

PARISH PICNIC SWELLS NEW CHURCH FUND

Result Short Of Last Year's But Gratifying

Annual Thanksgiving Dance Attended By Crowd Of More Than 200 Couples

Despite cold weather and a general shortage of loose nickels, Muenster responded with its traditional generosity at the annual parish picnic Thanksgiving Day at the Parish Hall. The result fell slightly short of last year's, but still was regarded as highly successful and a gratifying addition to the gradually growing fund for a new parish church.

During last Sunday's services the Rev. Fathers Frowin and Francis both expressed their thanks to every person who took any part in raising the substantial donation. They first mentioned the Mothers' Society for long hours spent in the kitchen and at supervising, then the dozens whose willingness to work enabled the mothers to carry through. The hundreds who came to enjoy themselves also received a word of praise for their generous spirit.

A poorer response than had been anticipated for the Thanksgiving feast proved to be rather disappointing, but was successfully overcome by a decision to serve lunches in the evening.

As usual school children and their parents along with a good representation of out of town friends and relatives kept attendants busy at refreshment counters, group games, and contests during the afternoon. When that crowd thinned the young set came in, more than 200 couples strong, for their annual Thanksgiving dance.

$35,000 SET ASIDE BY R E A FOR EXTENSION OF MUENSTER LINES

Directors of the Cooke County Electric Co-operative Association are now considering an opportunity to extend their present project 50 miles to serve about 150 additional consumers. On November 25 the Washington REA office advised that it had set aside $35,000 which the local co-op can add to its previously allotted figure of $178,000 for 201 miles and outlined the steps to be completed before allotment can be made.

In connection with the proposed extension Ewel Stone of the Washington office conferred Tuesday with Superintendent J. W. Hess, President Barney Voth and Resident Engineer J. H. Flood. The new area discussed was the Callisburg community in which the co-op had previously made an unsuccessful attempt to extend its project.

Not having placed the proposal before officers and directors Mr. Hess was not prepared to disclose what action would be taken. He considered it likely, however, that Callisburg residents would be advised of their opportunity and given the privilege of developing their project sufficiently to be added to the Muenster project. As in Muenster's case, their work would consist of securing a sufficient number of member-consumers and signed right of way easements along the proposed line.

Callisburg enjoys one advantage that Muenster did not have. It has an allotment waiting providing it will qualify. Muenster had to qualify without an assurance that it would receive REA funds. This condition is regarded as an extra inducement to skeptical farmers.

In his conference Mr. Stone made it plain that the extra $35,000 cannot be kept available indefinitely. If it has to be withdrawn there will be no assurance if or when more funds can be allotted.

FARMERS ENCOURAGED TO FAVOR CROP CONTROL IN ELECTION DECEMBER 10

More than 100 farmers of Muenster and neighboring communities were at the parish hall Tuesday night to hear J. T. Biffle, Jr., Cooke County Agricultural Chairman, encourage a favorable vote in the election of December 10 to decide whether a crop control program on cotton will be effective in 1939.

Calling attention to the county's failure last year to vote the necessary two thirds majority, Mr. Biffle urged his audience to come out in full force this year in support of the administration's program for control of production and surplus.

CHRISTMAS TURKEY PACKING SEASON TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Christmas turkeys are due to start coming to the Farmers Marketing Association next Monday for the year's second dressing and packing program. As during the Thanksgiving season Roy Callahan and "Spot" Minter of Wilson and Company in Oklahoma City will be here to take charge for their company. Both of them were here Wednesday to make preliminary arrangements.

The same men who assisted Callahan and Minter will be on the job again next week, but it is considered likely that the crew of pickers will be smaller.

Three carloads is the goal set by Wilson. The Thanksgiving season consisted of five large carloads, the equivalent of six minimum cars. Based on prices prevailing then, the Christmas program should net about $9,000 to farmers and another $2,000 for dressing, packing, and transportation.

With almost all turkeys sold in Muenster and nearby communities, Callahan and Minter plan to extend their territory to a radius of nearly 50 miles. Turkeys in some of the outlying districts are still plentiful.

PRELIMINARY WORK STARTED BY MORGAN AFTER REA APPROVAL

Washington's official approval of J. E. Morgan and Sons of Waco as contractor for electric co-op lines was submitted to the local office by telegram Monday. Another message at the same time advised Morgan of his 10 day time limit to appear on the job. He was here Tuesday to begin his preliminary plans.

While the contractor is expected to be on the job quite steadily from now on, he probably will not begin digging post holes for another two weeks and will not begin capacity operation before January 1. J. H. Flood judges from his experience on other projects. The dozens of small details will cause many delays. For that reason he expressed the hope that men who had applied for jobs will not become over-optimistic nor begin a siege on the REA office. Reporting for work now, he said, will cause disappointment to applicants and a loss of time to office employees.

By the time the contractor is ready Flood expects to have the entire north end of the area in readiness. Despite unexpected loss of time in the dense woods near Cap's Corner surveying and staking will end shortly. Then follows a brief check-up and preparation of detail drawings. For a great deal of the project both of those tasks are completed.

LECTURES ON WIRING AND USE OF CURRENT SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Combined demonstrations and lectures on the functions and principles of adequate wiring and use of current will be given at six locations in Muenster's rural electrification project area from Tuesday until Friday of next week. J. R. Cobb and Miss Lydia Litter, both of the Utilization Division of REA at Washington, will conduct the series.

In connection with the appearance of the two, Superintendent J. W. Hess is now preparing for the mails two special pamphlets provided by REA. One is entitled "Wiring Your Farm and Home," the other "Dollars in Your Pocket." Both pamphlets are packed with helpful hints that are expected to be of great value to each user of electricity.

Everybody is invited to attend the meetings conducted by Mr. Cobb and Miss Litter, and rural electrification members are especially urged to attend.

The time for each meeting is announced as follows by Mr. Hess: Tuesday, Dec. 6, 7:30 p. m. at Muenster; Wednesday, Dec. 7, 2 p. m. at Marysville; Wednesday, Dec. 7, 7 p. m. at Forestburg; Thursday, Dec. 8, 7:30 p. m. at Lindsay; Friday, Dec. 9, 2 p. m. at Hood; Friday, Dec. 9, 7 p. m. at Bulcher.

At Muenster and Lindsay the program will be accompanied by a talking picture on rural electrification and a short comedy for children. Lack of electric current connections will prevent showing the movie at the other four meetings.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS WIN, LOSE AT HOOD

Muenster and Hood divided honors last Monday when boys and girls of the two schools met for a double header on Hood's courts. Hood had little trouble in winning 19 to 13 in basketball, whereas the Muenster girls won two successive games for an easy volley ball victory.

FOREST FIRE RAVAGES TOPANGA

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—An officer is pictured aiding Gwen Stone, who is carrying belongings from the path of flames which ravaged Topanga Canyon, destroying many fine homes and forcing hundreds of persons to flee for their lives. Sparks from the blazing areas ignited many Malibu Beach homes and caused widespread destruction along the swank Malibu district, in one of the worst fires in California.

SNOW AT CAPITOL

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Photo shows workmen as they shovel the United States Capitol Building from under a seven inch blanket of snow, the heaviest to fall on the Nation's Capitol in November on record, part of the severe storm throughout the East last week.

JOHN MOSMAN QUILTS BEN'S GARAGE, OPENS SAINT JO CAR AGENCY

Thursday December 1 was John Mosman's opening day as proprietor of his own business establishment, the Saint Jo Motor Company at St. Jo. Arrangements for leasing the Aldridge building as his location and securing the agency for Chevrolet automobiles had been completed two weeks ago.

On Wednesday, while he was making arrangements to check out as bookkeeper for Ben Seyler Motor Company, Mosman disclosed that he had already received his first two new cars and that his first car sale was made to J. D. Ratliff, rural carrier of Saint Jo.

Paul Clayton, also an employe at Ben Seyler's, accompanied Mosman to the new business as chief of the service department.

Both Mosman and Clayton have served creditably on the Seyler garage staff for several years. Mosman was bookkeeper and car salesman. Clayton began his service career as a helper in Seyler's repair department and gradually won recognition for his skill in body work, motor rebuilding and motor tune-up.

Neither of the two has made arrangements to change his residence to Saint Jo. Being comfortably housed here they prefer to wait leisurely until desirable homes can be found in Saint Jo.

PAROCHIAL BOYS TRIM PUBLIC SCHOOL FIVE

Father Francis' Parochial basketball team made it a complete and one sided victory over the Public school quint Wednesday afternoon on the Parochial court. The score, 26 to 7, was a pleasing retaliation for the two point margin of Welch's charges in a previous meeting of the two teams.

The Parochial opening lineup clicked to near perfection in the first half, piling up a substantial count while holding their opponents scoreless. The reserves continued to widen the margin while allowing a few points.

SIXTY COUNTY LADS RULE FOR A DAY IN BOYS' DAY PROGRAM

Another boys day is history for about 60 Cooke County lads who "ruled for a day" last Friday in county, city and business positions. Their experience was the feature of the annual event sponsored by Milton Wade of the Plaza Theatre through the cooperation of office holders and business men of Gainesville.

The group of young men, consisting of one representative of each school in the county, started their day with a parade led by the Girls' Training School band. At the courthouse steps they were greeted by Senator Olan Van Zandt in a short inspirational address on their destiny as future citizens. County Judge Ray Winder then added a few remarks and presented at inaugural ceremonies. At noon the boys were luncheon guests of Milton Wade.

Official terms of office began at one o'clock with each boy under the guidance of the regular office holder or business man. Terms ended two hours later when the lads again became Milton Wade's guests at the State Theatre's current feature, "Out West With the Hardys."

To Giles Lehnertz of the Parochial school fell the position of County Judge and the duty of presiding at the commissioners' court consisting of four more school children. Because of an illness which forced him to go home immediately after inaugural ceremonies, County Judge Ray Winder was not able to direct the boys' activity. His place was taken by the regular group of commissioners in directing typical commissioners' court cases.

Young Lehnertz was also one of the favored few to appear on a radio interview over Gainesville's broadcasting station, KDNT. During the entire day's program he was accompanied by Father Francis Zimmerer.

Edward Haverkamp of the Muenster Public school spent his official time as manager of the Plaza Theatre, becoming acquainted with the manifold details of picture show operation.

Lindsay's boy, Henry Spaeth, was assigned the duties of tax collector-assessor under the direction of Hugh Hamilton.

HOEDEBECK ARRESTS MAN SUSPECTED IN MONTAGUE BURGLARY

Cooperating with the sheriff's department of Montague County, Constable Frank Hoedebeck last Saturday arrested Lloyd Romine of Bulcher in connection with the burglary of a grocery store in Montague on Nov. 19.

The officers arrived early Saturday with a few clues. After about two hours of investigating Hoedebeck decided upon Romine as a suspect, arrested and turned him over to the Montague authorities. Investigation led also to suspecting a Montague County citizen as being involved in the burglary.

The stolen items, consisting chiefly of cigarettes and tobacco, were discovered on a farm about two and a half miles east of Montague.

8,914 BALES UP TO NOV. 14

A census report from Edwin Huf-faker of the Department of Commerce shows that the current year's cotton crop in Cooke County reached 8,914 bales up to November 14. Last year's record for the corresponding period was 12,808.

Felker Begins This Week On New Bridge and Road Through Big Elm Bottom

GRADUAL RETURN OF MILK TRADE EXPECTED BY CHEESE FACTORY

In an effort to regain some of the cheese factory's lost patronage Rudy Hellman was in Dallas Tuesday conferring with officials of Borden milk company over its recent extension to the south part of Cooke county and the north part of Denton county.

Gradually the business will come back, he said "but just now Borden is reluctant to cut off the premium price with which it was able to invade our territory even though it is over its stage of critical shortage.

Because of the prevailing drought several weeks ago Borden's supply was running short of its demand. It solved the problem by sending a truck to the Denton-Cooke borderline vicinity and offering a better price than farmers were getting at the cheese plant. Their action was an emergency measure and will likely be discontinued as soon as production in the Dallas area justifies cancellation of the special inducement. When that happens farmers will naturally turn to Cooke County buyers because of the saving in transportation cost.

Milk receipts at the cheese factory now total about 20,000 pounds. Normally the receipts for this time are about 28,000. Part of this loss is explained by Borden's invasion, the remainder by the drought.

MUENSTER, LINDSAY BOTH HIT HIGH MARK IN RED CROSS DRIVE

More than doubling its record of last year, Muenster went over the top in a grand way in its recently completed Red Cross drive. Mrs. G. H. Hellman was the only solicitor.

After two busy days, Friday and Saturday of last week, Mrs. Hellman submitted a total of $59.55 to F. X. Schad of Gainesville, County Red Cross Chairman. Muenster's contribution last year was $23.25.

In behalf of the organization both Mr. Schad and Mrs. Hellman expressed their deepest gratitude for the splendid support given by Muenster this year and offered an assurance to every donor that contributions would be used to carry on the worthy activity for which Red Cross is known.

For the benefit of persons unfamiliar with Red Cross work in this county Mr. Schad pointed out that 50 cents of each membership amounting to $1.00 or more is submitted to national headquarters for use in floods, storms, large fires, or other calamities. The remainder is kept in the local fund and spent on medicines for poor families or eye glasses for poor school children who cannot afford to buy them.

Mr. Schad included also a word of praise for Lindsay's generous response to Mesdames Joe Bezner and Al Kuntz. The total collection there was $37.11, including $3.56 of spare pennies, nickels, and dimes from school children. In recognition of its contribution the Lindsay school will receive a Junior Red Cross membership. Last year's collection at Lindsay amounted to slightly less than $10.00.

Judging from his few returns from community and ward workers, Mr. Schad estimated that the county total this year will be about the same as that of last year, about $760. Some are exceeding their last year's collection, others are falling short, he said.

FIRE SUNDAY RAZES HOME, NEW BUILDING STARTED TUESDAY A. M.

Jack Blakely of Bulcher lost little time in starting reconstruction after a disastrous fire that razed his home and all its contents Sunday. Monday he was in Muenster making arrangements for his new home. He started building Tuesday.

Because of the fact that no injuries were sustained Blakely considers himself fortunate even though the fire was a total loss. He did not have the place protected by insurance.

He had no trouble deciding on his building plans; they were already prepared for the new home he expected to build soon. The fire merely caused him to start it sooner than he intended.

Mr. Blakely has been an oil field employe at Bulcher for about 10 years.

Handled Through $12,000 WPA Project

Two Way Steel Bridge Will Span 105 Feet, New Road To Be Of Gravel 18 Feet Wide 8 Inches Thick

Cooke County's most expensive strip of county road, across Big Elm creek and bottomlands on the Muenster Linn road, is now under construction. Work began Monday with County Commissioner Babe Felker as sponsor and J. A. Sullins of Bonham as supervisor over a crew of 58 WPA workers.

When completed, this strip of one and a tenth mile will really be something for other road builders to shoot at, Sullins remarked. A total of about $12,000 will be spent in the entire project, which, when finished, will be the best possible gravel road. About $2,200 is estimated as the cost of the bridge, the remainder will be used to clear right of way, grade and gravel.

The cost to Cooke County, however, will represent only a small percentage of the total. All of the laborers, who will normally number about 60, are being paid with WPA funds. Materials and tools are paid by the county but their cost is offset to a great extent by special WPA allowances of $5.00 daily for each truck, $40.00 daily for each grader and tractor, and $6.00 for each man month of WPA labor. Under the present condition of a tractor and grader, two trucks and 60 workers the daily allowance is $50. The county is actually spending about 20 cents for each dollar's worth of value, Sullins said.

An outstanding feature of the road is the new bridge replacing that which was broken down several weeks ago by an oil field truck and trailer loaded with pipe. Its main span of 60 feet will be made of steel and supported on creosoted piling. Fifteen and thirty foot approaches will join it on the north and south to make a total span of 105 feet. It will be wide enough to permit an 18 foot roadway, sufficient for two way traffic.

Eliminating the present winding trail with its sharp turns and poor visibility, the new road is a direct continuation of that passing the Alphonse Walterscheid home. The present project is to have it join the old road at Tony Trubebach's, but efforts are being made to secure additional right of way through the Stark property and extend the road about a fourth of a mile farther to the top of the hill. Its gravel surface will be 18 feet wide and 8 inches thick.

Sullins estimates that the entire project can be completed in about three months with reasonable allowances for bad weather.

The project is unique in that it is one of the few WPA road jobs in which the superintendent is accommodated with an office, especially one mounted on wheels. This office happens to be the county cook shack from way back when county road employes camped with their equipment.

OPENING MEETINGS HELD THIS WEEK BY TWO STUDY GROUPS

Ladies who made up the membership of the Hyacinth Study Club last year met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. M. J. Endres to reorganize for the current season.

The group spent their time in round-table discussion of their new textbook and decided to meet once each week, on Monday evenings at 7:30 in the home of Miss Mary Becker. They also agreed to retain their club name.

Anyone interested in Study Club work is welcome at these meetings and is invited to be present next Monday evening when the first chapter of "The Sacramentals" will be discussed.

The first of a series of religious study meetings for Knights of Columbus and Catholic Daughters of America was held Wednesday night in the K of C hall with Father Francis Zimmerer as director. Other meetings, at least during the season of Advent will be held each Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Meetings will consist of discussions based on the text, "The Sacramentals," and on any religious question submitted to the club through its question box.

LET'S "HURRY BACKWARDS"

An interesting sketch of a great contemporary mind is the article on Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, in the current issue of a popular national magazine. Because he shows a preference for some of the ideas that gave order and system to past ages he has been termed as "a dangerous young man in a hurry backwards."

The spirit in which Hutchins' opinion is regarded hints at a fairly good explanation of some of the evils that are making educators and social leaders scratch their heads nowadays. Is a person going backwards, does he fail to keep up with the progress of his time, simply because he sticks to a few truths that have been accepted for centuries rather than embrace conflicting theories of the present day?

Hutchins contends that the modern world needs more of Aristotle and Aquinas, that metaphysics and theology can put order in modern thought just as they did in the thought of Greece and medieval Europe. Some contemporary philosophers cannot accept such opinions because of a conflict with certain unfounded modern theories; sometimes because the old ideas offer no justification for modern practices.

More power to Hutchins and others of his standard. They have a tremendous chore in bringing modern education to embrace again the set of principles upon which the ancient Greeks and Scholastics were able to point out a magnificent harmony in human nature, science and revelation. Followers of that same school even today are abreast—without encountering conflicts—with the most recently established facts of science.

Of secondary importance is the fact that some modern systems of thought do not agree with revelation or instinctive knowledge. The consequence is what causes the trouble. When pseudo-learned men convince students that there is no Supreme Being, or that fatalism replaces their inborn conviction of free will, it is natural for those students to assume that they will never have to give an account of their stewardship, or that they cannot be held responsible for what they do. With such ideas becoming rampant—as they certainly are—is it surprising that conscience with its sense of duty and obligation is about to lose its voice?

It is safe to say that many present world problems would not exist if "intellectual leaders" of the past few centuries had not strayed from the path of truth. Before Hutchins and other leaders of thought lies the task of putting truth back on its throne. Before parents lies the responsibility of sending their offspring to schools whose system of thought does not conflict with revelation and conscience.

Here is one way in which it is to the world's advantage to hurry backwards.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

This week witnesses the annual step from Thanksgiving celebration to Christmas shopping confusion. The same old questions of what to get for each person on the gift list arises to make the whole thing seem a sort of bothersome adventure that, once ended, will leave a feeling of achievement but just now makes a person wish it were all over.

The spirit of giving is, to a large extent, our spirit of Christmas. Every one hopes his selection will be just the thing to make the favored person happy. At the same time everyone knows that his present will be accepted more in the spirit of an expected remembrance than in the intended spirit. Say what we will, Christmas giving has become rather tainted as a mere social habit of gift swapping. With many it is regarded as a sort of obligation, it does not give the hoped for satisfaction but rather a freedom from the guilt that would be felt if the traditional present were neglected.

How much more like the real thing it would be to determine this year that Christmas giving will include more than the usual routine of swap-out presents! The will to do something about it, a little looking about for the right kind of opportunity, perhaps a touch of originality, can make this the most glorious Christmas on record for some poor unfortunate, as well as the most pleasant for the kind hearted donor.

There need be no great expense involved, not even an additional expense over the usual budget. Take a tip from the employees in a certain office who agreed to pool all the money they would have used on greeting cards to one another and buy a first class Christmas dinner for some poor family. The one who likes that idea can see several friends and agree to use the "present swapping" money for some unfortunates. Who will doubt that he can enjoy giving that kind of present many times more than the usual one.

The mission circle and the boy scouts present two more opportunities for the proper kind of Christmas giving. Old clothing or toys will make Christmas more real for orphans or destitute families. The idea that things need to be new and attractively wrapped means absolutely nothing. What counts is that an item will be useful especially to one who could not have afforded to buy it.

A little more thought will convince that Muenster people have as much opportunity as anyone else for putting the real Christmas spirit in action. Those who like the idea will do something about it. Those who don't like it are giving themselves a less pleasant holiday.

Advertisement for Confetti by CON FETTE, with text: 'Some people can be so darn contemptible! They get your goat and don't seem to give a hoot that they are paying for it with the loss of your respect, which, incidentally, makes the goat getting effect a little more effective. This remark is provoked by an incident that came to our notice a few weeks ago when a man, claiming to be in real distress wanted to borrow—; beg pardon, perhaps it isn't quite fair to tell all about the incident, but you can get the idea from a somewhat similar story. Suppose a man runs out of gas somewhere near your farm home and asks you to sell him a few gallons. Unfortunately though, he does not have the money, he'll pay you next Tuesday. An so, feeling like a sap all the while, you siphon a few gallons out of your car and watch him carry it away in your best gas can. You are not surprised so much as plain peeved because he has neither paid nor returned the can. Suggestion: If you happen to be sored on the world don't pass up an opportunity for a stunt like that. It's as cheap a way as any to make people hate you. While on the subject of gyps we cannot overlook the chance to tell about one somewhere up East. A stranger coming into a small town leased an opera house, also the largest bill-board, on which he put the simple message "He is coming." A few weeks later the sign was replaced by "He will be at the opera house' next Thursday." Wednesday the sign said "He is here." Thursday morning it said "See him at the opera house at 8 o'clock tonight." That night he himself was selling tickets at $1.00 each to a packed house. At show time the lights fell upon another huge sign: "He is gone." Fashion says that frozen ears no longer have to be tolerated. In fact fashion encourages you whether or not your ears are cold, to put on a pair of those fancy, new, highly colored ear muffs. College crowds up East, they say, are taking to them in a big way and lots of guys and gals in our part of the country like 'em too. At football games ear muffs have another creditable use. They keep out surplus noise while keeping the warmth in. No doubt they are fully appreciated by people who have the misfortune to sit beside one of those constantly shouting foghorn-voiced fans. A dazzling combination of ropes and boards is Fritz Stoffel's Painting, Repairing, and General Use Portable Roof Scaffold. It is designed to take roof jobs out of the category of work and place them under the general heading of leisure, for, believe it or not, a fellow can stay seated all the while. Equipped with casters, the entire framework rolls horizontally along the roof and the seat is equipped with more casters that permit rolling up and down the framework. Motive power is supplied windless fashion. The only bad features of the rigging are that moving it requires more power than walking around, also that the thing is too likely to be just where a person wants to work. What day is next Tuesday? Ask all the school children in the United States that question and, we'll wager against odds, not one tenth of them will think of Santa Claus. Somehow modern times have adopted Christmas as Santa's big day instead of the traditional feast of Saint Nicholas. Does the striking similarity in the words Saint Nicholas and Santa Claus suggest anything? If so, ask some of the old timers about it. All of them recall how they used to look forward to a visit from the hearty old boy with expansive front, white whiskers, and red pants. They can tell how he barged in, picked out a dozen or so kids to recite speeches or prayers or brag about how good they had been, then pass out candies and advice. We've got to admit we're all wrong now. We hear lots about Santa Claus but nothing about Saint Nicholas. Children have no idea that the two names once were the same. They do not know that December 6 is supposed to be his big day. Instead they believe that he's a wonderful-working somebody who can pull his huge bulk and skads of toys down a small chimney. But what is worse still is that the real meaning of Christmas as the anniversary of the Savior's birth is completely hidden by the presence of Santa. We voice a plea to put Santa Claus back in his place. Let the kids know he's good old Saint Nick and that he will be around on December 6. And by all means give them a chance to learn what Christmas really is, and that the day's blessings are the gifts of the Babe of Bethlehem. It even gives a more acceptable explanation for the presence of toys and filled stockings. The miracle of creating toys is more in God's line than coming through a chimney in Santa's.
