VOLUME XXXVII

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 FEBRUARY 9, 1973

NUMBER 12

Congressman Omar Burleson's report this week states that Dr. Henry Kissinger has assured Congress that U.S. made no commitment to help rebuild war damages in North Vietnam, but adds that Kissinger will go to Hanoi in a few days, and there is no doubt that this will be the principal subject of discussion.

That remark is disappointing, to put it mildly. The fact that we are willing to talk about it indicates that we have not ruled out the possibility of helping our former enemy clean up his mess. Apparently they want us to pay for bomb damage inflicted, just as we helped Japan and West Germany after World War II. And indications just now are that we are likely to do it.

As this column sees it, such help is both an economic and a moral blunder. Considering our already overburdened budget and our national debt, it's most obvious that we can't afford to take on any more obligations. American taxpayers already have more than enough load to carry. And they certainly have no moral obligation to help clean up a mess for which the Hanoi regime itself is completely responsible.

The communists of North Vietnam originally caused the war when they created the Viet Cong movement in the South, and they were equally guilty when they sent their regular troops south in support of the infiltrators. Later they ignored clear warning that US and Saigon would strike back if Hanoi persisted in its attacks. The Reds could have ended the bombing simply by ending their aggression. The damages sustained by them can and should be charged completely to them.

Along with all that we have to consider the friends we supported through the war. They need help even more than the Reds do, and they also deserve it much more. They were the victims of brutal aggression resulting in far greater damage than the North sustained. And furthermore, unlike the Reds, they were helpless to stop the attacks whereas the Reds always had the option of calling off any hostilities to themselves.

This column hopes very strongly that American foreign aid will be diverted from a lot of countries that no longer need it and will be concentrated in South Vietnam where it is both deserved and desperately needed. But aid to the red monsters of Hanoi is completely unjustified.

Furthermore we're inclined to wonder what Hanoi's gallant Red allies, the Soviets and the Chinese, are doing about helping out. After all they too were involved in the war. Russia sent the supplies and China the troops in support of North Vietnam. One might say that the two big Reds were in cahoots using the Vietnamese in a conspiracy of indirect aggression against the United States. They had an obvious reason for escalating and prolonging an American war half way around the world. They expected the economic strain to help bring about an American breakdown, which has been their objective for many years.

Well, let's continue alliances in peace as they were in war. Let China and Russia help the North Vietnamese while United States helps the South Vietnamese.

Another point to consider while the Reds are asking for favors is the occupation by their troops of a part of South Vietnam. It indicates an intention to continue the effort to take over South Vietnam. What possible reason can we have to cultivate the friendship of people like that?

Good news about the peace is President Nixon's refusal to grant amnesty to the draft dodgers. With complete justification he says that they have the choice of coming home to face prosecution or staying away if they can find themselves welcome elsewhere. Nixon doesn't go for the forgive and forget line that some are preaching. Nor does he approve a hitch in the Peace Corps as a satisfactory make-up of the service that was evaded.

To do that would be a mockery of all who conscientiously did their duty, especially those who were killed or disabled. The mere thought of

Elm Red District Names Winners In Essay Contest

J. H. Bayer, chairman of the board of directors of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District, announced winners of the 13th Annual Essay Writing Contest today. They are Terry Cobb of Prairie Valley High School, first; Richard Coddell of Callisburg High School, second; and Barbara Davidson of Muenster High School, third.

Bayer said that the board received 197 entries from ten schools of the district and competition was keen among the top entries. "This is great participation," he added, "and we are thankful to all who took a part in the contest."

The Soil and Water Conservation District Board will present awards to the winners within the next few days which will be $15.00 for first, $10.00 for second, and $5.00 for third place. Judges for the contest were Lee Putnam, Soil Scientist with the Soil Conservation Service, Bill King, Sports Editor of the Gainesville Daily Register, and T. H. Dick, Superintendent of the Era High School.

Bayer expressed his appreciation to all the vocational agriculture teachers, English teachers, school superintendents, county agents, and others who encouraged and assisted high school students in the preparation of these essays. Each student who entered the contest and prepared an essay has been benefited whether he or she was a winner or not. The knowledge and use of soil and water conservation is something everyone needs to know and use in his daily living. The 1973 essay subject was, "Natural Resources - Meeting the Needs of People."

Burglars Strike At Palace Drug

No clues had been uncovered this week in the burglary last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning at Joe Trachta's Palace Drug. Missing are about $300 worth of wrist watches and about $20 in cash.

A thief or thieves entered the building through the front door after breaking the lock, then broke the lock on the plate glass show case containing the watches. Repairs to the door and case will up the loss. The cash register was not locked.

Trachta found the front door open when he went to the drug store between six and six-thirty a.m., his usual opening time.

Weekend Campout Beside Red River Booked for Scouts

A long awaited weekend campout has almost arrived for the Muenster Boy Scout troop. On Saturday, if weather permits, they will go to their Red River campsite on the Bartush Ranch for a day and a half of outdoor life. They will prepare their own meals, sleep out, work on merit badge projects and explore the area.

Closing event of the campout is a field mass with Father Leonard Wangler as celebrant at 12:15 Sunday. Families of the boys are invited to join them at the service and also to bring along food for a picnic dinner.

Scoutmaster Eual Davis said boys will gather at the KC hall at 8:30 Saturday and parents who can spare the time are asked to help provide transportation to the knoll overlooking the campsite. Coming home the next day boys can ride with adult visitors.

Gossip is like mud thrown against a clean wall, it may not stick but it leaves a mark.

Davidson, Trachta Receive Degrees

Wayne R. Trachta and Margaret Ann Davidson were among 859 candidates receiving degrees at North Texas State University, Denton, in the winter graduation.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trachta, Wayne was awarded a bachelor of business administration degree in banking and finance.

Miss Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Davidson, route 1, received a master of education degree in elementary education.

No formal commencement ceremony was held but all winter graduates are invited to join in the spring ceremonies May 19 at the university.

MHS Teams Lose 2 Games Each to Nocona and Frisco

The past week was a tough one for Charles Cash and his MHS basketball teams. The boys and girls lost a double header to Nocona on the local court last Friday and A and B boys teams lost at Frisco Tuesday night.

As a result of the loss the girls closed out their season sharing second place with Frisco. Both of them have four losses. The winner is Patrolia with one loss. Pilot Point and Nocona share fourth and fifth, Sanger is sixth and Callisburg is at the bottom.

Cold performance and foul troubles were the girls' big troubles in the Nocona contest. Four guards and a forward fouled out whereas none did for Nocona. As a result the visitors got 36 free throws, and made 19, while Muenster got 18 free tries, and made 14.

The lead changed several times with Muenster ahead 23-21 at the first quarter, behind 39-35 at the half, ahead again 49-46 at the third and behind 63-60 at the end. Doris Felderhoff hit 37, Becky Fields 19, Deb Schneider 4.

The Hornets had similar troubles with fouls and bad shooting while the Indians were sharp, and the end result was 76-47 for Nocona. Three Muenster boys fouled out. Nocona got 29 free shots and hit 18, Muenster got 10 and hit 9.

After an ice cold first quarter the Hornets trailed 23-6 but played it fairly close the rest of the way. Tom Otto led the scoring with 16, Robert Johnson added 14, Mark Lippe 7, Lyle Klement 4, Ronnie Felderhoff and Joe Bright each 2.

The margin of loss again was 29 as the Hornets lost 81-52 at Frisco and foul trouble also was a factor again. The Coons made 15 of 31 free throws, the Hornets made 10 of 16.

Muenster trailed 20-15 at the first quarter and 47-17 after a sad second quarter. After that Muenster gained a single point.

Robert Johnson made 21, Robert Lippe 15, Randy Wolf 6, Tom Hennigan 4, Lyle Klement 2, Joe Bright 2, Ronnie Felderhoff 2.

The game was preceded by a boys B contest, also won by Frisco. The score was 27-18, Tim Felderhoff hit 9, Danny Endres 4, Bobby Endres 2, Glenn Henscheid 2, Kenny Koelzer 1.

The season will end for the Hornets Friday night when the A and B teams entertain undefeated Petrolia.

Cattlemen Will Meet Friday to Discuss Rustling

Cooke County cattlemen will meet Friday night to discuss problems related to modern day cattle rustling. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce building in Gainesville, and area cattlemen are urged to attend.

County Sheriff Bill Pratt and Don King, Executive Vice President, Texas and Southwestern Cattlemen's Assn., will present the program on possible solutions to the increasing menace.

Modern day cattle rustlers are picking on small calves which are unmarked and can be abducted and hauled in automobiles. These calves, which a few years ago were worth little, are sometimes bringing $75 each on today's market. A rash of incidents have been reported recently. These incidents prompted the Agriculture Committee of the Gainesville Area Chamber of Commerce to seek ways of squelching the current activities.

The meeting is free of charge and is a part of a series of programs to be presented this year in an effort to provide Cooke Countians with up-to-date farming and ranching information and methods.

That makes a total of eleven games for the Tigers, eight at home and three away. Listed in order they are Sadler-Southmayd, Gunter, Aubrey, Kingston, Okla. (there), Trinity Christian, Callisburg, Lake Worth Jr. Varsity (there), Cistercian, Dickson, Okla. (there), Bowie Jr. Varsity, Southfield.

The Tigers next season will have nine offensive and nine defensive starters back in the lineup.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
 I was just wondering why the city does not fix that hole in front of the city hall. With all the city employees it seems to me that they could find time to fix that hole. They have the time to drive up and down the streets all day long.

Dear Editor,
 I am writing concerning the letter about dogs published earlier.
 If there are too many dogs in this town let the city take care of it and don't take it into your own hands. Too many dogs that are owned are killed without reason. If a dog is hanging around your house and you have a female dog don't kill it or fuss about it because it's probably your own fault. The city will pick up strays that come around your house if you report them, but don't worry about the $1.00 fee for picking the dog up.

Some people would rather poison a dog or shoot it before calling for the city personnel to pick it up. This is wrong unless the dog is a stray.

However, poisoning and shooting a dog are two distinct things. Shooting if done right gives the dog little pain, but poisoning is constant pain.

Poisoning a dog is a sin and against the law. People can be reported to the Humane Society and fined. When a dog gets poisoned its a terrible and slow death. The dog, after getting poison intended for another dog, eats the poison that is usually in meat of some kind. After the dog eats the meat later on a cutting pain enters the stomach. This pain is from the poison eating out stomach, intestines and getting into the bloodstream. The dog rolls around on the ground in writhing pain that lasts for up to several hours. It may have convulsions that almost smother it, that later ends only to let him live and suffer longer. The pain gets so bad the dog can hardly stand up. He whimpers and whines until it's all over. To see a dog that you have spent money on and become attached to die, is another horrible thing.

If poisoning a dog or any other animal ever comes to your mind, even though it's a dumb animal, it's God's creation, and deserves some respect and kindness. Put yourself in its place.

Letter received by an elementary teacher: "Please never hit our Louis again. He's a delicate, sensitive boy and not used to corporal punishment. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

UN Refuses to Combat Terrorism

Once again the United Nations has refused to act to reduce violence in the world, and this time not by a veto of the Soviet Government, but by a vote of 74-34, with 16 abstentions and five absent, in the General Assembly's Legal Committee. The committee comprises the entire membership of the U. N.

It put aside a proposal that would enable the U. N. to take effective action against terrorism — air hijackings and massacres such as those at Tel Aviv by Japanese Terrorists and in Germany at the Olympic games by Arab extremists.

As Mr. Marx Lewis, Chairman of the Council Against Communist Aggression remarked, "That the communists should reject even a relatively innocuous resolution to combat the use of terrorism is understandable. They have used terror as an instrument of policy throughout their history. The communist rulers find assassination, kidnapping, bombing, and destruction necessary in countries they now seek to conquer."

"But while their position and the position of their allies in defeating the resolutions is understandable, what is inconceivable is that the U. N., by a vote of about two to one, supports the Communist position."

U. S. Economy And Debt Boom

The U. S. economy and the U. S. Treasury debt both boomed to record highs in 1972. The gross national product (the total value of goods produced and services rendered) climbed by about $115 billion to a total of roughly $1,190 billion (read one trillion one hundred and ninety billion dollars). In 1971 the GNP just topped one trillion by 78 billion. The real gain, deducting inflation, was something over 6 per cent. Personal income in 1972 rose more than $74 billion, an amount that is larger than the entire economy of most of the nations of the world.

At the same time, the indebtedness of the United States Government, at home and abroad, has zoomed to more than $439 billion by May of 1972, and the debt to foreign bankers had reached more than $9 billion, or more than 11 per cent of the total. In three years the U. S. debt had grown by $71 billion, so that America, for many years the world's greatest creditor nation, was rapidly turning to foreign countries to make up deficits in its domestic spending. Gold is no longer the final arbiter of international trade and financial transactions. But the rise in the price of gold at one point in 1972 - to $71 an ounce - suggests the measure of the dollar's problems. In spite of the introduction of "paper gold" to spur world trade and surmount the scarcity of the precious metal, gold still has a say in economic and financial affairs. And it says that the dollar has been visibly stretched.

The warning is clear, we must get away from deficit spending as a way of life. Deficit spending is the medicine of sick economies, not the food and drink of healthy nations, and our nation is still healthy. Not altogether strong, but still healthy. But how long will we stay healthy if we continue to overspend?

We Pay It All

Figures on income tax returns and statistics of income for the year 1970 published by the Internal Revenue Service go a long way toward wiping out the old myth that all the wants of society can be met by merely taxing the rich.

Persons with incomes below $25,000 constituted 97.2 percent of all individual taxpayers. They filed 72.2 million returns, representing $542 billion of adjusted gross income or 85.5 percent of the nation's total gross income. It is these taxpayers who pay the vast bulk of the cost of government. There were 624 tax returns reporting $1 million or over of adjusted gross income or 1/1200 of one percent of the returns filed. This 1/1200 of one percent represents the mythical rich that politicians talk so much about taxing to pay for all of the governmental frills which, in the end, are loaded onto the backs of average taxpayers — either in direct taxes or higher prices for goods and services.

Noted & Passed

Carroll Fey, Editor of the Edgerton (Minnesota) Enterprise passes on what he terms "the best story in the neighborhood": Seems that a young divorcee, one Marilyn X, was taking a bath the other day when the doorbell rang. When she called out to find out who it was, a male voice replied; "Blind man." Being in a hurry, she saw no need to get dressed. But when she opened the door, there stood a delivery man asking, "Where do you want the venetian blinds, lady?"

People Must Share Costs

The roster of communities beginning to feel the economic bite of pollution control is growing. As it grows, public realization will grow that achieving a clean environment entails, public responsibility, as well as the private obligation of businesses and industries. The Asheville, North Carolina, Times reports on the closing of a manufacturing operation in Massachusetts. The plant could not afford to build a $500,000 private waste treatment plant nor could it join in a municipal sewage treatment project because the town is served only by septic tanks, and the citizens have resisted municipal sewage treatment since 1943. As a result, the town lost an $800,000-a-year payroll. As the Times points out, the payroll of the plant could have been saved with "... a little cooperation from the taxpayers in the form of a bond issue to build a municipal sewage treatment plant. . . ."

When any business is forced to close for environmental reasons, opportunities, jobs and tax revenue go down the drain. This is the price that must be paid when the public fails to accept its share of the responsibility for meeting the environmental clean-up bill.

Never Daunted

Once upon a time a small-town businessman went broke and closed his doors. That was in '31. Trying his hand at politics, he was defeated for the legislature in '32. Two years later he failed again in business. He lost his sweetheart by death in '35, and had a nervous breakdown in '36. He lost another bid for election in '40.

By '43 he tried for Congress and was defeated. All these failures and disappointments no doubt were discouraging, but he never gave up. He ran for the United States senate again in '55 and '58 — and lost.

In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected President of the United States.

It pays to advertise with the Muenster Enterprise.

Sulfur dioxide is produced naturally by volcanoes such as this one in the Philippines.

It's been with us from the days when the earth was young to the present, escaping from deep in the earth through volcanoes and mineral springs.

It is a simple little molecule composed of one atom of sulfur and two atoms of oxygen. But it's causing a lot of confusion and controversy these days. Sulfur dioxide is being made to appear as a frightening villain in much of the current environmental concern and talk of pollution. Actually, about two-thirds of the sulfur in the atmosphere comes from natural sources; only one-third results from the activities of man. The useful purposes of sulfur dioxide are frequently overlooked.

Sulfur dioxide is used to keep drying fruits from fermenting and to preserve foods for canning. And a recent report from the Grassland Research Institute of London, England points out that if it weren't for sulfur dioxide "pollution" of the atmosphere, grass would not grow in many areas where the soil is deficient in sulfur. Sulfur dioxide helps correct the chemical balance of alkali soils and reacts with other soil constituents to release important nutrient elements for use by growing plants. That one atom of sulfur in each molecule of SO₂ is an element essential to all plant and animal life.

Sulfur got its first bad publicity as the "brimstone" of the Bible. But it and its compounds are used universally both as direct and indirect plant foods, as well as in a staggering variety of industrial applications.

Industrially, sulfur dioxide is produced by electric power generating plants; copper, lead and zinc smelters; and other industrial processes. While SO₂ is only one of many contaminants in urban atmospheres, it, like any other, must be controlled where concentrations might reach objectionable levels.

One company started working more than half a century ago to minimize this and other pollution problems. In 1907 American Smelting and Refining Company was the first in the world to install an electrostatic precipitator, a new device invented by Frederick Gardner Cottrell which captures 97% of even the tiniest particles of solid material from smokestack gases before they can escape into the air. This precipitator was installed at ASARCO's Garfield, Utah operation. This device and other types of precipitate collectors have long since been used by all ASARCO's smelters. The precipitator has also been adopted by many other companies and industries since its development.

In 1928 an ASARCO scientist, Dr. M. D. Thomas, came up with an invention to continuously detect, measure and record minute quantities of sulfur dioxide in the atmosphere. Now used in the "closed-loop system" of pollution control, this autometer signals a smelter to shut down when the amount of sulfur dioxide in the air reaches a certain pre-determined level. ASARCO believes this system of control can protect our health and safety until engineers and technicians have been able to develop more efficient methods of controlling sulfur dioxide emissions.

SH Children in Special Liturgy Of Holy Childhood

Forty-two students of Sacred Heart Grade School were inducted into the Holy Childhood Association, Friday, February 2, in Sacred Heart Church with Father Placidus Eckart, pastor, officiating at the 8 a.m. ceremony. Blessed medals were presented by Father Placidus to the students as they were enrolled into the association.

The Holy Childhood Association is the only Pontifical Mission-Aid Society in the Church for children. It has provided extensive support for Mission Children during the past 130 years. The Association was begun in Muenster in 1895. For the past 78 years, the association has been active in Sacred Heart Parish. Pope Paul VI requests that all children become active members of the Holy Childhood and thereby take part in the basic mission of the Church, namely, to bring salvation to all men.

The liturgy for the ceremony was combined with Candlemas Day, February 2, which commemorates the Christ Child's presentation in the temple, 40 days after His birth.

Two students from each class received blessed candles from Father Placidus and they encircled the lectern, holding their lighted candles, as Father Placidus read the Gospel of the Mass. Receiving the candles and representing their respective classes were: Bryan Hoenig and Pam Hermes, first grade; Gregory Luke and Rene Rohmer, second grade, Sharon Voth and Tim Schneider, third grade, Monte Endres and Colleen Fette, fourth grade; Brian Bindel and Rhonda Endres, fifth grade; and Karla Sickling and Kent Fuhrman, sixth grade. Reading the liturgy service were Bert Hesse, Terry Knabe, Brenda Henscheid, Jesse Walterscheid, and Tina Hesse. During the prayers of the Faithful, six petitions were presented, one for each of the six grades.

Greg Gieb lead the Offertory procession carrying the Christ candle. He was followed by Troy Yosten carrying the Holy Childhood banner. Seventy-four students then presented the names they had chosen for a pagan baby that they spiritually adopted thru their prayers and almsgiving.

A donation toward the new bus fund was presented in the name of the school by Phil Walterscheid. Others taking part in the Offertory procession were Chris Rohmer, Donnie Lutkenhaus, Steve Hennigan, and Tim Hermes. The 12 candle bearers escorted the students to the Altar.

Hymns for the service were: "Come, Lord Jesus" for the entrance; "Whatsoever You Do" for the Offertory; "The Blessed Sacrament Song" for Holy Communion; "And I Will Follow" for the recessional.

Sister Lenore, religion teacher, prepared the students for the liturgy service.

Herbert Sickings Newlyweds, Make Home in Muenster

Miss JoAnn Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Richardson of Rosston, and Herbert Sickling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sickling of Muenster, were married Thursday, Feb. 1, in Sacred Heart Church in a double ring ceremony by Father Placidus Eckart, pastor.

Presented by her father, the bride wore a gown she designed and her grandmother, Mrs. Edith Richardson, made. The white peau de soie floor-length gown had Alencon lace enhancing the empire bodice, long sleeves, high neckline, skirt front and chapel train. A Juliet cap with beaded-lace trim held her elbow-length veil.

She carried a white orchid with white satin streamers atop a Bible borrowed from her grandmother, Mrs. Forrest Raney of Rosston.

For something old she wore on her right hand a gold wedding band belonging to her great-grandmother, Mrs. Maude DeBorde of Gainesville. It was worn also by Mrs. DeBorde's mother over 96 years ago. The couple's matching wedding rings are identical to the antique band.

The bride carried her birth date penny in her shoe and wore a gold locket, a gift from the groom.

Miss Kathy Sluder of Era, maid of honor, wore a green and blue floral gown with empire bodice and long sleeves with green ribbon trim. She carried two long-stemmed carnations of blue and green.

Wayne Sickling of Arlington attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Don Richardson and Allan Sickling, brothers of the couple.

Sister Yvonne Lerner, organist, accompanied soloist Betsy Watts who sang "Let It Be Me" before the ceremony, "One Hand, One Heart" after the testament reading and "The Lord's Prayer" at the end of the ceremony.

A dinner followed in Rohmer's Restaurant for the families and wedding party. Miss Norma Jean Richardson, sister of the bride, registered the 32 guests. Punch and wedding cake were served by Misses Denise Beal of Era, Donna Sickling, sister of the groom, and Cathy Ford of Rosston.

Muenster will be home for the newlyweds. She is a graduate of Era High and is a sophomore at Cooke County Junior College. She was a part time employee at Muenster's Hillhaven Manor Nursing Home.

The groom is a graduate of Muenster High School, served in the US Army, with overseas duty in Germany, attended CCJC and the University of Texas at Arlington.

Braniff Airline Honors Hoenig for Excellent Record

Rupert A. Hoenig, a supervisor in quality control for Braniff International's Maintenance Division, has been named "maintenance man of the month" from the airline's entire maintenance personnel roster. He was a guest of honor at a luncheon party attended by the airline's top officers. His picture will be added to the distinguished maintenance employee gallery in the lobby of Braniff's Maintenance Base at Love Field.

Hoenig was cited for his excellent record with the airline and his expertise on the job. Starting with the airline as a mechanic in 1954, he has risen through the ranks to inspector and his current key assignment as inspector supervisor.

"Because of his thorough knowledge of the jet aircraft, and his keen concern for safety, cost and schedule, he is constantly on call by other management personnel for assistance. This was recently demonstrated when he helped resolve a corrosion problem on one of the aircraft, guiding a team of mechanics to a successful rework of the jet.

Hoenig, who resides in Carrollton (1821 Tartan), with his wife Imogene and their nine children (ranging in age from 18 years to five months) is a native of Muenster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hoenig. He was a staff sergeant with the U. S. Air Force for four years before joining Braniff in Dec. 1954.

He has been a Little League Baseball coach in Carrollton for the past four years; served as umpire for 2 years; and helped organize and has served the local Pee Wee Football League for the past six years. He is a member of the Mary Immaculate Catholic Church in Farmers Branch.

What Does "Totalled" Really Mean?

By Larry Schwartz

The approaching car suddenly went out of control. There was nothing you could do to avoid the impending crash. It was a real "smash up", as they say.

Your insurance company unhesitatingly declared the automobile a total loss. Adjustors said it would cost entirely too much for repairs. Finally, the wreck was towed to the junkyard.

Is this the ignoble end of your blue beauty with shiny vinyl top, the one car you truly loved? No — not really.

Before the battered frame is lifted by crane and dumped unfeelingly into hydraulic presses, a salvage team of mechanics will systematically strip the vehicle. Many basic components are thus saved for future use. Water pumps, fuel pumps, brake shoes, carburetor, clutch assembly, and the electrical parts, such as alternator, starter, generator, voltage regulator and distributor, can easily be remanufactured. And, surprisingly enough, remanufacturing of the components is performed in conformity with the original manufacturer's specifications.

Remanufactured automobile replacement parts are customarily recycled to large jobbers and warehouse distributors who in turn sell to the local garage and repair shop. Finally, these remanufactured parts once more resume the functions for which they were designed and first installed in new factory built cars.

Today, the remanufacturing of automotive parts is an industry that's growing larger every year, with present manufacturing revenues exceeding $500 million. Safeguard Automotive Corporation, headquartered at King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, is one of the leaders in the industry. The company remanufactures and recycles more than 25 million pounds of automotive parts annually.

What about recycled parts? Are they good as new? Can a car owner feel confident in them when his mechanic suggests remanufactured units? Or, should the owner purchase brand new unused parts at considerably more money?

According to Paul A. Lloyd, Safeguard Automotive president, the "best buy", in his opinion, would be remanufactured parts.

"For one thing, a remanufactured unit certainly costs much less and at no sacrifice in quality. Our engineers have developed special machines for testing quality of Safeguard's remanufactured parts. For example, compressed air is used to test remanufactured water pumps for water-tight integrity. We know that if our remanufactured water pump will hold air, it certainly will hold water."

Generally speaking, this same quality control manufacturing process is applied to all other recycled parts produced at any one of Safeguard's several modern plants across the country.

"Take auto break shoes, for example," Mr. Lloyd said. "We manufacture new linings for old shoes. There is nothing wrong with the old shoes that a good cleaning won't cure.

It's the lining that wears out and needs to be replaced. Why throw away a good old shoe? Why not take advantage of the fact that it's a perfectly usable part? Save and conserve, in essence, is the whole premise of the remanufactured automobile parts industry."

As the country's population rate continues to grow, so does the demand for automobiles. In 1971, total nationwide motor vehicle registration reached a whopping 110 million units. Based on these figures, the automobile replacement parts market might be considered huge. And, a sizable portion of this market is serviced with remanufactured, recycled parts.

Mr. Lloyd believes that the family auto becomes a candidate for replacement parts after its second year on the road. The average age of most automobiles on U.S. highways today is approximately five and one-half years. Cars grow older, parts wear out, hence the steady demand for both new and remanufactured replacements.

"In our business, we not only offer car owners less expensive, high quality replacement parts, we are also involved in the country's environmental clean-up campaign," Mr. Lloyd said. "It is our long-term aim to help eliminate those unsightly auto junkyards that continue to blot the landscape."

So, take a second look at the next car you see coming down the street. It just might be operating on those recycled parts Safeguard salvaged from the blue beauty with the shiny vinyl top.

Friendly Enemy

President Lincoln was once taken to task for his attitude toward his enemies.

"Why do you try to make friends of them? You know they will only be traitors. You should try to destroy them."

"Am I not destroying my enemies," Lincoln gently replied, "when I make them my friends? And a friend is never a traitor."

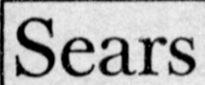

Because of its poorly developed nervous system, a fish probably experiences discomfort rather than actual pain when hooked.

Alcoholism is known as industry's $15 billion hangover, according to an industrial physician. This represents: $2 billion cost for health and welfare services; $3 billion in property damage, medical expense, workmen's compensation claims and insurance, and a $10 billion drain on the economy in lost work time — in addition to tens of thousands of personal tragedies.

Boston Marathon is Next Big Challenge to Tom Hess

At Denton on January 27, Tom Hess, a graduate student and familiar runner at North Texas State University, took a run around the north central Texas area to ready himself for this year's Boston Marathon.

The occasion was the running of the Second Annual USTFF-North Texas Marathon, and his performance was satisfactory. Tom ran the grueling 26 mile, 385-yard course with a stride and conviction none could match.

Leading by only a stride at the five-mile mark, Tom opened up a 1.2 mile lead by the 10-mile mark. From there on, his intensity and concentration was directed at one goal . . . "beating last year's winning time."

For Hess, who constantly picked his performance apart as he moved closer toward North Texas' Fouts Field Stadium and the finish line, the entire effort paid off. Nearly 8 minutes ahead of his nearest competitor, Tom crossed the finish line in 2 hours, 20 minutes, 43.8 seconds. The effort broke the 2 hour, 21 minute, 27 second time he set last year. Moreover, the victory sparked another incentive.

"I've looked at that Boston Marathon course and it doesn't have the number of hills and varied conditions of terrain this course has," he said.

The thought is not a new one to Tom, however. Ever since he began competing last fall, he has had the Boston Marathon on his mind.

"When the USTFF-Cross-Country Run was held in November, I had the feeling I would have to prepare myself for some important races," Tom said. "That race made me adjust myself since I came in 14th, but it also induced me to adopt a new training and diet program." That consisted of 10 to 12 miles daily of running and jogging and about 1400 calories of food a day.

"I'm in better shape than I've ever been, partly due to diet and the overall running I've been doing lately," Hess admitted.

Even second place finisher Paul Hoffmann, a sophomore transfer student at North Texas from Abilene Christian College who took 13th in the Olympic Marathon Trials last summer, agreed.

"Tom and I had worked on this one mentally and physically, but I couldn't keep his pace after five miles," Hoffmann said. "He had it all going for him as he started out quick, kept himself alert to what he had to do throughout the race, and deserved to finish with the best time."

Hess covered the first five miles in 26 minutes, 22 seconds. He improved the second five miles to 25 minutes, 38 seconds and trimmed that to 25 minutes, 7 seconds between the 10 and 15 mile mark. From there on, his closest competitor was a distant several minutes behind.

For Tom, who teaches while also attending graduate classes, the work was rewarding. A trophy, a plaque from the United States Track and Field Federation, and another victory shirt were awarded him following the race.

Giving out the awards and also pleased was Carl Babcock, head track coach at North Texas under whom Tom set the university's 3-mile record. He too speculated about Tom's future.

"He has been running more steadily than before with a more confident attitude now," Babcock said, "which should help save time in other races this year."

Behind him near the stands stood Winton "Pop" Noah, smiling approvingly as his understudy from five, four, and three years ago collected his mementos.

In the midst of it all, Tom had his mind on the future. He'll spend the next eight weeks at sharpening type work for the big run.

Following that tune-up period, Hess will travel to Dallas and the White Rock Marathon on March 3, then on to the big goal, the Boston Marathon on April 16.

High Quality Meat Assured by Texas Inspection Law

Texans can be assured that they constantly are receiving wholesome, high quality meat at their local food store.

The reason is that meat processing plants in Texas are doing the best job in history in supplying customers with top quality meat, contends Woodrow Bailey, livestock and meat specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Since the Texas Meat Inspection Law became effective in 1969, meat processing plants have made a lot of changes to meet the provisions of the law. Many have also gone out of business. More than 500 plants are now operating in the state under either state or federal inspection.

How do inspectors assure that customers have a high quality meat supply?

Bailey lists some of the functions of meat plant inspectors as follows:

1. Inspect all animals before slaughter to assure that they have no infections or diseases.
2. Examine animal organs and check all equipment used in dressing animals.
3. Examine water, salt, spice, sugar or other ingredients used in ground or chopped products.
4. Supervise cleaning and sanitizing of processing facilities and equipment each day.
5. Check processed products and their labels to assure that the information presented is correct.

To comply with the new inspection law, many plants have remodeled and new installations have been built, points out Bailey. However, since many plants have closed their doors, some communities now do not have a slaughtering facility.

The small community type plants that are now in operation are doing a lot of business and are making a profit. Bailey believes that opportunities for such plants are good in areas that do not have slaughter facilities.

The specialist adds that the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is interested in providing information and assistance to communities for meat processing plants. He suggests that interested parties contact the local county Extension office for further details.

Judge to accused: "Do you know the difference between unlawful and illegal?"

"Yes, judge. Unlawful is something that's against the law. Illegal is a sick bird."

Papal Medal Is Presented Kin of Cooke Countians

Miss Loretta Stehling of Notre Dame Catholic Parish of Kerrville has received the papal medal "Pro Ecclesia et Pontific" from Pope Paul VI. Ceremonies of presentation were held Sunday in San Fernando Cathedral in San Antonio.

Miss Stehling is a niece of Mrs. Ben Weber of Gainesville and has many other relatives and friends in Cooke County. She is a niece of the late Mrs. Tony Otto of Muenster.

Word of her being chosen for the honor came from the Most Rev. Francis J. Furey, Archbishop of San Antonio and stated "... His Holiness Pope Paul VI has directed me to bestow on you the papal medal "Pro Ecclesia et Pontific" together with an appropriate diploma. This honor is being given you for your outstanding contribution to the Church both by word and example."

"Dad, I've got my first part in a play," said the young would-be actor. "I play a man who's been married 20 years." "That's fine, son," replied the father. "Next time you might even get a speaking part."

Denton NCCW to Host N. Deanery Meeting Feb. 15

Members of Denton National Council of Catholic Women will host the quarterly meeting of the North Deanery NCCW next Thursday, Feb. 15, and have invited Muenster women to attend.

Business will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 12 noon in the Parish Center of Mary Immaculate Parish on Bolivar Street.

Father Joseph Schumacher, host pastor, will give the program on modern methods of treating criminal offenders. He will show slides and provide commentary.

Women attending are being asked to take along a sandwich. Denton women will provide coffee and dessert.

Muenster members wishing to attend may call Mrs. Steve Moster or Mrs. Paul Fisher for transportation.

One of the common factors in success stories is the alarm clock.

Overheard at the Houston Intercontinental Airport: "We're going to put up a REAL skyscraper in this town. Just to give you an idea of how high it will be, the elevators will show movies."

2 Honorees Share Birthday Supper

There were two honorees at a family gathering and supper party Sunday in the home of Mrs. Johnny Moster where the group celebrated the birthdays of Mrs. Lynn Crow of Nocona and Mrs. Russell Herb of Dallas, daughter and sister of Mrs. Moster.

Tips on Saving Money by Conserving Energy

You can do something to help conserve our nation's vital energy sources; and you'll save money at the same time. With demand for fuels beginning to outstrip supply in some areas, simple conservation of electricity, heating oil and gasoline will not only help you cut costs, but can assist in halting the drain on our energy supply.

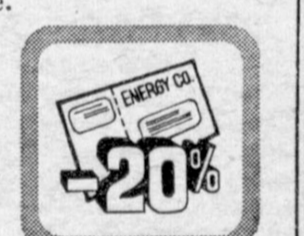

Make sure your furnace is working efficiently. Have it cleaned periodically, lower the thermostat before going to bed, and maintain proper humidity. This not only saves you money, but helps conserve fuel.

Better home insulation has been cited as vital to fuel conservation. An investment in storm windows will pay off in the long run, and weatherstripping and caulking around doors and windows can drastically reduce fuel bills.

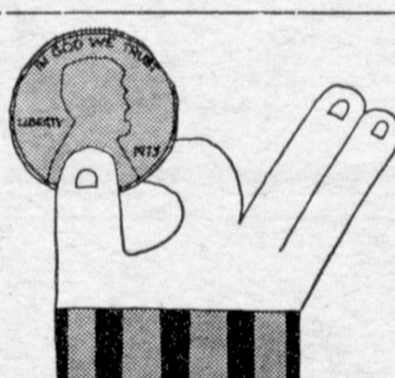

Good driving habits can markedly decrease gasoline consumption, according to the Amoco Oil Company. Avoid jackrabbit starts, drive at moderate speeds, and keep your car well-tuned. Properly inflated tires, believe it or not, can also help conserve gasoline.

You'll be surprised at the kilowatts you can save simply by turning off lights and appliances when not in use. Concerted home electrical conservation can cut monthly utilities bills 20% and more.

If we start conserving energy today, there will be enough for everyone tomorrow.

TP&L wants electricity to stay one of the biggest bargains in your budget. The Company has compiled these hints to help you keep your electric bill as low as possible while you enjoy all the comfort and convenience of electric living.

washer or dryer. Clean waste and lint traps before starting each load.

ELECTRIC CENTRAL HEATING AND COOLING SYSTEM

1. Have system checked annually by a qualified serviceman.
2. Replace or clean filters frequently.
3. Set thermostat at the lowest comfortable temperature during the winter and at the highest comfortable temperature during the summer.
4. Open outside doors as little as possible. Keep doors and windows properly weather-stripped.
5. Close all draperies and blinds at night and those in rooms where sunlight is not really necessary during the daytime.
6. Keep damper on fireplace closed when not in use.
7. Keep outdoor portion of the cooling system clear of plants, vines and other obstructions to the flow of air.

WHEN YOU GO ON VACATION

1. Unplug small electric appliances.
2. For a big electrical savings, turn off your air conditioning while you are away! If you prefer to leave it on, set the thermostat at 80 degrees. During the winter, set heating system thermostat a few degrees lower than usual.
3. If refrigerator is left running, set the temperature up a few degrees. If refrigerator is turned off, prop the door open to prevent mildew.

4. Use clock timers or photo-electric cells to turn lights on and off automatically.

Hargrave of Dallas, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, announced that Staubach, will lead volunteers in every county in Texas during the traditional annual appeal for funds to provide direct services to physically disabled Texas children and adults.

The sportswriter sometimes takes a beating in covering professional football games—as illustrated above—to give readers the best possible account of each game. Yet, he's been on the literary sidelines since Pulitzer Prizes honor just about every kind of journalistic achievement except sportswriting.

But now that is about to become ancient history. As a tangible tribute to his dedication, performance and literary skill (along with occasional bravery), the pro football writer will be officially recognized this year for the first time with his own special award.

The Schick Safety Razor Co., a division of Warner-Lambert, announced that it has created the "Schick Awards" in cooperation with the Professional Football Writers Association and the National Football League to honor the men and women who cover and interpret pro football for the nation's newspapers and magazines.

"Schick Awards" will be given to pro football writers for the "best game report" and "best feature article" in each of three media categories—newspaper, magazine and wire service/syndicate. One of the six winners will be selected as the "Story of the Year," which carries a $1,000 cash prize. The other winners will receive $500 checks.

Entries will be screened by a special committee of the Overseas Press Club of America, headed by Bob Considine, internationally-known columnist. Awards will be presented at the annual Professional Football Writers Association banquet in New York next May.

Wm. A. Claunch Jr. Heads Easter Seal Appeal in County

William A. Claunch, Jr. will head the 1973 Easter Seal Appeal in Cooke County, it was announced by Rodney D. Hargrave, Dallas, President of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Residents of Cooke County will receive the annual Easter Seal Appeal letters in the mail beginning March 1. The Easter Seal Appeal, conducted yearly to provide disabled persons and their families treatment and services, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 22.

Claunch is one of 223 men and women throughout Texas who are serving in this capacity. The cost of the statewide Easter Seal program is over one million dollars, financed mainly by the Easter Seal Appeal. Almost 90 percent of all funds raised by the Easter Seal Appeal remain in Texas to support the growing needs of the disabled in the State.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1973 Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen in Cooke County who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Any disabled person can contact Claunch at First State Bank, Gainesville, who will provide the request form for a determination of the extent and type of assistance needed and the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance. Arrangements for qualified treatment or service will be made by the Easter Seal Society.

No Drug Known Can Cure a Cold Says Health Dept.

What is a cold? The common cold is a name given to any of a number of short-lived infections of the nose and throat. All of them are highly contagious. They have similar symptoms. Sometimes they are called by other names, which simply tell you what part of the upper respiratory tract is particularly affected: rhinitis, affecting the nose; pharyngitis, the throat; or laryngitis, the voice box.

What causes a cold? The Texas State Department of Health points out there are many different viruses which cause a cold. A virus is a disease-producing agent so small that it goes right through the very fine filter that stops bacteria. These cold-causing viruses are present in great numbers in your nose and throat when you have a cold. They are carried on the droplets you expel when talking, coughing, or sneezing.

How do you catch a cold? Though a virus causes your cold, a number of conditions seem to increase your susceptibility (science does not yet know why or how.) People appear to catch colds mainly indoors. They get more of them during the colder months. Fatigue, chilling, and poor physical condition seem to give the virus a better foothold.

What's the course of a cold? From one to three days after the virus takes hold in your body, the symptoms appear. (But other people can catch your cold even before your symptoms appear — one reason why colds are hard to prevent.) The first hint is usually scratchiness in the throat. Within a few hours, your nose gets stuffy and you have vague feelings of discomfort and illness. Usually you start sneezing, too.

Within 48 hours, your cold is in full bloom — eyes teary, nose running, voice husky, breathing obstructed, and your senses of taste and smell dulled. You may feel lethargic and achy. It's common to have a moderate headache, especially at the beginning (but a severe one may be a sign of some complication.) You may also have some fever, although that's unusual in adults.

Once the cold has fully developed, it usually continues at its peak for several days. Then there is a gradual letting up. An uncomplicated cold commonly lasts from seven to fourteen days.

Can a cold be dangerous? In itself, no. But it can open the door to other illnesses. And it's hard to know when the door has opened, because all the viruses that cause the common cold have not yet been identified. It's very difficult to say where the simple, unperilous cold leaves off and complications, which may be dangerous, begin.

Other — non-cold — viruses may complicate matters by getting in their licks when you are already felled by a cold. Or bacteria — many of which live in your body harmlessly during times of good health — may grow strong when your defenses are down. Or sometimes your body is allergic to the cold virus or the activated bacteria.

Then the severity of the cold symptoms increases, and the inflammation and mucous discharge may spread to other parts of your respiratory system. For some people, these complications may be dangerous.

Can you cure a cold? No, you can't. There is no drug known today that can cure the common cold. Antibiotics, the "wonder drugs," are effective against bacteria, not against ordinary respiratory viruses. Doctors may prescribe these drugs for the complications — the secondary, bacterial infections — but not for the cold itself.

Racing -- It's Where The Money Is

Chief mechanic Herb Nab and his crew go into action as Bobby Allison makes a fast stop during the running of the Texas 500 at College Station, Texas. Allison is stock car racing's leading money winner this season with purses totalling more than a quarter of a million dollars. Later, crew chief Nab is congratulated by Miss S-K, representing the company supplying the mechanics tools. The Nab team, generally regarded as one of the finest in professional racing, took top honors earlier in the season as the winners of the only sanctioned pit crew race held in the United States.

Not even threatening skies were enough to dampen the spirits of Buddy Baker as he came home to win the Texas 500 run at College Station. For the winner it was only his second victory of the season, and an enthusiastic and somewhat dampened crowd of 33,500 was on hand to see Baker cross the finish line.

The race started with a field of 44, but in the end Baker nosed out A. J. Foyt to win the sixth major race of his career. His speed for the two mile oval track was 147.069 m.p.h.—a track record. Caution flags slowed the pace five times. Richard Petty and Bobby Allison finished third and fourth. Baker took home prize money of $12,620 for the Sunday afternoon drive.

Allison has become NASCAR's leading money winner this season with prizes totaling $254,050. The veteran stock car driver has signed a two-year contract with the Roger Penske Racing Team to drive in the Indianapolis 500.

Although he has never driven an Indy-type car, Allison — who won 10 major stock races this season — joins Mark Donohue and Bettenhausen on the Penske team. Donohue was the 1972 Indy winner.

Lens-View

We are frequently asked about our family as many friends and relatives became acquainted with them on past visits to Muenster. Some also wonder just where we lived in these past many years.

Our son Kenneth and his wife Mary and four children live in Salisbury, Maryland. He is the comptroller for a chain of ladies ready to wear stores located in Maryland and Delaware. Richard, Rosie and their six children are in Fort Worth and he is employed by General Dynamics as an aeronautical engineer. Mary our daughter is married to Gerald Hertach an attorney. They have one daughter and reside in Kansas City, Kansas.

Susan is now Mrs. Dale Henning. She received her degree in nursing from the University of Oklahoma last May and works at the University Hospital in Oklahoma City. Jean is attending the University of Oklahoma Medical School in Oklahoma City and will earn her degree in physical therapy this summer. Nick is in his third year at the University of Oklahoma in Norman is majoring in mathematics.

After getting married in 1935 we lived in Amarillo for a short while then spent a few months in Muenster before going to Dallas. From Dallas we moved to Brenham, then Denton, later Fort Worth. Our seven years there were the longest in any one city. In 1949 we went to Huron, South Dakota, then to Omaha, Nebraska and later to Columbus, Ohio. From Columbus we returned to Dallas and after a few years went north again to Peoria, Illinois. From there it was Kansas City, Kansas; Wichita Kansas; Oklahoma City, Okla. and finally back to Muenster.

In making all these moves we have lived in 25 different houses seven of which we have owned. Our next move into the new house we are building on Oak street, we hope will be the last because Mattie joins me in saying — we like it here.
