Land buyers win right to keep road private

A road to be constructed through a Cooke County subdivision now under development will be privately built and maintained "in perpetuity" under a commissioners court decision made Monday.

Jim Marchbanks, developer of the Landmark Estates — a 197-acre tract between Era and Rosston just north of FM 922 — told the commissioners Monday that a group of purchasers wants to keep a road through the subdivision private. They are willing to maintain the road themselves, he said, in exchange for that privacy.

Marchbanks presented the final plan on the development to the commissioners at their regular meeting, but will have to come back one more time to show the commissioners that the private road restriction is added to all the deeds affected, and noted on the plat itself.

It is a situation both Marchbanks and the county would like to have avoided.

"If they're going to build it to county specifications, why won't they just deed it over the county and let us maintain it?" county judge Jim Robertson questioned.

Marchbanks explained that 10 of the buyers for the 10-acre lots are planning to combine their tracts and raise thoroughbred horses. They want to keep the area private, he said, and are willing to maintain their own road in order to do so.

"It's not good policy," commissioner Kenneth Alexander said. "You create all kinds of problems when you allow that."

Commissioner Jerry Lewis, in whose precinct the development is located, said that after the land changes hands a few times, the owners are likely to come to the county wondering why their road is not being maintained like other roads in the county.

"I would much rather have it a public road," Robertson said.

"I would, too," Marchbanks replied, "but I'm not going to lose that many sales over it. They want it private, and they have set up a maintenance agreement on the road."

The commissioners requested the developer attach a special instrument to the plat and make sure every affected deed shows that the county bears no responsibility for the road.

The land is being sold through the Veteran's Land Board.

Sheriff cars purchased

Marler Ford-Mercury got the county's business after submitting the lowest of five bids to supply three new patrol cars for the sheriff's department.

The cars will be 1985 LTD Crown Victorias with a special police equipment package. They were priced at $10,890 apiece, with trade-in value on three other sheriff's cars bringing the total price to $27,471.

Finishing second in the bidding was Endres Motor Co., with a total price of $28,763. Other bids were: Johnson Motor Co., $29,385; Nolan Chevrolet, $32,349; and Brown Motor Co., $33,300. The last two bidders did not offer any trade-in value on the President Reagan was applying a long time American standard when he upheld the reprimand of junior CIA officers for including assassination suggestions in their manual to Nicaragua rebels on dealing with the country's civil conflict. The point is that US does not approve terrorist tactics even when dealing with terrorist enemies.

The Nicaragua situation is a major problem to our country. It is another extension of Marxism into the Western hemisphere, an undeniable threat in the conquest to eventually take over all the continent. The list of satellites is already alarming and US is clearly intended as one of the victims. Understandably, Reagan is concerned and he has good reason to support the present Nicaragua rebels who opposed their country's take-over and are struggling today for their freedom.

Many of those freedom fighters have been killed by the official government troops and it's easy to understand why rebels are doing likewise. This is civil war, and as far as US is concerned the rebels are on our side, and the others on the Marxist side. But one would not know from the attitude of our liberal politicians and the big media. They find fault with every US effort to help the rebels and they condemn CIA for trying to help them match the Marxist methods.

Now Reagan faces another Nicaragua problem as Russia unloads shiploads of something in Managua while US planes seek clues as to contents of the shipments. About the only reaction of our liberals is to let the Reds do as they please without concern for eventual consequence to us. To make matters worse, the liberals tend to divide our own country and to hamper the administration by criticizing and opposing all efforts to cope with the problem.

A similar situation exists in El Salvador except that sides are reversed. There the rebels are Marxists and the official government is on freedom's side. And again, our administration supports the free people whereas the liberals and media lean to the Marxist. Really, it's a deplorable situation for US, and a sharp contrast with that of World War II when our people were solidly united on the side of freedom.

We learned a sad lesson in the Vietnam war when our division over here was a major factor in the loss of the war. If our present division continues in the Central American conflict it could result again in a triumph of Communism. Our best hope now is that the president's political opponents in government and the media will come to realize that our very survival depends on understanding the nature and the nearness of the Marxist threat, and revive their old time patriotic unity.

The attitude of US liberals in the Central American affair is a puzzle. One view might derive from the spirit of detente in which we make every effort to get along with the Soviets. They want to believe that the Reds are seriously trying to promote world peace and have no intention to extend their world conquest any farther. Or

Christmas plans afoot Chamber schedules parade, lighting contest

Plans are in high gear for the Muenster Chamber of Commerce's annual parade and lighting contest, designed to make this Christmas one of the brightest and most enjoyable ever.

Saturday, December 8 has been chosen as parade day in Muenster, with a "mini-parade" set for 11 a.m. for children eight and under, and the main parade to begin at 1 p.m.

Floats, horses, antique cars, marching groups and other entries are expected for the big parade, which will assemble on South Mesquite St. and proceed west on Highway 82 to Main, then north to Fourth St.

In the mini-parade, children will be encouraged to decorate their tricycles, bikes and wagons and join in. Santa Claus will make his appearance to visit with all the youngsters.

College troupe puts comedy on stage

Cooke County College Playmakers are presenting the farcical comedy, "Big...Bad... Mouse!" on stage in Gainesville Thursday and Friday nights.

The play, produced by the CCC department of speech and drama, begins at 7:30 each night in the Activities Center on campus.

The plot centers around mousey little Mr. Bloome, who works in the office of Chunkibix, Ltd. and takes orders from everyone. His life is transformed when he is accused of accosting a young lady in a nearby park and becomes the hero of every woman and girl in the office. Prizes will be awarded in both parades — a trophy for the grand champion in the mini-parade and trophies plus $100 for the best float and non-float entries in the big parade.

Anyone wishing to enter the big parade or desiring further information should contact the Chamber of Commerce at 759-2227 (Tuesdays and Thursdays) or David Fette at the Muenster Enterprise, 759-4311.

"Light the Town" effort set

The Christmas lighting contest for businesses, organizations and individual homes is already in full swing according to chairman Gary Fisher.

Letters were sent out this past week to individuals, and business owners received hand-delivered letters describing the contest.

"When the energy crisis caused many of us to snuff our Christmas lights a few years ago, a tradition with pleasant memories went out, too," Fisher says. "Many of us recall the times when the family piled into the car on Sunday evening after church to go look at all the magical lights and decorations — that's what we're trying to bring back for our

Oral history project due here

A statewide oral history project celebrating Texas' 150th anniversary will use Muenster as one of its focal points.

The Senior Texans Employment Program (STEP), a work-training program for low-income Texans 55 and older, is undertaking the project to record and preserve the memories of older Texans who live in rural areas. STEP is administered by the Texas Farmers Union and funded by the State of Texas and the U.S. Department of Labor.

According to STEP area supervisor Claire O. Fields of Gainesville, a person is being sought at this time to do the interviews of older Muenster citizens. The interviews will be taped and the tapes will be made available to the Muenster Public Library, in addition to going into the statewide collection.

The interviews will begin later this month, she said, and should be completed over the next six months or so.

Program director Bob Girard, with the Farmers Union office in Waco, said the oral history project will be a valuable contribution to Texas' Sesquicentennial celebration.

"There is a substantial amount of local history — an entire way of life — that is being lost forever to future generations because most people won't write down their past

Callisburg voters to go to polls Saturday

To decide on $2.4 million bond issue

Saturday is the big day for voters in the Callisburg school district, as they will decide the fate of a proposed $2.4 million bond issue.

Twenty-nine people cast absentee ballots before voting closed Tuesday at the school superintendent's office in Callisburg.

Voting Saturday will take place at the school cafeterias at both the Callisburg and Rad Ware campuses, as well as at the offices of Lake Kiowa Realty at Lake Kiowa. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Both the cafeterias in which voters will cast ballots Saturday are targeted for replacement under the bond proposal. In addition to two new cafeterias, the school district would construct a new 21-classroom building at Woodbine and convert the old cafeterias into a library and media center there and a classroom building at Callisburg.

The planned construction would allow consolidation of all the elementary grades, K-6, at Woodbine, with junior high and high school to be housed at Callisburg. Currently, grades kindergarten through three are at Callisburg along with the high school, while grades four through six are at Woodbine.

The student population has grown too large for the present classroom and cafeteria facilities, superintendent Larry Hawkins said. Several portable classroom buildings are now in use, and classes are being conducted in various odd locations at both campuses. The cafeterias are overcrowded as well, he added, with Callisburg students eating lunch in four shifts and Woodbine students in three.

At both campuses the seating would still be inadequate if too many students on any one shift opted to eat in the cafeteria.

If passed, the bond issue would raise taxes by about 19 cents, beginning with next year's statements. That would bring the rate from its present 64.5 cents to around 83.5 cents next year, barring any changes due to other budget variables.

Those wishing to vote Saturday must be registered voters and reside within the Callisburg school district.

Enterprise schedules early holiday deadline

To allow our employees a chance to celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday with their families Thursday, the Enterprise news and advertising deadlines will be moved up one day for next week's edition.

Next week only, the deadline will be close of business Monday instead of Tuesday. All articles and ads should be turned in by 5 p.m. Monday, so that production can take place Tuesday and printing Wednesday.

We appreciate your cooperation, and wish you the very best this Thanksgiving!

A new holiday rush

It happened again this year. It happens every year, as soon as Halloween is over. The pumpkins and witches and goblins come down and the Christmas stuff goes up. The huge holiday industry shifts gears from spooks to Santa and we begin the big Christmas sales push.

Call me Scrooge, if you will. By the time December 25 rolls around I'm sure I'll be sick of all the hoopla. Seems like we used to wait until after Thanksgiving to start Christmassing.

Maybe it's my inordinate fondness for the past, but I seem to recall more emphasis on the pilgrims and Indians, turkeys and pumpkins and Plymouth Rock when I was a kid.

Maybe with today's climate in the classroom, Thanksgiving doesn't get the emphasis it used to — perhaps as public schools seek to tone down the religious nature of Christmas, Thanksgiving suffers along with it.

If people can object to a moment of silence, for goodness sake, they might well take offense at school children being reminded to be thankful.

When I was in school, back in the dark ages, we were not only thankful at Thanksgiving — we sang religious songs at Christmas and hunted eggs at Easter. These activities were then considered harmless, before legislators and psychologists determined that such things could warp children's minds.

But Thanksgiving, with its historical significance, surely shouldn't offend a person of any faith or lack thereof. As a strictly American holiday, it's one of the few traditions we have that is worth holding onto.

If you don't feel like drawing crayola pictures of the Mayflower or reading about Miles Standish, pick something else. Just concentrate on the food if you like — Thanksgiving is the holiday that encourages us to enjoy the fruits of the harvest — the big fat turkey with mountains of dressing and pools of giblet gravy, cranberry sauce and corn and green beans, pumpkin pie and whipped cream. All that and football on television, too. What could be more American?

But in addition to enjoying our blessings, it's also a time to count them — not only on that day, but especially on that day. Between watching a 40-foot-tall Bullwinkle float down Madison Avenue in Macy's parade and pestering Mom in the kitchen, take some time to ponder your blessings. If you're like most Americans, it will take awhile.

Walk outside and kick around some fallen leaves. Smell the crisp bite of the air and be thankful for a sweater. Think about your home, your family, your job and your country.

In a nation so abundantly blessed, Thanksgiving should be the holiday we observe most.

With this in mind, I propose to ignore Christmas altogether until Thanksgiving is duly observed and past. Only when I eat my seventh turkey sandwich and watch my fifth football game will I begin to ponder the onslaught of Christmas.

I hereby kick off the pre-Thanksgiving rush.

Flat tax deserves chance

WHEN THE government first started personal income, the maximum rate was 7 percent. Today, the federal government can take as much as fifty cents of each dollar earned.

The system has become so complex that the Internal Revenue Code is now more than 10,000-pages long. And, even though more than half of all 1040 federal income tax forms are professionally prepared — at a cost of more than $60 billion a year — millions of taxpayers still are under- or over-estimating what they have to dish out to Uncle Sam. Every time Congress passes a new tax bill, as it did in late June, the tax code becomes curiously and curiously.

There are now many who don't pay taxes at all — in many cases simply out of frustration. Recent studies indicate that this "underground economy" — people who trade goods and services or deal only in cash — may approach one-trillion dollars per year.

Congress has largely ignored past proposals for meaningful tax reform, trying to treat the problem with aspirin when major surgery is needed. But the severely "progressive" tax system, which discourages hard work and saving, and encourages the idea that the more one earns, the more Uncle Sam is due, is driving taxpayers to the brink of revolt.

Currently, Congress is studying several proposals to reform the tax system. One such is the 10-percent flat-rate tax proposed by Mark Siljander, a young congressman from Michigan. Derived from the flat-tax model of Nobel laureate economist Milton Friedman, Siljander's plan would require all taxpayers to pay 10 percent of their income in federal taxes, regardless of how much they earn. Most deductions would be eliminated, except those for interest on home mortgages, charitable contributions, and certain retirement savings.

Not only would the flat tax simplify the current, outrageously complex tax system, it would offer relief from an unfair, inefficient graduated income tax. For instance, items such as scholarship and fellowship grants, Social Security and disability payments, alimony,

"Rush to what?" you may ask. Not a rush to buy things or eat turkey or watch football. Perhaps just a rush to be thankful is what the holiday calls for.

That's it. A rush to be the thankfullest kid on the block — to be thankful in places other people don't even have places, to be thankful for things other people don't even think about being thankful for.

With any luck, it could get just as pushy and gaudy as the Christmas-shopping competition.

Just to prime the pump, I've come up with a list of my own — things I'm thankful for. You can probably do much better, but you don't have a newspaper deadline to meet.

- I'm thankful:
  - for Willie Nelson and J.S. Bach;
  - that calculators and computers are getting cheaper all the time;
  - that I'm old enough not to have to wear designer jeans or tie bandanas around my ankles;
  - that I didn't marry all those girls I wanted to marry before I met the girl I married;
  - that the election is over;
  - that I don't own any real estate in downtown Beirut;
  - for Mexican food;
  - that the Texas legislature meets only every two years;
  - that electricity and water are available 24 hours a day;
  - for J.R.R. Tolkien and C.S. Lewis;
  - for trees and hills pretty scenery;
  - that I don't have to watch TV if I don't want to;
  - for Alaskan brown bears, even though I've never met one;
  - that I've never met an Alaskan brown bear;
  - that I don't smoke;
  - that Washington, D.C. is 1,500 miles away;
  - that there are places like Switzerland and Hawaii, even though I've never been to them;
  - for an adorable daughter who is healthy and already has her father's sense of humor;
  - that I still have my original teeth;
  - that I don't live right beside the fire siren;
  - that I don't have to change the little red light-bulbs on the tops of radio towers.

As you can see, there are plenty of possibilities for expansion of this list. Anyone with a reasonable amount of imagination could go on almost forever, and thinking could become as big as Cabbage Patch dolls.

Maybe instead of waiting until Christmas to write those greedy letters to Santa Claus, we could start earlier by writing thankfulness letters. We could postpone the rush to buy loud clip-on ties and toys with batteries not included, and rush instead to be thankful.

We wouldn't even have to use a stamp on the letters — God could just read over our shoulders.

But hurry. There are only six more thanking days 'til Thanksgiving.

State Capitol Highlights ...

AUSTIN—The Lone Star State is once again a two-party state, and this time it's probably for keeps.

Last week's Reagan-Gramm sweep brought with it some 14 turnovers in the Texas House of Representatives for the Republicans, two more state senators, and numerous sheriffs, county judges and other local officials across the state.

The new GOP members of the Texas Legislature bring the Republican bloc totals to 52 in the House and nine in the Senate.

Liberal Democrats were seemingly wiped out in many areas, including Austin, and a good many conservative Democrats fell victim to the coastal tidal wave which originated in the White House and spread from sea to shining sea.

Although Reagan's popularity overwhelmed the nation, the Republican gains in other states were not near as heavy as in Texas. Good Democratic public officials thrown out with the wash in congressional races included Jack Hightower of Vernon, Bill Patman of Ganado and Dan Kubiak of Bryan-College Station.

While some political observers attributed the sweep to an overreaction on the part of independents tired of liberal dogma, no one contested the probability that the GOP will two years from now field an organized slate at the county and city levels.

Key Leadership

That very prospect has a divided Texas Democratic Party worried. Like the proverbial donkey that had to be hit with a two-by-four, the Democrats—conservatives, moderates and liberals alike—are very concerned about their party's future. The liberals, who only a few days ago were calling the shots for the party, have fallen from grace, including Lloyd Doggett and his top backer, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower. Doggett won his hometown—Austin—by an insignificant margin, but lost two of his local lieutenants in state house races there. Already Doggett's negative campaign style and liberal philosophy are blamed for the resounding defeat by those eager to replace him with Democratic leadership.

Compared to Reagan's leadership, which promised opportunity for the next four years, Doggett's attack on Gramm paled. And many Democrats angrily remember it was only last spring that Doggett leveled a barrage of personal attacks against Bob Krueger and Kent Hance in the primary.

Moderation Next?

If this were a season for polarization in which moderates of both parties found no comfortable ground, will the pendulum swing as they both struggle to commandeer the middle ground?

That middle ground, so commonly labeled as conservative Democrats, is actually made up of a large number of middle-class independents: ticket splitters. They provide the weight behind the pendulum swing, and last week they swung heavily behind the GOP in Texas. It may be that two years from now, as the parties vie for the slate of statewide offices, that this group will be wooed as never before, bringing both parties more to the middle.

Party Leaders

The Texas Republican Party Chairman, George Strake, predicted the victory has begun to realign the electorate to allow Republicans to carry the conservative banner in this state.

Strake left no doubts as to his intent to target statewide Democratic officials for defeat, and a full slate of Republicans, well-financed and with '84 momentum, will probably appear in '86 elections.

Texas Democrats aren't exactly rolling over to play dead. Even before the election results cooled off, Gov. Mark White told reporters it was time for a "new foundation" in the Texas Democratic party, a statement of no great genius.

But White, himself, is considered by many of his own party to be one of the most vulnerable of Democrats, especially since he endorsed a tax hike last summer to pay for education reforms.

Also considered highly vulnerable is Hightower, whose base is almost it's possible that many of this country have developed a fatalistic attitude, assuming that Marxism has already advanced too far to be stopped. Perhaps they think better Red than dead, and the Reds will be more agreeable later if we are more agreeable now.

Contrary to this view we have a few very significant facts telling us that the humane policy for Central America friends as well is the prudent policy for ourselves is to continue resisting the Marxist conquest. In the first place detente is not peace but a tool of treachery to conceal their plotting. It's a friendly gesture leading up to negotiations that are agreeable only if they favor USSR, or to be disregarded if and when they don't suit that country. We have had many opportunities to learn that Russia can't be trusted.

Still another thought to keep in mind: The decline and fall of Russia is very possible. Its economy is suffering. It has big trouble in Afghanistan and Poland along with millions of unhappy subjects at home and in the satellites. America's best bet in the contest with the red monster is to stand pat in defense of freedom and seek ways to hasten the failure of communism.

identical to Doggett's and whose speeches are grating the nerves of real farmers and ranchers, and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, a feisty, unapologetic liberal who faces trial in February on commercial bribery charges. Considered somewhat safe are Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Treasurer Ann Richards because of their records of production. Much depends on how Mauro and Richards interact with the conservative wing.

Future Prospects

One thing the Republicans lack is a large stable of proven public servants, those who have worked their way up the ladder, but they certainly have a good new crop now and who knows how far the tidal wave will carry.

For '86 campaigning, the Democrats are already talking of bringing up Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock to soothe conservatives, gratify West Texas and replace the lost liberal elite.

Then, too, Democrats still have two of the nation's top fundraisers in Hobby and U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, both conservatives.

The Texas Legislature goes into session in a little more than two months, and then next June the behind scenes campaigning begins anew. The '86 season should be fascinating for voters.

Concentrated efforts highlight Diabetes awareness month

Concentrated efforts in the areas of patient and professional education and public awareness are highlighting the American Diabetes Association's observance of November as National Diabetes Month.

"We decided on this approach of emphasizing education and awareness based on three facts," said Brian R. Tulloch, M.D., volunteer President of the Association's Texas Affiliate.

"First, diabetes and its complications are the third leading cause of death by disease in this country. Second, an estimated 5 million Americans have undiagnosed diabetes; and third, recent studies show that Hispanic Americans are three to five times more likely to develop diabetes than the national average."

Specific activities were planned to address each area of emphasis. During November, the Association is holding four symposia for physicians around Texas on the latest advances in the diagnosis and treatment of Type II diabetes.

The Association is also launching its largest-ever public awareness campaign, using the theme, "Fight Some of the Worst Diseases of Our Time: Support the American Diabetes Association". Local education and awareness projects are also being planned by many of the Association's 29 chapters throughout Texas.

The Muenster Diabetes Support Group will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 at Muenster Memorial Hospital. Dr. Marvin Knight will conduct a program on foot care. Those desiring further information may contact Joan Walterscheid, R.N., at the hospital (759-2271).

The Association's Clinical Education Program is being offered in four one-hour segments over the University of Texas Television Network in Houston during November. These symposia, directed at primary care physicians, feature nationally recognized experts in the field of diabetes and concentrate on the latest clinical advances in diagnosing and treating Type II, or non-insulin dependent, diabetes.

"Because Type II diabetes represents more than 80 percent of all cases of diabetes and is the form of diabetes that is much more prevalent in the Hispanic population, we believe this educational effort is essential to our mission of improving the level of care available to all Texans with diabetes," continued Dr. Tulloch.

The Association's new public awareness campaign is a hard-hitting approach using television, radio, newspapers, magazines and posters to get its message to the public.

The message is simple: diabetes contributes to many of the worst diseases of our time. The public service ads emphasize that some of the complications of diabetes include heart disease, kidney disease, and blindness.

"We are trying to make the public more aware of the serious nature of diabetes and the extent to which diabetes affects this country," Dr. Tulloch said. "Few people know that diabetes strikes roughly five percent of the U.S. population, and fewer still realize the terrible complications that diabetes can cause," he continued.

"Our goals in Texas are quite simple," said Dr. Tulloch. "We strive to educate medical professionals and to inform the public about the seriousness of diabetes. Through public education, we try to help identify undiagnosed diabetics and encourage those already diagnosed to control their diabetes instead of allowing it to control them."

The American Diabetes Association is dedicated to the fight against diabetes through a comprehensive program of education, community service and research.

Artists to visit Gainesville

Windberg, others to autograph prints at bank Nov. 29

Texas artist Dalhart Windberg will be accompanied by artists Mark Pettit and Darryl Trott on an autograph tour in Gainesville November 29.

The artists will autograph prints of their paintings, and Windberg will autograph copies of his books at the Gainesville National Bank, 100 E. California, between the hours of 7-9 p.m.

Windberg, perhaps the most widely published American artist of our time, is best known for the romantic quality of his Texas landscapes.

The University of Texas Press recently published Dalhart Windberg: Artist of Texas. Artist-novelist Jerry Allen Potter, who wrote the biography, has stated that probably no artist has been able to place a viewer into a given place and evoke a mood with the subtlety and power of Windberg. The method Windberg employs to accomplish this has been detailed in his book The Windberg Technique of Oil Painting.

Mark Pettit and Darryl Trott, both of whose works are being printed and marketed by Windberg Enterprises, Inc. will also attend the autograph session and will sign copies of their works.

Pettit is a landscape artist at heart and by profession, but he occasionally paints still-lives, some of which have become best sellers in print form. His mountain paintings, however, are Pettit's claim to fame and the ladder by which he has climbed to stardom.

By some accounts Pettit appears to be inheriting the mantle of great landscape artists Bierstadt, Church and Moran as he renders striking highland scenery with a feeling of air and distance that few artists can achieve.

Darryl Trott, an Australian who now makes his home in Austin, is currently enjoying phenomenal success with his colorful, yet realistic approach to painting living flowers in watercolor. Because he does not paint cut flowers or flower arrangements and works only from garden or natural floral models, the term "living" can be applied both to the subject matter and to the delicately rendered finished work.

Trott is now working on a book on his technique, Painting Living Florals in Watercolor.

Several original paintings by each of the three artists will be displayed during the autograph session.

Dr. and Mrs. William Powell of Powell Fine Art in Gainesville are sponsoring the show.

While many people will decorate just for the fun of it, the Chamber is sponsoring awards of $25 in three categories each for participating businesses, individuals and organizations. Judging will be done in December by an out-of-town panel.

In the business category, awards will be given to the most unique, most eye-catching and most creative displays. Business owners will be encouraged to use lighting, color and animation to draw the attention of someone who might be in town window-shopping. Designing a display around a theme or giving the holiday theme a unique twist can also win prizes.

Organizations like Scouts, men's and women's clubs, church groups and other clubs are encouraged to pick a location which can best exemplify their theme and decorate it — whether it is a home, a business, a public area or their club's headquarters.

Awards will be given for the most unique and most creative entries, and a special service award will be presented for the best lighting or decoration of a public place, institution, hospital or rest home by an organization.

Individual awards will be given for the most creative, most unique and most extensive use of lighting.

Deadline for entries set
The deadline for entries will be December 4 for businesses and December 8 for individuals and organizations. Business entries will be judged on the day of the parade, December 8, at or shortly after sunset. Individuals and organizations will be judged the next week.

Entry blanks give the details of "wants" in each category, and must be filled out by those wishing to compete for prizes. Only those businesses, individuals and organizations who enter the contest will be judged, although everyone is encouraged to decorate whether they wish to compete or not.

Those who haven't received an entry blank may pick one up at the Chamber office, from Gary Fisher at FMW Insurance, or from any participating merchant. Those desiring further information may call Fisher at 759-4644 or the Chamber office, 759-2227.

"Our intention is certainly not to make anybody wealthy," Fisher said. "What we're trying to do is to encourage people, young and old, to put out lights to create a mood for the kids. The kids are what this is all about."

Further information will be published as the contest deadline nears.

experiences," he said. "But they do love to sit down and reminisce — they're fabulous storytellers. If we can capture these stories on tape, we do a great service in preserving our history and heritage."

"But we're losing many of this generation each day," he added. "That's why we need to begin this preservation process now."

The project will also serve to provide work-training opportunities for STEP enrollees who will serve as interviewers. Training sessions will be made available to cover interviewing procedures and public contact.

Public libraries and county historical museums will serve as host agencies for the project throughout the state.

"We will provide the manpower and host agencies will provide the day-to-day supervision and on-the-job training for our workers," Girard said. "Without STEP workers, many needs of the community, such as this oral history project, would never be fulfilled."

Further information on the project in Muenster will be made available over the next few weeks.

Talk on Montessori highlights YCLC parent group meeting

Highlight of the Nov. 7 meeting of the Young Children's Learning Center Parent Group was the program presented by guest speaker, Bronte Gonsalves, followed by a demonstration by Keith McFarlin of Chad's Rainbow.

However, preceding the program, members of the Parent Group held a business meeting. Thirty three parents and friends attended.

Co-President Patti Bayer conducted the meeting and Chuck Bartush, Jr. led the invocation.

Committees reported on the New Year's Eve Dance-Raffle benefit. Details concerning the trip to Hawaii were confirmed by the travel agency, caterers have been hired, dance music will be provided by Mike Ott's Disco, and ticket sales are progressing.

Bronte Gonsalves brought a most informative program for the meeting. In it she covered Montessori principles, beginnings and evolution and gave reason for their effectiveness. She stressed the importance of "order" in a young child's life and told how to carry order over into the home. And she very graciously answered questions from those attending.

Keith McFarlin of Chad's Rainbow in Denton demonstrated a wide variety of toys offered by this toy distributorship, emphasizing toys that are at the same time, fun, educational, beautiful, mind-stimulating and near-indestructible.

Following his demonstration, parents were given the opportunity to test the toys themselves, and to make purchase. Rick Wimmer won the $25 gift certificate awarded by Keith McFarlin.

The next YCLC Parent Group meeting will be on Thursday, Dec. 6. The program will be on "Stress in Children" and will feature Mrs. Barbara Krishnan. The public is invited.

Callisburg ISD offers word processing course

Callisburg ISD is offering a word processing course to introduce students to the power of the microcomputer when used as a word processor at home or in the office.

— screen edit, file documents, correct drafts with insert and delete modes, make block moves and use the search and replace modes.

Youths and adults who have had a typing course are eligible to enroll — no computer experience is necessary. The course will enable students to gain job-entry skills.

The course begins November 27, with classes to be taught on eight consecutive Tuesday nights from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the computer room at Callisburg. Charge for the class is $45 and registration is limited to enable each student to have full-time computer access.

At Sacred Heart Church Klement, Reiter wed

Donna June Reiter became the bride of Kirk Ken Klement in a formal wedding ceremony with Nuptial Mass and double ring rites in Sacred Heart Church on Saturday, Nov. 11. Father Victor Gillespie officiated at 5 p.m.

The couple is on a cruise to The Bahamas and when they return will be at home in Gainesville.

The bride is the daughter of Wanda Reiter of Gainesville, and Leonard and Patricia Reiter of Muenster. The groom is the son of Martin and Edna Klement of Muenster. Donna is a 1984 graduate of Gainesville High School and is a secretary employed by Endres Motor Company. Kirk is a 1982 graduate of Muenster High School and is a salesman for Endres Motor Co.

The bride was presented at the altar by her father, Leonard Reiter. For her wedding she chose a designer gown of white chiffon over taffeta. The Victorian neckline was bordered with Venice lace and a ruffle completely surrounded the lace yoke. Matching lace formed the bishop sleeves. An embroidered lace and pearl applique accented the front of the skirt and a deep lace ruffle overlay featured the back of the skirt which swept into a lace-edged chapel train.

For sentiment she wore her great-grandmother's brooch and for tradition she borrowed the garter worn by the groom's mother on her wedding day.

Her bridal veil, with blusher, was double tiered, and attached to a lace caplet. The bridal bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Attendants

Amy Reiter of Muenster was her sister's maid of honor. Karlyn Hermes of Muenster, groom's sister, Lisa Cooper of Gainesville, bride's sister, Rhonda Silmon of Muenster, bride's sister, Kellye Grewing of Muenster, groom's sister, and Natalie Hutchins of Gainesville, a friend were bridesmaids. They wore royal blue taffeta, floor length gowns, designed off-shoulder with scalloped necklines. Each carried a white fan decorated with blue flowers and ribbons in blending shades of blue.

Loren Hermes, groom's niece, was flower girl, wearing a medium blue floor length dress with lace trim, made by her grandmother, Mrs. Martin Klement. She carried a basket of blue flowers. Jimmy Chew, bride's cousin was ring bearer.

Donnie Lutkenhaus of Muenster, a friend of the groom was best man. Karl Klement of Decatur, groom's brother, Randy Reiter of Muenster, bride's brother, Mark Hess, Craig Stoffels and Darren Voth, all of Muenster and friends of the groom were groomsmen.

Ushers were Dale Reiter, bride's brother, Danny Silmon, bride's brother-in-law, Donnie Grewing, groom's brother-in-law and Kevin Owen, a friend. All are of Muenster.

Jeffrey Hermes, groom's nephew was Mass server and candlelighter.

The church altar held blue floral arrangements and the altar space was decorated with white candelabra. White silk bows marked center aisle pews.

Traditional wedding music was given by Annetta Earle, organist and Shona Grotte, vocalist of Gainesville. Selections included "Wedding Prayer", "The Rose", "Candles On The Water", and "Sometimes."

Brian Bednorz gave readings during the special wedding liturgy.

Reception

Hosted by parents of the couple, a reception, dinner and dance followed in the Community Center for 450 guests.

Carmen Schmitz and Toni Bowen, both of Gainesville secured guest signatures in the bride's book.

The bride's table was covered with white lace cloths and centered with a floral arrangement in shades of blue; and silver candelabra held lighted tapers.

The three tiered wedding cake by Sue Oakley was placed over a lighted fountain. Cake servers were Diane Gibson, Debbie Hale, Jill Wimmer and Renata Hess, all of Muenster.

Schneiders catered the dinner. Guest tables were decorated with blue streamers, blue candles and baskets of blue flowers.

Guests coming from a distance to attend the wedding included

MRS. KIRK KEN KLEMENT

Muenster kinfolk pictured in Vogue

Friends and relatives of Lou Rena (Wolf) Hammond were surprised and pleased to find her picture in the December issue of Vogue Pattern magazine.

In the full page color photograph she was shown modeling one of the favorite suits she chose for work. She is the president of a public relations firm in New York City.

The picture was shared with friends by her mother, Mrs. Hammond is the former Lou Rena Wolf, daughter of Mrs. Regina Wolf of Muenster and the late Lou Wolf. She and her family are residents of New York.

Thanks, celebration slated for holiday

Muenster will observe the feast of Thanksgiving in the traditional way next Thursday with church service followed by an old time community picnic.

First on the program is a Thanksgiving Mass in Sacred Heart Church at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m.

It will be followed 11 to 2 o'clock by the annual feast featuring turkey and sausage in the Community Center.

Preparation for the dinner are nearing a state of readiness, and the bazaar and picnic will fill the day with feasting and visiting.

Chairmen of the combined Arts, Crafts and Country Store booth have requested another appeal for items suitable for display and sale on Thanksgiving Day, when Sacred Heart Parish rolls out the welcome mat for its annual bazaar and feast in the Community Center.

Especially needed are homemade items; crafts; Christmas decorations; wreaths; ornaments; silk flower arrangements; growing plants; home-baked foods, (which should be wrapped;) embroidered, crocheted and knitted items; new or good re-salable items. Monica Hartman and Rhonda Hartman are co-chairmen. Donors may notify either, or deliver items to their homes.

Another project is the children's booth directed by Elaine Schilling. It has special need of small toys, Golden Books, color books, crayons, games, hot wheels, etc., any item of interest to small children. Items may be placed in a basket at Ben Franklin Store.

Topping the list is the headliner of the day, the Thanksgiving feast which will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The dinner committee is requesting especially turkeys, and ingredients necessary for dressing, bread and cornbread, onions, eggs, and seasonings. Kitchen items may be purchased and left for pickup at H and W Meat Co., Hofbauer's and Fischer's. Homemade pies are also needed for the dinner.

The Cake Walk, always a popular booth, is in need of cakes. These should also be brought covered with Saran or plastic wrap.

From mid-afternoon into the evening, supper and barbecue sandwiches will be available.

Garden Club sets calendar for various holiday activities

Mrs. Pauline Stelzer was program leader for the November 11 meeting of the Muenster Garden Club and Mrs. Louise Knauf was hostess in the TP&L building at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Stelzer presented an interesting and informative program on Tropical Plants, discussing in particular ferns, bromeliads and other exotics — giving details of care, culture, grooming, and moist suitable soil mix.

Mrs. Dolores Miller, garden club president conducted the business meeting, and Mrs. Merle Brock, secretary, gave the minutes and roll call.

Mrs. Alice Roark reported on the Cooke County Council meeting which she attended with Mrs. Sue Endres. She told that the council set dues for all clubs at $10.00 per year. Council members, she said, expressed an interest in attending the workshop planned by the Muenster club in February on Topiaries. The county council will also explore the possibility of sponsoring programs open to all clubs in the county, charging a fee from each club. Individual clubs might find this a help when financially unable to bear the cost alone. The council invited suggestions from all member clubs.

Dolores Miller reported that the Yard of the Month award was given to the Frank Felderhoffs in November.

Merle Brock told that she will bring supplies to the January meeting for the topiary workshop she will conduct in February at the Cooke County Electric Coop meeting room.

Members discussed mowing of the Mini Park and agreed to ask Charles H. Wimmer to continue this job.

Plans were made to send flowers to St. Richard's Villa for Thanksgiving and members voted to bring a Christmas surprise instead of the usual plant exchange for a gift at the December meeting. Suggestions included a handmade item, a special ornament or a special plant or whatever a member chooses.

Daryl Ferber sent word she hopes to have a plant sale of small plants ready for transplanting. The club will consider this during the next several weeks.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Knauf the hostess served a dessert plate, hot spiced punch and coffee to twelve members.

Mrs. Herb Miller will be hostess for the December 10 meeting.

THE MUENSTER GARDEN CLUB has announced Yard of the Month honors in November for the home of Frank and Eleanor Felderhoff and son, Terry. Drawing particular attention was the neat, over-all, inviting picture of new white house paint with yellow trim, a bright clipped lawn, and a big shade tree gracing the front yard, with hanging baskets over the porch railings. Borders of varicolored chrysanthemums fill the area between the house and walk. The Garden Club has placed a suitable sign marking the house on North Sycamore St.

Secular Franciscans hold meeting Sunday

Secular Franciscans of Sacred Heart Parish met for their November prayer hour and business session Sunday in Sacred Heart Church at 3 p.m.

Mrs. Leo Henscheid, prefect, led members in the fraternity prayers and read an article from the provincial newsletter about Spiritual Maturity, and also read a timely story from the Franciscan Herald.

Mrs. Frank Herr gave an update on minutes and included a report on October's special liturgy in honor of St. Francis of Assisi, the order's patron whose feast day is Oct. 4.

Mrs. Felix Yosten gave the treasurer's report. It included the monthly contribution and a Christmas gift for two families in India, adopted by Muenster's Secular Franciscans.

Mrs. Henscheid read a letter of thanks and bits of news received from one of those families. Thirteen members attended the Sunday meeting.

History group visits Nocona

Youths hear tales of Red River Station, Spanish Fort

The History for Youth group, sponsored by Morton Museum, made a trip to Montague County last Saturday to visit the site of the Red River crossing of the old Chisholm cattle trail.

Travelling by bus from Gainesville, the group was met at the Nocona Library by Miss Louise Addington, librarian. She is the granddaughter of Pres Addington, who, together with his brother, Zach, engaged in the cattle business on a large scale during the latter part of the nineteenth century, their ranges covering much of north Texas and the Chickasaw Nation (now Oklahoma). She has, therefore, heard many tales about frontier life all her life.

Miss Addington passed out maps of the town of Red River Station, which existed from the early 1860's until 1887, when the railroads eliminated the need for this river crossing. She mentioned that in 1864 there were 50 families living there and that a stockade had been built.

About 1867, when the cattle drives were started from Texas to the rail head at Abilene, Kansas, this point in Red River was selected for a crossing because it was observed that already millions of buffalo had crossed here and therefore it was considered safe. At that particular point the river makes a sharp bend to the north, creating a sweeping current toward the south and thus washing out the quicksand which is so dangerous.

During the next period of about ten years millions of cattle were driven across the river at this point, and thence across Indian Territory to Kansas. Provisions for the small store at Red River Station were obtained from Gainesville, or, if unavailable here, from Jefferson in East Texas.

Miss Addington also took the group to Spanish Fort, a small town on Red River famous as the site at which the Spanish were defeated in 1759. The French had established a trading post here in the early 1700's.

In 1759 a Mexican general was sent to rout the French, but they found the place protected by a stockade and a moat and defended by the French and also by Indians. Therefore, he and his men were forced to retreat.

Members of the History for Youth group who went on the trip were Carrie Bowden, Carol Burrow, Bonnie Cauble, Randi Croucher, Brent Eugster, Dana Fleitman, Rachelle Foster, Tonya Haney, Julie Joslin, Kelly Miller, Brad Mitchell, Pam Mitchell, Ricky Sanders, and Joe M. Stout. Principal consultant Joe A. Stout was accompanied by Jane Stout and Margaret Hays.

The History for Youth activity is a project made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, a Federal agency established by Congress to promote research, education and public activity in the humanities.

The next meeting of the History for Youth group will be at Morton Museum on Saturday, November 18, at 10:00 a.m.

Mrs. Hazel Greenwood was over in Gainesville Friday Nov. 9 visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn and children.

My closing item relates to Humility and Pride — the quote comes from 1 Corinthians 3:18 — "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this age, let him become a fool, that he may be wise." The following that goes with the scripture comes from Radio Bible Class Literature and I quote: "An officer who had just been promoted to the rank of Colonel was sitting at his desk glancing proudly at the "birds" on his shoulders. A private walked in through the open door of his new office, saluted and was about to speak when the colonel said, "Just a minute, soldier. I have to make an important telephone call". He dialed a number and said, "Hello, General Cool, I'm returning your call. You would like to have me meet with you and three other generals? Today at 1400 hours? Yes, I can be there." Putting down the receiver and with a smug expression on his face, he turned to the soldier, "Now, private, what can I do for you?" "I've been sent to hook up your telephone, sir!" came the reply.

Veda Brogdon was also over in Gainesville Fri. the 9th taking in the Old and New Quilt Show at the Community Center. That evening Mrs. Lina Bogges, Mrs. Sarah Reeves and daughter Lachelle of Saint Jo visited with Barney and Veda Brogdon.

FmHA employees take course

Texas employees of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) have completed an intensive training session and are ready to implement the new farm credit initiatives announced recently by President Reagan.

FmHA state director J. Lynn Futch said members of the state farmer programs staff and employees from district and county offices participated in the training.

"The final regulations have now been issued in Washington," Futch said, "and Texas is now ready to work with farmers on the initiatives."

Under the new plan, FmHA can set aside up to 25 percent, to a maximum of $200,000 of a farmer's FmHA debt for five years without interest. For non-FmHA borrowers, the agency can guarantee up to 90 percent of a loan if the lender is willing to write off a minimum of 10 percent of the debt.

In both cases, Futch said, the actions must improve the borrower's cash flow position so he or she can make payments on the remaining debt.

The plan also allows FmHA to contract for outside assistance in servicing FmHA loans. The goal is better assistance to FmHA borrowers.

Valley View outguns Hornets in showdown

Eagles advance as North Zone runner-up

The Muenster Hornets will sit out the playoffs this year despite an 8-2 record after a 28-14 loss to Valley View here Friday night.

It was a bone-jarring, hotly-fought football game that saw the Hornets take a 7-0 lead only to watch the Eagles' high-octane offense sputter into life for three second-half touchdowns to come from behind and win.

Valley View, also 8-2 on the year, will get a rematch with Paradise in their bi-district game Friday night.

"I'm not ready for it to be over," Muenster coach Leonard Peters said. "Eight-and-two is not a bad season, but we're still disappointed because we feel we're not the third-best team in the district. Our goal was to get in the playoffs."

Peters said Valley View's offensive firepower made the difference in a close ball game Friday.

"They played as close to a perfect football game as you can play in this class," he said. "They made a few mistakes here and there, overthrew a couple of passes, but basically they did everything they had to do to win. I think they executed as well as well as they can execute."

Muenster got the lead on the third play of the second quarter after a scoreless first frame. Ronnie Fisher, who ran for 117 of his 146 yards in the first half, dove over from the one to cap a typical Hornet drive — long and bruising. Neal Flusche's extra point kick made it 7-0.

But Valley View, led by quarterback Mike Montgomery, came back to forge a drive of their own late in the half. They capped it with a bit of razzle-dazzle when wide receiver Mike Alexander took a handoff on an apparent reverse, then pulled up and tossed an eight-yard pass to Steve Sparkman in the corner of the endzone on fourth and goal.

After going in tied 7-7 at half-time, Valley View came out in the third quarter and drove down the field for two touchdowns, scoring more points in a quarter than anyone had scored against the Hornet defense in a whole game all year.

The first strike came with 3:30 left in the period when Montgomery broke loose for 12 yards on a quarterback keeper, only moments after he had run 37 yards to set up the touchdown play.

Then, after getting the ball back in Muenster territory on a short punt, Valley View struck with 30 seconds left to play on a 43-yard pass from Montgomery to Sparkman.

The Hornets countered, however, on their first drive of the final quarter. Quarterback Ryan Klement hit Fisher for gains of 21 and 30 yards through the air, capping a masterful drive with a super effort on a quarterback keeper to score from eight yards out.

Flusche's kick put Muenster back within striking distance at 21-14.

But Valley View came back again to drive the ball and score on a four-yard quarterback sneak by Montgomery with 3:16 left to play, clinching the win after recovering a Muenster fumble.

"Their quickness made the difference," Peters said. "Defensively we played well — we had good pursuit going to the football, and the interior linemen and

Last-minute scores kill Tigers

Lightning struck the Sacred Heart Tigers three times in less than three minutes Friday night as they saw a 19-12 lead turn into a 32-19 loss to district rival Notre Dame Knights at Wichita Falls.

The Knights, sparked by a 96-yard drive that consumed most of the third quarter, roused from their sleep and took advantage of some Sacred Heart miscues to steal the win from the Tigers and take a 1-0 record in the three-team TCIL 3-3A.

The Tigers, at 0-1 and 3-6 on the year, will try to even things up on their home turf in Muenster Friday night as they end the regular season against T.K. Gorman of Tyler.

Friday's game was nightmare-come-true for the Tigers, coming back to action after an open week which was preceded by two straight losses. After trailing 6-0 in the first quarter, Sacred Heart charged back and built a 19-6 lead before the momentum turned around and everything began rolling in Notre Dame's direction.

The game's first touchdown came on a 78-yard pass from Notre Dame quarterback Joey Wildhaber to split end Robert Woodruff, on the third play of the game. The kick failed, but it was 6-0 in the host team's favor.

The Tigers, guided by freshman quarterback Scott Taylor, marched down the field and scored on a 37-yard gallop by Bret Walterscheid with 10:39 left to play in the half. A failed extra-point kick left it at 6-6, but Sacred Heart wasn't through with their first-half scoring yet.

After the Tiger defense held firm, Walterscheid fielded a Notre Dame punt and returned it to the 35 to give his team good field position. He reeled off 26 more yards on the first play from scrimmage, and wound up getting the touchdown moments later from six yards out.

Kevin Switzer's kick made it 13-6, where it stood at the halftime break.

Early in the third quarter, Sacred Heart's Craig Voth recovered a Knight fumble at their 38 yard line, and the Tigers drove down for another touchdown — this one by Switzer on a one-yard run with 8:44 left in the period.

The game threatened to turn into a rout as the Tigers got the ball back again and marched down to the Notre Dame four before losing it on a fumble.

That turnover marked the beginning of the end, however, as the Knights took it and surged 96 yards on eight plays, scoring on an 18-yard pass from Wildhaber to Woodruff with 2:50 left in the third quarter.

Tigerette hoopsters look to tradition

Sacred Heart girls begin quest for glory

When you return five lettermen from a team that went 23-2 and lost in the state finals, it's a pretty good bet you're going to face some high expectations.

Sacred Heart's Tigerettes know about those expectations, and they expect to live up to them.

The Tigerettes have compiled a record of 80 wins and 29 losses since Jon LeBressaur took the reins five years ago. Last year's team went to the state finals in an effort to duplicate as state champions, an honor won by the 1983 squad.

They have won their TCIL conference 3-3A for the last four years and gone to the state playoffs each year.

"This year's team is very inexperienced," LeBressaur said. "We'll be searching to find ways to replace last year's seniors — Susan Walterscheid is playing at North Texas State, Anne Felderhoff is playing at Midwestern and Marilyn Hartman is playing at Cooke County College. These three girls were responsible for 85 percent of our offense last year."

The Tigerettes' roster this year features returning seniors Rose Felderhoff and Sondra Hess, and juniors Lydia Walterscheid, Lisa Haverkamp and Sandra Walterscheid. Newcomers include sophomore Kelly Hennigan and freshmen Karri Yosten, Julie Bartel, Julie Rohmer, Molly Koelzer and Vicki Walterscheid.

LeBressaur lists desire and dedication as his team's strong points coming into the season. Experience will be the problem area.

"To offset the loss of last season's seniors, we'll make some changes in our offensive and defensive systems," he said. "The Tigerettes this year will rely on a pressure-type defense and will be a more controlled offensive team."

The two seniors are both four-year lettermen. Rose, a 5'5" guard, will take over the point position and provide the Tigerettes with some excellent outside shooting and strong defense. Sondra, a 5'9" forward, should return to her spot when an ankle injury heals.

Of the juniors, Sandra Walterscheid at 5'11" could give the squad some power inside, and also boasts an excellent outside shot. Lisa, a 5'7" forward, will be a court leader with her aggressive style of play. Lydia Walterscheid, at 5'5", and Tammy Hess at 5'7" will both play guard positions.

Kelly, at 5'2", is the shortest player on the team and the only sophomore. LeBressaur says he will use the "cat-quick" guard as a chaser on defense.

Of the freshmen, 5'10" forward Vicki Walterscheid is given a change to break into the starting lineup if her skills develop. Juline and Julie are both 5'9" forwards, while Molly also plays forward at 5'7" and Kerri is a 5'8" forward with a good outside shot.

Sandra Walterscheid carried the

linebackers made a lot of tackles. Even though we did what we had to do, they were still getting five yards downfield because they're just so quick."
"We lost the game in the third quarter, because we could not sustain a drive," he said. "If we could have gotten across the 50 and punted them back into their territory, I feel we could have stopped them."
Valley View coach John Kassen said the Muenster defense was the toughest his team had faced this year — by far.

"They did an outstanding job," he said. "We were able to get field position in the third quarter, and that really helps against a team like that."
"They're just a good football team," he added. "They moved the ball on us, but when it counted we did what we had to do. When we came out after halftime at 7-7, our backs were to the wall. It was either get after it or stay home."
Montgomery rushed 12 times for 74 yards to lead his team, while Ray Sappington had 69 tough yards on 15 carries and Gary Ward added another 41 on 12 carries. Sparkman's three catches, including two for touchdowns, paced a passing offense that was five-for-11 on the night for 88 yards.

Fisher led all rushers with his 146 — bringing his total for the season to nearly 1,300 yards — and made two key catches in the Hornets' fourth-quarter scoring drive.
Peters said Klement's play was extremely encouraging as he looks to next year. The quick-footed sophomore replaced starter Johnny Eldred after the Collinsville game when Eldred suffered a broken hand while returning a punt.

"Ryan did an excellent job at quarterback," Peters said. "He was cool, he executed the offense real well and he threw the ball decently. He needs to get more on his passes — he still floats them a little — but he can get the ball there."
The Eagles will carry the runner-up banner into battle with Paradise, ranked second in the state in class A, in a game set for 7:30 Friday at Bridgeport. Valley View lost, 19-14, to the Panthers in their season opener.

"I'm not sure we want a rematch," Kassen said. "Their quarterback (Chris Lowery) is just super — you might hold him for a while, but you won't hold him all night long. I'm proud we got a chance to play them again, but it's going to be tough."
In addition to Lowery, who is both a passing and running threat and a bona-fide blue-chipper when college recruiting starts, the Panthers have a tough fullback in Jeff Lewis, who has rushed for close to 1,300 yards this year.
"Lewis is tough, they've got two good receivers — you can't stack up against them anyplace," Kassen said. "When you hold them in one area they'll nail you in another. They're solid all the way around, and they've got a good aggressive defense too."

Valley View took some bruising against Muenster and will carry the scars into battle this week. Kassen said Ward suffered a hyperextended knee, and Sappington was hurt in practice the week before the Muenster game.
"We got banged up pretty good," he said. "We'll be ready, though."

Era zaps Knights to end on win

A "flat" Lindsay Knight squad, with the district championship already in the bag, got a rude reception from Era Friday night as the Hornets whipped up a 13-0 shutout.

The win allowed Era to end their season on an up note at 7-3, and provided a cold slap in the face for Lindsay going into their bi-district game Friday night against Santo.

"I thought we'd be a little flat, but I didn't think we'd be that flat," Knight coach Grady Roller said. "We didn't throw the ball well, the receivers didn't run good routes, the line didn't block and the backs didn't run tough — other than that we did okay."

Lindsay went into the game with the playoff spot already sewed up — the perfect formula for a letdown — while Era was hungry for a win after losing three straight district matchups. A humiliating loss to the Knights two years ago may have helped to fan the flames as well.

"The loss two years ago here was definitely a motivating factor," Era coach Mike Allison said. "They beat us pretty bad in front of the home folks. This caps off a good season for us. Six and four wouldn't have been too bad, but it wouldn't have seemed very good if we'd lost our last four. This way we can end on a win knowing we beat the district champion."

Era's formula for success going into the game included the use of a trick play wherein a wide receiver just steps onto the edge of the field hoping the defense won't pick him up. The "hideout" play worked to perfection on the Hornets' first drive after they received the opening kickoff, as Kevin Ford took a Mark Knabe pass and went 50 yards.

Knabe scored moments later from the three yard line on a quarterback keeper. The two-point conversion attempt was no good, but the Hornets had achieved an early lead and set Lindsay back on their heels.

Early in the second quarter, lightning struck again in the form of a 35-yard pass from Knabe to Ford, this time going all the way for a touchdown. With 9:24 left in the half, the final margin was on the board.

The rest of the game was ruled by Era's defense, which held the Knights to nine first downs and 176 yards of total offense. Lindsay had rolled for 418 yards against Valley View the week before.

"I felt like we had to throw some on them," Allison said. "We had already decided to try and receive the kickoff and do the trick play on our first drive. When it worked, it gave us a lift and I think they were kind of down."

"Our defense really shut them down," he added. "They swarmed the ball all night long and played real aggressive. Then in the second half we were able to get some key first downs and at least get out of the hole so we could punt and keep them out of our end of the field."

Roller said the game proved that anybody can get beaten.

"You tell them all week long you're going to play another good ball club, that they could get beat, and they think 'There's no way.' There's always a way," he said. "This just shows the strength of our zone in this district — I said all along there would be five teams in this race."

For Lindsay, Kenneth Fuhrmann continued to run well despite a lack of scoring. The speedy senior rushed for 105 yards on 17 carries against Era's defense. Quarterback Wayne Fleitman completed only two of six passes for 15 yards, and threw three interceptions.

Santo, Lindsay an even match

Roller said Lindsay's game against South Zone runner-up Santo should be an evenly-matched contest.

"They remind me of Lindsay two years ago," he said. "They run mostly a power-I formation and a little of the wishbone, but basically they give it to their good running back and come right at you. We might be a little bigger, but not much. Size-wise, speed-wise, we're about the same."

Whoever makes the least mistakes and gets the breaks will probably win the game."

Santo's outstanding ball carrier is 160-lb. senior James Donnell. He carries the ball most of the time, running out of the deep spot in their power-I, and has notched more than 1,000 yards the last two years.

Fullback Doug Hood, at 185 lbs., is a "tough straight-ahead runner" according to Roller, and sophomore Robert Poe at 155 lbs. also carries the ball some.

Santo's quarterback, Tracy Welch, throws the ball very seldom, but with great effectiveness, Roller said. The 155-lb. junior's arm is one of the things that worries the Lindsay coach.

"We've watched three game films on them and only seen two pass routes," he said. "I know they've got more than that — that's what scares us. We've only seen them throw five or six times in three games — but they beat Godley the other night by throwing the football."

Roller said his team has already forgotten about Friday night's loss. The attitude so far this week has been good in practice, and the squad is expected to be in top form for Friday's playoff game.

Running back Steve Corcoran is "about 85 percent" after suffering a knee injury earlier this year. Although he did not suit up at Era, Corcoran is expected to be available for Friday night's game.

"Our guys know if they don't get up for this one there won't be a next week to worry about," Roller said. "They'll be ready."

Callisburg runners compete in state meet

Sanders third in cross-country run

Two Callisburg High School students finished among the top runners at last weekend's state Cross-Country meet in Georgetown.

Jeff Sanders, a senior, captured third place in combined classes A and AA, while freshman Deanna Westbrook finished 21st in the girls division.

Sanders clocked a 16:58 on the 5,000-meter course run by the boys on the campus of Georgetown's Southwestern University. It was his best time of the year. Winner at the state meet was Joseph Ruiz of Abernathy, while Jesse Castillo of Lockney was runner-up.

Westbrook's time of 13:26 was good enough for 21st on the girls 3,200-meter course. Her best time of the year was a 12:51 clocking at the regional cross-country meet in Arlington, where she earned a trip to the state meet in her first year of high school competition.

Things went back and forth for a while until Notre Dame broke Sacred Heart's spirit with a 90-yard razzle-dazzle pass play from Woodruff to end Shawn Brennan. Woodruff, who doubles as a quarterback for his team, took a pitch-out from Wildhaber before lofting the perfect strike to his teammate downfield.

A pass from Wildhaber to Woodruff gave the Knights a two-point conversion and they led, 20-19.

Lightning struck twice more in the last minute, in the form of running back Noel Hernandez. The 161-lb. junior ran the ball seven yards for a touchdown after a teammate recovered a Sacred Heart fumbled punt-snap on the 13. Hernandez' touchdown made it 26-19.

As the Tigers tried desperately to come back for a final score, Hernandez foiled their efforts by intercepting a pass and returning it 15 yards for another touchdown with 21 seconds left on the clock.

The Knights could manage only 69 yards rushing all night — 67 of it coming on their third-quarter drive — but they tossed the ball for a whopping 275 yards of aerial offense. Wildhaber was eight for 17 for 185 yards, while Woodruff's lone completion was good for another 90.

Woodruff caught five passes for 127 yards and Brennan grabbed two for 106.

Sacred Heart's statistics were nothing to be ashamed of, as they compiled 213 yards rushing and 115 through the air. Walterscheid lugged the pigskin 15 times for 101 yards, while Switzer carried the ball nine times for 49 yards.

Taylor was six-for-nine for 115 yards, with Walterscheid latching onto four of those passes for 45 yards.

The loss leaves the Tigers with a must-win situation as they host Tyler T.K. Gorman at Muenster in the final regular-season game Friday. Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

Tigerettes

load for the Tigerettes in a scrimmage last Saturday at Nocona, scoring 27 points on 10 of 16 field goals and seven of nine free throws.

Lisa Haverkamp led the rebounding with nine, and added nine points to the effort. Sandra had eight rebounds and Vicki came up with six.

Sacred Heart outscored both Nocona and Alvord in the threeway scrimmage, with 46 points overall in four quarters.

"With so many young players, it may take until mid-season for the Tigerettes to be a really strong team," LeBressaur said. "The athletes have the desire and the determination to continue the Sacred Heart winning tradition, however."

The squad's season opener is scheduled for Tuesday at Saint Jo, with play to begin at 7 p.m.

Wildcat boys seek playoffs

Last year Callisburg's boys began their climb out of the cellar under the guidance of first-year coach Olen Rouw. Their 12-15 record was a vast improvement over a 1-27 showing the year before.

This year, with four of his top six players back, Rouw faces what may be an even bigger challenge: to make them into a contender for a playoff spot in district 10-AA.

Leading the returners is all-district post man Richard Edwards, a 6'2½" senior who led the team in scoring and rebounding last year. Backing him up are 5'11" point guard David Marshall, 5'10" wing man Scotty Pilcher, 6'1" post Clint Hollandsworth and six-foot utility man James McNew, who saw a lot of duty as a sixth man last year.

Those five seniors will have help from the likes of Todd McKee, a 6'3" sophomore, Monty Gilbreath, a six-foot junior, John Battaglia, a 5'7" junior and Keith Williams, a 5'9" junior.

"It's going to be 'gut check' time this year," Rouw said. "We're not as big and not as quick as we were last year. We will press, and we should be fairly physical. We'll go to the boards, and we have some pretty fair shooters."

The Wildcats won two tournaments last year, at Prosper and at home, and rarely got blown out even by the district tough guys — something that had been a habit in previous years.

This year they will try to improve on that 12-15 record with a disciplined, aggressive attack.

Play begins Monday at Bonham.

Muenster girls look like title contenders

Muenster's girls basketball fortunes should be looking up this year, as coach Charles Meurer's squad features two returning all-district players and a host of talented support.

Leading the returners from last year's 13-12 team are 5'7" junior forward Dana Dankesreiter and six-foot center Rita Walterscheid, another junior. Dankesreiter averaged about 12 points a game last year, while Walterscheid poured in 16 a game.

Kim Eldred at 5'7" is the only senior on the squad, which boasts the best size in the district by far.

"We'll push it up the floor pretty fast, but we're more along the lines of a ball-control team," Meurer says. "We've got pretty good size, but we've got some kids who can run, too."

Three new sophomores — guards Tracie Walterscheid and Rhonda Trubenbach and forward Laura Hess — and seven freshmen give Meurer plenty of personnel to choose from in making up his varsity roster. The freshmen include center Melanie Klement, guard-forward Darla Bindel, and forwards Meredith McDaniel, Michelle Monday, Peachy Switzer, Donna Walterscheid and Stacie Walterscheid.

Muenster's district includes Lindsay, Era, Alvord, Slidell and Forestburg for basketball. Of those, only Muenster plays volleyball in the fall.

"The other teams are a little ahead of us as far as ball-handling skills go, because they spend more time working on basketball," Meurer says. "Lindsay and Alvord are both pretty tough — Lindsay won district last year — and Forestburg should be pretty good, too. There'll be four or five teams that can contend in district."

The Muenster girls will be in action against Pottsboro beginning after the 5:30 p.m. boys jayvee game Tuesday.

RICKY CLOUD, son-in-law of Ed and Jennie Schneider of Muenster, killed a 200-lb., 10-point mule deer on a hunting trip in the San Juan National Forest near Norwood, Colorado Nov. 5. Cloud, an employee of Moore Business Forms in Denton, was on a trip with eight other men from his office when he bagged the trophy buck. The 30-inch rack will be mounted.

Lady Wildcats plan ball-control game

The Callisburg Wildcat girls basketball team will be trying to restore the competitive edge under third-year coach Delmer Spencer, after falling to a 7-19 record last year.

Spencer has a strong core of upperclassmen to build this year's team around, with 5'10" senior post player Kelli Tuck and 5'5" senior wing Beth Hill leading the way.

Juniors on the squad include Kristin Lennon, a 5'9" wing, Tracy Lee, a 5'9" post, Stacy Lee, a 5'4" point guard and Lynn Evans, a 5'6" wing.

Junior Christy Westphall and sophomores Debbie Akin and Patti Meeks are up from the jayvee squad to round out this year's varsity.

"We should be competitive in district," Spencer says. "The coaches have picked us in the top three. Of course that depends on how much we want it and how hard we play."

Spencer says his team will depend on ball-control to try and counteract the press defense and fast-break offense their opponents will likely throw at them. But with more quickness than they've had in past years, the Lady Wildcats will do some pressing and fast-breaking of their own.

Spencer's varsity girls enter competition Monday night at Bonham.

82 Liquor expands holiday line

When Ray Wimmer took over as owner of 82 Liquor in July of 1982, he had expansion on his mind. He added more floor space, put in a larger cooler and expanded his lines of beer, wine, champagne and other liquors.

The process is still going on. This holiday season, Ray plans to offer a larger-than-ever line of gifts, decorative decanters and vintage wines from all over the world, all for his discriminating customers in Muenster and Cooke County.

"As soon as we got here, we set about expanding the wine department," he says. "We've gone from 63 bottles to over 400 since then — and that includes a lot of California and some French and Italian vintage wines."

The "vintage" wine is something connoisseurs will especially appreciate. It denotes a wine that is dated from the year it is made, and gets better the longer it stays in the bottle. Vintage wines are stored on their sides in the rack, to keep the cork wet and preserve the flavor.

82 Liquor's domestic selection includes not only wines from California, but from New York State, Arkansas and even Texas. Quality French, Italian, Portuguese and German wines are all available as well, and a full selection of champagnes from all over the world can also be found.

"We've expanded our beer line to include 14 imported beers, and we can keep seven or eight times as much cold now," Ray says. The liquor inventory has tripled over the last two years, and 82 offers a full line of mixes to go along with it.

Although by law he can't deliver or set up his merchandise, Ray has begun a catering and party business as well, concentrating on weddings and drawing a good response from a wide area. He can provide valuable insight on how to set it up — and his wine fountain has been a big hit.

The renovated store at 211 East Division St. (Highway 82) in Muenster will feature a big four-tier gift table for the holiday season.

"We'll have all kinds of gift packages, special decanters, that sort of thing," Ray says. "I ordered things I've never ordered before."

"A lot of people want an unusual gift for the holiday season," he notes. "They might return a tie, but no one's going to take back a good bottle of Scotch."

Ray's liquor inventory includes all the top national labels, as well as a few of the lesser-known brands, as he tries to stock whatever his customers want. As business picks up for the holidays, he will be well prepared to supply all your liquor needs.

Ray and his wife Kay are both Muenster natives — he graduated from Sacred Heart High School in 1965 and she in 1969. He earned his degree at North Texas State in 1970 and they were married that same year, moving to Sherman while she completed her nurses training at Grayson County College there.

Ray worked for Kraft Foods in Hurst for six years and Kay worked as a nurse at Hurst General Hospital. In 1977 he went to work for Nabisco and stayed with that company until they bought out his uncle John H. Wimmer in July of '82.

Kay is a surgical nurse at Gainesville Memorial Hospital. They have two girls: Jenny, age 12, and Kelly, age 10.

Holiday shoppers are urged to put 82 Liquor on their list of places to look for gift ideas. The store is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Technology, service make solar practical

Jim Weeden wants to take the most inefficient appliance in your house — the water heater — and make it the most efficient, even to the point of heating your whole house.

He can do it with solar energy. Weeden is the owner and operator of North Texas Solar, the Raypak distributor for North Texas. He installs and services solar water heating, home heating and even cooling systems manufactured by one of the most experienced companies in the solar industry.

"Texas is one of the states with the highest solar therm value," he notes. "The quality of sunlight we get here is very high — we get more direct sunlight because of our latitude than almost any other state."

Government experts say solar energy — the capturing of the sun's energy for our own use — will provide up to 20 percent of the country's energy needs by the year 1990. The government, through tax credits and other incentives, has been pouring millions of dollars into the industry to help it get started.

The investment is paying off. "Most people think of solar equipment as expensive toys," Weeden says. "That was true five years ago due to the inefficiency of collectors — it was basically a seven-month-a-year extravagance. The systems we have now are totally automatic and they have the controls the older systems lacked. The addition of microcomputers to solar equipment makes it a 12-month-a-year appliance."

One system currently in use in Muenster is a water heater for the car wash at Wilde Chevrolet. The water is pumped through solar collectors on the roof, where it picks up the sun's heat, and it is then carried back to the tank. In about an hour and 20 minutes, groundwater can be heated to 185 degrees with the system — even on cloudy days.

"The system collects 85 percent of the available sunlight," Weeden says. "You don't have to drain it down in the winter, because the computer reads the temperature in the tank and automatically drains down the system when it gets too cold — before freezing damages the lines."

Weeden says he can install solar water heating in most homes for less than what a heat pump costs, and homeowners can see an immediate reduction of as much as

75 percent in their utility bills. "The first thing we can do is give you unlimited hot water," he says. "The storage tanks are 80 to 120 gallons — you'll never run out. And the big plus is that it is a giant thermal storage tank, with something like a million BTU's of heat available. You can certainly heat your home with that."

sufficiency. Electric rates have gone up 700 percent since 1970, and one thing you can count on is that they will continue to go up. "People have to have alternatives. That's what creates a need for my business." Weeden has been selling solar systems for about six months, but he has been involved in solar

BUSINESS

The technology is available right now, he adds, to make a home completely solar, although it is still expensive to store electricity for operating appliances. But solar water heating has become cost effective, he says. "This system allows a person to be in control of their own energy production instead of relying on other sources," he says. "It offers you the alternative of self-technology for 10 years. He designed and built several types of systems and helped develop some of the solar heating systems on the market today. He is associated with another Raypak distributor in Ardmore, Oklahoma, and does most of the installation and service on systems throughout the area.

He and his wife Rachel and their three children, Shawna,

JIM WEEDN INSTALLS and services the water and home-heating systems Raypak builds.

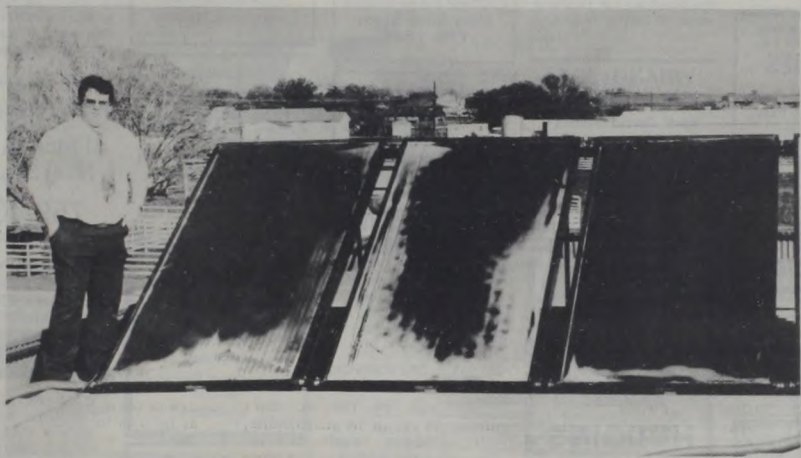

Jimmy and David have lived in the Gainesville area for six years.

"People think the solar industry is all new, but the first solar collector was built in 1896 and was available in the 1903 Sears catalogue," he notes. "The Hopi Indians in the southwest used solar energy to cool and heat their homes thousands of years ago. It's an age-old dream to be able to harness the power of the sun — space technology has opened up all kinds of applications that we're just now seeing developed for domestic use."

Weeden stresses the financial advantages of solar energy as well, through IRS tax credits that allow you to take up to 40 percent of a system's cost directly off your tax bill. Banks are eager to finance solar systems, he adds, and his company offers 100 percent financing for people who need it. "You can invest money, raise the value of your home and have immediate return in the form of reduced utility bills," he says. "Most people completely recover their investment in a year to a year-and-a-half." Weeden's phone number in Gainesville is 665-1052, and he welcomes the opportunity to come to your home, do an energy analysis and demonstrate how solar energy can be applied to fit your particular needs.

Shult named

Dr. Milo J. Shult has been named associate director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Shult has served as a wildlife and fisheries specialist with the Extension Service for the past 12 years.

In his new position Shult will provide administrative leadership for developing, implementing and evaluating educational programs in agriculture and natural resources, home economics, community development, 4-H and youth, and related areas on a county, district and state basis.

Farm-City week

Nov. 16-22 has been designated as Farm-City Week, which focuses on the teamwork of farm and city people as partners in growing, processing, marketing and consuming food and fiber.

In Texas, movement of food and fiber from the farm or ranch to the supermarket and family table provides jobs and income for about a fourth of the working force, notes an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. One out of every 35 Texans is a farmer or rancher, and about 30 percent of the state's retail trade business is directly associated with agricultural production and selling of food and fiber products.

Farm-City Week is under the direction of the National Farm-City Council, Inc. which is coordinated by Kiwanis International.

Avoiding calving problems

A cattlemen's best bet in avoiding calving problems is to select replacement heifers that are the heaviest rather than to use hip width measurements, notes a beef cattle specialist.

A study in Wharton County involving Brahman-cross heifers showed no relationship between the width at the pin bones and the internal pelvic area and only a slight relationship between the width at the hooks and the pelvic area.

Producers should select the heaviest heifers and breed them to bulls that have sired calves of light birthweights to avoid calving problems.

Alfalfa varieties

Alfalfa production has been limited in southern Texas due to problems with cotton rootrot and alfalfa weevils. However, a recent study in Gonzales County has shown that alfalfa does have potential, notes a forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The study involved four varieties: Baron, Florida 77, Cimarron and WL 318. Baron was the top producer on a dry matter basis, yielding 10,323 pounds per acre from four clippings. Baron also was highest in crude protein at just over 17 percent.

Neither cotton rootrot nor alfalfa weevils were a problem during the first year of the study.

Drought loan program opens

At Gainesville FmHA office

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by severe drought losses which begin January 1, 1984 are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Room 211, Federal Building in Gainesville. That announcement comes from FmHA county supervisor James B. Murdock.

Cooke County is one of 34 Texas counties recently named by Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the drought.

Murdock said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses, or the operating loan needed to continue in business, or $500,000, whichever is less.

For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate on the first $100,000 borrowed is five percent; interest rate is eight percent on the balance borrowed over that amount. For farmers who can obtain commercial credit but who choose to borrow from FmHA, the interest rate is 13.75 percent.

As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan, Murdock said. Farmers participating in the PIK or federal crop insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until June 24, 1985, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly carry over into the next farming season, Murdock said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens, and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Gainesville is open from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

County Agent's Report

The other day we were looking at some wheat that showed some restricted or suppressed growth. Fertility levels in the soil were the same as neighboring fields, about 80 pounds of actual nitrogen. The main difference in the fields was that one was on recropped wheat ground and the other on milo stubble. The wheat on the heavy straw ground had the reduced growth.

One factor affecting fall nitrogen fertilization is the amount of straw from a previous crop. The bacteria and other micro-organisms needed to decompose straw and stubble require nitrogen. They use both soil and applied nitrogen for this process. This will reduce the amount of applied nitrogen that is available to the growing plants.

If large amounts of straw and stubble are present in fields, it may be necessary to apply higher rates of nitrogen in the fall. Especially if a producer is interested in grazing. If no grazing is needed, the additional nitrogen requirements can be added a early season top dress.

The general rule has been to increase the nitrogen rate about 20 pounds actual per acre for each ton on undercomposed straw. One other factor to consider is that we are going to regain some nitrogen from the straw or stubble once decomposition gets well under way. So there is the possibility of regaining about one half of that added nitrogen later.

The main thing to remember is if you need the additional growth now on stubble land then you may want to consider a small topdress of nitrogen this fall.

Straw has another adverse ef-

Whitesboro dealer agrees to suspension

George C. McDonnell of Whitesboro, has agreed to a 15-day suspension of his livestock dealer business, a $500 civil penalty, and a cease and desist order from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A USDA official said McDonnell agreed to the penalties to settle charges that he engages in a conspiracy to illegally increase invoice prices and weights of cattle sold to Nebraska feedlot operators during 1977.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said litigation is still pending for two other respondents in the case, Palmer G. Hulings, of Lancaster, Kan., and Ronnie C. Austin, of Ringling, Okla.

As a part of the settlement agreement, McDonnell's 15-day suspension will start after he completes a 6-month sentence at the Federal Prison Camp near Texarkana, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice at Sherman ordered the jail term in September after finding McDonnell guilty of criminal contempt for violating two previous injunctions for operating as a livestock dealer and order buyer without a bond.

In agreeing to the penalties, McDonnell neither admitted nor denied the administrative charges files by USDA in April 1980, under authority of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The cease and desist order, similar to permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law.

DON'T KISS $8,938 GOODBYE

That's how much you could lose just on resale value
if you don't buy a John Deere

Looking for a big discount when you buy a tractor? Don't get stuck with an even bigger discount when you want to trade.

Always consider resale value when you price a field tractor. Because the differences among brands may sometimes be bigger than ANY purchase incentive.

Compare John Deere with our two leading competitors. According to the Spring 1984 Official Guide of the National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association, the average 5-year-old John Deere 4440 sells for 106 percent of its 1979 list price. One leading competitor averages 87 percent of its 1979 list price. The other averages 73 percent.

What's that mean in dollars? Add the John Deere gain on original price to the competitor's loss. The John Deere advantage is as much as $8,938!

Is this only true of one model? No. Every 40 Series 90- to 180-hp tractor has an average resale price that's higher than its new price five years ago.

Is resale your only John Deere advantage?

No. Don't forget the remarkable fuel efficiency of today's 50 Series John Deere Tractors. And don't forget our unmatched reputation for high quality and high reliability. See your John Deere dealer. He'll be happy to explain the big difference between a low-price tractor and a low-cost John Deere: 100-hp 4050, 120-hp 4250, 140-hp 4450, 165-hp 4650 or 190-hp 4850.
