Jerry Eckart, Claude Klement, Danny Fette and Mike Jaska.

SH Seniors Have Class Ring Rites

Nineteen Sacred Heart seniors proudly received their class rings Tuesday, August 25, following a guitar Mass in Sacred Heart Church. Father Leonard presided over the rites while various senior individuals and the musical group planned petitions, songs, and other things which added to make the ceremony a success.

Father Placidus, pastor, bestowed his blessings upon the rings and then presented them. He also told the meaning and responsibility of the senior and his ring.

Reception of Communion under both species was a special privilege.

Purcell to Mingle At Town Meeting

Congressman Graham Purcell will be in Gainesville for a unique appearance Monday evening, August 31, 1970, at 7:30 p.m. at the Hesperian Building.

Mayor Pro-Tem Joe B. Walter, in making the announcement, stated that "This is an opportunity for all of our people, young and old, to not only see and meet our Congressman but to exchange ideas."

Purcell's Gainesville appearance is one of several kicking off an unusual program by the Congressman of "bringing Washington to Texas without the red tape." People in several communities within the 13th Congressional District have been anxious for Purcell to appear. Although he has spoken formally before many groups, these new visits will take on the atmosphere of a "town hall" meeting where he will offer some brief opening comments and then the floor will be opened to questions from anyone in attendance.

In addition, Purcell will bring several aides with him so that those persons having individual matters to discuss may get special attention. Personal conferences will be available starting at 6:30 p.m.

Mayor Pro-Tem Walter states that the meeting will be informal, open to everyone and will last as long as necessary. In extending the opportunity to the Congressman, Gainesville has joined several other cities in the 13th Congressional District in similar programs.

It was pointed out by Mr. Walter that, to his knowledge, this is one of the few times any U. S. representative has undertaken this format in order to bring all the vital information within the Federal Government on a direct personal basis to his constituents.

"The Congressman realizes that very few people can afford a trip to Washington to see their Representative," Mr. Walter emphasized. "Many others are not able to take off from work when he is down here or they are located quite a distance from Congressman Purcell's District Offices. These non-partisan, working sessions will enable all of us to not only gain invaluable knowledge but present our views in person to our Representative in Congress."

Building Notes

Newest in the area's building program is a home for Dr. Marvin Knight, team doctor for the Dallas Cowboys, on his farm on the Era-Rosston Road. The job has a special significance to people hereabouts because Dr. Knight has indicated he will join the Muenster Hospital staff when he moves in. Features of his house are 3500 square feet of living area, fireplace, central heating and cooling, brick veneered, double garage.

The Henry Pattersons, who moved here recently from California, have reached the finishing stage on their new house on North Maple Street. They will have three bedrooms, brick veneer, central heat and air conditioning, attached garage.

Another nearing completion is Fred Knabe's on North Cedar Street. It will have three bedrooms and two baths, brick veneer, attached garage, central heating and air conditioning.

Still another that is well advanced is Joe Russell's house at Marysville. Principal features there will be two bedrooms and two baths, brick veneered, central air conditioning and heating and carport.

The Walter Lutkenhaus are building in Lindsay, west of the parish property. They will have three bedrooms and two baths, central heat, masonite siding, attached garage.

Remodeling for Mrs. Veda Magee of Rosston includes addition of a bedroom and bath, new siding and interior improvements for the old part of the house.

The Gene Schmitz home gained in looks and comfort from installation of insulated siding over the old wood sides, and new panel board inside.

The Cecil Sawyers have new paneling and ceiling tile in three of their rooms.

Al Hesse is getting an inside paint job in the former J. B. Klement home on North Main.

The two story addition which will almost double the floor space at Muenster State Bank is almost finished. However work has not started on the drive-in window at the south side, which is also a part of the project. The addition includes conference room, lounge, storage and snack bar. Records and machines now in the front room are to be moved back for expansion of the lobby and teller area.

Muenster Butane has finished walls and roof and is working inside on the 1400 square foot addition to its building front. After re-arranging it will have more space for display, storage, service and bookkeeping.

Mrs. Andy Hofbauer is nearing the end of construction on her new house at Fourth and Walnut. It has three bedrooms, two baths central heat and cooling, attached garage.

Miss Christine Fleitman underwent surgery Tuesday on her right arm at Flow Hospital in Denton and expects to be back home by Friday. It was the third operation on the arm. Her mother Mrs. Ben Fleitman and daughter Betty, joined by another daughter Mrs. Lloyd Prescher and two sons of Gainesville were in Denton with her until after the surgery.

Clive Gobble was admitted to Muenster Hospital last Wednesday for treatment of his hands which were injured from poison spraying solution.

Herbert Fette was dismissed from Muenster Hospital Monday afternoon but will be off duty at The Enterprise, where he is linotype operator, for another week. He had a mild heart attack Aug. 15.

Miss Jan Wilde is getting back into circulation after undergoing an appendicitis operation at Muenster Hospital. She will return to Grayson County Junior College when the fall term opens.

Ernest Jaska expects to transfer this weekend to Muenster Hospital from a Wichita Falls hospital where he underwent surgery last Friday for multiple fractures of his right knee. He received his injury last Thursday when his car crashed into the back of J. W. Fleitman's pickup on Highway 82 west of Gainesville. Both were brought to the Muenster hospital for treatment. Jaska was taken to Wichita Falls later in the day. Fleitman went home Friday.

Ray Hess has returned to Baylor Hospital in Dallas, making the trip last Thursday, and will be there indefinitely for therapy treatments. He's out of bed now and in a wheelchair for short periods for the first time in 11 weeks following injuries received in a tractor accident. When he is able to get in and out of a car he'll be released but will go back three times a week for therapy. Meanwhile he's in Room 6101 and Mrs. Hess is back and forth visiting him. Address for Baylor Hospital is 3500 Gaston, zip 75246.

Joe Tru-nbach has been dismissed from Muenster Hospital and is continuing to recuperate at home after being a hospital patient 18 days for surgery and medical care.

Supply of Electric Power in Texas Is 15 per cent Higher than Demand

Texas Power & Light Company and other Texas electric companies have ample electric power to meet current and future needs, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas stated.

In the August, 1970 "Business Review," published by the Dallas bank, it is stated that "growth in generating capacity in Texas has more than kept pace with the increase in peakload demand.

"In contrast to the shortages threatening some parts of the country, estimated generating capacity in Texas is about 15 per cent higher than the peak load Texas utilities are likely to face during the summer months," the report said.

The report explained that installed electric capacity has more than doubled in Texas over the past decade, expanding from 10,054 megawatts in 1960 to about 23,700 megawatts in 1969.

"To meet the demand for electricity forecast for the 1970's, utility companies in Texas are expected to continue their rapid plant expansion at a rate that will double installed capacity by 1978," the report said.

This electric utility growth requires money — money to operate and money to build. For example, fuel accounts for more than 40 per cent of the operating and maintenance costs, not including taxes, of electric companies in Texas. Almost all this fuel is natural gas.

The demand for gas is increasing, and, consequently, so is the price. The Bank's article says that the nation's natural gas supply should last until just beyond 1983.

As a result, some electric companies are considering the possibility of using fuel oil instead of natural gas. But this energy source is more expensive and requires storage facilities and possibly a pipeline.

Other electric companies are looking toward using lignite, a form of coal, which can be mined in various locations in Texas.

The Aluminum Company of America uses a lignite-fired generating plant at Rockdale.

Swirczynskis Observe 64th Wedding Anniversary With Family Reunion

Sacred Heart Church was the scene Saturday morning, August 22, of a Eucharistic celebration honoring Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swirczynski on their 64th wedding anniversary.

Father Placidus Eckart, pastor, was celebrant of the Latin Mass at 8 o'clock and witnessed the renewal of marriage vows. The men's choir under direction of Leo Henschel, organist, provided the nuptial music.

Jeanne, Shirley and Joey Swirczynski, grandchildren of the honorees presented the sacred vessels at the offertory. Another grandson, Dale Swirczynski, carried a live green plant with the name of each child of the couple printed on small scrolls and attached to the plant with multi-colored ribbons. This was placed on the altar while the choir sang "Ave Verum."

Attending Mass with their happy parents were 12 of their 13 living children: Al of Mesquite, Herman, Bob, Ray, Richard, Bernard and Sister Mary Helen OSB, all of Muenster, Mrs. Alex Knauft and Mrs. Clarence Erpelnd of Colorado Springs, Colo., Ed of Fort Worth, George of Winter Haven, Florida, and Mrs. Townsend Miller of Austin. Arnold of San Angelo was unable to attend because of illness.

After Mass Mr. and Mrs. Ray Swirczynski entertained his parents, brothers and sisters with breakfast at their home. Father Placidus and Father Bede were special guests. The table centerpiece was a tiered anniversary cake baked by a granddaughter Mrs. Charles Bayer.

In the afternoon an open house was held at the honor couple's home. Many relatives and friends called to extend congratulations and best wishes.

Miss Maggie Yosten became the bride of Joe Swirczynski on August 21, 1906. The couple recalled that it rained all day and they had trouble getting to church by horse and buggy.

Both are natives of Nebraska but didn't know each other until they moved to Muenster. He was eight years old and she was 12 when their parents settled here in 1899 and 1900, respectively.

He observed his 89th birthday on Jan. 3 and she was 82 on June 9. They still live alone and do their household chores with occasional assists from their children. He is a retired farmer.

They have 59 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

Pigs Are Beautiful

Not since Walt Disney's cartoon feature "The Three Little Pigs" came out in the early 1930s has lowly Suidae domestica looked so good.

Police in Long Beach, Calif., are said to be proudly wearing gold tie pins in the shape of pigs. Off duty, many of them are wearing T-shirts and sweaters emblazoned with a porcine portrait and the declaration that "Pigs Are Beautiful." Police in other parts of the country are beginning to order the pins.

It is, of course, a reaction to the hard time college students have been giving law enforcement officers around the country. College students are the highly educated beneficiaries of 6,000 years of recorded human culture who believe that names make the man and that you can throw filth without getting your hands dirty.

(Interestingly enough, the old Second Edition of the Merriam - Webster International dictionary lists "pig" as an obsolete slang term for policeman. The third edition, copyrighted in 1966, dropped the definition. It is to be hoped that the term is once again obsolete by the time the Fourth Edition comes out in another generation.)

Without question, the hapless pig has been given a bad press over the ages. His name is synonymous with everything brutal and slovenly. Millions of people consider his flesh unclean and taboo. In "Animal Farm," George Orwell delivered the unkindest cut of all by casting pigs as dictators over the other animals.

All of this is entirely unwarranted. Pigs have never made war on anybody, have never put anybody in concentration camps, have never called anybody names. As for their being dirty, how would humans look is they were forced to live in pigsties?

Raising Grief

Begin from infancy to give the child everything he wants. This way he will grow up to believe that the world owes him a living.

When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. It will encourage him to pick up "cuter" phrases that will blow the top off your head later.

Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21 and then let him decide for himself.

Avoid the use of the word "wrong." It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later when he is arrested for stealing a car that society is against him and he is being persecuted.

Pick up anything he leaves lying around — books, shoes, clothing. Do everything for him so he will be experienced in throwing the responsibility onto others.

Let him read any printed matter he can get his hands on. Be careful the silverware and the drinking glasses are sterilized, but let his mind feed on garbage.

Quarrel frequently in the presence of the children. Then they won't be too shocked when the home is broken up.

Give the child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

Satisfy his every craving for food, drink, and comfort. See that every desire is gratified. Denial may lead to harmful frustrations.

Take his part against the neighbors, teachers and policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.

When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying: "I never could do anything with him."

Prepare for a life of grief—you will have it.

"Talent in itself is not enough. Talent in the service of truth or beauty or justice is one thing; talent in the service of greed or tyranny is quite another. In other words, neither intellect nor talent alone can be the key to a position of leadership in our society. The additional requirement is a commitment to the highest values of the society."

Who's Doing the Book Burning?

Folks looking for clues as to why some of the youth of today are "copping out" might be interested in a news item we found, while rummaging around, in some old files dated 1962. Now, that's eight years ago, which means that kids starting High School then would just about be coming out of college this year.

The clipping told of a survey that had been made whereby 14 "old" public school books had been compared with 45 "new" ones.

It turned out that Nathan Hale's famous speech from the gallows, "I have but one life to lose for my country," as in 12 of the 14 earlier books. But it had been censored from all but one of the 45 newer texts.

Then the surveyors looked for Patrick Henry's "Give me liberty or give me death." While it was in 12 of the earlier school history books, it showed up in only one of the newer ones.

And John Paul Jones' most famous words, "I have not yet begun to fight." This altogether shocking declaration by war-monger Jones was in nine of the 14 older books. But in the 45 newer texts? Not a single word was to be found; it had been banished completely from history.

This year, the extremely powerful education lobby all but broke down the doors of our representatives in Washington with their demands for Federal money... —millions of dollars. This allocation was included in the HEW funds voted by Congress. And that goes on top of billions of taxpayer dollars turned over to "education" over the past few years.

Noting the results, we're beginning to wonder if the Federal Government hadn't better get out of the education business altogether, and just leave the money in the local communities to be handled by the citizenry. Frankly, we have a lot more confidence in our own school board, school officials and PTA folks than we have in the nameless, faceless "experts" who have apparently been chopping American heroes out of our history text books.

Degenerate Ignorance

At the University of Oregon, a disreputable looking band of students, chanting "Build for people, not for profits", hounded personnel recruiters from a major timber company off the campus. The publication "Oregon Voter" points out that, "For degenerate ignorance this performance wins first prize." The company does little else but "build for people", and like any other enterprise, large or small that produces goods or service for sale, all of its products are used to improve human living conditions. As for profits, the Voter observes, "... only deluded Marxists won't see that profits are an indispensable ingredient of successful economic life. . . . Without profits there would be no jobs, and no colleges either since profits are the main support of the whole college system."

It is indeed fortunate that the vast majority of young people are far more knowledgeable about the world around them than the disruptive but vocal few. One of the first actions to which the idealism and energy of youth might profitably be directed would be to control and channel to constructive purposes the political and social concern of their own generation.

— Industrial News Review

Reported in the St. Louis, Missouri, County Medical Society Bulletin, as it appeared in an ad by Warner and Swasey: "Boys will be boys" is, perhaps, enough excuse for a harmless Halloween prank, but emphatically no excuse for burning buildings, disrupting a big city's traffic, interfering with the majority of students who want an education, nor supporting our country's vicious enemies. It may well be, as some say, that these people are hardened thugs in the pay of foreign revolutionary groups who want to weaken and destroy America, but whether this is true or not, we think the working, taxpaying, respectable Americans who are the ones whose opinions are worth considering, are sick and tired of the trouble makers and don't intend to have much more of it. And the great majority of the young people agree."

Nobody Wins

History will undoubtedly record that the greatest social injustice of all times occurred in the forced integration of the school systems of this nation. Liberal left-wing sociologists have literally played hell with high schools and grammar schools across the land. They are trying to amalgamate the black and white races and in so doing will destroy both.

It is inconceivable the extent to which this movement has created hate in so many places over the country, and where both races had been living in peace and goodwill respecting the racial ambitions of each, discord, discontent, suspicion have found fertile ground in which to grow.

In reality, only a handful of white and black liberals in responsible positions have created this situation. The mass of whites and blacks have been too hard at work trying to make an honest living to protest such ill-advised leadership.

Some of the black leaders, such as Benjamin F. Holman, who is director of the Justice Department's Community Relations Service, are beginning to become aware of the devastating effects of school integration. Holman now suggests that the nation "must develop quality, all-black schools with black people controlling their own communities and their schools." He also takes a dim view of integrated housing, although he does seek better housing.

And he is right. Many of the former totally all-black schools are asking that they be returned to their original status, with Negro principals and teachers, and be permitted to use their school systems as community centers. For when schools are integrated, black socials, community activities and cultural studies disappear.

There has been too little said for the many excellent schools composed of Negro principals, teachers and students. HEW destroys black school systems with the same disdain as the white — Nobody wins, much less the children.

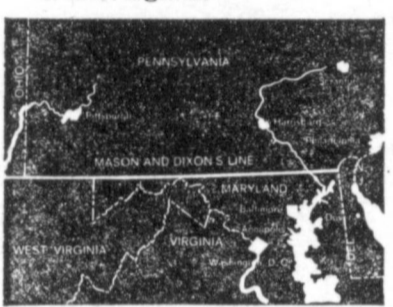

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor The New Book of Knowledge

What do you know about the Mason and Dixon's Line?

Where was slavery abolished first?

Mason and Dixon's Line is considered a boundary separating the northern states from the southern states. It separates Pennsylvania from Maryland and a section of West Virginia.

It originated in 1763, when two English astronomers, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, were hired to survey the property belonging to the Penns, proprietors of Pennsylvania, and the Calverts, proprietors of Maryland. They decided that the boundary fell at 39° 43' 26.3" north latitude. Though the land was re-surveyed at least twice, the Mason and Dixon's line remains as it was when first surveyed.

Slavery in all lands under the French flag was abolished in 1794 by the revolutionary government of France. It was re-established in the French colonies by Napoleon in 1802 but finally abolished in 1848. In 1804 Haiti became the first country in the Western Hemisphere to do away with slavery. Its example was followed by most of Spain's colonies in the New World as a result of their wars for independence between 1810 and 1825. Great Britain's famous Act of 1833 ended slavery in British overseas possessions by setting up an apprentice system. By 1838 this system had disappeared in most British colonies in the New World.

Do you know why spiders don't get caught in their own webs?

A spider doesn't get caught in its own web for two reasons. The chief one is that a spider runs along its web on the dry silk threads. It avoids the sticky, insect-catching ones. Also, a spider's body is oily, and the oil helps to keep the spider from sticking.

Health Hints

Tuberculosis

About 100,000 Americans are walking the streets today with active infectious tuberculosis—and they don't know it. By the time the symptoms, such as fever, weight loss, and coughing appear, the disease has reached a point where control is difficult. Because tuberculosis is so highly communicable, be sure you have an annual skin test and chest X-ray.

CHEST X-RAY

Eyesight

Poor eyesight affects one out of every five children in our country. There are many clues that suggest defective vision. An eye examination and vision test is in order if your child blinks frequently, rubs his eyes, or squints. These examinations will determine if the child needs corrective lenses or some other type of treatment.

Charley Horse

Ever wake up in the middle of the night with a charley horse or cramp in your leg? The best way to relieve such a painful cramp is to jump out of bed and stand on the cramped leg. Put your full weight on it and then vigorously rub the affected area. You'll feel the pain subside within moments.

Munich Artist To Talk at CCJC on Art Appreciation

Jergen Strunck, an artist from Munich, West Germany, will appear at Cooke County Junior College at 6:30 p.m., September 8th in Room 412. Mr. Strunck will be second in a series of sixteen lectures given by outstanding professional artists as part of the new course in Art Appreciation.

Mr. Strunck, a visiting professor at the University of Dallas, is mainly noted as a printmaker. His prints were recently accepted for a showing at the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York City.

The artist, in his late twenties, is represented by galleries in London, Paris, Munich, New York, Washington and in several other American cities. In Dallas his work is handled by the One Place Gallery.

Mr. Strunck has many talents. For several years he performed with the famous Munich Puppet Theater working both as artist and puppeteer.

When asked about East Germany, young Strunck quickly stated that he had little interest in what was happening behind the Iron Curtain. "Our life is very different. We have no contact with East Germans."

Strunck will explain various techniques of etchings, woodcuts, lithography and other print media. He also will cover the work of the famous artist Kandinsky whose work went from realistic illustration to abstract expressionism.

MRS. JOSEPH F. NEU, 99, celebrated her birthday August 21 at an open house in the home of her daughter Mrs. John Kupper at Valley View where relatives and friends called during the afternoon and evening to extend congratulations and present gifts. A granddaughter Mrs. Jerry Walterscheid of Muenster baked the anniversary cake and it was served with punch. Pictures were made. The honoree also was elated over the large number of cards that came in the mail. She is now at the home of her daughter Mrs. Joe Hermes at Lindsay. Mrs. Neu divides time with her children since her husband's death in 1937. She enjoys good health and is in good spirits as evidenced by the picture taken for her birthday. a hurry if terrorists were dealt with as our law provides — instead of pampered according to our modern anemic standard of justice. We'd get somewhere if we'd crack down on our enemies as hard as reds crack down on theirs. We don't even need to use their savage rules. Ours are tough enough to be effective, but we're goofing when we fail to use them.
