Reports coming Sunday out of El Salvador sound encouraging. The first point is the large turnout despite guerilla threats to kill anyone who votes as well as the guerilla refusal to participate in the voting. This is an obvious sign that voters were not choosing between right and left but rather trying to form a stable and fair government.

The principal issue at the polls, apparently, is between the present government and a faction which demands more rights with social and economic reforms. Both sides are concerned with keeping the country intact whereas the guerillas are trying for a takeover. It's the old method of red conquest. While countries fuss about their internal problems the communist try to exploit weakness and move into control. Observers in Salvador seem to think that this calamity can be avoided. The public seems to understand that the left-towers of feudalism, when blended with far-right reforms, will produce a better government than can be expected from the Communist far-left.

As regards US involvement in coming developments, the present concern is whether El Salvador can accomplish the reasonable hope for an alliance of federal troops and rightists defending their country against the Marxists. If not we can fear that Salvador factions involved in the election will keep fussing and permit their real enemies, the Reds, to keep campaigning for a Communist victory.

Sunday's election in El Salvador is vital in that it can be a beginning of the country's comeback regardless of which side wins. All the free world hopes it will not miss the opportunity.

The nation was flabbergasted last week to hear that a six year old girl in Florida will be tried on a charge of aggravated battery after hitting a seven year old child with a stick. A co-defendant in the case is a 13 year old boy who held the older girl while the younger girl hit her.

Several of the news reports were followed by comments expressing amazement that such a case is even considered in a society which fails to do anything about countless cases of more serious criminal violence, including rape and murder. These miscarriages of justice are not only the crimes that "escape detection but also ery many in which criminals are known to be guilty but are acquitted on legal technicality.

Really, it seems like the height of absurdity to say that a 6-year-old has to accept adult responsibility for an offense that actually amounts to no more than childish mischief, whereas thousands of adults are being excused like kids for offenses that are really serious.

This kind of legal foolishness makes our country look foolish. If the court concerned lacked the good judgment to ignore it, a higher court should have rushed a decree saying it will not tolerate such ridicule of the nation's legal system. After all, if a higher court can over-rule decisions that come out of a trial it should be able to over-rule this kind of decision to bring on a trial.

Adding to the absurdity of the situation, the girls have made up after their in-

Muenster Volunteer Firemen honored by VFW Auxiliary

The Muenster Volunteer Fire Department was named Thursday by the VFW Auxiliary of Post 6205 to receive its fifth annual Citation of Merit.

The Citation carried the tribute "In Recognition of and in Sincere Appreciation of Your Untiring and Dedicated Services to the Muenster Community as Volunteer Firemen. These Services are a Valuable Asset to our Community."

The presentation was made by Auxiliary President Linda Knabe, and Ethel Hesse, to Fire Chief Chris Sicking during the March meeting, in the presence of 15 volunteer firemen.

The Fire Department was chosen by the Auxiliary members who felt the firemen deserved to be recognized and thanked for the time, energy and effort they contribute to community safety.

Tornado watchers wanted

Muenster Volunteer Firemen announced this week that they will welcome volunteer tornado watchers to help keep the community alerted in case of storm dangers. The purpose is to observe when a tornado threatens and give warning by a one-minute continuous blast on the city's fire siren if and when the twister is sighted. Interested persons are asked to contact Fire Chief Chris Sicking.

The department also announced that the dates of April fire drills are changed to the 15th and 29 to avoid conflict with Easter services and Germanfest activities.

To upgrade the organization's efficiency, Harvey Schmitt, Mike Frost and Alvin Hartman attended a recent seminar in Gainesville on control of hazardous materials.

Ken Stormer in race for Justice of Peace

My name is Ken Stormer and I would like to be your justice of the peace for Precinct 1, Place 2.

I am 34 years of age and a lifelong resident of Cooke County. I graduated from Muenster High School, attended Cooke County College, Colorado State University and graduated from the Texas A&M Police Academy.

I served our country for three years in the United States Army, with two tours in Vietnam, receiving various combat decorations including the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, Purple Heart, etc.

I have served the people of this state for the past five years as a deputy sheriff and as a city police officer, having held the rank of detective sergeant for two years prior to my resignation from the police department. During these five years I have had the opportunity to acquire the knowledge of approximately 480 hours of classroom instruction on the content and application of criminal and civil laws of the state plus 5 years of practical application and experience in the use of these laws every day among the people.

Having been a public servant working among the people, I am thoroughly aware of the problems we face today, socially, morally and financially. With this understanding and my solid working-law background, I will strive to assist the people of this county whenever possible.

Thus, with this qualification and understanding, I believe myself to be qualified for the position of justice of the Peace, Place 1, Precinct 2, and worthy of your consideration.

I will be fair and impartial, elected by the people to serve the people of the county with justice tempered by common sense and an open door policy to all.

Muenster set for multi-election

People coming to Muenster's multi-election Saturday at Muenster Public School will find four separate elections and a proposition on their ballots. The voting hours will be between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. with Dorothy Hartman as judge in charge of the city's ballot and L.B. Bruns as judge of the school and hospital ballots.

Choices will be offered on the school and city ballots but not on the hospital ballot which lists five incumbents unopposed for reelection. They are C. William Hermes, Dan Luke, George Berry, Rufus Henscheid and Albert Dangelmayr.

The city's ballot presents two contests plus a proposition on legalizing bingo in Texas. Its candidates are listed as follows. For Place 1: John Pagel, James Hoedebeck and Herbert Fisher. For Place 2: Aubrey Tuggle. For Place 4: Bertha Hamric and Milton Knauf.

The list of candidates is followed by the following proposition. For or Against: Legalizing bingo games for charitable purposes as authorized by the Bingo Enabling Act in Muenster, Texas. If approved, the proposition permits residents to determine by local option election whether bingo will be legalized.

The school election ballot applies to the board of trustees for Muenster Independent School District and for Cooke County College District. The Muenster ISD ballot has one contest, with Richard Pagel opposing Wendell Richey for Place 7. Also, Harold Bindel is unopposed for Place 5 and Joe Hellman for Place 6.

The college district, sharing ballot space with Muenster ISD, has David Howeth and W.R. "Bill" Patterson contesting for Place 1 and Neil Tibbets unopposed for Place 2.

County to participate in repair of flood damaged dams

On condition that a suspected error in federal estimates will be corrected, the commissioners of Cooke County have decided to participate in a program repairing eight flood prevention dams which were damaged in the October, 1981 flood.

The program specifies 75 percent of the project to be paid by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and 25 percent by the county. The agency's share was estimated at $169,127 which is believed to be some $130,000 short of the expected cost.

As pointed out by County Judge Jim Robertson, the FEMA estimate indicates the cost of repairs to Johnson Dam, Site 7A northeast of Muenster, will be $1,334,69. The judge believes a decimal was misplaced and the figure should have been $133,469.

Commissioners agreed that they will proceed with the repair job as soon as the suspected error is corrected.

In doing its share of the repairs, the county expects to provide labor and equipment and work on the smaller repair projects. Judge Robertson added that the county will also inquire into the possibility of obtaining state aid on its part of the cost.

Contractors will be hired for repair work not done by the county, according to Ray Svacina, district conservationist. He said SCS will likely provide engineering and inspection services for the contract work.

The eight damaged dams are on the Elm Creek watersheds. Six were damaged primarily on the spillways. Johnson dam and Sycamore dam sustained extensive erosion of back slopes along with spillway damage.

Muenster students lead in UIL scoring

Muenster High School's advancement in this year's UIL one act play competition ended Tuesday in an area contest at Midwestern University with eight entries participating.

Muenster was judged Number 4, preceded by Harrold, Throckmorton and Knox City in that order. Martha Koessler, MHS director, said Harrold was as easy choice for winner but selection was difficult for the next three places.

Muenster's consolation was selection of Rene Stelzer for the all star cast and Lyle Huchton for honorable mention. Other members of the cast were Brent McElreath and Mary Winn. Their play was "Impromptu" by Tod Mosel. Though failing to place higher the cast and director are happy with Tuesday's results. They were pleased with having performed their best of the year.

With the district title in one-act play, also a first and second in debate and a lead in the elementary division, Muenster has a head start in this year's spring meet.

The debating win was automatic. MHS had the only entries in the event so they had to debate each other. Peggy Winn and Rene Stelzer were judged No. 1, Mary Winn and Brent McElreath as No. 2, Debbie Bindel and Craig Felderhoff received the judges' praise for a good job but they were last as well as No. 3, so they received no points.

Results of the elementary department are still incomplete awaiting outcome of two divisions in ready writing with a total value of 60 points. At the present time, Principal Winn estimates, Muenster elementary has 90 points and the next high is 40. Assuming a normal division of the ready writing points Muenster should finish as a strong winner.

Final competition in high school literary events is scheduled for Thursday. Assuming a normal share of winnings in those events, along with the head start in debate, MHS has an encouraging outlook.

Other activities included in the UIL spring meet are high school and junior high track, along with tennis and golf. Scores earned in all are added to determine each school's score and the leader receives a sweepstakes trophy. Muenster won the top award last year and has hopes of repeating this year.

Theft attempt backfires

An attempted raid on a cash drawer backfired for a pair of sneak thieves at Kolonialwaren last Monday afternoon. Two characters ostensibly making a purchase, presented one item with the price removed, so the salesperson went back to check the stock for the price.

Returning, she found one of the men behind the counter taking money from the cash drawer. Surprised, he put the money down and mumbled that he was looking for a pencil.

The pair hurriedly completed their purchase and left the store. As they drove away, heading west on Highway 82, the store attendant noted the description and license number of the car and rushed a phone call to the sheriff's office, which notified officers of Muenster, Saint Jo, Gainesville and sheriff's deputies and the Highway Patrol, all deploying to guard the likely escape routes. Minutes later the store attendant called again saying the suspect car had just gone through Muenster headed east. DPS Patrolman Jim Hellman spotted it near Gainesville and made the arrest. One of them was jailed on a charge of attempted theft, the other was released on bond.

Both suspects have been identified by the store attendant.

Good News

Ephesians 3:7-10

I was made a servant of the gospel by God's special gift, which he gave me through the working of his power. I am less than the least of all God's people; yet God gave me this privilege of taking to the Gentiles the Good News about the infinite riches of Christ, and of making all people see how God's secret plan is to be put into effect. God, who is the Creator of all things, kept his secret hidden through all the past ages, in order that at the present time, by means of the church, the angelic rulers and powers in the heavenly world might learn of his wisdom in all its different forms.

SCS awards May 6

The 33rd annual program honoring conservationists of the Upper Elm Red Soil and Water Conservation District will be held Thursday, May 6, 7:30 p.m. in the old gymnasium of Nocona High School.

Plans for the event were made last Thursday in a meeting of sponsors in a meeting at the Gainesville County Club with Hinds Clark and Carl Bryan serving as chairman and co-chairman. Sponsors are the banks, newspapers, radios and TVs of the three-county Elm-Red District.

Banquet personnel named are Mel Chapman as the opening chairman and Gene Foster as the master of ceremonies. It was also decided to honor the outstanding conservation news medium, the year's essay contest winner and a wildlife conservationist.

Holidays start Friday

Easter will arrive Friday, April 2, for students of Muenster Public School. At the regular dismissal time on that date they will start the Easter holidays which will end Monday April 12, at the usual starting time.

Extra time had been provided originally in the school calendar for make-up days in case school had to be closed because of severe winter weather. No time was lost, hence it was added to the Easter holidays.

The Sacred Heart schedule provides for three and a half holidays. Students will be dismissed next Thursday at noon and return at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, April 14.

cident and are friends again. But parents are adamant, each insisting that it must have an official decision on the trifle.

The next consideration on this subject is who will pay for the hassle. Will it be the parents or taxpayers? If this is to be a case in which the public has to pay to see who was at fault in a trifling kids' fuss, it's time for a howl of protest. The public is already getting ripped off for plenty in wasteful government operations and should not have to take on such additional expense.

The simplest way to end the mess is an old fashioned spanking, probably to all three of the children involved. That seems severe enough for the girl whose weapon was only a stick as well as the boy who assisted in the mini-attack. And very likely it was deserved also by the other girl for whatever she did to provoke the attack.

A specially odd twist in this case is a judge's ruling that under Florida law the girls are entitled to receive a jury trial...as if it's a right to be dragged through all that waste of time to reach a decision which, apparently, has already been made. No, thanks. Let's have the courts give more attention to the serious business awaiting them and leave kid discipline to the people concerned.

Looking Ahead

by Dr. George S. Benson, President

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

ON WHAT TO DO

We are in a recession. Unemployment is increasing. Business activity is down in major industries. Agricultural income is suffering. What should be done?

Many are calling for the federal government to take the same type of action it has used over the last fifty years: increase government spending to stimulate the economy. This is precisely opposite to the measure taken thus far by the Reagan administration.

Senator William Proxmire of Washington, certainly not a member of the Reagan team, has this to say about such demands recently:

"This economy has not fallen into retreat and recession because government has done too little to stimulate it. Today we suffer from exactly the opposite problem. The government has become so big it now absorbs such a huge proportion of the nation's credit with its massive trillion dollar national debt and its immense deficits that it has driven interest rates sky high. "... we have permitted this government of ours to work the investor into a conviction that the government, under any President simply lacks the will or the power to get us off the big deficit, high interest rate track. "Result: The credit sensitive industries — homebuilding, automobiles, farming and small business generally have fallen into serious trouble."

The most damaging problem facing our economy has been and still is inflation. Reverting to the demand-side economics of the past fifty years would certainly aggravate inflation, Proxmire said. He asked the Senate this rhetorical question: "So where is our salvation?"

He then answered it: "Our salvation lies in the clear, common interest we now have in pursuing a conservative, budget-balancing fiscal policy, not only to fight inflation but also to revive employment in the economy."

Proxmire, who was on the floor of the Senate, speaking to his colleagues, pointed out that as strange and contradictory as it sounded, holding down federal spending and balancing the budget would provide more jobs.

He said, "Rightly or wrongly a balanced federal budget has become the one clear, universal signal that our government means business about fighting inflation and high interest rates."

"The public has repeatedly found that Presidential speeches no matter how persuasive, will not bring interest rates or prices down to stay. The clear, simple arithmetic of a balanced budget we can understand. It means at long last the government puts its money where its mouth is. A balanced budget also means the federal government is getting out of the credit markets."

There is plenty of money to be lent in the credit markets, but it will not be lent at lower rates as long as the market sees a predilection on the part of the government to continue inflating.

Proxmire maintains that if the credit markets are convinced inflation will be stopped, interest rates will come down, making funds available for housing and auto manufacturing, putting millions back to work. What will it take to convince the credit markets? A balanced budget with no further increases in the national debt! It is encouraging to find such bi-partisan support for the President's economic program which revolves around a reduction in federal spending,

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

During the past decade, growing drug abuse by our young people has taken a terrible toll on the individual users, their families, and the very fabric of our society. Drug use often has been glamorized in the youth culture, thus making the battle against this abuse all the more difficult.

One of the most blatant examples of this phenomenon has been the so-called "head shop," skirting the laws against selling drugs but providing the equipment to use them in "fashionable" ways. It is any wonder that young people may turn a deaf ear to warnings about the effects of drugs, when they can see in their local shopping mall exotic water pipes, jeweled "roach clips" to hold marijuana cigarettes or publications extolling the so-called benefits of mind-altering drugs?

Last year, I introduced legislation to prohibit the use, possession or delivery of drug paraphernalia, with especially severe penalties for those who provide them to minors. I based my bill on a model prepared by the federal Drug Enforcement Agency, with careful wording to insure that only material clearly intended for illegal use was included. Since the constitutionality of similar legislation was under litigation, the Judiciary Committee deferred action until the matter was decided.

I am happy to report to you now, however, that the United States Supreme Court ruled earlier this month that a city ordinance in Illinois — also based on the DEA model bill — is constitutional. As Justice Thurgood Marshall said in the Court's opinion, "The Ordinance is expressly directed at commercial activity promoting or encouraging illegal drug use. If that activity is deemed 'speech,' then it is speech proposing an illegal transaction, which a government may recognize or ban entirely."

The DEA's chief counsel held the court decision, saying, "We now think that the paraphernalia industry may be out of court and out of business."

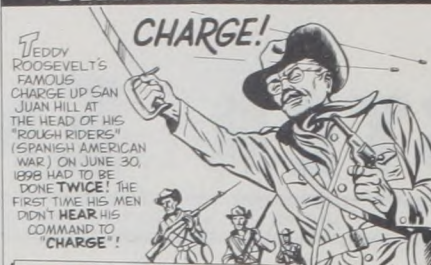

I hope that the Congress will find time this year in its already crowded schedule to pass my bill to outlaw such paraphernalia nationally.

Unfortunately, I do not believe such action will end the illegal use of drugs. However, I do believe that ending this open advertisement for drug use will make it a little less likely that young people will see drug use as exciting, glamorous or an accepted part of every-day life. I would hope that ending the siren song of the head shop owner will leave young people more able to hear the sensible warnings of their parents and teachers, and medical and legal experts.

And, in a larger sense, I believe that closing down these shops will help engender a respect for law. If we allow people to make a profit by publicly encouraging others to break the law, how can we expect our young people to respect our statutes?

We must be vigilant on all fronts in the war against drug abuse, but with the Supreme Court ruling a simple act of Congress could win a major battle.

GOVERNOR KING SINGS SUPPLY-SIDE HYMN

By Edwin Feulner

Massachusetts Senator Edward M. Kennedy should have been pleased.

Governor Edward J. King, Bay State Governor and a fellow Democrat, had been invited to testify before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress. He was bringing good news to the committee: after a decade of painful decline — marked by above-average unemployment, plummeting personal income, the loss of 36,000 manufacturing jobs, and skyrocketing taxes — the state that had been nicknamed "Taxachusetts" was on the economic rise again.

This should have been a source of pride to Senator Kennedy. Instead, it was a political embarrassment, since Governor King was there to tell the Congress that the Bay State's "great American success story" was based on the same economic medicine proposed by the Reagan administration: a combination of tax cuts, regulatory reform, and cutting big government back to manageable size.

How bad was the Massachusetts economy before Governor King launched his economic recovery program?

Between 1970 and 1978, Massachusetts climbed from twenty-second nationally to fifth in terms of its overall tax burden. Welfare costs had grown out of control, consuming one out of every three tax dollars. And manufacturing jobs, especially in the high technology industries which surround the metropolitan Boston area and comprise approximately one-third of the state's entire manufacturing force, were leaving in droves — drying up sources of revenue and leading to additional tax increases, as state officials grappled for revenues to meet ballooning costs.

What did Governor King do? Among other things:

- instituted a program of regulatory reform;
- reduced the state's bureaucracy by approximately 15 percent;
- tightened up on welfare eligibility requirements, cracked down against welfare fraud, instituted a work incentive program, and simultaneously managed to raise benefits for the truly needy;
- reduced income taxes, capital gains taxes, real estate taxes, and unemployment compensation taxes;
- and instituted a pioneering tax cut program for home and apartment renters.

As a result of the program, more than 200,000 new jobs have been created in the state since 1978, unemployment has fallen below the national average, and the state is no longer running deeply in the red.

As K. Heinz Muehlman, chief economist for Associated Industries of Massachusetts, commented recently: While other states have passed tax increases to cover growing deficits, "Massachusetts not only lowered its taxes substantially but is expected to generate a modest surplus."

Governor King was more blunt: "... The decreasing rate of taxation has brought about the revitalization of our economy and a growth in personal income that is unprecedented in our state's history."

It's a shame this practical demonstration of conservative economic policy at work caused Senator Kennedy so much grief. It obviously would have made him happier if the Massachusetts governor had come before Congress and declared supply-side economics a dismal failure.

Easter Unfolds In Holy Land

For the first time in 2,000 years, visitors to the Holy Land are able to witness a depiction of the events Easter notes and celebrates in the area where they happened. And it's the time nearly a quarter of a million American travelers begin planning their pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

Two of the world's most important religious dramas — The Jerusalem Passion Play and The Nativity Play of Bethlehem — will be performed on historic Holy Land sites August 2 through November 6.

The dramatizations of Christ's birth and final days are performed in the general area where they happened, with ancient religious ruins serving as the "stage" for these plays.

The old Church of St. Pierre en Galilicane on Mount Zion serves as focal point for the Passion Play. You see the ruins of the palace of Caiaphas, the High Priest; the dungeon where Jesus was incarcerated; the courtyard where Peter denied his Lord; and the ancient steps which led Jesus from the Garden of Gethsemane to the house of Caiaphas the night of His arrest.

The Nativity Play is set in Shepherd's Field outside Bethlehem, where the Angels heralded Christ's birth.

"You feel as if you're somewhere between heaven and earth here," says Producer Francisco de Araujo, a respected religious dramatist who adapted his production from the New Testament Gospels. "While you watch these re-enactments of Christ's life, you really are very much aware that Jesus walked here 2000 years before," the director notes. "Last year, their premiere season, the dramas brought many in our audiences to tears. People of all faiths find them very moving indeed."

Performances of The Jerusalem Passion Play and The Nativity Play of Bethlehem will be held on consecutive evenings, August 2 through November 6, 1982. Tickets to the two dramas are $60, and available as part of a Holy Land tour or separately. They will be sold through many churches, U.S. travel agents and directly by calling toll free 800/421-1510.

Tickets must be purchased in advance, as they will not be available in Israel. This joyous season may be just the right time to make your pilgrimage plans.

HEALTHY ADVICE

by Fred Lucas, M.D.

Arthritis

Rheumatoid arthritis makes life miserable for many people. Coping with the disease, particularly when the pain is severe, requires considerable effort, plus an understanding of the problems associated with it.

Some confusion about arthritis may arise occasionally between doctors and their patients because of different uses of the term. A physician knows that the "arth" part of the word means joint. "Itis" means inflamed. Soreness in the muscles and ligaments has nothing to do with arthritis, as some people believe.

Rheumatoid arthritis usually strikes between the ages of 20 and 40. The Texas Medical Association estimates that more than 5 million Americans suffer varying degrees of discomfort from the disease. Two-thirds of its victims are women. Unfortunately, most of them are at an age when they usually are most involved with their families and careers.

Currently, no known cure exists. Controlling rheumatoid arthritis involves proper medication, diet and exercise.

It is an unpredictable ailment. One day, for no apparent reason, it may seem to have gone away only to reappear with all of its painful effects, a day, a month or later.

Fatigue is one of the most annoying symptoms. Then, too, its victims must learn to cope with varying energy levels. This happens at a time in life when they need all the energy they can muster.

One answer is learning to pace one's self. Rheumatoid arthritis sufferers should not engage in spurts of frenzied activity that can lead to a bed-ridden state. A better way is to plan the day to allow for periods of rest, whether at home or at work.

If you have rheumatoid arthritis, pay attention to your body. Pain and fatigue should be taken seriously. While it may seem at first that you are "going off" by heeding your body's warning signals, you will actually be more productive. Remember that you are living and working for the long distance, not the short sprint.

Burglary occurs every two minutes in Texas, leaving behind losses that cannot be replaced. In Texas, burglary rings account for 245 million dollars worth of stolen goods annually, an average loss of 966 dollars per home.

Crime prevention is one answer to this growing problem. The simple act of locking one's home before leaving, reduces the chance of burglary by 20 percent. Asking your neighbor to pick up your newspaper when you are away from home and turning household lights on at intervals, can deter a prospective burglar. The Governor's Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is doing its part to see that those criminals who make their living by stealing from others are put where they belong — behind bars. For the month of April, 1982, the Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" program on burglary. Any citizen having information about burglary is asked to call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of these criminals.

The Council's efforts to combat crime cannot succeed without active citizen involvement. Your support and participation in this program will be a formidable obstacle to any criminal. Call 1-800-252-TIPS today to help shut down burglary rings in Texas.

Herbert Fisher Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 1

1. I have lived in and around Muenster all my life, the past seven years in town with my wife Debra and three children Steven, Amy and Bobby. I am active in our church and with some of the youth groups. I am a member of the Knights of Columbus and a past member of the Jaycees. I am concerned with the problems facing the city, and have shown my concern by attending city council meetings. I have no business of my own so my concern will be strictly for the people of Muenster, not for the benefit of myself.

2. I feel the most pressing problem currently facing Muenster is our water system. I feel we should get our new water well hooked up immediately, that a delay of almost a year is uncalled for. I feel that our lake project should be pushed, if we don't get some construction started we are going to have problems with the city of Dallas. We cannot keep getting extensions on our surface water permit. We are a town of two thousand fighting for water rights with a town of nearly one million. These may be harsh statements but some morning we may wake up and the city of Dallas will own the lake, such as the Lake Aubrey project.

3. Concerning our city budget I feel that over spending is no worse than under-spending. We have had a problem with our city streets and I will put forth all my effort to see this does not happen again. When you have to go back and have repairs done you're not saving any money.

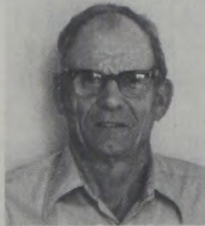

John Pagel Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 1

1. As a home town resident all my life, I have been active in many community organizations and programs. Also, being a part of the business community, I think that I have a good understanding of the principles required to properly manage the affairs of the city in a manner consistent with the desires of the Muenster citizens.

2. There are many areas of concern facing the city of Muenster including an adequate water supply, a continuing street paving and maintenance program, systematic expansion of city boundaries to name only a few. But, without a full time qualified city manager who will keep the city council informed, and supervise and guide the city's other employees, Muenster will never be the progressive community we would all like it to be.

Aubrey Tuggle Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 2

1. Being in business for myself for a number of years has been my No. 1 help in serving as city councilman. Experience in making financial decisions and working with the public.

2. I do not believe we have any No. 1 problems facing us at this time. We are working to get our new well on line. Working to bring our police department up to full employment. Also working with our lake. These are all important, but not problems at this time.

Bertha Hamric Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 4

1. I have served on your city council for the past four years and am seeking re-election for a third term. I want to be the citizens' representative on your council and I believe in equal representation for every citizen of Muenster. I have always been dedicated to the needs, future growth and prosperity of Muenster. I believe I have the experience, integrity and maturity that you can put your trust in, if you see fit to give me your vote.

2. In my opinion the most urgent problem facing our city is our future water supply. It is common knowledge that the Trinity Sand, the source of our water supply is depleting at a rate of 3 feet per year. A group of dedicated citizens have been working on our lake project since 1973. The primary delays have been due to government regulations, changing government regulations, the required environmental impact and the problems of our surveyors. Your city council and water board will keep on working because we need the lake. Muenster must also look to the future concerning the extension of our city limits. Our most immediate problem is our streets. Due to unfortunate circumstances our recent "street repair job was very unsatisfactory". Your council is well aware of this and it will be corrected as soon as possible.

Milton Knauf Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 4

1. I feel that my experience as a self-employed electrician would be beneficial in any construction the city might undertake. This could include the city lake, water wells, and general maintenance on existing facilities, however my main qualification is an open mind, which should be a must of all public officials.

2. It appears the No. 2 issue on citizens' minds in recent months would be crime. Home break-ins and robberies, which small towns used to be immune to, have become commonplace in Muenster. A solution to this problem will not be easy, but close cooperation with the police department will help.

3. I am running for City Council because of a sincere interest in Muenster. I represent no clubs, organizations, or businesses. I have an honest desire to serve the city to the best of my ability and will do so if elected.

Jim Hoedebeck Candidate for Muenster City Council Place 1

1. I have 10 years of experience in the engineering departments of city, county and state governments. These jobs entailed planning and inspection of various public works projects. These projects include paving streets, building pump stations, inspection of buildings and laying of water and sewer lines. I have also served on the zoning board of adjustment and the building code board of appeals for the city of Farmers Branch, Texas. I now am serving on the Library Board for the City of Muenster.

2. I find it hard to pinpoint one major problem facing the city right now, but there are three that need to be taken care of as soon as possible. I think more planning and prompt follow-through should be done with the water system, including the lake and buying easement for the system. The proper planning and execution of street maintenance should have high priority. Also the police department should be upgraded.

Harold Bindel
Candidate for
Muenster
School Board
Place 5

1. My qualifications are: I am a lifelong resident of Muenster and have been a tax payer for 20 years. I have three children attending Muenster Public School and I have served on the board for almost two years.
2. There are no major problem facing us at the present time. Upon completion of our new science and Jr.-High building, I feel that we will have a school we will all be proud of and one of the best around.

Dick Pagel
Candidate for Muenster
School Board
Place 7

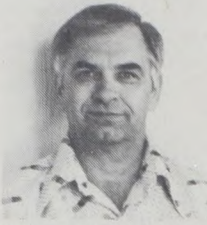

1. As a citizen, business person and father of two children in our Muenster Public School system, I am concerned with all areas of our school, academically as well as athletically. I feel as though I will be able to make a contribution to our school system, and would appreciate everyone's support.
2. Money, I am sure, is always a pressing problem in any school but I feel we should continue to employ a good qualified teaching staff and teaching aids.

Joe Hellman
Candidate for Muenster
School Board
Place 6

1. All I have to offer is my experience. I have been in business sixteen years. I have been a father those same sixteen years. I have served on the Board of trustees six years.
2. Hiring and keeping good teachers. With today's fast pace world, our schools have to compete with industry for qualified people. Unskilled jobs in industry pay as well or better than starting teachers get. This makes it unattractive for a young person to choose the teaching profession.

Wendell Richey
Candidate for
Muenster
School Board
Place 7

1. I have been a resident of Muenster most all of my life graduating from MHS in 1955. I am an active member of the First Baptist Church. I have served as president of the Quarterback Club for the past 4 years therefore I been actively involved in the support of our school. Also I have five children. Three of them have already graduated from MHS and the other two are students now, so I feel that this would be beneficial to me because I am kept up to date on the happenings at school.
2. Not being a current member of the School Board I couldn't say for sure, but as far as I know the Muenster School District is not facing any really serious problems at this time. I think we have a really good school system and I would be proud to be a part of it. I would, if elected, strive to maintain a positive and constructive attitude in approaching all problems, large or small, whatever they might be.

Patterson states qualifications for CCC board of trustees

Bill Patterson, candidate for the place one position on Cooke County College's Board of Trustees, said this week he believes that one of the most pressing issues in the Saturday election is "more wide spread involvement by all county residents in determining the college's future."
"This would logically begin with direct involvement in the choice of persons to serve on the college's governing board," he said, "and I hope as many county residents as possible will turn out at the polls."
Patterson pointed out that since the college has been a part of the community for more than half a century, there is sometimes a tendency to take it for granted.
"Most of us, I think, are aware of the value of the educational programs and services offered by the college," he said, "but the fact is, Cooke County College also has developed into one of this county's most valuable economic assets."
"This, coupled with the fact that it draws support from local tax dollars, makes the college's business all of our business."
"The challenges and difficulties, particularly economic ones, facing our colleges today are more complex than ever," he explained. "Faced with declining enrollments and increasing operational costs, many will not survive unless they have the benefit of experienced, effective management.

"These kinds of conditions and challenges are familiar to me. I have held positions from bottom to top in relatively large organizational structures. I know first hand many of the types of problems and situations that can develop in such an environment and, at the same time, have had a hand in their solutions."
Holder of a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Carnegie Institute of Technology, Patterson points to his educational and employment background as a definite plus in helping the college continue upgrading its vocational programs.
In addition, he is a graduate of the executive program of the UCLA Graduate School of Business and has worked as a registered mechanical engineer, metallurgist, sales engineer and administrator.
He is retired from the position of works manager of National Supply, is a lay leader at Whaley Methodist Church and has been very active in community and civic affairs, having had considerable governing board experience as past president of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce, Cooke County United Way and Gainesville Boys Club.
"I offer to the citizen taxpayers of Cooke County my experience and proven management skill," Patterson said, "but I also offer my pledge to act in the best interests of the majority of these citizens rather than

Schillings host visitors from Germany

By Rosa Driever

Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Corcoran of Gainesville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kimberly Ann to Michael Doyle Selby, son of Wayne and Pat Selby of Era. The couple has chosen Saturday, May 1 for their wedding day. Father Placidus Eckart, assisted by Rev. William Flint will be the officiating ministers, at 5 p.m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church in Gainesville. Attendants will be Donna Schmidkofer, maid of honor and Gayle, Patricia and Emily Corcoran, and Lezlea Selby; and Walt Stevens best man, and Greg and Scott Selby, and John Corcoran. The bride-elect is a graduate of Lindsay High School and is employed by Weber Aircraft. The future groom is a graduate of Era High School, and attended Cooke County College. He is employed by Dowell. The couple plans to reside in Era.

A pair of tourists stopped one afternoon last week at the Frank Schilling farm for a brief look and found themselves spending several hours as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Schilling.

Elisabeth Plank of Dan-sricht, West Germany, and William Hiltentag of Ontario, Canada, who are touring the U.S. sight-seeing, sighted the Schilling dairy barn and milk cows and asked if they might watch milking operations. He had worked in a dairy in Holland.

When Mrs. Schilling invited them to stay for supper they accepted. Mrs. Emily Kieninger was asked to join them. Together they "Talked up a storm in Bavarian" for three/four hours, losing track of time.

Telling about themselves the tourists said they met some years ago in Germany where he too was living at that time. They kept up a running correspondence. When he invited her to visit in Canada she made a flying trip. She is a student studying languages. He is a farmer. Both are in their early 20s. They travel in a pickup with a camper. First sight-seeing led them to Niagara Falls and that part of the U.S. Then they made their way down to Texas. Before stopping in Muenster they had been at Forestburg to see Mrs. Richard Howe's Limousin cattle. From Muenster they were headed for Amarillo to look at farm land and then westward sight-seeing with emphasis on California.

They have no planned itinerary, they said. They simply drive and look and stop to investigate what interests them. They have a few more weeks. She has to be back in school in Germany by the end of April.

Lee Wolf elected president of AMPI Southern region board

Lee Wolf, Gainesville, represented local dairymen at the 13th Annual meeting of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) in Milwaukee last week, where 1,200 elected officials of the nation's largest dairy cooperative considered new "self-help" programs to market the growing supply of milk and dairy products in the U.S.

AMPI is made up of 33,000 dairy farm families in 20 states. Owned and operated by its members, the cooperative markets fluid milk to dairy processors and manufacturers from Canada to the Mexican border. The AMPI annual meeting began Thursday, March 26, with three Regional meetings and continued on Friday and Saturday, with the corporate delegate sessions. 2,500 people, including officers, board representatives, delegates, members and guests attended.

One-third of AMPI's total production, or 5.2 billion pounds, was produced by the 5,000 dairymen in 11 South Central states that make up the cooperative's Southern Region. This is approximately four percent of the U.S. milk supply. AMPI/Southern Region 1981 sales amounted to $920 million.

In his report to AMPI/Southern Region delegates, E.L. (Jiggs) Wise, Southern Region Manager, Arlington, Texas, reported that membership was up one percent in 1981, compared to 1980. Production was up 200 million pounds during the same period, a four percent increase. Eighty-one percent of this supply was sold to Grade A milk processors and the balance was processed into butter, dry milk powder and cheese, primarily in AMPI owned plants.

During 1981 AMPI/Southern Region members invested nearly five million dollars in an advertising and promotion program to expand the domestic market for milk and dairy products. This "self help" program included the introduction of "REAL" Seal, a registered trademark that assures consumers they are buying real dairy products. The Seal is a stylized drop of milk surrounding the word "REAL". It appears on car-tions containing products that meet Federal standards of identity.

A survey conducted in November, 1981, indicated that 41 percent of the consumers in the Southern Region were familiar with the Seal nine months after it was introduced. "This is second only to California, where awareness was 49 percent," Wise noted. "The Seal was introduced there in 1976."

Retiring Southern Region Board President, D.C. Jones, Los Lunas, New Mexico, attributed the Southern Region's success to an operating philosophy that commands respect in the market place by servicing consumer needs. In addition, AMPI helps its members obtain the greatest return on their investment by operating on a zero net margin, returning income to members as it is earned, rather than accumulating net margin to be distributed at the end of the fiscal year.

"As less price stabilization is undertaken by the Federal government, all cooperatives will become more important to their members," Jones said. "It may be the only way to obtain a price for their product which will provide them with an adequate income," he said.

Lee Wolf, was elected to succeed Jones as Southern Region Board President. Wolf operates a 1500 acre dairy farm in Cooke County and manages a 200 cow herd. He has served on the AMPI Southern Region Board for several years and is a member of the organizations' corporate board.

The new Southern Region Board elected to serve with Wolf are: Bill Thornton, Carlisle, Arkansas - First Vice President; Martin Theodorf, Tyler, Texas - Second Vice President; Norman Barker, Pratt, Kansas - Secretary; Louis Hinders, Canyon, Texas - Treasurer and members Lyndon Wahl, President of the Oklahoma Division and T.C. Mauney, President of the Mid-South Division.

Tribute to parents in CCD liturgy

The CCD Liturgy on March 24 was devoted to parents, with the 7th grade CCD class, taught by John and Louise Fisher, participating.

A special banner displayed pictures of a mother and a father, with the message: "Parents are the best presents we'll ever get." The banner was carried by Joe Pagel.

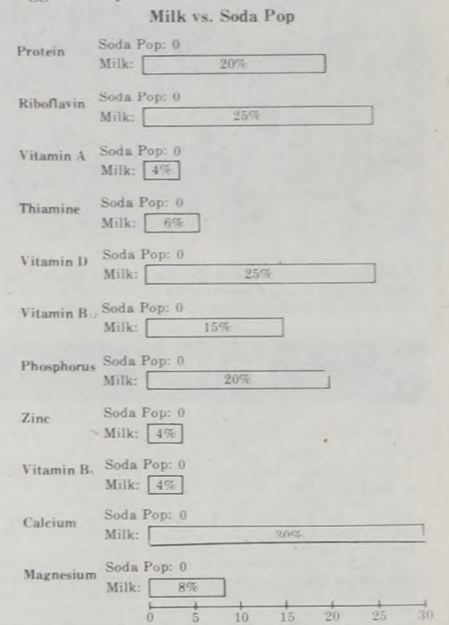

During the entrance procession Gary Grewing read a poem about a father and Laura Hess read a poem about a mother.

Bryan Klement gave the First Reading and Tracey Walterscheid gave the Response. Judy Biffle, Tracey Walterscheid, Rhonda Bayer and Laura Hess read the Prayers of the Faithful and the Offertory petitions. Steven Wimmer, Shawn Flusche and Greg Hoenig carried the Offertory gifts.

Father Stephen Eckart celebrated the CCD Mass Wednesday at 8 p.m. and Bubba Klement, Chris Klement, Travis Klement, Keith Vogel and Brian Kleiss were Mass servers.

Milk is so great — let's shout our story even louder!

Jim Kinsey of Minnesota recently sent Hoard's Dairyman magazine this bar graph comparing milk with soda pop. Everybody has seen these findings in one form or another, but sometimes it takes a great deal of time and effort to make these things sink in. So, wave this bar graph under the noses of anybody you can get to stand still, and let's push the ADA to promote more aggressively.

It pays to topdress pastures.

Pastures are too often overlooked in an otherwise comprehensive fertility program. The fact is, proper fertilization of pasture will greatly increase meat and milk production. You'll see faster weight gain, more pounds of gain per acre, a longer grazing season and greater carrying capacity. It can also dramatically increase your milk production. Begin with a soil test. Then apply the fertilizer shown to be needed. Let our Fertilizer Specialist help you. He has the know-how and we have the materials. Come see us soon. We're ready when you are.

Standing together. Standing strong.

Hornets slip past Nocona in 17-13 scoring spree

Muenster Hornets were at the happy end of a 17-13 scoring spree with Nocona's Indians last Thursday. The win gives them a 1-2 standing with a game to play on April 6 before starting the district schedule on the 8th. They will have two games each with Ponder, Krum and Alvord in the district race.

Muenster took a lead on 3 and 5 runs in each of the first two innings but dropped behind as Nocona scored 6 and 4 in the second and third. However an 8 run fifth gave MHS a lead which stood up in spite of Nocona's 1 and 2 in the fifth and seventh.

The teams were almost equal in placing runners on base. MHS was working on 20 hits and 3 walks while Nocona had 11 hits and 11 walks. Tim Schneider and Dale Swirczynski pitched for Muenster and Nocona likewise had a pair of pitchers.

MHS hitters were Tim Schneider, a single, double, triple and a sacrifice; David Winn, two singles and a double; Kevin Felderhoff, three singles; Wayne Carroll, a single and a sacrifice; Dale Swirczynski a single and a double; Vance Wells, Craig Stoffels, Joe Hennigan and James Huchaby each two doubles.

The Hornets amazing batting average now reads as follows. Schneider .583, Wells .555, Swirczynski .454, Hennigan .454, Winn .428, Huckaby .400, Felderhoff .250, Stoffels .222, Carroll .143.

17 attend Cub Scout Rally

School Night Cub Scout Rally was termed a "huge success" by Cubmaster Lupe Evans on Thursday, March 25. Seventeen boys, ages 8 to 9 attended with their parents.

Murlin Evans and Jeff Walterscheid, Webelos, performed a flag ceremony. The cubmaster's program placed emphasis on the "family oriented" nature of cub-scouting. Parents were told that the boys need their help to reap full benefits of cub scouting; also that parents are expected to attend all Pack meetings with their boys. The structure of the organization was explained and before the meeting was over, two den leaders, two assistants and one committeeman volunteered.

While parents registered their sons, the two Webelos entertained the future cubs with magic tricks and games.

Committee members Judy McDaniel and Sharon Walterscheid served refreshments and explained their involvement in the organization.

Nuclear firefighters get hands-on training at Texas A&M

Because fires in nuclear power plants can range from simple trashbasket blazes to electrical infernos that threaten vital radiation safety systems, fire brigades at such facilities need special training.

In one of the few programs nationwide, the Texas Engineering Extension Service, part of the Texas A&M University System, offers the kind of classroom and hands-on experience needed, says one instructor coordinator.

Firefighters from nuclear power plants are taught basic control and prevention skills. In addition, they receive special emphasis on radiation detection, fighting fires in the presence of radioactive contamination and setting up control areas for firemen leaving the scene, said David Cox of TEEEX Fire Protection Training Division.

SH 8th grader wins Texas Catholic contest

Students at Sacred Heart School were among winners in a contest sponsored by The Texas Catholic, on a central theme: "If I Were Bishop for a Day."

Leslie Hess, an eighth grader won first place in the 7th through 9th grade category. Michael Mangum, a fifth grader in the fourth through sixth category and Sandra Walterscheid and Paula Yosten each received honorable mention in the 7th through ninth grade category.

The winning entry by Leslie Hess is as follows:

If I were Bishop for a Day,
I would show forth my abilities in every way.
By training priests to do their jobs right, and praying for them deeply all day and all night.
By confirming little children and teaching them good,
And telling them to pray like they should.
But most of all deep in my heart,
I would like each parish to do their part. To give to the needy, to give to the poor, Give them hope, love, happiness and more.

I would be like a shepherd watching his sheep,
Guarding them closely in safe keep.
I would supervise my flock every day,
And I would not fail my diocese in any way.
I would take out time in the day,
To just sit quietly and pray.
I would show a deep concern for my fellow man,
And help them out as much as I can.
I would try to unite each parish and make them one,
So they could meet new people and have some fun.
With all the things I'd like to do,
I think I'd need more than a day, don't you?

Judge Fender asks for appeals court chief justice

State District Judge Howard M. Fender, of Fort Worth, is seeking election as Chief Justice of the 2nd Court of Appeals, subject to the Democratic Primary. Judge Fender, 61, said he began thinking seriously about running for the seat last fall, after the legislature passed a measure requiring the 14 Courts of civil appeals to also hear criminal cases.

Judge Fender, a former Tarrant County District Attorney and Assistant Attorney General of Texas, said his years of criminal law experience should be to the appellate court's benefit. Judge Fender said he is also competent in civil law because of his work in the Attorney General's Office and eight years private general practice.

"I feel there is an urgent need to have a judge with expertise in criminal law serving on this Court," Judge Fender said.

Judge Fender noted that his Court set a Tarrant County record last October by disposing of 173 felony cases, and said if he is elected Chief Justice, "I will continue to work as hard as I have been."

Judge Fender is a Fort Worth native and graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. He received his law degree from Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia, in 1948.

The Second Court of Appeals hears appeals from district and county courts in Archer, Clay, Cooke, Denton, Hood, Jack, Montague, Parker, Tarrant, Wichita, Wise and Young Counties.
