

KNIGHTS OPEN CRUSADE FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE

Program Explained By Supreme Council Man

State Deputy, Other Guest Speakers to Appear at Open Meeting Here Next
Wednesday, Feb. 22

Enlisting for the defense of Christianity against already frequent and vicious attacks by atheistic "isms," Muenster Knights of Columbus held their opening rally of the international crusade for Christian Justice at Gainesville last Sunday night. The occasion was a district meeting attended by knights of Muenster, Gainesville, Sherman, Denison, and Pilot Point and led by Merlin Conlon, representative of the K of C supreme council. He was assisted by State Deputy C. K. Walsh and District Deputy Francis Mooney.

"While Communism aims to destroy all religion," Conlon said, "it is a distressing fact that only one of the many branches of Christianity has taken up the defense; the Catholic church is fighting single handed to protect the birthright of Jew, Protestant, and Catholic as well as democracy and Americanism. As a leading Catholic organization it is the duty of our order to lead in a defense of Christianity."

Conlon also pointed out that Communism makes its advances through discontent. It charges that evils now rampant are caused by the failure of democracy, capitalism, and Christianity. Defense against such an attack must eliminate as many abuses as possible and at the same time present basic principles in such a way that people may know the merits of one system and the demerits of the other.

The plan of defense includes five major points: devotion—seeking supernatural help, courage, and perseverance for the gigantic task; knowledge—to successfully defend Christian principles and expose hostile fallacies; action—to put that knowledge to work for every possible improvement, to spread the good word and to check what is false; unity—to accomplish by numbers many things that cannot be done single handed; and strength—to enlist as many as possible in the work.

Though inspired by the motive of defending Christianity, the Crusade for Christian Justice is primarily an offensive campaign. It will fight fire with fire. Whereas Communism proposes revolution, force, and overthrow of an entire system as a remedy for discontent, it will propose keeping our system but peacefully culling out the pagan standards of greed, immorality, injustice and the other evils that are actually responsible for current troubles. It will convert doubtful ones to orderly thinking in order to prevent the enemy's converting them to anarchy.

MUENSTER DRAMATIC CLUB WILL PRESENT 3 ACT COMEDY SUNDAY

Seizing their last pre-lenten opportunity the Muenster Dramatic Club will appear at the parish hall next Sunday night, Feb. 19, at 8 p. m. in their new play, "The Folks Next Door," Father Francis Zimmerer, director, disclosed Tuesday.

Their presentation will be accompanied by between-the-acts numbers by the Muenster choir under Leo Henschel's direction and a recitation, "Rejected," by Giles Lehnertz.

"The Folks Next Door" is a comedy of laughter in three swiftly moving acts based upon the very intimate friendship of two neighboring families and especially of the masters of the two households. Their mutually perfect understanding is the talk of the town, so much so that they become unanimous choice for the Damon and Pythias roles in a tableau. To escape the embarrassing appearance in tights they stage a fake quarrel, the results of which get slightly beyond their control. The task of restoring peace makes the play. Its outstanding merit is that it deals with normal people getting more deeply involved through perfectly normal misunderstanding. The dialogue is good.

Included in the cast are Misses Emma Hoenig, Irene Walterscheid, Marie Pels, Josephine Yosten, Eleanor Henschel, and Olivia Walterscheid; and Leo Schmitt, Werner Becker, Johnny Wimmer, Karl Wimmer, Earl Lehnertz and Walter Klement.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL FLIGHT ENDS IN CRASH

MITCHELL FIELD, L. I.—Army officers group themselves about crumpled wreckage of the XP-38 to prevent photographing of several of the more unusual departures in design of this "newest and fastest" airplane which ended its trans-continental flight with crash at Mitchell Field. Pilot Lieutenant Ben Kelsey failed to clear a clump of trees near the border of the field as a result his near-record hop from March Field, Calif. to this Long Island field ended in this ignominious fashion.

WHERE NEW POPE WILL BE ELECTED

VATICAN CITY, ROME.—The Sistine Chapel in St. Peter's Cathedral arranged for the meeting of the Cardinals, who will vote for the successor to the dead Pope. When the voting is completed, the canopies above each throne are lowered, save that of the Cardinal who has been chosen Supreme Pontiff. The signal is then given to the world by the white smoke of the burning ballots which can be seen by the crowds waiting in the square in front of St. Peter's.

AS GOOD AS HAVING THE PART IN STOCK --AIRPLANE DELIVERY

Special delivery via airplane—that's the deluxe service received by Herr Motor Company last week from a car parts salvage concern at Bowie.

Needing a radiator grille for a repair job, Shorty called Bowie and asked whether they could send one out right away. The answer was yes. Only a few minutes later, it seemed, the garage attendants, along with other spectators around town stepped outside to see the plane that was just skimming tree and building tops, and heard the pilot shout "come out and get your grille." Then the plane headed for a landing in Fleitman's pasture and Shorty promptly rushed out to get his part.

Shorty's order came in just as the salvage shop owner was preparing to accompany a friend on a flight to East Texas.

FMA GETS SET FOR MILK INCREASE WITH PLANT IMPROVEMENTS

A series of changes at the FMA plant, some prompted by efficiency or convenience and some prompted by state boiler inspectors, is nearing completion this week.

As a safety feature two new blow-off valves were installed to permit a boiler clean-out every six hours. Most other work is being done on whey drying equipment. A new pre-heating unit consisting of a half dozen pipes passing through a steam jacket, surpasses the old tank type in that it permits continuous heating and does not increase the moisture content as when raw steam is added. An important convenience feature is a new portable pump with connections adapting it for use all over the plant and designed for moving

BRIGHT GABLE INN LOSES ABOUT $140 IN SATURDAY BURGLARY

The epidemic of burglary and robbery that has kept Cooke county officers working overtime during recent months struck twice in the community since last Saturday.

Bud Bernauer's Bright Gable Inn sustained a heavy loss near midnight last Saturday just after he had closed for the night. Contrary to his custom he locked the building before the arrival of Ed Swirczynski, who has been sleeping there as a precaution against burglars. Thinking that Ed would be there shortly, Bud left at 10:45. Ed arrived 20 minutes later and found the place ransacked.

Among items missed in the check-up were $20.65 from the cash register, all coins from the nickel photograph, 12 cartons of cigarettes, an electric clock, 2 radios, a half dozen one dollar pipes, and Ed's suit and overcoat. The total loss is estimated at about $140.

Suspects in the case were several men who were loitering about the place and showed some reluctance to leave as Bud was closing. Driving away just ahead of him, it was thought they returned just a few minutes later. One of the suspects was arrested by county officers the following day but was released when no evidence could be found to make a case.

Another case was the brazen theft of a slot machine at Ed Mage's Rock Station four miles east of Muenster Tuesday night. He states that two men, accompanied by two young boys, identified themselves as state officers and said they had come for his slot machine. When Mage's ignored their demand that he carry the machine out to them, one of the party stepped in and took it.

From the fact that the men failed to back their claim with proper credentials, and also that they lied about taking two machines in Muenster, it is taken for granted they were thieves.

CHARLES P. PRIDDY, PAST COUNTY CLERK, DIES IN GAINESVILLE

Gainesville.—Funeral services for Charles P. Priddy, 70, were held at the First Presbyterian church here at 10 a. m. Saturday. Rev. Clyde Kennedy, pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. Garland Shell of Temple. Burial was in Fairview cemetery under the direction of George J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home.

Mr. Priddy died shortly after 6 o'clock last Thursday evening at his home after being stricken while eating. He was a prominent citizen of Gainesville and Cooke county for more than 50 years and served for 10 years as county clerk.

He came to this city from Henderson, Tennessee, when a young man and was employed in a general merchandise store. He returned to Henderson to marry Miss Mannie Thomas who died in this city a year ago. Soon after his marriage, Mr. Priddy became a salesman for William Kilgore's department store, in which he was an employe for 40 years. For several years he was employed as a traveling salesman.

After suffering a paralytic stroke in March, 1927, which rendered him a semi-invalid, he became a candidate for the office of county clerk, in which capacity he served for 10 years without interruption. He was owner of a farm near Gainesville where he spent a great part of his time since retiring from public office in January of this year.

As a member of the First Presbyterian church he served as an elder for 40 years and was Sunday School superintendent for 25 years. He was born August 26, 1868, in Henderson, Tennessee.

Survivors include four sons, seven daughters, 16 grandchildren, one great-grandchild, 2 brothers and one sister.

METERS ARRIVE, MAN TO INSTALL WILL BE PICKED SOON BY CO-OP

Another step in local rural electrification progress is the arrival of meters at the co-op office Wednesday. Installation of the meters will probably begin within a week or ten days, Superintendent J. W. Hess stated.

Several applications for the job of permanent maintenance man, whose first duty would be to install the meters, are now being considered by the co-op officials. Selections by officials in this case will be subject to approval by the Washington REA office.

It is likely that the installation of meters will complete the project north of Muenster. Almost 100 miles of wire has already been strung and what few finishing touches are required can easily be completed while the co-op installs its meters. That section of line will then be ready for energizing.

A letter sent out by Mr. Hess Monday urges all prospective consumers who have not already wired their homes to do so at the earliest possible date in order to reach the minimum number required by REA for energizing the lines and permit the flow of current, if possible, as soon as the contractor releases the line.

Next Monday the co-op directors along with the superintendent and wiring inspector will meet with REA officials at Cleburne.

Petition Seeks To Remove Handicap From Graduates Of Non-Affiliated Schools

POPE PIUS XI DIES

PASSING OF PIUS XI OBSERVED HERE BY ANCIENT CEREMONY

Traditions and ceremonies that date back many centuries in Catholic church history are being observed in Muenster to respect the memory of Pope Pius XI, who succumbed last Friday to the illness that threatened his life on several occasions during the past two years.

Early Wednesday morning a flag was raised to half mast on the parochial school flagstaff, which towers over the adjoining church property, and was permitted to remain there until noon.

At 8 o'clock an impressive number of the Muenster congregation gathered to attend the mass of requiem offered for the repose of his soul by Father Frowin Koerd, pastor.

Though resembling a normal funeral or anniversary requiem in the presence of tapers surrounding the draped catafalque, the service was distinguished by the presence of papal colors with black crepe. On the catafalque was a replica of the papal tiara, also a chalice and stole as symbols of the Holy Father's sacerdotal powers.

Another custom of the church is being observed in permitting the papal colors and crepe to remain in the church for thirty days.

BENEFIT PICNIC DANCE FOR PAROCHIAL HIGH AT K-C HALL TUESDAY

As this community's final social event before forty days and forty nights of lenten calm, the building committee of the Parochial High School will give a benefit picnic and dance next Thursday night, Feb. 21, in the K of C Hall. Proceeds are to be put into the new building fund.

Henry Hennigan, chairman in charge of picnic activities, said that the old favorite game of Tango will be the center of attraction in the basement. There will, however, be plenty of tables for the benefit of those who prefer cards or dominoes. Sandwiches and iced drinks will also be available.

In general the picnic feature is being provided as a get-together and party for those who do not care to dance. Others will be entertained upstairs to the music of the Texas Bluebirds of Megargle. Roy Endres, dance chairman, stated that a number of special old time numbers will be requested for those who like a return to waltzes and schottisches.

The picnic will begin at 7 o'clock and the dance about an hour later.

Asks State Credits For Passing State Exams

Senator and Representative Will be Asked to Propose And Support Bill Before State Legislature

In an effort to remove the handicap imposed on the two Muenster high schools, as well as all other non-affiliated schools, Virgil Lee Welch, public school principal began Wednesday to circulate a petition requesting the state legislature to institute a system of exams by which pupils in non-affiliated schools may become eligible for college entrance.

Al Kleiss, a member of the local school board, originated the idea and before asking Welch to draw up and circulate the petition, conferred with Fathers Frowin and Francis regarding the proposal's bearing on the parochial school. Finding that his plan was warmly accepted, he instructed Welch to make the petition applicable to private as well as public schools.

In general the proposal suggests that pupils of non-affiliated schools be permitted to take examinations at the end of each school year on the subjects just completed. Questions are to be submitted by the State Department of Education, and exam papers are to be submitted to that department for grading; and pupils who make satisfactory grades in such exams are to receive credentials which, for college entrance, are as acceptable as those of an accredited high school.

It was pointed out that the proposal is more fair than college entrance exams in that it permits pupils to take the test while the subject is still fresh on their minds, as children of accredited schools are privileged to do. Most educators admit that only remarkable students can pass an exam two or three years after taking the course.

"Many a good student in a good school is handicapped now by rigid affiliation requirements," Welch said. "They deserve a chance to show that they are qualified for college work. After all, the student's ability, not his school's standing, should be the deciding factor."

A provision similar to this was in effect for several years but was discarded last year following charges that it was arbitrarily set up by the State Department of Education. For two years exams submitted by the department were used as final exams in the public school here. The petition now circulating seeks legislative action to provide such exams permanently.

Two copies of the petition are being prepared, one for Senator Olan Van Zandt, the other for Representative Jim Pace.

CLOSING SERVICE OF 40 HOURS ADORATION DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Sacred Heart Church was packed to the last seat and a great deal of the standing room last Sunday afternoon when solemn services closed the annual Forty Hours Adoration.

Concluding his series of twelve sermons during the three days, Father John Walde of Oklahoma City, urged a special devotion to Christ in the Blessed Eucharist as a guide to contentment and happiness, as a refuge in distress. He stressed that the same Savior who spent His life preaching a gospel of love, healing the afflicted, and finally sacrificing His life for the salvation of mankind, is ever present in the tabernacle, longing to be invited into the hearts of men to carry on the labor of love and salvation begun during His career of teaching and performing miracles.

Besides Father Walde's sermon the closing service consisted of benediction with the Blessed Eucharist, and the "Te Deum" sung by the congregation.

AMERICAN BUSINESS

By JOHN CRADDOCK

NEW YORK — BUSINESS—The rosy hues which economists predicted for the 1939 business picture are slow in appearing, due to the unsettling news from abroad. It is still anticipated, however, that the air will clear sufficiently by early spring to encourage a further climb toward prosperity levels. Buyers for department stores, who have uncanny ways of knowing months ahead of time what Mr. and Mrs. Consumer are going to buy, predict that women will buy 20 per cent more gloves, hats, jewelry and pocketbooks than they did last year and 10 per cent more kitchenware, curtains and bathroom equipment. American motorists, who now boast of a radio in every third passenger automobile, will buy 1,000,000 more sets for their cars this year, a 25 per cent increase over 1938 volume, according to trade surveys.

WASHINGTON — Between now and June 30 REA will add, or allot funds for, electric service to 500,000 more farm families—a welcome hypo for industry. REA orders or allocations for materials will then have reached $150,000,000—poles, $29,000,000; line hardware and cross-arms, $6,500,000; insulators, $1,500,000; transformers, $27,000,000; cut-outs and brackets, $18,000,000; grouping equipment, $1,500,000, and conductors, $49,000,000. Such orders have far-reaching effects. Take the last (and largest) item, conductors: Of the 730,000 miles of aluminum power cable the U. S. has consumed, 115,000 miles were required by REA. New 1939 orders will help stabilize employment for the bauxite mines of Arkansas, for the common carriers, for aluminum plant workers, for aluminum reduction and fabricating plants, and even for the steel industry, which provides conductor cores. To top it off, orders for appliances will have reached a total of $90,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Porous rubber whisk-broom which picks up lint, fluff particles and dust specks and is easily cleaned by squeezing it in soapy water—A sleep kit, containing a light-shield and ear plugs, for insomnia sufferers—"Piano Christmas Clubs" for families who want to save during the year for a piano at Yuletide—New method of sending facsimile telegrams so simple that a child can operate it; sender writes message on blank in black ink or pencil and drops it in slot and the message is automatically received in the main telegraph office.

MODERNIZATION MARKET — Already-built homes in America form a market for 3,500,000 new bathtubs or showers, 2,500,000 flush toilets, 5,000,000 furnaces, 2,250,000 modern stoves and 1,000 sinks. These figures, larger by far than plumbing equipment manufacturers had ever dared estimate the modernization market, are deduced from a thorough study by the WPA of 8,000,000 family dwellings, or about half the homes in the country. As far as absolutely necessary repairs to these houses are concerned, it is estimated that wide-awake and aggressive dealers, plumbers, roofers and builders have a potential market requiring $7,750,000,000 in labor and material or about six times the nation's 1938 bill for new residential construction.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE—Businessmen, laborers and housewives seldom find common denominators of opinion, but according to a survey last week in the authoritative Fortune magazine they have united in voting confidence in the "streamlined" mass distribution system of chain stores. The survey showed a nation-wide opposition to anti-chain store legislation, such as the "death sentence" tax proposed by Representative Wright Patman, of Texas. Only 6.3 per cent of the public favor the proposed destruction of the chains. Of even greater significance was the 16 per cent gain, since the magazine conducted a similar poll two years ago, in the number of citizens voting for leaving the chains alone. Condemnation of anti-chain agitation was "fairly universal" among persons of all income brackets and political beliefs in every section of the country, the magazine found.

lom, often proved, states that 'public health is purchasable and within natural limitations any community can determine its own death rate.' To no other serious communicable disease can we apply this axiom with more dramatic results than syphilis," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In the first place no more serious disease is as widespread as syphilis. Annually we have twice as many cases of syphilis as tuberculosis, 13 times diphtheria, 25 times typhoid and 50 times infantile paralysis. Secondly the attack of syphilis is devastating. It is a killer and no part of the body is immune. Syphilis cuts off life in early childhood at man's greatest period of productivity. Annually in America syphilis steals one million years of life from the normal life span of its victims, but before it kills, syphilis seriously wounds and tortures, bringing blindness, deafness, chronic illness, crippled minds and bodies to those it selects.

Approximately fifty million dollars in taxes are spent each year for the support in eleemosynary institutes of those blind and insane from syphilis. Fifteen per cent of all blindness and 12 per cent of all insanity are attributable to syphilis. A small portion of this considerable tax money spent annually for education and disease prevention would more than pay for itself through money saved in future years. This economic argument is less important when we consider that by the same efforts we simultaneously reduce the appalling total of misery and death resulting from syphilis.

"Public health is purchasable." Apply this to the syphilis problem. If we would appropriate adequate funds for syphilis control we would save not only the tax bill for institutional care but we would also save 168 million dollars in wages now lost to American male workers each year because of illness attributable to syphilis and other venereal diseases.

Funds for education and for finding and treating cases of syphilis are an insurance for future health security. Educating the public to the danger of syphilis and helping them to guard against it means fewer infections and exposure to syphilis. Individual and family health depend upon public health at large and as can be proved public health can be purchased. Its cost is never too high. Whatever public health may cost per capita outlay dwarfs to insignificance when compared to the tremendous cost of supporting eleemosynary institutions, indigency caused by disease, misery and ill health.

ACCIDENT RECORD OF TEXAS' TRAFFIC SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN 1938

Motor vehicle accidents snuffed out one life every five and one-half hours on Texas highways, streets and roads during 1938. More than $25,000,000.00 was the estimated economic loss in the state due to motor vehicle accidents in 1938. These facts and figures were revealed by Harry S. Phillips, traffic and safety engineer of the State Highway Department, who declared that although there is more than a one per cent reduction in the daily average of fatalities and also a marked decrease in the number of motor vehicle accidents for a year's period, the number of traffic fatalities in Texas is still far too high.

He called attention to the 8.8 average daily death toll for the ten-day period, Dec. 23, 1938 to Jan. 1, 1939, that included an all time high fatality mark of 25 deaths on Dec. 24, when one person was killed every 57 and one-half minutes.

The 76 fatal accidents on the streets and highways of Texas during the Christmas holidays," Mr. Phillips said, "took a toll of 88 lives, inflicted personal injury to 105, and resulted in an economic loss of approximately $1,087,150.00"

According to statistics compiled by the traffic division, "the driver had been drinking in 21, or 27.6 per cent of the 76 fatal accidents, and 14, or 18.4 per cent, of the accidents were the result of vehicles traveling "too fast for conditions."

Bad weather was largely responsible for the great increase in accidents during the holiday season, Mr. Phillips explained.

Of the 1,610 fatalities recorded for the year, Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1938, 45.3 per cent were attributable to the primary causes, "driver had been drinking," and "driving too fast for conditions. Mechanical failure of vehicle resulted in 12.2 per cent of the fatal accidents, and responsibility rested on the pedestrian in 13.7 per cent, Mr. Phillips said.

Drivers were cautioned to refrain from drinking when operating a motor vehicle and to keep their vehicles under control at all times that an appreciable reduction in traffic accidents may be attained during 1939.

BOY, BLIND, TYPES KNITS, PLAYS VIOLIN; HAS GOOD GRADES

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—He's blind—yet he typewrites, tunes pianos, makes rag rugs, knits, plays the violin, sings and earns his own living selling home-made leather goods.

Besides, 17-year-old Dale Pass of Salt Lake City is an above-average student at South High School. A former student at the State School for the blind at Ogden, Utah, and at the California School for the Blind at Berkeley, young Pass thinks it's fun to earn his own way making and selling leather belts, handbags, wallets and suspenders.

Unable to participate in outdoor sports, the smiling youth turned to other hobbies. He joined the school knitting club and made a sweater for himself.

His mother, Mrs. E. R. Pass, explained Dale's eyes, weak at birth, gradually dimmed as he grew older. Years of medical care failed to help. "He's a happy boy despite his handicap," the mother said. "He gets as much pleasure out of indoor hobbies as normal boys do out of outdoor activities."

Dale reads Braille and writes most of his school work on the typewriter. His sister, Barbara, 15, reads to him and accompanies him to and from school.

The average vocabulary of a child of 12 is 14,000 words.

HOME DOLLARS ARE OUR OWN Children

We cannot spare the dollars earned in this community any more than we could do without our young people who were born here.

It would be civic suicide if we were always to send away the best of our youth. Likewise, home-earned dollars, born of our own hard work, should not be sent away needlessly to give strength to other communities at the expense of our own.

This is a matter for every citizen to think about—and to do something about. Patronize home merchants. Boost this community. Buy and bank at home. Keep our dollars here to nourish our future prosperity. Let's all do our part.

HIS WORK IS DONE

The world was shocked, though not surprised, when a news bulletin from Rome shortly before 6 o'clock last Friday morning announced that it is Holiness, Pope Pius XI, is dead. For many months people had been in suspense for fear that each of his many attacks might be the last, and each time they rejoiced that the saintly leader was spared again to continue his gigantic task of service to God and man. Men marveled at the indomitable spirit, the heroic sacrifice, that had no regard for bodily affliction when the welfare of human beings required his attention.

Pope Pius was a pope to the end. As if in answer to his prayer, he was spared the period of lingering helplessness when he could not exercise his guiding influence in behalf of his fellow man. To the very last day he labored in the interests of peace and justice, matching wits with the leaders of nations, demanding of despots a respect for the rights given by God to His favored creatures. There is little wonder that news of his passing was met all over the world with the sad comment—incidentally the perfect tribute—"Just when he was so badly needed!"

But is his service still needed? No doubt people are willing to accept an answer prompted by its own simple faith, that death would come when the Lord no longer needed his services. Providence has chosen another competent person to take up the work so nobly done by the beloved pontiff. His identity will be known within a few weeks. Like Pius XI, he will be equal to the task. He will be another champion of Christianity and all it implies; he will carry on the defense of justice, peace, and human dignity. More than 300 million Christians take this for granted, because they are mindful of Christ's own assurance: "I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world."

A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Speaking before the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet at Gainesville last Thursday night, John Lee Smith of Throckmorton emphasized the importance of commerce in history. The decay of ancient Greece and Rome, he said, was co-incident with their decline of commerce. Conversely those empires rose to their splendor through an abundance of healthy business. The national greatness of a nation is determined by profits and pleasures in the lives of its individuals.

As with a nation, so with each community. Muenster, as one of those units, cannot long survive when the lifeblood of business begins a less vigorous flow through its veins.

Statements such as these need not be accepted blindly. Almost any person can recall small towns that knew better days until the flow of business was directed elsewhere. We of Muenster are aware of a growth when petroleum and dairy interests created new business here.

Further reflection on this line of thought brings us face to face with a realization that continued advancement requires a continued increase of activity. Here is a responsibility that falls first of all upon business men. While there is always a slight chance that some clever investor will see an opportunity, it is unlikely that any real progress can be made until those now in business definitely let it be known that they have sound plans to work together for the mutual benefit of all, and that they want other competent men to help in the work.

Muenster lacks an aggressive chamber of commerce. All of its business men struggle along in their own private affairs but they are not organized for the mutual benefit of one another. The extra profits that might be secured by general improvements or general services, which are everybody's business—and therefore nobody's business—, are permitted to fall by the wayside. Above all, the lack of a common voice to encourage or defend a progressive move is a serious handicap on the individual who contemplates an investment. It is natural that any person would be reluctant to open a new business or new industry if he realized that he must succeed or fail entirely through his own efforts. The same person, however, would see a splendid opportunity and develop it into a successful enterprise if backed by the active interest of other business men. An organization to do these things is Muenster's greatest need today.

No doubt these suggestions are being promptly discarded as ideas that have already failed on more than one occasion. But is that a valid excuse to abandon a worthy cause? What if there are a few failures behind us? History cites cases by the thousands of failures that were turned into stepping stones toward success. We can do likewise.

COMMUNITY LOYALTY

Besides the co-operative spirit of an active chamber of commerce there is another essential to community prosperity, and that is community loyalty. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that ninety per cent of the business lost to Muenster as a result of better transportation facilities is due entirely to a lack of loyalty.

While rejoicing about the gratifying increase in Muenster business, we must also deplore that the last two decades as witnessed a continuous increase in the business sent out of town. What growth we have enjoyed has not been expansion of old business but rather the addition of many new businesses.

Why not begin returning some of that business to local merchants? Why not keep home money at home where it can contribute to progress that will enrich our own lives? We are being unfair to ourselves every time we lose sight of the fact that profits sent away from home are making improvements away from home. What benefits can we derive from the money we send to large merchants of Dallas, or Chicago, or New York?

Of course, it is not malice toward the local man that prompts people to patronize out of town business. Usually it is the idea that better values or better selections may be obtained elsewhere. That this is not the rule, but a mere exception to the rule has been shown dozens of times in our very midst. Many an item has been bought away from Muenster because the selection was better elsewhere, but the item proved to be identical with the local merchant's stock. Many an item was bought because of the "better price" and the purchaser found later that the same thing cost less at home. The real trouble is not with selection and price at home but that too much is taken for granted by home people concerning selection and price.

By this we do not mean to imply that Muenster has everything and its prices are always best. We merely wish to remind that home merchants too frequently aren't given a chance. This is where the spirit of community loyalty comes in. Shop at home first. The chances are that you will be pleased by the selections. It is also probable that prices will be in line with those quoted by mail order houses or chain stores. No matter where they are, items of identical quality seldom vary in price.

What Others Say

DEMOCRACY AND RELIGION

Democracy, assailed from within and without, is taking stock. In the process, those who believe it to be the finest form of government yet developed are discovering how essential a good God is to good government. When President Roosevelt said the other day that religion is the source of democracy he voiced a truth that has been increasingly appreciated in recent months and expressed in many forms. Again and again letters and articles in the Monitor's special democracy edition today declare that regeneration of the people is the primary requisite for good government by the people.

As the nature of democracy and of the attack on it become more apparent, the vital role of religion will be perceived. Ideally, democracy accepts man as spiritual, made in the image and likeness of God, capable of understanding the divine government well enough to be self-governed. It expects men to reflect in justice, reason, kindness, liberty, truthfulness, self-control. In so far as men fail to express these spiritual qualities, democracy fails.

Majority rule, the representative system, universal suffrage, free elections, free competition, equal rights, economic equality, constitutional forms—none of these will guarantee the success of democracy if the spiritual content is lacking. Any of these may be made instruments of tyranny unless the basic ideal of individual worth, independence, freedom, and perfectibility is retained.

Materialistic concepts have always attacked this ideal. Today two forms of materialism are particularly active. One look upon man as merely an economic animal. A faulty Marxist interpretation of history is partly to blame for this attitude.

Now a fairer and better society should come out of an increased awareness of the way government has been abused for economic exploitation. And a happier and more stable society can be expected where men are free from economic injustices and insecurity. But too often today there is an ignorant and excessive emphasis on material and mechanistic motives. It teaches worker and employer, farm and factory, producer and consumer, to pursue a selfish separate interest when the larger interest of each is attainable only by co-operation. It tends to animality, hate and violence. It destroys democracy.

Another form of materialism's attack on democracy is extreme racism, a belief that man is merely a biological specimen, whose virtue, courage and honesty are determined by blood and soil. This combines with Fascism's mystical exaltation of the state to make the individual merely a material unit to be merged in a militarized mass for overcoming other races or states. Freedom of thought or speech cannot be tolerated in such totalitarianism. Worship of the state or of an individual symbolizing the state is substituted for Christianity. Persecution, intolerance, and hate become virtues.

Democratic peoples may recognize these forms of materialism most clearly in certain countries or ideologies. But they can find them operating among their own countrymen—if not in their own thought. And it is primarily in thought that they must be combated. It is historically provable that more spiritual concepts of Deity have produced better men and better governments. Men governed by Christianity's code, men striving to express the attributes of a God who is Truth, Love and Principle, can hope to govern themselves successfully.—Christian Science Monitor.

DON'T KID YOURSELF

In commenting on the belief of many that they "pay no taxes," the Kansas City Star says: "The complacency of millions over taxes would be sharply upset if a few facts were allowed to sink in."

The Star then takes a survey of indirect taxes made by a large life insurance company and shows what the man who thinks he "pays no taxes," actually pays in taxes each year.

Out of the $960 annual income an $80 a month worker receives, he pays $10.29 a month, or $123.48 a year, in indirect taxes that have to be added to the cost of necessities he buys, such as food, rent, clothing, fuel, light, recreation, insurance and dozens of other things—about 13 per cent of his income in this case. And the tax total increases as he earns more.

You are kidding only yourself when you laugh about taxes. The less you earn, the harder they hit you from the indirect angle, for they increase the cost of every necessity of life you buy.—Mission Times.

HAS PROVEN 'TIS TRUE, THIS LITTLE STORY WE'RE TELLING TO YOU

An aged man at the Union Station Discussed the business siche-ation, I said that things were mighty bad, And somehow or other, it made him mad, That aged man, he tapped my knee— "D'ye know what's wrong with things?" said he "I've been in fights," and the old boy glared, "And allus got whipped when I got scared. Folks have forgot how to stand an' grin When hard luck socks 'em on the chin. There's too much groanin'—not enough laughs— Too many crepe-hangers—too many graphs. It sure don't help a sick man's heart To think of nothin' but his fever chart. There's too many experts tellin' how come The whole dern world is on the bum, There's too many people with an alibi— I'd rather listen to a dang good lie! As soon as folks quit hangin' crepe You'll see business in mighty fine shape! I've got no use for golf as a game, But I speak the language just the same; There's too few drivers, an' too many putts— Plenty cold feet, and not enough guts! You ain't my son, but if you was mine I'd damn soon tech you not to whine!" He wasn't cultured, and his words were rough, But the old boy seemed to know his stuff. —Anon.

BE NATURAL

Do you belong to that class of people who are always "putting on"? If so, why? Is it to try to make a good impression, show your superiority, or what? Today there are so many "phonies," so to speak, that to come upon one who is not, is a "real find." Being natural makes way for many more friends and a greater profit in the long run.

It doesn't pay to imitate other people when probably your own natural character is just as fine as theirs. Do not attempt to be somebody else; just "BE NATURAL."—The Coyote News.

"A preference for jazz music is the result of a cultivated depravity." In case you happen to be one of the many who will tune out a symphony to get a swing band, don't be peeved at Dr. James F. Cooke for saying this, or at Confetti for repeating it. It just happens to be a circumstance that has a weighty support in fact.

Somewhat the idea has got about that jazz is the normal music of primitive people and of those who have not been privileged to get acquainted with better music. However, one of the incidents related by an expedition to the jungles of the Orinoco River is that the savages were fascinated by grand opera and symphony concerts, but showed a very apparent distaste when jazz was dialed in. A similar case is mentioned with reference to a family of Kentucky mountaineers. They were delighted by good music but clamped their hands over their ears in disgust during a swing number. "Their natural taste had never been perverted."

Another delusion: Attendants at the New York Museum of Natural History probably had very red faces when they found the real reason for the tremendous popularity of their famed institution. The attendance of "art lovers who came to see its wonders" fell off more than 100,000 when a comfort station was erected on a nearby corner.

Farmers with a shortage of feed would do well to get the secret of an Oklahoma dairyman who has developed a herd of seven midget cows that eat only half as much as the normal sized cows and produce just as much milk. The man started his crossbreeding experiments two years ago and today his third generation midgets stand 30 to 37 inches tall and weigh 450 to 500 pounds. One cow gives five gallons of milk daily, another averaged 41 pounds for 11 days—almost the equivalent of her own weight, 455 pounds.

The dwarfing process has been applied to other things also. In fact a continuation along the line of progress already made may eventually result in back yard farmers in cities. A turkey has been developed that matures at about 6 pounds instead of 12 to 15. A dwarf apple tree rears a height of only 10 feet. And a small water melon is tiny enough to fit nicely on an electric refrigerator shelf.

As usual, Lincoln's birthday this year again brought out scores of tributes on the great emancipator who is justly entitled to a place beside Washington as an outstanding and immortal American. Washington is the father of this nation, Lincoln is its Savior.

Lincoln is even more. Admitted to be the most melancholy man in American history he is an ideal, a sort of patron saint, for those who are buffeted by adversity. The story of his life is virtually a list of failures. It seemed that his every undertaking, whether in political, personal or business affairs, ended in more bitter disappointments, each of them a devastating blow to his sensitive nature. To regain his normal composure and confidence required months, sometimes years. Even as president his early failures brought a recurrence of his old weakness. He was bewildered, undecided, and afraid of any decision lest it bring on more suffering to the divided nation he was elected to lead.

By sheer courage he brushed aside the disheartening past, applied a sound mind and a generous heart, both tempered by years of mental anguish, to the problems at hand. The rest is well known. Almost single handed, against the odds of bitter opposition, he set about realizing his determination "that these dead shall not have died in vain—that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Some of us who think we are not getting the breaks can get a good deal of inspiration from Lincoln.

We are indebted to one of our exchanges for the following clipping: To test your sharpness of vision look sharply through the following sentence, and state how many F's, either small or large, it contains:

"The Federal national fuses are the result of scientific study combined with the experience of years."

According to the Outlook, a judge in Cambridge, Massachusetts, says that out of twenty people of intelligence not more than two will get the right answer the first time, and a large proportion will not find more than three F's after being told there are more. A professor of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology submitted the sentence to seventeen trained scientists used to looking for small things, and sixteen failed. The judge's secretary, immediately after typing it, found only three F's. A professor in Harvard Medical School failed in the test. He was much interested in it and its bearings on mental matters and intelligence tests. The judges showed the sentence to a man trained in reading proofs, who could only find four. There are five.

Are You a Throwback?

We shudder when we read of the uncouth and ignorant savagery of our aboriginal ancestors. We wonder that the race survived. And yet, have we really progressed so far?

Americans, when they get a toe on an accelerator, often revert to barbarism. No other term adequately describes some of the dangerously bad manners witnessed every day on the highways. In its latest highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40," The Travelers Insurance Company offers some excellent advice to drivers.

"Next time you start out on a trip," the booklet says, "Take that chip off your shoulder! And take your sense of humor along. Promise yourself that you won't let little things disturb you, and see what happens. If someone attempts to steal your right-of-way, don't argue, but let him have it. A safe journey, and a surprisingly pleasant journey, will be your reward."

CHOIR MAN DOESN'T GET TO LEAD SONGS; HE BOMBS CHURCH

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—A disappointed choir singer who thought he was slighted in the appointment of a new song leader was blamed by police Saturday for three bombings of Holy Trinity Russian Orthodox Church at New Salem.

Michael Krevinko, 29, former Ohio State University student, employed in the New Salem coal mines, admitted he bombed the church because the pastor, the Rev. Alexis A. Denkevich, "had blackened my reputation and I wanted to blast him right out of New Salem."

District Attorney James J. Reilly said Krevinko was charged with malicious mischief by explosion, blackmail and attempted blackmail. The blackmail charges were based on Krevinko's purported admission he sent a threatening letter to Denkevich.

BIKE BOYS ENTERTAIN AT K-C SOCIAL WITH TALK ABOUT TRIP

An interesting travel talk by Frank Moster and Tony Sicking of Gainesville on their 8,500 mile bicycle trip last summer was a most welcome entertainment feature at the Knights of Columbus social gathering Wednesday night.

They gave their account in relay, Frank taking up the beginning of the trip and turning it over to Steve at the halfway mark, to present a unified account made especially interesting by careful attention to humorous sidelights.

They told of the strain when pedaling uphill or against strong wind, of the discomfort of rain, sandstorm, and extreme heat or cold, of the relief when conditions were favorable, of sleeping under the stars and cooking their own meals. They proudly mentioned dozens of autographs and seals secured from prominent people, mayors, and governors in almost every one of the 21 states and Canada.

Especially amusing were their anecdotes concerning queer ideas of some Easterners about the wild and woolly six-gun rule in Texas. Other laughable situations, in some of which the laughs were on themselves helped to make a fascinating narrative.

In boasting that they enjoyed good health and a perfect appetite the youths admitted that some of the items on their rather long grocery list were 49 pounds of pancake flour, 150 dozen rolls, 325 loaves of bread and more than 100 cans each of pork and beans and spaghetti. They carried cooking equipment and tents as well as clothing on their bikes.

Following the young men's talks, Joe Horn and Al Walterscheid, as hosts of the evening, served a lunch of coffee and rolls.

Visiting guests were Joe and Jake Beizer, P. X. Schad, Ben Hermes, Pete Block and Tony Wiesman, all of the Gainesville K of C Council.

CHEESE FACTORY MEN ATTEND MEETING ON MILK IMPROVEMENT

Co-operating in a state wide movement to improve the standard of Texas milk and cream, Rudy Hellman and Herman Swirczynski were in Fort Worth Tuesday for a convention of the Texas Cream Grading and Improvement Association. All cheese, milk and cream plants of Texas were represented at the meeting and men from the nation's largest dairy products companies appeared on the program.

Much of the discussion was on problems facing the dairy industry and on regulations provided by new state and federal laws.

In stating that demands on cream, milk and cheese plants have become much more rigid than in the past, the speakers mentioned that new grading standards would place more rigid regulations on milk and cream producing farmers in order to avoid losses through rejection of their products.

The association plans to begin soon on a program to educate farmers on correct cooling, cleanliness and other phases of quality dairy production.

The changes are being made in preparation for the whey drying season, which is expected to begin shortly.

During the slack winter season there was not enough whey to meet the demands of farmers, but within a short time, it is expected, there will be a surplus on hand for the condenser. Plant foreman Herman Swirczynski advises that milk receipts rose from 20,000 pounds to 27,000 during the past two weeks and will probably continue rising until the peak is reached in May or June.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design which has more than three thousand sharp-edged angles that grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and to assure a safe stop.
