A mere casual observer of the country's news media could not have overlooked the frantic concern with AIDS, the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome described by Dr. Edward Brandt Jr. director of the Public Health Service as his No. 1 priority.

The actual cause of the disease is still unknown, but several symptoms are known and it is also known that three-fourths of the 1450 cases reported in US since June 1981 have been homosexual or bisexual males. Most other cases have been intravenous drug users, Haitian immigrants and persons with Hemophilia. And the most alarming fact of all is that the mortality rate has been almost 40 percent.

No wonder the gays are getting panicky. At the rate this thing is spreading it could very possibly be on the way to an epidemic, and homosexuals could be facing the distressing alternatives of giving up their gutter lifestyle or risking death.

For that we can't fault the people. Their outlook is gloomy to the extreme. But neither can we offer a lot of sympathy. Plain common sense should be prompting them to give up their repulsive way and return to respected and natural human behavior. But this doesn't seem to be their attitude. Gays are getting impatient about the failure of science and public health services to come up with ways enabling them to continue their shabby habit.

They have more than ample occasion to learn from other experience. Patients are often told they can improve life expectancy by refraining from smoking, drinking, salty foods, over-exercise, and what not. Similarly, gays are told they can extend lives by cleaning up a filthy life style.

Another thought on this subject. Homosexuals are impatient because science is not fast enough in bringing up the solution to their ugly problem. The attitude is out of line to say the least. Fairness dictates that cancer, heart disease and a few other diseases of the millions, all involved in a normal, respectable lifestyle, are entitled to the prior attention of science. This applies especially when the best solution to the AIDS problem is already known: Just live like human beings.

To an average person this suggestion seems like common sense. But that's not how they see it in Washington where the prevailing way is the traditional federal method of throwing tax payer money at the problem. Public Health Service has spent $5.5 million on AIDS in '82, $14.5 million in '83, and plans to spend $17.7 million in '84. Not satisfied with that, a House subcommittee now proposes to increase the purse by $12 million and another emergency group is trying for $30 more.

According to the Human Events, the massive legislative effort "represents a response to a massive lobbying campaign by militant homosexuals." Recent articles in the homosexual press reveal that groups such as the Gay Rights National Lobby have been extremely active on Capitol Hill, pressing for stronger govern-

Texas DPS predicts 49 weekend traffic deaths

The Texas Department of Public Safety has estimated that as many as 49 persons could die in traffic accidents across the state during the Fourth of July holiday period.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, said the estimate is based on the anticipated volume of traffic and the previous holiday deaths.

"Independence Day can bring more motorists to our streets and highways compared to a regular weekend. We are estimating fewer deaths than we had during the Fourth of July holiday last year because thus far this year we have experienced a decline in traffic fatalities," Adams said.

Last year, 55 fatalities were recorded during the 78-hour period, but subsequent deaths from serious injuries brought the final count to 64 for the three-day holiday.

Adams said if drivers would stay sober, slow down and use seat belts, their chances for survival would increase.

"Drivers who speed or are intoxicated pose the greatest threat to law abiding motorists," Adams said. "Some people will insist upon drinking excessively and attempting to drive during this period. We will do our best to remove these individuals from the roads," he said. "If a person drinks, that is his personal business, but if he drives drunk--that's police business."

Adams encouraged motorists who observe drunken drivers to report them to the nearest police agency or Highway Patrol.

DPS commanders throughout the state will utilize additional troopers in areas they deem appropriate. DPS will also conduct "Operation Motorcade" to inform the public of the number of traffic deaths occurring during the 78-hour holiday period.

Periodic reports will be communicated statewide relating the tabulation of the number of deaths that occur during the 78-hour holiday period.

Phone contract finalized

Alvin Fuhrman, manager of Muenster Telephone Corporation, announced today that a contract for a new digital switching system was let to Stromberg Carlson of Lake Mary Florida this month. The computer controlled system will replace Stromberg Carlson electro-mechanical step-by-step switching system installed in 1962. The new system will be installed the fourth quarter of this year with cut-over some time in January 1984.

Besides operating with quieter circuits and much faster, especially with touch-tone dialing, the system will have many other advantages.

1. All toll calls will be timed and ticketed here and no further accounting will be necessary to complete the call.

2. The time delay between when a call is placed, and when it appears on your bill will be reduced. Calls through the 20th of the month will be on the current bill.

3. The computer controlled switching system according to Mr. Fuhrman will also provide the following optional service:

a. Call Forwarding - route your calls to your neighbor, or any other telephone in the United States when you leave home.

b. Three-way conferencing - lets you know when someone is calling you while you are talking and lets you put the first party on "hold" and answer a second call, then come back to the first party, or let the second party join into the conversation with the first party.

c. Speed dialing - lets you store your most dialed numbers under a 2-digit code, so that instead of always dialing a 7 or 10-digit number to complete a call you need dial only the 2-digit code.

The new equipment will take up much less room in the equipment room of the telephone office.

One disadvantage of the new system will be that you must dial all 7-digits of the telephone number, even to complete a local call.

Plans are under study now for the digital switching system here in Muenster to also control new switching systems in Myra, Rosston, Forestburg, and Valley View.

The above planned improvements have been in the planning stage since 1979 when the Muenster City Council renewed Muenster Telephone Corporation's franchise to operate in the city. These improvements are financed by a loan from the Telephone Bank which operates very similar to the land bank.

Good News

Ezekiel 14: 12-14

Thus the word of the Lord came to me: Son of man, when a land sins against me by breaking faith, I stretch out my hand against it and break its staff of bread, I let famine loose upon it and cut off from it both man and beast; and even if these three men were in it, Noah, Daniel and Job, they could save only themselves by their virtue, says the Lord God.

The Muenster Enterprise will be closed on Monday in observance of the Independence Day holiday. The staff of The Enterprise wishes a safe and happy Fourth of July to all its readers.

More right weather

Farmers are still favored by their kind of weather. As soon as dry weather enabled them to finish a super grain harvest, the rains came and gave a welcome lift to other crops. The total of the week was 2.13 in., a fine start even though it doesn't measure up to the need. However, mild temperature is helping. The month's total now is 3.25 in. and the year's total is 13.93.

Low and high readings of the week were recorded as follows by Steve Moster.

June 23	69 and 92
June 24	70 and 90
June 25	.17 in rain 71 and 82
June 26	.53 in rain 68 and 80
June 27	2.2 in. rain 67 and 92
June 28	1.21 in rain 66 and 92

Perspectives

SALLY RIDE—There are probably more than a few of us who maintain at least a slight doubt as to whether that's her real name. More than likely, it's just a creation of NASA's public relations department as the most appropriate name for the first woman in space.

But no matter. NASA and Sally Ride have accomplished a lot by this latest project. Not only have they given a rebirth to the fascination over space travel, but they've given the American public something it hasn't had in a long time.

It's been so long since we had a modern-day, real-life hero that it's hard to remember just who the last one was.

Americans, for the most part, have been in awe of this Sally Ride ever since it was announced she's be making her star-studded journey. The woman's a bona fide celebrity; if she weren't, what would she be doing on the cover of People magazine?

It wasn't all that long ago that if a Sally Ride—this one or some other one, it doesn't matter—wanted to make a career in flying, she's have had to suffice with carrying trays and pushing carts on an airplane.

Now, once again, children (both girls and boys) have a hero to emulate. And once again, people have a new topic of conversation—a topic of conversation which will no doubt be beaten to death before its time. And once again, the feminist movement has another role model. We've already heard about how Sally Ride worked just as hard on this mission as the other guys but wasn't getting paid as much as the other guys on this mission. What were the names of those other three guys, again? Or were there four? And therein lies another sign of a star—how well one is able to steal the spotlight. The only thing that could lessen her ability to do that is an identical twin.

This fascination over the nation's first woman in space says a lot about the public's perception of America's space travels. It took something new about space travel to get people talking about it again.

Besides, as chauvinistic as it may sound, there are some people who are just plain curious about how a woman handles space travel after men have been doing it for years.

Fascination over space travel was on a steady downhill slide ever since Neil Armstrong left footprints on the surface of the moon.

Everything since then has been viewed as 'no big deal.'

NASA says Sally Ride was picked for this mission, quite frankly, because she was the most qualified person for the job. There's really no reason to challenge that, but at a time when interest in the space program seemed to be at an all-time low, it surely seemed like a convenient time to send the first woman astronaut into space. Especially one named Sally Ride.

The Owner's Manual

I WOULD like to do a series of studies on the Book of Jonah. Unfortunately, when the name of Jonah is mentioned, most people only remember him as a person who was swallowed by a big fish. However, I believe that there are many truths that can be learned from a study of Jonah that can be applied to our life today.

In order for us to begin to understand the attitude of Jonah, we need to realize that he lived in a time when the Assyrians who lived in Nineveh were greatly disliked by the Jews because of the tremendous harassment and discomfort which they had brought them. Jonah also typified the narrow-minded view that salvation was for the Jews only. Many people today display this type of attitude when they see no reason to tell God's plan of salvation to a person of another race or another denomination because they don't think this person has a chance of going to heaven anyway. The last thing on earth Jonah wanted was to see God redeem and save his enemies. The message throughout the Book of Jonah is that God's love is unlimited and that God's people must not try to limit his love to only those they consider deserving.

Another thing we all too often have in common with Jonah is that many times God calls us to do something we don't want to do, so we refuse God's call, turn our back to Him, and go our own way. Other prophets, from Moses to Jeremiah, had protested against accepting the call of God, but only Jonah had actually run away from the call. We see this in Jonah 1:1-3, "Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it; for their wickedness is come up before me. But Jonah rose up to flee unto Tarshish (Spain) from the presence of the Lord, and went down to Joppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish (Spain); for he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarshish from the presence of the Lord."

Jonah was soon to learn another truth. There is nowhere a person can go to escape from the presence of God, and to try to do so, and to refuse to do God's will for your life, will only bring unhappiness.

One of the points that comes through loud and clear in the Book of Jonah is the inability of persons to frustrate God's divine purposes. One writer has compared Jonah's experience to that of Christians trying to run away from God today: "If you are determined to run away from God, you will always find a ship ready to help you on your way. 'Tarshish ship' are plentiful; the harbor is full of them...A 'Tarshish ship' always sails in the opposite direction from where the Lord desires you to go...There are no ships that go to Nineveh. There is only a dusty road that leads there.

It takes effort, energy, and hardship to go where God calls. A Tarshish ship, however, will carry you without any effort on your part. You can even sleep as you gently glide out to sea. Is it any wonder so many would rather take a Tarshish ship than trudge the Nineveh road?"

Dr. George S. Benson

Looking Ahead

A RECENT study by the highly respected Tax Foundation in Washington D.C., proves that the typical American family is worse off today than it was before the launching of the Great Society "War On Poverty."

According to the Foundation's survey, in 1972, median family income was $11,152. In 1982 it was $23,895, so money income had doubled. On paper that looked good.

But federal taxes during the same years had increased almost three times, from $1,400 to $4,100 a year.

In addition, the purchasing power of each dollar of disposable income after taxes has been greatly reduced by inflation.

The combination of higher taxes and lower value of the dollar means the average wage in spendable income is $8,543 in constant dollars, 1972 dollars, but in 1972, it was $9,702.

Despite the fact that hundreds of billions of dollars annually are spent on the so-called "social welfare" functions of the federal budget, the number of people classified as poor has not declined. According to the 1980 Census figures, the number of people officially designated as "poor" has increased.

In his recent book, THE ECONOMY IN MIND, author Warren Brookes analyzes this phenomenon. Brookes outlines the tremendous increase in welfare spending at all levels of government, federal, state and local, and discusses the negative effect this has had.

Brookes says: "From 1960 to 1981, the nation's spending on human services and social welfare programs grew from $30 billion a year to more than $500 billion—a 16-fold increase. Yet during the years 1970-80, for the first time in our nation's post-war history, 4 million more people slipped below the poverty line than climbed above it. And since 1970, largely because of the rapid growth in social welfare spending—and the taxation and inflation that have gone with it—the average individual worker's after-tax wages have actually declined about 8 percent..."

It seems that the more we spend on poverty, the more poverty we get. The reason is clear: the poverty program destroyed the incentive of the poor and the rich to earn.

As government spending increases, taxes must increase as much as it politically feasible to pay for the new programs. Money taken from us in taxes is money we can't spend for houses, cars, furniture, new clothes and so forth. It is also money we can't invest in new businesses creating more jobs for the unemployed.

Inflation affects us similarly. Government doesn't dare raise our taxes high enough to pay for all federal spending. They pay the difference with newly created money and credit.

This resulting inflation erodes away the purchasing power of our money and our savings and investments. Our real incomes decline and the number of officially designated poor increase.

You may ask—do we not care about the poor?

Yes, indeed. We care very much about the poor. But the needs of the poor should be handled by the churches, by other local organizations, by able individuals, and by the counties, as was done in America for many decades. Only huge emergencies should require state or national action. That would work better, contribute to general goodwill, bring better results and cost a lot less. It would eliminate a lot of politicking and a lot of vote buying.

Congressional Comment

ASHLEY BAILEY is a 9½-month-old baby girl from Clyde, Texas, whose days to live could well be numbered by a faulty bile duct in her liver. She and her parents are currently waiting for a liver donor to be identified, hopefully before the clock runs out.

Interest in Ashley's case has spread throughout the country—even into the White House—as first financial assistance for the family was sought, then state legislation was passed to fund a special pilot project that would benefit the infant, and, finally, the long wait for a donor began.

Two months ago, Ashley's family contacted me to try to help facilitate Medicaid funding for the transplant. In the ensuing weeks, my own interest in the case has given me a deep awareness of many of the important issues we now face in regard to transplants, including the questions of the cost of such medical care and how a donor is located.

Amidst the excitement of the medical miracles brought about by today's organ transplants, we often overlook the serious moral and ethical questions involved; questions being confronted on several fronts at this time.

Ashley's case illustrates several of these important issues. Financial problems have now been resolved and Ashley's doctors at the University of Minnesota Hospital have said her condition is as good as it is going to get, before she enters a period of steady decline. Only a liver donor is needed.

At the request of her family, I worked to try to attract national media attention to Ashley's need; attention that had proved successful for other transplant patients. The father of one of those patients—Jamie Fiske—made an appeal for Ashley at a recent high level conference on transplants attended by a wide array of medical professionals across the country. Members of my staff questioned the Surgeon General of the United States at that conference, asking what hope could be held out for those patients in immediate need, such as Ashley.

Those efforts have triggered other questions: What of that child whose Congressman chooses not to speak up in his or her behalf? Is their need lost in the midst of publicity that only a few such cases receive? How can you justify such efforts for one child, when there are many, many others also waiting for donors?

Even as I recognize the validity of those questions, my answer is a simple one: At some point in almost every parent's life, a nagging question presents itself, usually in the dark of night. If there were a fire and I knew I could save only one of my children, which child would I save? The answer to that age-old question is, "You would save the first child you could."

So, in Ashley's case, the answer is the same. How can any member of our society say, "no, if I can't help them all, I won't help even one."

Ultimately, as individual transplant cases receive widespread attention, public awareness of the overall need is achieved. It is through that public awareness—that emotional impact that one child's fight for life can have—that we will all move closer to the point where we, as parents, as doctors and emergency room personnel will be able to break through the grief of a death of a child to be able to give the gift of life to another, unknown child.

Certainly the media has a role to play in this massive public awareness campaign, but you and I as individuals have an equal role. We begin by talking with family members; by signing a donor card and making our family, friends and physician aware of that decision; by asking our service club or church group to sponsor discussions to help increase awareness. In short, it is our responsibility to care and then go beyond talking about an issue such as this to acting upon that issue in the best manner possible.

Caution pays

—Do not allow younger children to play with fireworks under any circumstances. Remember that fireworks are not toys for children.

— If you permit older children to use fireworks, be sure they use them only under close adult supervision. Do not allow any running or horse play while they are being used.

— Before using any fireworks, read and follow all warning instructions printed on the label.

— Light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses and flammable materials (gasoline cans, etc.).

— Keep a bucket of water nearby for emergencies and for dousing fireworks that don't go off.

— Do not try to relight or handle malfunctioning fireworks. Soak them with water and throw away.

— Be sure other people are out of range before lighting fireworks.

— Never ignite fireworks in a container, especially a glass or metal container.

— Store fireworks in a dry, cool place. Check instructions for special storage directions.

nment intervention in the battle "against AIDS." They have also organized demonstrations in various cities, letter writing campaigns, and phone calls directed at the White House.

On May 3, 15 members of Congress either gave speeches or made insertions in the Congressional Record calling for increased funding of AIDS research.

"Incredibly, however, not one representative even hinted that the homosexuals themselves bear some of the responsibility for the disorder or that the homosexual lifestyle may be a part of the problem. The homosexuals were viewed as just the innocent victims."

"Similarly, the homosexuals and their supporters reacted with ridicule and outrage when two congressmen suggested that if the government is to spend millions of dollars on AIDS research, it should also issue warnings about the health hazards of homosexual activity."

In fact the gays are indignant about the implication that their degrading epidemic was a result of their own degrading lifestyle. In spite of brazen demands that society accept them as normal human beings they are betraying their own conviction, either consciously or unconsciously, that they are not living up to the character and dignity of human beings.

Nevertheless homosexuals nowadays are going all out to move up in society, apparently not only striving to be accepted by normal people but seeking positions of influence such as teaching and writing. This is more than just a matter of demanding rights. It amounts to exposing impressionable young minds to twisted and immoral principles. That is bad for the persons affected and bad for the general moral trend in society.

Columnist Pat Buchman enraged the homosexuals with a recent column on the AIDS controversy in which he said, "The poor homosexuals—they have declared war on nature, and now nature is exacting an awful retribution."

Jeannene Flusche, director, said the requirement for entry is completion of kindergarten and a permission slip signed by a parent or guardian. For convenience, a suitable form is being included with this article.

The course will be taught in two sections, one group attending the week of July 11 to 15 in one hour periods beginning at 9, 10 and 11. The other group will attend the week of July 18 - 22, in one hour periods starting at 10 and 11 o'clock. A special period for adults and swimmers is set for 9 a.m.

Registration for all students will be held Saturday, the 9th, from 9 to 11. The process will include assigning students to the first or second week and also to the class hours. By that arrangement classes can start without delay on Monday.

Children coming to register are expected to wear swim suits so they can be tested for ability and assigned to the proper class. Those classes are beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates and swimmers. More information is available from Jeannene Flusche, 759-4497.

Other attractions planned include activities for the children, a petting zoo, a baby contest, a drawing for the boys' baseball prize, and various contests for adults and youngsters alike.

In addition, a commemorative plaque will be dedicated and placed on the zoo fence.

Arts, crafts and food booths will line the park area, and any group or person wishing to reserve a place should contact Jerry Bayless or Rod Tyler.

Shuttle buses supplied by various churches will be available to take visitors to the side from parking areas which will surround the park.

A number of other events and entertainment numbers are awaiting confirmation and will be announced soon, Bayless said.

"Will interest rates go up or down? Either way, First Texas has the right plan now."

Plan One:
Take advantage of rising interest rates with the escalating-rate Money Maker Plus.

If you think the interest rates will rise, you'll want the First Texas Money Maker Plus account. This short-term investment gives you the high interest of a money market fund. Plus, there's one big difference: it offers an escalating interest rate, so the more you invest, the higher your interest rate.

Under Deposits:	$2,500	$5,000	$10,000	$50,000
Rates:	5.25%	8.25%	8.35%	8.55% 8.65%

These rates were effective June 21, 1983 and illustrate the increments of this investment. Interest rates may vary daily.

There are more pluses with this account: Your principal and interest are insured safe up to $100,000 by the FSLIC. There's a minimum opening deposit of only $2,500. You can write checks and make deposits of $500 or more. You also have no activity or management fees. Plus, you can receive a free First Texas regular checking account for one year.

Plan Two:
Lock in a current interest rate with Money Market Certificates.

If you think interest rates will fall in the future, First Texas has a choice of long-term Money Market Certificates.* These investments are a safe way to lock in a current money market interest rate for either two and a half, four, six, eight or even ten years.

You can start with an opening deposit as small as $500. And your investment is insured up to $100,000 by the FSLIC.

Also, there's an insured, 6-month Certificate with a minimum opening deposit of only $2,500.

Long or short term. The choice is yours.

The fact is, no matter what you think interest rates will do, First Texas has a plan that's right for you, right now.

Come into the First Texas office nearest you today to open the account that's right for you. Or call this toll-free number: (800) 442-1256; or in Dallas,

Food sterilization by nuclear radiation extends shelf life

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University food scientist says low-level nuclear radiation wastes could be safely used to sterilize and preserve foods.

Radiation could be used at food processing plants to keep potatoes from rotting and extend their shelf life up to a year and a half, said Dr. E. E. Burns. It might also be used to keep milk from spoiling, to preserve strawberries and other fruits and vegetables for longer periods of time, or to keep bread fresher longer.

The process would use radiation from atomic waste to kill microorganisms, such as bacteria, fungi and certain enzymes, that cause food to spoil, he said.

I remembered from the day before that two giggling boys were playing and eating plums from the trees between our yard and Deborah's beauty shop. While their moms were inside, Bryan and Lance Huckabee were enjoying themselves. All I could think was 'takes one to know one' and giggled all the way to Alvord.

Tina Wade and Jay Houston exchanged wedding vows in a double ring, candlelight ceremony last Friday night in the Sunset Baptist church. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wade and Mrs. Ellen Pittman of Sunset. Best man was Gary Johnson, brother-in-law of the groom. Dena Agree was the maid of honor. Sunday tour shows renovated rectory

About 500 visitors came to see the remodeled Sacred Heart Rectory last weekend following regular services Saturday night and Sunday. What they saw was a home for parishioners to be proud of... modern, convenient and attractive... the first complete renovating job the building has received in more than fifty years.

The long list of improvements is headed by central heat and air conditioning, insulation and storm windows, along with wall paneling, a paint job and venetian blinds. It also has a lowered ceiling of acoustical tile, fluorescent lights and ceiling fans.

The kitchen, too is mostly new with a handsome set of cabinets, sink and microwave, and the same applies to bathroom walls, ceiling, floor and fixtures. In general, the project includes all of the home except rooms above the garage.

Exterior was not overlooked in the program which has been quoted at $55,000. Improvements there consist principally of replacing old sidewalks, landscaping and sodding.

Butch & Johnny's Way of Saying
THANKS for Being Our Customer & Friend

Damage scenes such as the one above were the result of threatening storm clouds and lightning Monday night.

Area hit by wind and lightning

This mobile home owned by Steve and Kathy Arendt of Lindsay sustained a one-two punch in Monday night's thunderstorm. A twister ripped off the roof after which the weight of the downpour crashed the ceiling. Some furnishings were saved but others and much of the structure were lost. Photo at the side shows rafters and the demolished ceiling.

Muenster, along with other areas of the county had some anxious moments Monday night between 9 and 9:30 when a thunderstorm brought high winds and lightning which plunged some 25-30 local homes into darkness and did widespread damage to trees and crops.

The rough weather extended generally over the north part of Cooke County, Caps Corner to Dexter, and caused failures in hundreds of homes on the Cooke County Electric Co-op system. More than 500 of those were knocked out by a single blow as a sub-station failed and there were dozens of other individual failures as well. While service was restored to the great majority by repairing the sub-station there were still the individual jobs. A half dozen repair crews were on duty and they had the service restored about 1 a.m.

At Muenster all calls were to single outages serviced by a single crew which finished its job about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Cause of the damage was two-fold, the electrical storm and high winds. A half dozen trees were blown down and the trashy debris of limbs and twigs were scattered all over town. However no other property damage nor injury was reported in Muenster.

The worst damage apparently was at the home of Steve and Kathy Arendt at Lindsay. The wind, reported as a tornado, ripped the roof off their mobile home exposing the interior to the downpour. Fortunately many contents were removed before the ceiling gave way under the load of rain.

Crops likewise felt the effect of the storm. Corn, maize and sudan were down and tangled, however much of it is expected to shape up in a few days.

Muenster is 7-3 in Campfire Loop

Muenster's girls, sponsored by Glenn's Paint and Body Shop, advanced two notches in the Cooke County Campfire League during the past week for a current standing of 7-3. That's second in the loop, Lindsay being first with 9-1.

Nor is it a cinch for second. Blanton Insurance has 6-4 and can take over or tie for second spot in the final two games. Muenster will play Lindsay Thursday at 6:30 and Blanton Friday at 8 p.m.

In last week's action

Muenster was going strong with a 12-3 lead in the third, then fell apart and almost blew it in the last two innings. After a good last inning scare they escaped with a 1 point lead.

Opposing Felderhoff Drilling on the 27th they got along better for a 13-7 win. High spot of the game was a double play on a line drive to Terry Hess who flipped the ball to Amber Grewing before a runner could get back to base. Lisa and Terry Haverkamp shared the pitching in both games.

Progress at the city baseball park: Robert Klement is building the new Jaycee project, a rest room, beside the grandstand.

Food sterilization by nuclear radiation extends shelf life

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University food scientist says low-level nuclear radiation wastes could be safely used to sterilize and preserve foods.

Radiation could be used at food processing plants to keep potatoes from rotting and extend their shelf life up to a year and a half, said Dr. E. E. Burns. It might also be used to keep milk from spoiling, to preserve strawberries and other fruits and vegetables for longer periods of time, or to keep bread fresher longer.

The process would use radiation from atomic waste to kill microorganisms, such as bacteria, fungi and certain enzymes, that cause food to spoil, he said.

three boys advanced to higher rank. Drue Bynum is a Star Scout, Michael Mangum is second class and Keith Vogel is first class.

Boys who received the merit badges and the number received by each are Michael Dobney 6, Ryan Bayer 9, Drue Bynum 9, Eric Dankesreiter 6, Murlin Evans 7, Jason Gehrig 9, John Herr 6, Rodney Knabe 4, Michael Mangum 9, Troy Pagel 6, David Rohmer 6, Keith Vogel 7, Shawn Vogel 5, Michael Walter 6, Jeff Walterscheid 7, Jason Walterscheid 5, Joe Weinzapfel 6.

Merit awards and Mike Walter's special award were presented by Scoutmaster Waylen Poole. The advancement pins were presented by Assistant Scoutmaster Reece Parton.

The ceremony was directed by John Herr as Master of Ceremonies in qualifying for a merit badge in communications. Keith Vogel, Eric Dankesreiter and Mike Abney had charge of setting up for the event.

About 80 persons attended the party which started with a fish fry, corn and hush puppies prepared by the Waylen Pools plus salads and desserts prepared by scout mothers.

In the Scoutmaster's

Minute, Mr. Poole congratulated the scouts for their achievements and introduced Assistant Scoutmaster John Walterscheid who handed out membership cards to Scouts and a 1983-84 sponsorship charter to Bob Knauf of the KC council. # Cub Scout tribal council closes with achievements and program

The saga of the cub scout tribal council continues:

Chief H.L. Perkins of the tribe of the Soil Conservation Service in Gainesville conducted the braves on a conservation trail. He explained the meaning of conservation and why everyone should practice conservation of trees, water, soil and animals. It was discussed how soil erosion occurs and how the water cycle occurs. Each brave learned the basics of using the survey instruments - transit, eye level, and prism.

The braves went to the far range for feats of skill with the bow and arrow under the direction of Chief Shinning Star. While waiting their turn, each brave made an armband to wear.

On Thursday, Chief Running Horse conducted the braves in Indian games.

The wolf braves earned achievements for feats of skill in the front roll, back roll, elephant walk, frog leap and crab walk.

The bear braves earned achievements and fulfilled requirements 3 and 4. They included the crab relay, 30 yard dash, gorilla race, kangaroo hop, one man push-over line, one man peg fight.

Chief Swift Foot increased the difficulty of the obstacle course. The braves bounded over hurdles crept under barriers, jumped over a wall and across a log, all in record time.

Each tribe participated in either the opening or closing flag ceremony each day.

The tribes learned several new tribal chants during the noon-time activities.

The final tribal gathering was held on Friday evening under the protection of the great pavilion. The flag ceremony and pledge of allegiance were lead by representatives of all the tribes present. A welcome was given by Chief Tejan, followed by a song led by Chief Shinning Star.

Skits and songs were presented by each of the tribes present: The Thunderbirds, pack 110, Saint Jo; The Flatheads, pack 652, Gainesville; The Tribe of Many Fingers, pack 653, Gainesville; The Was-a-Los, pack 663, Gainesville; Geronimo's Renegades, pack 664, Muenster; The Bad Brothers, boy scouts, Gainesville and Muenster.

The Lawrence Welk-Yogi Bear Applause was afforded to all tribes for their efforts.

Chief Tejan, Lupe Evans, presented the day camp staff and expressed her appreciation for all their efforts during the week. A token of appreciation was given to Sharp Pen - Loretta Felderhoff; Limber Fingers - Judy Wilhoit; Fainted Flower - Rhelda Harris; Big Tree - Roy Bryan; Running Horse - Tom Emberton; Swift Foot - Andy Truebenbach; Sharp Eye - David Fette; Straight Shooter - Roy Hartman; Papoose Squaw - Jeanne Greathouse; Medicine Squaws - Peggy Gobble and Patricia Sharp. Running Water - Sharon Walterscheid; Shinning Star - Shirley Weems.

Rick Stewart and Reece

Parton received special recognition for accompanying the Webelos tribe to their special camp held in another location this year.

The staff chiefs presented a special bandana/banana skit.

Each brave attending the tribal gathering received a patch and a list of accomplishments to record in his book of requirements.

For closing all joined in singing "Kum-ba-ya".

Chief Tejan closed the tribal gathering with the following in sign language: "May the Spirit of Scouting and the Light of Akela be with you and me until our paths cross again."

This completes the recording of the great tribal council of cub scouts for the summer of 1983.

County Agent's Report

Grain sorghum is beginning to head in the county. One problem farmers should be checking their fields for is the sorghum midge. Midge shows up in this north Texas area about July 4. Due to this late date, producers are usually not bothered by midge damage. In most years our grain sorghum has headed and bloomed before July 4. However, this year we have a lot of fields that were planted late and could be troubled with midge problems.

The midge is a tiny orange colored fly about the size of a gnat. They damage sorghum by laying eggs on the heads and the maggot feeding on the developing seeds. The result is blasted heads. The midge attack only sorghum heads in the yellow flowering stage. If sorghum flowers have turned brown, there will be no damage. The heads flower for several days so damage can last for seven to nine days if a field heads evenly. Damage can go on even longer if fields head unevenly and heads flower for a long period of time. Daily evaluation of fields that are susceptible should begin soon after July 4. There are several methods used to find midge. One is just usual observation. Look for their presence flying or crawling on heads. Second, use a clear plastic bag to trap them. Just place it over a head to trap and count the midge. And the last one many producers use is the slap method. Clap your hand on the head and look for the crushed orange midge on your hands. The best time to look for midge presence is early in the morning until about noon when they're at the peak of activity. Economic control measures can be used when approximately 30 percent of the field is in the yellow flowering stage and you find one sorghum midge per head. Again, midge will not bother sorghum that has passed the yellow blossom stage. But, if your sorghum is late, then begin some field checking. Hopefully, as in other years, we won't see much damage.

PUBLIC NOTICE

At the request of the Office of the General Counsel of the Public Utility Commission, the Commission has established Docket 5113 to inquire into pressing issues involving the entire telephone industry in Texas. Such Docket will deal with a variety of issues resulting from the impending divestiture of American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Additionally, the Docket will deal with the issues arising out of the Federal Communications Commission's Final Order in Docket 78-72 (the Access Charge Docket) as they impact all telephone companies, including Muenster Telephone Corporation, Valley View Telephone Co. It is anticipated that such Docket 5113 will be evidentiary in nature. Rates for Muenster Telephone Corporation, Valley View Telephone Co. may be determined by the Commission in this proceeding. ## Act designed to stimulate farm economy

Texas now has a means of financing agricultural enterprises through public non-profit corporations created by county governments. The procedure is outlined in the Agricultural Development Act recently passed by the state legislature, says Dr. Forrest Stegelin, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Purpose of the Act is to provide financial assistance for the development and expansion of agricultural industries and agribusinesses in Texas. A major reason for the legislation was to combat the high cost and lack of loans for farmers and ranchers. This has caused a drop in productivity and has hampered the abilities of producers and agribusinesses to acquire equipment and technical processes, says Stegelin. Consequently, producers and agribusinesses have neither maintained high employment or increased their Producers have also found it difficult to join the cooperative development of agricultural industries and enterprises that could increase the value of their products, increase their access to consumer markets and spur the development of new products. The Agricultural Development Act encourages an increase of agricultural economic activity by authorizing counties to create public non-profit corporations for financing agricultural enterprises, Stegelin says. The agricultural enterprise must be owned either by cooperatives licensed by the Texas Department of Agriculture or firms, partnerships or private or public corporations in which agricultural producers have majority control. These producers must provide the products or by-products required as the raw material, feedstuff or commodity which will be either assembled, packaged, processed, marketed or transported, Stegelin says. At any time, at least three residents of the county where the business shall exist may file a written application with the Commissioners Court for the creation of the nonprofit corporation. Only one corporation may be created by each county under the Act but a corporation may serve more than one county, Stegelin says. Such a corporation is tax exempt and can be financed through bond sales.

Pastures are too often overlooked in an otherwise comprehensive fertility program. The fact is, proper fertilization of pasture will greatly increase meat and milk production. You'll see faster weight gain, more pounds of gain per acre, a longer grazing season and greater carrying capacity. It can also dramatically increase your milk production. Begin with a soil test. Then apply the fertilizer shown to be needed. Add lime, if your soil is found high in acidity. Let our Fertilizer Specialist help you. He has the know-how and we have the materials. Come see us soon. ## GREAT MOMENTS IN AMERICAN HISTORY

The time: The night of June 16, 1775, just two months after the first skirmishes between Colonial and British troops at Lexington and Concord. British Lt. Gen. Thomas Gage planned to fortify the hills on Charlestown Peninsula, across the Charles River north of Boston, after he received reinforcements from England. Bunker Hill, the highest point in Charlestown, afforded a commanding control over the harbor. The Americans heard of the plan and decided to occupy Bunker Hill before the British could. On the night of June 16, American troops moved onto the peninsula. They bypassed Bunker Hill and fortified nearby Breed's Hill because it was closer to Boston.

By the afternoon of June 17, 1775, the first pitched battle of the American Revolution was underway. The British had ferried 2,500 troops from Boston Common across the harbor to Charlestown. The Colonial troops, commanded by Colonel William Prescott, faced them from atop Breed's Hill. While the British eventually overwhelmed the volunteer militiamen, their casualties far exceeded those of the Colonists. For the Colonists, the battle had strategic importance. It united them to fight for independence.

Today, the Battle of Bunker Hill is re-fought 19 times daily in a theater-in-the-round adjacent to the famous USS Constitution, "Old Ironsides," the oldest vessel on the roster of commissioned ships of the U.S. Navy. The $1.8 million, not-for-profit Bunker Hill Pavilion was built by Raytheon Company for the Bicentennial and opened on the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill. The Pavilion continues as one of the nation's greatest historical attractions.

The USS Constitution, fondly known as "Old Ironsides," fought and won 40 battles. Today, it's moored in the Charlestown Navy Yard National Park in Boston.

This life-size manikin of a British officer is for a re-creation of the sights and sounds of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Pavilion plays host to "The Whites of Their Eyes," a multimedia sight-and-sound re-creation of the famous battle, named for militia Col. William Prescott's now legendary command. The 30-minute presentation combines seven sound channels, 22 life-size manikins, more than 1,000 slides, and 15 screens to create the illusion that the audience is in the thick of battle atop Breed's Hill.

At times, you may even imagine that cannon balls are flying overhead!

The show begins every half hour from 9:30 AM to 6:30 PM. Ample free parking is available nearby and many tourists, after visiting "Old Ironsides" and the Bunker Hill Pavilion, then walk the four blocks along Boston's famous Freedom Trail, through old Charlestown to the Bunker Hill Monument and the museum of the Charlestown Historical Society to complete their experience in living history.
