Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
 Anonymous letters to the editor should not be printed. If a person feels his letter is worth printing, it should be worth signing.
 In reference to last week's letter to the editor some anonymous person blasted Muenster merchants for not buying club animals.
 It's my understanding that these clubs are existing to teach the boys and girls how to become future farmers.

Paying for or buying their animals at much higher than market value isn't teaching them the hardships and lessons necessary to become good business men and women.
 Furthermore, I think the local merchants contribute to the clubs and their schools several times during the year.
 Examples: advertising in school annuals, not only Muenster but also surrounding town's schools. Donations to bazaars, auctions, etc.
 I'm not entirely knowledgeable about all the things the merchants do, not being a merchant myself; however, I don't think much thought was given when the party wrote the letter. As to trading with the merchants for the reason of not supporting our youth, I hope maybe the party can find an economic reason for not trading in Muenster, not a personal one.

J. K. Fette

Dear Editor:

In defense of our local merchants — let's be fair!
 Every club and organization in the Muenster community, and every club, class, and organization in both schools call on the local business houses without mercy.
 We look to them for free advertising, free prizes, free party supplies, free bake-sale locations, and good will and encouragement in all our undertakings. With rare exception they support our every cause willingly and generously. They render an indispensable service to our community.
 I tip my hat to the local merchants! I thank them for all they do for all of us! I wish them well and encourage all my fellow citizens to do the same.

Juanita W. Bright

Editor:
 Letters like those in The Enterprise recently knocking our merchants appall me.

Some items away from home may be cheaper, but get the overall picture and is there really so much saved?

Check ALL the prices and quality. Compare. Consider cost of gasoline, use of car.

Again, who donates to local benefit events many times a year? Who are the first people tapped for contributions? Local merchants.

Money spent at home usually stays at home and benefits many people.

Could the urge to trade away from home be triggered by jealousy?

Dear Editor:
 In last week's paper there was a letter to the Editor which stated only three local Muenster Merchants participated in the bidding at the Cooke County 4-H and FFA Stock Show. Contrary to this statement, the Muenster Merchants were well represented.

Ever since the County Shows and Sales began, I have participated in the bidding and always purchased some of the cattle, hogs and sheep. This year I purchased three cattle and one hog — and bid on many more.

It is interesting to note that not even one Gainesville Grocery Business — independent or chain store — made a bid much less purchased one of this year's show animals.

Fisher's Market and in fact the Muenster Merchants in general, have always supported any worthwhile youth program such as the 4-H and FFA and I regret that this person feels it necessary to trade out of town because he or she is not informed.

J. A. Fisher

Dear Editor:

In response to the individual who prefers to shop outside Muenster, we would like to ask him if the out-of-town merchants with whom he shops were at the 4-H cattle sale? And did they purchase animals from Muenster? Why does he expect only city merchants to purchase these animals? Why didn't he expect other Muenster-area citizens to purchase them? A non-merchant also could show his support for these young people and their families by purchasing a club animal. All Muenster-area citizens will benefit.

Muenster businesses are continually asked to support a seemingly unending number of activities and projects. School groups, local and out of town, are constantly asking donations for their bazaars, ads for their yearbooks, football programs and the like. In most cases the business man gladly gives his donation to these worthy causes.

He is also expected to support with donations activities of other sorts such as Jaycee picnics, Little League, church groups, Boy's club, farm and ranch publications and director, hospital auxiliary function and etc.

Businesses are glad to help with these projects because they know that their donation can help worthy causes, and help build a better community.

The city merchant should not be expected to carry this responsibility if the people who receive the benefit from his donations do not support him. This situation is a two-way street.

The local merchant carries more than his share when it comes to supporting school, club, and civic projects from which all Muenster-area people benefit. Non-merchants should do their part by supporting local merchants.

Cattlemen Invite Boycotters to Be Business Partners

AMARILLO, TEX. — Texas cattle feeders are up tight about beef boycotters who don't understand the law of supply and demand. But rather than fight back with holding actions, they're using the "olive branch approach" and inviting city investors to become "business partners in a pen of cattle." This would mean, of course, sharing the risks of cattle feeding.
 It all started when the Cleveland, Ohio, city council passed a resolution proclaiming the month of April "Boycott Beef Month" as a measure to "bring the meat industry to its knees."

In response, the cattle feeders sent the following telegram to Councilman Basil Russo, sponsor of the resolution:

"Noting your concern about high beef prices, the members of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association invite you or the City Council to become a business partner with us by investing in a typical pen of 200 head of cattle to be put on feed.

 "First, you should be aware of the risk involved. A 650 pound feeder steer at today's price of 55c per pound will cost $357.50. The steer normally would stay on feed 150 days, during which time it would gain about 400 lbs. The 400 pounds of gain will be charged at actual cost, which now is running about 30c per pound.

"Normal death loss is 1%, although it has averaged 2% during this severe winter. Interest on your investment will run 8%. Thus, when the steer weighs 1,050 pounds and is ready to sell, our breakeven cost would be $498 or 47c per pound. The current selling price in Texas is 46c per pound. "All profits or losses will be shared equally. If the cattle sell for 52c per pound, our profit will be $10,500. On the other hand, if they sell for 42c per pound the loss will be $10,500. If interested, please call or wire."

The Texas Cattle Feeders Association, headquarters in Amarillo, represents cattlemen who fed 4,308,000 head in 1972, making Texas the No. 1 cattle feeding state in the nation.

Employee's lament: "They talked me into buying stock in the company I work for, and it's made a nervous wreck out of me. I keep worrying about the lousy work I'm turning out."

"Now children," the harried mother announced to the noisy small fry at her son's birthday party, "remember, there will be a special prize for the boy who goes home first."

Daughter wants to know how mothers ever learned all the things they warn their own girls not to do.

The taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those laid by the government were the only ones . . . we might easily discharge them. . . . We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us. . . . State FB Prexy
Assails Ceiling
On Meat Prices

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. (Red) Woodson said Friday, March 30, that President Nixon's decision to impose a ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices was ill-advised.

The head of the state's largest general farm organization said that although the ceiling was not placed directly on the farm animal, it had the same effect.

"We believe that letting supply and demand work would have been the best way to assure the housewives of adequate supplies of meat at reasonable prices," the farm leader said. "Farmers and ranchers are production-minded and would have responded to better prices with fuller production."

The state farm leader said the price ceiling would lead to a cost-price squeeze for the livestock producer.

"The President's order did not freeze livestock production costs," Woodson said. "It is conceivable that if the cost-price squeeze gets bad enough, some producers will have to curtail production or go out of business. This could lead to a critical scarcity in the months to come."

The Farm Bureau president said that agricultural producers recognize the "tremendous" political pressure upon the President to do something about meat prices.

"We remind the American people, however, that meat prices did not bring on inflation — it was inflation that caused increasing meat prices," Woodson said. "Inflationary pressures have been boosting retail food prices for many years, but it has been only in the past few months that farmers began receiving decent prices."

The head of the 137,000-member organization said that farmers are more concerned about inflation than most other people because they have so many production items susceptible to price increases.

"We trust that the President will be equally firm about wage and price increases for other groups," Woodson said.

The Watergate affair has gone to the point of uninteresting reading. We all know that the officials of one political party have full knowledge of what went on and are guilty. It can also be remembered that the other party was guilty of similar activities several years ago. Such seem to be part of big politics. The oddity now is that so many of our congressmen who must have more important things to do spend so much time on this one issue. The whole case reminds us of the old Indian theory — it's not wrong to do it, it's just wrong to get caught.

We are proud of our editorial page this week as you, our readers, made the page. It is our hope that, when there is an issue involving our city or the citizens of our community, you will write in and express your opinion. There are always two or more sides to an issue and there is no better way to get your ideas before the people than to write to the editor. We can now guarantee that our subscribers are reading the letters.

In a few days our local elections will be history. Lets support the winner and hope the looser tries again next time. If you have thoughts about things that should be done and if you don't want to contact the city council, school board or hospital board direct, write the Editor. I'm sure all citizens join in saying to those who are leaving office — we appreciate the time and efforts you gave to do the job and you served well.

A number of people have given us pictures of old Muenster buildings but we need more. Dig yours out and call us, we'll pick them up.

I spend more time regretting the things I did not do than the things I should not have done.

School Board Sets Tuesday Meeting
Next week's meeting of the Muenster School Board has been advanced two days, to Tuesday night, Superintendent L. B. Bruns announced this week.
On the agenda are a canvass of election ballots and election of the board's officers followed by the regular business meeting. The public is invited to attend. Starting time is 8 o'clock.
