

The identity of the man who will lead the return expedition to the Philippines is doubtless known only to the American high command. Many of us like to think the honor will go to General MacArthur, just so he can enjoy the satisfaction of showing those yellow runts what happens when the Yanks face them in a fair fight.

Regardless of who leads the expedition, you can take it for granted that a prominent member of the party will be Major General Basilio J. Valdez, chief of Staff of the Philippine army and one of MacArthur's companions in the exodus before the fall of Corregidor. Like his commander, he was ordered to withdraw and fight another day.

Since then General Valdez has spent most of his time in the United States, preparing for the big event that will free his beloved people. And, if his intimacy with General Marshall carries any special significance, he will also have a big hand in shaping the campaign plans.

General Valdez has just completed a several weeks stay here at Fort Sill, brushing up on the more recent developments in Field Artillery. During those weeks he made himself popular. Men enjoy his beaming smile, his snappy stride, his friendly attitude. Busy as he was, he could find time for a compliment or a pleasant word to a private.

A medic in World War I, he hasn't quite got out of that department. During the battle of Bataan he frequently helped care for the wounded when the staff doctors were rushed. No doubt that love for his old profession and his solicitude for wounded men explains why his hatred for the Japs was so greatly intensified by their bombing of field hospitals.

Before leaving Sill the general addressed an assembly of officers. What he had to say was substantially the same as we have read and heard many times. But the way he said it was different. There was pride in his voice as he told of Americans and Philippines standing against overwhelming odds. There was affection in his mention of personal friends in distant sections of the islands who are, he hopes, still harassing the enemy with guerrilla warfare. There was intensive feeling in his account of Manila, mercilessly bombed after it had been declared an open city, and of that hospital incident when the Nips said "so sorry" and then came back to finish the job.

There was a lump in his throat as he eloquently stated that the suffering and death on Bataan was not a symbol of defeat but another page in the glorious history of his people, a heritage to be commemorated through the ages and an inspiration to drive the intruders into the sea. Though he did not say it, one could tell from the way he spoke that his heart is back in the islands and his one thought is to take a part in the campaign of deliverance.

A spirit like his, plus news like that coming lately from the South Pacific, plus a story like that recently sent out of Attu leaves no doubt in our minds regarding our fiasco with the Japs. We have everything that counts while they are handicapped by fanaticism and imbecility.

It is doubtful whether another soldier anywhere else in the world would be so dumb as to commit suicide on the battlefield. Suppose the situation is hopeless, if a soldier is so all-fired anxious to die for his honorable emperor he can reach the same end and accomplish a lot more by fighting on. Or is it because the Jap can die more honorably with his mid-section torn open? And that's the kind of people we are supposed to fear!

A little item in the paper says "Scientific wizards in the dehydration and preservation of foods foresee the day when housewives will order Sunday and 'company' dinners in a package, heat the pre-cooked contents, and serve. No more drudgery in the kitchen. For which lusty cheers go up from millions of feminine throats. But the old-time American kitchen will stay. There will always be a demand for pots, pans, skillets, and roasters. The new-fangled way of getting dinner will be immensely popular, but don't sell off your range and utensils yet."

Amen! says Con. Don't sell! Don't figure too much on dehydrated foods, at least not until you sample them. Then, if you

FARMERS' INCOME TAX IS EXPLAINED BY COUNTY AGENT

Here are some points on the pay-as-you-go Federal Income tax plan which may help farm folks understand how it operates. The law went into effect on July 1.

First, says A.S. Brient, County Agent, it is not a tax revenue bill. It is merely a collecting device changing the time and method of paying your income taxes. The tax revenue bill passed last year and the Victory tax, which began January 1, still are in effect.

Brient reminds farmers' eligible to pay income tax of one requirement of the law which affects them especially. They must file an estimated income tax return on or before December fifteenth, 1943. And, by the way, a farmer under the law is one who obtains at least eighty per cent of his gross income from farming. On this return a farmer's permissible deductions as well as his taxable income, both for income and Victory tax, will be calculated. Forms for this return are now available. All taxes paid so far this year will be credited to payment of the 1943 income tax.

"Forgiveness" of the 1942 tax in all or part has been a bit confusing. But here's a simple way to figure it out. First calculate the tax on this year's income and compare it with last year's. The smaller tax, under the law, is the one in which all or part of the tax is "forgiven." If the smaller tax is less than fifty dollars, then all is cancelled. If it is more than fifty dollars, then the seventy-five per cent is abated. The higher tax is considered this year's tax and has to be paid in full on December fifteenth. The twenty-five per cent of the lesser tax is due in two installments, on March fifteenth, 1944, and March fifteenth, 1945.

Farmers should begin now to gather facts for their income tax. Records are especially valuable.

Coca Cola Jimmy Retires
Jimmy Clements, the genial fellow who has been driving into Muenster every Wednesday for the past 13 years in his big yellow and red truck to distribute Coca Cola to local business houses, did not make the usual rounds this week. He has retired from this work to devote all his time to his farm near Gainesville. He is being replaced on the route by B. Bryant.

Parish School Teaching Staff Is Complete

Public School Faculty Still Incomplete; Will Not Operate Busses

With the arrival of several Benedictine Sisters this week the teaching staff for the Sacred Heart parochial school is complete for the coming term which opens Sept. 13.

According to Sister Anastasia, mother superior, teachers for grades one to eight are the following in the order named: Sisters Genevieve, Anastasia, Gebharda, Theophane, Xavier, Michael, Remigia and Gertrude. The High School instructors are Sisters Geraldine, Paula and Georgia.

This year finds four new teachers, Sisters Theophane, Xavier, Remigia and Georgia on the staff, and Sister Michael returns after an absence of two years.

Sister Ursula, last year's fourth grade teacher has been assigned to Wiener, Ark., as has Sister Bertha, former second grade teacher who left Muenster last year for the first time in 30 years. Sister Lucy will be stationed at Blytheville, Ark. Sister Charles at Paragould, Sister Ignatia at Jonesboro, and Sister Gerarda, taking a special course in St. Louis, will not teach this season.

The public school staff is still incomplete, the board stated Wednesday, but it is taken for granted that final arrangements will be made with two more instructors to fill the present vacancies before classes begin on the 13th.

Announcement was made Wednesday by the trustees that this season the school busses will not operate, until further notice.

Doyle Blodgett, school principal, moved to Muenster last week and will be at home in Mrs. Meurer's house, west of the Schnitzer place, as soon as it is vacated. Since his arrival he and his wife have been living in the home economics building at the school.

Miss Eufreda Luke and Mrs. L. Burchfiel are the other two teachers signed up for the year.

$15,000 LOSS IS SUSTAINED IN FIRE AT GAINESVILLE

Damage estimated at $15,000 was caused by a fire which swept several buildings and rooming houses in the 400 block on North Commerce and Dixon streets in Gainesville last Thursday evening.

The blaze, termed the worst in Gainesville since the $35,000 fire that destroyed the Gainesville junior high school in March, 1936, left between 25 and 35 families homeless.

The fire was discovered about 6:30 p.m. in a hay storage shed on the Dixon street side of the block and it was 9:30 before the blaze was brought under control by the city's volunteer fire department, aided by a company of firemen from Station No. 1 at Camp Howze, and scores of soldiers who volunteered their services.

Heaviest loser in the fire was Gettys Furniture Company. The store owned by C.C. & J.L. Gettys carried a stock of furniture valued at $8,000 and insured for $2,500, which was said to be almost a total loss. The store occupied two buildings damaged to an estimate of $3,000, with no insurance carried.

Other buildings lost were the St. James rooming house and Floyd Murrell lumber yard and feed store while the R & M hotel, and a Heely-Selly laundry were damaged by water but suffered no fire loss.

Only one person was injured fighting the fire, a soldier sustaining a cut on the hand which was given first aid treatment.

Buildings and houses in the vicinity were saved by soldiers who volunteered their services by scaling roofs and dousing sparks and embers while firemen were engaged in fighting the fire.

Most of the families homeless were soldiers' wives. They were taken care of by the Cooke County Red Cross Chapter.

Proclamation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Proclamation

RECOGNIZING THE FACT that in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of September, 1943, the Third War Loan shall be launched.

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby invoke every citizen to give all possible aid and support to this Third War Loan drive, not only so that our financial goal may be reached, but to encourage and inspire those of our husbands and fathers and sons who are under fire on a dozen fronts all over the world. It is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan he has an opportunity to express voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the extent to which he will "back the attack."

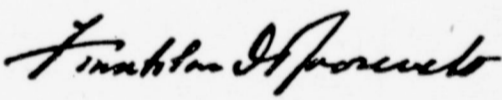

The American people supported well the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them. Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-eighth.

SHOCK TROOPS in the Victory Garden . . . WORMS

Worms are the original shockers as far as the beginner in gardening goes. Worms exist apparently with only one purpose in life and that is to eat. As fast as possible and grow as rapidly as possible in order to pass on into the adult stage. Not many types of worms live and die in that stage but soon pass through a transition stage and become butterflies, moths, beetles or other very different forms of insect life.

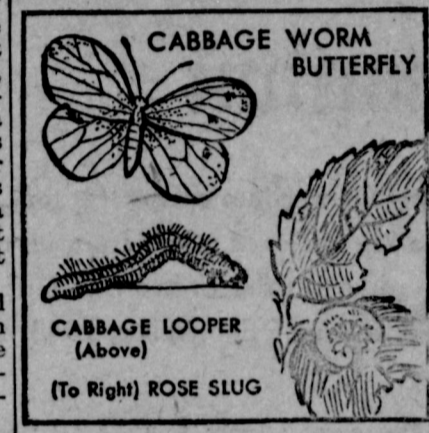

Some of our prettiest millers or moths grow from worms. The cabbage butterfly is a beautiful sight when a bevy of them are fluttering around the garden, their white wings decorated with several black spots, but between flutters every female butterfly is laying eggs which will soon hatch into heavy eating green worms that riddle the cabbage heads. The potato bug at one stage is a reddish brown worm, while the best beetle passes a considerable portion of its life as a lowly worm. A number of insects such as leaf hoppers, squash borer and the like pass through what is called the nymph stage, which is a worm for all practical purposes, at least as far as efforts to combat it are concerned.

Corn borers are worms that drill into the stalks and ears of corn but not to be confused with the corn ear worm that eats the kernels although both are highly destructive.

Fortunately the worm problem can be handled with poison sprays especially if spraying is started in time to catch the young worms as they hatch out. Most worms can be killed with lead arsenate and the young plants should be kept well protected by a covering laid on with regular spraying. Keep the plants covered. If it is a rainy season more spraying will be necessary than in a dry year. The important thing is to kill each worm before it has time to grow to any size. This cuts off loss of growing plants by getting rid of pests early before the worm has grown large enough to cause extensive damage. The young and tender worm is also a lot easier killed than a full grown one. In fact in some kinds the only way to kill them is to catch them young.

While spraying for aphids with Black Leaf 40 great devastation is caused among the young worms on the plants, in fact the use of this contact spray will often give control of the worm situation if the spraying is done early and often and at the same time the sucking insects are also destroyed.

In the case of vegetables such as snap beans, cabbage and the like care must be taken to eliminate spraying, some time before the product is to be used, with any insecticide containing a poison which will not evaporate or disappear from the edible portions of the plants. The job of protecting the crop in the later weeks must be left to a contact spray like Black Leaf 40. Asparagus tips that grow rapidly must not be sprayed with stomach poison during cutting time

For fear of human poisoning. The asparagus beetle can be controlled on the grown plants by a spray made of 1 pound of soap, 1 pound of lead arsenate and 15 gallons of water but on the young tips use Black Leaf 40 that kills the bugs and is soon gone leaving no chance for human poisoning.
For young worms Black Leaf 40 should be used stronger than for aphids. The worm spray should be as strong as 1 teaspoonful to a quart of soapy water. It will need to be applied a couple of times a week if worms appear in order to kill them as they hatch. Where this treatment is followed no trouble need be feared from aphids.

defendants W.F. Smith and Thad L. Klutts, and for general and special relief, in which it is alleged that the defendants Amelia Burrows Copeland, the unknown heirs of John Burrows, deceased, the unknown heirs of Robert Burrows, deceased, the unknown heirs of Henry Burrows, deceased, and the heirs of George Burrows, deceased, each own an undivided 1-20th interest in said land, the defendant Aud Burrows an undivided 1-80th interest subject to the life estate of the defendant J.M. Overton in 1-3 thereof, the defendants Ollie M. Knight, Homer J. Burrows, Dessie Burrows Alexander and Mrs. L.B. Ratliff and the other heirs of Jim Burrows, deceased, together an undivided 1-20th interest, and the heirs of W.W. Burrows, deceased, together an undivided 1-2 interest, a part of which is subject to an oil and gas lease covering an undivided 361-1440 interest owned by the defendant F.E. Case, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

War Workers Acquire Own Country Club

SALEM, MASS. — War workers here are enjoying their own private country club. When the former Peabody Country Club went on the market, several thousand workers, through their employe association, acquired it lock, stock and locker-room as a morale and health-builder.

Working three shifts a day making vital electronic devices for Sylvania Electric Products, one of the largest manufacturers of electronic and radio tubes and fluorescent and incandescent lamps, the employees make heavy use of their club after hours. The weather-browed, rambling club-house is within easy reach of the company's plants, and bicycles are a popular transportation method. Members pay from $6 a year for social privileges to $20 a year for family membership.

from weeding the garden to cutting the fairways, is a typically American cooperative venture, with management cooperating heartily. The short-order cook and soft drink dispenser is an amateur chef who is also a boiler-room man at the Saim plant, and the golf pro, George Thorpe, is an old hand in the "special products" division, where new products and new manufacturing methods are developed.

Below is a picture report of this morale-building, health-building mutual-aid enterprise.

OPENING DAY—Mayor Joseph O'Keefe of Peabody officially opens the club.

FOR VICTORY—Club members garden in between rounds of golf.

SAVING GAS—From plant to club is only a short bicycle ride.

IN TROUBLE—And Cassie Wozniak's friends think it's funny.

FORE—Phyllis Hollingworth gets away a clean iron shot.

CLEAN-UP—Golf over, party tonight, so Maude Clinch gets ready.

SOCIAL SESSION—The fireplace is a focal point for good times.

Convenience isn't enough to justify the use of that stuff. It has to be an emergency such as shipping to our troops and the starving countries abroad. The merits of dehydrated food are these and these only: It takes up a small fraction of the space required by regular foods. It does not require refrigeration and it helps to solve our present can shortage problem. You might say that dehydration is one of the reasons we are this far alone in winning the war. It enables us to get plenty food — and wholesome food — to our men in spite of limited shipping space. But that does not alter the fact that it tastes like hell.
