VOLUME XXXIV

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 APRIL 3, 1970

NUMBER 19

The epidemic of bank robberies in North Texas in recent weeks helps us recall a sign once prominently displayed in many Texas banks: $5,000 Reward for the capture of a bank robber, dead or alive."

The warnings were taken down so long ago that this column does not remember when or why, but recent frequency of the crime makes one wonder whether it was not a mistake. Maybe the law ought to be put back on the books.

Doubtless the law had its bad points or it would not have been repealed. About the most objectionable we can imagine is reviving the old bounty hunter urge to gun down a human being for the reward or encouraging untrained and trigger happy individuals to rush into a situation that experienced lawmen should handle. To that extent the law was hardly in keeping with modern standards.

Perhaps soft heartedness also had a bearing on the repeal. It might be reasoned that possible consequence was out of proportion to the offense, that killing a bandit was not justified when his crime was no more than robbery.

Nevertheless the law had a definite merit. Its purpose was to discourage bank robbery more than to kill robbers. And it was effective. Would be robbers were less inclined to commit the crime when their risk was greater. From that standpoint the law is worthy of re-consideration. Bandits who prey on innocent people should be made to realize that the crime could be fatal to them.

Admitting that the law is not likely to be restored, we feel a need for one to put as much fear in robbers. It should require mandatory severe punishment of any bandit convicted of robbing a bank, a store, a home or anything else. Along with that there should be an attitude of greater sympathy for the criminal's victims than for him.

Of course this would not appeal to the bleeding hearts people who go overboard in their solicitude for criminals. They are always concerned about penalties too harsh for the crime. They are always eager to respect the rights of criminals but seem to forget the rights of victims.

Well, it's about time to revise some thinking on that subject. The purpose of punishment under the law is not to demand an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, with special care that the punishment will be no more severe than the crime. Rather the purpose is to prevent crime, which can be accomplished best by convincing people that crime does not pay. The would-be criminal should know in advance that he risks severe punishment when he commits a crime. Our crime rate would be much lower if lawmakers and courts would put more emphasis on that idea.

President Nixon is entitled to praise for his recommendation a few days ago of tougher penalties for bombings and arson. His purpose admittedly is fix mandatory punishment which is severe enough to prevent the crimes. It can be assumed that criminals will be less active when they know that the FBI will be after them and courts will lower the boom on them.

As far as this column is concerned, the tougher the penalties the better. We should not give a thought to whether a punishment is too severe for a specified crime. The idea to get across is that the consequence applies only to those who defy the law and violate other people's rights. No one needs to suffer from it. All can avoid it simply by avoiding crime.

This is the same principle which we all accept and live with daily in regard to misdemeanors. The specified fines seem out of line for various offenses, such as throwing litter out of cars, or speeding, or disturbing the peace. None of those acts as such seems very serious, but each violates a regulation which is needed to keep an orderly society. For that reason they need to be prevented. Well, it's obvious that the penalty for violation must be more than a mere trifle. It has to hurt to

Heritage Society Visits Muenster

Members of Cooke County Heritage Society of Gainesville traveled to Muenster for the regular monthly meeting for which J. M. Weinzapfel was speaker.

On arrival here the group went to the Bavarian Wood Carving Studio where Ludwig Kieninger showed some of his work and explained an original design in detail.

Members then went to the TP&L building for the second part of the meeting and heard Mr. Weinzapfel talk on the history of Muenster.

One of his sources of information included the first Justice of Peace docket, dating from 1885, which he had found in the vault at the Muenster bank. He described the coming of the first German settlers and what they saw on their arrival. At that time there was a wide expanse of prairie covered with tall sage grass, and a pasteboard sign on a pole reading "Muenster". They had been induced to immigrate to Cooke County by the Flusche brothers, who also settled Lindsay, Windthorst and Electra. Weinzapfel traced the development of Muenster and mentioned many outstanding events of its colorful history.

He then displayed his collection of silver medallions celebrating each of the 50 states and several historic events. Refreshments of crackers, Muenster cheese, smoked summer sausage and cold drinks were served to approximately 35 members and guests.

VFW AUXILIARY MEETS
Regular monthly meeting of Muenster VFW Auxiliary will be held Monday, April 6, in the VFW Hall beginning at 8 p.m.

Adults Invited to Student Program On Drug Abuse

A misunderstanding cancels one of the talks on drug abuse which was scheduled for next Tuesday by the Jaycees. Charles Bayer, program chairman, said this week that the speaker was asked to make two appearances but because of another scheduled appearance he can talk here only once.

However, the invitation to come and listen remains open to every interested person. Bayer said that adults are invited to come to the program in MHS auditorium for the joint assembly of the two schools. This does not offer the convenience of a choice of time, but it is an opportunity nevertheless and any adults will be welcome.

The program will be a report on the evils of drug abuse by a man who speaks from experience. Richard Perigo is an exconvict and a former drug addict. He knows the curse of narcotics as they affected both him and his associates. He is now associated with HIP (Help If Possible), which is dedicated to helping fight the drug evil.

Adults who want to attend are reminded: Tuesday, April 7, 1:30 p.m. in MHS auditorium.

$7680 Received For Fourth Quarter Of City Sales Tax

The city of Muenster has received $7680.22 from the State Treasurer, the amount realized in its one per cent sales tax for the last quarter of 1969.

The check is the biggest since the city adopted the sales tax, the additional revenue being accounted for partly by plus business during the Christmas season and partly by the tax on alcoholic drinks, which became effective last October 1.

Mrs. Glenn Richardson, city secretary, said that the accompanying statement indicated gross collections of $7,947.98 for the period. The state deducted $158.96 as its 2 per cent service fee and added $275.05, the credit which was carried over from the previous quarter. That amounted to $8,064.07 from which the state held back its customary 4.76 per cent to cover possible discrepancies. That figure was $383.85, leaving $7,680.22 as the amount to be submitted.

'70 Census Count Started April 1

Householders will not have any difficulty identifying enumerators for the 1970 Census of Population and Housing, District Manager Richard R. Newton pointed out today. Enumerators, or census takers (most of whom are women), started making their rounds in the area on April 1 and are expected to complete their work in three to five weeks.

Each census taker will wear a red, white, and blue identification card. This card bears the seal of the Department of Commerce, and the words "Census Enumerator, Official Credential" are printed across its face. It bears the census taker's signature and certifies that she is authorized to perform the duties of a census enumerator and has sworn to keep confidential all census information you provide.

Census takers will be further identified by the portfolio containing their supplies. The portfolio is blue and bears the legend, "1970 Census." In the portfolio, the census taker carries her supplies of report forms, maps, pencils, and other tools necessary for her work.

Jerry Hoening heads a group of fourteen workers taking the census in the west half of the county. Nine are assigned to Gainesville, the other five to the towns and rural area west of Gainesville. The five are Mmes. Henry Huchton, Albert Zimmerman, Tony Hess, Herbert Schmidtkofer and Della Maberry.

Steve Kralicke, University of Houston student, spent the Easter holidays with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Kralicke and family. The couple's daughter Miss Margaret Kralicke, a student at Clarke College, Des Moines, Iowa, flew to Lantana, Florida, where she spent the holidays with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gravelle.

It may be taken for granted that a man is as old as he feels until he tries to prove it.

The city and hospital district elections are on separate ballots with all candidates being uncontested. The three school elections are com-

Trial on Robbery Of Muenster Bank Set for April 6

The trial of Jimmy Lee Belcher, 18, of Sanger on a charge of robbing the Muenster State Bank has been ordered for next Monday, April 6, in the 16th District Court at Gainesville.

The date was set in a pre-trial hearing last Friday before Judge W. C. Boyd who denied defense attorneys' motion for a 60-day continuance of the case.

Attorneys Jim Hatcher and L. V. Henry representing the accused youth, said that their client could not get a fair trial due to publicity on the robbery and other recent bank robberies.

County Attorney Bill Sullivan, prosecutor in the case, opposed the continuance. He said that postponement of the case had been granted in January and further delay is not warranted.

Electric Co-op Members Receive $75,442 in Checks

Checks totaling $75,442.21 were mailed today to consumer-owners of Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association, announced Michael E. Sloan, the Cooperative's Manager. These checks represent Capital Credit payments to the consumers of the Cooperative, and bring the total of such payments to $347,422.16 over the last four years.

Since Cooke County Electric is a consumer-owned electric utility, added Sloan, this method is used to distribute the profit margins of the company to its member-owners. Manager Sloan further pointed out that not only does this represent a savings to the consumer, but that in many cases the original rates charged were lower than those charged by other area electric utilities. Steady growth, economy of operation, increased KWH consumption per consumer, and good load factors were cited as reasons for the continued saving to the Cooperative's member-owners.

Cooke County Electric serves the electric energy needs of consumers in Cooke, Montague, Denton, Wise and Grayson Counties.

Soil Conservation Awards Banquet Scheduled May 14 in Gainesville

Gainesville has been selected as the host city for the 21st annual awards banquet of the Upper Elm Red Soil and Water Conservation District, and May 14 was chosen as the date. It will be in the gymnasium of Cooke County Junior College beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Those details and most of the others concerning the event were decided last Tuesday afternoon at a planning meeting of the sponsors at the First State Bank of Gainesville. About 35 persons were there representing banks, newspapers, radio stations and TV stations located within the Elm-Red District. William Claunch, cashier of First State Bank and chairman of the awards committee presided at the meeting.

The group selected Phil Keener, manager of Station KGAF as master of ceremonies and Gene Foster, director of the evening division of Grayson County Junior College, as narrator for slides on the conservation achievements of last year's champion farmers. Gene Davenport, manager of the Gainesville Cramer of Commerce will be the opening chairman.

New and special on the program this year is a Claude Jones award, the first of ten annual awards to be given under provisions of a will left by the late Mr. Jones. The award will be $200 for outstanding soil and water conservation to a resident of Cooke County.

The rest of the program will be very similar to those of recent years. Conservation champions of the year will be named in each of the five zones of the district, also the outstanding comeback farmer, town and country farmer, and landlord-tenant team. The conservation story of each, accompanied by colored slides, will be told by the narrator after which the award will be presented by a member of the sponsoring organization.

Last Thursday's meeting of the sponsors was held in two sessions, as in many past years. Following the business meeting the group was hosted by First State Bank at a charcoal steak supper at Mo-Jo lodge on Leeper Lake.

Mark Clark On Vietnam

Gen. Mark Clark (U.S.A.-Ret.), the former commander of the United Nations forces in Korea, issued his prescription for ending the war in Vietnam recently—and, ironically enough, Clark's headline message appeared in a signed column in the New York Times, one of the country's leading dovish newspapers.

Clark began his article by noting he had signed the Armistice in Korea on July 27, 1953. Stressing that he was "thankful the armistice had ended the killing," Clark also maintained that he knew even then that the struggle was not over with the Communists. We had gained something when the armistice went into effect, he said, because for the first time communism "failed in direct armed aggression." But Clark pointed out that we had "lost in the sense that the enemy remained undefeated and even more powerful and threatening than before. I was convinced, as was my predecessor, Gen. MacArthur, that in our first test of arms with the Communists, we should have defeated them. Had we done so, we would not have become involved in Vietnam."

Good Citizenship

CITIZENSHIP, ACCORDING TO THE DICTIONARY, means the "duties, rights and privileges of being a citizen." I think it is significant to note that in the definition duties come first. Unfortunately, in practice many of our citizens not only place duties last but some ignore them altogether.

Theodore Roosevelt once stated, "The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his weight." A noted author once wrote, "Neither democracy nor effective representation is possible until each participant in the group—and this is true equally of a household or a nation—devotes a measurable part of his life to furthering its existence."

Much of the crime and violence in our society today occurs, I am sure, because not enough Americans pull their weight and not enough Americans devote measurable parts of their lives to further the existence of their homes and their nation. They need to break away from "what's in it for me" syndrome and help protect and preserve the freedoms which they take for granted. The full duty of a man as a free citizen extends beyond his own self-interests. Where selfishness prevails, benevolence and good will die.

Good citizenship is much more than a classroom subject; it is a vital, daily chore for all free people if they hope to remain free. It is a debt to the past and an obligation to the future. Good citizenship, like other worthy goals, is the fruit of personal commitment and involvement. It is a solemn contract between the individual and his government.

In the United States, a citizen is a part of his government, a system founded on the rule of law, not men. Its powers are derived from the consent of the governed. It is established on the principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity. These represent the rights and privileges of citizenship. But rights and privileges are inseparable from duties. Some basic duties of a citizen are to love his country, respect and obey its laws, participate in its affairs and operations, and defend it against all enemies.

In America, the rewards of citizenship are priceless, but the demands are high. If we do not meet the demands, there will be no rewards. To my mind, a real need in our country today is for all people to do their duty as citizens.

—J. Edgar Hoover, Director

A government crop inspector visited a Kentucky farm and began asking questions. "Do you people around here have trouble with insects getting in your corn?" "We sure do," said the farmer, "but we jes fishes them out an' drinks it anyhow."

Teenager's Code

The youthful author, Virginia Chose, suggests that "If every teenager would follow these simple rules, the world would be a safer place to live in."

1. Don't let your parents down, they brought you up.
2. Stop and think before you drink.
3. Ditch dirty thoughts fast, or they'll ditch you.
4. Show-off driving is juvenile. Don't act your age.
5. Be smart: OBEY. You'll give orders yourself someday.
6. Choose your friends carefully. You are what they are.
7. Choose a date fit for a mate.
8. Don't go steady unless you're ready.
9. Go to church regularly. God gives a week. Give Him back some hours.
10. Listen to the gospel. The soul saved may be your own.

"Tax Freedom Holiday"

National "Tax Freedom Holiday" was celebrated last year on May 14... the first day on which the average American could work for himself after working four and a half months to pay taxes to government.

Economist F. A. Harper suggests the celebration in 1970 should realistically be scheduled for June 11, on the basis that taxes as a matter of fact take 44 cents of every income $1 of all citizens.

Harper, director of the Institute for Humane Studies, Menlo Park, California, notes that in 1929-1930 the average American paid only 13 cents of his income dollar to government in the form of taxes.

Taking Harper's figures at face value it may be assumed that while Americans were 87% free just four decades ago, we are now only 56% free... and 44% slaves to the government which has embarked on a senseless spending binge of incredible proportions.

Remember to mark June 11 as "Tax Freedom Holiday," and start making plans now to celebrate the occasion in pertinent fashion. You'll have company.

Do Parents Give Too Much?

Nobody needs to be told that many teenagers are in trouble. Instead of building a stronger, better society, they seem intent on tearing it apart. This, in turn, has caused agonized parents to ask, where have we failed?"

Now comes a noted pediatrician and practicing physician, Dr. Edwin F. Patton, who declares that parents of teenage and youthful failures have been leaping to the wrong conclusions. The problem, he says, is not because parents have done too little for their children, but that they have done too much.

"Most parents," Dr. Patton recently told Parade Magazine, "feel that if they provide their children with an easy life in a comfortable home, food, health care, indulgent discipline, casual exposure to basic education, and a world of fun, they have fulfilled all the requirements."

"The present vogue is for parents to make life as soft as possible for their young, to spare them from onerous experiences of all kinds, to remove all obstacles from their paths."

And that, in Dr. Patton's opinion, is the worst thing that parents can do. The reason, he said, is that in so doing, parents deprive children of "the very things most essential to the formation of character and the development of the ability to cope. Kids who grow up living the life of a free-loader expect it to continue permanently. So it can be a rude shock for them to realize that instead of privileges and provisions, they have duties, obligations, and responsibilities."

The answer, Dr. Patton insists, is that children must be made to learn that "life is a ruthlessly competitive barter in which the individual has to deliver things if he wants things in exchange; that what a person gets out of life is pretty much measured by what he puts into it; that enjoyment must be earned; and that the only true and enduring satisfaction comes through constructive accomplishment."

Dr. Patton has a lot going to back him up. The youth who accidentally killed themselves in New York recently were making their bombs in a $250,000.00 house. If Dr. Patton is right, the reason for their demise is not because they were given too little, but because they were given too much.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Academic Freedom?

Who are the people?

Of course, they are occasionally joined in this clamor by some politicians, but it is usually a politician seeking the job of the man who had to order out the forces of law.

This question can perplex. In the demonstrations and riots at the nation's colleges and universities a mere handful of the student body breaks up property, sets fires, destroys books, beat peaceful students, all the while holding aloft banners and shouting that "We, the people, must have our way."

This is a most peculiar manifestation of human perversity in action. On public property, nontaxpayers feel perfect liberty to destroy and main because the operation of the institution with which more than ninety-five per cent of the people are happy, does not meet their demands, on the basis that their ragged bobtail handful constitutes "the people."

And even more strangely, some of the presumably educated people who are in the faculty, uphold this sort of nonsense. It is ironic that one of the major demands of rioting students is to determine what shall be taught, how it will be taught, and by whom it will be taught.

The irony of this seems to escape them. After all, if they, the students, are competent in these areas, then they should not be students, but educators.

But the silliness does not stop there. If some office holder outside the campus sends in law enforcement officers to keep the peace, many of the faculty are astounded over this violation of academic freedom, thus equating a broken skull with academic freedom.

Pursuance of this principle could get most ridiculous. What if some buildings on Old State U campus caught on fire? Will it reach a point whereby fire engines will be held off the campus while something called an Academic Senate debates whether or not permitting fire fighting rigs on the campus would be an intrusion on "Academic freedom?"

NOTES FROM THE LIBRARY

By Bettie Luke

Let's hear about some cook books because every homemaker is interested in cooking.

New volumes include "The Fannie Farmer Cook Book" revised by Wilma Lord Perkins. It is an excellent all around cook book.

"Betty Crocker's Dinner in a Dish" is a new book on loan from Texas State Library, and so is "The Pendernales Country Cook Book" by Lillian Fehrbach, containing 225 fabulous recipes from the hill country where traditional Southern, Mexican and German dishes take on a distinctive Texas flavor.

Also interesting is "The Elegant but Easy Cook Book" by Marion Fox Burros and Lois Levine.

For those on a diet, the library has "Bland but Grand," a cook book for people on certain continuing diets.

Don't forget your pets. "The Pets' Cook Book" is a layman's comprehensive guide to feeding dogs, cats, birds, fish and odd animals around the house.

Remember Sunday, April 5, from 2 to 4 p.m. is Open House at the Library. So you all come. We are proud of the Library and want you to see it.

Come and read with us.

Tigers Continue Shaping up for TISC Track Meet

Sacred Heart High trackmen, with their eyes on the TISC meet in Fort Worth on April 18, continue to improve their records by running a long in area meets. They joined in a practice meet at Saint Jo last Thursday and the Nocona relay Friday and have entered the Red River Relays at Saint Jo this weekend.

Coach Tom Joy said the boys are improving every week and he feels certain the experience will help their score at the conference showdown. They made 46 points last Thursday, including the 10 by Ronnie Hess for his first place in the mile run. Hess also came in fourth in the mile run at Nocona. Other progress was apparent in Tim Bindel's half mile and Tom Felderhoff's broad jump. Teams with which the Tigers will compete in the TISC meet are Fort Worth Christian, Fort Worth Day School, Trinity Valley, Dallas Christian, Greenhill and Cistercian Prep.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stelzer of Fort Worth spent Easter Sunday with their aunt, Mrs. L. A. Bernauer.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

By Arlin Naegeli
With the land price rising each year, livestock producers must look for ways to increase production on the land they now operate. There are several ways to do this. One way is fertilizer.

Now is a good time to begin to fertilize coastal, Midland, and common bermudagrass pastures to increase production. Most soils in this area can be fertilized with about 200 pounds of 16-20-0 or equivalent per acre now or use the recommendations of a recent sample from the soil.

Since bermudagrass has a growing cycle of about 30 days, additional applications of nitrogen can be applied throughout the growing season. These applications of nitrogen can be applied two or three times during the growing for maximum production. This will give livestock a good, high quality forage during the growing season.

Another way to increase production is by weed control. Without a good weed control program, you will not receive maximum production from the fertilizer applied to your grasses. Most of the early weeds are now up and should be controlled as soon as possible when it warms up. The weeds may be controlled either by chemical or mechanical methods.

For more information on your fertilization and weed control programs, contact your local Soil Conservation office. Any of the technicians will be available to give you this information.

Next time you're feeling depressed because you're a couple of days behind on the laundry, and you hate to start the drudgery of cramming clothes in the automatic and turning that heavy dial, take heart! The following "recipe" was given by a mother to her daughter on her wedding day, not really so many years ago, and has been making the rounds of area papers.

1. Bild fire in back yard to heat kettle of rain water.
2. Set tubs so smoke won't blow in eyes if wind is pert.
3. Shave one hole cake lie soap in bilin water.
4. Sort things, make three piles, 1 pile white, 1 pile cul-lord, 1 pile work britches and rags.
5. Stur flour in cold water to smooth then thin down with bilin water.
6. Rub dirty spots on board, scrub hard, then bile, rub cul-lord but don't bile just rench and starch.
7. Take white things out of kettle with broom stick handle then rench, blew and

8. Spred tee towels on grass.
9. Hang old rags on fence.
10. Pore old rench water in flower bed.
11. Scrub porch with hot soapy water.
12. Turn tubs upside down.
13. Go put on cleen dress-smooth hair with side comb-brew cup of tee-set and rest and rock a spell and count blessings."

What's Causing The Money Squeeze?

Buying a house today can be more of a problem than usual. Inflation has driven up housing costs and mortgage rates. And we've all heard about tight money and the credit crunch. These terms mean that many banks -- big and small alike -- have less cash available for lending. Although it's expected that the Federal Reserve System's policy of restricting bank credit now will make more money available in time for all types of loans, this is not going to happen immediately.

Why Tight Money?

High interest rates determined by the Federal Reserve are intended to discourage unnecessary spending just as the 1968 income tax surtax was designed to get people to cut their spending. Instead people stopped saving and went right on spending. And no matter how high interest rates have gone, there are still more borrowers than available money. Demands for business, personal loans and for homes have simply outrun the supply of loanable savings deposits in the banks.

Tight money and inflation have become so troublesome that the Federal Reserve Board recently allowed banks to raise the interest rates paid on savings accounts and savings certificates in hopes that the public would respond favorably and thus help build up bank deposits.

How Money Is Managed

The flow of the nation's supply of money and credit is pretty much managed by the Federal Reserve Board.

When the country's economy is booming along at too fast a clip, the Board can make it harder for businesses and consumers to get credit. This is what happened in 1969 and at that time the Board saw fit to make less lending money available in the hopes of slowing inflation.

Member banks can, however, borrow additional lendable funds from the Federal Reserve district banks. The Federal Reserve sets the discount rate -- the amount of interest banks pay on the money they borrow -- and today's rate of six per cent is the highest since 1929. This, too, is meant to discourage heavy borrowing.

On the other hand, if the economy slows, the Board tries to encourage spending and it can do this by making more lending money available.

Bankers, along with everyone else, look forward to the time when inflation is brought under control and the Federal Reserve authorities feel they can lift the restrictive policy.

When inflation is curbed -- and only then -- the national economy will be sounder and all will benefit with easier money, lower interest rates and expanding bank credit.

Then banks can operate more normally, and the fellow looking for a home mortgage or other bank loan will also have an easier time getting it.

Site No. 15 is one of 55 flood prevention dams planned in the Clear Creek Watershed. Fifty-two have been built. Site 15 can store 900 acre feet of water between the elevation of the water in the photo and the emergency spillway at right. This water is released through the pipe built through the dam at a rate slow enough to prevent downstream flooding. The sediment pool shown above forms a 16 acre lake. This water is valuable for such uses as irrigation, livestock and domestic water, and recreation. The site is on the Wilson property south of Saint Jo.

Flooding and Pollution Reduced By 10 Year Project on Clear Creek

by Eual Davis
Cleaner water, less sediment in Garza-Little Elm, and reduced flooding. These are some of the benefits to the Trinity Basin from the Clear Creek Watershed project which started just ten years ago.

The creek, which heads in Montague County at the top of the Trinity, had a long history of flooding until the work started in 1960. At that time, some 15,000 acres of bottomland along Clear Creek flooded an average of three times per year, causing some $300,000 in annual damages. Severely gullied land was dumping sediment into the creek at an alarming rate; Garza-Little Elm was catching some 450,000 tons of sediment per year from the creek. Now, with 52 flood detention dams built, with countless gullies healed, and with other soil and water conservation measures installed, things are changing. Clear Creek runs clearer, flooding in upstream areas has stopped, and 200,000 tons of sediment per year are being kept out of Garza-Little Elm.

J. M. Weinzapfel of Muenster, President of the Clear Creek Watershed Authority says things have changed from one end of the creek to the other. "Our board members were scattered over three counties but with good relations and hard work the goal we set of controlling Clear Creek is now in sight," reports Weinzapfel, a prominent banker and director of Trinity Improvement Association. "We feel that the danger of flooding has now been eliminated and the productive bottomlands are now being reclaimed and one day soon we will see the land back in full production," he continued.

Weinzapfel believes that watershed projects like Clear Creek are an essential part of our communities. They are a giant step forward in conserving the soil and controlling water pollution in our area.

The 52 floodwater retarding dams built can store more than 15,000 acre-feet of water, or 500 million gallons, during heavy rains, then release it slowly to protect roads, bridges, fences, cropland, and other property.

J. C. Donnell, a member of the Clear Creek Watershed board from Saint Jo, recently

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Scoggins had as weekend and Easter guests their daughter and family, the Karl Hanzas, Marie, Kerri and Karlinda of Gotobo, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scoggins, Bobby and Vickie joined his parents and the visitors for supper Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Fuhrmann spent the holiday weekend in Fort Smith, Ark., with their daughter, Sister Baptista. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Frank Roberg of Gainesville.

Surprise visitors with the Adolph Fuhrmanns Monday were friends from Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bormann of Bancroft and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Friedress of Lu Verne. They were enroute home after weekending in Fort Worth with the latter's daughter, Sister Betty, of St. Joseph's Hospital and were going to spend overnight at Durant, Okla., with cousins of the Mosser family.

Bill Derichsweiler spent the later part of last week and through Easter with his son and family, the Ervin Derichsweilers at Lewisville and joined them Sunday in attending the First Communion service of his granddaughter Judy Derichsweiler.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hess and children of Dallas visited during the weekend their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hess and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vogel.

told of an incident which reflects a changed attitude by people along Clear Creek. While harvesting small grain last summer he and his hired hand finished for the day and parked the combine in a flat near the bank of Clear Creek. As they walked toward the pickup, J. C. said, "Ten years ago a man wouldn't dare do that, a flash flood would have washed it away."

The project got underway ten years ago, in April of 1960. That's when the Soil Conservation Service and the Clear Creek Authority along with other sponsors agreed on the plan of work and timetable for installing the project. The plan called for 55 flood retarding dams and treatment of 14 major systems of gullies. These were treated with sediment control dams, drop structures, diversion terraces, shaping, sodding, seeding, fencing and other measures. Goals were also set for speeding up soil and water conservation treatment on farm and ranch land in the watershed through three soil and water conservation districts.

Each of the 52 dams now form a small lake. They average 12 acres in size and are used for fishing, boating, and swimming. Picnicking along the shady edges of these lakes is enjoyed by many and several new houses have been built which overlook the lakes. The potential for income producing recreation is almost unlimited and would go a long way to relieve a need which already exists and is growing each day.

The board of directors for the Clear Creek Watershed Authority are: J. M. Weinzapfel, President, Muenster; J. W. McCall, Nocona; H. D. Field, Jr. Saint Jo; J. C. Donnell, Saint Jo; George Berry, Rosston; J. A. Stovall, Era; J. H. Armstrong, Sanger; Dr. C. H. Saunders, Sanger; and Alonzo Jamison, Sanger. Mr. Jamison recently replaced Tom Muir of Sanger who faithfully served on the board for more than nine years and resigned due to poor health.

Hornet Trackmen First at Saint Jo Fifth at Nocona

Glenn Richardson's Hornet trackmen of Muenster High School earned 42 points for fifth place in the Indian Relays hosted last Friday by Nocona High School.

Teams and their scores in the top four positions were Pilot Point 83, Holliday 80, Springtown 82 and Nocona 51. They are Class A schools and Muenster had the honor of being tops of the B schools. About 25 teams competed.

That meet was the second for the MHS boys last week. On Thursday they had a practice session at Saint Jo, in senior and junior divisions, with Sacred Heart, Saint Jo and Era.

Muenster won both divisions taking almost half of the senior points and more than half of the junior points. Senior team scores were Muenster 236, Era 126, Saint Jo 65, Sacred Heart 46. Junior team scores were Muenster 72, Saint Jo 33, Era 28, Sacred Heart 1. Next booking for the boys will return them to the Saint Jo field Saturday for the Red River Relays, which were originally scheduled for March 21 and postponed by bad weather. Over forty teams were entered the first time, about 30 are expected this time. All the teams will be Class B.

Reports early this week are that Celina, the powerhouse of Class B, is picked as an easy winner, especially since Lockett, expected as a strong contender, will not be there. Coach Richardson hopes that his Hornets will be out in front of the contest for the remaining points.

The meet has additional meaning to the fourteen teams listed in District 18-B. Most if not all of them will be there and their performance will be a sort of preview of the district meet Friday of next week.

Hornet scorers in the Nocona meet last Friday were led by John Monday who made 13 in three events and helped win 2 more in the mile relay. He was first in the high jump with 5 ft. 11 in., fifth in the 120 hurdles with 16.5 and sixth in the 330 hurdles.

Earl Koelzer scored 10 points on second in the 120 hurdles with 15 seconds and fifth in the 330 hurdles. Carl Endres made 7 in a tie for second in the pole vault, Leon Klement made 6 points on third place in the mile run and Andy Knabe earned 4 by fourth in the 880.

Members of the mile relay team were Terry Miller, Bobby Bruns, John Monday and Andy Knabe.

At Saint Jo the Hornets got first places in both relays along with 5 individual firsts, 10 seconds and a tie for second. That accounted for 177 points and the remaining 59 were earned by third to sixth places.

Points earned in first and second place wins were Koelzer 28, Monday 26, Dangelmayr 18, Klement 16, Lippe 16, Miller 15, Knabe 10, Fette 8.

In the junior division MHS won both relays. In addition Endres got four individual firsts, Lippe got one and Trachta got one.

be effective. At the same time everybody knows that nobody has to pay if he will behave.

The present state of affairs indicates clearly that the so called humane method of dealing with the problem does not get results. Considerate treatment is wasted on characters who have no consideration for others. They must be made to fear the consequence. That calls for tougher laws, less restriction on police officers and less leniency in the courts.
