On beet crop

Disease study results good

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

The results of a four-year study at a Clovis research station on control of curly top disease in sugar beets will have tremendous impact on sugar beet production in this area, Bob Ginn, agriculture manager at Holly Sugar, disclosed this week. Ginn said the four-year study has shown that the virus disease can be controlled substantially with the application of one of two systemic insecticides which were tested at the research center.

"The studies of the New Mexico State University Plains Branch Station have shown that the placement of a systemic insecticide about six inches below the seed has been very effective in controlling the beet leafhopper and the virus disease," he said.

The systemic material used in the research was Di-Syston and Thimet, at the rate of one pound active material per acre. The procedure gave excellent protection until the plants reached their maximum resistance to the disease.

Equally effective results were obtained in grower application with either liquid systemic insecticide, with liquid fertilizer, or impregnated on dry fertilizer where these have been deep placed below the seed row.

"Curly top is not a disease that will be a problem every year, but you do not know if you have a problem until it is too late unless you have used preventive measures," Ginn said.

Ginn said the disease, if left uncontrolled, can reduce sugar beet production by as much as 50 per cent.

"This 50 per cent is really a conservative estimate," he said.

The virus disease is transmitted to the sugar beet by the beet leafhopper, so the key to the control of the disease is the control of the insect, he said. The variety of seed furnished to the Holly growers has resistance to the disease, but the problem is that the plant does not reach its maximum resistance until about the first of July in this area.

"If we can control the beet leafhopper until then, the disease will have little effect on the crop," he said. "And with this placement of systemic insecticide, we can do it."

Last year, a Clovis sugar beet grower treated part of his crop and left part of it untreated with the insecticide. His report stated he got a return of about $100 per acre more on his treated area than he did on the untreated.

Other methods of application of both Di-Syston and Thimet also have been used in the control of the beet leafhopper. The material can be injected into

Asks for civic involvement, support

Kiwanis head makes visit

The president of Kiwanis International, in an official visit to the Texas-Oklahoma District here Tuesday, told more than 700 persons at the Bull Barn that civic clubs of the world must take a firm stand to "tide the threats against our countries."

T. R. "Ted" Johnson of Denver, Colo., told a three-state audience that "our work is cut out for us. The problems of peace - at - any - cost - demonstrations, drug addiction, pornography and breakdown of law and order are complex and frustrating."

"But, they are not impossible to solve," Johnson said.

The crowd in the Bull Barn was the largest he has spoken before, Johnson said.

Johnson pointed to one of the Kiwanis projects undertaken this past year that contributed much to the welfare of the country. "Operation Drug Alert," an undertaking of the Kiwanis International clubs received high praise from the high ranking official as the greatest program ever.

"I regret we didn't get into it earlier. We will redouble our efforts. We cannot have our gulible young persons as pawns in the hands of the pushers," he said.

Eugene Brink, president of the noon Kiwanis Club, presented the welcome for the banquet. Two other high ranking officials of the Kiwanis organization also participated in the program. John Galloway, Lieutenant Governor of Division 12, led the

Athletes' moms work on banquet

Mothers of high school athletes are asked to be at the Community Center at 4:30 p.m. today.

They'll be working on plans for the All-Sports Banquet for Hereford High School, which the Whiteface Booster Club set Monday night for April 26 at the Bull Barn.

The speaker for the banquet will be announced later.

At Civic Center tonight

Lions choose new officers

The Hereford Lions Club has its annual Election at 7 p.m. today to name new officers for the 12-month period beginning July 1. The affair is in the Civic Center.

Melvin Jayroe and Lynton Alford are candidates for president, the feature race in a night of campaigning that highlights the Lions' year. It also will be ladies night.

A number of skits are scheduled by the various campaign managers.

The other offices, and the nominees for the positions, are: First vice president: Don Waters and Ed Wilson.

Second vice president: John Thames and Andy Anderson. Third vice president: Bill McCauley and John David Bryant.

Secretary: Wayne Lady and Albert Ricketts.

Treasurer: Lester Rape and Nolan Grady.

Lion Tamer: Jim Hale and Homer Garrison.

Tail Twister (two): Pat Hughes, Joe Shollenbarger, Virgil Walker and Charles Skinner. Directors (two): E. W. Young, Sam Ratcliff, Bill Brady and Arthur Robinson.

The tail twisters are the ones who "keep order" at Lion meetings, assessing 10 cents fines to those who disturb the peace by spinning plates, forgetting to wear their pins, etc.

"If I get elected, the first one I'm going after is my campaign manager," warned one candidate for tail twister.

Pledge of Allegiance and Todd Brown, governor of the Texas-Oklahoma Circle - K organization gave the invocation.

Johnson and his wife arrived at Amarillo Airport Tuesday and were greeted by a delegation of the Chamber of Commerce Hereford Hustlers. He was hosted at a reception prior to the banquet.

Representatives from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma attended the fete. Delegations were introduced from Brownfield, Dimmitt, Lubbock, Levelland, Plainview, Borger, Dumas, Guymon, Stinnett, Sweetwater, Snyder, Houston, Tucumcari, Clovis, Amarillo, Canyon, Pampa, Shamrock, Vega, Wellington, and Wheeler.

Police probe burglary

City police officers continued this week in their investigation of a burglary at the local Penneys warehouse where an undetermined amount of auto accessories were taken sometime during the weekend.

Penneys officials were unable to give a complete estimate on the value of the merchandise taken in the burglary. Most of the items taken from the warehouse at 110 Vera Cruz were tires and mufflers.

The burglary was discovered at 3:15 p.m. Monday by store employees. Officers who investigated the break-in said the burglars gained entrance into the building by knocking off the door knob of the west door.

The burglary occurred sometimes between closing time Saturday and when it was discovered Monday afternoon.

Where will DA office be?

The county's new criminal district attorney, after his election in two months, apparently will have his office on the ground floor of the courthouse, in the space now occupied by the Department of Public Safety driver's licensing office.

County commissioners met with Jim Ward, the DPS man in charge of the office, Monday and questioned him about his willingness to move to an office outside the courthouse, at least for the next couple of years or so.

A room on the ground floor now used on occasions by the county attorney, whose job will be merged into that of the criminal district attorney, is too small, commissioners said.

Ward agreed with the commissioners that that room would be too small for the licensing office to move into.

"We're in kind of the same position as beggars. We can't be choosy," Ward said. "We do want certain things to fit our needs."

The commissioners said it probably will come to the point in a few years that the library will be moved out of the courthouse into larger quarters elsewhere. When that happens, the licensing office could come back into the courthouse, they said.

"We'll have all the room we want if and when we move the library," a commissioner said.

The commissioners looked into the possibility of opening up the fourth floor for either the criminal district attorney or DPS licensing office but felt the traffic for either office would be so busy that a ground floor would be much better. Also, they felt the district attorney's office should be near the other law enforcement offices, which are situated on the ground floor.

Any move to the fourth floor, currently not in use, would necessitate extensive renovation at the cost of at least $30,000 to $40,000, Judge H. C. Williams said.

"That would be money thrown away, knowing that this other thing with the library is just around the corner," commissioner Donald Hicks said.

"We know you'd rather be in the courthouse, and we'd rather have you there, but we're in a bit of a spot."

Ward said his office probably will need more room in two or three years than it does now because of pressure on states by the federal government for some kind of re-examination on every license renewal.

Anytime someone comes to renew his license, he might have to take a written examination.

"I look for this in the next two or three years, and when it does come, we are going to need a lot of space. We may need to test 20 or 30 at a time," he said.

"We don't want any misunderstanding," commissioner Bruce Coleman said. "We do appreciate the service your office has given the county. But we have a space problem." The commissioners said they would be willing to pay at least a portion of the rent if the licensing office moves to another location.

Ward said the move probably would be more agreeable if it carries the understanding that the licensing office will move back to the courthouse when the library is moved elsewhere.

AUSTIN — Gov. Preston Smith this week signed into law the bill to create a criminal district attorney in Deaf Smith County and turned it over to Secretary of State Martin Dies to determine the filing dates for the May 18 election.

County Attorney Andy Shuval, whose duties will be merged into those of the new post, and Rex Easterwood, another local attorney, have said they will pay the $100 fee to run for the job.

Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo and Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake were on hand for the Monday signing by Smith. The bill won final passage in the legislature last week.

Dies was expected to have a letter to Smith with the filing date information by late Wednesday and the official proclamation was to be sent Wednesday or today to County Judge H. C. Williams in Hereford.

"I'm very pleased. I think that a criminal district attorney will be very beneficial to the county," Shuval said Wednesday about the official passage of the measure. "Law enforcement will be improved by having a criminal district attorney."

Easterwood, who held the county attorney job briefly on an interim basis after the resignation of John Aikin last fall, had similar feelings about the governor's signing the bill. "I'm glad to hear that," Easterwood said.

After the May 18 election results are certified, District Attorney Mike Metcalf of Dumas will lose Deaf Smith County from his jurisdiction, which now covers six counties. He will continue to serve Oldham, Sherman, Dallam, Hartley and Moore counties.

Dist. Judge Archie McDonald will continue to serve all six counties.

Another piece of legislation of key interest to Deaf Smith County — concerning a hospital district — also advanced in the Capitol.

Clayton said Wednesday a bill calling for an election on the question of establishing a hospital district in the county came out of committee and onto the House of Representatives calendar Monday in basically the same form as it was introduced.

It will be placed on the first local calendar of the House and should be voted on by that group within a week, Clayton said.

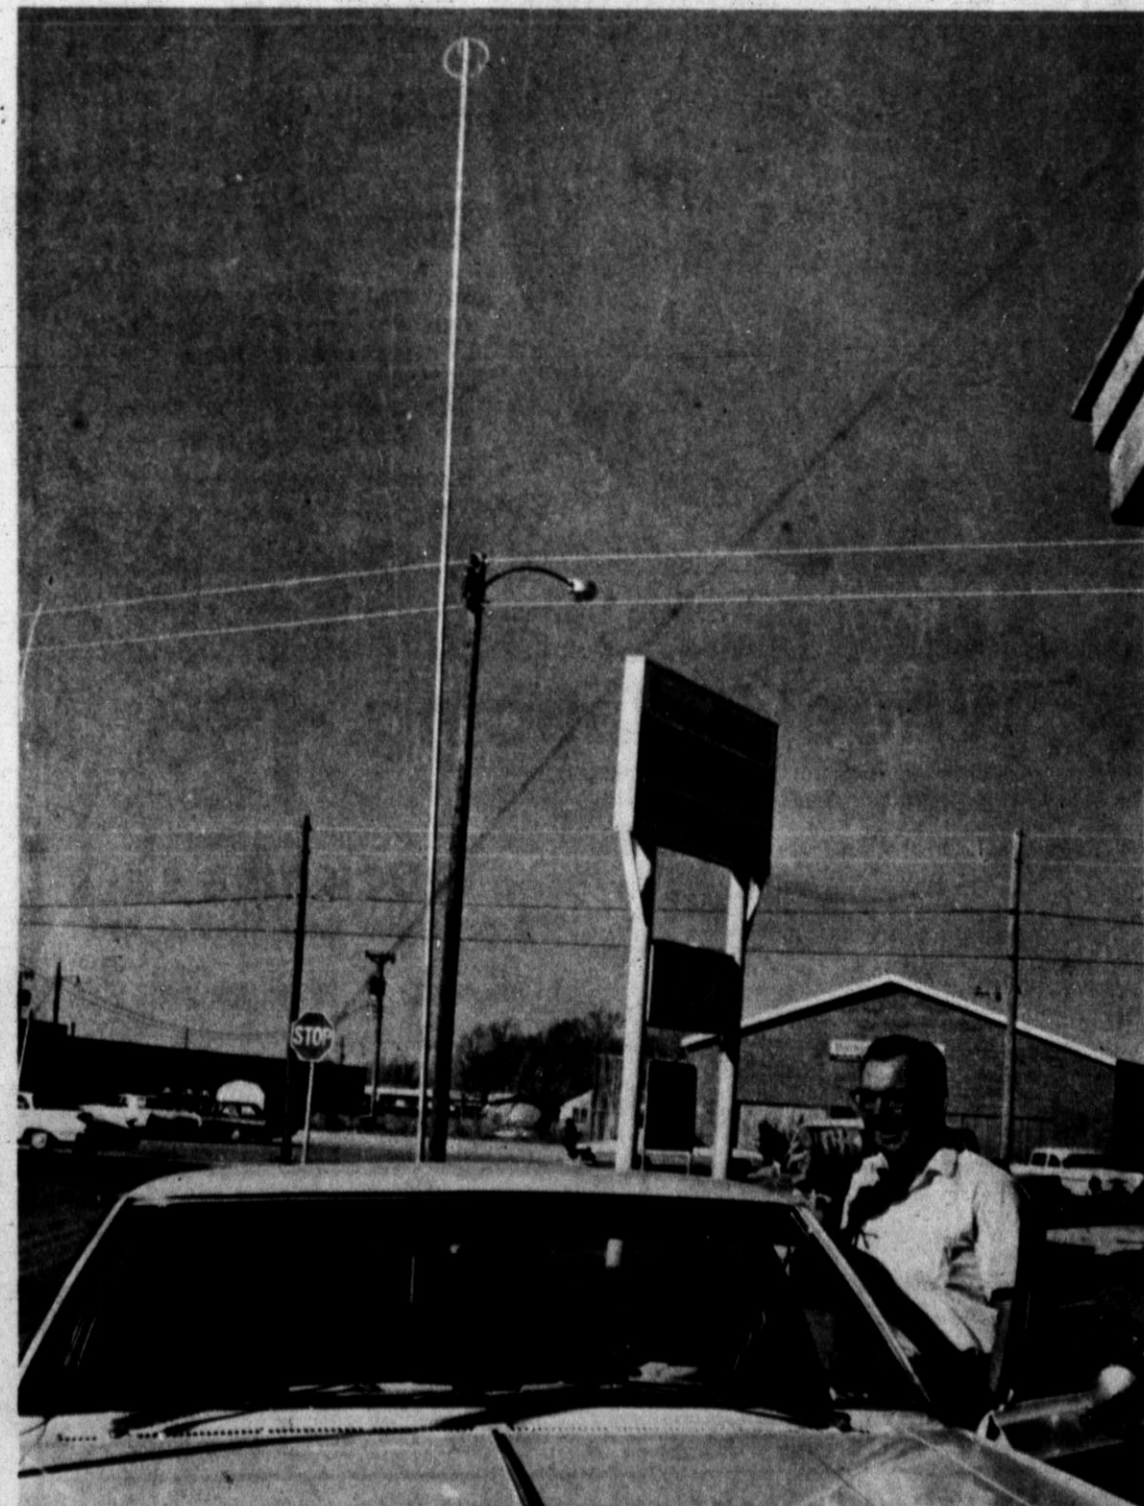

Sherman has said he will pick up the same bill and usher it through the Senate upon passage in the House.

Clayton's bill providing for the inoculation or vaccination for admission of children to child-caring institutions passed through the House Tuesday without a negative vote. But his bill which would allow county commissioners' courts to set salaries of most county officials and employes found tough sledding.

After two hours of debate on the subject, the legislature adjourned to take up the bill again Wednesday. Most of the Tuesday session, which ran without a letup from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., was given to debating a return to standard time in Texas. Clayton did not vote on the majority which chose to retain daylight savings time.

Two important bills came out of the Senate this week, with Sherman voting for one and against the other.

The liquor by the drink bill passed with only seven dissenting votes, one of which was Sherman's. Explaining his vote, Sherman said everyone of the counties which he represents went against the referendum. See SMITH Page Two

HIS OWN ANTENNA — J. P. Jones holds up his bean-can microphone to go with the 15-foot antenna he found rigged unsteadily to his car when he stepped out of his office one recent day. He always had remarked about how "important" people with their own car radio-telephone were, even saying he would work for free if he got one. Some friends obliged.

March has come and almost gone — and still no moisture. And apparently little prospects for any.

it "quits raining". We note too that some of our neighboring counties are contemplating applying for federal disaster relief.

Hmmm. Wonder if we could get the yard and garden qualified for the program?

—HB—
We were duly impressed with the turn-out for the banquet honoring T. R. "Ted" Johnson, president of Kiwanis International. Mr. Johnson spoke to a crowd of around 750 Kiwanians and other interested guests at the Bull Barn Tuesday evening, and left little doubt in the minds of the visitors that he "likes Hereford" and the people who live here.

Actually, the affair may well have been bigger than either the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet or the Beet Growers annual bash. But whether it was or not really doesn't make that much difference. The thing is, there were a lot of people who traveled many miles to come to Hereford to honor the visiting dignitary and to enjoy the evening.

—HB—
The longer we live in this community, the more we realize that the decision to remodel the Bull Barn was wise. It is the only place in town large enough to handle a crowd like the Tuesday night Kiwanis banquet, and it now appears that we're going to continue having two or three such affairs every year. It has been well worth the time, trouble and money it took to get it "dressed up".

—HB—
Our comments in this column last week concerning Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher's apparent vote of confidence, brings the following newspaper clipping from Austin. The article, written by THE BRAND'S Austin correspondent Betty Hanna, was published in one of the downstate paper. We think you might be interested in the comments made by some of the house members. We quote:

Although the stock scandal situation blazes in headlines less frequently lately, it still continues to smolder unceasingly in the Capitol.

This week it flared up again when Representative Frances Farenthold tried to force a resolution asking for the legislature to investigate involvement of state officials in the National Bankers Life stock controversy. She ended up with only 28 votes on her side.

Does this mean that most of the legislators do not want their leaders investigated? And if they do, why did they vote against this resolution?

Several house members gave me their answer to that, and they made a convincing argument. Here is their cumulative answer:

Yes, we want an investigation, but this is not the way it should be done. Because:

1. The manner of introducing the resolution was unconstitutional, and if we are to work under proper legislative procedures, we cannot operate this way.

2. Mrs. Farenthold's resolution provided that she be the chairman of the committee to investigate, and this was not only against the rules of the house, but she is not held with respect as a legislator by the majority of the members of the house.

3. Such action would disrupt the working procedure of the house, which is essential. We must have a speaker to get things done, and if our elected speaker is thrown out during the session, the whole process will fall through.

4. The courts are already investigating it.

5. The senate already has a committee investigating it.

6. The house does not have time to investigate it because we are already up to our ears in legislation that must be taken care of during this session.

Mexican statute loses its bikini

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — A beautiful statuesque Mexican woman who once caused a controversy because she was nude and then another one because she was "overdressed" with a bikini, today goes almost unnoticed even though she's back in her natural state.

"Diana the Huntress," is her name, although Juan F. Olaguibel, the statue's sculptor, says she is "The Archer" and represents Mexican womanhood rather than the mythological woman of the chase.

It would be hard to argue that Diana does not symbolize the beauty of Mexico's tanned senoritas because Olaguibel skillfully captured the ecstatic loveliness of 18 models in the bronze work.

When he was commissioned to create the statue it was agreed Diana would be nude. But this was in 1942 while the country was going through a puritanical period and the nation's first lady at the time, Mrs. Soledad Orazco de Avilla Camacho, felt such a statue would be "immoral." She insisted that Diana wear underpants and have a shawl draped over her upper body.

Olaguibel resisted strongly, but finally agreed that Diana would be clothed. However, when she was placed atop a three-tiered fountain in the center of a traffic circle, or "Glorieta" as such things are called here, she was attired in a skimpy two-piece modern day bikini.

What was not common knowledge at the time was that the sculptor had added the garments to the statue so that one day they could easily be removed. At the time, he vowed he would never go near the statue as long as she was "dressed."

The President's wife wasn't overly pleased but the artist to an extent had covered the embarrassment some people felt.

"There's nothing immoral about the statue," Olaguibel argued strongly for years, "The only immoral thing about it was the loincloth."

To him, Diana represented "a woman free of prejudices," although many looked at her simply as a woman without clothing.

For 25 years she continued to wear the added apparel while holding a pulled bow in her hand. Originally, she also held an arrow whose trajectory would have taken it directly to a statue of a male with outstretched arms a few blocks away. However, university students were blamed for removing the arrow and its subsequent replacements.

In 1967, as the city was preparing for the Olympic Games the following year, it was decided to repair damage done to the pedestal during a strong earthquake 10 years earlier.

Diana was carefully taken down, her bikini removed and she returned in her original nude condition Dec. 5, 1967 without fanfare.

Today she proudly stands for all on Paseo de La Reforma near Chapultepec Park minus her arrow and without her bikini.

DOROTHY MANNERS' Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — There's a new boy in town. Jan-Michael Vincent is his name.

He is vaguely reminiscent of Ryan O'Neal when Ryan was just starting in "Peyton Place," which is to say blondish, boyish-faced but sexy-eyed, and a lot of good breeding on his form chart.

What Jan-Michael has going for him to date is "Tribes," the 90-minute movie of the week for ABC-TV which turned out to be such a smash that 20th Century-Fox is releasing it as a feature film. Previously J-M had made his first major screen appearance in "The Undeclared," with John Wayne, and his first TV splash in "The Survivors," which he wishes he hadn't.

Jan-Michael looks 18. He actually is 25. And he's married to the former Bonnie Fooman, whom he met at Ventura City College.

"We've been married over two years, although I suppose you might think the ceremony was not strictly orthodox," he said after driving in from his small farm in Malibu to the Cock 'n' Bull for lunch. "Bonnie and I were in Mexico when we decided to get married. We did not want a routine ceremony. We wrote what we wanted to say and had the service performed by an old Indian who is legally permitted to marry couples. So, you see, the way All MacGraw and Ryan O'Neal did it in 'Love Story' isn't original."

His blond hair is just beginning to grow out again after being shaved off completely for "Tribes." But he says, "Don't be fooled. I still think long-haired."

He makes no bones about having been one of the youthful rebels of the rebellious generation. "It wasn't that my childhood wasn't reasonably happy," he admits. "I had good parents. My dad (Lloyd Vincent) is a businessman, a former pilot in World War II. My mother is an understanding person. They encouraged me in whatever I wanted to do, which was art at the time. But I really couldn't find myself. I despised the idea of being drafted into the Army. So I took off for Mexico."

He loved the country, the villages and little towns. But the longer he stayed, the more clear it became to him that he would either have to return to his homeland and serve out his military duty, or stay in Mexico the rest of his life. He came home—to Fort Ord.

"My time in the service did not solve any of my inner problems. I was still in search of some meaning in my life." By chance, he met an important Hollywood agent, Dick Clayton. Clayton knows a good screen personality when he sees one. He asked Jan-Michael Vincent if he had ever thought of acting.

"I hadn't," Jim said, "but I began."

"The first time I stepped in front of a camera, I knew this was what I had been searching for," he says.

Next step was a contract at Universal, and is the main reason he cropped up in "The Survivors." With understandable reticence, he states, "I'd just as soon not talk about that."

What he talk about is his new two-hour movie for NBC, "Hide and Seek," which also is a pilot for a series to be called "The Catcher." He would do anything for the director, Burt Leonard ("Poppi"), whom Jan-Michael considers to be a genius. "It's absolutely fascinating to watch this man create, and believe me, CREATE is the word. No matter where I get in this business, if I get there at all, I'd always come back if Mr. Leonard wanted me."

Jan-Michael doesn't have much time for painting any more, which he did before he caught on as an actor. When he isn't acting, the Malibu farm and the horses, two monkeys, a German shepherd, a parrot, and Bonnie keep him pretty occupied. But he has not forgotten that he is a pretty good poster artist. "I just let it rest there in the back of my mind — just in case," he grins.

Mrs. Newsom speaks on Flag

Mrs. G. W. Newsom, in presenting a program on the American Flag for Lone Star Study Club members Tuesday afternoon, outlined etiquette of the flag, described when, where and how a flag should or should not be flown, gave its history and explained what each color symbolizes.

"Red stands for valor, zeal and fervency," said Mrs. Newsom. "White is for hope, purity, cleanliness of life and rectitude of conduct. Blue is the color of heaven and for reverence to God, loyalty, sincerity, justice and truth."

"The stars, one for each state in the union, symbolize dominion and sovereignty as well as lofty aspiration," she said. "The flag, representing the original 13 colonies and now 50 states, was born June 14, 1777 and is the third oldest national standard of the world."

Mrs. Newsom concluded by saying, "The flag has a message to the entire world of independence, individual liberty, idealism and patriotism. Nothing but the Bible can rest on the flag."

Mrs. R. G. Blue, vice president acting in the absence of Mrs. C. D. Kelton, president, presided over a brief business session during which the group made plans for a trip to Catherine Colony, an arts and crafts center near Amarillo.

Mrs. Jim Bookout was hostess. Other members in attendance were Mmes. Hardy Benson, V. E. Dodson, Jim Higgins, John Jacobson Jr., S. A. McCathern, C. O. Phillips, Ray Suit, S. S. Williams and Robert Thompson.

Veleda member presents review

Mrs. Hugh Clearman, a member, presented a book review for Veleda Study Club Tuesday evening, at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Gid Brown.

Summarizing William P. King's book, Search for Happiness, she quoted the advice, "There are two days you should never worry about; yesterday and tomorrow," adding the author's philosophy that "Whatever difficulties beset you, you can bear a little longer."

A change in the date of the next meeting was made in the business period, with Mrs. Gwynne Owen presiding. Instead of Apr. 13, it will be held Apr. 6 in Mrs. Owen's home. Mrs. Brown is in charge of the program, to be given by Gabriele Lottner and Samim Aydin, American Field Service students.

Members present included Mmes. Red Durham, Richard Ottesen, George Ritter, James Trail, Bill Bradley and George Olson.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Passing the Pedal Pusher

Motorists today are sharing our streets and highways with more than 60 million bicycle riders, an all-time high. As never before, a driver must be alert to his legal responsibilities as he passes his slow and silent companion of the road.

The law's Number One Rule is that a motorist must make fair allowance for the vagaries of bicycle riding. Take this case:

A driver saw a bicyclist ahead of him on the highway, wobbling noticeably. It seems that the rider was steering his bike with one hand and balancing a rake over his shoulder with the other. Nevertheless, the driver neither slowed down nor steered to the left. At the last instant, the bicyclist lurched into his path and got hit.

Was the driver guilty of negligence? A jury decided that he was indeed, for failing to adapt his driving to a danger he should easily have foreseen.

Still, motorists are not expected to do the impossible.

Another case also involved a bicycle that swung across the path of a car. But this time, the accident occurred on a dark night, the bicycle had no lights, and the rider was wearing dark clothing from head to toe.

Under these circumstances, the court saw no reason for blaming the motorist. The court said he could hardly be expected to notice someone who was so nearly invisible.

Furthermore, the bicyclist himself has the responsibility of handling his own vehicle, with care.

One rider, pedalling around a bend, crashed into a car that was parked at the curb. Painfully injured, he decided to put in a claim against the owner of the car. He based his case on the fact that the car had been parked in a no-parking zone.

But the court refused to let him shift the blame for what was really his own fault. The court said:

"A bicycle rider has the same duty as any other vehicle operator—to keep it under such control that he can avoid collisions. He cannot, willy-nilly, run into a standing vehicle and (expect to) recover damages."

Graveside rites held for infant

Graveside funeral services for Corby Robert Knox, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Brant Knox of Amarillo, were conducted by the Rev. Russell Wingert, Presbyterian minister, in West Park Cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Burial was directed by Gilliland Funeral Home.

The day-old baby died Sunday in an Amarillo hospital. In addition to the parents he is survived by a sister, Stephana, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Debs Knox of Hereford, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bresnahan of Amarillo.

Q. — I plan on finishing an attic with gypsum wallboard, the kind with the plain edges. I understand there is a particular way to fill the joints between the sheets of wallboard so that there is a single continuous surface. Can you tell me how this is done?

A. — First, it is better to apply the long dimensions of the gypsum boards at right angles to the studs, since this usually reduces the amount of joints to be concealed. Nails should be spaced up to seven inches apart and never less than 3/8th of an inch from the edges or ends of the boards.

Use a crown-faced hammer so that the last blow against the nailhead produces a slight dimple in the board. As each nail is driven in, the area of the board immediately surrounding the nail should be held tightly against the framing.

In filling the joints, use a putty knife about five inches wide, along with a special perforated tape and adhesive purchased from the dealer who sells you the gypsum board. Using moderate pressure, spread the adhesive into the channel. Lay the tape into the adhesive, centering it over the joint. Cover the tape with a thin layer of adhesive. When that coat has dried, sand it lightly, then apply another thin coat. Repeat the sanding after the second coat, then apply still another layer of adhesive. This third and final coat, when dry, should be sanded with a very fine grade of sandpaper. Apply adhesive into the dimples around the nailheads and, when dry, sand to make everything level.

Q. — You recently recommended a commercial wood bleach to a reader. While I have no quarrel with that advice — and no question, either — I thought your readers might be interested in a home-made bleach I have been using successfully for years. Three separate solutions are made. An ounce of borax in one quart of water; three ounces of sodium hypochlorite in one quart of water; and three ounces of oxalic acid crystals in one quart of water. Apply the oxalic acid solution with a stiff brush. When this is partly dry, apply the hypo solution for the actual bleaching. When this is completely dry, wipe with the borax solution to get out any acid still remaining in the wood. Wait a day before applying any finish to the wood.

A. — This is the same bleaching system I have mentioned in the past. Thanks for recalling it to mind. However, I still feel that a do-it-yourselfer has less chance of making a mistake if he uses a ready-made bleach in which the ingredients are scientifically measured. But no matter what kind of bleach is used, it has powerful chemicals in it. That means working carefully, using rubber gloves and performing the task in an area where there is plenty of ventilation.

(Bleaching and other wood finishing techniques are explained in Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Knowledge, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Student prefers sunshine to rain

Putting Texas' sunshine above the frequent rainfall of Germany on her list of favorite things about Hereford, Gaby Lotner, American Field Service student from Nuremberg, Germany, compared also the customs, schooling and social life of our country and hers for members of El Llano Study Club Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Fete Caviness.

Miss Lotner's brother Michael is due to arrive for a 30-day visit in early April, said Gaby. Lotner is a practicing lawyer in Germany and will make his second trip to the U. S. to visit his sister and her American parents, the Wilbur Gibsons.

The group will make a trip to California to tour Disneyland during Easter vacation.

Co-hosting the meeting with Mrs. Caviness was Mrs. Jim Bookout. One guest, Mrs. Fain Cesar, was present.

El Llano met earlier this month for their annual husband's party at the Country Club for an evening of games and visiting.

In business Monday the group appointed a nominating committee for officers to be elected at the next meeting. They are Mrs. Ivan Block, chairman, and Mrs. Elmer Kimball and

Senior comedy will be staged Saturday night

Beginning at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, the three-act comedy, Cheaper by the Dozen, will be presented by Hereford High School's senior class Saturday. Tickets will be on sale at the boxoffice, priced at $1 for adults.

Based on a true story of family experiences, written by a daughter and son after they grew up, the play portrays incidents in a family with 12 children, especially the teenagers' budding love affairs, handicapped by a strict father and meddling small sisters and brothers.

Set in the Gilbreth home in a New Jersey city, action of the comedy takes place in the 1920's and the student actors will set the stage and wear costumes reminiscent of the period. Wayne Hodgson is directing.

Legislation changing scope of new colleges hits snag

Proposed legislation that would enlarge the scope of "upper level" colleges at Dallas and the Midland-Odessa areas caught heavy fire Tuesday from Wayne Thomas, in his role as chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

The Dallas facility is operating on a limited basis in temporary quarters and the other college is still on the drawing boards while both await official funding from the legislature.

Thomas said "all of the state-wide planning for higher education will be thwarted" if the two bills pass. They would unnecessarily duplicate existing programs and facilities for freshmen and sophomores in the board. "To just shuck it because someone has the excited notion we need to have a four-year institution is less than good planning."

Thomas said "all of the state-wide planning for higher education will be thwarted" if the two bills pass. They would unnecessarily duplicate existing programs and facilities for freshmen and sophomores in the two areas concerned, he said. Odessa College, a junior college, would be adversely affected to a serious degree, he said.

Thomas, a 42-year-old attorney, said UT-Dallas and UT-Permian Basin were created and approved upon the recommendation of the Coordinating Board specifically as upper-level schools, in keeping with a master plan for higher education in Texas that stressed the need for more junior colleges in the state.

The two new schools, he said, were envisioned as meeting the needs of those who complete junior college courses and desire to continue their education and as providing graduate education for those who held college degrees.

Rep. Richard Slack of Pecos introduced the bill to make UT-Permian Basin a four-year school, and Rep. Jack Blanton of Carrollton offered the legislation to enlarge the scope of UT-Dallas.

Mays, other WT runners, compete in Tech relays

Percy Mays, a standout on last year's Hereford High School track team, will run in the mile and two mile relays for West Texas State Saturday in the Texas Tech Mini-Relays in Lubbock.

Coach Bob Kitchens' young squad has been hindered by a lack of depth this season, but he hopes the injury bug will not hit this week. Because the Buffs don't have a great deal of depth, slight injuries have hindered their efforts in relays.

Four relays, the 440-yard, 880-yard, mile and two-mile, are slated Saturday.

Running on the spring relays (440 and 880) will be Larry Hughes, Tracy Dixon, Steve Cone and Bill Mason. Cone, Dixon, Mays and Harvey Hudspeth will make up the mile relay. Hudspeth, Mays, Jim Hogan and Randy Cole will compose the two-mile team.

Other teams entered are Texas Tech, McMurry, Eastern New Mexico University, Wayland, Lubbock Christian and Sul Ross.

Marsh play the parents, a couple widely known at that time as industrial efficiency experts. Gaby Lotner will be seen as the good-natured housekeeper, Wendell Albracht as the family doctor and Sara Bell as a stiffly proper teacher.

Other teams entered are Arizona, Arizona State, Bemidji State College, Colorado, Drake, Eastern New Mexico, Glendale Junior College, Hardin-Simmons, National Business College, New Mexico Junior College, New Mexico Military Institute, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Oklahoma City, Sul Ross, Texas Tech, Western New Mexico and Wichita State.

Buff golfers leave for NM tourney

Coach Vern Farquhar's West Texas State golf team left early Wednesday to compete in the New Mexico State University Intercollegiate Golf Tournament in Las Cruces, N.M.

The Buffaloes are playing with four freshmen, a sophomore and a junior. Ronnie Moxom of Borger, a transfer from Frank Phillips Junior College, is a junior and the squad's experienced player.

Bunky Preston of Amarillo is the team's only sophomore. Freshmen are Jerry Boeka of Amarillo, Steve Webb of Borger, Plainview's Mike Wells and Eddie Kilmer of Clovis, N.M. The tourney is set for 54 holes of medal play, starting Thursday. There will be 18 holes fired today, 18 Friday and 18 Saturday.

Other teams entered are Arizona, Arizona State, Bemidji State College, Colorado, Drake, Eastern New Mexico, Glendale Junior College, Hardin-Simmons, National Business College, New Mexico Junior College, New Mexico Military Institute, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Oklahoma City, Sul Ross, Texas Tech, Western New Mexico and Wichita State.

WT net squad goes to Denton

West Texas State's tennis team will carry a 10-2 season record into the North Texas State Invitational Team Tournament today, Friday and Saturday at Denton.

Included in the record is a 5-2 record over the host North Texas State team and coach David Kent expects rugged competition from the hosts in the return match. Other teams entered are New Mexico State and the University of Arkansas.

Leo Estopare will again play in the number one singles berth for the Buffs. He carries a 7-5 record this season. Paul Tobin, St. Louis junior, has a 10-2 mark and will play number two singles.

Mike Bolton has a 10-2 record as the number three player and freshman John Phillips is 9-1 in the fourth spot. Freshman Dale Corbin, recently moved in to the number five position, is 4-0 in the singles competition.

Now there's a new, small Pontiac with a small-car price for small-car lovers.

Wouldn't you know it would be fun to drive, stingy on gas, quick to service and built to last.

Of course you would. We wouldn't build a small car unless we figured it would give you more of what you want a small car for.

Take that low price. Ventura II is a small car, so it has a low, small-car price. But it's what you get for that small price that makes Ventura II worth a close look.

Ventura II is fun to drive. It should be, it's from the Wide-Track people. Which means you get a smooth, comfortable, Wide-Track ride.

The handling's quick. There's a nifty 111-inch wheelbase for easy parking. And both the 250-cu.-in. six and available 307-cu.-in. V-8 respond beautifully in city traffic or on the expressway

Ventura II is stingy with your gas money. Both the standard six-cylinder engine and the V-8 you can order run beautifully on regular gas or the new low-lead and no-lead fuels.

The carburetor on the six is an economical one-barrel, and the transmission for both six and V-8 is a practical 3-speed manual. Ventura II is quick to service. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll like fiddling around with the new Ventura II.

New twist-lock lamp sockets let you make changes in seconds. The engine is uncomplicated, and there is plenty of engine-compartment space, especially with the six.

If you ever need to have somebody else work on your car—well, you'll like Ventura II, too. Both the standard six and available V-8 are tough, time-tested designs. Same goes for transmissions. The standard 3-speed manual and the available 2-speed automatic, Turbo Hydra-matic or floor-mounted 3-speed are all rugged, dependable units.

Ventura II is built to last. There's nothing lightweight about this car. It's welded—not bolted—at hundreds of strategic points to help keep it light and quiet.

The body is heavy-gauge steel. And it has double paneling in the deck lid, hood and doors. You could probably sum it up best with three little words. Body by Fisher.

So, come on. If you're a small-car lover, stop by your Pontiac dealer's today. Tell him you want to see the new Ventura II. It's the small car that gives you more of what you want a small car for.

Don't forget to buckle up for safety.

Flying Queens defend title in cage tourney

AMARILLO — The Hutchinson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College will defend their Amarillo National Invitation title here tonight, Friday and Saturday in the Civic Center Coliseum. The third annual event is sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Owing a 23-2 season record and a 16-game winning streak, the Queens can match last year's string of 19 straight wins by sweeping the tournament, a feat they have accomplished for the past two years.

Young and short on size, the defending national champs rely on a balanced offensive attack, a pressing defense and good jumping ability.

Their only two losses of the year were to Ouachita Baptist in Arkadelphia, Ark., 45-43 and to the Raytown Pipettes in Kansas City, Mo., 64-53. Oddy enough, in the second game of both series, the Queens defeated OBU by two, 50-48 and Raytown by 11, 65-54.

The Queens open their title bid tonight at 8:45 against Temple Junior College, a team they have beaten by scores of 47-33, 55-39 and 68-33, the latter in the Houston Invitational Tournament which the Queens won earlier in the year.

Harley Redin, who has a record of 377-52 in 16 years of coaching the Queens, has only two seniors on his team. They are 6-0 center Wanda Roe and 5-7 forward Carolyn Dornak. Roe made the All-American team last year.

Joining them in the starting quint will be All-American Cheri Rapp, a 5-11 junior forward; All-American Susan Britton, a 5-8 junior guard; and either 5-6 sophomore Marcia Shieldknight, an Amarillo all-tourney selection last year, or former Tulia All-Stater Mary Williams, a 5-6 sophomore guard.

Rapp was MVP of the Amarillo Tourney and the National AAU Tournament last year and is the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

The Queens are averaging 58.2 points a game, only 1.5 under the all-time Queen record. Rapp has scored 259 points, Dornak 199, Britton 187, Williams 163, Roe 162 in 21 games as she has been out with a shoulder injury, and Shieldknight 82. Another top scorer is freshman guard Janice Beach, the all-time high scorer in Oklahoma history, with 124.

Only six opponents have scored more than 50 points against the Queens this season and the Wayland girls are holding foes to an average of 44.1 a game. On the other hand, the Queens have failed to score 50 or more points in only five games.

The team has a "regional" flavor as Rapp is from Esteline, Britton from Springlake, Shieldknight from Spearman, Williams from Tulia and sophomore guard Sherry Stark is from Quitaque. Four of the girls are from Oklahoma (Beach, Elmer; freshman center Kathy Dauphin from Moreland; junior guard Debra Martin from Altus; and sophomore forward Mayme Patterson from Burns Flat). Roe is from Atascosa, Dornak from Jourdanton and freshman center Carol Ammerman is from Corpus Christi. Miss Rapp's sister, Anne, is team manager.

Other first round games today will have McPherson College of Kansas vs. Seminole, Okla. Jr. College at 1 p.m.; Belmont College of Nashville, Tenn. vs. John F. Kennedy College of

Local track squad goes to Dumas

Coach Don Cumpton and his high school thinclads continue to gather momentum for the April 17 district meet in Lubbock as they test their abilities Saturday in the two-divisional meet at Dumas.

The Whitefaces won their third second place team trophy of the year here last weekend in the Hereford Relays, but they face much stiffer competition in their quest Saturday in Dumas.

Entered in that meet are Dumas, Perryton, Canyon, Amarillo, Pampa, Borger, Leveland and Muleshoe, and possibly several other AAA and AAAA schools, in the higher division.

Borger and Pampa are picked as the teams to beat in the Dumas meet, but strong Caprock, though undecided whether it will enter, could take the favorites role from these two teams.

Preliminaries for the meet begin at 9:30 a.m. and the finals are set for 2 p.m.

Though none of the district

Dumas, the Whitefaces will compete April 2-3 in the Amarillo Relays then travel to the Mustang Relays in Andrews on April 9.

The following weekend, Saturday, April 17, is the big showdown when the district meet is held at the Coronado track in Lubbock.

Price advocates advance payments for area farmers

As a followup to his proposal providing advance payments to feed grain farmers participating in the farm program, Cong. Bob Price has introduced two bills granting similar benefits to cotton and wheat farmers.

"To produce food and fiber at reasonable cost requires that farmers be able to make economically sound decisions. To do this they need proper financing," Price said.

The Texas lawmaker said his three bills would enable cotton, wheat, and feed grain producers to obtain funds they are already entitled to by law; but it would also enable those farmers to get the money when they need it most, before rather than after the growing season commences.

Wheat producers would receive half the estimated face value of wheat certificates; and, — Feed grain growers would receive 32 cents per bushel on corn and 29 cents per bushel on grain sorghum.

Price said farmers desperately need advance payments because it would enable them to make sounder decisions on what kinds and amounts of labor, equipment, feed supplies, and other essential elements to employ for the 1971 crop year.

Under Price's proposals, advance payments would be allotted as follows:

— Cotton farmers would receive 7½ cents per pound;

Postmistress is a local favorite

By LEW HEAD
Associated Press Writer
ELMHURST, Pa. (AP) — When the American flag hung upside down outside the Elmhurst Post Office, the state police arrived in answer to that familiar SOS signal.

"Are you in trouble here, lady?" the state trooper asked postmistress Dorothy Jankauskas, 46, his face an expressionless mask, but a glint in his eye.

When Mrs. Jankauskas comprehended the mistake, after first wondering what had gone wrong with an otherwise routine day, she hurriedly explained that one of her two clerks had given the flag the wrong hoist.

After Old Glory had been put right, she didn't complicate her embarrassment by telling the trooper that the clerk, Mrs. Betty Harris, is "a remarkable person really." She didn't say that Mrs. Harris is expert at bird identification and nature lore, and that Mrs. Harris likes to put "some crazy plant thing in our window" to confuse post office box holders, who then want to know "what the devil that is."

Mrs. Jankauskas, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Lois Smith, the other clerk, sort out as much fun as they can from the postal branch operation in this Pocono Mountains town of about 900, lest tedium take over.

"We laugh like fools all day long," says Mrs. Jankauskas. The post office is more than a center for laughs and nature mysteries, however. "People come in and tell us their troubles," and Mrs. Jankauskas. "I'm a pretty good listener."

Mrs. Jankauskas and her two clerks also are an information center. Mrs. Jankauskas is not strictly "postmistress." A woman may carry that title in England but in this country she's "postmaster." Mrs. Jankauskas is "officer in charge" since succeeding her husband about a year ago.

The information center operates in rain and sleet and mightier storm. When snow has fallen and the town plow is slow at beating its way around Elmhurst, the three ladies are likely to get a call from someone who'll say "where the hell's the truck?"

The three are currently considering volunteering to run the town fire engine, since the present male volunteers are often not instantly available.

Mrs. Jankauskas' husband, Vincent, used to drive it. He also used to deliver messages and solve problems from baby sitting to getting skunks out of cellars.

"I'm not as nice as Vince," said Mrs. Jankauskas. "People would say 'he is the only friend I ever had' I'm colder. I balanced him off. I'm methodical. I send my reports in on time and they're very neatly done."

Her much-liked husband, his health shattered by service with the U. S. Air Force in World War II, lived every day as if that day was bonus special delivery from the good Lord, according to Mrs. Jankauskas.

"He ate his food without salt because he had to, but he never complained," she says. "He was always cheerful and it was hard to believe he was a sick man." But early in the morning of Sept. 28, 1968, he kissed her, said "I love you" and died at the age of 52.

She had clerked for him in the post office. He also ran a general store. After his death she sold the store.

Recently on a beautiful evening she went for a walk. Along the way she stopped at a neighbor's for a chat. The chat lengthened, and her daughters, Nancy, 20, and Deborah, 15—a third daughter, Ann, 22, lives in Rome with her Italian husband — wondered where mother was.

One inquiry led to another and soon virtually the whole town was out looking for Dorothy. About the time state police were to be notified, Mother wandered home.

"I've since told everyone in this small town that if I want to take a walk, I'm damn well going to," said the attractive blonde widow who looks more like an older sister of her lively daughters.

But of course, after asserting her independence, she'd be the last to stamp "postage not delivered" for such nice neighbors.

Part-time jobs can beat inflation

NEW YORK — The hand that rocks the cradle these days often is apt to be busy counting up the pretty penny raked in from part-time earnings.

With women in the work force to stay, and a chronic labor shortage in just about every field, part-time jobs for women have become an established thing.

Usually the part-time workers are wives and mothers who don't have the time, or the inclination to get into the work force full-time — but don't want to stay out of it either.

Their goal, more often than not, is the obvious one: money — either for a specific project like a vacation or simply to keep family earnings apace with inflation.

How much can a wife earn in a part-time job? It depends, in part, on how much time she puts in — but beyond that there's a wide variation in hourly pay from one field to another. Here's a breakdown on some of the usual part-time jobs held down by housewives — and what they pay.

Baby-sitter — This is one of the most usual part-time jobs, but one of the lowest paid. The responsible adult earns more than a teen-ager — especially if she takes a youngster into her home while the mother goes off to a full-time job — but it's still only about $1.25 an hour.

Care of the elderly — This pays a little more, $1.50 an hour. Addressing envelopes — About $1.85 hourly.

Home typing — Usually it's term papers and manuscripts, and students and writers traditionally are not rich. The hourly rate reflects this. It's $1.25.

Secretary — The temporary secretarial services that help business and industry fill vacation and seasonal vacancies depend largely on housewives for their own personnel. A starting secretary earns about $2.50 an hour. She could turn it into almost a full-time thing if she wants to be available every day.

Switchboard operator — The Bell Telephone Company, for instance, maintains a "stable" of ex-operators available for part-time pinch-hitting, and the pay is $3.00.

One of the newest part-time fields for housewives, and one of the highest paid, is home selling — with everything from jewelry, toys, housewares and clothing available via the home party method. Beeline Fashions, a company that sells clothing entirely through fashion show parties, says that stylists who display their newest fashions in parties in private homes can figure on about $25 a night profit from a three-hour party. It can be a lot more, depending on how much they sell.

Supermarket checker — There's more than one way to bring home the groceries from the neighborhood supermarket. About $2.50 an hour.

Cab driver — Don't use strong language in front of that cab driver. She could be somebody's mother. Women cabbies are no longer a rarity in many cities and they earn as much as a man: about $2.50 an hour to start.

Waitress — take-home pay is most lucrative at the dinner hour, but that's when most part-timers, want to be home with their families. Usually the part-timers work at noon instead, and they start at about $1.45 an hour, plus tips.

Retail clerks — the pay is about $1.85 an hour, but there are other rewards like discounts on purchases. Many wives take part-time jobs in stores at Christmas time.

None of this counts artists and writers who work at home anyway, or professionals like substitute teachers and private duty nurses who keep their hand in on a part-time basis.

Andros Island in the Bahamas group is nearly the size of Delaware.

Flying hooked her at age 18; now, she's hooking others

DENVER (AP) — At 18 Emily Joyce Howell of Denver had her first plane ride, a flight to Gunnison in Western Colorado in 1952.

There weren't too many other passengers and Miss Howell began to talk with the stewardess. The friendly stewardess even gave Emily a glimpse of the gadget jammed cockpit.

"That did it," Miss Howell said. "I knew right then and there I'd never be happy until I learned how to fly an airplane."

Now, at age 30, Emily Howell is the newly appointed director of flight training for the Clinton Aviation Co. of Denver, the largest in this region. And she has more than 5,000 hours of flying time in her log book.

Miss Howell said she was a $38 a week clerk at a department store when she decided she wanted to fly. She used $13 of her salary each week to pay for lessons until she could solo.

Then she got a job as secretary at the Clinton firm "to be near airplanes and continue with my lessons."

At 21 she was a flight instructor, teaching instrument navigation to both airline and private pilots. Miss Howell now holds a private and a commercial Federal Aviation Agency rating and FAA certified instrument rating and an airline transport pilot rating plus an FAA chief pilot rating.

Emily says she has one theme she lives by — "it's fly safely."

"I've taught that the hard way to all 600 of the men and women to whom I've given flight instruction," she said. She reported she has handled more than 500 tests for the FAA in addition to her private instruction duties.

Miss Howell says she never noticed any hesitancy or resentment from male students because they are getting flying training from a woman.

"I like people and they seem to know it," she said. "It gives them confidence during those first uneasy hours of training." Once her students have logged 15 hours of solo flying, she launches them on cross country flight training. "We use a hood which completely blacks out the cockpit," Emily said. "Then I tell them where I want to go and ask them to take me there."

"Sometimes I take them someplace and make sure they don't have the slightest idea where they are. Then I tell them to take me to a certain town. They always end up making it right on the button."

The flight training classes the attractive blonde supervises usually have about 400 students. She predicts the 12,000 licensed pilots in Colorado will double inside five years.

Our Symbol

One of our most treasured relics is the Liberty Bell. It is so-called because it was rung on July 8, 1776 to summons the citizenry for the terse announcement that the Declaration of Independence had been adopted. Today, it remains the greatest symbol of a nation free from tyranny in government and intolerance in religion

... that nation is America. But one fact often overlooked is that when the historic bell was originally cast its makers turned to the Bible, to Leviticus, for the words inscribed around its contour: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." What a beginning! What a heritage! What a privilege to be a son or daughter of Freedom's Land. What a blessing to be an American.

How great is our Symbol!!!

Let's cook something

Food to please family

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

COOKING in general and making desserts in particular is something of a hobby for Mrs. Don Larkin, wife of the pastor of Avenue Baptist Church, who says that getting meals ready for her family is her favorite homemaking task.

The Larkins like sweets at their meals so she has plenty of scope to practice making different kinds of desserts and trying out new recipes.

Their only daughter, Melissa, now in the sixth grade at Northwest Elementary, is their youngest child. The other two are boys; the older son is in U. S. Army service, stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., and the younger, Gary, is a junior in Hereford High.

AT PRESENT Mrs. Larkin is enjoying baby-sitting with her grandson, Chad, 14 months old. While his father is in military service his mother is employed in an office here, and he spends his days in Mrs. Larkin's care.

The Larkins came here in November of 1969 from Burlington, Colo., but his pastorate there was their only occasion for living outside Texas. He had previously been pastor of a church in this area, serving more than four years in Summerfield Baptist Church back in the 1950's.

"It was like coming back home to move to Hereford," Mrs. Larkin says, adding that they are all enjoying their work and life in this community. They have lived on the Gulf Coast and in Central Texas, but most of their work has been in West Texas.

THE FORMER Floy Bradstreet, Mrs. Larkin was born at Wheeler and lived there until she completed high school studies. After marriage, while her husband was a ministerial student she attended college a year.

She learned to cook after she was married but found it no problem as she remembered methods she had seen her mother use as she had helped in the kitchen as a girl. She believes with modern cookbooks and equipment, no bride should have trouble learning to prepare meals that will please a husband.

Mrs. Larkin shares her husband's interest in active sports, and says since her children have grown up so she is not needed constantly at home, she

Queen for week in TOPS club is Mrs. West

Eleven members recorded a net weight loss of 21 pounds for the past week, as they weighed-in at a meeting of Sugar Blues TOPS Club Monday evening at Community Center.

Mrs. Homer West was named queen for the week, showing the greatest loss of pounds, and Mrs. Nelvis Knowles was runner-up. Members record their weight at each meeting, in their campaign to Take Off Pounds Sensibly, the club objective.

Mrs. Robert Hammock was welcomed as a new member, Mrs. Rober Huber and Charles Godfrey as visitors.

Mrs. Melvin Jayroe presided for business and announced that officers elected at the last meeting, headed by Mrs. Larry Paschel as leader, will be installed April 5.

hopes to accompany him more on fishing and hunting trips and outings for her own favorite sport, water skiing.

SHE HELPS in the church, "but no more than any member should," she says. She teaches small children in the evening Training Union, is a member of the Women's Missionary Union and sings in the choir. With her husband, she also sings duets as special music in church services.

One of her favorite recipes is, of course, for a dessert, a light, tangy lemon-flavored mixture to top off a meal or serve for party refreshments.

CHEESE CAKE

Mix 1 pkg. lemon Jello with 2 cup hot water and set aside to cool. Chill 1 large can evaporated milk in refrigerator. Cream 1 large pkg. Philadelphia cream cheese with 4 tb. lemon juice and gradually add 1 cup sugar. Add this mix to cooled lemon Jello.

Beat with electric mixer the chilled evaporated milk until very stiff. Gradually add the cheese mixture and beat until thick. Pour into oblong cake pan with crushed graham crackers on bottom. Sprinkle more crushed crackers over top. Chill overnight.

asked, of course, whether he were training the dog or vice versa. Wife Fran closed that conversation at once. "The dog has him well trained," she opined.

COUNTER to a trend in home decoration, two women expressing a taste for an uncluttered look in rooms have done something lately to dispel my feeling that we are getting back to the mid-Victorian habit of filling rooms so full of bric-a-brac that it's unsafe to walk through them.

"I just don't like doodads," was Frances Block's pronouncement on the current style for heaps of handmade decorations like paper flowers and tole-painted boxes and crewel-embroidered pillows.

She spoke my sentiments when she admired the artistry of many of these works, and the industry of people who make them, but added that they just aren't what she wants in her own house.

ME TOO, although I'm not insincere when I compliment houses where they are used; they just fit some people's taste and way of living and those people should have them. But it's refreshing to meet someone who won't use a lot of doodads, no matter how stylish, simply because she doesn't care for them.

A similar taste is shown by Mrs. N. A. Brown, whose new house out on a ranch in the west end of the county has a very homelike and lived-in look without the decorative clutter. Someone suggested, she said, that an old trunk she has stored, could be furnished up for a stylish antique piece.

"I don't like things like that, just sitting around in a room," she explained her decision to leave it in the storeroom.

And I don't think the antique trunk hunters need beat a path to her door to try to get this trunk, because she wants to keep it; she just doesn't want to line it with satin and paint it gold even if many people nowadays do make a hobby of prettying-up old trunks and turn-

Corbett receives NSTU degree

James S. Corbett of Hereford was one of 822 candidates who received degrees at North Texas State University this winter.

Corbett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Corbett, Route 4, received the bachelor of business administration degree in industrial management.

Because of a change in the academic calendar which would have placed commencement on Christmas Eve, NSTU officials voted last fall to forego formal graduation exercises for the winter class.

All students who are listed as winter graduates will be invited to join the spring graduating class in formal commencement exercises May 18 at the university.

The Baltimore Orioles led American League teams in road attendance the last two years.

Steven C. Smith begins AF duty

Airman First Class Steven C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay P. Smith, Grand E. Trailer Park, Hereford, has arrived for duty at Perrin AFB, Tex. Airman Smith, an air operations specialist, is assigned to a unit of the Air Training Command. He previously served at Lowry AFB, Colo. The airman is a 1968 graduate of Eaton (Colo.) High School. Letter to the editor

Dear Editor: Since it is humanly impossible for me to personally convey my thanks to all concerned; I should like to take this means to thank the people of Hereford for their generous contributions to the recent Muscular Dystrophy Drive. It was very gratifying for us to realize the sum of $1753.00. Since this was our first drive — it was beyond our wildest dream.

The Youth, who marched, were wonderful! They were an inspiration to those of us who watched them come and go two and three times. Their faces held many expressions: elated because their kits contained large sums and other showed disappointment because they had so little, but all grateful that altogether we would have a good drive.

There were 65 marchers: The LEO Club, the LaPlata F.H.A. Girls, the CYO, youth not belonging to these clubs, young adults and young mothers, a family friend who collected in her rural area and sent some delicious homemade fudge for us to munch on while we waited for the marchers to return, the eight special people who packed the kits, assigned the streets and distributed kits, and helped with the all important task of counting the money.

All of this could not and would not have been realized had it not been for some wonderful people — the LEO Club for their tireless efforts of publicity, distributing posters; to Steve Caviness for obtaining time on KPAN, his interview with Bill Thompson was most enlightening, I'm sure to those who weren't too familiar with Muscular Dystrophy. To Charles Russell and Frank Olguin for the outstanding coverage in the Brands, the reproduction of the posters of Jerry Lewis and Scotty Swift and the article "I Hate People." To Charlie Riggan and the Evening Lions Club for the placing of the canisters, collecting them, and of course, Charlie's radio advertising. Without this the good people of Hereford would not have been aware of this disease which has several victims in our community. One of these is a little 8-year old boy, Joey Mazurek of Route 3, Hereford, who is the Panhandle Chapter's Poster Boy! His parents have known that something was terribly wrong with Joey since birth; but have only known for 2 years that he has muscular dystrophy, the dreaded Pseudohypertrophic (Duchenne) type; the type that very rarely lets its victim reach the age of adulthood. It is all progressive — no remission — the most common and the most severe.

Joey is a handsome, happy, bright little second grader at Tierra Blanca School. He realizes he'll never run and play like other children his age, and thank God doesn't understand the full impact of his affliction. He helped us count the money and helped his mother give the returning marchers refreshments of cokes, spudnuts and doughnuts that were generously donated by the Coca Cola Bottling Company, the Spudnut Shoppe, the Hereford Bakery. He wanted to go out and march, but he knew he wasn't strong enough; he has difficulty walking. Many things he tries to do — he does with difficulty; Thank God, no pain.

And last but not least, a big thank you to the people at the Hereford State Bank, for all the encouragement, giving of their time and assistance during the drive and the days following.

We sincerely hope and pray that research will soon find a cure or a treatment to arrest the further deterioration of the voluntary muscles — so Joey and others will not be doomed. As long as it is humanly possible, I shall do all I can to further the raising of monies for research, and pray that it comes soon.

Again I say — Thank you all for being so generous; may God Bless You. I may have been Chairman of this drive, but I wish to sign myself as: Joey's Aunt

Thomas defends policy on Texas student loan program

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Making each college responsible for seeing that its students repay their school loans on schedule has worked well in the seven months it has been in effect, the chairman of the Coordinating Board said Tuesday.

Despite recent criticism by a state legislator and by officials at some of the 30 schools placed last week on a suspension list, the overall effect and reaction is good, said local lawyer Wayne Thomas, the chairman.

"There have been complaints, but more of the institutions have had praise for the program than criticism of it," Thomas said.

Under the policy, a school is made ineligible for loans under the Hinson-Hazlewood College Student Loan Act whenever the repayments due from their students reach an average delinquency rate in excess of 10 per cent.

The policy was announced in January 1970 and put into effect Aug. 1, 1970. In that period of about six months, Thomas said, the new policy resulted in reducing the delinquency average from about 13 per cent to about 6 per cent, as colleges began getting in shape to be eligible for fall loans.

One college official complained earlier this week that the board's action was unfair because a college had no choice about who it processes loans for.

"No loan is made to a student unless a given institution has approved it," Thomas said. Making the colleges responsible for keeping the delinquency rate low "enlists their help and support in keeping their loans in a more current status, and makes them more selective, yes, in who they make loans to."

Rep. Curtis Graves of Houston said last week's block of suspensions by the Coordinating Board violated state law, because the state attorney-general's office had not filed suit against most of the students involved in the delinquent payments. The suspensions hit every predominantly Negro college in Texas the legislator said.

Thomas said whether suit has been filed is not a factor. Neither, he added, is any school in any special category.

"The entire program is computer controlled, and the suspension rule is enforced regardless of the school involved, because of the strict computations of the computer. Whenever the delinquency rate rises over 10 per cent, the computer kicks it out, and the rule is enforced," he said.

The board chairman said many of Texas' 115 private and public colleges have been placed on the ineligible list for loans since last August, but "in virtually all of those instances, by diligence on the part of the institution, the delinquency rate has been reduced to allow reinstatement."

Within two days of last week's suspensions, two schools were back on the eligibility list again, he said, as a result of their reducing the delinquency rate.

A student who receives money under the program is scheduled to begin paying it back, at 7 per cent interest in 60 monthly payments, beginning four months after graduation. A loan is considered delinquent under the Coordinating Board's suspension rule when it is six months or more past due.

According to Coordinating Board figures, 194,000 loans have been made under the program to 61,510 students, 37,866 of whom are still in school. Of the 23,644 who are no longer in school, 2,450 have repaid their loans and 3,556 students have received postponements. That leaves 17,638 still on the list for monthly payments, and 2,066 — or 11.7 per cent — were delinquent in their payments as of Feb. 28.

There is no penalty for late payment. As of the end of February, 2,466 loans were turned over to the office of Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin for additional collection efforts; suit actually was filed against 46 of those until that date.

The state loan program was patterned after the Opportunity Plan of West Texas State University and has been called the Texas Opportunity Plan.

DAR unit wins awards in state

State awards were received by Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, at the annual conference of the Texas Society last week. end in San Antonio. Mrs. Jess Robinson, regent, and Mrs. Jeff J. Smart, public relations chairman, represented the local chapter.

Only a year old, the Hereford group was one of 55 chapters in the state to be given "Gold" awards on the honor roll check list. The 1970-71 yearbook prepared by the program committee with Mrs. Earl Holt as chairman won a blue ribbon.

Also received were the outstanding achievement certificate for observance of Constitution Week under leadership of Mrs. Stan Knox; a citation for having more than 51 percent of members subscribe to DAR magazine, an activity with Mrs. Leroy Williamson as chairman; and a special award book, Early Days in Central Texas, to the lineage research committee headed by Mrs. H.M. Boozer for outstanding work.

After Mrs. Robinson's report in the chapter regents' forum, the state membership chairman announced that Los Ciboleros Chapter will receive a national membership award for a net increase of almost 69 percent in membership the past year. Mrs. L. W. Norvell is membership chairman. Five national officers were present for the conference, where 437 members from 87 chapters registered. The Texas Society voted to donate $10,000 for a classroom at a classroom at a school in Grant, Ala., supported by the D.A.R. More than 26,000 trees were reported planted in Texas for conservation purposes in a state project. Delegates were entertained with a Mexican fiesta and boat ride Thursday evening before business sessions began. Since Golf Digest started its "clearing house" for holes-in-one in 1952 a total of 183,200 aces have been officially recorded.

WT baseball team plays HSU next

West Texas State University's four against Eastern New Mexico University and four against Abilene Christian College, the Buffs unlimbered their bats for 86 hits.

Coach Bob Sloan's club travels to Abilene Saturday to play Hardin-Simmons in a double-header. A single game had been set for Friday in addition to the two Saturday, but the Hardin-Simmons coach requested that the Friday game be dropped. The two games Saturday against ACC could have been costly. Catcher James Jasper and second baseman Kim Henderson were both injured. Henderson injured his leg while running out an infield hit to first base. It is unknown if he will be able to play Saturday. Jasper was hit in the side of the face by a pitched ball while he was taking a turn at bat. X-rays taken Saturday afternoon didn't determine the extent of his injury, but there was the possibility that the jaw was broken. It will not be determined until early this week. Jasper was hitting the ball at an even .500 clip, although he had seen only limited duty this year. Pitcher-outfielder Bob Sine increased his batting average to .429 during the week. Shortstop Dean Parker leads all regulars in hitting with a .431 average. The freshman from Woodward, Okla., ripped the ball in the eight games last week, collecting 15 hits in 22 at bats to elevate his average to its present mark.

Forum program is given

First planting of trees at the garden center, the park plot formerly occupied by the Camp Fire Girl hut at the intersection of North Main and Park Ave., was scheduled by Hereford Garden Club members at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Ben Childers. Use of the plot for a garden center was given to the club by the City of Hereford after the new Camp Fire Lodge was built. Work has been done on clearing and preparing the ground, and now basic plantings will be made.

A forum on Landscaping was directed by Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. at the meeting, with Mrs. J. V. Pickens and Mrs. R. L. Wilson assisting. Each member answered roll call by stating the purpose of her home landscape plan. A report on a new Handbook for Flower Show Judges, from the National Gardener Magazine, was summarized by Mrs. Harvey Yoakum. Mrs. L. W. Norvell, president, announced that the club has been notified it would be among those receiving district awards at the spring convention of District I, Texas Garden Clubs, which she attended as a delegate Tuesday and Wednesday in Amarillo. Mrs. Hill also went from Hereford Garden Club.
