Rosston observes Sam Bass Pioneer Day with homecoming

Area visitors crowded into Rosston Saturday to join local townspeople and former residents in a homecoming celebration observing the community's annual Sam Bass Pioneer Day sponsored by the Rosston Volunteer Fire Department.

Many years ago, recollections of Sam Bass, a legendary, if unlikely, "hero" provided local color to stories of his exploits in various areas of Texas. When he was "in residence" in the Rosston area, his behavior was that of a modern Robin Hood, but not of an outlaw.

Local old-timers can recall tales of a "Sam Bass Cave" near Rosston. Records show that Sam Bass came from Indiana in 1869 with dreams of running Longhorn cattle in Texas on a ranch of his own. But instead, he ran afoul of the law and died in Round Rock, Texas at age 27, on July 21, 1878 after a dubious, but exciting career.

The modern homecoming celebration in Rosston is predominantly a fun day with reunioning and fellowship more its inspiration than any historical reference.

This day in 1985 started with an invocation and brief welcome by George Berry at 9:30 a.m. The parade stepped off at 10 o'clock, announced by Bud Ford, as master of ceremonies who did double duty throughout the day, as announcer for competitions.

Parade winners, in order named, were "Last Little Indian Raid," sponsored by N.J. Beef Jerky of Muenster; a 1934 A John Deere tractor, driven by Kenneth Zwinggi of Lindsay; and a horse-drawn surrey entered by Herman Younger of Fort Worth.

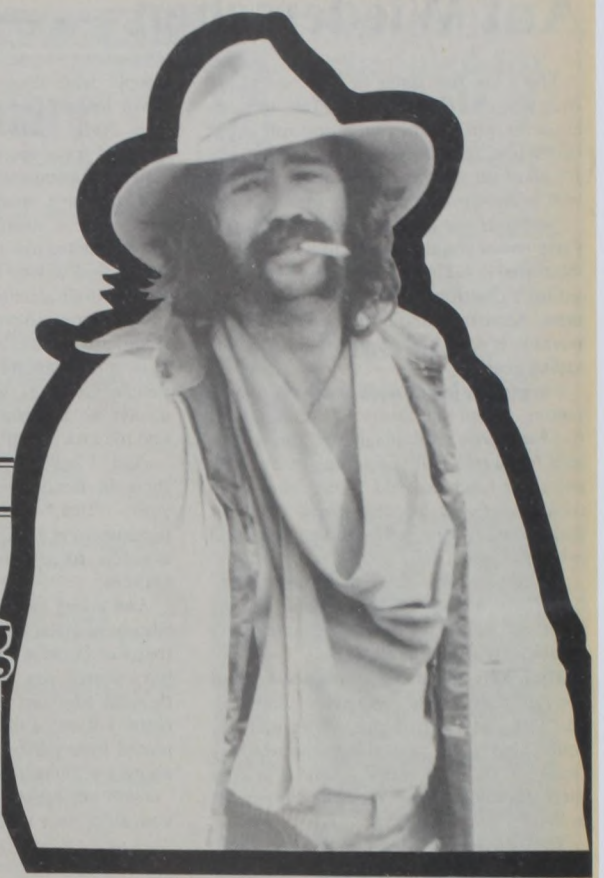

During the morning Richard Stahl, a flight instructor at American Airlines in Denton, flew over the activity area with Tody Ford taking aerial pictures.

The day-long schedule of attractions and crowd-pleasers included a Mule Pull at 11 a.m. Winners were Randy London of Irving, Ben Fieldman of Sulphur Bluff, Texas and Buddy May of Gainesville.

Sanctioned by the National Association of Old West Gunfighter Teams, with home offices in California, the first annual Gunfighter contest held in Rosston was staged at 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. Winners, in order named, were Texas Gunfighters of Gonzales, Texas; Old West Gunfighters of Forestburg; and The Outlaws of Waco. Current members of the Forestburg group include Rickey Huckaby, Herbert Richardson, Wassie Reynolds, Ran Greanead, Bill White, Tom Richardson, Linda Huckaby, Norma Bayer, Wesley Reynolds

KCs honor merit members

A communion breakfast Sunday in the KC Hall was an occasion of honors galore for merit in three categories. There were awards for families of the month, honorary membership and perfect attendance at meetings during the past year.

Added spice for the program were two short talks. Father Victor thanked friends for a great vacation to Ireland and promised to tell more when he gets his pictures organized.

Also Sister Regina Koelzer of the Franciscan order told about missionary work in British Columbia.

As part of the council's family of the month program recognizing special services to council, parish and community, a family was cited for each month, October to June. One of those, the John Pagels, was named family of the year. Others were the families of Butch Fisher, Gene Hoedebeck, Herman Stoffels, James Walterscheid, Lupe Evans, Frank Felderhoff, Claude Klement and Andy Klement.

Honorary membership identification cards, recognizing 50 years as a member, were awarded to Alois Rohmer, David Trachta, Paul Fisher, Charley Hellman, Herbert Meurer, Leonard Yosten, Ray Swirczynski and Gilbert Endres.

Also eight awards were presented for perfect attendance at meetings during the past year. They were to Ben Fleitman, Allen Sicking, Harold Knabe, Joe Hoening, Wilfred Bindel, Robert Knauf, Charley Hellman and Joe Fisher.

The breakfast was prepared by Gilbert Hess, Ben Fleitman, Maurus Hacker, Wilfred Bindel and their wives and Allen Sicking. Members of the H2O Club served it.

MHS principal appointed

Eddie Griffin of Collinsville is the new principal at Muenster Public School succeeding Eddie Green. His appointment was announced this week by Superintendent Charles Coffey.

Griffin was the principal at Collinsville last year and at Van Alstyne the preceding two years. He was at Copperas Cove six years, four as band instructor followed by two years as assistant principal. Among prior assignments, he has been a music teacher and counselor and was located at Breckenridge and Pittsburg.

Griffin is a native of Electra, lived there in his youth and graduated from high school in 1956. He attended TCU on a band scholarship and graduated in 1960 with a bachelor degree in musical education. He received a master of education degree in administration from Tarleton State University and has continued study since at NTSU and ETSU. He and his wife, Nadine, expect to move here when they find living quarters.

FAMILY OF THE YEAR

Along with the many blessings that we Americans enjoy, mostly as an inheritance from God-fearing and freedom-loving founding fathers, we are increasingly aware of evils gradually eroding our ideals and our traditional way of life.

Our basic problem can be identified with the idea that we can get along without God. When people don't feel responsible to a supreme being, their natural tendency is to do as they please. It's all right to steal from another or the government, to kill a personal enemy, or even an unknown who just resists being robbed; to indulge in sexual laxity and dispose of unwanted babies by abortion, more properly called murder; and to insist on the so-called rights of persons who violate the moral and civil laws...for instance, prisoners and social leeches.

Among those flaunting their evil most brazenly nowadays are the moral mavericks who proudly call themselves gays. Selecting a respectful sounding name did not change the fact that these are homosexuals and lesbians, no more than repulsive gutter people.

These moral pigs have been trying for years to force their way into decent society. On a few occasions they were accepted, but generally they were rejected. Their efforts have been local, but now they are trying for the highest possible goals in the country, "a gay bill of rights," the purpose of which is to force themselves legally upon the decent and God-fearing people of the country. They already have the support of several twisted-minded congressional liberals. Other support was the violent kind, 20 pipe bombs in recent months in public places with notes signed "the North Central Gay Strike Force Against Public and Police Oppression." They put themselves in a class with world terrorists in trying to force themselves on society.

Before stating how important it is for Congress to reject the gay demand, and how urgent for the general public to contact their congressmen, we ought to take notice that the gays already have

Good News

Do not give in to sadness, torment not yourself with brooding; Gladness of the heart is the very life of man, cheerfulness prolongs his days. Distract yourself, renew your courage, drive resentment away from you; For worry has brought death to many, nor is there aught to be gained from resentment. Envy and anger shorten one's life, worry brings on premature old age. One who is cheerful and gay while at table benefits from his food.

Moderate and dry

While several areas of North Texas have had showers, Muenster remains dry. The past week has had only .05, bringing the July total to only .09 inch and the 1985 total to 22.18 inches. Auf Wiedersehen

There are few times in our "working" lives when we can make the decision to re-enter the work field, find a position in our career line, take the job and thoroughly enjoy all of the people with whom we work as well as our working conditions.

Such was my good fortune when David Fette called inquiring whether I might be interested in taking a look at the Managing Editor's position with the Muenster Enterprise. Accustomed to both the field and the position it was "right up my alley," as the saying goes.

I began the job in April and have had no regrets, except that this is my last edition of the Enterprise as managing editor. In the next few weeks I will be getting ready to re-enter the teaching field. A position I am looking forward to, with mixed emotions about leaving a job I like and people I will miss seeing on a daily basis.

Therefore, I pay them my respects openly. They are all listed below in the Masthead (that's the little box that tells you who does what on the staff).

They have given me assistance beyond the call of duty, and have never complained. They have lifted my spirits and my soul. They have prayed for me and my family in difficult times — and I'm sure there have been times when they've prayed at me.

They have welcomed me and loved me, and my family, as their own.

I have seen them give hours of time to people who never thought once of the favor being done or of the "Thank You" due. And, I have seen them graciously thanked for some small favor by some genuinely gracious person.

They have made my being here, in Muenster, a meaningful experience and have enriched my life beyond measure. If I could find a way to truly thank them, I would surely seize the opportunity.

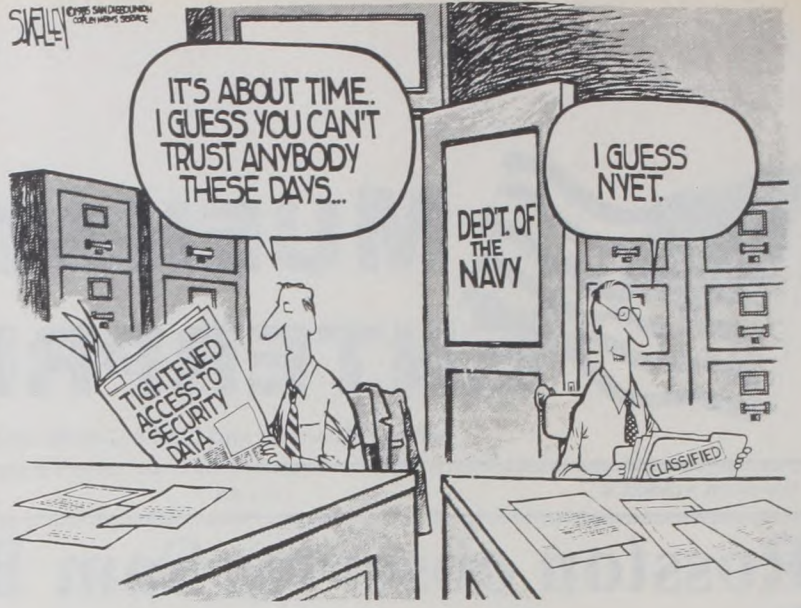

All of my co-workers have been these things to me and more. But, very special among them all are the Fettes. What lovely people God has set among you. May I always be mindful of their graciousness, and the love they have shared.

And, I haven't forgotten all of you out there in Reader's Land. Thank you for your "tips," your interviews, your precious time and energy in helping me do my job to the best of our combined abilities.

And a very special thanks to my family, who have given up evenings and weekends together because Mom had to work; who have shared my housework because they thought I looked tired or worked late the night before; and who have never once placed their personal desires and "wants" above my job responsibilities.

I will not forget your kindnesses...all of you, all of your kindnesses.

Let's cut U.N. funds

IF THERE is one thing of which we are certain, it is that there is no relationship between a majority vote and the rightness or wrongness of an action.

A clear demonstration of this point is the record of the approval by Congress of the United Nations Charter. On July 28, 1945, before the approval vote was taken later that day, Senator William Langer of North Dakota warned his colleagues:

"I feel from the bottom of my heart that adoption of the Charter ... will mean perpetuating war;" and "I believe it is fraught with danger to the American people, and to American institutions."

Langer was joined in his concern and stand on principles by Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota. The vote was 89 to 2. The two were right; the 89 were wrong. So much for democratic action.

Later, Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, realizing his mistake and coming to understand the real purpose of the United Nations, stated, "The United Nations has become a trap. Let's go it alone."

The great patriotic senator from Nevada, Pat McCarran, was honest enough to say when the U.N. course became crystal clear: "Until my dying day, I will regret signing the United Nations Charter."

We have no way of knowing how many of those who approved of the U.N. in the final days of World War II in 1945, came to realize their mistakes. But if they were honest men, it had to be the greater majority.

Recently, America's "father of the conservative movement," Senator Barry Goldwater, put the matter into proper perspective when he said:

"... the time has come to recognize the United Nations for the anti-American, anti-freedom organization that it has become. The time has come for us to cut off all financial help, withdraw as a member, and ask the United Nations to find a headquarters that is more in keeping with the philosophy of the majority of voting members, someplace like Moscow or Peking."

United States taxpayers send more than $1 billion annually to the United Nations, either as assessments or voluntary contributions. This amounts to roughly 25 percent of total U.N. spending. At one time we paid nearly 40 percent. While we finance 25 percent of the U.N. budget, with only one vote, the Soviet Union, with three votes, pays only 4.2 percent despite their obligation to pay 11 percent, plus 2 percent for its extra two votes. Consequently, the Reds are millions of dollars in arrears with their payments, even though the U.N. does much to promote communist objectives.

If the United Nations were truly a principled organization, any nation in arrears would be expelled until all assessments were paid up in full.

Until we can get the U.S. out of the U.N., we should cut the finances being siphoned off our taxpayers to bring about their own destruction.

Recently, Congressman Eldon Rudd of Arizona introduced H.R. 1908 to cut our contribution to the U.N. to the level proportionate to our share of the professional staff at the U.N., which is now 15.5 percent. The Soviets and the Communist bloc proportion is far higher than their financial contribution.

Benson is president of the National Education Program, based in Oklahoma City.

State Capitol Highlight

AUSTIN — Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis returned last week from his controversial trip to South Africa and remains opposed to ending state investments there to combat racial separatism.

He immediately caught renewed fire from some lawmakers critical of state law allowing investment of tax dollars in that troubled nation's economy.

Black lawmakers, in particular, have pushed past legislation banning such investments as a means of combating apartheid, defeated in part by Lewis' disagreement.

Lewis said he and sidekick state Rep. Charles Evans talked to blacks and whites on the "far left, far right and everybody in between" and he believes that divestment of U.S. investments would hurt struggling South African blacks more than it would help them.

"They (South African government) have got a lot of foolish laws I don't agree with, and they need to change."

Legislative Outcome?

How Lewis' trip will affect the outcome of divestiture legislation next session remains to be seen, but the fact that he took the trip at all signifies the Legislature's interest in the issue, perhaps brought on by its growing minority membership.

Lewis seems more convinced than ever that his stance is correct. He is himself a wealthy businessman, and very pro-establishment, but his political style has an unspoken pacifist streak to it.

He avoids blood-letting where possible, and does not relish putting one lawmaker against another, as so do.

Nazi Comparison

Rather than ignoring the plight of South African blacks, he sympathizes with them in his own style: "The people pushing for divestment are hurting the people they are trying to help. When you start shutting down factories, the people in those factories are not white, they're black."

And if violent revolution is precipitated by economic collapse, the people gunned down in the streets are more likely to be black than white, too.

His sharpest criticism by a black leader came from state Sen. Craig Washington, who compared Lewis' trip to a 1930s House speaker who traveled to Germany as a guest of the Nazis.

Moral Obligation?

But Washington and Lewis have one thing in common: they both see South African blacks in the same situation as American blacks before the great strides in civil rights. Lewis says it compares with the American '50s.

Washington speaks for American blacks who hate racism so much they want to wipe it out in every corner of the globe, at least in an official form.

To them, we have a moral obligation as a freedom-loving nation to combat it however we can, and so they introduced the divestiture legislation. They want something done now.

Lewis obviously feels some moral obligation, too, or else he wouldn't have gone. Maybe he went in hopes of finding a better line of attack, and is still formulating it. Maybe we'll find out next session if an alternate plan emerges.

"White OK"

Some 12,000 wells in the Panhandle oil field are affected by a recent federal ruling some say will spark bankruptcies and other economic hardships there.

The feds used new Texas Railroad Commission regulations to rule that some 35 producers illegally diverted supplies from another company by drilling "oil" wells into gas reservoirs then capitalizing on the higher prices available for "white oil," or casinghead gas.

Some 1,000 wells are now expected to be retested soon.

Political Maneuverings

Former Democratic House Speaker Billy Clayton switched parties last week, and GOP State Senator Buster Brown of Lake Jackson announced he will run for attorney general.

Clayton, considered a possible gubernatorial candidate, said he won't run for any statewide office next year, but speculation is he might settle for a slot lower down on the ballot with enough urging.

Brown criticized incumbent AG Jim Mattox for spending over $250,000 in contributions for his legal defense and for not being tough enough on criminals. The expenditure was legal, but Brown says it was wrong, anyway.

their fingers in tax money. Some arrogant bureaucrats have given $640,000 of tax money for their community service of "education about gay lifestyles and gay people's problems."

Also, taxpayers pay 45.63 percent of the total income of homosexual non-profit groups. And 55 percent of all homosexuals organizations receive U.S. tax money. Another kind of gay aid is also getting more prominent lately as millions of dollars go into research on AIDS, the disease started and spread by the gays.

Needless to say, U.S. taxpayers are strongly opposed to continued or additional gifts of their money to the gay programs.

Even more so, the American public is not ready to accept the morally illiterate and repulsive gutter people as their social equals.

They can foresee personal problems in rejecting a gay's application for employment. They could face a choice of giving in or getting involved in a long and expensive law suit, especially if the gay got help from an outfit like ACLU.

The same situation applies with respect to lots of other jobs, especially in teaching. Homosexuals could be equally effective in forcing acceptance as teachers. And, once on the job, they would be untouchable for imposing their repulsive thinking on students. In fact, if the gay bill of rights is passed the law shifts to their side in any confrontation with decent society.

While being concerned about lots of problems in this country, we need to think about raising the dregs of society to a privileged class status. Conscientious legislators need to think through this situation.

The gay rights bill is a misnomer. No one has a right to the conditions implied in the bill. On the other hand, that kind of rights would clash with the real rights of other people not to have such moral and physical contamination imposed on them.

TIA attends youth convention July 13 in Fort Worth

Twenty-eight local TIA members attended "Celebrate '85," a convention for young people of the Diocese of Fort Worth, July 13-15. They were among the 320 youth and sponsors attending the annual Diocesan Youth Convention held in the student union building at North Texas State University Saturday and Sunday.

The two days were spent meeting new friends and attending various workshops. Topics included music, morality, communications, relationships, drama for youth, prayer and spirituality. Most popular workshops were on "Sexual Morality" and "How To Raise Your Parents," designed to foster better relations between young people and their parents.

Adult workshops were on formation, evaluating, goal-setting, future development and support of youth ministry groups. All workshops were given by religious educators and the youth ministries team of the diocese.

The convention was opened with the keynote speech of Franciscan Sister Thea Bowman of Canton, Miss., who combined story and song in a presentation about celebrating the faith. She was assisted by the choir of Holy Cross Catholic Church of Dallas.

Mass and a special liturgy were celebrated by Father Vince Redder, associate pastor of St. Maria Goretti of Arlington. A banquet and dance were held Saturday evening.

Sunday's program included more group and music sessions, diocesan youth council elections, during which Pat Hellman of Muenster was elected one of two representatives for the North Deanery. There was a parish caucus, and a most memorable concert given by Tony Melendez. Born without arms, Melendez is a talented guitarist who plays the instrument with his feet. Tony sang songs of praise and thanksgiving, and popular and original compositions.

Members of Sacred Heart Parish who attended the convention were Mike Walter, Scott Taylor, Stuart Hess, Ronnie Walterscheid, Darwin Sicking, Gail Fisher, Julie Rohmer, Shari Voth, Kerri Yosten, Donna Wolf, Jana Hamilton, Judy Pagel, Darren Walterscheid, Pat Herr, John Anderle, John Nasche, Hayle Fenton, Donna Walterscheid, Kevin Anderle, Rose Herr, Pat Hellman, Brian Hess, Carmen Daugherty, Vicki Walterscheid, Mary Beth Bartush, Don Hellman, John Walterscheid and Linda Knabe.

Monica Johnson of Lindsay also attended with the Muenster group, who had the distinction of having the largest parish representation present. The group is already making plans to attend "Celebrate '86" next summer.

TIA sponsors Mini-Reflection program Aug. 8

The TIA Youth Ministry Group will have a Mini-Reflection on Thursday, Aug. 8, in the Community Center, beginning with a hamburger supper at 5:30 p.m.

Open to all incoming students of grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 and all 1985 graduates, the program will be on Sexuality and Morality.

The evening's program will be conducted by Mark Rist, diocesan youth director, and by seminarians Wayne Romo and Bill Hopkins, all of Fort Worth. Included in the program are mixers, games, group discussions and the opportunity to meet other youth of the diocese.

TIA cordially extends an invitation to all area youth to attend their gathering.

Reservation deadline is July 31 and the cost is $3.00 per person. For reservations or information, call Linda Knabe, 759-2592, or John Walterscheid, 759-4143, or Anne Poole, 759-2721.

Buckel has been a newspaperman since 1967 following seven years in the radio business. Other interests and occupations through the years included professional baseball in his youth and for several years after Air Force service during World War II, also insurance and a county clerk's office before going into radio as sportscaster, salesman and manager.

Along with the Lamesa paper, Buckel has interest in a string of newspapers, serving as secretary and director of each. They are at Azle, Brownfield, Gatesville, Granbury, Hereford, Levelland, Littlefield, Lovington, N.M., Vernon, Snyder, Seminole and Quanah and offset plants at Snyder, Hereford and Lamesa. He is also president of South Plains Printing Co. and an equipment leasing firm.

MRS. KEITH KOBZA
... nee La Quita Walterscheid ...

Couple wed June 8 in double ring ceremony

La Quita Joyce Walterscheid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Joe Walterscheid of Moore, Okla. and formerly of Muenster, was married to Keith Kobza in a double-ring ceremony in St. Andrew's Catholic Church on June 8.

Father Popius, pastor of St. Andrews, officiated. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kobza of Midwest City.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a formal gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, high neckline and puffed elbow-length sleeves of silk organza and Alencon lace. The full silk organza skirt was encircled with a sheer flounce that flowed into a chapel train.

Her matching veil was attached to a tiara head band. For her bridal bouquet, she chose a cascade of white, pink and burgundy flowers.

Ann Walterscheid was her sister's maid of honor. Another sister, Dee Dee Walterscheid, was bridesmaid. They wore pink floor-length Alencon lace dresses and their flowers complemented the bridal cascade.

Kevin Lewis was best man and Darren Hoelscher was groomsmen. Jack Lee and Craig Hoelscher were ushers.

Candlelighters were Diane Kobza and Tracey Plaster, presiding at the guest registry was Karen Harper.

Setting for the double-ring ceremony was an archway of flowers and greenery flanked by candles in brass candelabras, urns of flowers and green plants on the altar.

Three special songs selected by the couple were sung by Ed Mitchell, church soloist. Scripture readings were given by Charlotte Denman, the bride's aunt.

The reception following was hosted by the bride's parents, Larry Joe and Betty Walterscheid. The bride's table, covered in white silk and lace, held the four-tiered cake and crystal and silver appointments.

The bride is a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's of Oklahoma City. She is attending Central State College in Edmond where she will receive a degree in nursing. She is employed by Dr. Randal in Midwest City. The groom attended schools in Moore where he is employed. They will be at home in Midwest City.

Relatives attending from a distance included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Womble of McKinney; the groom's grandparents, Anna Kobza and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hoelscher of Anadarko, Okla. Also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walterscheid and children of Lindsay and Mrs. Ann Walterscheid of Muenster.

Societies plan Catholic Convention fundraiser

Naming delegates to attend the Catholic State League convention in Victoria on July 20-21 was the principal business at the Sunday, July 7, meetings of St. Anne's and St. Joseph's Societies.

Mr. and Mrs. Denis Walterscheid, secretary and president respectively of their societies, will represent them as delegates.

It was announced that a flea market to defray expenses will be held at the convention. Suitable items may be left at Mrs. Frank Herr's home for the Walterscheids to take to Victoria. "Granny Square blocks" were suggested as a usable item for hand therapy in hospitals and rest homes. These are four-inch blocks covered with fabric.

St. Anne's members approved payment for a set of Bibles and two books of Lives of the Saints for SHHS Library.

Della Walterscheid, president, read a letter of thanks from Muenster's Sister Roberta Hesse, now a missionary in Rwanda, Africa, written after she received 300 rosaries from St. Anne's Society. She said the rosaries were joyously received and that her mission had need for more. The St. Anne Society members approved purchase and shipment of an additional 300.

Members were interested in a picture of Rwanda art that she sent, showing a black madonna and infant in clothing made from banana leaves.

Tillie Otto told of receiving a letter of thanks for rosaries she made and sent to a prison in Stillwater, Minn. She converts pieces of broken rosaries into "like-new" for this purpose.

Bertha Knabe read minutes and Marie Henschel gave the treasurer's report, then read the inspirations "A Rose" and "Solitude."

There will be no meeting in August. The Sept. 1 meeting will begin at 6 p.m. with a covered dish supper to welcome the Benedictine Sisters for the school term.

Robert Knabe, Sr., won the attendance prize at the St. Joseph Society meeting and Mrs. Al Yosten at the St. Anne Society meeting. Members signed a get-well card for Robert Bayer and then adjourned for a social hour and refreshments.

Controlled blood pressure can reduce insurance cost

Prolonging your life is one incentive for keeping high blood pressure under control, but here's another: you may be able to save money on your health and life insurance premiums.

The American Heart Association in Texas wants you to know that if you had uncontrolled high blood pressure when you applied for your insurance policy, you're probably paying a higher premium than you should. By proving your blood pressure is under control, you can ask for a review of your case and re-rate your policy.

Each insurance company has its own requirements, some requiring evidence of control for one year, others for two. Your agent can help you determine what your insurance requires.

High blood pressure occurs when the smallest arteries of the body become narrowed and the heart must pump harder to force the blood through.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, as it is sometimes called, is a major cause of heart attack and stroke. It significantly reduces life expectancy, and the higher the blood pressure, the greater the reduction in length of life.

Yale University's Marvin Moser, M.D., a veteran Heart Association volunteer, worked with others to survey major U.S. insurance companies. In a report to the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA), they reported that the dollars saved through insurance programs for controlled hypertensives can be substantial.

The study cited that a 35-year-old man with uncontrolled high blood pressure of "170 over 95" would pay a premium of approximately $847 annually for a $100,000 five-year-term life insurance policy. But the same man with normal or blood pressure under control would pay a premium of $410, a savings of $437.

In the case of a typical whole life policy, the same person with uncontrolled high blood pressure would pay 28 percent more than the "normal range" person.

Old friends visit Rosa Driever Monday

Surprise guests of Rosa Driever on Monday were friends who lived in Muenster 41 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Statler of Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Statler was stationed at Camp Howze and they rented an apartment here from Rosie's father, W. Lee Stock.

The Statlers said they held good memories of Muenster and recalled many courtesies offered to service men's families by local clubs and organizations, including the Knights of Columbus, Civic League and Garden Club, etc. and noted changes in the former Myrick Clinic, now the Public Library. They also visited at The Muenster Enterprise.

The Statlers were on an extended sightseeing trip since June 14 and had attended the American Baptist Convention in Portland, Oregon. They came to Muenster from Irving where they were guests of a daughter and family, and brought two grandsons with them.

Soccer 'rolls in' with good response

Twenty-eight boys, aged 6 to 13, from Muenster, Forestburg and Saint Jo are getting their first taste of soccer this week in a Lago day camp co-sponsored by Adidas and Dr Pepper.

A similar camp for girls is on schedule for next week, July 29 through Aug. 2. It too will be at the city baseball park, 8 to 12 o'clock daily and the fee is $25. Permission slips will be required for registration on Monday.

The daily program includes instruction in rules and skills with practice in shooting, heading, passing, kneeling and heading without use of hands, and also throwing in the ball.

Highlight of Tuesday was a "shoot out." Other skills were ultimate frisbee, field hockey and kick ball.

All registrants received a choice of soccer bag or T-shirt and had the opportunity to buy a soccer ball.

The camp director is Johnny Russo, licensed coach of the U.S. Soccer Federation. Assistants are Oscar Borgarello of the NTSU soccer team, Aldo Siddell of Garland and Johnny Jr. and Weldon Russo.

Organizing meeting set for soccer loop

Completion of soccer day camps here, this week for boys and next week for girls, hopefully will be followed by a soccer league which is to be considered at a meeting on Thursday, Aug. 1, 7 p.m. in the TP&L building. Interested adults of Muenster, Lindsay, Forestburg and Saint Jo are invited to attend.

Related subjects to be discussed are sponsors to adopt and finance teams, coaches, committees to have charge of naming officials and arranging schedules, and parent supporters to assist the kids and encourage community interest.

Bud Light wins county softball title

Muenster's Bud Light is the 1985 champion of the Cooke County Softball League, winning the title last Wednesday in a playoff series with First Realty of Gainesville.

Bud Light was winner of the first half of the season and First Realty the second half winner, and the season title was to be determined by a 2 out of 3 series. Muenster boys won the first two, by scores of 12-9 and 7-5.

During the preceding weekend, the team qualified for a state tournament by finishing in the top eight in a district tournament in Denton.

It will go to Midland Aug. 9-11 for the state tourney.

Bud Light's final standing in the eight-member county league is 15-3 and its record for the full season is 30-14.

Hornets start practice Aug. 12

1986 football for the Muester Hornets is less than three weeks away. On Monday, Aug. 12, some 38 hopefuls are due to report to Coach Dewey Sims and Assistants Charles Meurer and Bob Gross to start their two-a-day pre-season conditioning.

After two weeks of that kind of practice, Sims intends to go to the once-daily practice for two more weeks before their first scrimmage. Another week will lead to another scrimmage after which they start playing for the record.

Coach Sims has high hopes for his boys in spite of a shortage of seniors. The rest of the roster includes 18 experienced boys from last year's varsity and junior varsity along with a promising group of 16 from last year's junior high. The total is expected to be plenty for varsity and JV programs.

"Auto Accidents"

What do you do in case of an automobile accident? First things first, you may say, and set about to report the damage incurred to the insurance company, get the necessary estimate - in other words, get the job done.

As for that sore neck - the pain will probably go away in a few days - Or will it?

Symptoms of a whiplash neck injury may not appear for several days or even weeks following an accident. By that time, you may not associate the stiffness in the neck, persistent headaches, irritability, or nausea with the car accident that caused them.

Of the cervical disorders we've studied, 60 percent of them have been the result of auto accidents, with most of these injuries due to whiplash incurred in rear-end auto collisions. The backward snapping, then forward rolling motion of the head following impact, put a tremendous strain on the neck. Torn muscles, stretched ligaments and spinal damage are frequent occurrences.

Left untouched, a whiplash injury condition will only worsen. Severe migraine headaches, extreme nervousness, insomnia or arthritis are possible developments.

As a specialist in problems of the spine, nerves and muscles, the Doctor of Chiropractic is a highly qualified member of the healing arts capable of treating whiplash injuries.

ALL THAT WAS LEFT of the old church when this picture was made on Feb. 16, 1949 was the cavernous hole, the basement of the old building. Much of the demolition job on the old church was accomplished by volunteers, in response to a directive from the church committee assessing every male member of the parish over age 18 five days of free labor or a donation of $5.00 per day.

CEREMONIES HELD ON March 27, 1947 marked the opening of the old cornerstone of Sacred Heart Church. Shown examining a bit of paper are Father Herman Laux, pastor, Father Cyril Lange, assistant, at his right, and Father Henry Felderhoff, at left. Bishop Augustine Dangelmayr presided at the ceremony and joined other clergy in surprise and disappointment that contents of the cornerstone were deteriorated and almost useless. The unsealed tin box was not moisture-proof. A few words written in Latin on parchment were readable; some old coins and a booklet on Cooke County resources were in better condition. It was published by the Gainesville Anzeiger. Father Herman hoped to have it translated into English.

OLDER PARISHIONERS of Sacred Heart remember with nostalgia the magnificent tone and true melodic beauty of the three bells in the old church steeple. Depending upon direction of the wind, parishioners in rural areas frequently heard the traditional 6 a.m., noon and 6 p.m. ringing of the Angelus, and paused to pray.

A single bell also tolled to announce a death in the parish. In the earliest days of the parish, the bells sometimes sounded a fire alarm, and, in a complete departure from the expected, rang in the New Year. And they rang joyously to signal VE Day.

In this Photo From The Past made on Feb. 4, 1949, the bells are shown in a temporary tower near the old convent, after removal from the church steeple.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Now paying 10.94%. U.S. Savings Bonds now pay higher variable interest rates—like money market accounts. At the current rate, you could double your money in less than seven years. You can buy Bonds at most financial institutions.

Or easier still, through your Payroll Savings Plan. For your free booklet, write: "50 Q&A," U.S. Savings Bonds Division, Washington, DC 20226.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS
Paying Better Than Ever

Variable rates apply to Bonds purchased on and after 1/1/82 and held at least 5 years. Bonds purchased before 1/1/82 earn variable rates when held beyond 10/31/81. Bonds held less than 5 years earn lower interest.

Some of you farmers might take note of the following: Recently, I read in a newspaper about a Farmers' Convention in East Texas. There were six farmers there that still used horses and mules on their farms for power. Evidently, there was some good-natured kidding and laughing from the tractor farmers about this - until they were quieted down when the six (team) farmers made the statements that their farms were paid for, they were not in debt for anything, they were making a living and had money in the bank. How about that?

Tractors versus mules and horses on a farm reminds me of a football team that had more yardage gained, more first downs, held the ball longer and completed more passes - but the other team won.

Oatmeal Cookies For Family and Friends

Homemade cookies have a special quality about them. Not only do they fill the house with wonderful aroma, they always speak louder than words, in saying you've made something special for family or friends.

This easy recipe can be baked as bar or drop cookies, with enough batter to make some of each. Chocolate pieces, oatmeal and cinnamon all add to their flavor, but the addition of dried figs makes them special. Providing chewy texture with a depth of natural sweet flavor, figs also bring lots of nutrition to the cookie jar. A concentrated source of quick energy, they add more calcium, magnesium, potassium and copper than any other fruit.

So bake up a batch of homemade cookies that make wonderful little special gifts—if you can keep them in the cookie jar that long.

CHERRY FIG OATMEAL COOKIES

- 12 dried Calimyrna figs
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 2 cups quick cooking rolled oats
- 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces (6 oz.)

Cut stems from figs and discard. Chop figs to make one cup. Set aside. Cream together butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla and beat well. Combine flour, cinnamon and baking powder; gradually add to creamed mixture. Stir in oats, figs and chocolate pieces. Mix well as dough is very stiff. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet. Or divide dough in half and spread each half in a greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in 350° F. oven. For the drop cookies bake 15 minutes; for the bar cookies bake 30 minutes. Yields 6 to 7 dozen drop cookies or 64 bar cookies, 1 by 2 inches each.

Suggestions for wildlife water needs

Craig Rosenbaum

County Agent's Report

Texans are increasingly aware of the scarcity of water in their state. Some species of wildlife have been experiencing water shortages in Texas for a long time.

Some animals in arid southwest Texas, particularly reptiles, can manufacture water within their body (metabolic water). Many animals, such as deer and quail, normally meet their water needs from dew on the surface of their food and the moisture within their food (succulence). Other animals, including pheasant, turkey and dove, must drink water daily. During very dry periods many animals, that normally obtain moisture from dew and succulence, must drink water regularly for survival.

Around our homes, bird baths are excellent for providing supplemental water to songbirds and squirrels. Farm ponds and stock tanks water wildlife, as well as domestic livestock. Faucets can be installed in steel water tanks to drip water into a mortar lined depression in the ground. When pastures are being deferred or rested, windmills should remain operational to maintain overflow areas, which are excellent wildlife watering sites.

Soil Conservation Service personnel at Gainesville provide assistance with the development of wildlife watering facilities, such as "gallinaceous guzzlers," which have been used for many years in arid sections of the West. Devices need not be elaborate and expensive - just provide a small pool of reliable water at ground level particularly during the dry, summer months.

Pollination is very important for seed yield in legumes like alfalfa, clover, vetch, etc. Equally important is pollination for vegetable crops like squash, cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons and many more. Pollination of these vegetables is dependent largely on insects, especially bees for good size shape, quality and seed production.

There are three large groups of pesticide groupings according to their relative hazard to honey bees. Those insecticides in group I are Highly Toxic and include some common pesticides such as Sevin, Orthene, Guthion, Dursban, Diazinon, Vapona, Lindane, Malathion (wetable powder or ULV), Lannate, Parathion, Permethrin and Baygon. Malathion, a commonly used insecticide, can cause heavy bee losses and applications should be made in the evening after bees forage.

Group II are those pesticides that are called Moderately Toxic and should not be applied when bees are working in fields. Apply them in the late evening using correct dosage and timing to limit bee losses. This group includes the insecticides Thiodan, Malathion (EC) and Zolone.

Group III are insecticides that are considered Relative Non-Toxic. These materials can be used with little precaution toward bees. However, applications still should be made in late evening or early morning when bees are not foraging. Some common examples are Bacillus Thuringiensis (Biotrol, Dipel, Thuricide), Bordeaux mixture, captan, copper compounds, kelthane, maneb, methoxychlor, rotenone and sulfur.

Many more pesticides (insecticides and fungicides) are listed in these three categories. If you do not find the one you use, then give us a call for a further listing.

The following guidelines will help reduce bee losses:

1. Apply insecticides, if practical, before bees are moved into fields for pollination.

2. Where insecticides are needed, use materials least toxic to bees.

3. Make all applications when bees are not visiting the field. Evening or early morning treatments, between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m., generally are most satisfactory. Evening applications, after bees have left the field, are less hazardous than early morning.

4. Use spray or granular formulations rather than dusts.

5. Where it is necessary to use one of the insecticides in Group I or II, then notify the beekeeper so that he can make necessary arrangements to protect his bees.

6. Avoid drifting or spraying an insecticide directly on colonies. Heavy losses can occur in these situations. On hot evenings, bees often cluster on the front of the hives. Pesticide drift or direct spray at this time generally results in heavy mortality.

Hybrex 1030, MIT wheat varieties rated most resistant

Diseases were fairly prevalent on wheat this year contributing to a loss in yield to county farmers. During April we rated the wheat varieties for the presence of the diseases: powdery mildew, Septoria, leaf spot and leaf rust. The following chart shows that rating as of 4-8-85.

The letter S (susceptible), MR (moderately resistant), and R (resistant) are used to denote the presence or lack of infection in these three fungal diseases.

Variety selection is becoming more important as a tool to increase yield through the genetic selection within plants to ward off disease. Many factors should be considered which include yield potential, disease resistance, hard and soft price, and other cost influencing factors.

energy answers from the Texas Energy Extension Service

What role, if any, does humidity play in increasing or decreasing comfort during summer and winter temperatures? H. G., Waco.

Relative humidity is indeed an important environmental element which can make us more or less comfortable. The human body senses increased humidity as a warming effect and decreased relative humidity as a cooling effect.

You can control relative humidity to offset higher or lower indoor temperatures. If you lower relative humidity in summer, you may be comfortable at higher indoor temperature settings. Conversely, if you increase humidity levels indoors in winter, you may lower the thermostat and still be comfortable.

You can lower summertime humidity with a dehumidifier or a properly sized central cooling system.

In winter, a humidifier can increase levels of humidity for comfort.

I am getting ready to replace the single pane, sliding glass door to my patio with a thermal pane, non-sliding wooden patio door. Will this measure be eligible for the energy tax credit, and if so, how much is the tax credit? E. R., Commerce.

A thermal door such as the one you have described is eligible for a federal tax credit of 15 percent of the first $2000 spent, or a maximum of $300. Costs that can be considered include the doors themselves, labor, and materials required for installation, such as caulking or weatherstripping.

The tax credit is in effect through the end of 1985.
