On its regular Sixty Minutes program Sunday night, CBS made an obvious effort to show that President Reagan and the official US policy are on the wrong side in the Central American conflict. In El Salvador it favors the rebels who are trying to topple the government. In Nicaragua it favors the Sandanistas, who are in control of the government and are going all out to help the rebels in El Salvador. In other words, CBS in that hassle, as in other parts of the globe, has been applying its influence in favor of communism. It doesn't always come out bluntly, saying it supports the reds, but invariably the side it favors happens to be red.

A particularly objectionable part of this favoritism is making a big issue of the support reds are receiving from the Catholic church. In Sunday's program, for instance, it brought up the incident of the pope during his visit to the strife-torn area reprimanding priests for their support of the communists. The remarks implied that the pope was out of line, and the priests were supporting human justice. At the same time too little is said in support of the vast majority of Catholics who are on the right side of the issue.

In fairness it should be admitted that many Catholics on the red side have a legitimate gripe. They have endured many years of poverty and injustice under the old feudal system in which a wealthy and powerful few lived in luxury while the downtrodden many lived in hunger and misery. People like that were eager to listen to communist promises of a better life. And they were further influenced by Catholic leaders who conscientiously believe that people's faith and hope have been betrayed by the absence of Christian charity. Still another factor in the Catholic switch to the left is a matter of personal survival. Keeping the faith is risky when an area has gone politically and militarily red.

Actually the principal cause of that unfortunate situation in Central America is the long time attitude of people of influence there, as well as their stubborn reluctance to improve. Perhaps some of the fault can also be charged against the US for trying to impose our kind of reform on their society. Our democratic ways can hardly be as effective as a moderated feudalism in which benevolent leaders make an honest effort to give the masses a fair deal.

This isn't just a pipe dream. Civilization has always been that way. If people were not able to take care of themselves, they needed the right kind of leaders to take care of them. Furthermore, this very theory today is the reason for the amazing success of Communism. The Reds are taking over in so many parts of the world simply because Christian people failed to live up to their responsibility. They failed to supply the atmosphere whereby benevolent leaders could guide the public in peace and happiness. Or they failed to support a system of wise self government.

Farabee says he will seek a third term

State Senator Ray Farabee announced his candidacy Thursday for reelection to the Texas Senate representing the 30th District. The 30th Senatorial District covers a twenty-nine county area and a part of Denton County in North Central and Northwest Texas.

"Cooke County is an important part of the 30th Senatorial District," Farabee said. "It has been a privilege to represent this county in Austin. I would like to continue my public service for an additional four year term."

Farabee, a Democrat, was elected to the State Senate in 1974. The 51-year-old native of Wichita Falls is married to Helen Farabee and has two sons in college.

Farabee is Chairman of the state Affairs Committee and a member of the Legislative Budget Board, which has primary responsibility for preparation of the state budget. He also serves on the Finance and Jurisprudence Committees. He was recently appointed to chair the Select Committee on Judiciary, and to serve with Governor White, Lt. Governor Hobby and Speaker Lewis on the Fiscal Policy Committee.

During his eight years in the Senate, Farabee has sponsored significant legislation which has benefited the 30th District and the State of Texas, including:

- Drug Trafficking Act, providing stiffer penalties for large-scale drug dealers;
- Teacher competency testing for improved public

Ray Farabee

- education;
- Laws to help agriculture and rural communities;
- Bills to strengthen child support enforcement and cut welfare costs;

— A law limiting the insanity defense.

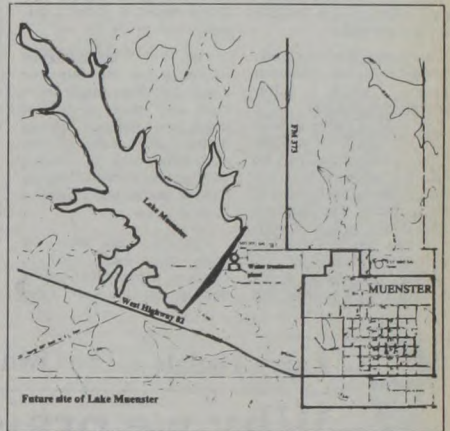

Farabee was cited recently for the third time by Texas Monthly Magazine as one of the ten best legislators in Texas. In its assessment of Texas legislators, Texas Business Magazine recently accorded him "Great Honors", stating, in part, "...Overall, Ray Farabee is the most effective member of the Texas Senate."

Lake project gets initial $580,000

The Muenster Water District closed a loan in Austin last Thursday in the amount of $580,000 from the Development Fund of the Texas Department of Water Resources. The money will be used to provide the District's share of land acquisition costs for the Lake Muenster project.

In the transaction, the Development Fund purchased the District's combination tax and revenue bonds, series 1983. Funds for the loan had been committed and approved previously by the Texas Water Development Board.

Land acquisition is the first phase in this joint project between the city's water district and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil and Water Conservation Service. Phase II will involve the construction of the dam, intake structure and recreational facilities, according to the state agency.

City Mayor Ronnie Felderhoff said the land acquisition will begin soon and construction could begin eight to twelve months from now. The city of Muenster Please see Water, page 3

City gets $16,672 tax check; year's total up 3.6%

The City of Muenster has received a check from State Comptroller Bob Bullock in the amount of $16,672 as its rebate of city sales tax collected by local business during the period ending November 4, 1983. With this amount the total of city sales tax rebates for the year increases to $92,503.85 a gain of 3.6% over last year's total at this time.

A comment accompanying the check indicates that payment this year is earlier than before because the state's 134,000 taxpayers have cooperated in the new due date, starting this month, of filing payment by the 20th instead of the last of the month. Bullock explains that this earlier deadline will bring in $500 million more for the current state budget without a tax increase. Effective this month all taxpayers of sales tax will be required to file by the 20th instead of the last day of the month.

Payments received by a number of North Texas cities along with the year's total to date and percentage of change since last year were reported as follows by the comptroller's office. Gainesville, $117,425, total to date $758,224, down 11.47%; Lindsay, $6,863, total to date $47,679, down 5.86%; Valley View $1,059, total to date, $7,141, up 4.13%; Pilot Point $9,114, total to date, $57,422, up 8.79%; Sanger, $10,027, total to date, $47,303, up 18.75%; Whitesboro $25,389, total to date, $116,026, up .3%; Bowie $45,778, total to date $363,517, down 11.97%; Nocona $26,904, total to date $138,457, down 7.18%; Saint Jo $3,604, total to date $18,736, down 2.17%.

Good News

Psalm 69: 14-17

But I pray to you, O Lord, for the time of your favor, O God! In your great kindness answer me with your constant help.

Rescue me out of the mire; may I not sink! may I be rescued from my foes, and from the watery depths.

Let not the flood-waters overwhelm me, nor the abyss swallow me up, nor the pit close its mouth over me.

Answer me, O Lord, for the bounteous is your kindness; in your great mercy turn toward me.

First freeze arrives

Little by little temperature is getting more like winter as high readings are mostly in the sixties and the low readings range in the thirties and forties. The only freeze to date was 31 degrees on Nov. 11 which nipped the tender vegetation but caused little damage. Meanwhile rain measures were zero leaving the record at 2.64 inches for the month and 27.53 for the year.

COMMENT

Bernie Fette / Perspectives

A decision needed

SOME SUBJECTS in the news will probably never to away. There will always be some topic of controversy to serve as argument fuel for people here, in Washington, and everywhere in between.

Many of the subjects will never be more than argument material, and for some, a solution is as unnecessary as it is unlikely.

But such is not the case with capital punishment.

Here we have a subject plagued by indecisiveness and inconsistency — just the sort of question almost tailor-made for a ruling by this nation's highest court.

And the Supreme Court, by all indications, is dodging the issue altogether.

The Dallas Morning News recently reported these instances, which better illustrate the problem.

Last year, Charlie Brooks asked the court for a delay of his execution because, he said, his sentence had not been compared with those of similar crimes. The Supreme Court didn't see it that way, so Brooks was executed last December in Huntsville.

When James David Autry was looking for a delay last month, it was granted by a Supreme Court justice who said a case in California had to be decided first. The California case sought to answer the same questions raised by Charlie Brooks' lawyers.

Earlier this month, Robert Wayne Williams of Louisiana asked for a delay. His lawyers claimed the same grounds as the previous two. But, Williams lost, and an execution date was set.

Forget for just a moment your bottom-line opinions concerning capital punishment — whether you're in favor of it, or against it. Think about it from a different viewpoint.

The inconsistency displayed by the Supreme Court has done much more than just place a lot of death row inmates' lives in limbo; the lack of an established way of dealing with serious crime offenders has put our system of justice in limbo.

For almost ten years, the high court has failed to come to a precedent-setting decision on this issue. Even when a majority did agree, opinions were drafted from three separate directions.

Those who serve on the nation's highest court have been charged with the responsibility of making decisions on such matters — no matter how controversial, and it's difficult to understand why they've come to no consensus as yet. They've been given terms to last until their deaths, and it's beginning to look more and more as though we may have to wait that long before a decision is reached.

That kind of situation is unfortunate not only because of the hundreds of death row inmates whose lives will remain in limbo, but even more because of what such indecisiveness does to the strength of this system of justice. What sense is there in outlawing an activity without a plan of what to do with the outlaw?

Which side one may take on the question of capital punishment for these purposes doesn't matter. The only thing which could be worse than the wrong answer in this case is no answer at all.

Nicaragua is not Grenada

GRENADA WAS an easy place for President Reagan to win a military victory against the communists and a political victory at home against the Democrats, but Nicaragua is another matter. He should oppose the Sandinistas, all right, but not by direct intervention.

Nicaragua is a completely different place than Grenada. Grenada had a semi-trained army of 2,200 men augmented by 800 armed Cuban construction workers. Politically, the little island was in a state of chaos, its new leaders having just killed its old ones.

Nicaragua has 30 times the population of Grenada, has an army of 25,000 men and up to 500,000 in the part-time militia, plus at least 3,000 regular Cuban troops and another 2,000 acting in technical advisory roles. There may be as many as 200 Soviet military advisers in Nicaragua as well.

The Nicaraguans are believed to have 100 Soviet tanks — Grenada had none — plus artillery, surface-to-air missiles and a small air force of combat helicopters and, possibly, MIGs due for arrival.

Militarily speaking, an invasion of Nicaragua would not be a cakewalk — not something 5,000 commandos could finish up in a week while suffering only 18 combat deaths.

Also, Nicaragua has a political history completely different from Grenada's. U.S. Marines were welcomed as liberators on Grenada, but Nicaragua was oppressed for 40 years either directly by U.S. forces or by the Somoza regime propped up by this country.

The Sandinista regime in Nicaragua might lose a free election if it ever allowed one, but it's likely that the regime could rally enough of its population to make a direct American invasion a messy, bloody, prolonged affair.

Beyond whatever genuine popular distaste there is for the United States, the Sandinistas have had four years to inculcate anti-Americanism in the population and have had the assistance of a Soviet bloc "foreign legion" to set up an infrastructure of political control.

That legion, according to U.S. intelligence sources, has a well-defined division of labor. East Germans specialize in training regular internal security police, North Koreans establish gun squads to use against dissidents, Libyans supply arms, Bulgarians train pilots, Vietnamese and Palestinians give guerrilla and terrorist training, Cubans train the regular army and supervise civilian agencies and the Soviets supervise.

The United States obviously could defeat Nicaragua militarily if it chose, but not only would the task be militarily difficult, but horribly divisive politically.

Television cameras could not be banned, as in Grenada. The American public does not entirely believe that U.S. hands are clean in our relations with the Sandinistas, and the Democratic Party almost certainly would oppose an invasion with all its power.

Is the Reagan administration actually thinking about invasion? I doubt that it is doing more than thinking. The professional military understands the probable costs. The State Department knows that American allies in Europe would be horrified and that relations with much of Latin America would sour. The White House political staff must know that an invasion would tear the country apart with an election coming.

Post-Grenada invasion talk probably is designed as psychological warfare against the Sandinistas, as an adjunct to the guerrilla war that the administration is helping to finance.

The United States does not need to apologize for trying to harass and destabilize the Sandinistas. Their top leadership consists of Marxist-Leninists who are hostile to America and determined to spread revolution throughout Central America.

Even during the Carter administration, which sent aid to Nicaragua and tried to reach a political accommodation, the Sandinistas cracked down on independent political and economic groups, invited in the Cubans and Soviets and became a base for communist revolutionaries in El Salvador, Honduras and Costa Rica.

According to intelligence sources, the purpose of U.S. aid to anti-Sandinista guerrillas has never actually been to overthrow the Nicaraguan government, but to make it stop exporting arms to neighboring countries.

"The contras may want to win," one source said, "but they can't. They don't have the manpower and we haven't given them the equipment." It appears, though, that the anti-Sandinistas have been able to get funds and weapons beyond what the CIA is providing, and are attacking oil depots and other economic targets in a way that may provoke a Nicaraguan attack against Honduras or Costa Rica.

The United States could legitimately use air and seapower to help defend against such attacks, possibly going to the extent of a naval blockade against Nicaragua. But unless Nicaragua were to become a base for Soviet offensive weapons directed at the United States or full scale military invasions of neighboring countries, the costs of a U.S. invasion of Nicaragua are too high for us to pay.

There is no reason to tell Nicaragua that. If Nicaragua fears the worst, it just might slow down its export of revolution. But President Reagan should resolve that just because he won one in Grenada, he shouldn't try another one further north.

Why we praise

THE BIBLE makes it clear that Christians are to render to God proper praise and honor, with gladness and thanksgiving for His manifold mercies and goodness to mankind. I recently read the words to a song pertaining to praise, and this is what they said.

It's amazing what praising can do,
Hallelujah! Hallelujah!
It's amazing what praising can do, Hallelujah!
I don't worry when things go wrong,
Jesus fills my life with song,
It's amazing what praising can do, Hallelujah!

We might ask ourselves the following questions: What does praising do anyway? What can we expect when we praise? Why should we praise? Actually, we need no other reason to praise than that God is pleased by it. There are many other answers to the above questions, and in this short column we can only begin to scratch the surface in trying to answer them.

One thing we can be sure of though, praise glorifies God. God tells us in Psalm 50:23, "Whoso offereth praise glorified me..." When God is glorified His true character is revealed and His sovereign power is manifested. When God is glorified His splendor is exhibited. In short praise releases God to act as God is a given situation.

Many examples are given in the Bible which give answers to the above questions. One of these is found in the 20th Chapter of 2 Chronicles, when through praise God expedited a mighty victory over the enemy. In this chapter, the enemies of Jehoshaphat had come to do battle against the children of Judah, who then, through prayer, called to God for deliverance from their enemies. In answer to their prayers God promised them victory on the battlefield and they would not even have to do any of the fighting. In 2 Chronicles 20:22 we read, "And when they began singing and praising, the Lord set ambushes against the enemy..." It is not without significance that at the very moment they started praising, God started acting.

Another occasion takes place in Acts 16 when Paul and Silas, imprisoned in the Philippian jail, made a choice to praise. This despite the fact that they had been severely beaten and bound hand and feet in stocks. "But about midnight Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns of praise to God, and the prisoners were listening to them, and suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison house were shaken, and immediately all the doors were opened, and everyone's chains were unfastened" (Acts 16:25-26). Here we see that despite the adverse circumstances that Paul and Silas found themselves in, they were able to sing praises to God. And, once more, we see that praise was the occasion of the revealing of the deliverance of God.

When Jonah found himself in the belly of a large fish, he finally decided that he would praise God. As in the former cases we have just looked at, God went into immediate action. "And God spoke to the fish and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land" (Jonah 2:10). God was glorified and a miracle deliverance followed immediately.

Whether things are going our way, or whether everything seems to be going wrong, we would do well to remember and practice the words of Psalm 150:6: "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord. Praise ye the Lord."

Wearing out a welcome

AFTER TWO centuries of disdain for international organizations, the United States has become one of the world's great joiners.

The U.S. today belongs to scores of international organizations, ranging from the United Nations, World Bank, International Monetary Fund, and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), to the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission and the International Agreement Regarding the Maintenance of Certain Lights in the Red Sea.

So large and complex is the global web that in 1954 the State Department had to create an entire section to deal with international organizations. The assistant secretary of state for international organizations currently has a staff of 170 or more, monitoring relations with nearly 100 international groups.

The U.S. also has ties to scores of other international bodies — so many, in fact, according to my colleague Burton Yale Pines, that "no one in the government seems to know" just how many.

There is one in particular, however, that everybody is aware of: the United Nations. That's the House of Mirrors along New York's East River where much is said about nothing and nothing is done about anything. And for the pleasure of sitting there and listening to Third-World and Iron-Curtain delegates berate the United States, U.S. taxpayers cough up a cool $1 billion each year in tribute.

As Pines notes in an upcoming book, scheduled for publication next spring, the U.N.'s failures and shortcomings are probably its most impressive attribute.

"The U.N. has failed as a peacekeeper and peacemaker and as a protector of human rights. Its record of caring for refugees is suspiciously mixed, ignoring the legions attempting to flee Communist-ruled Vietnam while allowing the Palestine Liberation Organization to turn refugee camps into armed garrisons. Inefficiency, cronyism, high pay, lavish expense accounts and even corruption and illiteracy have become the all-too-common characteristics of the Secretariat and other U.N. bureaucracies." And, U.N. agencies in New York, Geneva and Vienna serve as a valuable cover for Soviet, East European, Cuban and other espionage services hostile to the West.

But even this troubling litany omits what now is the gravest danger posed by the United Nations — its role in affecting the way in which nations and their citizens view critical global issues, Pines says. "Like a House of Mirrors at an amusement park, the U.N. distorts reality — exaggerating some things, diminishing others and obscuring most. Unlike a House of Mirrors, however, the U.N.'s distortions, particularly in the General Assembly and its Secretariat, form a predictable pattern."

That pattern: if there's something wrong in the world, blame the West; blame democracy; blame the free enterprise system. Place responsibility for all of the globe's ills on the United States and its allies. And if the Soviets step out of line on occasion, blame the United States anyway — because we probably provoked them.

How much longer the U.S. is going to put up with this nonsense is anybody's guess. But the smart money today says that the U.N. had better clean up its act, or start thinking about packing its bags.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am not criticizing anyone for being concerned about taxes, the proposed lake, the weather, or any other issue, or for writing to the newspaper about them. I am begging, the people of Muenster to worry about something else: the evil of abortion. Every 20 seconds an unborn child is murdered, either cruelly burned to death with saline injections, or ripped apart in his mother's womb. This is not a Catholic issue; even an atheist should be outraged at the taking of an innocent life. If someone were to abuse a dog or a cat, God help them, but it's alright to "get rid" of a "fetus" or "maternal tissue."

his eleventh hour effort to revive a Christian civilization and turn back the tide of Communism. As he and other world leaders have been saying for years, the time has arrived to stand up and be counted on the side of freedom, justice and civilization.

The time has also arrived for straight thinking persons to understand that the world is being played for a sucker by the Big Reds. They are liars when they tell the unfortunate about the better life they are seeking. The whole truth is that communist success is the first step toward slavery. It happened in Cuba when conditions under Castro got far worse than they ever were under Batista. It happened in Southeast Asia where defeat of South Vietnam led to a blood bath. It happened in Nicaragua where Sandinistas defeated Somosa and found themselves taken over by a worse regime than before. It happened in Russia, China, North Korea, Poland, Hungary and the rest of East Europe and all the other countries which were "liberated" from Christianity by the Reds.

No one can question that the over-all situation is alarming, and in urgent need of a few adjustments. First of all free people have to stick together and convince misguided millions that the way to happiness is through God's kind of civilization, social, religious and political, and not to be misled by the liars whose promises have all turned out to be empty. Equally important, free people need to learn that they are traitors to all of mankind, including themselves, when they glorify the Red Monsters.

Those people really need to understand that their case is hopeless even if they come out as winners in the big controversy. When communism wins, everybody loses.

Teresa Hess, Lyle Hayden married in Arkansas

St. Theresa Catholic Church in Little Rock, Ark. was the setting on Saturday, Oct. 22 for the Nuptial Mass uniting Teresa Ann Hess and Lyle B. Hayden. Celebrant of the Mass was Father Thomas W. Kellar, pastor.

Parents of the couple are the late Mr. and Mrs. Justin W. Hess of Muenster, and Mrs. Helen Hayden of Nipawin, Saskatchewan, Canada and the late Harold B. Hayden.

The bride wore a street-length dress of sapphire blue pleated crepe georgette, with long, full sleeves gathered at the wrist, and a bateau neckline enhanced with a single strand of pearls. Her hat of Alencon lace was draped with blush veiling and the rolled brim lifted to reveal white roses with satin sashes. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses centered with butterfly orchids.

The honor attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. Rosina Schmidkofer of Gainesville, and John J. Marschewski of Little Rock.

Wedding music was provided by St. Theresa Adult Choir, under direction of Marcia H. Young, music director and cantor, daughter of the groom. Also by Mrs. Joyce Emmerling, choir organist, and G. Renee White, coloratura soprano. Music for the Mass included original settings of the Psalm and Gospel Acclamation composed for the nuptial.

The bride is a native of Nipawin, Saskatchewan. She has a master's degree in Religious Education from Loyola University in Chicago and is former Director of Religious Education for Christ, the King Catholic Church in Little Rock.

Mr. Hayden, a native of Nipawin, Saskatchewan, received his Electrical Engineering degree from Iowa State University. He is retired from Arkansas Power and Light Co. where he served as Division Engineer and Director of Engineering Operations.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hess, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Hess of Muenster; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Turbeville and William, Sharon, Linda, Rosina and Leroy Schmidkofer of Gainesville.

During the Teeny-Weeny Fitness part of the "I Can Do" School of Gymnastics, program owned and taught by Sharon Golden of Whitesboro, a group of Minikins (the two-year-olds works with bean bags, a "manipulative" activity.

Teeny Weeny Fitness program is popular

A unique series of classes in a total physical education program has recently been completed in Muenster.

Taught by Sharon Golden of Whitesboro, owner of the "I Can Do" School of Gymnastics, the Teeny Weeny Fitness program is presented in five classes according to age: Bambinos, 6 months to walking; Tots, walking to two years; Minikins two year olds; Kinderkins three year olds; Kindermites four year olds.

Classes of 40 minute sessions were offered in Muenster on Wednesdays at the Community Center for Bambinos, including crawlers at 9 a.m.; for Tots at 9:50 a.m.; for Minikins at 10:40 a.m.

Classes were offered on Thursdays at the Young Children's Learning Center for Kinderkins and for Kindermites. Classes were also offered at Sacred Heart School.

Presented primarily in five areas, activities were gauged according to the age of the child. Areas of development included ball-handling skills, manipulative hand-eye activities, educational gymnastics, locomotor skills and rhythm.

When reaching kindergarten, their training is primarily in the area of gymnastics.

Mrs. Golden said: "The main thrust of the program is to make children feel good about themselves and help them discover what they can do with their bodies. Positive reinforcement is used and time is always allowed for exploration."

She added that "the program provides quality time between parent and child in a safe atmosphere that helps children improve basic motor skills. Parents with children through age 3 participate in the classes. After 3, more attention is directed toward the teacher and after age 4 children direct their attention entirely toward the teacher."

Sharon Golden holds a bachelor's degree in physical education Southeastern College in Durant and is working towards a master's degree at TWU in Denton in physical education.

She has a program associated with Continuing Education at Cooke County College, offered on Saturday mornings. She may be phoned at 214-564-6249.

The unique program is rewarding and successful, for the child, its parent and its teacher. Even to a casual observer at a Minikins class for two-year-olds, the pleasure expressed by these children was infectious. Easily noticed was their sense of self-accomplishments after each session at Teeny-Weeny Fitness.

As in most things, "nothing succeeds like success." The children's success in each new development led them to accept each new challenge.

Another Ring Activity in the Teeny Weeny Fitness Program has Jim Stoffell of Saint Jo having fun with his mother, Laura.

Many two-year-olds found crawling through tunnels a new experience. Leading off is Jim Stoffell of Saint Jo.

any of the customs we practice each year in celebrating the Christmas season, like the use of trees and wreaths are customs which originated in old Germany, a country always known for its rich heritage. That heritage is celebrated each year at Muenster's annual German-fest, but to celebrate such heritage and traditional German hospitality only once a year just didn't seem right. Hence, the first-ever celebration of Christmasfest in Muenster.

Christmasfest is a natural. It seems only appropriate to combine the celebration of the Christmas season, so steeped in tradition, with a heritage so traditional. This first celebration will afford visitors the opportunity not only to enjoy the small town German atmosphere of Muenster, but also will include parades, entertainment, shopping sprees and some of the best Christmas gift-buying bargains to be found.

This year's observance begins November 26 with two Christmas parades — one for everyone, and one just for the kids. Numerous prizes are reserved for this year's parades which promise to be the best ever. Among the entries are floats, marching units, antique cars and a new class for businesses. The parade will be lead by a parade marshal chosen by popular vote. At the conclusion of the parade, the guest of honor himself, Santa Claus will make his eagerly-awaited appearance. Each Thursday following the 26th until Christmas will be the big day of the week during the celebration. Live entertainment will be featured each Thursday night from 6:30 to 7:30 downtown, where a drawing will be held to determine the winner of that week's shopping spree. More than $1,250 in free shopping at participating merchants will be divided for the event.

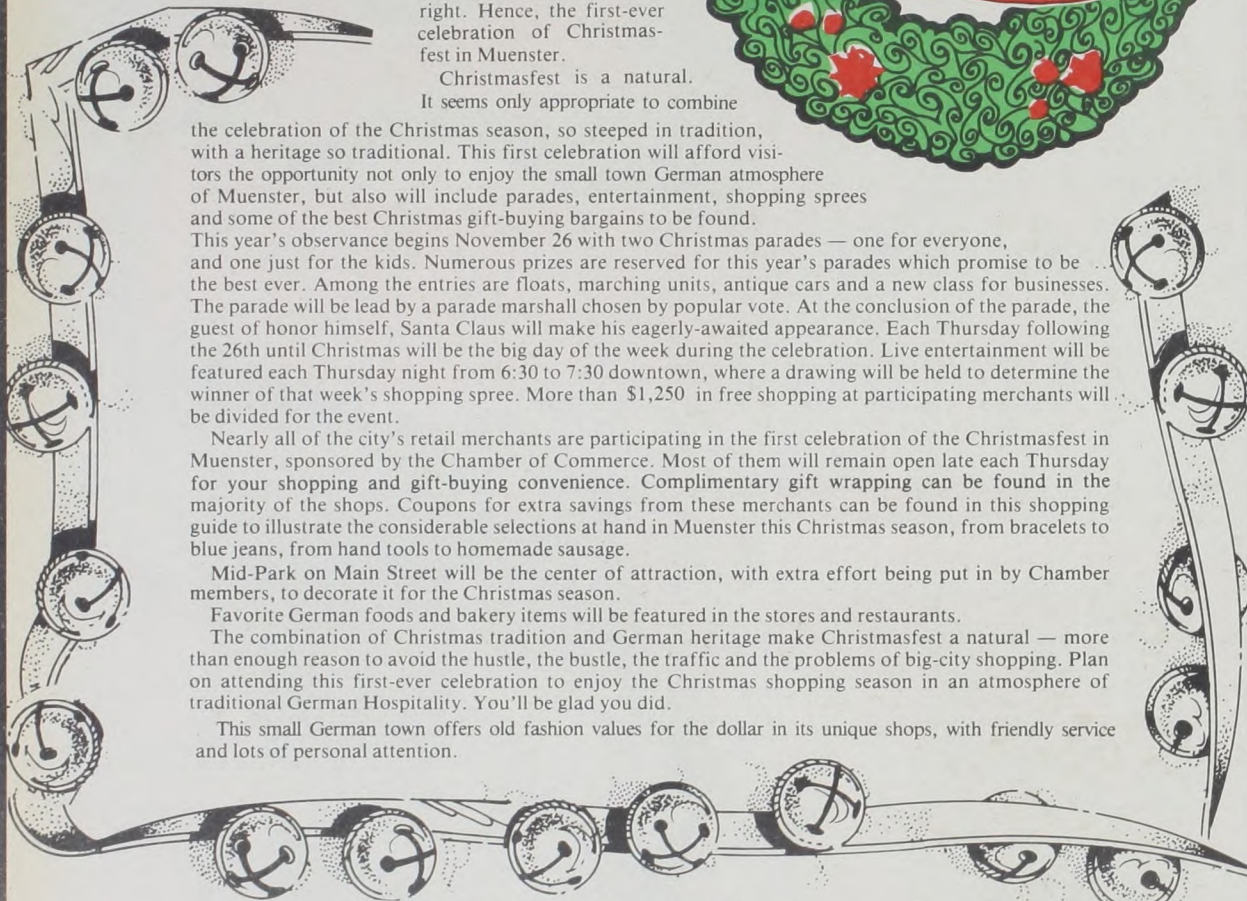

Nearly all of the city's retail merchants are participating in the first celebration of the Christmasfest in Muenster, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Most of them will remain open late each Thursday for your shopping and gift-buying convenience. Complimentary gift wrapping can be found in the majority of the shops. Coupons for extra savings from these merchants can be found in this shopping guide to illustrate the considerable selections at hand in Muenster this Christmas season, from bracelets to blue jeans, from hand tools to homemade sausage.

Mid-Park on Main Street will be the center of attraction, with extra effort being put in by Chamber members, to decorate it for the Christmas season.

Favorite German foods and bakery items will be featured in the stores and restaurants.

The combination of Christmas tradition and German heritage make Christmasfest a natural — more than enough reason to avoid the hustle, the bustle, the traffic and the problems of big-city shopping. Plan on attending this first-ever celebration to enjoy the Christmas shopping season in an atmosphere of traditional German Hospitality. You'll be glad you did.

This small German town offers old fashion values for the dollar in its unique shops, with friendly service and lots of personal attention.

Rolling over the Caddo Mills Foxes 41-7, the Knights advanced to bi-district competition this week with Overton. Members of the Knights are: front, Jeff Metzler 56, Kenneth Thurman 9, Kurt Hermes 64, Victor Schmidkofer 30, Pat Bezner 7; second row, Glenn Block 62, Michael Hermes 88, Kenneth Fuhrmann 24, Doug Anderle 41, Tim Carpenter 85, Scott Fleitman 65; third row, Jeff Wimmer 60, Wayne Fleitman 10, Leroy Hermes 86, Gary Dankesreiter 54, Mike Corcoran 50, Coach Grady Roller; back row, Scott Cooper 72, John Dieter 23, Linus Fuhrmann 75, Steve Corcoran 12, Jeff Parsons 81. Assistant Coach Gilbert Hermes not pictured.

Lindsay blasts Caddo Mills to advance to bi-district with Overton

Lindsay Knights were at their season's best, Friday night in the championship game of District 9-A. They seemed to do everything right and nothing wrong in clobbering the Caddo Mills Foxes 41-7.

In addition to executing a near perfect offense they took charge defensively, allowing only four first downs and 132 yards rushing, 64 of which was on a break-away play. For the balance of the game the rushing gains were held down to 68, and the passes were only 13.

Stalwarts of the defense were Mike Corcoran, Kenny Thurman, John Dieter and Gary Dankesreiter, and especially the ends Leroy Hermes and Jeff Parsons, who did a great job of denying Foxes the outside run.

Meanwhile the Lindsay offense, too, showed a lot of muscle. It gained 337 yards in making 22 first downs. The leading rusher was John Dieter with 150 yards on 28 carries, including a touchdown. He was back in top shape after being out of action lately with an injury. Other formerly injured Knights who put points on the scoreboard were Ken Fuhrmann, and Doug Anderle. A major change in the roster was Wayne Fleitman replacing Steve Corcoran at quarterback who passed for 71 yards including a touchdown and ran for one TD.

The game had a bland beginning for a scoreless first quarter, but things started popping in the second when the Knights put on a 65-yard drive. Key plays were a 10-yard gain by Dieter, a 10-yard pass, Fleitman to Parsons, and a 20-yard TD by Fleitman. Anderle's kick was good. Lindsay led 7-0 at 8:11.

The next score, also Lindsay's, resulted from a 44-yard drive including 15 by Anderle, 11 by Dieter and a 6-yard TD pass to Parsons.

Anderle's kick was good again.

Then Caddo Mills got on the board, on one big sensational play. Jeffrey broke through and found the field wide open for a 64-yard romp to the goal. The PAT kick added a point and the score was 14-7 at half time.

Lindsay's answer to the score came in a hurry. Anderle received the third quarter kickoff and got clear for an 85-yard sprint to pay dirt. The PAT kick failed.

The Knights' next score started 77 yards away and consisted of short steady gains plus 16 by Dieter and 20 by Schmidkofer. Dieter finished the drive with a 1-yard crash into the line, and also ran over for a 2-point PAT.

By then Lindsay seemed to have a scoring spree organized. Early in the fourth period it made another drive and Fuhrmann scored from the 22. The kick for bonus point failed.

Finally the knights set sail on their last drive of the game. It went for 65 yards including runs of 16 by Mike Hermes, and 13 by Dieter and the 18-yard scoring run by Fuhrmann. Pat Bezner added the extra point. The win advances the Knights to bi-district, facing Overton next Friday at 8 p.m.

Valley View also in a 9-A zone play off was less fortunate. The Eagles came to the end of their season in a 49-0 defeat by Celeste, which is rated the No. 4 Class A team of the state.

MHS has disappointing season

The jinx that haunted MHS Hornets all season persisted to the very end. Going into the Era game they were short of key personnel, as usual, but short of motivation besides. They allowed Era's fired-up boys to score two early TDs before they got organized. The rest of the game was a credit to MHS, but it was too late.

So, the game became a part of a 4-6 season record which has its bright side in spite of troubles. Along with the wins were a few close losses which were a credit to the team.

The principal problem of the year has been sickness and injury. As told by Coach Peters, the Hornets were not at full strength for any game, and absences have been as high as 8 or 10. Casualties included Ronnie Risher, John Anderle Paul Russell who have been out since the early games; also Lesley Wells, Jeff McAden, Tim Fleeman, Darren Walterscheid, Keith Klement, Craig Mondav, and Ronnie Trubenbach, all key men and some absent several times. Besides, it was a young team of limited experience. The only seniors were Bryan Klement, Steven Vogel, Todd Fisher and Jim Ott.

On the other hand the situation has its satisfying side. Very few will be lost by graduation, and lots of talented returnees will come back with a year of solid experience. Besides, the team will gain some dozen present eighth graders whereas it loses only a few seniors. Considering all, the prospects of next year compensate generously for the disappointments of this year.

Consumer Update

Most of us use utility service every day and experience remarkably few problems with it. However, sometimes in working with utilities, customers must contend with complicated, confusing rules and regulations. Understanding these rules can save time, money and aggravation. Many problems reported to the Public Utility Commission can easily be avoided if consumers become better informed.

and obligations as consumers, we require electric and telephone utilities to give customers a pamphlet or information packet at the time customers initiate service.

At least once each calendar year, telephone and electric utilities must tell their residential customers that certain information is available on request at no charge to the customer. This notice may take the form of a billing insert or a printed statement on the bill itself. Telephone utilities may include the information in the directories they are required to supply their customers.

The utilities must make available to customers the following information:

- The customer's right to inquire about rates and services, and the customer's right to inspect or obtain at reproduction cost a copy of any applicable tariffs and service rules.
- The customer's right to have a meter test without charge under PUC rules if those rules apply.
- The time allowed for payment of outstanding bills.
- Appropriate grounds for termination of service.
- The steps a utility must follow before service can be terminated.
- How the customer can resolve billing disputes with the utility and how billing disputes affect termination of service.
- Alternative plans offered by the utility to help customers pay bills, such as deferred payment plans, level billing programs and average payment plans.

COOKE COUNTY UNITED WAY

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone in Muenster for contributing to the United Way Campaign this year. Our goal this year was $6,000.00 and thanks to many generous and helpful people we have collected over $6,700.00 This is over $1,600.00 more than we received last year. This speaks very well of Muenster and I was proud to have been chairman of this campaign this year. On behalf of the Cooke County United Way, it can truly be said,

"THANKS TO YOU IT WORKS-FOR ALL OF US."

Sincerely,
Sharon A. Wolf

WITH AVERAGE BILLING, YOUR ELECTRIC BILL WILL BE ABOUT THE SAME EACH MONTH.

Everyone knows electric bills go up and down throughout the year. Some months they're low. Some months they're higher, depending on how much electricity you use. But for most of us there aren't any highs and lows in our monthly income. It's pretty much the same from month to month. So, balancing the monthly budget can be a problem. Well, Texas Power and Light Company has an answer. It's the Average Billing Plan.

And each month after you join, you'll pay an average of your monthly electric bills over the past twelve months. No more ups and downs. Of course, you're still paying for all the electricity you use. But with average billing, your electric bills will be about the same each month. So budgeting will be that much easier. If you want to know more about our Average Billing Plan, call your local TP&L office today.

County Agent's Report

This past year we used a management technique of estrus synchronization and sire selection to breed first calf heifers. The purpose was to select beef breeds and individuals with low calving difficulty and to get all heifers calving in a short period of time which enables producers to better schedule their labor.

Two herds of 90 and 40 first calf heifers were synchronized on the Thurman Ward and Monroe/Dillard Ranches. The double injection - single insemination method was used with a conception rate of about 50 percent. Longhorn bulls were used as cleanup bulls and all heifers that were functionally cycling at breeding time calved within a month.

Synchronization allows for selection of easy calving AI bulls. Another plus factor is the ease of the program enables producers to avoid some of traditional resistance to AI associated with daily heat detection, daily breeding, and the high labor factor involved.

Let's look at the normal estrus cycle of a heifer. On the average, a normal cycling heifer will come into estrus sometime within an 18-24 day period. Assuming a 21-day estrus cycle and designating the day of estrus as day 1, a corpus luteum (CL) or yellow body develops on the ovary at the site of ovulation and becomes functional, with progesterone being produced on about day 5 or 6. The CL will remain functional until about day 16 or 17 of the cycle. Then, progesterone secretion rapidly decreases and the heifer comes into heat again and the cycle starts over.

News looks favorable for livestock producers

Consumer use of red and processed meats, such as luncheon meats, has steadied after recent declines compared to the use of poultry and fish.

That finding in a recent report of the American Meat Institute and the National Livestock and Meat Board spells good news for livestock producers and others in the meat industry, says a meat specialist.

"Basically, the report provides positive information for those in the meat industry," says Dr. Dennis Stiffler, of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "It notes that while consumers are still concerned with health considerations — obesity, caloric intake, fat and cholesterol — when buying food, there is less emphasis on price than previously thought. Major concerns seem to be quality and convenience."

The report was based on 1,050 telephone interviews with grocery shoppers and was a follow-up to a similar survey conducted in 1981 by the same agency of Yankelovich, Skelly and White, Inc.

Major findings were these: — Reductions in meat consumption noted in 1981 appear to be leveling off. — The market climate appears to be a more favorable one for the meat industry to get its message across. — Regarding key issues on meat consumption, data suggest that the health issue is a "mixed bag," that price is a factor but mainly among heavy users, and that lifestyle appears to be the key in determining consumption patterns. — Today's lifestyle along with health concerns appear to have a major impact on meat consumption," says Stiffler, in reference to the report. "The 'convenience' factor of foods is a key issue regarding active lifestyles and single member and non-traditional households. "On the other hand, the 'price' factor is mainly a concern among heavy meat users — traditional and larger families," he says.

The report also gave some insight into the use of fresh beef (other than ground beef) over the two-week survey period. Data showed that fresh beef was served in 82 percent of the U.S. households during the period, with an average consumption of 3.4 times. It also showed that 7 in 10 users noted no change over the past year in their frequency of beef consumption.

Additionally, heavy beef users were found to be mainly young, blue collar families with a median age of 34 years and a median income of $19,400. Children in these families were generally under 13 years of age. On the other hand, moderate to light users of beef were somewhat older and were from smaller households, with a median income of $16,000.

Ground beef was reported as the most widely used fresh meat, being served in 89 percent of U.S. households during the survey period. Average consumption among users was 3.3 times during the two weeks.

These include: 1. cycling heifers 2. growing plane of nutrition 3. adequate facilities to handle heifers 3 times 4. good herd health 5. semen availability and quality 6. A.I. technician (s) 7. using proper A.I. techniques

Teamwork theme of Farm-City Week

Farm-City Week, Nov. 18-24, focuses on the teamwork of farm and city people as partners in growing, processing, marketing and consuming food and fiber.

"Producing an abundance of high quality food and fiber is inherent to American agriculture. Americans spend far less of their take-home pay on food than people in other countries of the world," Anderson says. "Today that averages about 18 cents of every dollar of disposable income."

"In Texas, movement of food and fiber from the farm or ranch to the super-market and family table provides jobs and income for about a fourth of the working force," says Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Together, farm and city people make the best food and fiber team in the world," he says. "This gives a country the capacity to feed its own people and to export for economic gain as well as for humanitarian purposes."

"One out of every 35 Texans is a farmer or rancher, and about 30 percent of the state's retail trade business is directly associated with agricultural production and selling of food and fiber products," Anderson says.

Farm-City Week is under the direction of the National Farm-City Council, Inc., which is coordinated by Kiwanis International.

Many businesses, financial institutions and individuals are involved in providing supplies, credit and services to farmers and ranchers and in processing and marketing agricultural commodities.

Texas ranks in third place in total cash receipts among the leading agricultural states, behind California and Iowa. Texas, however, is traditionally number one in the sales of cattle and calves, cotton, grain sorghum, sheep and wool, goats and mohair, cabbage and spinach.

Total farm assets in Texas are estimated at $85 billion. With 184,000 farms in Texas, assets average $462,000 per farm. Many commercial size, full-time operators, have in excess of a million dollars invested in their farm or ranch businesses.
