MHS Names Three New Teachers

Three new teachers were added to the faculty of Muenster Public School and the resignation of one teacher was accepted at the June meeting of the Muenster Independent School District. The changes were reported as follows by Principal Alford Winn.

Mrs. Ronnie (Sharon) Felderhoff is hired as science and PE teacher and girls coach. She is the former Sharon Metzler, salutatorian of the 1975 graduates at Lindsay HS and a 1978 cum laude graduate of Texas Women's University with grade point average of 3.929 out of a possible 4. She received a BS degree with majors in PE and journalism. Sharon was a substitute teacher in Muenster and Lindsay in the spring of 1979 and a teacher in Callisburg in 79-80. She and Ronnie live in Muenster.

Also added to the faculty are Mr. and Mrs. Jon F. Ward of Paris, Tx. He is the new band director and music teacher. He received a Bachelor of Theory degree from Midwest Christian College in 1963 and a Bachelor of Music Education from East Texas State University in 1977. For the past three years he has taught music kindergarten to Grade 8 in Grant, Okla. He has served as director of music and youth activities at the First Christian Church of Paris since 1973.

Mrs. Ward (Clara) is the new math and science teacher. She received a BS in education with major in natural science and minor in biology and math from Southeastern, Okla. State College in 1962, and a MS in education in 1965. She has taught the past 17½ years at the following locations. Marietta 2 years, Blackwell 2 years, Derby Kansas 2 years, Wichita Kansas ½ year, Grenola, Kansas 4 years, Grant, Okla. 7 years. The Wards have three children and live in Paris. Moving plans are still indefinite.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary Cain and declared her position open to applicants. Interested persons, with elementary certificate are asked to contact Principal Winn in his office for details and an application form.

Lake Project Revived

Beginning Monday of next week, Muenster's dormant lake project is due to come back to life. On that date the Muenster Water Board will have a hearing before the Texas Water Commission on renewal of its water right which expired November 17, last year. A letter from the Texas Department of Water Resources to Henry Weinzapfel of the local water board says the renewal has been recommended and can be expected at the hearing. The recommendation was given in spite of objections by the City of Dallas, which has long held water rights to the North Trinity watershed.

Monday's meeting started putting together the figures and alternatives that will eventually be involved. Hopefully they can be completed in time for a city vote in August.

First considerations are proposed sizes of the project. Since the water right will permit use of 500 acre feet a year, that size is the minimum considered. 500 acre feet is 162.5 million gallons as compared with 98 million used last year. However the maximum allowed size is 999 acre feet providing additional water if needed for emergency or population growth. The likely choice, it is believed, will be a compromise between the two sizes.

As a starter the city water board quoted estimates on the cost of the large and small projects. The size to provide 999 acre feet a year would have a permanent pool of 309 acres and its cost to Muenster is currently estimated at $1,159,560. The size to provide 500 acre feet, with a permanent pool of 214 acres is estimated at $824,000.

In addition to reservoir cost the board will have to build a treatment plant and pumps and pipe line to transport water to the city, the cost being estimated at $620,440 for whichever size reservoir is built. It adds to a total charge of $1,780,000 if the largest lake is built, $1,444,540 if the smallest is built and something between for a size between.

Next to be considered are financing charges. At this time the board is considering a combination of tax bonds and revenue bonds, the ratios to be determined by the best available interest rates.

The board's intention, Weinzapfel said, is to study the project thoroughly and determine the most attractive options in physical and financial detail. It is probable, he said, that a 40 year debt retirement plan will be adopted, however that could be shortened by a lower interest rate.

Whatever develops, the intention is to get it going with the least possible delay. The board does not want to risk another expiration of its water right. Nor does it want to delay while inflation keeps upping the costs.

Urgent! Ration Water

A near crisis continues in the Muenster water department and continued rationing is urgently recommended as high temperatures and drought continue. Steve Mosler says the city has been uncomfortably close to trouble through most of the past week.

He points out that, with pumps running constantly, the wells are producing 500,000 gallons a day, but consumption exceeded that figure a few times and storage declined accordingly. If this happens two or three consecutive days it could leave the system with less pressure than needed for a fire.

To cope with the problem

the city council asks all customers to abide by the voluntary rationing plan which has been successful before. This means, first of all, to water outside on alternate days only... even number houses on even calendar days and odd numbers on odd calendar days. Next it means to refrain from using big watering systems (1 inch diameter pipe or larger) during the busy time from 5 to 11 p.m. In addition it means to refrain from all outside watering on Saturday and Sunday, thereby enabling the system to catch up and start the week with all storage tanks full.

Good Harvest Season Ends

The 1980 wheat harvest, which was originally predicted to be a disaster, has come to a gratifying end. According to local grain dealers a few yields were as low as 9 and 15 bushels per acre and the best was 70. Between those extremes the average is estimated at 35 bushels per acre. It rates as a good crop though below last year's bumper crop averaging over 40.

Total deliveries in both local elevators were higher than last year, partly because of higher acreage and partly because of more customers. Last year's big yield and good price encouraged farmers to plant more. The new customers came mostly from Montague County.

Price, however has not been as pleasing as the yield. It started about 50 cents per bushel lower than last year, at $3.75 and $3.45 for hard and soft wheat, and since then it has dropped to $3.55 and $3.15.

With high speed high capacity elevators, both dealers have been able to handle grain as fast as it arrived but they still have the same old problem when shipping it out. In fact, the situation is worse. Trucks are still delayed for hours at the Fort Worth grain terminal and only about half as much is hauled per load. The state is cracking down on overloads. Pay loads, formerly as much as 90,000 pounds are limited to about 50,000 pounds now.

Picnic Gross Tops $54,000

Sacred Heart Parish hit the jackpot last Sunday in its Father's Day picnic to raise funds for debt retirement of the Community Center. The total take was $54,708.53, and the net after expenses is expected to be more than $50,000.

The total expense will be moderate because items were donated for several activities, especially those which brought in the top money, for instance the auction and the raffle.

Income of the separate events was listed as follows:

Auction	$39,137.80
Raffle	6,990.00

Muenster Hosts 96 Cub Scouts for Five Day Camp

Ninety-six Cub Scouts from Muenster, Callisburg, Lindsay, Gainesville and Saint Jo attended the Cooke County Cub Scouts Day Camp at the Muenster City Park this week.

The theme of this year's camp was "Pioneer Adventures." The event's director was Lupe Evans and the program director was Shirley Weems.

The Cub Scouts participated in several events Monday through Friday, each with a special instructor. The Archery segment was headed by Bill Morris, the Arts and Crafts by Sharon Walterscheid and Trudy White, the BB Gun instruction by Dave Fette, the Nature Hike by Dusty Cullum, Physical Fitness by Joyce Abney and Fran Hutcherson, the Obstacle Course by Ron Mellugian, and the Swimming by Jo Ann Pagel.

Noon-time entertainment for the boys, arranged by Jean Park featured a demonstration of how a specially trained dog can be used to detect the smell of illegal drugs to aid in fighting drug abuse. Other entertainment included Ju-Jitsu oriental fighting, and a body building program.

Darrell Jones gives a demonstration to area Cub Scouts showing how his dog, Thor aids in fighting against Drug Abuse by "sniffing out" illegal drugs during the Cub Scouts Day Camp held this past week.

A Plague of Grasshoppers

As in the Biblical days, this community, plus a considerably wider area, is having its plague of locusts... except these things are more accurately described as grasshoppers. They are taking over the country, by the millions, competing with livestock in the pastures and with farmers in fields and gardens.

Walking through the grass one constantly flushes them up by the dozens, and there are cases where they have abandoned the dry pastures and taken over the more lush feeding in gardens and green crops. Beans have been stripped, cabbages devoured to the core.

It's a frustrating situation, first because the hoppers are too hardy for mild insecticides and secondly because a strong poison would foul up the ecology. Entomologists say they should have been sprayed during the winter when they were less immune. Instead they were favored by a dry winter, and thrived. A few good soakers months ago would have eliminated a big percentage. Even now a good rain would help, but drought happens to be another big current problem. Hay crops are being cut prematurely because they have quit growing. Meanwhile pastures and maize are just hanging on, waiting for moisture. There's talk of feeding hay to livestock because of poor grazing. Furthermore lakes and ponds are critically low.

About the only satisfaction in farming so far in 1980 was a pleasant surprise in wheat yield, but even that was offset by a poor market.

$9,300 Sales Tax Refunded

A business boom continues in Muenster, according to the latest sales tax rebate check remitted to the City of Muenster by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The amount received by City Secretary Celine Dittfurth was $9,300.92, which is just under last year's husky check for $9,487.63, but the significant fact is that the total for the year to date is $40,224.12 whereas last year's total at this time was $27,740.34. It represents a gain of 45 per cent.

This $40,224 represents one per cent, less a 2 percent collection fee, of the taxable sales in the city for the first five months. Those taxable sales exceeded $41 million and there were more millions of sales not subject to the tax.

The local sales for the fifth pay period are in line with the state sales, according to Bullock. He said 936 cities shared $65.3 million this month compared with $67.7 million for the same period last year.

Payments to other cities of the area, their totals for the year to date and the per-

Well, the Helms bill seeks to correct this monstrous injustice. Its method is to put a stop to political expenditure of union dues which are levied as a condition of holding a job. It would allow the use of voluntary contributions only, thus bringing the unions in line with the provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act. Ironically it would subject the unions to the same limits that they arranged to have imposed on other interests. While they were able to circumvent the FECA intent by "in kind" contributions, they are now being forced to pay for election day help.

EQUALITY
The humorist of long ago, Artemus Ward, once said, "It ain't the things we know that cause trouble. It's the things we know that ain't so." One of the things Americans think they "know" that really isn't so is that all men are equal. While the principle of equality is well-founded in our American Heritage, it is important to understand exactly how men are equal. Equality is a very tricky concept and misunderstandings in attempting to bring about equality can destroy liberty.

The misconception that all men are equal came from a phrase in the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal." What did Jefferson, and the other four members of the committee responsible for drafting the Declaration, mean when they wrote "all men are created equal"? We are faced with great national problems today, brought about by those who have assumed that a basic principle of American jurisprudence is that all men are equal. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Several facts bear on the issue of equality. No statement or principle is valid solely because it is pronounced in the Declaration of Independence. That document was purely and simply a propaganda device designed to rouse support for independence and to assure cooperative effort among the thirteen colonies in the war against England. The Declaration was never given a place in American constitutional law; none of our legislation is based on its provisions, nor does it protect anyone's rights. The Constitution is the basic law of our land.

The battle cry of the American Revolution was "Life, Liberty and Property," while the battle cry of the French Revolution was "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity." The Revolutionary War had been underway for a year when the Declaration was written. The colonists needed help from France, so the framers of the document emphasized "equality." These words have been misused by those who wish to change the concept from "equality of opportunity" to "equality of results."

The equality of which Jefferson and the Founders wrote was a political equality — equal justice before the law. They knew that men were not equal: some are strong, others are weak; some are healthy, others are disabled; some are intelligent, others are dull; some are industrious, others are indolent; and yes, some are handsome, others are not. Men are not equal; their variations are endless. But in a government of laws, and that is what the Founders attempted to give us, men are equal before the law.

Unfortunately for America, many of our people have accepted false concept of equality — a "new equality" which intends to use the force of government to make men equal in living standards. This, of course, is a central theme of Marxism-Communism.

The equality of Americanism means the opportunity to strive for ever higher goals. The equality of communism, socialism, the welfare state means to bring those who have, by hard work, reached a higher level down to the level of those who care not to strive. It means redistribution of the results of excellence; it means, in the end, settling for mediocrity for everybody.

LIGNITE COAL.

Saving TP&L customers millions of dollars each year.

In the late 1960's Texas Power & Light Company began reducing its dependence on natural gas and oil by planning and constructing generating plants that use lignite coal as fuel. Lignite is cheaper than gas or oil and it's readily available right here in Texas.

Today, TP&L has eight lignite-fueled generating units in operation and others are under construction.

For TP&L customers, this means that even though the fuel portion of electric bills has increased in recent years, bills would be millions of dollars higher each year if lignite were not being used.

Moreover, TP&L's use of lignite coal is helping reduce our national problem of dependence on foreign oil. Lignite now accounts for more than 50 per cent of the electricity TP&L generates for its customers. And, we plan to use more lignite in the future.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The other shoe in the Brilab investigation dropped with commotion Thursday when a Houston federal grand jury indicted Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton on six charges including fraud, racketeering and conspiracy to commit extortion.

Also indicted were Deer Park labor official L. G. Moore, and Austin law partners Donald Ray and Randall Wood.

The defendants were accused of plotting to use cash payments to Clayton and fraud to obtain a lucrative state insurance contract for a Los Angeles insurance firm, which actually was an FBI dummy firm and did not exist.

Clayton allegedly received $5,000 from Moore in his Capitol office. Present during that transaction was Joseph Hauser, a twice-convicted California insurance man who was actually cooperating with the FBI.

Clayton has said the money was offered as a campaign contribution which he accepted to avoid embarrassing Moore. The money was kept several months in a credenza in Clayton's offices until the Brilab scam broke into headlines. Clayton told reporters then he kept the money to return to Moore when he returned to the Capitol.

Hot Speaker's Race

The indictment came as no surprise to Clayton and other legislators: the campaign to replace Clayton heated up considerably the day before the grand jury's decision.

In a flurry of morning press conferences, the two leading Speaker candidates, Rep. Gib Lewis of Fort Worth and Rep. John Bryant of Dallas, claimed the advantage.

Lewis released a list of 92 names which he claims are pledged to vote for him in the event Clayton is not a candidate in January, 1981. (A majority of 76 votes is needed to win the speaker's platform.) Lewis claimed victory.

Bryant disputed Lewis' claim, saying several on Lewis' list were persons yet to be re-elected. Bryant kept the names of his supporters a secret, saying that to expose them would leave them vulnerable to election defeat at the hands of his political foes.

Threats of Interference

Bryant's reference to danger for any legislator who publicly commits to a speaker's candidate is well-founded, but both sides are guilty of applying that same political pressure, Bryant as well as Lewis. A rule of thumb passing around the Capitol halls is that any legislator who pledges for Lewis can expect Bryant to meddle in his district elections, and vice versa.

While Capitol veterans are accepting this pressure as a political fact of life, many legislators are growing fed up with the threats of blood-letting . . . and so are voters back home as they become aware of it.

Texas Nuclear Waste

The House Committee on Environmental Affairs last week heard testimony that disposal sites for low-level nuclear waste materials from research labs and hospitals in Texas must be provided.

Much nuclear waste in Texas comes from research in medicine, and lack of disposal facilities will seriously compromise patient care in this state, according to one witness.

Currently, there are only three waste dumps in the U.S. and the Legislature was under pressure last session to create a Texas dump. That issue will undoubtedly undergo hot debate when the Legislature convenes in the spring.

Bullock Rebuffed

State Comptroller Bob Bullock does not have the authority to initiate audits and probes of how state agencies spend their funds, Attorney General Mark White ruled last week.

In a legal opinion, White ruled Bullock has ample authority to investigate and audit private taxpayers, but not state agencies. White upheld former Atty. Gen. John Hill's ruling on the matter two years ago.

Speeders and Funds

The State of Texas received a reprimand from the U.S. Department of Transportation for inadequate compliance with the 55-mile-per-hour speed law.

Coupled with the rebuke was a warning that Texas could lose up to $8 million in federal highway assistance.

A Letter to The Editor

Dear Editor:

Your latest editorial June 13, 1980, was right on target. You discussed the theory behind Reagan's future choice for a vice presidential running mate. You pointed out that he could choose a running mate that agreed with himself on important issues such as Regan's firm stand against abortions. Or he could choose a man with slightly different views but with more vote getting potential. You mentioned he could allow flexibility in some area, but not on abortion. He stands pat against abortions because he has already obligated himself and he's convinced he's morally right. You said Reagan and his kind of thinking are the best for this country.

The Texas pro-life organization agrees with you 100%. Also the National Political Action Committee of the National Pro-life group has officially announced support for Ronald Reagan as the next President because of his stand against abortions.

Until recently most politicians didn't believe their stand on a single issue such as abortion would have much effect on their election chances. Well, they have learned the hard way. In this year's Texas County Republican conventions, calls for a change of the present abortion laws doubled from last year. In the Democratic conventions requests to change the abortion laws were up about one third.

In spite of this we pro-life supporters have one problem. Texas Senator John Tower was selected to chair the platform committee at the Republican National Convention. His pro-abortion views could cause problems when the Republican convention draws up its party platform.

We can correct this by writing to Governor Reagan stating that Senator Tower does not speak for Texans on the issue of abortion and asking him to use his influence to see that the national party platform speaks clearly in defense of the rights of the unborn. That address is -

Congressman
Charles W. Stenholm
Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — For over 30 years, a general statute of limitations has protected individuals from prosecution in civil actions after a period of five years. The American businessman, however, has had no similar protection.

Recently, I introduced legislation, H.R. 7506, along with Congressman Jack Hightower (D-Tex.) which would establish a four-year statute of limitations for businesses on record keeping and alleged civil violations of federal rules, regulations or laws.

At present, businessmen are required to maintain records indefinitely and are subject to civil penalties without any time limitations.

The Department of Energy, for instance, is one of several federal agencies with open-ended enforcement abilities of regulations. An independent oil producer, as an example, could misread a price order and be held accountable to DOE for overcharges for any number of years. His children and grandchildren could, conceivably, be held responsible for an honest mistake and be required to come up with the paperwork 20 or 30 years later to defend their case. And, if their defense failed, the interest payments alone could wipe out a business.

Perhaps the clearest way to illustrate the burden caused by the lack of statute of limitations for business regulations is this: Imagine your own personal filing system if the Internal Revenue Service did not have a three-year statute of limitations for income tax returns. You would have blank checks and invoices filed in every nook and cranny of your home.

No business needs that kind of burden hanging over its head indefinitely. A statute of limitations placed on all government agencies will give the businessman some sense of certainty in operating his business.

This type of open-ended enforcement can happen to any other sector of the business community across the nation in its dealings with various federal agencies, and this legislation will have a beneficial impact on all businesses, particularly small business.

This legislation is one means to cut down the cost of doing business, and therefore chip away a little at the inflation rate as these costs are invariably passed along to the end user of the product or service involved if that business is to remain solvent.

Excessive paperwork and excessive regulations are two inflationary problems that I have fought since coming to Congress.

I am pleased that we have received a great deal of support from a wide cross-section of the business community across the country for this bill even before we introduced the measure last week. Various groups are joining together to enlist additional support and to assist in the passage of this bill. We are expecting backing from business and trade groups, oil and gas and agricultural sectors as we work toward passage of the bill.

Thank You

It gives me great pleasure to have the opportunity to express my sincerest thanks to many, many people, through the Muenster Enterprise.

In the first place I wish to thank Dr. Martin Kralicke, then the heads of the various departments, the lovely nurses, the kitchen personnel, the ladies who keep the hospital so neat. Hopefully I forgot no-one. I certainly enjoyed my stay at the Muenster Memorial Hospital. Everything was done to make it good. Thanks a million to each and every one of you.

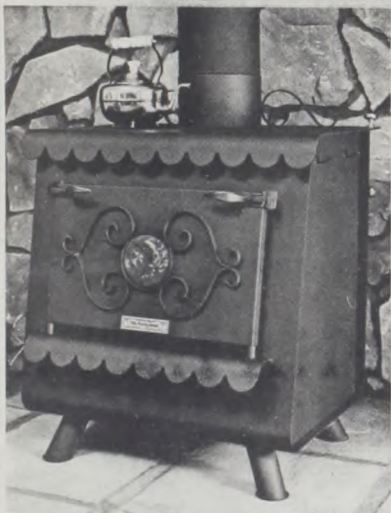

Further I wish to thank most cordially Father Denis Soerries and Father Stephen Eckart, for the spiritual help they brought, as well as their visits, to Sister Genevieve, for her untiring care of me before, during and after the operation, to the ladies who stayed with me during the first 2 days after the operation and finally to the many, many friends, far and near, who sent beautiful "Get Well" greetings, flowers, plants and "money for the Missions", or who visited me in person.

I want to thank all of you a million times as though personally. You all made me very happy.

Rita Sicking and Tony Motsenbocker United May 24

The wedding of Rita Sicking and Tony Motsenbocker was held in Sacred Heart Church on May 24 at 5 p.m. with Father Denis Soerries officiating for the exchange of vows and double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sicking of Muenster and parents of the groom are Mrs. George Reed of Gainesville and J.C. Motsenbocker of Marietta, Okla.

The bride was presented by her father before an altar decorated with four baskets of silk roses, carnations and miniature roses in her chosen colors.

She was wearing a formal wedding gown of white silk organza over taffeta, elegantly designed with an empire waisted, fitted bodice overlaid with Venise lace that formed a V-neckline in front and back. Long, slim sleeves were appliqued with matching lace. Iridescent tiny seed pearls traced a pattern on the lace.

A deep ruffle edged the A-line skirt sweeping to a chapel train. Her circular, two tiered illusion veil was edged with matching lace.

The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white and pink silk roses, lilies of the valley and gypsophila, pink apple blossoms, with miniature roses in deeper shades. It was tied with pink and white satin streamers and white lace bands with accents of pink seed pearls. All bridal flowers were handmade by Ruth Smith, a neighbor and friend and were her gifts to the bride.

Traditionally, "something old" was her grandmother, Mrs. George Lutkenhaus' earrings, and "something borrowed" was a ring belonging to her maid of honor.

Attendants

Bridal attendants were Marla Sicking, her cousin as maid of honor, and Carol Ann Sicking and Mary Jo West, her sisters, as bridesmaids. Their gowns of pink silk organza over taffeta, were designed with colonial off-shoulder bodice, A-line skirt, deep ruffle at the hemline forming a bustle-effect in back. They carried bouquets of burgundy and pink roses, miniature rosebuds and matching ribbon streamers.

David Shaw of Gainesville was best man. Jack Motsenbocker and Steve Motsenbocker, groom's brothers were groomsmen and Weldon Sicking, bride's brother, and Mark Walker were ushers.

A vocal trio, Diane Grewing, Cheryl Martin and Debbie Hess presented wedding music.

Pink ribbon bouquets marked pews in church.

Reception

The bride's parents hosted a reception and catered dinner in the Sacred Heart Community Center for 200 guests. Debbie Zimmerer and Jeannie Haverkamp were at the guest book, at a table covered with a hand tied lace cloth from Italy and holding an iridescent basket of silk apple blossoms, a starlight heart displaying the wedding invitation, and a pink plume and pen.

The bride's table covered in white, held arrangements of pink and white carnations with accents of candles, shells and turtle doves, and pink streamers. In front of the long table were four white floor baskets of silk flowers. Randy Reiter of Era, a relative of the bride, led a prayer preceding the dinner.

The white wedding cake was made by the bride's cousin, Laquita Neu, and decorated with white and pink roses and silver leaves. The cake was served by Laverne, Lana and Lee Ann Neu, Jimmy Prescher and David Prescher, bride's cousins served refreshments.

All decorations in the Community Center were made by Mrs. Aileen Knabe, cousin of the bride. Decorations in addition to the bride's table included pink, burgundy and white clusters of carnations on guest dinner tables. Also, suspended from the ceiling at center, were three large bells decorated with blending carnations, and displayed on the wall behind the bride's table were three large woven sphere repeating the bride's chosen colors. Two floor baskets of flowers were placed near the entrance.

The bride is a graduate of Muenster High School and the groom graduated from Gainesville High School. Both attended Cooke County College. He is a trackman employed by Santa Fe. When they return from a trip to Corpus Christi they will reside in Gainesville.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Center Restaurant, attended by twenty three. A bridal shower on May 16, in the TPL Building was hosted by Marla and Carol Ann Sicking, Debbie Zimmerer and Kathy Fisher.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

Although at long last we seem to be seeing some signs of turn-around for the economy, there are still several potential pitfalls ahead. Positive signs are the recent cuts in prime interest rates charged by the nation's big banks, the lower monthly increases in the Consumer Price Index and a slowing in the increase of wholesale prices. All these are factors which suggest the pace of inflation is being successfully slowed. Also on the positive side of the ledger are near-record high stocks of fuel reserves and significant decreases in energy demand throughout the country.

Problems that have now moved to the top of the list are recession and unemployment. How severe will these become? Will the government be able to maintain its budget-balancing pledge in the face of political pressures? For now, no one has the answers to these and other pressing questions which can affect all of us. Whatever the answers, it's at least some relief to have new questions.

If you have questions about banking services, old or new, we'll be happy to give you an answer. You Can BANK On It!

The Soil Conservation Service assists the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District in the construction and maintenance of flood control structures. These dams are built on privately owned land by the Soil Conservation Service. The soil and water conservation district has a permanent easement signed by landowners before construction begins. After the structures are built they are established to coastal bermudagrass to prevent erosion and fenced to control grazing so that proper use of vegetation may be carried out by the landuser. After grass is established the structure is released to Sponsoring Local Organizations (SLO). After these dams are released they are inspected once each year by a representative of the Soil Conservation Service and the SLO. Any needed work such as brush management, weed control, fertilizing, fence repair or repair of erosion are scheduled at this time. The SLO will carry out scheduled work. They also check structures for proper grazing use.

Flood prevention structures provide many benefits. Among these are grazing area and watering facility for livestock, fishing area, hunting area for ducks, geese, quail and dove during open season, a private swimming and picnic area and on the larger structures, a boating area.

For further information on developing a flood control structure for wildlife and recreation area, contact your local Soil Conservation Service.

Exemption from Windfall Profits Tax Proposed for Small Royalty Owners

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm said today he is very encouraged by the increasing support of legislation to exempt small royalty owners of up to 10 barrels-per-day of royalty interest under the windfall profits tax.

Stenholm said that Congressman Keith Sebelius (R-Kans.) and he had recently sent out a joint letter to Members of Congress asking for their support of the legislation. "Thus far, response to the letter has been very encouraging, increasing the number of co-sponsors to about 70," Stenholm said.

Congressman J. J. Pickle (D-

Tex.), a ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is responsible for the legislation, has also joined in the exemption effort. This is certainly a positive development in improving the chances for passing such legislation, Stenholm explained.

Stenholm contends that the windfall profits tax should not apply to small royalty owners for several reasons. First, of all, Stenholm points to the fact that many small royalty owners are dependent upon their royalty checks to meet essential needs. This is especially true of many retired persons," he said.

Secondly, he argues that applying the windfall tax to royalty owners challenges the basic principle of private ownership of property, that the American landowner should not be penalized "simply because his land contains natural resources, whether it be oil, natural gas, or coal."

In his letter to other Congressmen, Stenholm emphasized that including landowners under the windfall profits tax could prove detrimental to domestic oil production. Stenholm said many landowners have not leased their property for oil exploration and all of them will now be making decisions whether to lease land for production or hold it until such time as they may claim the full value of their mineral rights.

"These numerous individual decisions will collectively determine whether vast areas of land in this country will be made available for exploration and production", Stenholm said. He also stressed that it is the landowner who decides if and when his land will be leased and for how much.

"Should royalty owners begin to require higher prices for their leases, in an effort to offset the adverse effects of the tax, even land now in production could become undesirable to producers", Stenholm warned his colleagues.

Fortunately, said Stenholm, many of his colleagues are listening and he is hopeful that the 10-barrel-per-day exemption will soon become a reality.

Dairy Farmers Launch Major Sales Campaign

United States dairy farmers are preparing to launch a major sales campaign in an effort to move more milk into the commercial market rather than into government storage, the President of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., said today, following an AMPI meeting in Chicago.

Unveiling the plans for the major self-help program by the industry, Irvin Elkin, Amery, Wisconsin, stated that the supplemental advertising program is just a part of the effort that will be made to reduce the short term over supply of dairy products. "The goal of the dairymen will be to sell an additional 80 million pounds of cheese, reduce the stocks of non-fat dry milk and discourage the continuing increase in milk production," Elkin said. Additional efforts will be made to increase commercial export sales and to develop new ways to utilize the non-fat dry milk that is presently in government storage.

The head of the nation's largest dairy cooperative also stated that dairy farmers would seek to enlist the help of USDA as a partner to assist in the disposal of dairy products. "There are provisions for USDA to utilize available products for expanded use for humanitarian and public interest programs", Elkin said.

He further stressed the importance for continuation of a fully funded school lunch and special milk program. The Administration will also be asked to carefully review the current level of imports of dairy products and limit the importation of casein which displaces the use of domestically produced milk.

The concern of the dairy farmers is to have a stable market that will provide consumers with an adequate supply of milk. "Hopefully," said Elkin, "we can avoid a situation similar to what happened in 1974 when low prices resulted in a shortage of milk which in turn caused prices to shoot to over 100% of parity." While the law provided for an increase in price support levels on April 1 to 80% of parity, this level was never attained and because of increasing costs has eroded the support price to 76.5% of parity. Dairy farmers prices for manufacturing milk now average only 75.3% of parity.

Local Review Checks Accuracy Of Census Bureau Report

A major new effort by the Bureau of the Census and top officials of the Nation's local communities is underway to help assure the most accurate and complete count possible in the 1980 Census of Population and Housing.

Census Bureau Director Vincent P. Barabba announced the start of the innovative Local Review Program at a press conference today in the Bureau's Suitland, Maryland, headquarters.

The program will enable local officials to check the accuracy and completeness of housing and population counts provided to them by the Census Bureau. Local governments then will have the opportunity to point out possible problems for review and correction, as needed, before the 409 temporary census district offices close. Barabba said the program was initiated "in the belief that the review by local officials before census offices close will contribute significantly to the accuracy and success of the census.

"We have been working closely with these officials since early last year in preparing for this program. Technical manuals have been sent to the Nation's 39,500 local governments (cities, counties, and townships) and Bureau staff people have conducted workshops for local officials."

In late April and early May detailed instruction booklets and packages of census maps were sent to the highest elected official of each of the nation's 39,500 cities, counties, and townships. The officials will use these materials as a basis for summarizing their own population and housing unit estimates so that they can be compared with the Census Bureau's counts. Most local governments will receive these counts this month.

"The Local Review Program is a massive undertaking which has not been attempted formally in any previous census," Barabba said. "While its success will ultimately depend on the cooperation of local officials, the Census Bureau is committed to reviewing potential problems uncovered by the local officials' reviews of our counts."

"In order for the Bureau to review the areas where there are problems, detailed supportive evidence must be provided to the Bureau by the local governments. This documentation will be required before any detailed rechecking can be done. It will not be possible for the Bureau to recheck an area solely on a personal feeling that a count is too low or too high."

Juneteenth Named A State Holiday

The emancipation of Texas slaves on June 19, 1865, will be celebrated as an official state holiday. The 66th Texas Legislature approved the addition of "Juneteenth" to the calendar of formal state holidays, beginning this year.

Cecil E. Burney, Chairman of the Texas Historical Commission, said, "June 19 has long been informally celebrated by Texas Blacks as a popular summer holiday, and it is appropriate that all Texans observe the official holiday celebrating the end of slavery in our State in 1865. This is equally an opportunity to appreciate the contributions of Blacks to Texas heritage."

Juneteenth recalls the post-Civil War Reconstruction era, and commemorates the 1865 freeing of Texas slaves by Union General Gordon Granger. Granger arrived at Galveston June 19 to proclaim U.S. authority over Texas in the name of President Andrew Johnson. Granger also declared the freedom of Black slaves and announced that officers and men of the Confederate Army would be paroled.

By the turn of the century Black communities in Texas celebrated Juneteenth with enthusiasm and ceremony paralleling traditional July 4 festivities. An Austin newspaper of the 1890s reported the "patriotic and appropriate" commemoration of Juneteenth. Activities included a parade, shooting contest, baseball game, picnic, speeches, and music.

Immunization Clinic Set For Next Wednesday

The Texas Department of Health Region 5 Office in Arlington announces an immunization clinic to be held in Muenster at Sacred Heart Community Center, on Wednesday, June 25, 1980 from 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon.

The Clinic will provide immunization against Diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis (DTP), Polio, Rubella (red measles) and Rubella (German measles), for infants 2 months through 18 years. (Exception: Females over age 12 will not receive rubella vaccine without a physician's consultation and prescription). Precautions must be taken with females in the 12-18 age group to insure that they are not pregnant when they are immunized with measles vaccine, and that they do not become pregnant for 3 months following immunization.

Immunizations are incomplete if a child has not received three (3) doses of DTP and Polio vaccine with at least one dose administered past the fourth birthday.

Now we close with this recommendation on how to kill grasshoppers by Perryman Denham. First, use twice as much chemical as recommended by the manufacturer, arise well before daylight when the air is calmest and a heavy dew helps (but none here lately) and spray with twice as much spray as recommended. Then spray the same area under the same conditions every morning for 3 or 4 days. Then when you notice the grasshoppers beginning to act strange and less agile after injecting all this expensive insecticide during the heat of the day - well, you just run them down and stomp 'em against the hard dry ground. Good Luck!

Myrt - I hope you'll forgive this person for adding a footnote to your grasshopper suggestions - I've got a maddening husband who sits out on the patio in the evening and shoots the hoppers with a BB gun. He hits them too but its sure a slow way to ever get all that are around. D.F.

Scouts to Have Philmont Adventure

Nine boys of the Muenster Boy Scout Troop and their assistant scoutmaster are looking forward to two weeks of scouting adventure at the nationally famous Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico.

They will leave from Endres Motor Co. at 7:30 Sunday morning in the company of a group of scouts from Gainesville in a church bus.

Muenster boys going are Kirk Klement, Dwayne Walterscheid, Craig Stofels, James Bright, Leroy Voth, Brian Hoeng, Ronnie Fisher, Billy Grewing and Stephen Voth. They will be accompanied by Waylen Poole and Hank Rickroath of Gainesville.

Philmont is a wilderness wonderland located in the Sangre de Cristo range of the Rockies in north New Mexico. It includes 137,493 acres or about 215 square miles of mountains, canyons, streams and lakes abounding in wildlife and fish and beautiful vegetation.

Scout activity at Philmont will be mostly hiking in areas that were explored long ago by such men as Kit Carson, the Spanish Conquistadores and gold miners. They will carry packs complete with equipment and supplies for cooking and sleeping out while working on awards for scout advancement. At the same time they will try for prestigious Philmont awards like the Arrowhead Patch, the "We All Made It" Plaque and the Fifty Miler Award.

Joel Celebrates Sixth at Ranch

Joel Lee Kuykendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kuykendall, observed his 6th birthday on June 12 while visiting in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kuykendall. He is spending the summer with them on their ranch in San Saba. Celebrating with him was an aunt, Mrs. Mary Beth Kuykendall. Joel will return to Muenster before school opens this fall.

Still Hot & Dry

Heat and drought prevailed for another week in Muenster, according to Steve Moser's report on the record. While temperatures reached the high nineties the only moisture recorded was .02 inch Tuesday.

Low and high readings were: June 12, 69 and 95; June 13, 70 and 97; June 14, 70 and 97; June 15, 72 and 99; June 16, 75 and 98; June 17, 76 and 98; June 18, 79 and 100.

With Tuesday's drizzle the month's rain total increases to a mere .12 and the year's total to only 7.88 inches.

tributions, they arranged to place a limit on the voluntary contributions.

The Helms bill is a highly desirable as means of bringing fairness into the American election process, but you can bet that it hasn't a chance to be passed. It would be vehemently opposed by congressional friends of the labor bosses who are depending on a repeat of the big "in kind", contributions in this year's campaigns and even if it got through Congress, President Carter would veto it. Nevertheless it has a definite political value to conservatives, including many who are stuck with the present ripoff. It will place additional emphasis on the fact that workers' money is being used to oppose their political thinking, and might influence more of them to disregard the union's voting guidelines.

Perhaps they will be further impressed by another pro-labor stunt currently being hatched by President Carter. Miffed at Congress' failure to deliver his phony labor law "reform" bill, he's trying to achieve the same pushbutton unionism schemes by executive order.

The order, now reportedly being reviewed by the Justice Department, would prohibit anyone whom the bureaucrats of the Department of (Big) Labor decide has "violated" labor law from competing for federal contracts. In other words, the employer who does not cooperate to force his employees into unionism excludes himself from federal contracts. To many employers its a choice of surrendering or going out of business.

Carter would dearly like to present this package to the labor bosses, knowing how it would enhance his campaign outlook. However there's also the chance that millions of people, including union members, will resent this kind of high handed procedure and say so on their ballots. After all, only 19.7 per cent of the nation's workers are union members. Consequently more than 80 per cent are not union members.

And this leads to another injustice in the US labor policy. Why does one president after another choose someone from Big Labor to head the Labor Department? Wouldn't it be more appropriate to have someone representing average working people rather than the union bosses?
