A repeat performance of the 1977 conference of International Women's Year (IWY) at Houston appears to be in the making. This event, scheduled for the coming summer, is the White House Conference on Families (WHCF) with organizational procedure that is remarkably similar to the IWY affair.

In the former conference, many people will recall, the selection of delegates was stacked in favor of leftist, pro-abortionist, gay-rights, ERA, and various feminist groups. Furthermore we tax payers had to shell out $5 million to finance their adoption of radical positions on a host of national issues.

Now, thanks to our Administration, the same groups who dominated the 1977 meeting have been given virtually complete organizational control of the upcoming White House Conference on Families, and the signs clearly indicate that it will be a continuation of IWY. It will be conducted by the same individuals and organizations, adopting their own proposals from the IWY meeting. Issues previously adopted in behalf of woman's rights are to be promoted as a means of strengthening American family life.

Some of those objectives are abortion, gay rights, ERA, federal day care, minimum guaranteed annual wage and national health insurance. One has to wonder how some of them can possibly be helpful to family life, also how some can help our social and economic life.

Nevertheless a brochure distributed by the WHCF, which is headquartered in the HEW Department, tells us that The White House Conference on Families has been called by President Carter to identify ways to strengthen and support American families. It is an attempt to involve families themselves, as well as scholars, professionals, and policy makers in a long assessment of how government and our major private institutions help, hurt, or neglect families."

The statement sounds fine. The conference should be open to all who can offer good ideas, not only as a matter of principle but also because it is funded by taxpayers, and according to the President, will serve as the basis for future federal policies.

But that's not how this thing is shaping up. As was true of the IWY meeting, the presidentially appointed 41-member National Advisory Committee for WHCF is heavily slanted to the left, with most of its members drawn from liberal and feminist groups or from the ranks of social service bureaucrats who have a vested interest in greater federal spending in these areas.

Of the 41 members, only one, a Mormon heading that church's Relief Society, is known to be conservative on family related issues. The liberal Americans for Democratic Action is well represented, but no one was appointed from the opposite organization, the American Conservative Union.

Even more one sided than the official National Advisory Committee is the Coalition for the White House Conference on Families, which has been given much of the organizational responsibility. This coalition includes Planned Parenthood; National Gay Task Force; American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists; National Council of Churches; Zero Population Growth; and National Alliance of Optional Parenthood.

At the IWY big event of 1977 in Houston, it can be recalled that the same crowd was running the show...on $5 million of taxpayer money...and people of opportunity...on page 12...

Public School Week

By Alford Winn
Almost from the beginning of our nation, public schools have been in existence. Schools first began to 'teach children how to read so they might be able to read their Bible, thereby not falling prey to Satan and teach them their ciphers so they would not fall prey to unscrupulous merchants.'

The three R's (reading, riting, and rithmetic), as they were referred to, were about all that the schools taught for many years. Reading was taught by means of the catechisms that were carved on horn shaved very thin. Each child had a slate and slate pencil (like chalk) on which he wrote his letters and ciphers.

Teachers received little in the way of money from the parents of their pupils, but each family took its turn in boarding the 'Schoolmarm' or 'Schoolmaster'.

Later in the history of our nation 'Latin' schools came into being in order to prepare boys to go to college. They taught mostly composition and Latin. These schools later became preparatory schools, then part of the public schools and known as high schools. High school did not become mandatory until labor unions, in an effort to keep youngsters out of the work force a little longer, managed to get legislation requiring compulsory attendance in most states until a certain age.

BANQUET SPEAKER

Will Nabors of Lone Star Gas Company will be the speaker at the Muenster Chamber of Commerce banquet on March 12 in the K of C Hall.

He has been in Lone Star's speakers bureau for the past three years and has presented programs to numerous audiences throughout the Lone Star system. A graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, he has served as district manager in Rockwall and Athens.

City Gets Whopper Sales Tax Rebate

Whopper checks just sent out to Texas cities by the State Comptroller office do not necessarily reflect booming business. Instead it is a result of more efficient deposit procedure which speeds the processing of accounts, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Consequently, checks sent to the cities in February total more than $36 million, which is about $11 million more than those for the same period last year.

Muenster's share of the rebate bonanza is $7,430.81, as compared with $2,695.15 in '79. And payments received to date are $11,031.46 whereas they were $4,368.89 at this time last year. It figures to an increase of 152 per cent.

Payments to other cities of the area, along with total to date and percentage of change were listed as follows: Gainesville, $31,202, total to date $55,620, up 24%; Lindsay, $3,534, total to date $6,146, up 43%; Nocona, $8,430, total to date $11,955, up 20%; Pilot Point, $3,646, to date $4,227, up 44%; Saint Jo, $1,242, to date $4,180, up 150%; Sanger, $4,043, to date $4,859, up 205%; Whitesboro $6,047, to date $7,083, up 83%.

Thomas Jefferson summed up the need for public education when he said that a democracy depends on an educated populace. To choose intelligently one must have intelligence.

During the two hundred years of our nation's history, public schools have served well. They have produced some of the most intelligent people the world has ever known. More things have been invented in the last hundred years than in all other years combined. Not all of this can be credited to public education; much of it can.

In recent years the media and many people have bemoaned the state of our Continued on page 3...

Home Goes For The Dome

The Dome Home is not new. It's been in use for centuries, as seen on famous buildings like St. Peter's, St. Sophia's at Istanbul, the Taj Mahal, and dozens of state buildings all over the world. So it should come as no great surprise that builders of some of the smaller and simpler structures arrived at the idea that the dome was for them as well.

And why not? The dome, originating from the sphere, is nature's most efficient way to enclose space. Because its structure is self supporting, it needs no internal or external support systems to stand or carry loads. And because its shape encloses more space in relation to area of walls and ceiling it can be built with less material.

In our times these principles caught on some twenty years ago as a way to build cheap and sturdy storage structures. From there it was inevitable to develop them into business and residential structures. Up to now some 100,000 dome structures are in use, the first of this area now being built for the Herman Carroll family in a scenic wooded area five miles north of Muenster.

It is a Geodesic Dome Home, built in part by Geodesic Structures, Inc., of New Jersey, which is represented here by Tom and Dale Bayer. The basic principle of the house is the dome. It is made of pre fabricated triangular wood panels consisting of sturdy 2 x 4 frame covered with exterior grade plywood. For two reasons the panels are factory made rather than

Superintendent Bruns Resigns

After 31 years on the faculty of Muenster Public School, Superintendent Lawrence B. Bruns will not be back on the job as the next school year begins.

Trustees of the Muenster Independent School District, at their February meeting, voted to accept the resignation he had submitted a month before. In spite of two years remaining on his contract, Bruns decided to quit and get an earlier start in some other work. He said, however that he has nothing in sight now. He intends to start thinking about that, leisurely, when the school year ends in May.

Brun's tenure at the public school has been contemporary with its development from an old two room structure, plus two rented rooms, to its present extensive facilities. When he joined the faculty construction was under way on the high school and elementary wings along with auditorium and gym. Since then there have been additions of elementary and kindergarten buildings, lunch room, bus shed, and extensions for shop, band, agriculture and field house, and the new football field and track.

Brun is a native of Gainesville, a graduate of Gainesville High School and of Gainesville Junior College. His college education was delayed by 3 1/2 years in the armed forces during World War II, after which he attended North Texas State University receiving a BS degree in industrial arts and social sciences in 1949.

He started his teaching career that year in Muenster, as shop and social science teacher and assistant coach. In 1954 he received a MS degree in administration at NTSU and also became principal. He became superintendent in March 1959 when Howard Homsley resigned to become a salesman of school books, and has been Muenster's superintendent for the 21 years and 8 months since then. Favorite off the job interest during the years has been fishing and woodwork.

Brun was married in 1942 to the former Loree Dunn of Saint Jo. They have one son, Robert, a CPA in Dallas, and one daughter, Beverly, teaching at Lake Worth. Another son, Lawrence (Butch) died in 1963.

He is a 21 year member of the Texas Association of School Administrators, a life member of Texas State Teachers Association, a county representative on Region II Administrators Executive Committee, also a member of Muenster's Knights of Columbus Veterans of Foreign Wars and Chamber of Commerce and the area Chamber of Commerce Coordinating Board.

Filing Changes in Hospital Election

A new regulation pertaining to the hospital board election requires the use of a special application to file a candidacy. The form is available from Secretary Rufus Henscheid or David Bright. When completed it is to be filed with Henscheid.

Other requirements are unchanged. Deadline for filing candidacy is March 11, 25 days before election, and the application must be signed by 15 qualified voters.

City Votes March 8th On Mixed Drink Proposal

A local option election on legalizing the sale of mixed drinks in Muenster will come before the city's qualified voters on Saturday, March 8. It was ordered by the Cooke County Commissioners Court last week in response to a petition with more than 130 signatures.

The election will be held in the city hall March 8, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. with Lee Toothaker as the election judge. Absentee votes can be cast with City Secretary Celine Dittfurth.

If voters approve the proposal the sale of mixed drinks in Muenster will become legal on two conditions. The seller must be located in the wet zone on Main Street or Highway 82 as specified by the city and he must have a state permit to sell. It does not involve any change in business hours.

If the proposal is voted down there will be no change in any present conditions.

Mild and Dry

With the exception of two nippy mornings, Muenster weather has been mild during the past week. Low and high temperature readings were recorded as follows by Steve Moser: February 14, 45 and 62; Feb. 15, 56 and 62; Feb. 16, 23 and 32; Feb. 17, 16 and 42; Feb. 18, 30 and 56; Feb. 19, 44 and 80; Feb. 20, 42 and 86.

Meanwhile moisture readings added to only .16 inch. Total for February to date is 1.71, and the year's total is 3.29 inches.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In today's world, it often seems that everything influences everything else. The current state of the U.S. economy and our lagging defense capability indicates the need for significant changes if we are to meet the challenges which lie ahead. There is no question that a healthy economy and a strong defense are inter-related, and are of vital concern to our national security.

Following the end of World War II, the U.S. emerged as the undisputed leader and spokesman for the "Free West." At that time, the U.S. had unequalled productive capacity, economic strength, and a seemingly endless supply of resources within our own borders. Through short-sighted policies, however, we have failed to maintain this position of prominence. As a result, we are experiencing high inflation, a dependence on unstable foreign energy sources, and an inability to deal with the global and political events which are threatening our national security.

Energy is, perhaps, the most serious issue facing the American people today. Current policies have tended to prolong our dependence on foreign energy sources, and have discouraged incentives for more domestic production. Short-sighted policies have prevented the U.S. from developing alternate energy sources, have failed to stockpile energy reserves, and have done nothing to reduce consumption of precious energy supplies. No one will dispute the importance of maintaining and guaranteeing our oil supplies, and this can best be accomplished through the use of a strong defense, which can only be provided through a strong economy.

President Carter has proposed increasing defense expenditures by 4½ percent a year in real terms (or beyond the rising costs which have occurred because of inflation) for the next five years. I think it is noteworthy that defense expenditures in the U.S., in real terms, have been lower in recent years than at any time since before the Korean War. Some will ask how our economy can possibly afford more government spending on defense, but not on social programs. The answer is simple: the survival of the country is not threatened by the scope or effectiveness of our social programs — it is threatened by our inability to provide for an adequate defense.

The United States can use its economic and military power to strongly influence the behavior of those who control foreign energy sources. In years past, great powers have guaranteed themselves their supply of essential materials by using their economy to support a strong military force which was willing to assure access to foreign resources. Our own economic strength can provide us with the capacity to do the same thing. Considering the present state of world affairs, the only option available is to provide for an increase in defense expenditures; this, in turn, will help to guarantee our national security.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Like a Christmas toy which is turned upside down so the snow flakes can float down in chaotic fashion, State Capitol halls buzzed last week with the news that an FBI bribery investigation (code name "Bri-lab") touched the office of House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton was subpoenaed last week to appear before a Houston grand jury to testify about whether he took a bribe in return for helping an undercover FBI informant gain information about bidding on the state's employee health insurance program.

The Speaker, who has denied taking a bribe, won a delay until mid-March.

Clayton allegedly received some hundred dollar bills in his office on Nov. 8 from Houston labor leader L. G. Moore following a conference which also involved Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant who identified himself as a Prudential Insurance of America agent.

All accounts of the meeting report that the money was offered as a "political contribution" following a brief discussion of insurance. Clayton has admitted he took the money, but not as a bribe. He also maintains he has not provided any favors for the money.

Avoid Embarrassment

Clayton explained he took the money to avoid embarrassing Moore, his past political supporter, in front of their guest Hauser. Clayton said he first laid the money uncounted on his desk, then later gave it to his aide, Rusty Kelley, for safekeeping until it could be returned to Moore. Kelley locked it in a safe in his office where it remained until last week when it was turned over as evidence to the grand jury.

Initial news reports gave the amount as $10,000, but when the safe was opened, $5,000 was counted and turned over to authorities.

Telephone logs in the Speaker's Office were presented as record that Clayton later tried unsuccessfully to phone Moore, and Moore apparently did not return the calls.

Political Futures

The subpoena has upset the normal turn of events in the Legislature as House members consider the political future of their speaker.

If indictments are returned against Clayton, he may not be able to keep the gavel for the Governor's promised special session in August. He might resign his office, or he might fail to be re-elected following a motion to declare the Speaker's chair vacant.

Already there are a handful of state representatives listed as possible successors to Clayton, should he step down or be toppled from his three-term reign (an historical first.)

Emerging Contestants

Clayton's most clear-cut opponent is Dallas liberal John Bryant, who formally announced two weeks ago he would challenge Clayton in 1981. In the midst of the Bri-lab flurry, Bryant is scrambling to win more commitments to his candidacy in time to challenge Clayton in the special session.

Bryant claims some 60 commitments (en route to 76 votes needed for a majority). More cynical observers speculate Bryant has about 40 solid votes. Although many of Clayton's trusted team members will not come back in 1981 (due to retirement or defeat) and Bryant is credited with a decent shot of bumping him off then, the fiery Dallas member is generally given only an outside shot of taking over in August.

House conservatives are not sitting back on their hands, and should something happen to Clayton, Bryant will be confronted by an opponent from their numbers. Gib Lewis of Fort Worth and Lynn Nabers of Brownwood are oft-mentioned names, since both have indicated they may run for Speaker in 1983 (but not against Clayton.)

In the meantime, Clayton continues to draw good support from House members, though the subpoena has perhaps lowered his standing in the eyes of Texas voters. Many legislators are resentful of the FBI's tactics and what they consider to be entrapment. Last week a group of 30 members led by Bill Caraway (D-Houston), Wayne Peveto (D-Orange), Dan Kubiak (D-Rockdale) and Bob Bush (D-Sherman) met in Austin to discuss the dilemma. Calling themselves an uncommitted caucus, their main concern is to prevent a rush to judgment that might prematurely or unjustly force Clayton from the podium. Clayton also gained support from the Texas Civil Liberties Union which criticized the FBI for violating the Speaker's rights.

"All indications in the news stories are that agents set out to find someone to bribe and there is no indication that evidence of criminal activity existed prior to the undercover operation," said TCLU executive director John Duncan.

Others are stating in plain words that the Speaker is the victim of a political set-up. Clayton's status will become clearer following his day in court next month.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Soviet tanks rolling into Afghanistan in December awakened our nation to the woeful state of our defense preparedness and brought forth renewal of our national resolve.

The Soviet presence in Afghanistan, and the accompanying danger to other non-aligned nations in Southwest Asia, still pose a serious threat to our national security -- but not the only one. Already we are beginning to hear the siren song to crawl back into our cocoon.

Some politicians now are telling us the Persian Gulf really isn't that vital to our interests after all. One presidential candidate has even suggested that the simple expediency of gas rationing would cancel our need to defend that area of the world.

The President finally -- and reluctantly -- asked Congress to delay the SALT II treaty in light of Russian adventurism. But it is the Administration's stated policy to act as though the treaty had been ratified.

After making much noise about a February deadline for declaring an Olympic boycott if Russian troops were still in Afghanistan, the Administration has said it may delay a decision until May.

Failure of our government to stick to its guns and mean what it has said in the past is a major cause of our current troubles in the world. Neither our allies nor our adversaries have believed we could be counted on to follow through on our commitments. A weakening of our resolve now would be the greatest threat to world peace I can imagine.

Unless the Soviet Union is convinced we will follow through on our announced intention to stop the Soviet land grab at the Afghan border, it may well decide to call our bluff. If our allies aren't convinced of our willingness to do what we say we will, how can we expect them to commit themselves to our course?

Soviet officials have become practiced in following their aggression with soft talk of peace and détente. Already, there are indications they will conduct a "peace offensive" to try to convince the U.S. and her allies that more military preparedness would be a mistake. And why shouldn't they? It's worked in the past.

But this time, the American people won't be fooled. The vast majority of our citizens realize now that we cannot maintain peace from a position of weakness, and we cannot count on the Soviet Union to act honorably. Now, we must make our voices heard, not only in Moscow, but also in Washington.

The Congress soon will begin working on the defense budget for next year. The President has recommended a 5 percent increase in real dollars. That is a start, but only a start. An initial assessment of our needs indicates we probably will need twice that increase.

Those are just numbers, however, meaningless in and of themselves. Congress, the Administration and the public must not lose sight of the real issue: We must stop our slide into military inferiority; we must rebuild our military, and we must reassert our national will.

London vows that he will always vote the way the majority of the people in our district feel—and not his own preference. "As a civics teacher," London adds, "I would stress to my students the importance of the voters electing public officials that care about the people—not their own pocketbooks. I plan on carrying out that philosophy as an elected official."

Some of the most important issues London sees in the upcoming campaign concern education, health, and agriculture.

"I think its ridiculous," London concedes, "for high school students to be forced to take six quarters of algebra and never be taught how to balance a checkbook or fill out a simple W-2 Form." London plans to introduce legislation that would require high school students to take courses in basic family budgeting and form filing.

On medical issues, London says that he is steadfastly against state-funded abortions and would like to strengthen the penalties against operators of rest homes who abuse their patients. "A person should have the confidence," London adds, "to know that the state of Texas will oversee his physical condition in his final years of life."

On agricultural matters, London is encouraging the development of gasahol and is also strongly interested in keeping prices to cattlemen high. "Cattlemen are just now able to make a living," London adds, "and, as a member of the House of Representatives, I intend to do everything possible to protect our domestic market." Exempt Earnings Report Is Due to Social Security

All social security beneficiaries who have earned more than the annual exempt amount during 1979 and received at least one check, need to file a report of these earnings by April 15, 1980, Gus Jones social security manager in Sherman, said recently. The 1979 annual exempt amount was $4,500 for people age 65 or older and $3,480 for people under age 65 all of 1979. Anyone who was age 72 or older in all of 1979 does not have to file a report. People who receive benefits because of disability also do not need to file reports, since different rules apply.

Anyone who did not receive any checks in 1979 because of expected earnings does not have to file a report. But Jones said, if their earnings were less than expected, it may be to their advantage to make a report. Because just $1.00 in social security benefits is withheld for every $2.00 of earnings above the annual exempt amount, it could be that some benefits may be payable.

Also, beneficiaries need to remember that this annual report of earnings needs to be filed regardless of whether or not they file an income tax return.

Anyone that may have additional questions or needs assistance, please get in touch with the Sherman social security office located at 810 N. Travis. The telephone number is 983-4654.

Dairy Short Course Scheduled March 5

The 1980 Dairy Short Course is planned to provide a dairyman with up-to-date management practices, said Neil Tibbetts, Cooke County Extension Agent. The short course will be held on March 5, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Cooke County College Activity Center. The agent said that the short course will feature speakers who are nationally known in their fields. They will discuss various segments of dairy cattle management so that all in attendance should gain something from this Texas Agricultural Extension Service educational meeting.

One of the speakers will be Dr. Don Wesen from North Carolina State University. Dr. Wesen, Extension Dairy Specialist, has conducted a successful educational program, in milking management and mastitis control. He will be emphasizing mastitis control through an effective leucocyte monitoring program. States of lactation and other environmental factors can affect a dairyman's leucocyte count, and these factors will be discussed by this expert.

The short course is planned for dairymen participation. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, along with local planning committees, planned this program because of needs expressed by local dairymen. The short course, being held at Gainesville, is one of four short courses being held over the State.

School Week...

schools and our students. Schools do share some of the blame, but too often they are expected to accomplish the impossible. Schools cannot cure the ills of society. All they can do is furnish the place, the equipment, and trained people to help the child learn the myriad subjects, many of which he has no interest in learning. Many of the jobs that schools are expected to prepare students for will not exist when he graduates and many that do exist at the time of graduation will have changed.

Maybe schools should return to doing what they do best: teach reading, writing, and arithmetic in lower grades and regard high school as a preparation for college. Maybe they should leave the job preparation to business and industry who can do a better job of it.

In spite of these ifs and maybes the public schools of this state still do a splendid job of educating its children.

Governor Clements has proclaimed the week of March 3-7 as Texas Public School Week. Schools in all of the state will observe this in varied ways. Muenster Public School plans to celebrate with Open House on Tuesday, March 4, 7 to 9 p.m. when teachers will be in their classrooms to answer questions, explain methods and show work specimens.

The top attraction of the open house will be the Arts and Crafts Show, displaying amazingly good work in woodcraft and art.

There will be refreshments served for visitors (not the students of Muenster Public School). These refreshments will be served by the members of the FHA chapter.

Ceremony in Dallas Unites Steve Hess and Liz Thompson

Miss Liz Thompson became the bride of Steve Hess on February 9. The Saturday evening ceremony was celebrated in St. Luke's Church in Irving at 7 p.m. with Father Daniel Clayton offering the Nuptial Mass and officiating for the double ring vows.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Lou Irons of Irving. She is a graduate of Irving High School and holds a B.A. from the University of Texas at Dallas. She is a teacher in the Dallas Independent School District.

The groom is a son of Mrs. Bonnie Hess of Muenster and the late Arnold Hess. He is a graduate of Sacred Heart High, and is a machinist employed by Action Machine Tool Co.

The bride wore a formal wedding dress of beige Quiana knit designed with a floor length circle cape. She carried blue carnations with white baby's breath for her bridal bouquet.

The maid of honor was Loretta Germueller of Irving, a friend of the bride. She wore a formal blue Quiana knit dress.

The best man was Harvey King of Gainesville, a friend of the groom. The flower girl was Amber Jones of Irving, niece of the bride and the ring bearer was Matt Hess of Lewisville, nephew of the groom.

Ushers were Bud Maddox of Irving, a brother-in-law of the bride and Dennis Hess of Fort Worth, a brother of the groom.

Wedding music was provided by a guitar group and vocal selections were Elton John's "Love Song", "Follow Me" and "There'll Never Be Another You".

A reception and catered dinner, hosted by the couple, followed in the Lunch Room of St. Luke's for fifty guests. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth, and held blue streamers with blue candles and blue and white flowers. The two tier wedding cake was decorated with blue flowers and doves by Betty Rose Walterscheid. It was cut by Mrs. Jim Fuhrmann and served by Connie Jones.

The couple went to Taos, New Mexico for their wedding trip and returned on February 19.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Angelos in Irving and hosted by the mother of the groom.

Attending the wedding from Muenster were Mrs. Bonnie Hess, mother of the groom, Mrs. Gen Pels, his god-mother, and Mark Hess, Don Hess, Bob Hess, Jeanette Yosten and Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Bartush, Jr.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hess of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. David Hess of Lewisville, Miss Frances Hess of Dallas, Larry Hess of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Cagle of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey King of Gainesville, Mrs. Jim Fuhrmann of Irving and other friends from Dallas, Fort Worth and Lewisville.

Saint Anne's Society Meets

Members of St. Anne's Society are making plans to honor 50 year members at Mass in Sacred Heart Church on April 13. Also discussed during their meeting on February 3 were the NCCW meeting attended by 19 Muenster women, and the St. Joseph Day supper scheduled for Sunday, March 16.

Mrs. Leo Henscheid read 'Tomorrow' and 'Keep the Children Safe.' Mrs. Agnes Owen won the door prize. Mrs. Denis Walterscheid conducted the business meeting; Mrs. Harold Knabe presented minutes and Mrs. Leo Henscheid gave the treasurer's report. A 'get-well' card was sent to Anna Becker.

Twenty six members attended. A social hour followed the meeting.

kitchen near the back entrance plus remaining space to be arranged into dining, living and den areas; and the space partitioned off for master bedroom and bath.

Efficiency of heating and cooling is hailed as one of the outstanding features of the house. Carroll said a wood stove has been used in daytime, and held over heat during the coldest nights has not dropped below 51. He thinks that the stove itself can provide all the heat needed, however he has installed central air conditioning for more heat and for summer cooling. During sunny days of winter additional heat is provided by the double glass skylights.

Much credit for the efficiency can be given to a six inch layer of insulation throughout the dome and the extension walls. Another is the spherical shape which causes air currents inside to move in a natural pattern or swirl, thus eliminating cold corners or hot spots. This factor is a reason for the balcony height walls of the upper bedrooms, providing the same temperature there as downstairs.

Some of the features also apply to cooling efficiency. For instance, the air currents and generous thickness of insulation.

However skylights are positioned so they do not allow direct sunlight in summer and landscaping is planned to get the maximum shade from surrounding trees. Less helpful trees have been removed encouraging more growth on the better positioned trees. Outside conditions will provide much of the cool to be used inside.

The dome home is getting to be a conversation piece of the community. Visitors come by the dozens on Sundays and frequently during the week to see the house that's shaped to withstand severe windstorms and has no beams, trusses or girders inside . . . which, in short, applies the most advanced concept in home design.

At this time the Carrolls are completing their carpet installation. They hope to start moving in within a week.

A double glass skylight, admitting both light and heat, is an energy saving feature of the dome home now nearing completion for the Herman Carrolls. The house has three of them. In the foreground is a portion of the spiral stairway leading upstairs. —Steve Luke Photo

This spiral stairway is the entrance to the second floor of Herman Carroll's dome home. The two bedrooms and a bath occupy about one fourth of the building's 3000 square feet. —Steve Luke Photo

Texas Power & Light Company began a massive program back in 1968 to reduce its dependency on natural gas and oil by using lignite coal as a generating plant fuel. The first lignite-fueled generating unit began operation in 1971. Today, there are eight lignite units in operation and others are under construction or being planned. In 1979, we used approximately 11 million tons of lignite coal to produce electricity. Had we used oil to generate the same amount of electricity, it would have required 1,066 million gallons... that's 25 million barrels... and that can make a lot of gasoline. We're working hard to do our part to help ease the energy crisis.

'All About Bulbs' Told at Garden Club Program

Mrs. Paul (Marie) Endres, presented a program on 'All About Bulbs' to members of the Muenster Garden Club Monday evening, February 11, when the group met in the TP&L Building. She said that bulbs are very adaptable and can be grown in many places, and that there are more than 3000 species, permitting almost unlimited choices. Developing her talk, she listed the five major categories, giving examples of each, as follows: true bulbs (tulips or daffodils); corms (gladioli); tubers (caladiums); tuberous roots (dahlias); and rhizomes (irises). Mrs. Endres discussed the growth cycle of bulbs and showed several in various stages of growth and also gave general directions for forcing bulbs for indoor bloom.

She was introduced by Mrs. W.J. Luke, program chairman, who noted that Marie Endres has served in various positions in the garden club, namely president for two years; vice president for two years; secretary for a number of years; delegate and chairman of the Cooke County Council of Garden Clubs; chairman of the district scholarship fund, and in 1979 was co-chairman of the flower show here.

Mrs. Alfordean Winn was hostess to the group. She was assisted by Mrs. Enrique Juarez. They served German Sweet Chocolate Cake and hot coffee to fifteen members and one guest, Mrs. Roy Hartman.

Mrs. King Koch, president conducted the business meeting. She announced that the Historical Marker will be placed in the City Park by Mrs. Ona B. Reed and the County Historical Society committee. Dedication will coincide with the opening of Germanfest. The County Council of Garden Clubs will make a donation for planting of a tree or shrub at the site as an Arbor Day project and the Muenster Garden Club will landscape around the marker after its installation.

The club presented cash awards to Bert Miller and Lisa Hennigan, winners of the local Youth Communications Speech contest.

Volunteering to arrange flowers for the altar in Sacred Heart Church on Laetare Sunday were Mmes. Dick Ferber, Arthur Endres, James Hess and Holly Koch. Coming events announced were the District Meeting in Fort Worth on March 6-7; a Lecture and Arranging program at the Dallas Garden Center on March 17 at 1 p.m.; and the Zone meeting in Denton next fall.

The March meeting will feature 'Historical Trails of Our Area' by Mrs. O.L. (Katherine) Walker of Lake Kiowa, a well known lecturer on Historical Trails of America. Mrs. Al Hess will be hostess in her home.

KCs Will Host Cowntown Visitors

Officers of the Muenster KC Council are busy this week preparing to host a bus load of visiting Knights from Council 759 of Fort Worth, who will arrive Friday night, the 22nd, about 8 o'clock. They have arranged for entertainment by Gina and J.J. Hofbauer, also refreshments and hopefully a big turnout by local members and wives to help make it a pleasant and impressive event.

The visiting council, of which Leonard Endres is a former grand knight and Father Denis Soerries is a former chaplain, has traveled recently to a number of other councils.

Another event currently developing is a family night booked for next Wednesday, the 27th, at 8 o'clock in the KC Hall. It will feature bingo upstairs with cash, a 7-speed blender and other items as prizes. And downstairs there will be dominoes, cards, pool, ping-pong, etc.

Blood Program Has Gone Far In Grandpa's 84-Year Lifetime

A lot has happened in Grandpa's 84-year lifetime! He's seen man fly for the first time at Kitty Hawk and Americans walk on the moon. He's observed the takeover of family life by the horseless carriage and the television set... and the effects of the atomic bomb dropped on an enemy.

Grandpa has also lived before blood transfusions were successful. He was only four years old when Karl Landsteiner published a paper announcing the discovery of three blood types: A, B, and O. What if Grandpa had been an Rh-Negative baby in 1898? He was 19 when the discovery of sodium citrate made it possible to store citrated blood for five to seven days, enabling surgeons of World War I to use transfusion on a limited basis in the treatment of major injuries from 1914 to 1918. Before then only direct transfusion was possible.

Grandpa was already 34 before the first known blood bank, where blood was stored in case of emergency demand, was established. And he didn't know about it because he lived in the American Midwest, and the blood bank was in London, England.

He was 41 when the Augusta, Georgia, Red Cross chapter began recruiting blood donor volunteers for the University of Georgia Hospital, the first established American Red Cross transfusion service, and then only on an experimental basis. The hospital typed each donor's blood and the chapter made a record of each name, address, blood type, and telephone number. A year later, 1938, the Red Cross Blood Donor Services began in 11 other chapters too.

The pressures of World War II brought unbelievable advances in blood knowledge and uses. Grandpa was more than 45 when an improved anticoagulant solution was developed, allowing blood to be stored under refrigeration in glass bottles for 21 days. Also, the Rh factor was described and its importance in transfusion reactions was recognized. And an American produced a method for fractionating plasma into derivatives.

A total of 13,326,242 bottles of blood were collected from our citizens by the American Red Cross at 35 collection centers and 63 bloodmobiles during the four years of the early 1940's when the U.S. was at war in Europe and the Pacific. The American Red Cross made great strides in blood collection during World War II and was a logical choice to establish and maintain a permanent national blood program. So, on January 12, 1948, when Grandpa was more than half a century old, the first regional blood center opened in Rochester, N.Y. Yours in Wichita Falls, began collecting blood the same year, and by the time Grandpa reached 54, a total of 34 regional Red Cross Blood Centers across the country had collected 844,168 volunteer pints of blood. Great strides are still being made. From the beginning, the Red Cross encouraged blood research. Grandpa was 64 and most of us were already family members by the time the plastic collection bag was introduced, making processing safer and easier since it was no longer necessary to enter glass bottles to draw off plasma.

By 1969, all Red Cross Blood Centers used multiple plastic bags and were equipped with special centrifuges that could separate blood into components, making it possible for a single unit of blood to serve the needs of from four to six patients. Grandpa had matured to the ripe old age of 75 when one of the most significant advances from Red Cross research was developed. Storing blood components for freezing, thawing and washing red cells is especially useful for maintaining a stockpile of rare blood.

Constant new technology is the story of the American Red Cross Blood Services. There are now 59 blood centers across the country and 22 subcenters. The modern program also includes the National Reference Laboratory, the National Rare Donor Registry with close to 6,500 names, and the Histocompatible Transfusion Program.

Grandpa is now 84... The Red Cross Blood Program is 32. We can now survive open heart and other serious surgery when blood is needed. We can live even though seriously injured in traffic accidents, fires and natural disasters, because blood is there when needed. But it is there only because volunteer blood donors are there.

Are you part of the three percent of the total American population that donates blood and Grandpa would if he were younger. But then, if Grandpa were younger, we wouldn't be as advanced in the blood program as we are today.

Memorial Trophy Case Honors Charlie Cash

Among the display cases at Muenster Public School is a special new unit dedicated to the memory of Charles O. Cash, who died suddenly of a heart attack on August 4, 1977, only a few days before he was to begin his eleventh year as principal of the school.

At his death friends established a memorial fund which was applied recently in a handsome trophy case built by Rudy Koelsler. It is pictured here containing all the trophies won by Charlie Cash's basketball teams of Muenster High, along with his portrait and, partly obscured behind it, the Good Neighbor Award plaque given to him by the Muenster K. of C. Council in 1970.

The trophy collection includes the only district champion won by a Muenster High basketball team. The MHS girls won it in their 1970-71 season. Also there are 22 trophies won in invitational tournaments.

Cash coached basketball in seven of his ten years at MHS. He directed boys and girls in his first year, 1967-68, and girls only in the next two years. During the following four years he again coached the Hornets and Hornettes, and during the final three years he did not coach.

27 Report for MHS Track

With a long roster of 27 Hornets and a brand new all weather track for their activity, Coach Jerry Stinson is looking forward confidently to the coming track season at Muenster High School.

He said the boys are in fine condition from lots of work on their own since the end of the football season. They have worked regularly on the road, on the track and in the weight room...that is, all but the basketball players who had the benefit of their own conditioning program. With physical fitness and exceptionally good depth Stinson has hopes for strong talent in several events plus multiple entries to earn additional points.

At the same time the Hornets, under direction of Coach Sam Burnes, are starting on a program which appears to be more rewarding than last year's. Like the boys, they have been busy with weights, distance running and basketball, and they are proud of the new track. Also the total of 12 contenders is expected to strengthen the team's representation in most events.

Because of their outstanding facilities, the MHS track teams will have most of their meets at home. Out of the eight in which they are entered, six will be here. Also Junior High will have four of their six bookings here. And both boys and girls of 14-A will have their district meet at MHS, after which regional qualifiers will meet here.

Members of the MHS track team and preliminary assignment of events are as follows, however changes are expected as the season progresses.

I met up with Mrs. Charlene (Willis) Woods at Fanning's Station Thurs. p.m. Feb. 14th. Hadn't seen this lovely lady in many a moon. She is just as pert and chipper as she always was. It was nice chatting with her again.

Wonder how many of you saw the beautiful pictures of the TM Center on the Channel 5 6 p.m. Newscast on Wed. Feb. 13th. According to this newscast the TM Center is in Wise County and close to Decatur and Alvord. Several Alvord folks were interviewed about it - and their comments were rather amusing. Forestburg was not mentioned in connection with the TM Center at all - which will probably please most folks hereabouts.

Mr. & Mrs. H.W. Phillips of Wichita Falls visited in the Clifford Hudspeth Home Monday night Feb. 18th.

Mrs. Vena Settles sends us a little news item. On Sun. Feb. 10th Vena's sisters Mrs. Lola and Billie Webb came after her and took her to F/W Airport for her to fly to San Antonio. Vena stayed with her daughter & family - Mr. & Mrs. C.J. Haines. On Feb. 12th they helped Tony Settles celebrate his 84th birthday with a beautiful candle covered cake. Tony is still a resident of the Four Seasons Rest Home in San Antonio and Vena says she found him better than usual. Feb 12th is also the Settles granddaughter Lori Haines' birthday. Vena flew back to D/FW on Wed. Feb. 13th where her sisters met her and brought her home.

On Thursday Feb. 14th Dr. & Mrs. M.A. Taylor and daughters Terri and Joni of Tulsa, Okla arrived at Vena's home. Dr. Taylor attended Dental classes in Dallas but Mrs. Taylor & girls stayed with Vena. The Taylors all returned home on Sun. Feb. 17th. Mrs. Taylor is Vena's granddaughter and the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. C.J. Haines of San Antonio.

Mrs. Vera Mae McGee and Mrs. Decie Ellzey were out earning themselves many a Brownie Point as they visited with Mrs. Cleo Lanier, Myrtle Fanning and Lizzie Gardner.

Have you ever noticed that when you get real sick and just might need some help how fast most people seem to forget how to dial your phone number or where you live? Guess most of 'em are afraid that they might be asked to lend a helping hand with the chores or something or other. 'Tis a good way to find out who your friends really are.

posing opinions were excluded. Whereupon these other people including Pro Life and Pro Family, and favoring the standards of civilization and decency which have prevailed for centuries, organized a counter convention of their own headed by the nationally famous conservative Phyllis Schlafly. The end result was that the conservative gathering had a much larger and more enthusiastic attendance. It received widespread favorable attention whereas the IWY effort was hardly noticed. However IWY prevailed in the end. Its influence was directed to official Washington where it can affect regulation and legislation, but the conservative influence was scattered among the grass roots without benefit of organization and clout.

Having been shut out of the Houston Conference, the Pro-Family organizations determined to have their say this time, and they made a good start in early elections of state delegates. They won 22 out of 24 positions in Virginia, 8 of 8 in Oklahoma, 2 of 4 in South Dakota. Then liberals got panicky and accused the conservatives of trying to "take-over"...as though the pro-family people were not taxpayers and citizens with a right to representation, as if the liberals themselves were not taking over the conference which presumably was open to everyone.

Consequently the National Advisory Committee realized that rules had to be changed. Instead of "peer election" the NAC devised a complex process whereby representation could be restricted to its own kind of people. Well, the system seems to be effective, as attested by an aide to the governor of New York. She was asked if, of the 24 delegates elected to represent the five boroughs at the WHCF, one...just one of the two dozen...affirms the traditional belief that abortion is a sin against God and man. She replied that "nobody like that got elected."

No matter how we look at this ugly mess it is an indictment of the president and the bureaucrats who are openly violating the commandments of God and the rights of men. Our only hope now is that the grass roots will raise a storm preventing legislation with the WHCF slant and also persuading legislators to crack down on bureaucrats who apply such regulations.

Move to Arlington
Mr. and Mrs. Gerald C. (Jerry) Penny moved during the past weekend from Shreveport, La. to Arlington. She is the former Doris Schmitt. Her mother, Mrs. Al Schmitt helped them get settled and spent the weekend. Also helping were Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hall of Fort Worth. Mmes. Hall and Penny are sisters.

Workers Wanted For Taking Census

Census takers are needed in this area. The Census Bureau welcomes applications from persons who will be able to work 40 hours a week, including many evenings and Saturdays, calling at homes and interviewing the residents. The work will begin March 11 preceded by a day of training, and will last three weeks. The best workers may be asked to come back in late April for an additional three to five weeks work. Candidates for jobs will be given a simple written test to demonstrate their ability to understand printed instructions, do simple arithmetic, and read maps.

Census takers will receive a fee for their training and most will be paid a piece rate for the number of household listings completed; however, some will be paid on an hourly basis. Earnings for all workers can average $4 an hour or more.

Census takers must be physically fit to be on their feet for long periods and climb stairs. They must have good eyesight for reading small print and good hearing for normal conversation. Most should have a home telephone and many will need a car for their work, but mileage will be paid. The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer. Applicants should come to one of the following places ready to take the written test: Nocona, Feb. 22, check with Chamber of Commerce for times and testing site. Gainesville, Feb. 25, call Texas Employment Comm. for appointment.

Golf Tournament
Members of the Muenster Golf Association will have their monthly tournament next Sunday, March 2, at 9:30 at the Gainesville Municipal Course.
