VOLUME XXXIV

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 SEPTEMBER 11, 1970

NUMBER 42

It seems as though civilization is falling apart. The hijacking of three jet airliners Sunday and the attempted hijacking of another by Arab guerrillas is history's worst incident of piracy and a challenge to all respectable nations to get together in seeking a solution.

And that's only a part of the story. The outrage is intensified by kidnapping and ransom demands in which two planes and their passengers are held as hostages for the release of criminals. Still another outrage is the senseless, hateful destruction of one of the planes, a 747 jet costing over $22 million.

The people who did these things are enemies of all civilization. They are international outlaws whose capture and prosecution should become the goal of every country that expects to continue enjoying a civilized relationship with other countries.

A London newspaper has a solution to the airplane hijacking crime wave. It wants an international agreement among all the countries to return any plane and passengers which are brought in by hijackers and also turn over the hijackers for prosecution. Failure to live up to that agreement would result in suspension of air service to that country by the cooperating countries. Inconvenience and hardship resulting from such ostracism is calculated to bring most nations to their senses in a short time.

It's possible to have such a system, and with sufficient teeth to make it workable, especially if there's another provision requiring similar ostracism for a country which cheats on the deal. For instance, we can imagine Cuba being placed on the black list but still enjoying regular trade with Russia. Well Russia would think twice before going on all of the other black lists.

Until such a plan is adopted it seems reasonable that air lines should adopt the simplest of all precautions. That is, a personal search of every passenger who boards a plane. It's time to forget that we average law abiding citizens resent the idea of being suspected and searched like ordinary criminals, and to remember that the experience isn't really offensive when it's known to serve a good purpose.

After all, that precaution is only one of the many forced on decent people by the enemies of society. They say the burglar alarm business is booming nowadays, reflecting the money people pay to avoid theft. Also, we pay out more fortunes to insure against theft and arson and billions for big police forces. And along with all that some people forego their right to go out for an evening walk. A special precaution to assure an unmolesed flight is just another little tribute that society has to pay to crime.

The multiple hijacking by Arab guerrillas brings us face to face with one of the grim realities of war. Involvement is no longer confined to the fighting men. People minding their own business can become hostages for the release of criminals. And we learned recently in South America that the hostages do not always survive the ordeal. At this time we wonder about the newest ransom demand. We also wonder whether Arab governments will live up to their responsibilities and take the planes and passengers out of criminal hands, or whether innocent people will actually be the pawns for release of criminals.

A big question is whether the idea mentioned in London will be adopted and applied (Continued on page 8)

49 Registered in Pre School Class

Forty nine children were registered Tuesday in the pre school classes at Muenster Public School, and a few more are expected, according to Superintendent L. B. Bruns. School work started Thursday with the group divided into morning and afternoon classes, both taught by Mrs. Hollis Berry.

City Sweeper Damaged
An overhaul of the brush on the city's street sweeper is needed since Monday night when all the bristles were burned off in a fire behind the city hall. The city council authorized a repair job estimated at about $300.

Mayor Sloan Takes Office

Michael Sloan, the newly appointed mayor of Muenster, was sworn into office Tuesday night at the city council's regular meeting. After the oath of office was administered by Mayor Pro Tem Richard Grewing, Sloan told the council "I will do my utmost to honor your trust and confidence and I look forward to the privilege of working with you."

Sloan was appointed by the council at its previous meeting to fill the unexpired term of Earl Fisher, who resigned on August 3. The new mayor took the oath of office early in the meeting and presided for the rest of it.

Principal business of the meeting was to approve a contract with Jim Foster Construction Co. of Wichita Falls for about 20,000 square yards of new pavement and 25,000 square yards of re-surfacing pavement at an estimated cost of $18,000. City Manager Steve Mosler said that the contractor was expected Wednesday or Thursday and the project should be finished about October 1.

New pavement is planned for the city park driveway and 1 block on Maple, 1 on Ninth and 3 on Cedar. Resurfacing is planned on thirteen blocks — 2 on Seventh, 6 on Walnut, Persons interested in the basic course or in the typing class are asked to be at school to register Monday night. Hours and nights for the two classes will be set and other details worked out between teachers and students.

28 Local AMPI Members At National Convention

Muenster was well represented at the largest gathering of farm people in U.S. history as Associated Milk Producers, Inc., held a convention last Friday and Saturday in Chicago.

About 30,000 dairymen of the Central States from the Canadian to the Mexican borders were there. They had reservations in twenty hotels.

Included were 28 persons from Muenster and more than 120 other people from Gainesville, Lindsay, Valley View, Sanger, and several other communities who assembled here at 3 a.m. Friday to board five chartered buses which took them to Love Field for the flight to Chicago. They arrived in Chicago at 8:30 and were taken to the LaSalle Hotel.

Principal aims of the convention were to emphasize the need for communications and understanding between members and between dairymen and the general public, as well as to make government officials aware of their problems and their political muscle.

The dairymen are seeking equality with other segments of the economy in production and marketing of their product.

The two principal convention meetings were held in a football stadium. Smaller meetings were held in the 20 hotels occupied by the delegates. Some of the speakers were Art Linkletter, Senators Muskie, McGovern, Proxmire, Yarborough and Allott along with officials of the association. Rep. Graham Purcell attended but was not on the program.

Other convention activities included guided tours to Field Museum and Aquarium and a boat ride on Lake Michigan. AMPI hosted the convention all the way. It picked up the tab for transportation by chartered busses and planes as well as the lodging, meals, transportation and other convention activities in Chicago.

Persons attending from here were Messrs. and Mmes. Alfred Bayer, Martin Bayer, Paul Fisher, Eddie Fleitman, J. A. Klement, Robert Klement, Frank Schilling Jr., Wilfred Sicking, Jerry Walterscheid, Sonny Walterscheid, J. M. Weinzapfel and Andy Wimmer; also Billy Bayer, David Fisher, Henry Knabe and Wylie Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Thompson of Lindsay were in charge of the flight and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Walterscheid of Muenster helped with host and hostess duties.

They left Chicago Sunday morning at 7:30, arrived in Dallas at 9:05 and at the Muenster baseball park at 10:55.

2 on Fourth and 3 on Sixth. Other council action consisted of approval of a temporary building permit for J. J. Wieler near the Mobil warehouse south of the highway overpass. The area is in the city fire zone, which requires masonry construction. However, the space may possibly be taken over by the highway, so Wieler proposes a fireproof building of sheet metal, mounted on skids, which can be moved if necessary. The size will be 16 x 20 feet.

Deputy Sheriff George Davis introduced Deputy Jim Westfall, who is on special night duty here until a successor is named for Robert Kaylor, who resigned to join the Gainesville police department.

A proposal to reduce curfew exemption age from 21 to 18 failed to get the council's approval. It was pointed out that 18-year-olds have to take on adult responsibility when they are sent to Vietnam but they are treated like children when they come home. On the other side was the fact that many other minors are also involved and the town can be kept more orderly under the present arrangement.

Water Superintendent Joe Mosler reminded the council that rationing this summer points up the fact that another water well is needed. The subject was referred to Water Commissioner Richard Grewing.

Enrollments Told In Area Schools

Enrollment reports for the current scholastic year in a number of area schools have come to the attention of the Enterprise. They indicate that each of the local schools compares favorably in size with smaller schools of the area and the combined enrollment compares favorably with some larger schools.

Muenster Public School has 251 in the grades and 141 in high school for a total of 392. Sacred Heart has 279 in the grades and 90 in high school, a total of 369. Combining the two shows Muenster with 530 in grades, 231 in high school, a total of 761.

A report at Saint Jo includes kindergarten with the twelve grades for a total of 341. Fifth and under has 153 of those, sixth and over has 195. Era's opening day report was 232 but did not list enrollment by grades.

Lindsay has 353, of which 258 are in elementary and 95 in high school. Sanger has 568, 419 elementary, 149 high school. Nocona's 718 includes 483 in grades and 235 in high school. Whitesboro has 863, 601 in grades 262 in high school.

Celina, with 421, has 305 in elementary and 116 in high school; and Archer City, with 507, has 360 in elementary and 147 in high school.

Tigers, Panthers Meet Here Friday In Season Opener

When the Sacred Heart Tigers take on the Saint Jo Panthers here Friday night in the '70 football season's opener the lineups will be practically a re-write of last year. According to Coach Tom Joy each team lost two by graduation last year, so there will be little difference in personnel — except that each team has added a year of growth and experience.

And the Tiger coach has hopes that the outcome will also be a re-write of last year, when his Sacred Heart boys outlasted the Panthers for a 22-12 victory. He recalls that the teams were well matched early in the game and the Tigers had the advantage in the second half.

The boys' second pre-season test, with the Pilot Point B team last Thursday night indicated improvement since their practice with Callisburg a week earlier. Fred Fuhrmann and Kevin Swirczynski alternated in nice running games and Gary Endres was on target with his passes. Two of those passes were fourth down plays completed to Kevin Pels to keep a drive alive. That particular drive went 95 yards and was topped off by Fuhrmann's 5 yard plunge, the only TD of the evening.

The line likewise showed a week of progress on both offense and defense. Standouts of the evening were Bill Bartush, Alan Hess, Melvin Luke and Tim Bindel. Friday night they will be helped by another veteran, Mark Schmitt, who missed the Pilot Point action because of a light fracture of the hand.

On the other hand, however, Saint Jo has looked good in its two scrimmages to date. Passing has been sharper than last year and line action has been more effective. The Panthers will have considerably more weight up front than the Tigers. Three of them are over 190 and two are over 180. Bill Bartush at 227 will be the biggest on the field but the other Tiger lineman will average under 170.

City Goes Modern On Pavement Job

The city of Muenster is going modern on the paving project which is getting under way this week. It is "Slurry Pavement", which is described as different in method of installation and different in both the quality of surface and durability.

City Superintendent Steve Mosler said the name probably came from the consistency of material as it is being applied. It is much thinner than other pre-mix pavement, almost like concrete, and it is levelled in about the same manner as concrete.

This paving method has been in use for only five years, Mosler said, and is doing fine to date in quality and durability. It is the only kind of asphalt paving now being applied on airports. That's because of its smooth, tough, pliable surface without any loose gravel for jet exhausts to blast about the airport.

Coach Tom Joy Is Named TISC Prexy At Meeting Here

Coach Tom Joy was elected president of the Texas Independent School Conference, September 8, at the quarterly TISC meeting held in the lounge of Sacred Heart High School. One of the principal tasks Mr. Joy, coach at Sacred Heart High, will now be undertaking is correspondence with the members in the conference.

Other officers elected include the athletic director from Cistercian, as vice-president, and Mr. Ronnie Fuhrmann, as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Fuhrmann is the assistant coach for the Tigers.

Athletic directors of the other six private schools who are members of this conference were also present at this meeting. Teams entered in this conference are Trinity Valley, Fort Worth Country Day, Fort Worth Christian, Dallas Christian, Greenhill, Cistercian Prep of Irving, and Sacred Heart of Muenster.

Sacred Heart was admitted to the conference on January 11, 1969. The Tigers will be competing against the other six conference teams, along with Saint Jo, Era, Sadler-Southmayd, and Lindsay, during this year's football season.

Passing Contest Due as Hornets And Eagles Clash

Lots of competition awaits the Muenster Hornets Friday night when they meet Valley View's Eagles in the first game for each of this season. The Eagles rate as title contenders in 9-B, much stouter than the team that lost 42-14 to MHS last year.

The Eagles showed their power at Alvord in a scrimmage last week, crushing the Bulldogs under a 7 to 2 count of touchdowns. A fine passing game features the sharpshooting of quarterback Bartholomew accounted for four of the TD's. The other three were made on the ground on runs by Ford, Hill and Barthold.

While that scrimmage was under way Coach Glenn Richardson's Hornets were looking good in their practice tussle at Callisburg. The TD count was 6 to 0, and also included four scores through the air. Performance of the teams so far indicates that the Hornet-Eagle scuffle will be filled with passes.

Three touchdown passes at Callisburg went from Jim Endres to John Schneider for gains of 50, 30, and 30. The other was from Endres to Earl Koelzer, also for a gain of about 30 yards.

Koelzer, on a trap play, broke loose and rambled some 40 paces for one of the running score. Tim Hennigan sailed around end for a 12 yard gain on the other score. Five of Muenster's scores came in the first half. The next half was less decisive as MHS reserves got more time on the field and the Wildcats got their game clicking better. The hosts put together one nice drive that went to the 1 foot line before Muenster stopped it.

Weight advantage will be on Valley View's side Friday, with the Hill brothers both tipping the scale at over 200. On the other hand Muenster probably has the better backfield speed. And both teams have a good passing potential.

Trash Haul
MHS Seniors will sponsor a trash haul Saturday, Sept. 12, starting at 8:30 a.m. Call 759-4348 for pick up.

City Seeks Site For Water Well

First steps toward expanding the city's water supply was taken at the council meeting Tuesday night when the members and Water Superintendent Joe Mosler discussed selection of a location.

Mosler pointed out that rationing was necessary this summer with all the equipment in operation, and a break-down of any of the three wells would have caused an emergency.

The council agreed that the well is needed and turned its attention to the preferred location. With hardness reported as more prevalent north and northwest of town, the council decided to look in a generally southeasterly direction for their well site.

When it drills the well, the city will likely set up a storage tank and pump at the location and pump directly into the main rather than pump to an existing storage tank.

Rising Resistance to NEA Lobby

School bells are ringing — and although the powerful Education Lobby had its way with huge federal appropriations this year, there is evidence aplenty that grass roots America is not about ready to give much more. The way folks are thinking is reflected by Editor William C. Epler of the Brewery Gulch Gazette in Bisbee, Arizona. Editor Epler wrote:

"I have about come to the conclusion that brains and education don't necessarily go together, that one of the most dangerous organizations in the country is the National Education Association; and that one of our worst problems in education will not be teaching our kids but in trying to control the professional educators who seek nothing less than total subservency from the rest of us.

"These comments are prompted by the address given at a national convention of the 1.1 million-member National Education Association in San Francisco by NEA President George D. Fischer, who sees anti-education spooks behind every door.

"There are some experts in America," Fischer said, "who are predicting that public education cannot survive the onslaughts leveled against it in 1970. There appears to be a conspiracy at work to destroy confidence in public education, including a hostile federal administration which has in fact declared war on education."

"Can the man be serious? What onslaughts? Does he mean the questions by parents and taxpayers challenging the need for still further increased taxes to fund increasingly idiotic 'educational' programs designed more to create teaching jobs than to help educate people?"

"Does he call it a conspiracy when citizens object to paying taxes to support a teacher who is an avowed communist seeking to destroy our form of government, one teaching the same line to their children? Does he mean he thinks it is wrong for people to lose confidence in the educational system when it cannot even teach children to spell simple words, to write a simple sentence with correct punctuation?

"Is he indignant because people question the educational hierarchy when it stands idly by and lets juvenile delinquents masquerading as college students tear down schools, burn buildings, disrupt classes and in general raise hell? Does he wonder why we got bent out of shape when teachers actually encourage dissidents to do these things and sometimes actually take part?"

"Yes, the public is losing confidence in public education, Mr. Fischer — and you, Mr. Fischer — and you are making your contribution — U.S. Press Assn.

Crisis in Crafts

No law can protect consumers against what U.S. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson calls a "crisis in craftsmanship". The declining quality of workmanship in today's products is, in a large part, a direct result of a disappearing breed of people — people who pride themselves on their skills and their ability to do a job well. As Secretary Hodgson puts it, the decline in the quality of American workmanship stems mainly from two developments — a drying up of the flow of skilled artisans and craftsmen to the United States from Europe, and a decline in respect for craftsmanship.

The Secretary believes that high pay for craft skills will reflect a recognition of the need to rebuild American craftsmanship. In other words, unsuspected new opportunities may open up for those who have not yet swallowed the bait of a push-button, automated existence.

Middle Americans

Columnists and commentators have called the non-activist bulk of our citizens by many names... One such name is the "average" American, but that doesn't seem just right, because the "average" of anything is only the worst of the good and the best of the worst... Others have referred to us as the "silent" Americans, but with more and more of us standing up and speaking out against the destructive elements in our society, we are not so silent as we once were... so that name doesn't quite fit us either. The majority in this country should be called "Middle Americans" because we are, indeed, in the middle, caught between the politicians who spend, spend... and the non-producers who take take, take... which means, of course, that we have to work, work, work, so we can pay, pay, pay!

A Message from J. Edgar Hoover

In a very short time our Nation's colleges and universities will begin their fall terms. Thousands of our finest young people will resume their pursuit of education that will enable them to better serve their communities and their country. These young men and women will soon be among those entrusted with the responsibility of leadership and the obligation of shaping the future direction of our Nation. It is imperative that their preparation for this most significant task be of the highest quality and that it be gained in an uninterrupted atmosphere conducive to educational excellence.

The responsibility of insuring that these goals are achieved rests squarely with college administrators. They alone, by setting the guidelines of conduct, control the activities of their students. Let not the issue of student conduct be clouded by philosophical mouthings of self-determination, cries of repression, or claims of attack against intellectual freedom. College administrators must rise to face the issues honestly and then have the courage to firmly implant policies that will not permit or condone any illegitimate interruption of the educational process. This position must be maintained regardless of the dire consequences threatened by those who seek, either deliberately or through confused direction, to disrupt our institutions of higher learning.

The radicals who have plagued many of our colleges and universities know well that their success in part is dependent upon weak administrators — leaders who refuse to accept the responsibility of maintaining order. Certainly, unlimited freedom of students to disrupt or destroy and doubtful punishment for such activity give great impetus to its continuation. College administrators across the land must unite in placing order on their individual campuses as the top priority item.

Unruly students, of course, are not the only bane of college and university officials. Some faculty members act like rabid anarchists and spend most of their time encouraging enthusiastic but naive young people to overthrow established procedure. To some professors, academic freedom appears to mean freedom to destroy our educational processes. The disarrays of last spring must be replaced with firm, established policy designed to protect the entire student body and not just a vocal minority whose uncontrolled activities threaten the entire structure of higher education.

As law enforcement officers, we must also insure that our conduct in the enforcement of law and order on college campuses is worthy of the respect of the entire citizenry. The campus is not a privileged sanctuary and law-breaking in any form should not be condoned. Enforcement of the law on the campus must be vigorous, yet never tainted with excessive force or the venting of emotions unworthy of a professional police officer.

Just as we call on college administrators to unite and accept their responsibility of restoring order on their campuses, we too, in the event of their failure, must perform our duty in strict observance of the rule of law we swore to uphold.

—J. Edgar Hoover

Major Crime Rate Up 19.9 per cent First Half of 1970

Major crime rate in Texas rose 19.9 per cent for the first half of 1970, Col. Wilson E. Speir, Texas Department of Public Safety director, reports.

Latest statewide report reflects a major crime is committed every minute from January through June. Sheriffs and local police chiefs furnish the information.

Increase actually is 20.9 per cent in urban areas and 10.5 in rural territory.

Robbery shows the biggest jump — 40.2 per cent. Rape increased 28.7 per cent, murder 28.1 per cent, theft 21.6 per cent, burglaries 17.9 per cent, auto thefts 16.5 per cent and aggravated assaults 10 per cent.

Speir said an estimated 233,599 major criminal offenses occurred during the January-June period. Comparison-wise, it was 4,404 per 100,000 population. Crime clearances (solutions) declined from 27 per cent during the first half of 1968 to 26 per cent for 1970, but the clearance rate for murder and robbery increased slightly.

HEALTH HINTS

National Association Of Blue Shield Plans

Eye Irritation

If a particle of dirt or other foreign substance enters the eye, lift the upper lid and pull down over the lower lid so that the watering of the eye will wash out the speck. If this proves unsuccessful, wash the irritated area with drops of lukewarm water. In instances when the speck still remains and damage may be done to the eye, avoid self-treatment and consult your physician.

Fatigue

Relieve fatigue from physical exertion with added rest and sleep. On the other hand, if you experience fatigue from a sedentary occupation and way of life, get some exercise. Brisk walks, jogging, cycling and sports, such as golf or bowling are helpful. Also, check your environment at work and home for causes of fatigue. Bad lighting, poor ventilation, excessive noise, and variations in temperature may be at fault. If fatigue becomes chronic, see your doctor.

Nose-Bleed

Tilt your head backward when a nose-bleed occurs. Loosen clothing at the neck and breathe through the mouth. Avoid blowing nose. To arrest the bleeding, pinch nostrils together for about five minutes and apply cold compresses over nose and face. If bleeding is profuse or prolonged, or if it recurs, seek medical attention.

Use Of Microfilm For Census

Will Save Taxpayers Millions

WASHINGTON — Important new microfilming procedures in the processing of the 1970 Census will make possible the most comprehensive and useful storehouse of information ever assembled by the Census Bureau, reports Karl Adams Jr., president of the National Microfilm Assn.

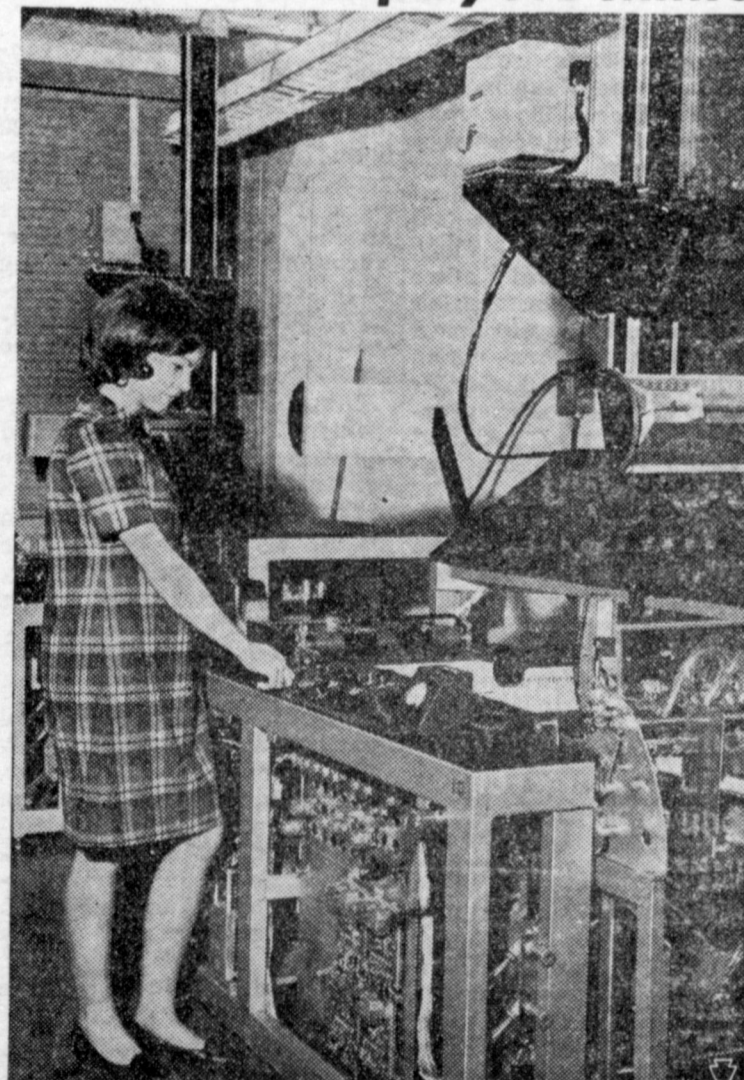

And, considering the volume of information and the cost involved, Americans will get more for their money — $210 million — than ever before.

Adams, microfilm consultant from Weston, Mass., explained that by using microfilm to provide input to computers and to record their output, the Census Bureau will save of millions in personnel costs over the cost to process the same amount of data by previously used methods. Taxpayers benefit from having more sophisticated equipment able to do a better job of processing census data.

"A significant breakthrough in the handling of tremendous masses of information was the marriage of microfilm to the computer. Next year every American will benefit by the development of devices that read data from microfilm: directly to computers, and advances in computer-output-microfilming (COM) technology," Adams said.

Some four billion facts about 205 million Americans and their 62 million homes, apartments and other dwellings will be gathered.

It will take three to five weeks to gather the bulk of the data and 18 months to sort, process and put that data into useable form — a comparatively short period of time, considering that in 1970, when the census consisted of only five questions about four million persons, it took 18 months just to collect the data and prepare it for reporting.

Completed multi-page census questionnaires will be photographed at the rate of two per second onto special high contrast negative microfilm, which records only the pencilled-in dots used to indicate correct answers.

The microfilming is facilitated by an automatic page turner developed in the Census Bureau's Engineering Development Laboratory under the direction of Anthony A. Berlinsky. As each questionnaire is fed to one of 40 available microfilm cameras, an automatic turner flips pages, and after sensing when the last page is reached ejects it and begins processing another. No comparable device exists.

The microfilm is fed to FOSDIC (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computers) which scans each microfilm frame with a beam of light and converts the dots into magnetic code on computer tape. Six FOSDICs will operate around the clock for four months to transfer 50,000 rolls of microfilm onto 6500 reels of computer tape at the rate of 70,000 items of information per minute. In 1970 only about six items could be handled each minute.)

The computers, capable of processing 700,000 items of information each minute, output directly to microfilm (COM) at speeds up to 90,000 characters per second — about 30 times faster than data can be recorded by impact printers, the usual output recording devices which resemble high-speed typewriters.

To illustrate the data processing speedup since 1970, the Census Bureau compared clerks with pencils tabulating census data with the modern computer, and found that in terms of units of work, the modern computer performs the work of 14,000 clerks.

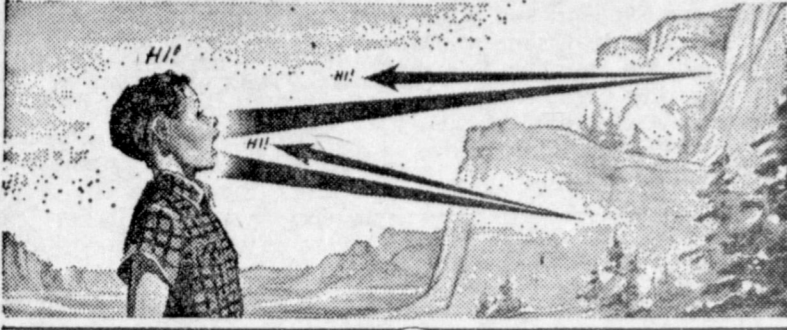

"Computer-output-microfilming is one of the latest developments in electronic data processing, and its use is growing at a fantastic rate," says Adams. He reports that a recent survey of its members by the National Microfilm Assn. indicates that by the end of 1970 there will be at least five times as many COM units in operation as there were at the beginning of 1969. Industry spokesmen predict as many as 12,000 COM recorders will be in use within five years.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

What do you know about echoes?
An echo is a sound that bounces back—a sound that is reflected back. Probably you have heard your voice echo down a corridor or across a valley. The echo occurred when the sound waves of your voice struck a hard surface and bounced back off it.
To make an echo, sound waves must hit a hard, fairly smooth surface at the correct angle. (If they hit a rough surface, the sound waves break up. Either there is no echo at all or the sound is completely changed.) Timing and distance must also be right. If the sound returns too quickly, it becomes mixed with sound waves still being sent out.

Do you know why the right and left sides of a ship are called port and starboard?

Ancient ships had their rudders, or steering boards, on the right side of the stern of the ship. This gave rise to the Anglo-Saxon word steorbord, or "steer side." When ships came into port to load and unload, they were tied up with their left sides closest to the dock to prevent damage to the rudder. Thus the left side became known as the port side. (Port used to be called larboard, from Middle English ladeborde, which referred to the loading side of a ship.)

Why is it hotter in summer than in winter?

It is hotter in the summer because the summer sun is higher in the sky. It shines down more directly on the earth. Its light and heat are more concentrated. Another reason is that the days are longer. This gives the sun more time to heat the earth.

Mrs. Larry Yostens Kin on Mend After Vietnam Injuries

Letters home from Bill Arend Jr., nephew of Mrs. Larry Yostens, tell of his grams presented by Sister in Vietnam. Bill, 20, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arend Sr. of Russell, Kansas. He had been in the Army since Feb. 10 this year and overseas six months.

He was on duty "walking point" with an assistant on Aug. 7 when he tripped on a trip wire connected to an enemy grenade made with American materials. After the explosion he had trouble breathing and his buddies rolled him on his side, then carried him to a landing site where he was placed on a plane. He was treated at a field hospital and then flown to a hospital in Chu Lai. While still there he received a Purple Heart from a general.

After a drainage tube was removed from his lung he was transferred to Japan for surgery to remove shrapnel from the lung. He also had a fractured rib. He was hospitalized in Denver, Colo., at last report and will be granted a 30-day leave at home when he is able to travel.

Bill wrote his parents that 90 per cent of the injuries were from booby traps. He did not believe this until he was in the hospital when only two came in with bullet wounds, the rest with holes in their legs, back and arms, all from booby traps.

Herbert C. Hoover received 84 honorary degrees.

The collection department of a big Chicago firm tried a new method on a slow-paying account in a small town.

"Dear Mr. Smith," the letter began, "what would all of your neighbors think if we came to your town and repossessed your car?"

In due course, the letter came back with the message across the bottom, "I have taken up this matter with my neighbors, and they think it'd be a lousy trick."

Friends Visit Nuns Here Overnight on Way to Rhineland

There was rejoicing and greetings and much exchange of pleasantries at the local convent Friday night when a group of friends gathered there after learning that Sister Bertha was an overnight visitor at the convent.

She traveled by car from Jonesboro, Ark., with Sister Geraldine and Sister Martina who came in for their share of the greetings and conversation. All are former teachers in Sacred Heart School.

Traveling with them, enroute to Rhineland to attend that community's 75th jubilee celebration was Sister Cynthia Fisher who visited members of her family. All had been stationed at Rhineland at various times and Sister Geraldine is a Rhineland native. Her mother and other family members, the Homers, still live there.

Before leaving Saturday after early Mass the nuns had an opportunity to see and talk with other friends at church.

More than 500 guests were invited to share the festivities and jubilee Mass Sunday with residents of Rhineland. The community's distinguished landmark is its Gothic-style church, St. Joseph's, said to be the only one of its type in the U.S.

Bishop John Cassata of the Diocese of Fort Worth was celebrant of the Mass at 5 p.m. and Father John Walbe of Fort Worth, former pastor, was jubilee speaker. The celebration committee was headed by P. F. Homer. A catered dinner and evening festivities followed the jubilee Mass.

On their return trip Monday the nuns stopped here long enough for lunch at the convent and for Sister Bertha to make a television appearance, on the local channel. The four were accompanied to Muenster by Sister Piata, a Rhineland native, who remained here overnight and went to Lake Arthur, La., Tuesday morning.

Nuns Star on TV Muenster Channel In Two Interviews

Muenster cable TV viewers have had two interesting programs presented by Sister Bertha and Sister Theresina. They were interviewed by Father Bede Mitchel who conducts a regular program each Monday night and occasionally adds surprise programs.

Such a surprise was an interview with Sister Bertha Monday, a half hour telecast from 1 to 1:30. She and a group of nuns were returning to Jonesboro, Ark., after attending the Rhineland jubilee celebration and stopped here long enough for lunch.

Sister Bertha skipped lunching with the nuns to appear with Father Bede. And she charmed her audience. It was a happy program of reminiscence, laughter and amusing anecdotes of early day school life in Sacred Heart Parish. She was second grade teacher for 30 years ending her assignment in 1942.

Sister Bertha who recently celebrated her diamond jubilee — a nun 60 years — will be 80 next April. She was on television for the first time and she performed like a professional.

In re-calling early - day school, teaching and students, Sister Bertha said her pupils had three books — reading, arithmetic and religion — and they were "as smart" as students are today. They had no outside attractions like radio and TV to distract them and they applied themselves more to their books. And when occasionally one needed a "strapping" it was administered without comment or complaint from parents.

She also recalled her trip to Switzerland, a gift from Muenster people, while she taught at Sacred Heart School, says she relives it every summer, and is forever grateful to all who made the trip possible.

The interview was videotaped and will be presented again on Channel 2 Monday, September 28, during the regular telecast.

Sister Theresina's interview the previous Monday was updated to modern times with high school life, teaching and students of today. Along with Father Bede she discussed audio visual aids, laboratories and science equipment available to students, also their attitudes, mod expressions, etc. She said she is delighted with her Sacred Heart High students with whom communication comes easy, who are genuinely interested in the subjects and eager to learn.

It was Sister Theresina's first appearance on television and if it disturbed her it didn't show.

Father Bede might well be Muenster's David Frost as an interviewer.

Three Hour Course In Aerodynamics Offered at CCJC

SH Cubs Lose 16-0 To Saint Jo Kids

Two big plays, one offensive and the other defensive, piled up most of the points in a 16-0 win by Saint Jo's Panther Kittens over the Sacred Heart Tiger Cubs Tuesday night. One of those plays was a pass to a receiver who caught it in the clear and kept going for a 45 yard touchdown. The other was a pass interception also caught in the clear with nothing but 30 yards of open space to the goal. In both cases the runner was not touched. Otherwise the contest was plain head knocking football in which the visitors made occasional short gains but were not able to keep going. The Sacred Heart kids played a good alert defensive game but made very little progress on offense. Other scoring by the Kittens came on a plunge for bonus points after the first touchdown and a safety near the end. With their backs to the goal the Cubs tried to pass but the quarterback was spilled behind the line. Top performers for Sacred Heart were Gary Fetsch, Kenny Walterscheid, Ricky Walterscheid and Karl Koesler.

Cooke, Montague Have Record Year In FHA Housing

Cooke and Montague Counties have just enjoyed a record year of homebuilding and home improvements through credit services of the Farmers Home Administration, the agency's County Supervisor, John D. Cunningham, said today.

Mr. Cunningham reported that $2,279,250.00 was channeled into the Cooke and Montague areas through 185 loans for better town and country housing during the fiscal year ended June 30. Loans the previous year totaled 107 for $1,140,600.00.

Farmers Home, a Department of Agriculture agency, supplements all other housing credit available in towns up to 5,500 population and the rural countryside. The loans provide better housing for an estimated 800 people in the area.

"The record for fiscal 1970 means that our housing service was fifty percent greater the past year," Mr. Cunningham said. "This uptrend was directly opposite to the general national downturn in housing activity."

Mr. Cunningham added that the year begun July 1 appears certain to topple the record set in fiscal year 1970. The agency is geared to virtually double its housing services again this year, with $1.4 billion in authority nationally to insure home loans for families of low and moderate income.

"Key to the program's rapid growth is a new position of equality for rural America in the nation's housing goal," Mr. Cunningham said. "Rural areas have half of the nation's bad housing, and they now have half of the nation's housing goal for the 1970's."

"We expect the sharp uptrend in rural housing to continue. In the Farmers Home Administration, we fully expect to do our part in bringing rural housing up to modern standards for every family."

Mr. Cunningham said progress in rural housing has been speeded up through new authorities put into effect by Farmers Home earlier this year. "We now make loans to rural homestead development organizations, and we work with rural builders to assure that homes they build on a multiple basis will meet quality standards for Farmers Home loan insurance."

The County Supervisor asserted that the rural housing program is "one of the main channels pouring private capital into rural community progress." Farmers Home Administration insured loans serve families or organizations unable to secure home financing through other sources.

Eligibility covers people of low and moderate income, including senior citizens, in rural towns of not more than 5,500 people, plus farm and nonfarm residents of the countryside. If a loan cannot be covered by a local lending institution, Farmers Home advances the loan from a revolving fund, then finds an investor elsewhere to take over the government-insured loan note.

Marysville News

By Mrs. John Richey

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davidson Friday were Mr. and Mrs. David Stewart of Cedar City, Utah, who spent about a week with the Davidson's son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roe at Callisburg. They were accompanied from Cedar City by their daughter Sharon.

Their other daughter Tilly had been visiting with the Roe family. Sharon remained and the two sisters are working in Sherman. The parents helped them get settled in living quarters in Whitesboro.

His wife is the former Rita Fette, daughter of Mrs. Herbie Herr of Gainesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doughty had their sons and families with them during the holiday weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Doughty and daughters of Eulless and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Doughty and children of Roanoke were weekend visitors. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Doughty and children of Valley View joined them to spend Labor Day. Jimmy and family also visited with her parents, the Joe Horns at Muenster.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Houtchens had a weekend holiday guests their daughter and son-in-law, the T. L. Kirkpatrick and children Debbie, Dede and Darren of Wichita Falls and together they went to Saint Jo to spend the time at the ranch home of the Houtchens' son Doug Houtchens and family while Doug and his wife took a short vacation trip to Riodoso, N. M. The grandparents and the Wichita stayed with the couple's children Bethann, Chris and Casey. The Kirkpatrick returned home Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Houtchens returned home Tuesday.

Oceanic Exhibit Will Be Feature Of '70 State Fair

"Journey to the Bottom of the Sea," and "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" may have been just fantasies of man's imagination once but today some of the vessels and even some of the underwater buildings used in these stories are proving to be more than just fantasies.

The Oceanus exhibit at the 1970 State Fair of Texas will be co-sponsored by Texas A & M University and will have some of these not-so-far-out exhibits from Oct. 10-25 in Dallas. The theme for this year's fair — "Exposition of the Seven Seas" — had a lot of bearing on the idea for the Oceanus exhibit.

Oceanus is really an exhibit about oceanography, with exhibits from the Navy, the Department of Interior, the National Geographic Society, the National Science Foundation, Armco Steel, the Energy Research and Education Foundation and many others. It's a free, educational, walk-through exhibit with special lighting and sound effects to simulate being under the sea. It will be in the New Dimensions Pavilion.

The Navy exhibit will include showing what is contained in one cubic mile of sea water and what they are doing in oceanography in the way of geographic studies of the ocean floor.

Sun Tips

Upon first exposure to the sun this summer, use your skin coloring as a guide. Those with fair skin should limit their first exposure to no more than 15 to 20 minutes of sun per side. Exposure may be increased by about one-third each day. The sun's rays are most intense between noon and 3 p.m.

Nosebleeds

Nosebleeds can occur at any age but are quite common in children. Often caused by an ordinary blow to the nose or a fall, nosebleeds can usually be stopped by having the victim sit up, and tilt his head back while applying cold, wet towels over the face, nose and back of the head and neck. Minor nosebleeds can also be stopped by pinching the nostrils together. The victim should be kept quiet and should breathe through his mouth. If bleeding is severe or prolonged, a physician should be consulted.

Ear Wax

Accumulated wax in the external ear canal is a normal secretion intended to protect inner portions of the ear from moisture, insects, and other foreign objects that might produce damage. To remove wax, periodically wipe the outer portions of the ear canal with a piece of damp cloth. Avoid using sharp instruments which can damage the ear drum. Ear wax may also be softened with a drop of olive oil or mineral oil, or may be flushed out with a gentle stream of water.

Education Foundation representing the oil industry will display modern surface vessels and under sea drilling rigs.

The National Geographic Society will have two transparencies projected on screens of maps of the ocean floors.

The National Science Foundation's Glomar Challenger is a deep sea drilling project which is taking core samples of the ocean floor.

There will be a mock-up of Seacliff Turtle — at 1/4 scale — a small exploratory submarine. People will be able to walk in the mock-up and see how it steers and other things about the submarine.

Armco Steel will present futuristic designs by students of various universities of vessels, underwater hotels and even underwater cities.

So it seems from what the Oceanus exhibit at the Fair has to offer that the fantasies of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" aren't so fantastic after all.

Point Well Taken

The president of San Francisco State College, Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, offers criticism of television programming that deserves the most serious thought of every journalist—editorial writer, news commentator or reporter. "The other day," says Dr. Hayakawa, "I saw, to my great horror, that Stokely Carmichael was given an hour interview on one of the networks. They had to go to Algiers to pick him up and interview him, when there are distinguished people like Andrew Brimmer, the first Negro to serve as a governor of the Federal Reserve Board... who is any one week doing more for the advancement of not only the Negro cause but the advancement of all of us in general, than Stokely Carmichael will ever do in his lifetime... In a similar way, I keep thinking of all the conscientious and wonderful students who have kept out of trouble, who go to classes, who study, who — when the uproar is going on — are in the library researching Elizabethan literature, or doing chemistry experiments, or something, and they don't get on the networks." San Francisco State's out-spoken president makes a point that is well taken.

Food, the Key to U. S. Peace

The key to the war in Cambodia, as the key to the war in Vietnam, is the food supply.

When peasants stop farming to take up arms, they must obtain their food from some other source.

Where does the enemy in Vietnam and Cambodia receive its food?

That is the crucial question. That is the question upon which your son's life may depend.

Does the enemy's food supply come from the Soviet Union?

That can't be for the USSR is a net importer of foodstuffs. With the richest soil in the world, the Soviet Union never has been able to grow enough grains to supply its own population.

Does the enemy's food supply come from Red China?

Can't be, the Chinese population is barely able to subsist.

Where, then, from behind the Iron Curtain, does the enemy forces derive their bodily sustenance?

The answer is that not all the Iron Curtain countries put together produce enough food to sustain a war. The truth is that virtually all the surplus food moving in the world market today is produced outside the Iron Curtain, in the free world area.

Who are the producers? Three countries account for practically all of it.

These countries are Australia, Canada and the United States.

Does this mean that Australia, Canada, and the United States are supplying the foodstuffs that keep the enemy going in Vietnam and Cambodia?

That's precisely what it means.

Why does our government allow this?

We cannot tell you why. The nearest we can come to solving the puzzle is to say

The wealthy and snobbish society matron confided in an equally wealthy and snobbish friend that she wanted to enter her poodle in a local dog show.

"I don't really care whether he wins or not," the matron said, "but I am most anxious for him to meet some nice dogs."

Not one president from Eisenhower to Nixon, inclusive, has suggested putting a stop to traffic in this particular type of war material.

The inescapable conclusion is that the president considers it cheaper to spend American blood rather than to expose the East-West traffic in food.

Some presidents saw their own kind exposed to the hazard of the combat zone, but still would not turn the one key that could shut off the fighting.

That is a measure of the brutality of politics. — Anaheim, Calif., Bulletin

Edison's Incandescent Light Bulb

Chicago's Columbian Exposition became the first major test for electricity as once dimmed midway and exhibitions became illuminated. However, resulting fire damage initiated a concerned Chicago Board of Fire Underwriters to call in an electrical investigator from Boston — William Henry Merrill. Merrill's intensive investigations led to the discovery of the abounding hazards in electricity that were capable of not only destroying property but life as well. Realization of these hazards and the need to inform an unaware public prompted Merrill to remain in Chicago and found Underwriters' Laboratories.

A desperate need by a burgeoning electrical industry for a set of safety standards resulted in a wide acceptance of Underwriters' testing procedures and the beginning of a long public service record. By 1900 the Laboratories had already expanded and were recognized as an authority on fire prevention. World War I, the war to end war, exploded upon the public scene and Underwriters' began its first steps into diversification. Testing procedures were expanded to include such items as underwater acetylene torches and flame arrestors in ammunition plants.

Since the beginning days of the first world war, the Laboratories began to realize a tremendous growth. Underwriters' engineers became involved in testing of every conceivable product from airplanes and safes to shatterproof glass. No longer was it necessary to convince industry of the Laboratories' service. Industry and government came to Underwriters', for they realized the essential part UL plays in safety.

In looking toward the future, Underwriters' Laboratories knows that public safety is a serious business. Progressing complexities of a space have all contributed to the creation of the most significant hazards to human life in history. They have also created the greatest challenge for a "safety sentinel" to test, establish and maintain the highest level of standards possible in order that accidental loss of life can be held to a minimum.

Underwriters' Laboratories, a non-profit organization testing for public safety, has been accepting that challenge for the past 75 years and will continue to do so as long as there remains a potential in any product for property damage and personal injury or death.

In maintaining its policies as a public service organization, the Laboratories is initiating a series of informative articles. Every article will be directed at enlightening the reader of the many aspects of safety and the part UL plays therein. Underwriters' also extends an invitation for suggested safety topics of interest to the reader. Requests having greatest significance will be selected and ultimately appear as an article. Address requests to: Public Information Office, Underwriters' Laboratories, 207 E. Ohio St., Chicago, Illinois 60611.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

by Eual Davis

How much hay can you buy this winter for $3.00? Three bales of good hay or four bales of poor hay. On the other hand if you took that same $3.00, bought 100 pounds of amonia nitrate, (33-0-0) and put this on one acre of Bermudagrass right after a good rain it could produce a ton or more of top quality forage before frost. Besides this, grass has been scarce this year and many pastures have nothing left for winter grazing. You can buy it or raise it. Can you think of any better reasons for fertilizing your pasture this fall?

Full fertilization is also a good practice to carry out on those home lawns. If you have any questions about a fertilization program on your lawn, just write me a card: Jack Davis, Box 130, Muenster, Texas 76252 or call me at 759-2515. We are ready to help.

One cause of pollution is soil erosion from unprotected cropland fields. If a front-end loader moved into your best cropland field and began to remove from 5 to 10 tons of good soil per acre you would be up in arms. If this same 5 to 10 tons of soil was taken to a nearby public stream and dumped in there would be howls of protest from lots of people. Yet this very thing happens on unprotected cropland every time we have a heavy rain.

The Soil Conservation Service can help you solve your erosion and pollution problems.

Land owners who are planning to plant grass in 1971 should begin seedbed preparation as soon as possible.

If your soil has good moisture you can start planting winter legumes. Good moisture is especially needed if legumes are overseeded on Bermudagrass. The Bermuda will also grow well until frost and use much of the moisture.
