... first-term representative sees challenges ...

Budget to dominate session

by Bob Buckel

After just a week in Austin, newly-elected state representative Rick Williamson already has a clear idea what will dominate this year's legislative session: Money.

Williamson, who was in Gainesville last week to interview the last remaining applicants for his Cooke County office, took time to go over his legislative goals and offer his views as to what voters in the 63rd district can expect.

"In a word, I would say this session is going to be brutal," he said. "We're going to carve $1.2 billion out of the state's budget, and that's not easy to do. With the shortfall we're facing, we either have to raise revenue or cut expenses — and the sentiment is to cut expenses."

Williamson, an independent oil producer from Weatherford, is aware that every decision the legislature makes this year will be based largely on how much it is going to cost the state.

"I have the advantage that my district will not be greatly affected by the cuts," he noted. "We have some state agencies, of course, but not to the extent that Travis County or some other places do. We're not as sensitive to state government expenditures. Some areas will suffer real unemployment as a result of the cuts in Mental Health and Retardation, state university funding and things like that."

Williamson predicts that college tuition will "be increased radically" during the coming session. Other revenue sources will be sought in lieu of tax increases, and virtually every department will be forced to undergo budget cuts.

"Our state has been woefully injudicious with its money during the big-revenue years," he said. "Instead of socking some away, we increased Aid to Families with Dependent children and dredged out the Houston Ship Channel. Those were good things, but now the boom times are over and those programs have to be cut."

Efficiency a must

With a tax increase largely out of the question on the heels of last summer's tax hike, Williamson and other legislators will be looking for ways to make state agencies run more efficiently on what they've got. Williamson spent part of his first week in Austin reviewing budgets from the Department of Public Safety for the last three years, looking for areas where unneeded services were provided.

"The potential is there to reallocate funds, look for cheaper ways to do the same things," he said. "The DPS needs more troopers and they need to be paid more — we may be able to find the money for those things by taking it from some other things that are not needed as badly."

Likewise, with public employees seeking a raise, Williamson suggests the state find ways to help them in other ways.

"I agree we need to develop professionalism in our state work force," he said. "Why not manage the state retirement system in a more efficient way, to yield them a greater long-term dividend? My impression of the system now is one of waste and discouragement. We can do better without spending additional revenues."

A hike in college tuition is long overdue, Williamson says.

"I have no desire to raise tuition — I've got three children I hope will attend a state university in the next few years — but the state is now 50th in our tuition rate. The original intent was that tuition provide about 20 percent of the actual cost. At $4 an hour it now provides less than seven percent.

JANUARY 18, 1985

There's a reason behind Russia's objection to US continuation of the Star Wars program. Contrary to the ridicule of our own liberal politicians during the general election campaign, the Soviets visualize possibilities of their own nuclear threat being blunted by star wars defense capability.

We can be glad that our leaders resolved to stand pat on the project. Likewise we can be thankful that the device is non-nuclear and does not qualify for inclusion in the nuclear discussions, hence US should be able to proceed with its development regardless of what eventually happens in the nuclear reduction talks. Another factor is that star wars is a strictly defensive project whereas the nuclear concept applies to offensive weapons.

Something more to consider is the USSR record of breaking agreements. It has happened some dozen times in the past decade. Based on such performance, it's reasonable to be cautious even after an arms reduction agreement is reached. Moscow can be expected to cheat again. In that case it would be comforting to have a star wars defense ready.

Along with the possibility that Russia would cheat on a nuclear reduction agreement, the concept of a star wars defense has more appeal than the mutually assured destruction (MAD) idea that has been in effect for many years. The MAD theory is that when both sides are capable of awesome destruction each is sufficiently afraid of the other to refrain from a nuclear attack. Obviously, both sides would like to avoid both the expense and the tension of such a standoff. To us at least it's more satisfying to have Reds respecting our defense rather than our offense. At the same time we'd like to think that their offensive threat is diminished.

While the world prays for elimination of the nuclear holocaust, however, we have to be concerned about another kind of threat if and when the nuclear capabilities are reduced.

Paul Harvey has discussed the subject, stressing the possibilities if hostile nations go back to conventional weapons. In that case the superior power will be determined by more ships, planes, tanks, guns and manpower. By that standard the communists, with greater manpower and more weapons, would have the advantage.

As it stands now the super weapons determine the comparison of power. As much as the world deplors their presence, they may be an asset to free people. The limited populations of the free world would be no match to the Marxist hordes.

Under present circumstances

MISD trustee election called

Three places on the Muenster ISD board of trustees will come up for election this spring. The board at their meeting Thursday night called that election to be held on Saturday, April 6.

Trustees Harold Bindel (place five), Joe Hellman (place six) and Dick Pagel (place seven) will face re-election this year. None indicated at Thursday's meeting whether or not they will run again.

Hellman, who is currently serving as president of the board, has been a trustee since September of 1975, giving him the longest tenure on the board. Bindel came on the board in December of 1980 and Pagel was elected in April of 1982.

The filing period for the three school board positions opens February 6 and closes March 7.

Other action in Thursday's brief meeting included:

— approval of the 1984 audit report by the Irving accounting firm of Bailey, Tole, Burcham and Co.;

— approval of the school district's contract with the Cooke County Tax Appraisal District for appraisal and collection of property taxes for the coming year; — approval of a formalized agreement with Mercantile Bank of Dallas to act as paying agent for the school district's building bonds as they come due twice a year;

— extension of superintendent Charles Coffey's contract.

The board also heard reports from Coffey and MHS principal Eddie Green, and reviewed monthly reports.

Chamber banquet slated in Muenster

Tonight (Friday) is the big night for the annual Muenster Chamber of Commerce Installation and Awards banquet.

The banquet will be held at the Sacred Heart Community Center on North Main in Muenster. Happy hour begins at 6:30 p.m., with dinner at 7:30 and the program starting at 8:30. A dance, featuring music by Mike Otts Disco, will follow the program.

Tickets are still on sale at $10 apiece — $5 for the dance only — or they may be purchased at the door. Chamber membership for an individual carries with it one free ticket, and business members get two tickets with their membership fee.

Featured speaker at tonight's affair is Bob Jett, media representative for Lone Star Gas Co. Jett is a well-known humorist and after-dinner speaker with a background in radio, television, public relations and professional entertaining.

Also at the banquet, John Fisher will be installed as the new president for the Chamber, with a new slate of officers and directors taking their places as well. The winner of a chamber-sponsored contest to design a flag for the city of Muenster will also be revealed, and the design presented.

Theme of this year's banquet is the history of Muenster. Photos and other memorabilia from the area's past will be on display at the Community Center, and part of the program will recall Muenster's beginnings and look toward its future.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

County votes to buy AT&T phone system

by Bob Buckel

In a marathon session that lasted most of the day Monday, the Cooke County commissioners ordered a new phone system for the courthouse and agreed to advertise for bids on a microfilming system for county and district records.

The phone system will be purchased from AT&T Information Systems for a total price of just over $30,000. AT&T's bid was the lower of two submitted on the job, which will give the county ownership of the phones and do away with the lease system now in effect.

The commissioners tabled both bids in their last meeting of 1984 when representatives of the two companies involved could not be reached to explain their proposals. At Monday's meeting, AT&T representatives Tom Bagwell and Cliff Sicking spent some time clarifying their proposal and coming up with definite prices on the new system.

The new phone system will make use of advanced "direct inward dialing" technology to give the county 32 phone lines and up to 120 telephones. It allows multiple phone numbers to run off of one computerized control panel without requiring a separate line for each number. An intercom system, call-forwarding and several other features come with the new system.

The system the county finally voted to purchase is bigger than the one originally proposed by AT&T's representative, but still considerably less expensive than the one offered by Network Telecommunications Systems, Inc., the only other firm to enter a bid. Their bid was $41,723.

As a result of Monday's agreement, the county will buy outright the phone system now in place in the District Attorney's office, for $3,123. That action will end a lease agreement and save the county its monthly payments.

The DA's phone system will interface with the new system to be installed, and both will be covered under service agreements after their warranties expire.

The AT&T system will cost $25,848, with another $1,479 tacked on for installation. It is warranted for one year. The county will purchase a service contract for $1,428 to begin when the year is up — the service contract on the DA's phone system costs $198 a year and begins when the 90-day warranty (on used equipment) runs out.

Installation of the system will take place in an estimated 90 days, Sicking said. All county offices will get new phone numbers as a result of the switchover, but recorded messages will automatically give callers the correct numbers until a new directory is published.

The new phone system, while requiring a greater cash outlay to purchase, will pay for itself in about two-and-a-half years, county officials estimate. The county now pays nearly $1,000 a month the outlook for civilization is rather bleak. A big portion of the world is already taken over by the red menace whose ambitious and unscrupulous leaders aim to continue their conquest to complete global domination. Judged by their progress of the past half century, their goal is in sight.

However, success is by no means assured. Regardless of apparent control, the sprawling empire has many problems. Its subjects live in slavery and hardship, agricultural and industrial production are disastrous, many of its satellites, especially in Ethiopia and other African countries, are starving and warring, the USSR annually has to buy food for its people and constantly buys or steals industrial and military help. Meanwhile millions of oppressed subjects are eagerly waiting for the liberation.

This day of deliverance ought to be the first objective in our country's relations with the Marxists. We should continue supporting free people everywhere who resist the red program. When sending food and clothing to starving Africans we should let them know who their benefactors are. We should encourage and assist those who struggle for freedom. We should offset red propaganda with truth, informing people behind the curtains and even millions of deceived free people who are on civilization's side and who are not. America needs to realize that it is in a conflict of ideas and not just weapons.

And it needs to apply its ideas along with action in opposing the evil trend to Godless Com-

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am very pleased to announce the creation of a new program that will make it very difficult for fugitives to avoid detection here in Texas.

The new program is called Texas Most Wanted. Each week a different fugitive will be selected for the program.

My office, through the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council, will offer a $1,000 reward for information leading to the fugitive's capture. The council will prepare a news release detailing information about the fugitive and will include a photograph of the individual.

To be eligible for a cash reward, citizens will be asked to call their local Crime Stoppers program or the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council at its toll-free number, 1-800-252-8477. Of course, callers will be allowed to remain anonymous.

We are asking all newspapers and television stations to cooperate with us in this venture. The large amount of publicity we hope to generate with Texas Most Wanted will make it very difficult for these fugitives to escape capture.

Each year thousands of criminals who have been charged with committing major crimes here in Texas drop out of sight to avoid capture. It is a very costly process to catch these people, and while they are running from the law many continue to commit crimes and endanger society.

The faster these fugitives are caught, the safer we are and the more efficient our criminal justice system becomes.

We will need your help to ensure that Texas Most Wanted takes its place beside Crime Stoppers as a citizen-involvement program that has made a major difference in the quality of life in our state.

I hope we can count on your support.

Sincerely,
Mark White
Governor

Signs of the times

Add to the list of "Things I Wish I'd Invented" the flashing electronic sign.

I refer to those fascinating arrays of blinking lights which so matter-of-factly tell us the time and temperature as we drive past banks. If the bank is especially profitable, the sign will also be smart enough to tell us things like "Put your money to work — your deposits attract our interest ..." or "Let us put you behind the wheel of a brand new automobile ..."

Those messages usually rhyme (I believe they could be classified as doggerel) and almost always pun (the lowest form of humor, and my favorite) and are flashed up on the screen in short phrases.

Scenes like this are happening in cities all over the country:

"Look to us," it says. You screech your brakes to avoid hitting the station wagon in front of you, which is where you really should have been looking. You stop, then glance back at the sign.

"... to fill your pockets ..." it continues. The driver behind you leans on his horn because there's a half-mile of space in front of you and two dozen cars behind you. You start forward, but the light turns red. Stopped again, you look back at the sign.

"We finance everything ..." it says. You lock your doors as several people from the cars behind you approach, rolling up their sleeves and brandishing tire tools. Unable to help yourself, you look again.

"... but NASA rockets." You gun your engine, squeal your tires and make it across the train tracks just before the gate comes down, trapping your pursuers on the other side.

Glancing back, you see that the time is 5:45 and the temperature is 47 degrees.

Whoever he is, I wish him well. I just wish I got a commission every time one of his messages flashed across someone's consciousness.

How banks got in the business of telling everyone the time and temperature is a mystery to me. Perhaps when interest rates skyrocketed several years ago, they felt they should do something to make the public think kindly of them. Rather than lowering interest rates, they put up the signs and started charging for checking accounts.

At first, the signs could only give the day, date and temperature (some of the fancier models also gave it in Celsius, but when people started dying from frostbite because they thought it was 20 below, most banks phased that out).

It wasn't long, however, until bankers began looking for a way to charge the expensive signs off to their advertising budgets. Ball-park scoreboard technology was applied and the catchy messages became a part of our lives.

The latest signs can flash them, roll them past you left to right, roll them up from the bottom or down from the top, bring half the letters in from one direction and half in from another — it's more interesting than TV. I keep looking for information, like an update on the prime rate, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average or at least someone's checking account balance, but I fear flashing signs are destined for less meaningful messages. If it can't be completely absorbed in less than five seconds by any zombie behind the wheel of a car, forget it.

The highway department is into sign technology now. They've had one up on I-35 for months, saying, "Reduce Speed! Severe Road! Damage Ahead!" At least, that's what it says on good days.

Sometimes it has bad days and says, "ed! Reduce Spe" — "ad! Severe Ro" — "ad! Damage Aha". Other times it just growls at you with a kind of herringbone pattern, but I think most drivers still interpret that to be a dire warning and slow down anyway.

I look for signs to flash their imprint on the American eyeball in countless other ways in my lifetime. Restaurants will use them for menus, stores will advertise specials, theaters will feature moving marquees. Law offices will probably even get in the act and flash messages offering legal aid to the hundreds of crunched-up drivers who get hit while reading the signs.

"On winding lanes ... and steep inclines ... please watch the road ... and not the signs."

I just wish I had a piece of the action.

I've often wondered if they have some sort of catalogue from which they select their slogans, or if someone in each bank writes them.

It's hard to imagine every bank in the country having an employee with that sort of gift, but it's even scarier to think that someone sits in a high-rise office on Madison Avenue and thinks up these jewels. This genius probably pulls down $80,000 a year, and he's not even in the same league with the guy who conceived the "chow-chow-chow" cat food commercial.

He may be a young fair-haired boy, just out of Harvard with his M.B.A. Or maybe he's an old-timer on his way out, a refugee from the Burma-Shave highway signs of the 40's and 50's. (You remember: "A peach looks great ... with lots of fuzz ... man's no peach ... and never was ... Burma-Shave".)

Improving productivity

THAT U.S. productivity is far too low, and that it must be improved considerably, is probably one of America's least controversial subjects. All shades of the political spectrum agree on this issue.

And that is wonderful, for if ever there was a matter on which teamwork and cooperation is required, it is raising productivity levels. To do so is to the advantage of all of us: investors, workers and non-working consumers. And it would certainly benefit the country as a whole.

What is needed is a commitment on the part of everyone to improve productivity. We need to engender a spirit like we had in World War II when we were all committed to victory, each contributing as he could.

What this means is we must commit ourselves to excellence.

There was a time just after the war when much of the industrial world was in ruins; we were the only major industrial nation with its productive capacity fully intact. We produced what we wanted to produce, the way we wanted to produce, and the world could take it or leave it. Foreigners had to buy our products or do without.

Well, those days are gone forever. Today many industrial nations are leaving us far behind in terms of productivity improvement. Because we have not been improving, we cannot compete in many product lines in the world markets.

But this situation doesn't have to remain this way. If we will accept the challenge and respond to it with determination to do whatever is necessary to increase our productivity, we will once again be competitive here and world-wide.

The first thing we must do is develop an attitude conducive to success. Management must be determined to take whatever steps are necessary to improve production procedures and facilities, and to increase spending for research and development.

Labor must develop a team spirit and competitive attitude in order to continually increase output vis a vis costs.

Government must recognize its responsibility. Taxes must be decreased on individuals and businesses so that savings can be accumulated for greater capital investment.

Government regulations which unnecessarily inhibit productivity growth must be eliminated or relaxed. Tax policies should encourage business spending for research and development and for modernization of factories.

But perhaps the greatest single area is improving co-operation between management and workers. The challenge to American management is to develop an attitude among workers of genuine concern for productivity improvement. This has been the secret of the growth in Japanese output.

This secret is called "consensus management." Essentially what it means is involving workers in problem solving, seeking the advice of employees at all levels in arriving at management and production decisions. After all, who knows a situation better than the workers involved on a day-to-day basis?

Come on, America! We've done it many times before. Let's show the world how to really produce!

Benson is president of the National Education Program, based in Oklahoma City.

Take stock in America.

State Capitol Highlights ...

AUSTIN—Texas lawmakers entered the 1985 session of the Legislature last week surrounded by budget deficit forecasts and pressures to reform last summer's school reform law.

Compared with other states, the Texas Legislature has always shown up as bottom-line conservative. This new Legislature will probably be even more austere with the tax dollar and certainly more right-wing on some political issues.

The Republican Party presence is now stronger than at any other time since Reconstruction days, and the common expectation is that state agencies will feel the belt-tightening pinch, criminals will feel the slap of the long arm of the law, and businesses will see government back off their pocketbooks.

The GOP now holds more than one-third of the House membership and seven state senate seats. Gone are several liberal Democrats, including Lloyd Doggett from the Senate. With his departure liberals lose their top strategist, publicity-maker, and even cult-hero.

The Senate

A new rising star in the Senate was elected president pro tem last week: Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls. Farabee is highly respected for his ability to pull various factions into a solution.

Senate debate rules are such that one needs a two-thirds majority vote just to get a bill out for a floor vote. Consequently, a block of 11 senators can roadblock any bill. The Republicans need to locate only four allies among the upper chamber's conservative Democrats to effectively bottle up all liberal legislation.

The reverse is also possible, but when the traditional log-jam peaks near adjournment, expect the liberals to be scraping for budget concessions.

House Revolution

The House of Representatives, meanwhile, is so solidly conservative that after Speaker Gib Lewis was overwhelmingly reelected last week, he felt strong enough to take potshots at the federal judges who have mandated new prison system spending.

Lewis' words were critical and reflected a visceral feeling of House members that federal district judge William Wayne Justice is encroaching on the constitutional right of the Legislature to distribute tax revenues.

Speculation promptly started over whether Lewis and House members will actually defy the feds by refusing to write court-ordered expensive prison reforms into the scant budget. Lewis immediately disavowed such thoughts.

Bullock, Forecast

But the speculation isn't far-fetched. This session's revenue forecast is not enough for everyone, and Texas lawmakers don't like being forced to spend money by a life-appointed judge who will never answer to voters at the ballot box.

The forecast is likely going to get worse before it gets better, warned Comptroller Bob Bullock last week. The price of oil on the world spot market must pick up, or Bullock may be forced to lower revenue estimates.

"All I can tell them (legislators, state agencies) is we're scraping the bottom of a $25 barrel of oil and it might even get worse before it gets better," Bullock said.

No Spending Bills

Right now $25 a barrel is a magic number that leaders in the Legislature and the lobby are watching with much dread. Any price falling below it is expected to seriously harm the state's oil industry recovery, even to driving the state back into recession.

Loss of revenues in the petroleum industry means loss of tax revenues for state government, and lawmakers are presently in no mood to receive new legislation requiring spending money.

State agencies which increase revenues are favored over those which spend revenues to provide citizen services. One state employee group last week went so far to suggest a hiring freeze to avoid massive lay-offs next September.

Tax Constitutional

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox issued a legal opinion upholding the recent law making the sale of newspapers subject to the state sales tax.

Newspapers were exempted under the old law, but Mattox said they were "singled out for special favorable treatment and that is no longer the case."

The opinion was sought by Bullock, who must collect the new tax but describes it as so difficult to collect that "it's more trouble than it's worth."

Megan Rose is the first of '85

Muenster Memorial Hospital waited until January 14 to deliver its first baby of 1985.

Megan Rose Lippe was born at 9:05 a.m. Monday to Mark and Nancy Lippe of Muenster. She weighed seven lbs., 11 ounces. She is the Lippe's third daughter, joining sisters Jennifer and Lisa.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lippe. Great-grandmothers are Mrs. Margaret Fisher of Muenster and Mrs. Angeline Grill of Mountain Home, Arkansas.

The infant was presented with a gift blanket and baby afghan crocheted by Mrs. Agnes Lehnertz. Mrs. Lehnertz has given an afghan to the first baby of the year ever since the hospital opened in 1964, and for the past two years, the last baby in December as well.

County gets 24-hour patrol

Cooke County now has 24-hour patrol coverage from the Sheriff's department, according to newly-elected Sheriff John Aston.

Aston won approval from the county commissioners Monday to move deputy Dave Province to the position of chief jailer, hire a deputy to take his place on patrol and hire an additional deputy for patrol work.

That action will bring to 10 the number of outside deputies in the department and make 24-hour coverage possible for the first time.

"We've been cutting off the patrol at 2 a.m.," Aston said, "primarily for officer safety, because we didn't have anyone to back them up. When I get my extra deputy hired, we'll be able to have people coming on at 5, 7, 9 and 11 p.m. and that will take us to 8 a.m. when the day people come in."

Until that new position is filled, Aston said one of the day deputies will come in at 6 a.m. to provide the required overlap.

The Sheriff's department now has 23 employees, including Aston, chief deputy Jim Westphal, two investigators, 10 deputies, dispatchers, jailers and a secretary.

County to get new phone system

Continued from front page just for equipment rental; after they purchase their own system they will pay only line and long-distance charges.

Microfilmer needed
The county will draw up specifications and seek bids on a microfilmer for the County and District Clerk's offices — another item of equipment that will apparently pay for itself in a few years.

"I'm to the point where I've either got to go on microfilm or I've got to have some more room," District Clerk Bobbie Calhoun told the commissioners. Her office and the County Clerk's offices spend about $19,000 a year to have some of their records microfilmed by an outside firm.

The purchase of a machine would allow county employees to do the microfilming themselves and would make it practical to put more of the county and district records on microfilm. A committee of county officials who investigated the equipment now available reported a machine to cost just over $35,000.

County auditor Gloria Parrish noted a nine-drawer file cabinet would hold 43,800 "masters" of microfilm — each of which contains 20 to 40 pages of records. The system the county wants would shoot and develop the film and include viewers which can print out copies instantly.

"I think we ought to advertise and see what kind of prices we can get," County Judge Jim Robertson said. "It will take some time to get completely into it, but we need to start before we have to build an annex."

Parrish said a representative of Bell & Howell, the company whose machine the committee liked best, will help draw up the bid specifications to meet the county's needs.

Other action

The commissioners also: — heard a plea from William Pulte to ask county employees to park off the square (see separate story);

— re-approved the issuance of $4.2 million in Industrial Development bonds for the Cooke County Development Authority with reg

— signed a new contract with attorney William Carroll for the collection of delinquent taxes in 1985;

— approved an Affirmative Action plan for the county, prepared by the Texoma Regional Planning Commission;

— approved a large number of bonds for county employees and elected officials;

— paid annual dues of $125 for membership in the County Judge and Commissioners Association of Texas;

— approved a myriad of routine reports and bills.

Williamson views issues

It's time to do something about that."

Water, drugs, education

Some of the key issues Williamson and other lawmakers will deal with this year are:

Water. Gov. Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis have put together a water plan and have been seeking input on it from other legislators. The main problem, Williamson says, is funding.

"It has the better elements of two previous proposals," he said. "I just don't see how we'll handle this particular water plan without a tax increase, though. You can't spend $600 million on a water plan when you're already $1.2 billion in the hole."

The plan is also meeting some resistance from East Texas representatives, who see it as a transfer of water from their part of the state to the dry west. Williamson says that sticking point could probably be worked out with some kind of tradeoff.

Education. Although many problems need to be ironed out of the last summer's controversial education reform bill, the freshman representative doesn't foresee a lot of changes in this year's session.

"I'm well aware of the complaints in my district, and I intend to do all I can to address them," he said. "The three main areas of complaint seem to be the competency test for teachers, lack of funding for the career ladder, and the assault on vocational education."

"But people need to realize that the three most powerful officials in the state — Gib Lewis, Mark White and Bill Hobby — have said, 'We're not going to tinker with it for two years.' Lewis has no worries about re-election, and White and Hobby have no choice — they've cast their lot with reform and they have to live or die with it now."

"That situation makes it tough for a Rick Williamson to go down there and change it — not that I won't try — but there is no consensus to change it among all the legislators, and that's what it's going to take."

Williamson said he will work to correct weak spots in the bill, but said, "The budget has taken on such a drastic dimension, I don't think a lot is going to be done on education in this session."

Drugs. One of Williamson's primary legislative goals is to step up the fight against illegal drug manufacturing and distribution in his district.

"The drug situation is very important to me," he noted. "As a fringe area of the metroplex, illegal drug manufacturing is a big problem in this district. I'll be looking for ways to assist county law enforcement in fighting drugs, either through funding a criminal district attorney, a narcotics section, bigger jails or whatever."

Williamson said committee assignments will be made this week. He expects to be considered for the Energy or Natural Resources committees due to his background in the oil business, but he would also like to be placed on County Affairs and Law Enforcement committees.

"I have some reluctance about the energy-related committees, because there will always be some who say I have a conflict of interests," he says. "If the Speaker determines my experience in that field can benefit the state, I'll be glad to serve, but I'm sure there'll be some votes where I'll be abstaining."

Williamson plans to open a Gainesville office in the next few weeks, staffed by a local person. He has interviewed 32 candidates for the post over the last month-and-a-half. One of the main duties of the position will be to conduct telephone polls in an effort to determine what people in this area want from their state government.

"I believe people want their elected officials to do two things," he says. "They want them to express their views on issues that affect them, and use their own judgement on issues that don't."

"To express the views of Cooke County on key issues, I have to know what people here are thinking. I'm serious about that."

Williamson's office addresses and phone numbers are listed on page two in this week's Enterprise, along with those of other elected officials.

Farabee chosen as President Pro-Tem

The Texas Senate, in one of its first official actions of the 69th Legislative Session, elected Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls as President Pro Tempore.

The President Pro Tempore is third in line to govern the state, following the Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

"It is a great honor to be elected to this position when the state is entering such a difficult and challenging period. We are facing a serious budget crunch at a time many citizens are experiencing increased need for programs of the state. Texas is at a crossroads, and we must decide whether to continue or terminate programs created over the past 100 years. We will need to choose our path carefully as we chart the course of the state for the next decade," Farabee stated.

Senator Farabee represents the 30th Senatorial District which covers 30 counties in North and Northwest Texas. He was elected to the Senate in 1974 and has served continuously since that time.

He serves as Chairman of the State Affairs Committee and is a member of the Legislative Budget Board, which is responsible for making budget recommendations to the Legislature.

SENATOR RAY FARABEE
... to preside in Austin ...

The senator is 52 years old and a life-long resident of Wichita Falls. His wife, Helen, is active in statewide health and human services. They have two sons, Steven and David.

Senator Farabee will preside as President Pro Tempore throughout the 69th Legislative Session.

Weather cancellation policy clarified at MISD

Muenster school officials clarified a long-standing policy at their meeting last Thursday regarding the closing of school due to icy roads or extremely bad weather.

Superintendent Charles Coffey is solely responsible for making the decision to call off school. Coffey told board members that on mornings when school closing is a possibility, he goes out — usually around 5:30 a.m. — and drives some of the steeper routes himself. After checking the roads, he reaches a decision shortly after 6 a.m.

Confusion among parents and students during recent bad weather prompted dozens of calls to school officials early in the morning. In the event of future bad weather, MISD parents and students are asked to listen to radio station WBAP, 820 AM, for information about school closing.

"If they don't hear anything on WBAP, then we are going to have school," Coffey said. "They won't announce the ones who are going to have school — they'll only take the ones who are cancelling — so if you don't hear anything it means school is on."

Coffey stressed that the decision has to be made shortly after 6 a.m. because several Muenster ISD bus routes begin running shortly thereafter.

"We certainly don't want to have school if it's going to be dangerous for anybody," he added. "That's why I drive the roads myself to determine if it's safe or not."

Parents and students are asked not to call Coffey or other school officials, but to listen to WBAP for information on school closings.

Court hears plea on parking

Downtown business owner William Pulte urged the county commissioners Monday to try and prevent courthouse workers from taking up parking spaces on the square.

It was a plea the commissioners said they had heard before.

"Several downtown merchants will be forced out of business over the next few years if something is not done to improve the parking situation," Pulte said. While acknowledging the problem is mostly the city's, he requested help from the county in relieving the parking shortage around the square.

"The main thing I hope to impress you with is that this is a problem. If there's some way elected officials could prevail upon courthouse employees to park in non-restricted areas, that would help."

Pulte listed seven parking lots that are within three-and-a-half blocks of the square where parking is not restricted. The lots, he said, are usually not used. He suggested the county, along with downtown businesses, ask its employees to park in those areas and walk a few blocks to work, rather than taking up parking which could be used by shoppers.

"The way I feel about it," precinct three commissioner Jerry Lewis said, "if they want to park somewhere else that's fine, but that's public parking. You can ask them, but that's about it."

"I'm not going to ask for any kind of commitment," Pulte said. "I just hope you realize this is a problem. You may not realize just how big a factor it is for a downtown business — lack of sufficient parking is the biggest thing that's holding our business back right now, and a lot of others are suffering worse."

"I think we're all aware of the seriousness of the problem," precinct one commissioner Danny Knight said. "If affects your business, and that's your pocket-book. All we can do is ask them in a manner so that we hope they'll listen to us."

"I'm glad you put that last part in there," Pulte responded. "There are different ways to ask people. It might help to remind them that taxes pay their salaries, and a good portion of those taxes come from business people."

The commissioners agreed to try. Pulte said several other areas are being explored to try and increase parking area downtown.

Motel bonds hit snag

Despite renewed approval from the county for Industrial Development bonds for the Holiday Inn in Gainesville, the facility's financing is still far from resolved.

Gregory Underwood and Jack Gray of the Cooke County Development Authority won a renewal from the commissioners Monday on the authority to issue $4.2 million in bonds to finance the already-completed motel on I-35. The renewal was necessary because it must be done within 60 days prior to the issuance of the bonds.

The commissioners approved the action on November 5, but the bonds have yet to be issued. Gray and Underwood declined to speculate on when that will take place.

"The holdup is apparently their lease agreement on the land," Underwood said. The land on which the motel is built belongs to the city of Gainesville and is leased to Gainesville Associates — developers of the project — on a 25-year lease with two 25-year options to renew.

"We've tried to stay out of that as much as possible," Gray said, speaking of the Development Authority. "It's a matter for the partners to resolve with the city."

County longevity policy extended

In a brief meeting last Friday, the Cooke County commissioners extended a longevity policy allowing county workers to earn an extra $10 per month for each year they have been employed, up to 10 years.

The policy was put into effect 10 years ago, but the original language was unclear as to when it would expire. The extension passed by the commissioners Friday provided several things:

— longevity pay increases will stop after 10 years, meaning a 10-year employee would get the same longevity bonus that a 20 or 30-year employee gets;

— all employees who have not reached 10 years' service will be paid $10 per month extra for every year they have worked, up to 10 years;

— the longevity plan will include new employees who start with the county "from this point until the plan is changed;" — the longevity plan does not include county commissioners or any other elected officials.

The emergency session Friday was called to clarify the policy so that paychecks could be made out on schedule for county employees.

... shares story of battle with mental illness ...

Nun triumphs over sickness

Author, counselor to visit Muenster kinfolks

by Bob Buckel

Few people have been through hell and survived. Those who have, emerge with a story to tell. They almost always find an audience.

Such a person is Sister Mary Vincent Otto, author of an electrifying autobiography detailing her lifelong battle with mental illness.

"Sister Vince" was born Frieda Otto and grew up in the small German community of Scotland, near Wichita Falls. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Meurer, were among the first settlers of the Muenster area, and her Muenster cousins are too numerous to name. She graduated salutatorian from Academy of Mary Immaculate High School in Wichita Falls and entered the order of the Sisters of St. Mary of Namur in 1949.

But life did not turn out anything like she had planned.

A combination of several factors, including her strict upbringing, caused Sister Vince to suppress her emotions. She lived with the constant feeling that she could never measure up to her family's high standards, believing that, despite her devotion to God, she was "not good enough."

In 1958, at the age of 26, Sister Vince was named principal of a large high school in Houston. The pressures of that responsibility, combined with her own constantly building inner pressure, began to affect her health. Emotional stress expressed itself in a physical problem — glaucoma, a disease in which fluid builds up inside the eyes, causing pressure and, if not treated, blindness.

A doctor advised surgery as soon as possible. Sister Vince wrote to her superior in the order, requesting permission for the operation.

But that permission was delayed for several months. When it was finally granted, it was for one eye only. By the time the second eye was operated on, months later, her condition had deteriorated so badly that the lens exploded during the surgery. Sister Vince lost an eye, and began her descent into the dark world of mental illness.

Over the next 15 years she was admitted to eight different psychiatric hospitals for treatment lasting anywhere from three weeks to five months. She began drinking and developed a serious alcohol problem. One evening, she fell into conversation with a man at an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting. He offered her a ride home, then raped her.

She spent most of the next nine months fearing she was pregnant, afraid to go to the doctor, her emotional problems deepening. She was hospitalized again, given shock treatments and pumped full of anti-psychotic drugs. When she was released, she washed her pills down with liquor.

In 1975, she was banished from the classroom — her last connection with reality — for showing up at school drunk.

Sister Vince was hospitalized at a clinic in Iowa, and finally she found a doctor and a staff who gave her some encouragement, helped her believe she could conquer her illness.

Then her doctor took a leave of absence, and she felt deserted. A second psychiatrist took his place, also helping her dramatically. Then he went on vacation, and again she was devastated.

Finally, Sister Vince exploded. She raged and screamed, releasing the long-held feelings of bitterness and anger she had held inside since childhood. That day, July 24, 1975, she sat down and wrote a furious letter to the sister who had failed to grant her permission for her eye operations.

Then she started to cry. She cried the rest of the day and into the night, and she left the corpse of her terrible past dead on the floor.

When she returned to her convent in Texas, there had been no obvious change in her behavior. But Sister Vince was different in a crucial way: she had pushed out the anger that had overwhelmed her, and she was ready to learn how to live again.

Sister Vince was 43 years old.

Since that time, she has completed a Master's degree in Clinical Counseling at Our Lady of the Lake University in San Antonio, specializing in education, community mental health, marriage and family counseling and rehabilitation counseling.

In 1981 she joined a new order, the Sisters for Christian Community, and moved to San Diego, California. Her new vow is "to continue to live with and for the people of God." There is no convent — the 700 sisters make their own way in the world.

Sister Vince now works as a marriage and family counselor in San Diego and is president of the San Diego Mental Health Association. She has written a moving account of her life, entitled Vince. A movie based on the book is in the works, with actress Susan Dey to play the lead role.

The wrenching story of a woman's descent into and climb out of mental illness has won wide acclaim, and honors have been showered on its author. Among those:

- she has been selected as a recipient of the Living Legacy Award given by the Women's International Center in San Diego (among the other recipients are Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Clare Booth Luce, Katharine Graham, Helen Hayes and Empress Nagako of Japan);
- she is included in no less than 16 Who's Who publications;
- she was presented the first annual Reclamation, Inc. award by an organization of restored mental patients;

— she was presented the Elizabeth Sibley-Gonzales award by the San Diego Mental Health Association for outstanding contributions to that organization;

— she is on the board of directors of the Elisabeth Kubler-Ross International Center (Kubler-Ross is the author of several books on death and dying);

— she is a director-at-large of the National Mental Health Association;

— she has been a lecturer and keynote speaker at dozens of mental health workshops, conventions and meetings in Texas and California.

But more valuable than any of these honors is the peace that she has found inside herself — the ability to live and work in the light, helping others find their way out of the darkness.

For that story, there will always be an audience.

Sister Mary Vincent Otto will be in Muenster next Saturday, January 26, for a book-signing party.

She will meet the public at the David and Juanita Bright residence, 646 Weinzapfel Street, from 1 to 5 p.m.

She will sign books, and copies of the book will be available for sale.

Klement nails Knights

Overtime free throws secure Muenster win

Sophomore guard Ryan Klement hit seven free throws in a three-minute overtime period to propel Muenster to a 42-36 win over Lindsay in a heart-stopping district 3-A basketball game here Tuesday night.

Klement, the game's leading scorer with 18 points, found his shooting touch from the field and the line in the late going to give Muenster some offensive punch.

With the win, the Hornets took sole possession of the district runner-up slot behind Slidell — their first opponent in the second round of play, which begins Friday. The win gave Muenster an 11-7 record on the year, 4-1 in district, while Lindsay fell to 7-10 on the year and 3-2 in district play.

Tuesday's game started out to be a yawner, with both teams playing carefully, working for their shots which were few and far between.

Muenster had a 12-6 lead after one quarter, with Jay Mollenkopf popping a couple of shots from the corner. Lindsay came back to generate some offense of their own, however, and took the lead at 18-16 by halftime. Jeff Hellman and Kevin Fuhrmann did most of the work in the second quarter as the Knights outscored their hosts 12-4.

The Hornets recovered their lead at 25-22 during a see-saw third quarter. The lid slammed shut on the Lindsay bucket for the first half of the fourth quarter and Muenster led 30-22 before Fuhrmann finally scored with four minutes to play.

Then Lindsay came alive, however, with another field goal cutting Muenster's lead to 30-26. Hellman picked off a pass inside and drove the length of the court for a one-on-three layup to make it a one-point game, and the crowded gym rang with the excitement of the suddenly-close game.

Both teams got baskets as the clock wound down, but it was a Scott Fleitman free throw with 42 seconds left that finally tied it at 32-32. A stout Muenster defense prevented Lindsay from getting a shot off as time expired.

Mollenkopf started the overtime period with a blocked shot, then Ronnie Fisher banked one in high off the glass to give Muenster the lead and the momentum. Klement rebounded a missed Lindsay shot and was fouled while bringing the ball back downcourt.

He turned out to be the wrong guy to foul.

The 5'8" sophomore hit both ends of the one-and-one with 1:42 left to play, putting Muenster up 36-32. 26 seconds later, he rebounded another Lindsay miss and was fouled again while bringing the ball down.

Klement hit two more free throws and Muenster had a six-point lead before Fleitman got a basket inside for Lindsay. The Hornets called time out with 53 seconds left and a 38-34 lead.

All the scoring in the final minute came at the free throw line, with Klement hitting the front end of a one-and-one, Hellman swishing two for Lindsay and Mollenkopf hitting one of two.

After a Lindsay time out with 15 seconds left, Klement stole the ball and was fouled again enroute to the basket. His final two free throws rippled the net with 11 seconds left, giving Muenster a six-point margin and the win.

In addition to his 18 points, Klement had six rebounds. Mollenkopf scored seven and led the team in steals with four, while Fisher canned six points and had nine rebounds. Kevin Wolf hit five points and Stuart Hess added four.

The Hornets were a dismal 10-for-24 from the free throw line, but went eight-for-10 in the three-minute overtime period.

Hellman and Fuhrmann led Lindsay with 10 points each, with Leroy Hermes adding six. The Knights were six-for-11 at the line.

Muenster plays Slidell today (Friday) while Lindsay will face off with Forestburg to start the second round of district competition.

Tigers break drought

The long drought ended for Sacred Heart's Tigers Tuesday night, as they exploded for 78 points to take their first win of the season, 78-35, over Denton Selwyn.

Chris Dangelmayr, who was one-for-24 from the field against Denton last Saturday, burned the nets for 34 points Tuesday as the Tigers hit from all over the court. Dangelmayr and Ken Hesse, who finished the game with 22 points, combined for 20 in the second quarter, when Sacred Heart stretched a 16-5 first-quarter lead into a 42-15 halftime margin. John Nasche added 14 for the Tigers, who were 10-for-12 at the free throw line.

"Everything we did was right," coach Jon LeBrasseur said. "I think we've finally learned how to shoot the ball."

The same Denton squad beat the cold-shooting Tigers 43-36 last Saturday, handing them their 18th loss of the year. Selwyn led all the way in that game, holding margins of 9-3, 17-7 and 30-21 at the quarters.

Hesse led the Tigers with 12 points, while Craig Voth hit nine, Nasche got six and Dangelmayr hit five. The team was six-of-10 at the free throw line.

With the win Tuesday, Sacred Heart's record is now 1-18 heading into a road trip to Amarillo for games Friday and Saturday against Alamo Catholic

Hornettes remain undefeated

A towering Muenster defense and some clutch shooting in the closing minutes of the game gave the Hornets a 37-22 win over Lindsay Tuesday night.

Rita Walterscheid hit 14 points and got nine rebounds, three steals and two blocked shots for Muenster. DeAnn Walterscheid had six points and seven rebounds, while Stacy Walterscheid notched eight points and got three steals. Kim Eldred added another six points and Judy Biffle went three-for-four at the free throw line for Muenster.

Muenster led all the way, holding an 11-7 advantage after one quarter, and a 17-11 lead at the half. It was 27-18 going into the fourth frame as Lindsay's comeback attempt fell short.

Lindsay cut the Hornets' lead to nine with three minutes left, but a big basket by Rita put Muenster back up by 11, then the Knight-tes turned the ball over and the game was firmly back in Muenster's control.

Pressing defense by Lindsay in the closing moments of the game sent Muenster to the free throw line, where they hit four of four in the fourth quarter. Muenster's defense denied Lindsay any shooting opportunities inside the key and made them rely on perimeter scoring all night long.

Callisburg boys nip Coppell

Callisburg's boys staged a comeback in the fourth quarter and grabbed a 50-48 win over Coppell Tuesday, to close out the first round of district play with a 5-2 record and improve their season mark to 15-4.

The Wildcats led the defending district champions most of the way, holding a 12-8 lead after one quarter and a 26-20 advantage at the half. Coppell rallied, however, to take a 37-36 lead going into the last eight minutes, before Callisburg regained control to win by two.

Clint Hollandsworth led the 'Cats on offense with 13 points, while Richard Edwards had 10 points and 14 rebounds. Hatchell hit 13 to lead Coppell.

The Wildcats were scheduled to play S&S Thursday to begin the second round of district competition. At the halfway point, they were tied with Coppell for second place — both with 5-2 records — while Pilot Point was alone in first place at 7-0.

Tigerettes maul Selwyn twice

Sacred Heart's freshmen got a good workout in a couple of games against Denton Selwyn Saturday and Tuesday, but the two wins — 64-10 there Saturday and 62-8 here Tuesday — provided little in the way of suspense for basketball fans.

All the Tigerettes got on the scoreboard Saturday as the team coasted to their 16th win against only three losses. Sandra Walterscheid hit all 17 of her points in the first quarter, then sat out most of the rest of the game. Sondra Hess hit 11, Vickie Walterscheid added 10, Tammie Hess hit nine, Molly Koelzer got six and Rose Felderhoff hit four.

The team was eight-for-21 at the free throw line.

Tuesday's game here was almost a carbon-copy of the Saturday game, with both teams scoring two less points. Julie Rohmer led the Tigerettes this time, with 16 points, followed by Sandra with 14, Vickie with 11, Juline Bartel with five, and Lydia and Tammie with four each.

Coach Jon LeBrasseur said his regulars played on the first quarter, while freshmen and sophomores handled the rest of the contest and made an impressive showing. The team was six-for-16 at the free throw line.

The Tigerettes will take their 17-3 record on the road this week and will not have another home game until February 5. They will travel to Amarillo for games with Alamo Catholic Friday and Saturday before returning to play Wichita Falls Notre Dame Tuesday. The league winners playoff is set in Sanger a week from Saturday (January 26), before the district tournament starts February 1.

Era edges Slidell

Era's girls came through in the clutch to capture a 45-42 overtime win against Slidell Tuesday night and stay in the thick of the district 3-A basketball race.

The Hornet ladies led throughout the game — 5-4, 17-12 and 25-22 at the quarters — but Slidell fought back in the fourth quarter and tied it at 28-all before the buzzer sounded.

Kelli Yarbrough paced Era's scoring with 16 points, followed by Amy Young with 12 and Tanya Puckett with eight. D'Lynn Schertz hit 24 for Slidell.

The Era boys had a tougher time with Slidell, coming out on the losing end of a 67-37 score. Slidell led all the way.

Mark Knabe hit 10 to lead Era, while Richard Zanchetta had nine and Clint Brown scored eight points. Mike Kelly led Slidell with 21 points, followed by Randy Freeman with 18 and David Schertz with 13.

The boys junior varsity outlasted Slidell's jayvee boys for a 31-28 overtime win Tuesday at Era.

Slidell led into the fourth quarter before Era outscored them 10-6 to tie the game at 28-all and send it into overtime. Butch Matthews led the Era scoring with 15 points, followed by Douglas Bryant with eight. Eric Johnson was Slidell's top scorer with 10 points.

Muenster girls outlast Era; boys win big

Muenster's girls came away with a narrow five-point win at Era Friday night, remaining undefeated in district play with a 30-25 victory.

It was 8-4 after one quarter, and the Hornets led 17-13 at halftime as they were unable to pull away from the scrappy Era quintet. They had their biggest lead at 23-15 going into the final quarter, but Era stayed close until the end.

Kim Eldred, Rita Walterscheid and Dana Dankreiter all hit eight for the Hornets, while the team went eight-for-25 from the free throw line. Amy Young led Era with 12 points and her team was five-for-16 at the line.

Boys win big

Muenster's boys did manage to win going away at Era, stretching an 11-10 first-quarter lead to 28-18 by halftime before winning 53-34.

Kevin Wolf had the hot hand for Muenster, hitting 17 points — nine of those in the fourth quarter. Ronnie Fisher had 13 points and went five-for-six at the free throw line in the last eight minutes to help Muenster clinch the win. Jay Mollenkopf added nine and Brian Hess hit seven.

The Hornets were 15-for-25 at the free throw line overall.

Mark Knabe led Era's scoring effort with 20 points. The team was two-for-six at the line.

Lindsay sweeps Alvord

Brenda Haverkamp got eight points in the fourth quarter to rally Lindsay to a 39-37 come-from-behind win over Alvord last Friday.

Haverkamp hit two field goals in the late going and was four-of-seven from the free throw line to spark the Knightettes as they outscored their hosts 17-8 over the last eight minutes of the contest.

Lindsay led 10-8 after one quarter, but fell behind 19-16 by halftime and trailed 29-20 going into the fourth quarter.

Sherry Anderle, Minnie Hundt and Julie Myrick all had six points for Lindsay, with four of Myrick's points coming in the crucial fourth-quarter surge.

Yale and Mitchum got 10 each for Alvord, but the squad hit just one of eight free throws while Lindsay's girls were seven-for-17 at the line.

Boys win, 75-65

Lindsay's boys outscored Alvord 24-7 in the third quarter Friday enroute to a 75-65 win in an offensive free-for-all.

The big third quarter helped Lindsay build a 39-20 halftime lead into a 63-27 margin. But Alvord hauled out the guns in the fourth period and outscored Lindsay 38-12 to narrow the gap to a respectable 10 points.

Jeff Hellman paced Lindsay's offense with 24 points, followed by Wayne Fleitman with 17, Leroy Hermes with 13 and Kevin Fuhrmann with 12.

Becker hit 24 for Alvord, while Kuykendall added 16. Both teams hit 11 free throws in the contest, Lindsay going 11-for-24 and Alvord hitting 11 of 23.

'Horns bust slump

The Forestburg Longhorns broke out of their shooting slump in a big way Tuesday night with a 75-65 win over Alvord.

Kendall Holland hit 24 points for the 'Horns while Brent Shults added 22 and Tommy Souther accounted for 12. According to coach Hollis Adams, it was his team's best shooting performance of the season by far.

"Hitting 44 points in the first half really gave us a lift," he said. "We've been in a scoring slump, but we really shot well in that first half — our percentage must have been up around 80."

James Becker hit 31 to lead Alvord, but it was not enough to give them the win over the red-hot Forestburg squad.

The Longhorns led 23-14 after one quarter and 44-23 at halftime. It was 61-42 going into the fourth period.

Forestburg shot 24 free throws, hitting 13, while Alvord got just two points in nine free throw attempts.

The win put Forestburg's record at 2-3 at the halfway point in district play.

Slidell wins Friday

District-leading Slidell overcame a scrappy Forestburg five last Friday to win by a score of 61-46.

The Longhorns led 15-14 after one quarter, but Slidell outscored them 20-7 over the next eight minutes to lead 34-22 at halftime. It was 46-34 going into the last quarter.

Shults led the 'Horns with 19 points, followed by Holland with 14. Randy Freeman hit 21 to lead Slidell, as the Greyhounds went 17-for-25 at the free throw while Forestburg was four-for-six.

Company offers opportunity for "do-it-yourself" builders

Prospective 1985 homeowners who are considering doing all or part of the work themselves to save money on construction costs have the opportunity to save thousands more by ordering one of the Miles Homes Meriden Models in January or February.

According to the company, the savings come from the fact that the finishing materials, including trim and kitchen cabinets and plumbing, heating and electrical packages described in the Miles Homes Catalog are included with the houses at a significant discount. Normally these packages are sold as optional extras.

"The family that orders in the first two months of 1985 can save several thousand dollars," says Ed

Dabrowski, Vice President, Miles Homes. "The Meriden models (I-VI) are some of our most popular models. They are Cape Cod designs that are easily expandable to fit the needs of a growing family. The basic design (Meriden I) offers two comfortable bedrooms, plenty of closet space and ample living room, kitchen with dinette area and large bathroom. The special January/February price, which may vary slightly by region, is $25,400 on an existing slab or $27,800 on an existing foundation."

According to the company all orders for The Meriden Series placed between January 1 and February 28, 1985 will qualify for the special offer provided the customer agrees to accept delivery by May 31, 1985. The normal Miles Homes credit plans as described in the catalog will apply to this offer. In addition, all Miles Homes customers are eligible to attend seminars and workshops conducted by experienced building professionals. These educational sessions are held throughout the year in almost a hundred locations and are designed specifically to help families with little prior experience in building. The sessions are free of charge to all Miles Homes customers.

Miles Homes, founded in 1946, was a pioneer in the build-it-yourself home-building market. Over 20,000 models have been built by their owners, utilizing the company's instruction manuals and pre-cut, coded materials. The 1985 Miles Homes Catalog illustrates and describes 36 home designs and floor plans and contains information on the company's build-it-yourself program, credit plans and design personalization. The four-color, 68-page catalog is available by writing to Miles Homes, Division of Insilco Corporation, 4700 Nathan Lane, P.O. Box 9495, Minneapolis, MN 55440 and enclosing a check or money order for $3.00 payable to "Miles Homes".

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

The other day we were visiting with some people about planting wildflowers in our area.

Planting time for wildflowers is very important to their blooming pattern. Wildflowers that bloom in the spring and early summer should be planted in late summer and fall. This would include Bluebonnets and Indian Paint Brushes. Now is not the time to choose either of these for a spring planting.

However, wildflowers that normally bloom in the summer and fall can be propagated by late winter or spring plantings. This would include Engelmann Daisy, Maximilian Daisy or Sunflower and the Indian Blanket.

People interested in planting wildflowers can write for seed sources at Kerrville, Texas. There is a gentleman named Carroll Abbott who owns the Green Horizons Nursery at Kerrville that has a mail order setup for native wild plants. Mr. Abbott also has a Wildflower Newsletter that is available. Mr. Abbott's Address and phone number are as follows: Green Horizons, 500 Thompson Drive, Kerrville, Tx. 78028 1(512) 257-5141.

Recently we had a request on how to start pines from seed. First, you are going to have to get the seeds out of the pine cones. The seed of the pine cone has on it a small wing. This wing helps in spreading pine seeds in the natural state. Homeowners can let the pine cones dry and pull them apart or you can hang them in a paper bag and let the seeds drop and collect in this paper bag.

Before you plant a seed, you should rub it lightly over sandpaper to scarify the seed and plant it at a depth of approximately one inch in peat moss or coarse sand. If you are doing this now, you are going to have to do it in a cold frame to protect the soil from freezing.

If you want to store the seeds until spring when the soil warms, then you should keep them in an airtight container in the vegetable crisper of your refrigerator.

Remember, most of our soils are highly alkaline and are poor choices for acid loving plants like pines.

Fashion showcase set for natural fibers

Farm, ranch and agri-business women can display their fashion and sewing skills at the Natural Fibers Fashion Showcase to be held at the Southwest Farm and Ranch Exposition in Fort Worth on March 9.

The showcase demonstrates what beautiful finished products come from cotton, wool and mohair — all Texas agricultural commodities, says Cooke County home economist Evelyn Yeatts.

The entrants will compete for first, second and third place awards in four divisions: custom sewn garments, knitted and crocheted garments, coordinated mother and child ensembles, and former grand award winners. A fifth non-competitive division gives seamstresses an opportunity to show off garments sewn for a family member.

Each garment entered in the show must be made of a minimum blend of 50 percent cotton or 50 percent wool and/or mohair, says the home economist.

Contestants must be 18 years or older, and actively involved in farming, ranching or agri-business; or be a member (or member's spouse) of an agriculture-related organization such as Extension Homemakers Clubs, Young Homemakers, Young Farmers, 4-H Leader Association, producer associations or auxiliaries and tractor pullers' clubs.

"We hope that a number of women representing Cooke County agriculture will enter the showcase," says Yeatts.

Sponsors of the event include the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Southwest Hardware and Implement Association and Progressive Farmer.

Entries must be submitted by February 20. Contest rules and entry blanks are available at the county extension office in the courthouse or by calling 665-4931.
