High Costs of Natural Gas Force Xcel Energy Bills Up

Escalating costs of natural gas ised at power plants to generate electricity are forcing Xcel Energy to ask Texas utility regulators to increase the "fuel cost recovery" portion of monthly bills for eight months, beginning in May.

Commission of Texas approves a request Xcel Energy filed yester residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electric service would see an increase of $1.05, or 1.7 percent, through December.

Commercial and industrial customers use larger amounts of energy, and would see higher percentage increases during the eight months, said David Hudson, Xcel Energy director of regulatory administration. The overall increase would be about 5

If costs of natural gas continue to stay high, or to climb, as is expected. Xcel Energy may ask for another increase, as well, Hudson said.

"Even with these potential increases, Xcel Energy's overall prices-for all classes of customers, everywhere we servewill continue to be among the lowest in the Southwest and even the nation," said Hudson.

Price comparisons on the PUCT's website. www.puc.state.tx.us, show Xcel Energy-served residences on average use 812 kWh at this time of year, at a price of $50.97. The average Xcel Energy residential bill is the lowest among the compared utilities. The highest comparable average bill is $94.57; the average among the utilities is $65.30.

The fuel cost recovery portion of an electric bill changes when boiler fuel costs increase or decrease. Under Texas law and regulations, utilities must pass through power plant fuel costs to customers on a penny-for-penny basis. When those costs to utilities go down, the suppliers must decrease their fuel cost recovery. When the costs go up, the cost-recovery factor also must go up. Utilities are prohibited from marking up or making any profit power plant fuels, Hudson noted.

Patterson Recognized By American Angus Association

Bailey Patterson of Spearman has been recognized nationally by the American Angus Association for having 2 registered Angus cows included in the Association's 2003 Pathfinder

Only 1,971 of the more than 35,000 American Association members are represented in this year's report, according to John Crouch, execuive vice president of the Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri,

"The Pathfinder Program identifies superior Angus cows based upon recorded performance traits that are economically important to efficient beef production. These traits include early and regular calving and heavy wean-ing weights," reports Bill ing weights," reports Bill Bowman, Association director of performance programs. "More than 1,250,000 eligible dams were examined to determine Pathfinder status. All registered Angus cows that meet the strict Pathfinder standards are listed. along with their owners, in the Pathfinder Report that is published annually by the Association.

The 2003 Pathfinder Report lists 7,980 individual cows and 228 Pathfinder sires. It is published in the April issue of the Angus Journal, and limited copies are available from the Association. The reports appear on the web site at www.angus.org. The largest number of Pathfinder cows from a single herd this year is 70. Started in 1978, the Pathfinder Program continues to recognize outstanding breeders participatng in Angus Herd Improvement Records (AHIR) Program.

March Is National Mental Retardation Awareness Month

Mental retardation is not something you "have", like brown eyes or a bad heart. Nor is it something you "are", like thin or tall. It is not medical or mental disorder. Mental retardation is a particular state of functioning that begins in childhood and is characterized by limitation in both intelligence and adaptive skills

Mental retardation is a disability characterized by significant limitations both in intellectual functioning and in adaptive behavior as expressed in conceptual, social and practical adaptive skills. This disability originates before the age of 18. A complete and accurate understanding of mental retardation refers to a particular state of functioning that begins in childhood, has many dimensions, and is affected positively by individualized supports. One out of 10 families are directly affected by mental retardation.

Adaptive behavior is the collection of conceptual, social, and practical skills that people have learned so they can function in their everyday lives. Adaptive skills include communication, self-care, home living, social skills, leisure, health and safety, nity involvement and work. The effects of mental retardation vary considerable among people, just as the range of abilities vary considerably among people who do not have mental retardation. Approximately 87% will be mildly affected and will be only a little slower than average in learning new information skills. As adults, they are capable of performing a variety of jobs.

The remaining 13% of people with mental retardation have serious limitations in functioning. However, with care in assessing their work skills and finding a job that matches their skills, even these individuals have demonstrated employment success.

People with mental retardation and related developmental disabilities can be competitively employed in their communities. The majority of our constituents are either unemployed or underemployed, despite their ability, desire and willingness to engage in meaningful work in the communi-

All Americans gain when people with mental retardation and related developmental disabilities are fully included in their communities and are given the opportunity to be gainfully employed, tax paying, contributing citizens.

Supported employment is paid, competitive employment for peo-ple who have severe disabilities and a demonstrated inability to gain and maintain traditional employment. It is a cooperative effort between the consumer and the employment specialist to secure and maintain employment in the community. Supported employment occurs in a variety of normal, integrated business environments

Prior to 1986, people with disabilities had few employment options. They were either unemployed or placed in segregated employment. Today, nationwide, there are over 105,000 individuals with multiple and profound disabilities experiencing independence, integration and empowerment in competitive, communitybased careers accessed through supported employment. Real employment provides an opportunity for long-term dignity, a chance at upward mobility, and an opportunity to break out of the perpetual problem of unemployment and underemployment.

The cost of placing an individual into competitive employment with support is approximately $4,200 compared to the $7,400 annual cost of keeping an individual in a day program. The percentage of people dependent on public assistance/disability benefits as their primary source of income drops dramatically as a result of participation in supported employment. The result is that 52% of a participant's primary income is their paycheck, rather than public assistance. Individuals participating in supported employment increased their annual earnings 490%.

Obviously, there is a great untapped reservoir of workers in this country - people with mental retardation and related developmental disabilities can work, they yearn for jobs. Employers may hesitate to recruit, hire and train individuals with mental retardation because they are not sure they know how to accommodate their disability. Supported employment programs and job coaches are there to ease the transition. The job coach assists the worker in learning the necessary job-related tasks and makes recommendations to the employer about suitable changes to the job to help accommodate the worker.

Vargas Named to Business Advisory Council

Esther Vargas displays the certificate honoring her with a National Leadership Award by the National Republican Congressional Committee.

Ester Vargas of Spearman has been named to the National Republican Congressional Committee's Business Advisory Council. The announcement was made by Tom DeLay, congressman and nouse majority leader, who also bestowed the National Leadership Award on Vargas.

While a member of the advisory council, Vargas will participate in surveys and conference calls as a resource person. As manager of the Spearman Allsup's Store, Vargas was eited by DeLay for her experience in running a business, meeting a payroll. and understanding cash flow.

"You will be a valuable resource as we address the issues that affect you and your business," DeLay said. "With your help, we plan to cut or eliminate capital gains taxes, permanently eliminate the Death Tax. simplify the tax code, eliminate useless regulations, and reduce bureaucratic red tape, and make health insurance more affordable for businessmen and their employees

The Business Advisory Council's role in the National Republican Congressional Committee is dedicated to giving small business a voice in the governmental process.

Vargas has also recently been named area supervisor of Allsup's Stores. The stores under her supervision include Booker, Perryton, Gruver, Spearman, and two stores at Canadian.

Programming, Staffing Changes at High Plains Public Radio

Nightly news coverage on High Plains Public Radio increased by a third on Monday, March 17 during the station's "All Things Considered"

"Listeners in our four-state broadcast region told us the wanted expanded regional and national news coverage during these important times," said Gordon Bassham director of regional news and public affairs programming on HPPR. "By starting All Things Considered an hour earlier, 4:00 pm central time, HPPR listeners now have more opportunity to stay in touch with emerging regional and world events. All Things Considered runs from 4:00 - 7:00 pm central time.

All Things Considered is a comprehensive news magazine produced by National Public Radio in Washington, DC, and by High Plains Public Radio in Garden City, Kansas, As the program's name implies, it treats hard news events and features with equal intelligence, said Bassham.

Bassham is a recent addition to the HPPR staff. He brings extensive experience in public radio news and information programming to High Plains Public Radio. A former news director at another Kansas public radio station, Bassham is a past board member of Public Radio News Directors, Incorporated. He has served as an editor on the Nationa Public Radio national news desk, and as a reporter for NPR, the BBC and Canadian Broadcasting Corporation on a number of national news stories. Bassham's role in launching the civic journalism movement in the 1990's earned him the coveted Corporation For Public Broadcasting's Gold Award for Public Service in 1995.

The following story was sent to me by a very dear friend of mine. I hope you enjoy it.

The Whipping

There was a school with a class of students that no teacher had been able to handle. Two or three teachers had been run off from this school in one year by the unruly students.

A young man, just out of college, heard about the teacher opening and applied to the school.

The principal asked him, "Do you know what you are asking for? No one else has been able to handle these students. You are just asking for terrible headaches.

After a few moments of silent prayer, the young man looked at the principal and said, "Sir, with your consent I accept the challenge. Just

The next morning the young man stood before the class. He said to the class, "Young people, I came here today to conduct school. But I realize I can't do it by myself. I must have your help." One big boy, they called Big Tom, in the back of the room whispered to his buddies, "I won't need any help. I can handle that little bird all by

The young teacher told the class that if they were to have school, there would have to be some rules to go by. But he also added that he would allow the students to make up the rules and that he would list them on

This was certainly different, the students thought!

One young man suggested "NO STEALING." Another one shouted 'BE ON TIME FOR CLASS." Pretty soon they had 10 rules listed on the board.

The teacher then asked the class what the punishment should be for breaking these rules. "Rules are no good unless they are enforced", he said. Someone in the class suggested that if the rules were broken, they should receive 10 licks with a rod across their back with their coat off. The teacher thought that this was pretty harsh, so he asked the class if they would stand by this punishment. They agreed. Everything went along pretty good for two or three days. Then Big Tom came in one day very upset. He declared that someone had stolen his lunch. After talking with the students, they came to the conclusion that little Timmy had stolen Big Tom's lunch. Someone had seen little

Timmy with Big Tom's lunch! The teacher called little Timmy up to the front of the room. Little Timmy admitted he had taken Big Tom's lunch. So the teacher asked him, "Do you know the punishment?"

Little Timmy nodded that he did. "You must remove your coat", the teacher instructed. The little fellow had come with a great big coat on. Little Timmy said to the teacher, "I am guilty and I am willing to take my punishment, but please don't make me take off my coat.

The teacher reminded little Timmy of the rules and punishments and again told him he must remove his coat and take his punishment like a

The little fellow started to unbutton that old coat. As he did so, the teacher saw he did not have a shirt on under the coat. And even worse, he saw a frail and bony frame hidden beneath that coat.

The teacher asked little Timmy why he had come to school without a shirt on. Little Timmy replied, "My daddy's dead and my mother is very poor. I don't have but one shirt, and my mother is washing it today. I wore my big brother's coat so that I could keep warm."

That young teacher stood and looked at the frail back with the spine protruding against the skin, and his ribs sticking out. He wondered how he could lay a rod on that little back and without even a shirt on. Still, he knew he must enforce the punishment or the children would not obey the rules. So he drew back to strike little Timmy.

Just then, Big Tom stood up and came down the aisle. He asked, "Is there anything that says that I can't take little Timmy's whipping for him?

The teacher thought about it and agreed. With that, Big Tom ripped his coat off and stooped and stood over little Timmy at the desk. Hesitatingly the teacher began to lay the rod on that big back. But for some strange reason, after only five licks that old rod just broke in half.

The young teacher buried his face in his hands and began to sob. He heard a commotion and looked up to find not even one dry eye in the room. Little Timmy had turned and grabbed Big Tom around the neck, apologizing to him for stealing his lunch. Little Timmy begged Big Tom to forgive him. He told Big Tom that he would love him till the day he died for taking his whipping for him.

Aren't you glad that Jesus took our whipping for us?

May God bless and keep you; May He make his face to shine upon you, and be gracious to you; May the Lord lift up his countenance upon you, and give you peace. Numbers 6:24-26

Homicide at Farwell

This is another family story from the WPA Files in the Archives of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. In the Sherman County section, it is from an interview of Jesse Loomis (Mrs. Cline Gilbert) by Winnie Davis Hale February 28, 1941.

"I came to the Panhandle in1890 with my parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Loomis, my brothers, C.F. and J. E., and my sister Flora. We settled at Coldwater. My father plowed the first land in Sherman County and planted it in oats, which made a good crop...

My brother, J. E. was the second sheriff of the office. He served only one term--he was killed in office.

While he was spending the night in the home of friends at Farwell, the sixteen-year-old son of the family got into an argument with his father over the use of a horse. The boy who was high-tempered, told his father,"If I can't use the horse, I'll kill you." As he drew a gun, my brother said, "Aaron, you don't want to kill your father." The son then said, "All right. I'll just kill you." He and my brother were good friends, too. The case was tried at Canadian, but it was thrown out because of the boy's

My brother was buried in Coldwater with only a song and a prayer. My father conducted the services.

God, Grass, and Grit, the first Sherman County history book, adds some other details.

"The young man fired a shot from his revolver which struck Edward in the neck causing almost instantaneous death. He was killed January 29, 1893 at the age of 29."

We're all getting older of that there is no doubt

And we all have aches and pains older people talk about

Some of us are turning gray Some of us are getting larger Some of us can't get started without a

You'll all still Be older than me!

NO-FRILLS AIRLINES!

So many airlines are having financial troubles lately, that some of them are cutting costs to the point that it could affect your travel experience. Here's some helpful signs that you might have chosen a 'NO-FRILLS AIRLINE"!

- · They don't sell tickets, they sell chances.
- All the insurance machines in the terminal are sold out. · Before the flight, the passengers get together and elect a pilot.
- · You cannot board the plane unless you have exact change
- · Before you took off, the stewardess tells you to fasten your Velcro
- · The pilot asks all the passengers to chip in a little for gas. · When they pull the steps away, the plane starts rocking.
- · The pilot has to yell at the ground crew to get the cows off the
- · You ask the pilot how often their planes crash and he says, "Just
- · You see a man with a gun, but he's demanding to be let off the
- · Half of the bathroom area has been converted into a chapel. •There's no movie - you don't need one. Your life keeps flashing

Texas Businesses Have April 15 Deadline for Filing Property Tax Renditions

The state Comptroller's office recently reminded Texas businesses to render their property with county appraisal districts by April 15. To render is to list the taxable inventory, furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment and other property that a business owned or managed as of January 1, 2003. Appraisal districts use the information to set property

Business owners and operators are required by law to file an annual property tax rendition, but any property owner-including homeowners, farmers and ranchers--may render their property with county appraisal districts. Rendering allows property owners to record their opinion of their property's value and ensures that the appraisal district sends them a notice before placing a higher value on their property.

If more than one appraisal district appraises a property, the property owner should render in each appraisal district office.

The Comptroller's office also announced that owners whose property was damaged by a storm, flood or fire last year may file a special decreased value report that could lower their final tax bills. Property owners have until April 15 to file the decreased value report, which indicates their property's condition on January 1, 2003.

For more information about rendering property, deadline extensions and rendition forms, taxpayers may contact their county appraisal district office, email the Comptroller's property tax division at ptd.cpa@cpa.state.tx.us or call the property tax hotline at 1-800-252-9121 for general property tax information. In Austin, call (512)305-9999.

Supporting Those

Several people have inquired about the mailing addresses for Hansford County servicemen and women. Several school classes and individuals are wishing to offer their support and thanks to these people during this time of conflict.

The Hansford County Reporter-Statesman is asking family members of ALL military men and women to submit the name, branch of service, rank, address, email, and location (if possible) for their loved ones. This list will be published and will also be distributed to the schools in Hansford County.

Please submit names even if the address has not changed. Names will not be released without permission from a family member.
