CITIZEN MAFIA?

The emotional cackling for 'gun registration" has begun to die down a bit. Those who sought to persuade Congress that sportsmen who own hunting guns, and home-owners who own weapons, are all potential assassins, have talked themselves hoarse enough to listen for a moment, perhaps. They wailed that the National Rifle Association was some sort of citizen mafia, without being able to cite a case when a member assassinated anybody. It is certain that not one of the assassins cited as the reason for gun registration was member, past or preesnt.

In fact, if the Kennedy-King - Kennedy assassinations were the pressing reasons for registration - and they were so represented - then clearly it would be more effective to register Communists than guns. But in our society the thought of registering Communists is unthinkable; it would violate their "civil rights." It is better to restrict the civil rights of every citizen in the land?

The effect of registering firearms would be nil, nor next authorities to provide protection. Further, can you imagine how many thousands of bureaucrats the Federal Government would have to employ to enforce gun registration.

Truly a national police force. A realistic argument in the gun controversy would be aimed at the criminal -- the punk who operates as a stickup artist, the bandit at the service station, the liquor store, the bank - the armed robber. Does anyone think any gun law will keep a firearm out of the hands of these street assassins? The answer has to be a big NO. Too many guns are available to these thugs, guns such as those stolen during the Plainfield, New Jersy, riots, and never recovered.

Instead of gun controls, how about a mandatory sentence to nil, in reducing crimes of of five years or so, with no crimes; they posses them be- of a criminal. That kind of U. S. ELECTRIC WATER HEATING From the moment you first use an electric water heater, you'll know why it's so much better than other types. It supplies all the hot water your family needs . . . dependably and economically. It's completely quiet and completely clean in operation. And, because it requires no flue, it tucks away almost anywhere.

Appliance dealers or the nearest office of Texas Power & Light Company will be glad to give you complete information about a longer-lasting, electric water heater.

Homemaking Class Doing Homework For Extra Credit

Homemaking Homework continued through the summer for 24 girls of Muenster Public School. Summer homemaking consist of several categories such as home improvement, sewing, food preservation, and cooking. The girls met several time during the month of June, each two hours

During the meetings the girls sewed on garments under the supervision of Mrs. Henry Weinzapfel who also listened to reports on how everyone was coming on other projects. Each girl kept records on what she was doing outside of class.

Besides workshop meetings each individual is asked to keep records of what she has done. The projects and records are to be handed in for evaluation, this fall. Each girl who successfully completes the Summer Homemaking course earns an extra 1/2 credit. -Kathy Sicking

Members of the Sunshine Club met last Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Alois Trubenbach. They enjoyed playing games and had a gift exchange. Mrs. Trubenbach served refreshments to the group.

Tips From Muenster Hatchery

If things go according to plan we will be in California when you read this, our first vacation in 18 years. Anyway, things are generally pretty slow in our business during early August, and we figured it would be a good deal to eat off the relatives far a couple of weeks.

But we are leaving competent replacements to handle things while we are gone. So, stop by and pay an old bill, or get one of those handy grass bars — it's so easy and efficient to use. Kills that not or crab grass in your flower beds. Nice to use as an edger, too. All kinds of bug killers

Be seeing you, I hope.

US Treasury Gets $142 Million Lift From REA System

Rura! electric and telephone systems financed by the Rural Electrification Administration, ar, agency in the U.S. Depart ment of Agriculture, reduced the outflow of cash from the U.S. Treasury by $142.8 million during fiscal year 1968, REA Administrator Norman M. Clapp reported today.

The reduction came under the Joint REA-Borrower Cash Management Program. Under this program, started two years ago, the REA-financed systems help the Treasury in two ways: by deferring cash withdrawls from the Treasury and stepping up the deposit of advance repayments on loan accounts ahead of schedule.

REA financing is carried out entirely through loans from the Government which are repaid to the Treasury over a maximum period of 35 years.

In fiscal year 1968, with the Cash Management Program, the net outflow of cash from the Treasury to finance the electric and telephone programs was $190.8 million. Without the program this outlay would have been expected to reach $333.6 million.

Instead of withdrawing cash from the Treasury under approved loan contracts, the rural electric and telephone borrowers in fiscal year 1968 tapped their own required reessential construction. On top of this they banked $45.8 million of his left arm. of their reserve funds with the Treasury by making advance repayments on their loans. They did this while making scheduled interest and principal payments in the amount of $258.4 million.

Including the repayments made ahead of due dates during the past 12 months, the rural systems have a balance of $365.7 million on deposit with the Treasury in these repayments.

called the re-Mr. Clapp sponse by REA borrowers "a remarkable demonstration of their sense of public responsibility and spirit of cooperation in working with their Federa! Government. It is a splendid example of what can be accomplished when the people and the Government work together in a well-developed plan of action within an atmosphere of mutual understanding and confidence.

REA has financed more than 1.000 rural electric systems, mostly cooperatives, and over 300 telephone systems. The electric systems serve about 20 million rural people and the telephone systems about 7.5 milion rural people. The electric and telephone borrowers have paid to the Government nearly $3.3 billion in principal and interest payments on their loans, including the balance o' $365 7 million repaid in advance of due dates.
