Weekly Update

Texas, November 7- Average retail gasoline prices in Texas have fallen 4.1 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.21/g yesterday. This compares with the national average that has fallen 2.9 cents per gallon in the last week to $3.43/g, according to gasoline price website TexasGasPrices.com. Including the change in gas prices in Texas during the past week, prices yesterday were 55.4 cents per gallon higher than the same day one year ago and are 1.6 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has not moved during the last month and stands 57.3 cents per gallon higher than this day one "The national average is just one penny away from being the lowest we've seen since the start of March, even as crude oil prices have risen," said Patrick DeHaan, GasBuddy.com Senior Petroleum Analyst. "Just in the last week, wholesale prices have moved 13 cents per gallon between the high and low, so it does remain surprising that average prices have moved very little," DeHaan added.

GasBuddy operates, TexasGasPrices.com, and over 225 other local gasoline pricetracking websites that fol-low prices at over 125,000 gasoline stations in the United States and Canada. GasBuddy also uses Facebook (facebook.com/gasbuddy) Twitter (twitter.com/gasbuddy), and phone apps to keep motorists ahead of changing gasoline prices.

Texas Crop & Weather

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by Panhandle Extension directors: The region was windy with near-average temperatures but no moisture. Soil-moisture levels were mostly short to very short. Corn harvesting was winding down. The cotton harvest was ongoing. Wheat planting continued. Rangeland and pastures were mostly in poor to very poor condition. Livestock producers continued supplemental feeding. Many were still reducing herds or looking for alternative feeds or grazing.

Words from Faith & Grace

In the twenty-second week of Pentecost, we learn of the Day of the Lord as we study Zephaniah 1: 7-18 Psalm 90: 1-8,12, 1 Thessalonians 5: 1-11, and Matthew 25: 14-30.

Zephaniah commands that the people "Be silent be fore the Lord God! For the day of the Lord is at hand!" The Day of the Lord will be a day of anguish, distress, ruin! The people's wealth in silver and gold will not save them from God's judgment. The people had hoped that the Day of the Lord would be the destruction of their enemies and the dawn of a new prosperity for God's Chosen People. Zephaniah says that they are wrong. What do we learn from this? We have nothing to offer to God but ourselves, our own feelings of self-sufficiency. We can only give that which God has first given us.

The Psalmist sings of God, humanity and time. God is great and has created us and all that we have. We fade into dust, but God continues forever. So if we live seventy years or perhaps eighty or more, this is a gift of God. We must learn to count our days that we may gain a wise heart and work for God's kingdom.

Paul tells the Thessalonians that the Day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night; yet, God is our answer for despair. The return of Christ will bring destruction for some but for those who put on the breastplate of faith and love, and the helmet of the hope of salvation in our Lord Jesus Christ, they shall live with him whether we are awake or asleep. Dear Christian, if we have lived our life in Christ, we are not unprepared to enter his real presence.

Jesus tells the parable of the three servants. A man going on a journey summons his three slaves and entrusts them with his property according to their ability One who is given five talents gathers five more; one who has two talents gathers two more; the one who has one talent, hides it, so he may return it to his master. When the master returns after a long time, he rewards the two faithful, working servants; he orders the worthless slave to be thrown into outer darkness. We learn from this that we must use all that God has given us for the sake of his kingdom. The only way to keep our gift(s) is to use it. The wise and faithful servant will be found working when the Master returns. The faithful servant visits the sick, visits the imprisoned, clothes the naked, and feeds the hungry.

May the Holy Spirit enable you to be a faithful servant so you may enter into the reward of your Master. Even so, come Lord Jesus! Maranatha!
