

DEATH ENDS LONG ILLNESS OF MRS. KUPPER

Funeral Held Tuesday From Lindsay Church

Aged Pioneer Had Been A Resident of Community Since 1897

Lindsay.—Funeral services were held from Saint Peter's Church here Tuesday morning at 8:30 for Mrs. Rosa Kupper, 59, who died at her home east of the city Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock, following an illness of several months.

Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiated at the requiem mass and at burial in the Lindsay cemetery. Burial was under the direction of Geo. J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home. Pallbearers were five nephews, John Hobgrer, Julius Loerwald, Joe and William Schad and Florence Krebs, and a cousin, Walter Richter, of Muenster.

Mrs. Kupper was born April 13, 1880 in North Dakota, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hofer, who moved to Lindsay with their family in 1897. She was married to Joe Kupper at Lindsay in 1906. She was an active member of the Mothers' Society of the parish and was endeared to all who knew her for her thoughtfulness and kindness.

Survivors include her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Adolph Fuhrmann of Bode, Iowa, and Miss Anna Kupper, Lindsay; five sons, Andrew, of Mesquite; John, Mike, Raymond and Robert all of Lindsay; five sisters, Mrs. August Schad, Plainview, Minn.; Mrs. Pete Krebs, Tishomingo, Okla.; Mrs. Fred Schad, Mrs. W. J. Loerwald and Mrs. John Hoerber, all of Lindsay, and a brother, Joe Hofer, of Houston.

BALL TEAM SET TO TRIM TISHOMINGO IN GAME HERE SUNDAY

When the Tishomingo, Okla., ball team comes to Muenster for a return engagement next Sunday it will have plenty of tough competition. That is the promise made by local players, still smarting from the 6 to 4 loss they took last Sunday at Tishomingo.

Muenster's boys are determined. At a pow-wow during their ride home Sunday evening the entire crew agreed to be primed for the game, on their toes and hustling every play for all its worth. They are getting weary of the series of losses they have dropped to the Oklahoma boys.

A circumstance that adds much to the existing rivalry is the large number of former Muenster boys on the team.

In last Sunday's game one of the principal sidights was a plan to knock Buck Knabe out of the box. The plan failed, and for a time it seemed that the game would be decided in favor of Muenster. But at the fifth inning, when the locals were leading 4 to 2, Tishomingo substituted most of its team and managed to run in four extra tallies even though Knabe continued holding hits to a scattered few.

Next Sunday it will be different, the boys say. Regardless of who or how many get into the contest, they will be in there every minute with the kind of snap that's hard to beat.

NO APPROPRIATIONS, PWA CAN NOT HELP ON SEWER PROJECT

Muenster's chance of building a sewage disposal system through a PWA grant is definitely dead. The information was given through an official Federal news release last week.

The application is one of 262 that will be returned in Texas in the near future, the report stated. Another of those applications, seeking $190,982 for a municipal power project, will be returned to the city of Gainesville. Muenster's application was for $15,276.

The action of PWA definitely closes the 263 cases mentioned as far as that agency is concerned and opens the way for financing through other government agencies or banks. The reason given for cancellations is that the last congress failed to make an appropriation for PWA.

Muenster opened negotiations for a WPA project almost three weeks ago. The PWA application had been on file a year.

BOOK ON MUENSTER'S FIRST HALF CENTURY NOW BEING PUBLISHED

A comprehensive history of this colony from the day of its foundation 50 years ago to the present time will be off the press within the next few months, Father Frowin, co-author, announced this week. Present plans are to complete it before the feast of Immaculate Conception, December 8, which will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the community's first mass. That date has been proclaimed the official anniversary date of the local parish.

Father Joseph Fuhrmann, O. S. B. president of Corpus Christi College and formerly of Lindsay, has already spent several years writing the history. Father Frowin is assisting him by collecting data and pictures.

Two pictures for the book, one of the choir and one of K of C officers, will be taken next Sunday, Father Frowin announced. He stated also that he will soon solicit donations to cover the cost of publishing the book.

LIQUOR BOARD MEN APOLOGIZE FOR RAID AT ELECTRIC CO-OP

Last Wednesday's beer raid at the electric cooperative office was an embarrassing mistake for which the state liquor control board offers its humble apologies.

Responding to a complaint filed immediately after a state liquor control officer and two county deputies had invaded and searched the premises of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association, F. O. Goen, deputy supervisor of the liquor control board in the Dallas District, called at the co-op office to offer his apologies to all employees who were embarrassed or inconvenienced by the raid. He brought with him the young officer who led the raid and demanded that his apology be offered to the co-op personnel.

Goen then reported to the Enterprise office and requested that his apology be made public. "We want the entire community to know," he said, "that the co-op office is above suspicion, also that the liquor control board does not make a habit of molesting law abiding business."

The misunderstanding resulted from the determination of a recruit officer to do his job well. His instruction was to search the place next door but he assumed that the entire building housed only one business. The principal grievance of the co-op employees was his refusal to listen to reason. He conducted his raid in spite of numerous protests and attempted explanations.

NEXT MONDAY WILL BE OPENING DAY AT MUENSTER SCHOOLS

The scholastic year of 1939-1940 will open officially at the Sacred Heart Parochial School and the Muenster Public School next Monday, September 18.

Teachers at the parochial school this year as announced by Sisters Angelina and Lucia are as follows: Sisters Anastasia, Bertha, Gebharda, Jane Frances, Frances, Michael, Wilhelmina and Lucia. They will have charge of the eight elementary grades in the order mentioned. The high school faculty will consist of Sisters Angelina, Theresina and Agnes.

Sister Agnes, remembered here as a member of the Voth family, received her B. A. degree at Mount St. Scholastica College in Atchison, Kansas last June. She replaces Sister Amora, who has been transferred to Pochontas, Ark. Sister Jane Frances, makes her first appearance in Muenster as a teacher replacing Sister Mechtildes, who is in ill health and has been ordered by physicians to take a rest cure.

At the public school the faculty is the same as last year with Virgil Lee Welch, principal, and Miss Dorothy Fette teaching the high school and Misses Mary Barker and Elfreda Luke teaching the elementary grades.

WINTER SCHEDULE OF CHURCH SERVICES EFFECTIVE SUNDAY

A change back to the winter schedule of divine services at Sacred Heart church will be in effect in the Muenster parish next Sunday, September 17, the pastors announced last Sunday.

The time for the first mass is 6:15 o'clock, the second at 8 and the last at 10 o'clock.

Masses during the week will be at 6:30 and 8 o'clock.

Miss Clara Hoenig will go to Dallas Sunday to enter nurses' training at Saint Paul's Hospital.

WAR LIGHTS THE CLEVELAND STEEL MILLS

CLEVELAND.—A view over the steel mills in the Cuyahoga Valley here which is now blazing with activity, since the outbreak of war in Europe. The steel mills are daily receiving heavy orders from foreign countries, which has already resulted in higher prices for export steel.

CAPTURED BY NAZIS ON POLISH FRONT

BERLIN, GERMANY—RADIOPHOTO—The censor, as usual, deleted the location of this camp where Polish prisoners of war are shown in a barbed wire pen. According to German claims the number of Polish prisoners taken during the drive on four fronts runs into the hundreds of thousands. Last week Poles were said to be digging in around Warsaw in an attempt to halt the German advance from East Prussia. The Polish Government has moved to Lublin, 100 miles to the southeast.

LADIES PLAY TONIGHT IN SOFTBALL GAME FOR CEMETERY FUND

Two long line-ups of ladies are ready for the "game of the century" tonight (Friday) under the floodlights of the Muenster softball field. It will be this community's first opportunity to see older ladies—a few of them grandmothers—in a softball game.

The event is a benefit program sponsored by the cemetery committee of the Ladies Civic League for the purpose of raising money for continued work in the cemetery beautification.

The teams are classified as large and small, according to Mrs. Nick Miller, director. She advises also that a long list has been made up for each side and that others still have the privilege of volunteering for an inning or two.

Another attraction of the evening is a renewal of the fat-lean rivalry. In two cemetery benefit games last year the fats won over the leans. Friday's game will be marked by the leans' determined effort to vindicate themselves.

During these games the cold drink stand usually operated by the softball club will be turned over to the civic league, and its net proceeds added to the cemetery fund.

21 PAROCHIAL PUPILS TO DEFEND PERFECT ATTENDANCE RECORD

Beginning school next Monday twenty-one parochial pupils will carry over a perfect attendance record from last year, Sister Lucia, grade school principal announced this week. The names of those pupils are preserved in a permanent honor roll of the school.

Though there was some variation in names, the total number on last year's perfect roll was the same as that of the preceding year. Because of sickness and severe weather there were several who missed only one or two days.

Last year's honor roll listed according to grades is as follows: 1, Floyd Lehnertz, Bernard Luke, Mitchel Wolf; 2, Agnes Felderhoff, Jerome Fette, Catherine Hartman, Mary Evelyn Hofbauer; 3, Walter Haverkamp, Victor Koelzer, Clara Mages; 4, Gerald Bayer, Mary Ann Gremminger, Edna Margaret Hartman, Joan Roberg, Juanita Schmitt; 5, Herbert Fette, Alvin Hartman, Thomas Otto; 6, Robert Bayer, Dolores Lehnertz; 8, Anna Marie Klement.

One hundred children were on the honor roll last year for promptness at mass.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Since Monday of this week John Knabe is a member of the Muenster Milling Company personnel. He replaces John Otto, who resigned at the mill last week to begin working with the Flusche Brothers feed store at Pilot Point. Mr. Knabe will work as a field man in connection with the mill's grinding service.

Teachers of Muenster have been invited to attend as honor guests at a Chuck Wagon feed at Leeper Stadium in Gainesville next Monday night, Sept. 18. The event is sponsored by the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce and the meal will be prepared and served under the supervision of Deputy Sheriff Tom Hickman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chandler and two daughters and Joe Hellman of Sinton, and Gus Hellman of Corpus Christi arrived here Monday evening for a visit with relatives. The men left Tuesday morning for Illinois to be employed in oil field work. Mrs. Chandler and children will visit here and at Lake Dallas with Mrs. John Chandler, Sr., until her husband secures living quarters in Illinois.

Virgil Streng, young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Streng, was able to return to his home during the weekend. For the past two weeks, following an operation for a ruptured appendix at Gainesville, he was convalescing at the home of his aunt, Miss Lena Streng. It will be about two weeks before he will be able to start to school.

Ferd Yosten is on a week's vacation from duties at Herr Motor Co., and is spending his time in Colorado Springs.

Four Persons Escape Death In Head-On Collision That Demolishes Both Machines

JOHN SICKING HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE MONDAY MORNING

Mrs. John Sicking and infant son narrowly escaped fatal burns Monday morning when their home, south of Myra, was destroyed by fire. The blaze began at about 10 o'clock and quickly demolished the frame structure.

Miss Mary Rohmer, the only other person at the house when the fire was discovered, carried her sister to safety and then returned to the burning building for the child. On her second trip she discovered that the kitchen, where the fire originated, was a blazing inferno and she could not cross it to reach the bedroom.

She went to the front door of the house, forced it open and carried the infant out just before that room was enveloped in flames.

John Sicking, who was some distance from the house, and neighbors, seeing the smoke, hurried to the scene but were too late to save either furnishings or clothing.

It is thought that the fire originated from a gasoline stove that was being used in the kitchen. The flame leaped from the stove, out of control, and ignited some clothing hanging on a line above it and then caught the wall paper and spread in alarming quickness.

The house belonged to John's father, Bill Sicking, and was insured but the furnishings were not protected.

Mrs. Sicking and the baby are doing well, although the former suffered slightly from shock and fright. The family is living with the Alois Walter family and intends to remain there until a new home, on the same site, is built. Work on it will begin soon.

THREE YOUTHS HELD AS OFFICERS PROBE RECENT BURGLARIES

Three Saint Jo youths, Tom and Smith Parks and Clay Roan, are in the county jail at Gainesville on suspicion of theft and burglary after they were apprehended last Saturday night in an attempt to remove some twenty bushels of oats from a hiding place beneath a highway bridge west of Saint Jo.

Earlier that day the bags of oats had been discovered and reported to Constable Guy Giles of Saint Jo. He went to the scene to wait until someone would come to remove the grain. Since the three could offer no satisfactory explanation they were held for further investigation.

Inquiring at Saint Jo the officers were unable to get reports on stolen grain. Then they referred the case to Muenster's constable, Frank Hoedebeck, who took the suspects to the Cooke county jail.

Friday night Hoedebeck sent out a general phone call on all rural lines asking for reports from any farmer who had lost oats. He received one reply but a sample from that man's bin did not match closely enough with that from the bags.

While the men decline to give a satisfactory explanation they will be held on suspicion, Hoedebeck said. In the meantime he is investigating several other thefts reported during the past month.

Some of the unsolved cases on Hoedebeck's file are: 30 chickens stolen from Martin Friske on Sept. 4; a 22 rifle stolen from Richard Wimmer's car on Sept. 6; a tire and wheel stolen from Al Bayer's car on Sept. 8; several parts taken from Paul Endres' tractor on August 10; and the $300 burglary of Jimmy's Service Station.

PHONE SWITCHBOARD MOVED WEDNESDAY TO NEW HORN HOME

The Muenster telephone office is now operating from its new building. The change was made Wednesday morning. Service on several lines was suspended from 11 to 11:30 Wednesday while the lines were being moved.

The office, located in the front southeast part of the J. S. Horn home, is a large airy room finished with light wall paper and light oak woodwork. The public phone booth is well lighted and equipped with a new French set.

Two other rooms of the house are finished and Mr. and Mrs. Horn moved in Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Horn is finishing the remainder of the building at his leisure.

Fred And Catherine Herr Sustain Bad Fractures

Freak Accident Occurred in Middle of Wide Road, Neither Driver Saw Other Car's Lights

Three members of the Fred Herr family, Fred, Catherine, and little Anna Grace, spent three days in the Gainesville hospital as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile collision Sunday night on the old Highway about two and a half miles north of Muenster. Elmer Fette, the only occupant of the other car involved in the accident, has several severe cuts and bruises but is able to be up.

Fred Herr and the child were removed to their home Wednesday evening but Catherine remained for continued attention.

Through some mysterious cause that none of the victims was able to explain, the two machines met head on in the center of a wide road. Each driver had more than ample space for safety at his own side of the road but neither made an attempt to avoid the other. Both said they were sleepy and did not see the oncoming car. Men who saw the wreckage and the wide road surmised that, by an odd coincidence, both drivers must have been napping at the same time. The accident occurred at about 11:45 o'clock.

Ed Rohmer and Buddy Randolph arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, assisted the injured persons to Randolph's car, and carried them to town for medical attention. The three Herrs were taken to the Gainesville hospital Monday morning. Elmer Fette remained with his sister, Mrs. Ben Seyler.

A report Wednesday night indicated that all the victims are showing definite improvement and are probably out of danger. Cuts and bruises are healing satisfactorily and the more severe injuries seem to be well under control.

Catherine is resting easy with her broken arm in a cast and her leg broken pulled into position by weights. Early fears that she might have sustained a head injury were dispelled by her behavior Wednesday. She had spent the two preceding days in an unconscious or semi-conscious state.

Fred Herr is thoroughly taped to begin his long stay in bed while his fractured pelvis heals. The little girl's severe swelling about the neck has gone down almost to normal. For a while it seemed as though she had sustained a bad neck injury.

Both automobiles involved in the accident are completely demolished. Meeting head on and almost in the center, each has a telescoped front and an engine driven back into the cab. It is believed that neither will be repaired. Herr had been driving an old model car and Fette a later model.

EARLY LANDMARK OF CITY GIVES WAY TO IMPROVEMENT TREND

The removal of the old Franz Hoenig residence crases another landmark of Muenster's pioneer days.

The original structure was built 48 years ago by John Sieger and was used as a dwelling for his mother and her family for a number of years. Later it was sold to the Staver family who resided in it several years before selling it to Franz Hoenig.

When Mr. Hoenig moved his family into the place he repaired the building and added two rooms to it. That family lived in it for nearly 35 years.

After the death of Mr. and Mrs. Hoenig the place was rented to numerous families.

Tearing down the old structure began during the past week-end and by the close of this week very little will be left on the site.

Mrs. John Fuhrbach will have a modern new bungalow built to replace it.

E. P. BUCKLEY'S FATHER BURIED IN OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Buckley and daughter, Betty Lou, returned Monday from Pawhuska, Okla., where they were at the bedside of his father, J. M. Buckley, who died last Thursday. Funeral services were held from the Catholic church at Pawhuska Saturday morning.

Mr. Buckley was 80 years old. He is survived by his wife, to whom he was married for 53 years, and two daughters and two sons.

SUCKERS ONCE—BUT NOT AGAIN

"Some Germans are resentful to Woodrow Wilson for the course of the Versailles Treaty," says Former President Herbert Hoover in a recent article in American magazine, "but few of them realize what the plight would have been had Wilson not been there fighting for their interests.

America was drawn into the last war to give its help to the cause of democracy, Hoover went on to explain. It spent billions of dollars, sacrificed thousands of lives, suffered hardship and sorrow in order to save the world from the yoke of military dictatorship. But when the war was ended and the treaty was called into session the American president found that the age old system of crushing the vanquished was substituted for the democratic system of seeking terms that are fair to all sides. France and England, the predominating powers at Versailles, brought their traditional greed and hate to bear on a broken enemy.

The resulting stipulations were such as no country can survive. Stripped of colonial possessions and large slices of its domestic possessions and burdened with tremendous indemnities, Germany became an economic cripple. It was inevitable that its financial structure would collapse, that Bolshevism and Communism would take root, that the entire nation would degenerate to a state of chaos. Once in that condition, it was ripe for the rise of a person like Hitler. People in a panic can not govern themselves. Democracy collapsed in Germany and only the well defined course of a dictator could bring the people back to a firm economic footing.

That Hitler turned out to be a ruthless power-mad tyrant without regard for personal right or dignity was an unfortunate circumstance. A man with Hitler's fist and Lincoln's heart might have restored the nation in a more satisfactory manner.

But regardless of Hitler's merits or demerits, England and France are responsible for the conditions that brought about his rise. They are responsible for Hitler, they are responsible for the war which rages today because of his mad ambitions.

A person who traces back to 1919 cannot escape the fact that this is France's and England's war. Let America bear this fact in mind. We had nothing to do with the arbitrary division of Europe, we did not claim any colonial spoils. Our nation took to Versailles the same principles that its boys took to the trenches, democracy and liberty. But it found that Versailles did not negotiate on such terms. We were duped into fighting England's and France's war once. Let's hope we will not be suckers again.

THE PEACEFUL ATTITUDE

More exasperating than any other remark a person can hear nowadays is the guess of some supposedly "wise guy" as to how long our nation will wait before joining the current European war. With a pretense of unlimited inside knowledge and a fatalistic distrust of our national leaders, such people continue to chatter about the succession of events that must inevitably draw us into the conflict.

Talk like that is dangerous. Even people who are passionately opposed to war—and heaven knows that practically every American is in that class today—will eventually come to believe that we cannot keep out. Then the chances are that we will not keep out. The mere thought of ourselves in the conflict, like continuously thinking of suicide, can lead to calamity that would not be possible in a brighter mental attitude.

America does not want war and it does not want a state of mind that might lead to war. Instead of distrust it wants a confident, cheerful outlook and a firm general conviction that we will keep out. It wants a strictly neutral and cautious commercial policy to avoid another "Lusitania" episode or a similar event that would cause a flare of public opinion past the bounds of common sense. Furthermore it wants more consideration and less howling from its citizens.

A splendid example of inexcusable lack of reason is the case of Athenia survivors. Every American on that boat had sufficient warning to reach home safely. Disregarding official advice was equivalent to assuming responsibility for themselves. But now that they have had a close call they demand our country's protection. There are other people in danger zones who also want protection.

What Americans need is a more general realization that our army and navy cannot stand guard over people who lack the caution to stay away from trouble. A man or woman who will not heed a warning is simply taking chances. It would be as reasonable to expect a military guard for every person who goes big game hunting.

When the general public adopts this viewpoint it will be less inclined to demand blood every time there is a report that Americans were killed or that an American supplies ship was sent to the bottom.

We want to keep out of war. Of course we do. We consider American lives and American resources far too precious to be sacrificed on the altars of European hate and greed. But we endanger ourselves every time we start raving about injuries to Americans who should have had enough sense to keep out of danger.

Let tourists tour over here and let business deal on a cash and carry basis, FOB American ports.

gone. Getting accustomed to things leads to taking them for granted. Before the young man moved away several weeks ago he wasn't very fond of Muenster. More likely he was thrilled with the prospect of leaving.

Just in case anyone is curious as to the identity of the homesick boy—it is Gerald Stelzer. And, incidentally, he has another deep sorrow. His pet skunk is dead. Some time ago Gerald had a major operation performed on the little fellow. After that it was accepted more confidently by the family and became a first class pet. Playful as a kitten, it became a constant companion but one day it happened to be in the wrong place when a child fell down. It did not survive the impact.

A touching funeral honored the little playmate. The children put it in a box and ceremoniously buried it in a garden, then stood around shedding tears on its grave. Being in love with a skunk may seem rather queer, but the person who has ever been attached to a faithful dog will understand.

One more expression has just been added to the vocabulary of this column. That word is "bull session." More times than the reader will suspect it has been here, but the form of literary slavery more gently referred to as convention has thus far succeeded in bringing an eraser over it. In the future it will not be molested.

The reason is that a radio program only a few days ago was referred to as a bull session. Well, if it's a good enough word for a nation-wide audience it's good enough for Con. In spite of a faint suspicion that some discriminating reader will regard it as inelegant. Come to think of it, what synonym could possibly be used in its place? "Gab fest" strikes us as fair, "Conversation" is hopelessly inadequate. The latter could mean just any kind of talk but indicates a slight preference for a higher plane. The former would seem to indicate more chatter of less consequence. But "Bull Session," there's a word for you. It means just what it says, "shooting the bull." For years and years the word has been accepted in speech. It is high time that it receives literary recognition.

Bull sessions according to our nation should be divided into two classifications—telling wild yarns and talking through one's hat, such as happened in the radio program referred to. Several college students were discussing the purpose of their entry in college, and every one seemed to be floundering helplessly for some reasonable explanation.

In view of constant changes in every walk of life they could not determine how courses of today would be useful in the world of tomorrow. They seemed to take it for granted that college was supposed to equip them with a long list of formulas all ready to be applied to future experience; but how could any course accurately predict what is to come?

It is woefully significant that not a single student in the bull session realized how education should develop his individual ability and make him more capable of dealing with problems as they arise. The meaning of the word education hints at its purpose. Derived from Latin it means to "draw out"; to bring out natural ability rather than cram a jumble of confusing facts. It must include, of course, a background of basic general facts, for reasoning ability would be helpless without a substantial starting point.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land." The poet who immortalized that line might have narrowed his perspective a bit and wondered if people do not, at times, entertain similar sentiments about their home towns.

This column could mention one lad in particular. A letter from him last week says "We miss Muenster a great deal—Send the paper so we will know what's going on—When I get back I'll never leave again" etc etc. The home town, even more than the native land, gets a hold on a person. There's something about it, close friendships, memories of good times, or a mere adaptation to its conditions, that leaves some sort of intangible grip on sentiment. Muenster is favored with an indirect complement when one of its former residents admits he is home sick for the old home town.

All of which brings to mind the old saying that a person usually does not appreciate things until they are

Your Health

BY GEO. W. COX, M. D.
Texas State Health Officer

AUSTIN.—Infantile paralysis, like typhoid fever and intestinal disturbances of infants, is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any month of the year, over half of the total number occur during July, August, September, and October. To date, 109 cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) have been reported to the Texas State Department of Health in 1939.

Direct contact between persons is regarded as being the chief factor in the spread of infantile paralysis. Because of the seasonal prevalence of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been scientifically proven. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this paralytic disease. Carriers are difficult to determine; this fact makes advisable the reduction to a minimum of human contacts during an outbreak.

Early symptoms of infantile paralysis comprise headache, fever, vomiting, intestinal disorder, drowsiness and irritability, followed by neck or back stiffness. Prompt medical care, early recognition and reporting of cases to health authorities make possible the use of valuable preventive and control measures.

After the acute state of the disease has passed and walking is permitted the patient, under no circumstances, must the affected part be fatigued. It is thus observed that the secret of successful rehabilitation lies in continuance of professional guidance and large doses of patience.

POULTRY INDUSTRY WORTH 44 MILLION A YEAR TO TEXANS

COLLEGE STATION.—In poultry Texas has an industry that grosses around $44,000,000 a year, and the state has come from nowhere in the national picture to rank fifth in number of chickens, fifth in total value of eggs produced, and eighth in value of poultry produced for market.

The industry, often forgotten because of Texas' predominance in the production of cotton and livestock, contributes an annual gross equal to the sale of a million bales of cotton at eight cents per pound.

Texas poultry producers have an investment of $13,000,000 in their 24,000,000 chickens, and in 1938 took in $30,000,000 from sale of eggs, $8,500,000 from turkeys, and $5,000,000 from dressed poultry.

1935 farm census figures show that the average production of hens on Texas farms was only 53 eggs per hen. Meanwhile, poultry demonstrators working with county agricultural and home demonstration agents have brought their flocks' average production up to 176 eggs a hen.

About 75,000 Texas farm families have no poultry flocks, and with around 50 laying hens required to produce enough eggs for the average family, there is room for an additional 4,000,000 chickens without affecting the market or supplies.

WATERMELON SYRUP EQUAL TO CANE SYRUP

TYLER.—The latest by-product of standard East Texas garden crops is watermelon molasses. It is made by F. M. Lockaday, Athens farmer, and samples were pronounced equal to ribbon cane syrup.

Lockaday began the experiment a year ago and it proved so successful that this year many gallons of the syrup will be manufactured.

The method is to mash and strain the watermelon pulp and boil it. The thickness of the syrup is determined by the length of time it is boiled. No sugar or other ingredients are necessary. A 45-pound melon will produce a gallon of syrup.
